hind·most (hīnd'mōst') also hind·er·most (hīn'dər-) adj. Farthest to the rear; last.

Hin·doo (hīn'dō) n. & adj. Archaic. Variant of Hindu.

Hin·doo·ism (hīn'dō-iz'əm) n. Archaic. Variant of Hinduism.

hind·quar·ter (hīnd'kwôr'tər) n. 1. The posterior portion of a side of beef, lamb, veal, or mutton, including a hind leg and one or two ribs.

2. hindquarters. The posterior part of a quadruped, adjacent to the hind legs.

hin·drance (hīn'drəns) n. 1. a. The act of hindering. b. The condition of being hindered. 2. One that hinders; an impediment. See Synonyms at obstacle. [Middle English hindraunce, harm, from hindren, to hinder. See HINDER¹.]

hind·sight (hīnd'sīt') n. 1. Perception of the significance and nature of events after they have occurred. 2. The rear sight of a firearm.

Hin·du (hīn'dō) adj. 1. Of or relating to Hinduism. 2. Of or relating to the Hindus and their culture. — n. 1. An adherent of Hinduism. 2. A native of India, especially northern India. [Persian Hindū, from Hind, India. See HINDI.]

Hindu calendar (hīn'dō käl'ən-dər) n. The lunisolar calendar governing Hindu religious life and almost all Indian festivals and dating in its classic form from the fourth century A.D. The solar year is divided into 12 lunar months in accordance with the successive entrances of the sun into the signs of the zodiac, the months varying in length from 29 to 32 days.

Hin·du·ism (hīn'dō-iz'əm) n. A diverse body of religion, philosophy, and cultural practice native to and predominant in India, characterized by a belief in reincarnation and a supreme being of many forms and natures, by the view that opposing theories are aspects of one eternal truth, and by a desire for liberation from earthly evils.

Hindu Kush (hɪn'doʊ kooʃh, kʊʃh) A mountain range of southwest Asia extending more than 805 km (500 mi) westward from northern Pakistan to northeast Afghanistan. It is crossed by several high-altitude passes used as invasion and trade routes since ancient times. The highest elevation is Tirich Mir, 7,695.2 m (25,230 ft), in Pakistan.

Hin-du-stan (hɪn'doʊ-stæn', -stæn') A historical region of India considered at various times to include only the upper Ganges River plateau or all of northern India from the Himalaya Mountains to the Deccan Plateau and from the Punjab to Assam. The term has also been applied to the entire Indian subcontinent.

Hin-du-sta-ni (hɪn'doʊ-stä'nē, -stän'ē) n. Abbr. Hind. A group of Indic dialects that includes Urdu and Hindi. — adj. Of or relating to Hindustan, its people, or the Hindustani language.

Hine (hīn), Lewis Wickes. 1874-1940. American pioneer photographer noted for his studies of Ellis Island (1905), child-labor conditions (1907-1909), and the construction of the Empire State Building (1932).

Hines (hīnz), Earl. Known as “Fatha.” 1905-1983. American musician. A prominent jazz pianist for 50 years, he first gained wide recognition for his recordings with Louis Armstrong in the 1920's.

hinge (hɪnj) n. 1. a. A jointed or flexible device that allows the turning or pivoting of a part, such as a door or lid, on a stationary frame. b. A similar structure or part, such as one that enables the valves of a bivalve mollusk to open and close. 2. A small folded paper rectangle gummed on one side, used especially to fasten stamps in an album. 3. A point or circumstance on which subsequent events depend. — v. hinged, hing-ing, hing-es. — v. tr. 1. To attach by or equip with or as if with hinges or a hinge. 2. To consider or make (something) dependent on something else; predicate: “convenient and misleading fictions for hinging an argument” (Stephen Jay Gould). — v. intr. To be contingent on a single factor; depend: This plan hinges on her approval. [Middle English. See konk- in Appendix.]

hinge joint (hɪnj joint) n. A joint, such as the elbow, in which a convex part of one bone fits into a concave part of another, allowing motion in only one plane.

Hing-ham (hɪŋg'əm) A town of eastern Massachusetts on Massachusetts Bay southeast of Boston. It is a residential suburb and summer resort. Population, 19,821.

Hin-kle (hɪŋg'kəl), Beatrice Moses Van Geisen. 1874-1953. American psychiatrist who in New York City cofounded the first psychotherapy clinic in the United States (1908).

hin-ny (hɪn'ē) n. pl. hin-nies. The hybrid offspring of a male horse and a female donkey. [Alteration of Latin hinnus, from Greek ginnos, innos.]

Hins-dale (hɪnz'dāl') A village of northeast Illinois, a residential suburb of Chicago. Population, 16,029.

Hin-shel-wood (hɪnʹshəl-wōōdʹ, -chəl-), Sir Cyril Norman. 1897-1967.

British chemist. He shared a 1956 Nobel Prize for research on the kinetics of chemical reactions.

hint (hɪnt) n. 1. A slight indication or intimation: wanted to avoid any hint of scandal. 2. a. A brief or indirect suggestion; a tip: stock-trading hints. b. A statement conveying information in an indirect fashion; a clue: Give me a hint about the big news. 3. A barely perceptible amount: just a hint of color. 4. Archaic. An occasion; an opportunity. — v. hint-ed, hint-ing, hints. — v. tr. To indicate or make known in an indirect manner. — v. intr. To give a hint: wouldn't hint at the true purpose of the meeting. See Synonyms at suggest. [Probably from Middle English hinten, henten, to catch, grasp, from Old English hentan.] —hint'er n.

hin-ter-land (hɪnʹtər-ländʹ) n. 1. The land directly adjacent to and inland from a coast. 2. a. A region remote from urban areas; backcountry. b. A region situated beyond metropolitan centers of culture. [German : hinter-, behind (from Middle High German hinter, from Old High German); see ko- in Appendix + Land, land (from Middle High German lant, from Old High German); see lendh- in Appendix.]

hip¹ (hɪp) n. 1. a. The laterally projecting prominence of the pelvis or pelvic region from the waist to the thigh. b. A homologous posterior part in quadrupeds. c. The hip joint. 2. Architecture. The external angle formed by the meeting of two adjacent sloping sides of a roof. [Middle English, from Old English hype.]

hip² (hɪp) also hep (hɛp) adj. hip-per also hep-per, hip-pest also hep-pest. Slang. 1. Keenly aware of, knowledgeable about, or interested in the latest trends or developments. 2. Cognizant; wise: I am hip to what's going on. 3. Very fashionable or stylish. [Perhaps from Wolof hipi, hepi, to open one's eyes, be aware.] —hip n., v. —hip/ly adv. —hip/ness n.

hip³ (hɪp) n. A rose hip. [Middle English hipe, from Old English hēope.]

hip⁴ (hɪp) interj. Usually used to begin a cheer: Hip, hip, hooray!

hip-bone (hɪpʹbōnʹ) n. Either of two large flat bones each forming one of the lateral halves of the pelvis and consisting of the fused ilium, ischium, and pubis. Also called innominate bone hip boot (hɪp bōt) n. A very high boot extending to the hips, worn especially by fishers.

hip-hop (hɪpʹhɒpʹ) Slang. n. The popular street culture of big-city and especially inner-city youth, characterized by graffiti art, break dancing, and rap music. — adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of this culture. [Probably HIP² + HOP¹.]

hip-hug-gers (hɪpʹhʊgʹɛrz) pl.n. Tight-fitting pants whose waistline rests at hip level.

hip joint (hĭp joint) n. The ball-and-socket joint formed by the head of the femur and the cup-shaped cavity of the hipbone.

Hip-par-chus¹ (hĭ-pär'kəs), Died 514 B.C. Athenian tyrant (527-514) who ruled with his brother Hippias and was assassinated.

Hip-par-chus² (hĭ-pär'kəs), fl. second century B.C. Greek astronomer who mapped the position of 850 stars in the earliest known star chart. His observations of the heavens form the basis of Ptolemy's geocentric cosmology.

hipped¹ (hĭpt) adj. Having hips, especially of a given kind. Often used in combination: slim-hipped; large-hipped.

hipped² (hĭpt) adj. Slang. Interested or preoccupied to a great degree: He ishipped on photography. [Probably from hip, to make aware, from HIP².]

hipped³ (hĭpt) adj. Chiefly British. Melancholy; depressed. [Shortening and alteration of HYPOCHONDRIAC.]

Hip-pi-as (hĭp'ē-əs), Died 490 B.C. Athenian tyrant (527-510) who governed with his brother Hipparchus. After his brother's assassination, he ruled brutally until he was exiled by the Spartans (510).

hip-pie also hip-py (hĭp'ē) n. pl. hip-pies. Slang. A person who opposes and rejects many of the conventional standards and customs of society, especially one who advocates extreme liberalism in sociopolitical attitudes and lifestyles. [From HIP².] —hip'pie-dom n. —hip'pie-hood' n.

hip-po (hĭp'ō) n. pl. hip-pos. A hippopotamus.

Hip-po (hĭp'ō) also Hippo Re-gi-us (rē'jē-əs) An ancient city of northwest Africa in present-day northeast Algeria south of Annaba. Saint Augustine was its bishop from A.D. 396 to 430.

hip-po-cam-pus (hĭp'ə-kām'pəs) n. pl. hip-po-cam-pi (-pī'). Anatomy. A ridge in the floor of each lateral ventricle of the brain that consists mainly of gray matter and has a central role in memory processes. [Late Latin, a sea horse with a horse's forelegs and a dolphin's tail (from its shape in cross section), from Greek hippokampos: hippos, horse; see ekwo- in Appendix + kampos, sea monster.]

—hip'po-cam'pal (-pəl) adj.

hip-po-cras (hĭp'ə-krās') n. A cordial made from wine and flavored with spices, formerly used as a medicine. [Middle English ipocras, from Old French ypocras, hypocras, from alteration of Hippocras, Hippocrates.]

Hip-poc-ra-tes (hĭ-pők'rə-tēz'), Called "the Father of Medicine." 460?-377? B.C. Greek physician who laid the foundations of scientific medicine by freeing medical study from the constraints of philosophical speculation and superstition. He is traditionally but inaccurately considered the author of the Hippocratic oath. —Hip'po-crat'ic (hĭp'ə-krät'ik) adj.

Hippocratic oath (hĭp'ə-krät'ik ōth) n. An oath of ethical professional behavior sworn by new physicians, attributed to Hippocrates.

Hip-po-crene (hĭp'ə-krĕn', hĭp'ə-krĕ'nĕ) n. Greek Mythology. A fountain on Mount Helicon, Greece, sacred to the Muses and regarded as a source of poetic inspiration. [Latin Hippocrĕnĕ, from Greek Hippokrĕnĕ: hippos, horse (from the myth that Pegasus' hoof created it); see ekwo- in Appendix + krĕnĕ, fountain.]

hip-po-drome (hĭp'ə-drĕm') n. 1. Sports. An arena for equestrian shows.

2. An open-air stadium with an oval course for horse and chariot races in ancient Greece and Rome. [French, from Old French ypodrome, from Latin hippodromos, from Greek: hippos, horse; see ekwo- in Appendix + dromos, racecourse.]

hip-po-griff also hip-po-gryph (hĭp'ə-grĭf') n. Mythology. A monster having the wings, claws, and head of a griffin and the body and hindquarters of a horse. [French hippogriffe, from Italian ippogrifo: ippo-, horse (from Greek hippos); see ekwo- in Appendix + grifo, griffin (from Latin grĭphus); see GRIFFIN.]

Hip-pol-y-ta (hĭ-pĕl'i-tə) n. Greek Mythology. A queen of the Amazons killed by Hercules.

Hip-pol-y-tus (hĭ-pĕl'i-təs) n. Greek Mythology. A son of Hippolyta and Theseus who was killed by Poseidon.

Hip-pom-e-nes (hĭ-pĕm'ə-nĕz) n. Greek Mythology. The suitor who tricked and thereby outran Atalanta.

hip-po-pot-a-mus (hĭp'ə-pĕt'ə-məs) n. pl. hip-po-pot-a-mus-es or hip-po-pot-a-mi (-mĭ'). 1. A large, chiefly aquatic African herbivorous mammal (Hippopotamus amphibius) having thick, dark, almost hairless skin, short legs with four toes, and a broad, wide-mouthed muzzle. Also called river horse 2. The pygmy hippopotamus. [Latin, from Greek hippopotamos: hippos, horse; see ekwo- in Appendix + potamos, river; see pet- in Appendix.]

Hippo Re-gi-us (hĭp'ŏ rĕ'jĕ-əs) See Hippo.

hip-py (hĭp'ĕ) n. Slang. Variant of hippie.

hip roof (hĭp rĕof) n. A roof having sloping edges and sides.

hip-ster (hĭp'stər) n. Slang. One who is exceptionally aware of or interested in the latest trends and tastes, especially a devotee of modern jazz.

hip-ster-ism (hĭp'stə-rĭz'əm) n. Slang. 1. The quality or condition of being hip. 2. The lifestyle characteristic of hipsters.

hi-ra-ga-na (hĭr'ə-gä'nə) n. A cursive kana used for polite, informal, or casual writing. [Japanese: hira, ordinary, plain + kana, kana; see KANA.]

Hi-ra-ka-ta (hĕ'rä-kä'tä, hĕ-rä'kä-tä') A city of southern Honshu, Japan, a suburb north-northeast of Osaka in an agricultural and lumbering area. Population, 382,257.

Hi-ra-tsu-ka (hĭ-rät'sə-kä', hĕ'rä-tsoō'kä) A city of central Honshu, Japan, on an inlet of the Pacific Ocean southwest of Yokohama. It is a commercial and industrial center. Population, 229,976.

hir-cine (hĭr'sĭn', -sĭn) adj. Of or characteristic of a goat, especially in strong odor. [Middle English hircyne, from Latin hircĭnus, from hircus, goat.]

hire (hīr) v. hired, hir-ing, hires. — v. tr. 1. a. To engage the services of (a person) for a fee; employ: hired a new clerk. b. To engage the temporary use of for a fee; rent: hire a car for the day. 2. To grant the services of or the temporary use of for a fee: hired himself out as a cook; hired out the cottage for the summer. — v. intr. To obtain work: She hired on as a deck hand. He hired out as a photographer. — n. 1. a. The act of hiring. b. The condition or fact of being hired. 2. a. Payment for services; wages. b. Payment for the use of something. 3. Informal. One who is hired: two new hires in the sales department. [Middle English hiren, from Old English hȳrian.] — hir'a-ble, hire'a-ble adj. — hir'er n.

hired gun (hīrd gŭn) n. Slang. 1. One, especially a professional killer, who is hired to kill another person. 2. One hired to fight for or protect another. 3. One who is proficient at obtaining power for others. 4. One with special knowledge or expertise, as in business, law, or government, who is hired to resolve particularly difficult or complex problems.

hired hand (hīrd hānd) n. 1. A paid employee, especially on a farm or ranch. 2. Informal. A paid employee.

hire-ling (hīr'liŋ) n. One who works solely for compensation, especially a person willing to perform for a fee tasks considered menial or offensive.

hire purchase (hīr pûr'chīs) n. Chiefly British. Purchase of a commodity on an installment plan.

hi-res (hī'rēz') adj. Computer Science. High-resolution.

hir-ing hall (hīr'ing hōl) n. A union-operated placement center where jobs from various employers are allotted to registered applicants according to a set order based usually on rotation or seniority.

Hi-ro-hi-to (hīr'ō-hē'tō), 1901-1989. Emperor of Japan (1926-1989) who advocated the Japanese government's unconditional surrender that ended World War II (1945). In 1946 he renounced his divine status.

Hi-ro-shi-ge (hīr'ō-shē'gā, hē'rō-shē'gě), Ando. 1797-1858. Japanese artist who captured the serenity of his country's landscape with his superbly composed color woodblock prints, including Fifty-three Stages of the Tokaido (1832).

Hi-ro-shi-ma (hīr'ə-shē'mā, hī-rō'shē-mā) A city of southwest Honshu, Japan, on the Inland Sea west of Osaka. Founded in the 16th century, it was destroyed in World War II by the first atomic bomb used in warfare (August 6, 1945). The rebuilt city is an important commercial and industrial center. Population, 1,044,129.

hir-sute (hūr'sōot', hīr'-, hēr-sōot') adj. 1. Covered with hair; hairy.

2. Botany. Covered with stiff or coarse hairs. [Latin hirsutus, hairy, bristly.]

— hir'sute'ness n.

hir-sut-ism (hūr'sōo-tīz'əm, hīr'-, hēr-sōo'-) n. Heavy growth of hair, often in abnormal distribution.

hir·u·din (hîr-ōōd'n, hîr'ə-dən, -yə-) n. A substance extracted from the salivary glands of leeches and used as an anticoagulant. [Originally a trademark, from Latin hirūdō, leech.]

his (hîz) adj. The possessive form of he. Used as a modifier before a noun: his boots; his accomplishments. — pron. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). Used to indicate the one or ones belonging to him: If you can't find your hat, take his. [Middle English, from Old English. See ko- in Appendix.]

His·pan·ic (hî-spăn'ik) adj. 1. Of or relating to Spain or Spanish-speaking Latin America. 2. Of or relating to a Spanish-speaking people or culture. — n. 1. A Spanish-speaking person. 2. A U.S. citizen or resident of Latin-American or Spanish descent. [Latin Hispānicus, from Hispania, Spain.]

USAGE NOTE: There are a number of words denoting persons who trace their origins to a Spanish-speaking country or culture. Hispanic is the broadest of these terms, encompassing all Spanish-speaking peoples in both hemispheres and emphasizing the common denominator of language between communities that sometimes have little else in common. It is widely used in both official and unofficial contexts and is entirely acceptable, although like the term Spanish American, it has occasionally been criticized as unduly emphasizing the role of European influences in shaping ethnic identity to the neglect of indigenous cultures. Latino is also in wide use, but it is somewhat less formal in most contexts and is generally restricted to persons of Latin-American descent. See Usage Note at Chicano.

Hispanic American (hî-spăn'ik ə-mēr'î-kən) n. 1. A U.S. citizen or resident of Hispanic descent. 2. A Spanish American. — His·pan'ic·A·mer'·i·can (hî-spăn'ik-ə-mēr'î-kən) adj.

His·pan·i·cize (hî-spăn'î-sîz') v. tr. Hi·span·i·cized, Hi·span·i·ciz·ing, Hi·span·i·ciz·es. 1. To make Spanish in form, style, or character. 2. To bring under Hispanic influence or control. — His·pan'·i·ci·za'tion (-sî-zā'shən) n.

His·pan·io·la (hîs'pən-yō'lə) Formerly Hai·ti (hā'tē). An island of the West Indies east of Cuba, divided between Haiti and the Dominican Republic. It was discovered by Columbus in 1492 and was originally called Española. The western part (now Haiti) was ceded to France by Spain in 1697.

His·pa·nism (hîs'pə-nîz'əm) or His·pan·i·cism (hî-spăn'î-sîz'əm) n. A Spanish word, phrase, or linguistic feature occurring in another language.

His·pa·nist (hîs'pə-nîst) n. A specialist in Spanish language or literature or in the languages and literatures of Spain, Portugal, and Latin America.

His·pa·no (hî-spăn'ō, -spā'nō) n. pl. His·pa·nos. 1. A native or resident of Spanish descent living in the southwest United States. 2. A Hispanic. [Short for Hispano-American, from Spanish hispano, Spanish, from Latin Hispānus, from Hispani, the Spaniards.]

Hispano- pref. Spanish; Hispanic: Hispanophile. [From Latin Hispanus. See HISPANO.]

Hispano American (hĭ-spăn'ō ə-mĕr'i-kən) n. A Hispanic American.

—His-pa'no-A-mer'i-can (hĭ-spăn'ō-ə-mĕr'i-kən) adj.

His-pan-o-phile (hĭ-spăn'ə-fil') n. An admirer of Spain or of Spanish-speaking countries or peoples. —His-pan'o-phil'i-a (-fil'ē-ə) n.

His-pan-o-phobe (hĭ-spăn'ə-fōb') n. One who has an aversion to Spain or to Spanish-speaking countries or peoples. —His-pan'o-pho'bi-a n.

his-pid (hĭs'pĭd) adj. Covered with stiff or rough hairs; bristly: hispid stems.

[Latin hispidus.] —his-pid'i-ty (hĭ-spĭd'i-tē) n.

hiss (hĭs) n. 1. A sharp, sibilant sound similar to a sustained s. 2. An expression of disapproval, contempt, or dissatisfaction conveyed by use of this sharp, sibilant sound. — v. hissed, hiss-ing, hiss-es. — v. intr. To make a sharp, sibilant sound: The audience booed and hissed. The teakettle hissed on the stove. — v. tr.

1. To utter with a sharp, sibilant sound. 2. To express (a negative view or reaction) by uttering a sharp, sibilant sound: The audience hissed its displeasure.

[Middle English hissen, to hiss, of imitative origin.] —hiss'er n. —hiss'ing-ly adv.

Hiss (hĭs), Alger. Born 1904. American public official. Accused of espionage at the height of the Communist scare, he was convicted of perjury (1950) in a controversial case.

his-sy fit (hĭs'ē fit) n. Chiefly Southern U.S. See tantrum.

hist. abbr. 1. Historian. 2. Historical. 3. History.

hist- pref. Variant of histo-.

his-tam-i-nase (hĭ-stām'ə-nās', -nāz', hĭs'tə-mə-) n. An enzyme that inactivates histamine and is found in the digestive system.

his-ta-mine (hĭs'tə-mĕn', -mĭn) n. A physiologically active amine, C₅H₉N₃, found in plant and animal tissue. It is released from cells of the immune system in human beings as part of an allergic reaction. [HIST(IDINE) + AMINE.]

—his'ta-min'ic (-mĭn'ĭk) adj.

his-ti-dine (hĭs'tī-dĕn', -dĭn) n. An essential amino acid, C₆H₉N₃O₂, important for the growth and repair of tissues. [HIST(O)- + -ID(E) + -INE².]

his-ti-o-cyte (hĭs'tē-ə-sīt') n. A relatively inactive, immobile macrophage found in normal connective tissue. Also called fixed macrophage [Greek histon, web, diminutive of histos; see stā- in Appendix + -CYTE.] —his'ti-o-cyt'ic (-sīt'ĭk) adj.

his-ti-o-cy-to-sis (hĭs'tē-ō'sī-tō'sĭs) n. pl. his-ti-o-cy-to-ses (-sēz). Any of several abnormal conditions characterized by the appearance of histiocytes in the blood or tissues.

histo- or hist- pref. Body tissue: histogenesis. [From Greek, from histos, web. See stā- in Appendix.]

his-to-chem-is-try (hĭs'tō-kĕm'ī-strĕ) n. The branch of science that deals with the chemical composition of the cells and tissues of the body.

—his'to-chem'ic-al (-ĭ-kəl) adj. —his'to-chem'ic-al-ly adv.

his-to-com-pat-i-bil-i-ty (hĭs'tō-kəm-păt'ə-bĭl'ī-tĕ) n. pl.

his-to-com-pat-i-bil-i-ties. A state or condition in which the absence of immunological interference permits the grafting of tissue or the transfusion of blood without rejection. —his'to-com-pat'i-ble adj.

histocompatibility antigen (hĭs'tō-kəm-păt'ə-bĭl'ī-tĕ ăn'tĭ-jən) n. Any of various antigens on the surface of cell membranes that serve to identify a cell as self or nonself. These antigens determine whether a tissue graft or transfusion will be accepted by a recipient.

his-to-di-al-y-sis (hĭs'tō-dĭ-ăl'ī-sĭs) n. See histolysis.

his-to-gen-e-sis (hĭs'tō-jĕn'ī-sĭs) n. The formation and development of bodily tissues. —his'to-ge-net'ic (-jə-nĕt'ĭk), his'to-gen'ic (-jĕn'ĭk) adj.

—his'to-ge-net'ic-al-ly, his'to-gen'ic-al-ly adv.

his-to-gram (hĭs'tə-grăm') n. A bar graph of a frequency distribution in which the widths of the bars are proportional to the classes into which the variable has been divided and the heights of the bars are proportional to the class frequencies.

his-tol-o-gy (hĭ-stöl'ə-jĕ) n. pl. his-tol-o-gies. 1. The anatomical study of the microscopic structure of animal and plant tissues. 2. The microscopic structure of tissue. —his'to-log'ic-al (hĭs'tə-lŏj'ĭ-kəl), his'to-log'ic adj.

—his'to-log'ic-al-ly adv. —his-tol'o-gist n.

his-tol-y-sis (hĭ-stöl'ī-sĭs) n. The breakdown and disintegration of organic tissue. Also called histodialysis —his'to-lyt'ic (hĭs'tə-lĭt'ĭk) adj.

—his'to-lyt'ic-al-ly adv.

his-to-mo-ni-a-sis (hĭs'tə-mə-nĭ'ə-sĭs) n. See blackhead (n., sense 2). [New Latin Histomonas, genus of zooflagellates (HISTO- + Greek monas, monad); see MONAD + -IASIS.]

his-tone (hĭs'tŏn') n. Any of several small, basic proteins most commonly found in association with the DNA in chromatin.

his-to-pa-thol-o-gy (hĭs'tō-pə-thŏl'ə-jĕ, -pă-) n. The study of the microscopic anatomical changes in diseased tissue. —his'to-path'o-log'ic (-păth'ə-lŏj'ĭk), his'to-path'o-log'ic-al adj. —his'to-path'o-log'ic-al-ly adv.

—his'to-pa-thol'o-gist n.

his-to-phys-i-ol-o-gy (hĭs'tō-fĭz'ĕ-ŏl'ə-jĕ) n. The branch of physiology that deals with the structure and function of tissues. —his'to-phys'i-o-log'ic (-ĕ-ə-lŏj'ĭk), his'to-phys'i-o-log'ic-al (-ĭ-kəl) adj.

his-to-plas-mo-sis (hĭs'tō-plăz-mŏ'sĭs) n. pl. his-to-plas-mo-ses (-sĕz). A disease caused by the inhalation of spores of the fungus Histoplasma capsulatum, most often asymptomatic but occasionally producing acute pneumonia or an influenzalike illness and spreading to other organs and systems in the body.

his-to-ri-an (hĭ-stōr'ē-ən, -stōr'-, -stōr'-) n. Abbr. hist. 1. A writer, student, or scholar of history. 2. One who writes or compiles a chronological record of events; a chronicler: “The historian, registering the facts beyond doubt, and in their context, cannot but also judge” (Robert Conquest).

his-tor-ic (hĭ-stōr'ĭk, -stōr'-) adj. 1. Having importance in or influence on history. 2. Historical.

USAGE NOTE: Historic and historical are differentiated in usage, though their senses overlap. Historic refers to what is important in history: the historic first voyage to outer space. It is also used of what is famous or interesting because of its association with persons or events in history: a historic house. Historical refers to whatever existed in the past, whether regarded as important or not: a historical character. Historical refers also to anything concerned with history or the study of the past: a historical novel; historical discoveries. The differentiation between the words is not complete. They are often used interchangeably: historic times or historical times.

his-tor-i-cal (hĭ-stōr'ĭ-kəl, -stōr'-) adj. Abbr. hist. 1. a. Of or relating to the character of history. b. Based on or concerned with events in history. c. Used in the past: historical costumes; historical weapons. 2. Important or famous in history. See Usage Note at historic. 3. Diachronic. —his-tor'i-cal-ly adv.
—his-tor'i-cal-ness n.

historical linguistics (hĭ-stōr'ĭ-kəl lĭng-gwĭs'tĭks) n. (used with a sing. verb). The study of linguistic change over time in language or in a particular language or language family, sometimes including the reconstruction of unattested forms of earlier stages of a language. Also called philology historical materialism (hĭ-stōr'ĭ-kəl mə-tĭr'ē-ə-lĭz'əm) n. A major tenet in the Marxist theory of history that regards material economic forces as the base on which sociopolitical institutions and ideas are built.

historical novel (hĭ-stōr'ĭ-kəl nŏv'əl) n. A novel that re-creates a period or an event in history, using fictional or actual characters or often both.

historical present (hĭ-stōr'ĭ-kəl prĕz'ənt) n. The present tense used in the narration of events set in the past.

historical school (hĭ-stōr'ĭ-kəl skōōl) n. A school of theorists, as in law or economics, stressing the influence of historical conditions.

his-tor-i-cism (hĭ-stōr'ĭ-sĭz'əm, -stōr'-) n. 1. A theory that events are determined or influenced by conditions and inherent processes beyond the control of human beings. 2. A theory that stresses the significant influence of history as a criterion of value. —his-tor'i-cist adj. & n.

his-to-ric-i-ty (hĭs'tə-rĭs'ĭ-tē) n. Historical authenticity; fact.

his-tor-i-cize (hĭ-stôr'ĭ-sīz', -stôr'(-)) v. his-tor-i-cized, his-tor-i-ciz-ing, his-tor-i-ciz-es. — v. tr. To make or make appear historical. — v. intr. To use historical details or materials. — his-tor'i-ci-za'tion (-sĭ-zā'shən) n.

his-to-ried (hĭs'tə-rĕd) adj. Having an interesting history; storied: an ancient and historied land.

his-to-ri-og-ra-pher (hĭ-stôr'ĕ-ög'rə-fər, -stôr'(-)) n. 1. A specialist in historiography. 2. A historian, especially one designated by a group or public institution.

his-to-ri-og-ra-phy (hĭ-stôr'ĕ-ög'rə-fĕ, -stôr'(-)) n. 1. The principles, theories, or methodology of scholarly historical research and presentation. 2. The writing of history based on a critical analysis, evaluation, and selection of authentic source materials and composition of these materials into a narrative subject to scholarly methods of criticism. 3. A body of historical literature. [French historiographie, from Old French, from Greek historiographia : historia, history; see HISTORY + -graphia, -graphy.] — his-to'ri-o-graph'ic (-ĕ-ə-grăf'ĭk), his-to'ri-o-graph'ic-al (-ĭ-kəl) adj. — his-to'ri-o-graph'ic-al-ly adv.

his-to-ry (hĭs'tə-rĕ) n. pl. his-to-ries. Abbr. hist. 1. A narrative of events; a story. 2. a. A chronological record of events, as of the life or development of a people or an institution, often including an explanation of or commentary on those events: “The queens in history compare favorably with the kings” (Elizabeth Cady Stanton). b. A formal written account of related natural phenomena: a history of volcanoes. c. A record of a patient’s medical background. 3. The branch of knowledge that records and analyzes past events: “History has a long-range perspective” (Elizabeth Gurley Flynn). 4. a. The events forming the subject matter of a historical account. b. Something that belongs to the past: Their troubles are history now. c. An interesting past: a house with a history. 5. A drama based on historical events: the histories of Shakespeare. [Middle English histoire, from Old French, from Latin historia, from Greek, from historein, to inquire, from histōr, learned man. See weid- in Appendix.]

his-tri-on-ic (hĭs'trĕ-ŏn'ĭk) also his-tri-on-i-cal (-ĭ-kəl) adj. 1. Of or relating to actors or acting. 2. Excessively dramatic or emotional; affected. See Synonyms at dramatic. [Late Latin histrionicus, from Latin histrĭō, histrĭōn-, actor, probably of Etruscan origin.] — his'tri-on'ic-al-ly adv.

his-tri-on-ics (hĭs'trĕ-ŏn'ĭks) n. 1. (used with a pl. verb). Theatrical arts or performances. 2. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). Exaggerated emotional behavior calculated for effect.

hit (hĭt) v. hit, hit-ting, hits. — v. tr. 1. a. To come into contact with forcefully; strike: The car hit the guardrail. b. To reach with or as if with a blow: The bullet hit the police officer in the shoulder. 2. a. To cause to come into contact: She hit her hand against the wall. b. To deal a blow to. c. To strike with a missile: fired and hit the target. 3. To press or push (a key or button, for example): hit the return key by mistake. 4. Sports. a. To reach with a propelled object: hit the running back with a pass. b. To score in this way: She hit the winning goal. c. To perform (a shot or maneuver) successfully: couldn't hit the jump shot. d. To propel with a stroke or blow: hit the ball onto the green. 5. Baseball. a. To execute (a base hit) successfully: hit a single. b. To bat against (a pitcher or kind of pitch) successfully: can't hit a slider. 6. To affect, especially adversely: The company was hit hard by the recession. 7. Informal. To come upon or discover, especially by chance: finally hit the right exit. 8. a. Informal. To attain or reach: Monthly sales hit a new high. She hit 40 on her last birthday. b. To accord with; suit: The idea hit my fancy. c. To produce or represent accurately: trying to hit the right note.

9. Games. To deal cards to. 10. Slang. To give a drink of liquor or a dose of a narcotic to. — v. intr. 1. To strike or deal a blow. 2. a. To come into contact with something; collide. b. To attack: The raiders hit at dawn. c. To happen or occur: The storm hit without warning. 3. To achieve or find something desired or sought: finally hit on the answer; hit upon a solution to the problem. 4. Baseball. To bat. 5. To ignite a mixture of air and fuel in the cylinders. Used of an internal-combustion engine. — n. Abbr. h, h. 1. a. A collision or an impact. b. A successfully executed shot, blow, thrust, or throw. 2. A successful or popular venture: a Broadway hit. 3. An apt or effective remark. 4. Baseball. A base hit. 5. Slang. a. A dose of a narcotic drug. b. A puff of a cigarette or a marijuana cigarette or pipe. 6. Slang. A murder planned and carried out usually by a member of an underworld syndicate. —phrasal verbs. hit on. Slang. To pay unsolicited and usually unwanted sexual attention to: can't go into a bar lately without being hit on. hit up. Slang. To approach and ask (someone) for something, especially for money: tried to hit me up for a loan. —idioms. hit it big. Slang. To be successful: investors who hit it big on the stock market. hit it off. Informal. To get along well together. hit (someone) over the head. Informal. To be so repetitive or obvious as to become redundant or insulting: We were simply hit over the head by the poet's misogynistic imagery. hit the books. Informal. To study, especially with concentrated effort. hit the bottle. Slang. To engage in drinking alcoholic beverages. hit the fan. Slang. To have serious, usually adverse consequences. hit the ground running. Informal. To begin a venture with great energy, involvement, and competence. hit the hay (or hit the sack). Slang. To go to bed: hit the hay well before midnight. hit the high points (or hit the high spots). To direct attention to the most important points or places. hit the jackpot. To become highly and unexpectedly successful, especially to win a great deal of money. hit the nail on the head. To be absolutely right. hit the road. Slang. To set out, as on a trip; leave. hit the roof (or hit the ceiling). Slang. To express anger, especially vehemently. hit the spot. To give total or desired satisfaction, as food or drink. [Middle English hitten, from Old English hyttan, from Old Norse hitta.] —hit/less adj. —hit/ta-ble adj.

Hi-ta·chi (hĭ-tă'chē) A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, on the Pacific Ocean northeast of Tokyo. It is the center of an important industrial area. Population, 206,075.

hit-and-miss (hĭt'n-mĭs') adj. Sometimes succeeding and sometimes not.

hit-and-run (hĭt'n-rŭn') adj. 1. Being or involving the driver of a motor vehicle who leaves the scene of an accident, especially one in which a pedestrian or another vehicle has been struck. 2. Baseball. Relating to or being a play in which a base runner starts to run on the pitch and the batter attempts to hit the ball to protect the runner. 3. Involving or designed for swift specific action or effect: “a day of hit-and-run disturbances by bands of dissident students” (Alfonso Narvaez).

hitch (hĭch) v. hitched, hitch-ing, hitch-es. — v. tr. 1. To fasten or catch temporarily with or as if with a loop, hook, or noose. 2. To connect or attach, as to a vehicle: hitched the horses to the sleigh. 3. To move or raise by pulling or jerking: hitch up one's suspenders. 4. Informal. To hitchhike: hitched a ride to the rally. — v. intr. 1. To move haltingly; hobble. 2. To become entangled, snarled, or fastened. 3. Slang. To get married: We got hitched last weekend. 4. Informal. To hitchhike. — n. 1. Any of various knots used as a temporary fastening. 2. A device used to connect one thing to another. 3. A short jerking motion; a tug. 4. A hobble or limp. 5. An impediment or a delay: a hitch in our plans. 6. A term of service, especially of military service. 7. Informal. A free ride obtained along a road. [Probably from Middle English hytchen, icchen, to move, jerk.] — hitch'er n.

Hitch-cock (hĭch'kŏk'), Sir Alfred Joseph. 1899–1980. British director known for his suspense films, especially The 39 Steps (1935), Strangers on a Train (1951), and Psycho (1960).

hitch·hike (hĭch'hĭk') v. hitch-hiked, hitch-hik-ing, hitch-hikes. — v. intr. To travel by soliciting free rides along a road. — v. tr. To solicit or get (a free ride) along a road. — hitch/hike' n. — hitch/hik'er n.

hitch-ing post (hĭch'ĭng pŏst) n. A post to which an animal, especially a horse, is hitched.

Hitch-ings (hĭch'ĭngz), George Herbert. Born 1905. American biochemist. He shared a 1988 Nobel Prize for developing drugs to treat leukemia and gout.

hi-tech (hĭ'tĕk') adj. Variant of high tech.

hith·er (hĭth'ər) adv. To or toward this place: Come hither. — adj. Located on the near side. — idiom. hither and thither (or hither and yon). In or to many places; here and there: looked hither and thither for the ring; ran hither and yon. [Middle English, from Old English hider. See ko- in Appendix.]

hith·er·most (hĭth'ər-mŏst') adj. Nearest to this place or side.

hith·er·to (hĭth'ər-tŏŏ', hĭth'ər-tŏŏ') adv. Until this time: The weather, which had hitherto been sunny and mild, suddenly turned cold.

hith·er·ward (hĭth'ər-wərd) also hith·er·wards (-wərdz) adv. Hither.

Hit-ler (hīt'lər), Adolf. Known as “Der Führer.” 1889-1945. Austrian-born founder of the German Nazi Party and chancellor of the Third Reich (1933-1945). His fascist philosophy, embodied in Mein Kampf (1925-1927), attracted widespread support, and after 1934 he ruled as an absolute dictator. Hitler’s pursuit of aggressive nationalist policies resulted in the invasion of Poland (1939) and the subsequent outbreak of World War II. His regime was infamous for the extermination of millions of people, especially European Jews. He committed suicide when the collapse of the Third Reich was imminent (1945). —Hit-ler'i-an (hīt-lîr'ē-ən) adj.

Hit-ler-ism (hīt'lə-rîz'əm) n. The fascistic and nationalistic theories and practices of Adolf Hitler and the Nazis. —Hit'ler-ite' (-lə-rît') adj. & n.

hit list (hīt list) n. Slang. 1. A list of potential murder victims. 2. A list designating a target, as for attack, coercion, or elimination: “had a hit list of executives he wanted fired” (New York).

hit man (hīt măn) n. Slang. 1. A man hired by a crime syndicate as a professional killer. 2. A hatchet man.

hit-or-miss (hīt'ər-mîs') adj. Marked by a lack of care, accuracy, or organization; random. —hit or miss adv.

hit parade (hīt pə-rād') n. 1. Music. A ranked group or listing of the currently most popular songs. 2. A collection or listing of the most popular or excellent items or people of a certain kind.

hit squad (hīt skwɔd) n. Slang. 1. A squad or team of hired executioners, as one organized for carrying out a political assassination. 2. A group of political terrorists.

Hitt. abbr. Hittite.

hit-ter (hīt'ər) n. 1. One who hits or strikes something. 2. Baseball. A batter.

Hit-tite (hīt'it') n. Abbr. Hitt 1. A member of an ancient people living in Anatolia and northern Syria about 2000-1200 B.C. 2. The Indo-European language of the Hittites. — adj. Abbr. Hitt Of or relating to the Hittites, their language, or their culture. [From Hebrew hittî, from Akkadian hatti, from Hittite Hatti.]

HIV (āch'ī-vē') n. A retrovirus that causes AIDS. HIV was formerly known as HTLV-III. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: an HIV infection. [H(UMAN) I(MMUNODEFICIENCY) V(IRUS).]

Hi-va O·a (hē'və ō'ə) A volcanic island of the southern Pacific Ocean in the southeast Marquesas Islands of French Polynesia. The painter Gauguin is buried here.

hive (hīv) n. 1. a. A structure for housing bees, especially honeybees. b. A colony of bees living in such a structure. 2. A place swarming with activity. — v. hived, hiv-ing, hives. — v. tr. 1. To collect into a hive. 2. To store (honey) in a hive. 3. To store up; accumulate. — v. intr. 1. To enter and occupy a beehive. 2. To live with many others in close association. —phrasal verb. hive off. To set apart from a group: hived off the department into another division. [Middle English, from Old English hȳf.]

hives (hīvz) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). A skin condition characterized by intensely itching welts and caused by an allergic reaction to internal or external agents, an infection, or a nervous condition. Also called nettle rash, urticaria. [Origin unknown.]

Hi-was-see (hī-wōs'ē) A river rising in northeast Georgia and flowing about 241 km (150 mi) northward across southwest North Carolina and into southeast Tennessee, where it joins the Tennessee River.

Hka·ka·bo Ra·zi (kā'kə-bō rä'zē) A mountain, 5,885.3 m (19,296 ft) high, of northern Burma near the Chinese border. It is the highest peak in the country.

hl abbr. Hectoliter.

H.L. abbr. House of Lords.

hld. abbr. Nautical. Hold.

hlqn abbr. Harlequin.

hm abbr. Hectometer.

H.M. abbr. 1. Her Majesty. 2. His Majesty.

HMAS or H.M.A.S. abbr. Her, or His, Majesty's Australian Ship.

HMBS or H.M.B.S. abbr. Her, or His, Majesty's British Ship.

HMCS or H.M.C.S. abbr. Her, or His, Majesty's Canadian Ship.

HMF or H.M.F. abbr. Her, or His, Majesty's Forces.

HMO (āch'ēm-ō') n. A corporation financed by insurance premiums whose member physicians and professional staff provide curative and preventive medicine within certain financial, geographic, and professional limits to enrolled volunteer members and their families. [H(EALTH) M(AINTENANCE) O(RGANIZATION).]

Hmong (hmông) n. pl. Hmong or Hmongs. 1. A member of a people inhabiting the mountainous regions of southern China and adjacent areas of Vietnam, Laos, and Thailand. 2. The Miao-Yao language of the Hmong. Also called Miao HMS or H.M.S. abbr. Her, or His, Majesty's Ship.

HN abbr. Head nurse.

hny abbr. Honey.

ho (hō) interj. Used to express surprise or joy, to attract attention to something sighted, or to urge onward: Land ho! Westward ho!

Ho¹ The symbol for the element holmium.

Ho² abbr. Bible. Hosea.

ho. abbr. House.

hoa·gie also hoa·gy (hō'gē) n. pl. hoa·gies. Chiefly Pennsylvania & Chiefly New Jersey. See submarine (n., sense 2). See Regional note at submarine. [Alteration of hoggy.]

hoar (hōr, hōr) adj. Hoary. — n. Hoarfrost. [Middle English hor, from Old English hār.]

hoard (hôrd, hōrd) n. A hidden fund or supply stored for future use; a cache.
— v. hoard-ed, hoard-ing, hoards. — v. intr. To gather or accumulate a hoard. — v. tr. 1. To accumulate a hoard of. 2. To keep hidden or private.
[Middle English hord, from Old English. See (s)keu- in Appendix.] —hoard'er n.

hoard-ing (hâr'dĩng, hōr'(-)) n. 1. A temporary wooden fence around a building or structure under construction or repair. 2. Chiefly British. A billboard.
[Obsolete hoard, hourd, from French dialectal hourd, fence, scaffold, hurdle, from Old French, of Germanic origin.]

Hoare (hâr, hōr), Sir Samuel John Gurney First Viscount Templewood. 1880-1959. British diplomat and public official. As secretary of state for foreign affairs (1935) he negotiated the agreement that gave Ethiopia to Italy as a protectorate and was subsequently forced to resign.

hoar-frost (hâr'frôst', -frôst', hōr'(-)) n. Frozen dew that forms a white coating on a surface. Also called white frost hoarse (hârs, hōrs) adj. hoars-er, hoars-est. 1. Rough or grating in sound: a hoarse cry. 2. Having or characterized by a husky, grating voice: yelled ourselves hoarse. [Middle English hos, hors, from Old English hās.] —hoarse'ly adv.

—hoarse'ness n.

hoars-en (hâr'sæn, hōr'(-)) v. tr. intr. hoars-ened, hoars-en-ing, hoars-ens.
To make or become hoarse.

hoar-y (hâr'ē, hōr'ē) adj. hoar-i-er, hoar-i-est. 1. Gray or white with or as if with age. 2. Covered with grayish hair or pubescence: hoary leaves. 3. So old as to inspire veneration; ancient. —hoar'i-ly adv. —hoar'i-ness n.

hoary alyssum (hâr'ē ə-līs'əm) n. An annual European herb (Berteroa incana) of the mustard family, having silvery foliage, oblong fruits, and white, deeply notched flowers. It is naturalized in eastern North America. Also called alyssum hoat-zin (wät-sēn') n. A crested brownish bird (Opisthocomus hoazin) of tropical South America whose young have claws on the first and second digits of the wings. [American Spanish hoazín, from Nahuatl uatzin, pheasant or small game bird.]

hoax (hōks) n. 1. An act intended to deceive or trick. 2. Something that has been established or accepted by fraudulent means. — v. tr. hoaxed, hoax-ing, hoax-es. To deceive or cheat by using a hoax. [Perhaps alteration of HOCUS.] —hoax'er n.

hob¹ (hōb) n. 1. A shelf or projection at the back or side of a fireplace, used for keeping food or utensils warm. 2. A tool used for cutting the teeth of machine parts, as of a gearwheel. [Origin unknown.]

hob² (hōb) n. 1. Chiefly British. A hobgoblin, a sprite, or an elf. 2. Mischievous behavior. [From Middle English Hob, a nickname for Robert.]

Ho-ban (hō'bən), James. 1762?-1831. Irish-born American architect who designed and supervised the construction (1793-1801) and renovation (1815-1829) of the White House in Washington, D.C.

Ho-bart 1. (hō'bärt') A city of southeast Tasmania, Australia, on an inlet of the Tasman Sea. It was founded in 1804 as a penal colony. Population, 47,920. 2. (hō'bärt) A city of northwest Indiana southeast of Gary. Mainly residential, it also has varied light industries. Population, 21,822.

Ho-bart (hō'bärt', -bärt), Garret Augustus. 1844-1899. Vice President of the United States (1897-1899) under William McKinley.

Hob-be-ma (hōb'ə-mə, hō'bə-mä), Meindert. 1638-1709. Dutch landscape painter known for a number of works, including The Hermitage, St. Petersburg (1663).

Hobbes (hōbz), Thomas. 1588-1679. English political philosopher who wrote Leviathan (1651), which outlined his philosophy that human beings are fundamentally selfish. —Hobbes'i-an adj.

Hobb-ism (hōb'iz'əm) n. A political theory promulgated by Thomas Hobbes, advocating absolute monarchy as the only means of adequately controlling the inevitable problems created by the inherently selfish, aggrandizing nature of human beings. —Hobb'ist adj. & n.

hob-bit (hōb'īt) n. An imaginary creature resembling a diminutive human being, having some rabbitlike characteristics, and being naturally peace-loving, domestic, and sociable. [From pseudo-Old English holbýtla, hole-builder (coined by J.R.R. Tolkien) : Old English hol, hole; see HOLE + Old English býtla, builder, hammerer (from býtl, bīetel, mallet); see BEETLE³.]

hob-ble (hōb'əl) v. hob-bled, hob-bling, hob-bles. — v. intr. To walk or move along haltingly or with difficulty; limp. — v. tr. 1. To put a device around the legs of (a horse, for example) so as to hamper but not prevent movement.

2. To cause to limp. 3. To hamper the action or progress of; impede. See Synonyms at hamper¹. — n. 1. A hobbling walk or gait. 2. A device, such as a rope or strap, used to hobble an animal. 3. Archaic. An awkward situation.

[Middle English hobblen, of Low German origin; akin to Middle Dutch hobbelen, to roll.] —hob'bler n.

hob-ble-bush (hōb'əl-bōōsh') n. A deciduous shrub (Viburnum alnifolium) of eastern North America, having flat clusters of white flowers with the marginal flowers larger than the others.

hob-ble-de-hoy (hōb'əl-dē-hoi') n. pl. hob-ble-de-hoys. A gawky adolescent boy. [Origin unknown.]

hobble skirt (hōb'əl skûrt) n. A long skirt, popular between 1910 and 1914, that was so narrow below the knees that it restricted normal stride.

Hobbs (hɔbz) A city of southeast New Mexico near the Texas border southeast of Roswell. Oil and natural gas were discovered in the area in 1927. Population, 29,115.

hob-by¹ (hɔb'ē) n. pl. hob-bies. An activity or interest pursued outside one's regular occupation and engaged in primarily for pleasure. [Middle English hobi, hobyn, small horse, hobby horse, perhaps from Hobin, Hobby, nickname for Robert.] —hob'by-ist n.

hob-by² (hɔb'ē) n. pl. hob-bies. Any of several small falcons of the genus Falco, formerly used for catching small birds or game. [Middle English hobi, from Old French hobe, hobel.]

Hob-by (hɔb'ē), Oveta Culp. Born 1905. American public official. She was the first director of the Women's Army Corps (1943-1945) and the first secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (1953-1955).

hob-by-horse (hɔb'ē-hɔrs') n. 1. a. A child's riding toy that consists of a long stick with an imitation horse's head on one end. b. See rocking horse. 2. a. A figure of a horse worn attached to the waist of a mummer, as in a morris dance. b. A person wearing such a figure. 3. a. A favorite hobby. b. A topic with which one is obsessed; a fixation.

hob-gob-lin (hɔb'gɔb'lɪn) n. 1. An ugly, mischievous elf or goblin. 2. An object or a source of fear, dread, or harassment; a bugbear: "A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds" (Ralph Waldo Emerson).

hob-nail (hɔb'nāl') n. A short nail with a thick head used to protect the soles of shoes or boots. [HOB¹, peg, projection (obsolete) + NAIL.] —hob'nailed' adj.

hob-nob (hɔb'nɔb') v. intr. hob-nobbed, hob-nob-bing, hob-nobs. To associate familiarly: hobnobs with the executives. [From the phrase (drink) hob or nob, (toast) one another alternately, from obsolete and dialectal hab nab, have or have not : probably Middle English habbe, have; see HAVE + Middle English nabbe (contraction of ne habbe, have not : Old English ne, not; see not + habbe, have).]

WORD HISTORY: The fact that hobnobbing with our social betters may at times be a hit-or-miss proposition has an etymological justification. The verb hobnob originally meant "to drink together" and occurred as a varying phrase, hob or nob, hob-a-nob, or hob and nob, the first of which is recorded in 1763. This phrasal form reflects the origins of the verb in similar phrases that were used when two people were toasting each other. The probable reason that the phrases were so used is that hob is a variant of hab, as nob is of nab, and that these in turn are probably forms of have and its negative. In Middle English, for example, one finds the forms habbe, "to have," and nabbe, "not to have." Hab or nab, or simply hab nab, thus meant "get or lose, hit or miss," and the variant hob-nob also meant "hit or miss." Used in the drinking phrase, hob or nob would have probably meant "give or take," and from a drinking situation hob nob spread to other forms of chumminess.

ho·bo (hō'bō) n. pl. ho·boes or ho·bos. 1. A homeless person, especially an impoverished vagrant. 2. A migrant worker. — v. intr. ho·boed, ho·bo·ing, ho·boes. To live or wander like a vagrant. [Origin unknown.] — ho'bo·ism n.

Ho·bo·ken (hō'bō'kən) A city of northeast New Jersey on the Hudson River opposite Manhattan. Now a railroad hub and busy seaport, it was a resort and amusement center for New Yorkers before the mid-19th century. Population, 33,397.

Hob·son's choice (hɒb'sənz chois) n. An apparently free choice that offers no real alternative. [After Thomas Hobson (1544?-1630), English keeper of a livery stable, from his requirement that customers take either the horse nearest the stable door or none.]

Hoc·cleve (hɒk'lēv') or Oc·cleve (ɒk'-), Thomas. 1369?-1450?. English poet known for his detailed descriptions of life in medieval London.

Höch (hœk, hœKH), Hannah. 1889-1979. German Dada artist who cofounded photomontage as a new medium for her works dealing with war and revolution.

Ho Chi Minh (hō' chē' mīn'), 1890-1969. Vietnamese leader and first president of North Vietnam (1954-1969). His army was victorious in the French Indochina War (1946-1954), and he later led North Vietnam's struggle to defeat the U.S.-supported government in South Vietnam. Ho Chi Minh died before the reunification of Vietnam (1976).

Ho Chi Minh City (hō kī mīn sīt'ē) Formerly Sai·gon (sī-gŏn'). The largest city of Vietnam, in the southern part of the country near the South China Sea. An ancient Khmer settlement, it became the capital of South Vietnam in 1954. The city was heavily damaged during the Vietnam War. Population, 2,441,185.

hock¹ (hɒk) n. 1. a. The tarsal joint of the hind leg of a digitigrade quadruped, such as a horse, corresponding to the human ankle but bending in the opposite direction. b. A joint in the leg of a domestic fowl similar to the hock of a quadruped. 2. A small cut of meat, especially ham, from the front or hind leg directly above the foot. — v. tr. hocked, hock·ing, hocks. To disable by cutting the tendons of the hock; hamstring. [Middle English, from Old English hōh, heel.]

hock² (hɒk) n. Chiefly British. Rhine wine. [Short for obsolete Hockamore, alteration of German Hochheimer, from Hochheim, a town of west-central Germany.]

hock³ (hɒk) Slang. v. tr. hocked, hock·ing, hocks. To pawn: hock a diamond ring. — n. 1. The state of being pawned: put the diamonds in hock. 2. The state of being in debt: thought we'd never get out of hock. [Probably from Dutch hok, prison.]

hock·ey (hɒk'ē) n. Sports. 1. Ice hockey. 2. Field hockey. [Origin unknown.]

hockey stick (hök'ē stīk) n. Sports. A long-handled stick with one curved end that is used in hockey.

hock-shop (hök'shöp') n. Slang. A pawnshop.

ho-cus (hō'kəs) v. tr. ho-cused or ho-cussed, ho-cus-ing or ho-cus-sing, ho-cus-es or ho-cus-ses. 1. To fool or deceive; hoax. 2. To infuse (food or drink) with a drug. [Short for HOCUS-POCUS.]

ho-cus-po-cus (hō'kəs-pō'kəs) n. 1. Nonsense words or phrases used as a formula by quack conjurers. 2. A trick performed by a magician or juggler; sleight-of-hand. 3. Foolishness or empty pretense used especially to disguise deception or chicanery. — v. tr. ho-cus-po-cused or ho-cus-po-cussed, ho-cus-po-cus-ing or ho-cus-po-cus-sing, ho-cus-po-cus-es or ho-cus-po-cus-ses. To play tricks on; deceive. [Possibly from an alteration of Latin hoc est corpus (meum), this is (my) body (from its use in the Eucharist at the time of transubstantiation).]

hod (höd) n. 1. A trough carried over the shoulder for transporting loads, as of bricks or mortar. 2. A coal scuttle. [Perhaps alteration of dialectal hot, from Middle English, pannier, from Old French hotte, of Germanic origin.]

Ho-dei-da (hō-dā'də) A city of western Yemen on the Red Sea. It is a major port and industrial center. Population, 126,400.

hodge-podge (høj'pøj') n. A mixture of dissimilar ingredients; a jumble. [Alteration of Middle English hochepot, from Old French, stew. See HOTCHPOT.]

Hodg-kin (høj'kĭn), Sir Alan Lloyd. 1914-1994. British physiologist. He shared a 1963 Nobel Prize for research on nerve cells.

Hodg-kin (høj'kĭn), Dorothy Mary Crowfoot. Born 1910. Egyptian-born British chemist. She won a 1964 Nobel Prize for determining the structure of compounds needed to combat pernicious anemia.

Hodg-kin's disease (høj'kĭnz dī-zēz') n. A malignant, progressive, sometimes fatal disease of unknown etiology, marked by enlargement of the lymph nodes, spleen, and liver. [After Thomas Hodgkin (1798-1866), British physician.]

hoe (hō) n. A tool with a flat blade attached approximately at a right angle to a long handle, used for weeding, cultivating, and gardening. — v. hoed, hoe-ing, hoes. — v. tr. To weed, cultivate, or dig up with a hoe. — v. intr. To work with a hoe. [Middle English howe, from Old French houe, of Germanic origin. See kau- in Appendix.] — ho'er n.

Hoe (hō), Richard March. 1812-1886. American inventor and manufacturer who devised the first rotary press (1847) and the first web press (1871).

hoe-cake (hō'kāk') n. Chiefly Southern U.S. See johnnycake. See Regional note at johnnycake. [Possibly because it was sometimes baked on the blade of a hoe.]

hoe-down (hō'doun') n. 1. A square dance. 2. The music for a square dance. 3. A party at which square dancing takes place.

Hoek van Hol·land (hōök' vān hô'lānt) See Hook of Holland.

Hof (hōf, hôf) A city of east-central Germany near the Czechoslovakian border north-northeast of Bayreuth. First mentioned in the early 13th century, it passed to Prussia in 1792 and Bavaria in 1810. Population, 51,183.

Ho·fei (hū'fā') See Hefei.

Ho·fer (hō'fər), Andreas. 1767-1810. Tyrolese patriot who led a rebellion against the Bavarian government of the Tyrol (1809) and was later defeated by a combined French and Bavarian army.

Hof·fa (hōf'ə), James Riddle. Known as "Jimmy." 1913-1975?. American labor leader who became president of the Teamsters Union (1957) and attempted to organize all transportation workers into one union. Hoffa was jailed for jury tampering and fraud (1967-1971) and was later abducted and presumably murdered (1975).

Hoff·man (hōf'mən), Malvina. 1887-1966. American sculptor who executed 110 figures of ethnic types for the Field Museum in Chicago (1930-1933).

Hoffman Estates (hōf'mən ĭ-stāts') A village of northeast Illinois, a suburb of Chicago. Population, 46,561.

Hoff·mann (hōf'mən, hōf'män'), August Heinrich. Known as "Hoffmann von Fallersleben." 1798-1874. German writer, philologist, and literary historian noted for his patriotic verse, including "Deutschland, Deutschland über Alles" (1841).

Hoff·mann (hōf'mən, hōf'män'), Roald. Born 1937. Polish-born American chemist. He shared a 1981 Nobel Prize for applying quantum-mechanics theories to the analysis of chemical reactions.

Hof·mann (hōf'mən, hōf'män'), August Wilhelm von. 1818-1892. German chemist. Among his achievements are the discovery of formaldehyde and the discovery of a method for determining molecular weights of liquids by calculating their vapor densities.

Hof·mann (hōf'mən, hōf'män'), Hans. 1880-1966. German-born American artist who opened two art schools in New York City and Provincetown, Massachusetts (1932-1958), that were important in the development of abstract expressionism.

Hof·mann (hōf'mən, hōf'män'), Josef Casimir. 1876-1957. Polish-born American pianist and composer who helped found the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia (1924).

Hof·manns·thal (hōf'mäns-täl', hōf'-), Hugo von. 1874-1929. Austrian writer who established his reputation with lyric poems and a number of plays, including Yesterday (1891) and Death and the Fool (1893).

Hof·stadt·er (hōf'stāt'ər), Richard. 1916-1970. American historian who won a Pulitzer Prize for The Age of Reform (1955), a study of the Populist, Progressive, and New Deal eras.

Hof-stadt-er (höf'stät'ər), Robert. Born 1915. American physicist. He shared a 1961 Nobel Prize for determining the structure of protons and neutrons.

hog (hôg, hõg) n. 1. a. Any of various mammals of the family Suidae, which includes the domesticated pig as well as wild species, such as the boar and the wart hog. b. A domesticated pig, especially one weighing over 54 kilograms (120 pounds). 2. a. A self-indulgent, gluttonous, or filthy person. b. One that uses too much of something. 3. Also hogg. a. Chiefly British. A young sheep before it has been shorn. b. The wool from this type of sheep. 4. Slang. A big, heavy motorcycle. — v. hogged, hog-ging, hogs. — v. tr. 1. Informal. To take more than one's share of: Don't hog the couch. 2. To cause (the back) to arch like that of a hog. 3. To cut (a horse's mane) short and bristly. 4. To shred (waste wood, for example) by machine. — v. intr. Nautical. To arch upward in the middle. Used of a ship's keel. — idiom. high on the hog (or high off the hog). Slang. In a lavish or extravagant manner: lives high on the hog since getting his share of the inheritance. [Middle English, from Old English hogg, possibly of Celtic origin. See sū- in Appendix.]

ho-gan (hō'gän', -gən) n. A usually earth-covered Navajo dwelling traditionally built with the entrance facing east. [Navajo hooghan.]

Ho-gan (hō'gən), William Benjamin. Known as "Ben." Born 1912. American golfer. He won the U.S. Open championship (1948, 1950, 1951, and 1953), the P.G.A. championship (1948), and the British Open (1953).

Ho-garth (hō'gärth'), William. 1697-1764. British artist whose satirical paintings attacked the contradiction of luxury and squalor in society.

—Ho-garth'i-an adj.

hog-back (hôg'băk', hõg'-) n. A sharp ridge with steeply sloping sides, produced by erosion of the broken edges of highly tilted strata.

hog cholera (hôg kōl'ər-ə) n. A highly infectious, often fatal viral disease of swine, characterized by fever, loss of appetite, diarrhea, and exhaustion. Also called African swine fever hog-fish (hôg'fīsh', hõg'-) n. pl. hogfish or hog-fish-es. 1. A colorful fish (Lachnolaimus maximus) of warm Atlantic waters, having a long snout in the adult male. 2. See pigfish.

hogg (hôg, hõg) n. Chiefly British. Variant of hog (n., sense 3).

Hogg (hôg, hõg), James. 1770-1835. British writer known for his rustic verse, including The Mountain Bard (1807) and The Queen's Wake (1813).

hog-gish (hô'gīsh, hõg'īsh) adj. 1. Coarsely self-indulgent or gluttonous.

2. Filthy. —hog'gish-ly adv. —hog'gish-ness n.

hog heaven (hôg hëv'ən) n. Slang. A state of utter bliss or contentment: She's in hog heaven over her new sports car.

- Hog-ma-nay (hög'mə-nā', hög'mə-nā') n. Scots. 1. The eve of New Year's Day, on which children traditionally go from house to house asking for presents. 2. A present requested or given on this day. [Origin unknown.]
- hog-nose snake (hög'nōz' snāk, hög'-) n. Any of several thick-bodied, non-venomous North American snakes of the genus Heterodon having an upturned snout. Also called puff adder
- hog peanut (hög pē'nüt') n. A twining North American vine (Amphicarpaea bracteata) having clusters of pinkish or white flowers and bearing three-seeded pods as well as basal or underground fleshy one-seeded pods.
- hogs-head (högz'hēd', högz'-) Abbr. hhd n. 1. Any of various units of volume or capacity ranging from 63 to 140 gallons (238 to 530 liters), especially a unit of capacity used in liquid measure in the United States, equal to 63 gallons (238 liters). 2. A large barrel or cask with this capacity.
- hog-tie also hog-tie (hög'tī', hög'-) v. tr. hog-tied, hog-tie-ing or hog-ty-ing, hog-ties. 1. To tie together the feet or legs of. 2. Informal. To impede or disrupt in movement or action. See Synonyms at hamper¹.
- hog-wash (hög'wōsh', -wōsh, hög'-) n. 1. Worthless, false, or ridiculous speech or writing; nonsense. 2. Garbage fed to hogs; swill.
- hog-weed (hög'wēd', hög'-) n. Any of certain coarse, weedy plants of the genera Ambrosia, Erigeron, or Heracleum.
- hog-wild (hög'wīld', hög'-) adj. Informal. 1. So wildly excited as to be irrational or devoid of good judgment: hog-wild spending. 2. Wildly enthusiastic: is hog-wild over racing cars. —hog-wild' adv.
- Ho-hen-lo-he (hō'ən-lō'ə) German princely family in existence since the 12th century. Its members held a number of important military and political positions in the 19th and early 20th centuries.
- Ho-hen-stau-fen (hō'ən-shtou'fən) Family of German rulers of the Holy Roman Empire (1138-1208 and 1215-1254). Hohenstaufens also reigned in Sicily (1194-1268).
- Ho-hen-zol-lern (hō'ən-zöl'ərn, -tsōl'-) German royal family who ruled Brandenburg from 1415 and later extended their control to Prussia (1525). Under Frederick I (ruled 1701-1713) the family's possessions were unified as the kingdom of Prussia. From 1871 to 1918 Hohenzollern monarchs ruled the German Empire.
- Ho-he Tau-ern (hō'ə tou'ərn) A range of the eastern Alps in southern Austria near the Italian border. Grossglockner, 3,799.4 m (12,457 ft), is the highest peak.
- Hoh-hot (hō'hōt') also Hu-he-hot (hōō'hā-) A city of northern China west-northwest of Beijing. An industrial city, it is also the capital of Nei Monggol (Inner Mongolia) autonomous region. Population, 542,800.
- Ho-ho-kam (hə-hō'kəm) n. A Native American culture flourishing from about the 3rd century B.C. to the mid-15th century A.D. in south-central Arizona, noted for the construction of an extensive system of irrigation canals. [From Papago huhugam, those who are gone.]

ho hum (hō' hūm') interj. Used to express boredom, weariness, or contempt.

ho-hum (hō'hūm') adj. Informal. Boring and dull; routine: "a ho-hum speaker who couldn't capture the attention of the conventioners" (Chicago Tribune).

hoicks (hoiks) interj. Variant of yoicks.

hoi pol-loi (hoi' pə-loi') n. The common people; the masses. [Greek, the many : hoi, nominative pl. of ho, the; see so- in Appendix + polloi, nominative pl. of polus, many; see pelə-¹ in Appendix.]

WORD HISTORY: We hoi polloi may want to be careful in our use of the term hoi polloi because a few pitfalls lie in wait for those without a knowledge of its background. Hoi polloi is a borrowing of the Greek phrase hoi polloi, which is made up of the form hoi, meaning "the" and used before a plural, and polloi, the plural of polus, "many." In Greek hoi polloi had a special sense, "the greater number, the people, the commonalty, the masses." This is what the phrase has tended to express in English since its first recorded instance, in an 1837 work by James Fenimore Cooper. One pitfall in the use of hoi polloi lies in the fact that hoi already expresses the sense "the," so that technically one should not add another the to the phrase, as in the hoi polloi. But this technicality has not stopped many users of the phrase, including Cooper, from doing so. The other pitfall in the use of the phrase is the misuse of it to mean "the elite," possibly brought about because hoi in the phrase the hoi polloi is reminiscent of high as in high and mighty and also because hoi polloi may recall hoity-toity.

hoi-sin sauce (hoi'sin sôs, hoi-sin') n. A thick, sweet, pungent sauce used in Chinese cooking. [Chinese (Cantonese) hoisin, seafood : hoi, ocean + sin, delicacy, seafood.]

hoist (hoist) v. hoist-ed, hoist-ing, hoists. — v. tr. To raise or haul up with or as if with the help of a mechanical apparatus. See Synonyms at lift. — v. intr. To become raised or lifted. — n. 1. An apparatus for lifting heavy or cumbersome objects. 2. The act of hoisting; a lift. 3. Nautical. a. The height or vertical dimension of a flag or of any square sail other than a course. b. A group of flags raised together as a signal. [Alteration of dialectal hoise, perhaps variant of Middle English hisse, heave!, possibly from Middle Dutch hissen, to haul.]
—hoist'er n.

hoi-ty-toi-ty (hoi'tē-toi'tē) adj. 1. Pretentiously self-important; pompous. 2. Given to frivolity or silliness. [From reduplication of dialectal hoit, to romp; akin to perhaps akin to HOYDEN.]

Ho-kan (hō'kən) n. A proposed grouping of a number of Native American language families of western North America.

Ho·kang (hŭ'kāng', -gāng') See Hegang.

hoke (hōk) v. tr. hoked, hok·ing, hokes. Slang. To give an impressive but artificial, false, or deceptive quality to: hoked up some phony allegations. [From HOKUM.]

hok·ey (hō'kē) adj. hok·i·er, hok·i·est. Slang. 1. Mawkishly sentimental; corny. 2. Noticeably contrived; artificial. —hok'i·ly adv. —hok'i·ness, hok'ey·ness n.

Ho·kin·son (hō'kĭn-sən), Helen Elna. 1893-1949. American cartoonist who depicted middle-aged women in garden club meetings, choir rehearsals, and other stereotypical settings.

Hok·kai·do (hō-kī'dō, hō'kī-dō') An island of Japan north of Honshu. It is the second largest of the Japanese islands but the least populated. Hokkaido became part of Japan in the medieval period (c. 1600) and was called Yezo or Ezo until 1868.

hok·ku (hō'kōō) n. pl. hokku. A haiku. [Japanese : hok, opening, first + ku, stanza.]

ho·kum (hō'kəm) n. 1. Something apparently impressive or legitimate but actually untrue or insincere; nonsense. 2. A stock technique for eliciting a desired response from an audience. [Perhaps HO(CUS-POCUS) + (BUN)KUM.]

Ho·ku·sai (hō'kōō-sī', hō'kōō-sī'), 1760-1849. Japanese artist and printmaker who is remembered for his historical scenes and landscapes, including Thirty-Six Views of Mount Fuji (1826-1833).

hol- pref. Variant of holo-.

ho·lan·dric (hō-lăn'drĭk, hō-) adj. Relating to a trait encoded by a gene or genes located on the Y-chromosome and therefore occurring only in males. [HOL(O)- + ANDR(O)- + -IC.]

Hol·arc·tic (hō-lărk'tĭk, -lăr'tĭk, hō-) adj. Of, relating to, or being the zoogeographic region that includes the northern areas of the earth and is divided into Nearctic and Palearctic regions.

Hol·bein¹ (hōl'bĭn, hōl'-), Hans. Known as “the Elder.” 1465?-1524. German painter. His religious works include altar pieces for the Augsburg Cathedral (1493) and for the churches of Saint Afra (c. 1495) and Saint Sebastian (1516), also in Augsburg.

Hol·bein² (hōl'bĭn, hōl'-), Hans. Known as “the Younger.” 1497?-1543. German-born artist in Switzerland and England noted for his portraits and religious paintings.

Hol·brook (hōl'brōōk'), Josiah. 1788-1854. American educational reformer who organized (1826) the first lyceum for adult education in the United States.

hold¹ (hōld) v. tr. held (hēld), hold·ing, holds. — v. tr. 1. a. To have and keep in one's grasp: held the reins tightly. b. To aim or direct; point: held a hose on the fire. c. To keep from falling or moving; support: a nail too small to hold the mir- ror; hold the horse steady; papers that were held together with tape and glue. d. To sustain the pressure of: The bridge can't hold that much weight. 2. a. To keep from departing or getting away: Hold the bus! Hold the dog until I find the leash. b. To keep in custody: held the suspect for questioning. c. To retain the attention or interest of: The storyteller held the crowd spellbound. Televised sports can't hold my interest. d. To avoid letting out or expelling: The swimmer couldn't hold her breath any longer. 3. a. To be filled by; contain. b. To be capable of holding. See Synonyms at contain. c. To have as a chief characteristic or quality: The film holds a number of surprises. d. To have in store: Let's see what the future holds. 4. a. To have and maintain in one's possession: holds a great deal of property. b. To have as a responsible position or a privilege: held the governorship for six years. c. To have in recognition of achievement or superiority: holds the record for the one-mile race; holds the respect of her peers. 5. a. To maintain control over: The dam held the floodwaters. Thieves held the stolen painting for ransom. b. To maintain occupation of by force or coercion: Students held the administrative building for a week. c. To withstand the efforts or advance of (an opposing team, for example). d. To maintain in a given condition, situation, or action: held himself as a gentleman at all times. 6. a. To impose control or restraint on; curb: She held her temper. b. To stop the movement or progress of: Hold the presses! c. To reserve or keep back from use: Please hold two tickets for us. Please hold the relish on that hamburger. d. To defer the immediate handling of: asked the receptionist to hold all calls during the meeting. 7. a. To be the legal possessor of. b. To bind by a contract. c. To adjudge or decree: The court held that the defendant was at fault. d. To make accountable; obligate: You certainly did hold me to my promise. 8. a. To keep in the mind or convey as a judgment, conviction, or point of view: hold a grudge; hold it a point of honor not to reveal one's sources; holds that this economic program is the only answer to high prices. b. To assert or affirm, especially formally: This doctrine holds that people are inherently good. c. To regard in a certain way: I hold you in high esteem. 9. a. To cause to take place; carry on: held the race in Florida; hold a yard sale. b. To assemble for and conduct the activity of; convene: held a meeting of the board. 10. a. To carry or support (the body or a bodily part) in a certain position: Can the baby hold herself up yet? Hold up your leg. b. To cover (the ears or the nose, for example) especially for protection: held my nose against the stench. — v. intr. 1. a. To maintain a grasp or grip on something. b. To stay securely fastened: The chain held. 2. a. To maintain a desired or accustomed position or condition: hopes the weather will hold. b. To withstand stress, pressure, or opposition: The defense held. We held firm on the negotiations. 3. To continue in the same direction: The ship held to a southwesterly course. 4. To be valid, applicable, or true: The theory holds. This is an observation that still holds true. 5. To have legal right or title. Often used with of or from. 6. To halt an intended action. Often used in the imperative. 7. To stop the countdown during a missile or spacecraft launch. 8. Slang. To have in one's possession illicit or illegally obtained material or goods, especially narcotics: The suspect was holding. — n. 1. a. The act or a means of grasping. b. A manner of grasping an opponent, as in wrestling or aikido: a neck hold; an arm hold. 2. Something that may be grasped or gripped, as for support. 3. a. A bond or force that attaches or restrains, or by which something is affected or dominated: a writer with a strong hold on the reading public. b. Complete control: has a firm hold on the complex issues. c. Full understanding: has a good hold on physics. 4. Music. a. The sustaining of a note longer than its indicated time value. b. The symbol designating this pause; a fermata. 5. a. A direction or an indication that something is to be reserved or deferred. b. A temporary halt, as in a countdown. 6. a. A prison cell. b. The state of being in confinement; custody. 7. Archaic. A fortified place; a stronghold. —phrasal verbs. hold back. 1. To retain in one's possession or control: held back valuable information; held back my tears. 2. To impede the progress of. 3. To restrain oneself. hold down. 4. To limit: Please hold the noise down. 5. To have (a job): holds down two jobs. hold forth. To talk at great length. hold off. 7. To keep at a distance; resist: held the creditors off. 8. To stop or delay doing something: Let's hold off until we have more data. hold on. 9. To maintain one's grip; cling. 10. To continue to do something; persist. 11. To wait for something wanted or requested, especially to keep a telephone connection open. hold out. 12. To present or proffer as something attainable. 13. To continue to be in supply or service; last: Our food is holding out nicely. 14. To continue to resist: The defending garrison held out for a month. 15. To refuse to reach or satisfy an agreement. hold over. 16. a. To postpone or delay. b. To keep in a position or state from an earlier period of time. 17. To continue a term of office past the usual length of time. 18. To prolong the engagement of: The film was held over for weeks. 19. a. To postpone or delay. b. To keep in a position or state from an earlier period of time. hold to. To remain loyal or faithful to: She held to her resolutions. hold up. 21. To obstruct or delay. 22. To rob while armed, often at gunpoint. 23. To offer or present as an example: held the essay up as a model for the students. 24. To continue to function without losing force or effectiveness; cope: managed to hold up under the daily stress. hold with. To agree with; support: I don't hold with your theories. —idioms. get hold of. 1. To come into possession of; find: Where can I get hold of a copy? 2. To communicate with, as by telephone: tried to get hold of you but the line was busy. 3. To gain control of. Often used reflexively: You must get hold of yourself. hold a candle to. To compare favorably with: This film doesn't hold a candle to his previous ones. hold (one's) own. To do reasonably well despite difficulty or criticism. hold out on (someone). To withhold something from: Don't hold out on me; start telling the truth. hold (someone's) feet to the fire. To pressure (someone) to consent to or undertake something.

hold sway. To have a controlling influence; dominate. hold the bag. Informal. 9. To be left with empty hands. 10. To be forced to assume total responsibility when it ought to have been shared. hold the fort. Informal. 11. To assume responsibility, especially in another's absence. 12. To maintain a secure position. hold the line. To maintain the existing position or state of affairs: had to hold the line on salary increases in the fourth quarter. hold the phone. Slang. To stop doing what one is engaged in doing. Often used in the imperative: Hold the phone hold water. To stand up to critical examination: Your theory does not hold water. The witnesses' conflicting stories held no water. no holds barred. Without limits or restraints. on hold. 17. Into a state of temporary interruption without total disconnection during a telephone call: had to put me on hold for five minutes. 18. Informal. Into a state of delay or indeterminate suspension: had to put the romance on hold. [Middle English holden, from Old English healdan.]

hold² (hōld) n. Abbr. hld. The lower interior part of a ship or an airplane in which cargo is stored. [Alteration (influenced by HOLD¹), of Middle English hole, husk, hull of a ship, from Old English hulu. See kel-¹ in Appendix.]

hold-all (hōld'ōl') n. 1. A container for holding items. 2. A case or bag for carrying miscellaneous items, as when traveling.

hold-back (hōld'băk') n. 1. a. The act of holding back. b. Something held back. 2. A device that retains or restrains. 3. A strap or an iron between the shaft and the harness on a drawn wagon, allowing the horse to stop or back up.

hold button (hōld büt'n) n. A button on a telephone that permits the user to answer another incoming call while temporarily interrupting the previous one.

hold-down (hōld'doun') n. 1. a. The act of holding down. b. A limit or restraint: "Voters want a hold-down on the Federal budget" (Newsweek).

2. Something, such as a clamp, used to hold an object in place.

hold-en (hōl'dən) v. Archaic. A past participle of hold¹.

hold-er (hōl'dər) n. 1. One that holds, as: a. One that possesses something; an owner: the holder of extensive farmland; the holder of oil fields. b. One, especially a tenant, that occupies or controls something: The current holder of the apartment. c. Law. One that legally possesses and is entitled to the payment of a check, bill, or promissory note. 2. A device for holding: a towel holder.

hold-fast (hōld'făst') n. 1. Any of various devices used to fasten something securely. 2. Biology. An organ or a structure of attachment, especially the basal, rootlike formation by which certain seaweeds or other algae are attached to a substrate.

hold-ing (hōl'dĩng) n. 1. a. Land rented or leased from another. b. Often holdings. Legally owned property, such as land, capital, or stocks. 2. Law. A court ruling, especially a ruling on a point of law raised in an official proceeding. 3. Sports. Illegal use of the arms, hands, body, or playing stick to obstruct the movements of an opponent. — adj. 1. Tending to impede or delay progress: a holding action. 2. Designed for usually short-term storage or retention: a holding tank; a holding cell.

holding company (hōl'dɪŋ kŭm'pə-nē) n. A company controlling partial or complete interest in another company or other companies.

holding pattern (hōl'dɪŋ păt'ərn) n. 1. A usually circular pattern flown by aircraft awaiting clearance to land at an airport. 2. Informal. A state of waiting or delay; a static situation: Environmental groups have succeeded in putting the nuclear industry into a holding pattern.

hold-out (hōld'out') n. One that withholds agreement or consent upon which progress is contingent.

hold-over (hōld'ō'vər) n. One that is held over, especially an officeholder who is retained after an expired term of office.

hold-up (hōld'ŭp') n. 1. An interruption or a delay: What's the holdup? We're in a hurry. 2. An armed robbery.

hole (hōl) n. 1. A cavity in a solid. 2. a. An opening or a perforation: a hole in the clouds. b. Sports. An opening in a defensive formation, especially the area of a baseball infield between the third base player and the shortstop. c. A fault or flaw: There are holes in your argument. 3. A deep place in a body of water. 4. An animal's hollowed-out habitation, such as a burrow. 5. An ugly, squalid, or depressing dwelling. 6. A deep or isolated place of confinement; a dungeon. 7. An awkward situation; a predicament. 8. Sports. a. The small pit lined with a cup into which a golf ball must be hit. b. One of the divisions of a golf course, from tee to cup. 9. Physics. A vacant position in a crystal left by the absence of an electron, especially a position in a semiconductor that acts as a carrier of positive electric charge. In this sense, also called electron hole — v. holed, hol-ing, holes. — v. tr. 1. To put a hole in. 2. To put or propel into a hole. — v. intr. To make a hole in something. — phrasal verbs. hole out. Sports. To hit a golf ball into the hole. hole up. 2. To hibernate in or as if in a hole. 3. Informal. To take refuge in or as if in a hideout. — idioms. hole in one. Sports. The driving of a golf ball from the tee into the hole in only one stroke. in the hole. 2. Having a score below zero. 3. In debt. 4. At a disadvantage. [Middle English, from Old English hol. See kel-¹ in Appendix.]

SYNONYMS: hole, hollow, cavity, pocket. These nouns refer to an unfilled or empty space. Hole is applicable to an opening in or a perforation through a solid body: dug a hole in the earth and planted the seed; a hole in the bow of the ship made by a torpedo. Hollow denotes an unfilled area in a solid body or a dent or depression on a surface: a hollow in the ground where ivy grows; marble steps with hollows worn by footsteps. A cavity is a hollow or hollow area within a solid body or object: a cavity in a molar; the cranial cavity. Pocket is applied to a cavity in the earth, as one containing a mineral deposit, or to an isolated cavity or area that contains foreign or contrasting matter: pockets of manganese in the rock; a plane that plunged into a pocket of turbulence; pockets of unemployment in an otherwise affluent society.

hole-and-corner (hōl'ən-kôr'nər) adj. Being in a secret place; conducted secretly.

hole card (hōl kărd) n. 1. Games. A card in stud poker that is dealt facedown in the first round of a deal and that the holder is not obliged to reveal before the showdown. 2. Informal. Something held in reserve until it can be used advantageously.

hole-in-the-wall (hōl'in-thə-wôl') n. pl. holes-in-the-wall (hōlz'/-). A small, very modest, often out-of-the-way place.

hol-ey (hō'lē) adj. hol-i-er, hol-i-est. Having holes or full of holes.

Hol-guín (ôl-gēn') A city of eastern Cuba north-northwest of Santiago de Cuba. It is a commercial and transportation center. Population, 186,236.

hol-i-day (hōl'i-dā') n. 1. A day on which custom or the law dictates a halting of general business activity to commemorate or celebrate a particular event. 2. A religious feast day; a holy day. 3. A day free from work that one may spend at leisure; a day off. 4. Chiefly British. A vacation. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: holiday cheer; holiday travelers. — v. intr. holi-dayed, holi-day-ing, holi-days. Chiefly British. To pass a holiday or vacation. [Middle English holidai, holy day, from Old English hālig dæg: hālig, holy; see HOLY + dæg, day; see DAY.] — hol'i-day'er n.

Hol-i-day (hōl'i-dā') A community of west-central Florida on the Gulf of Mexico northwest of Tampa. Population, 15,400.

Hol-i-day (hōl'i-dā'), Eleanora. Known as "Billie." 1915-1959. American singer. The emotional intensity of her performances made Holiday the leading female jazz vocalist of her time.

hol-i-day-mak-er (hōl'i-dā-mā'kər) n. Chiefly British. One who goes on vacation.

ho-li-er-than-thou (hō'lē-ər-thən-thou') adj. Exhibiting an attitude of superior virtue; self-righteously pious.

ho-li-ness (hō'lē-nīs) n. 1. The state or quality of being holy; sanctity.

2. Holiness. Roman Catholic Church. Used with His or Your as a title and form of address for a pope.

Hol-in-shed (hōl'ən-shēd', -īnz-hēd') also Hol-lings-head (-īngz-hēd'), Raphael. Died c. 1580. English historian. His volume Chronicles of England, Scotland, and Ireland (1577) was used extensively by Shakespeare as well as other Elizabethan dramatists as a source of historical information.

ho·lism (hō'liz'əm) n. 1. The theory that living matter or reality is made up of organic or unified wholes that are greater than the simple sum of their parts.

2. A holistic investigation or system of treatment. —ho'list n.

ho·lis·tic (hō-lis'tik) adj. 1. Of or relating to holism. 2. a. Emphasizing the importance of the whole and the interdependence of its parts. b. Concerned with wholes rather than analysis or separation into parts: holistic medicine; holistic ecology. —ho·lis'ti·cal·ly adv.

Hol·la·day (hōl'ə-dā') A community of north-central Utah, a suburb of Salt Lake City. Population, 22,189.

hol·land (hōl'ənd) n. A cotton or linen fabric, usually sized or glazed, that is used especially for window shades, bookbinding, and upholstery. [Middle English holand, after Holand (Holland), a former province of the Netherlands, from Middle Dutch.]

Hol·land (hōl'ənd) 1. A city of southwest Michigan southwest of Grand Rapids. Founded in 1847 by Dutch settlers, it is a manufacturing center and summer resort. Population, 30,745. 2. See Netherlands.

Hol·land (hōl'ənd), John Philip. 1840-1914. Irish-born American inventor and nautical pioneer. His submarine was the first purchased by the U.S. government (1900).

Hol·land (hōl'ənd), Sir Sidney George. 1893-1961. New Zealand politician who served as prime minister (1949-1957).

hol·lan·daise sauce (hōl'ən-dāz' sôz) n. A rich, creamy sauce made of butter, egg yolks, and lemon juice or vinegar. [From French (sauce) Hollandaise, Holland-style, from Hollande, Holland.]

hol·ler¹ (hōl'ər) v. hol·lered, hol·ler·ing, hol·lers. — v. intr. 1. To yell or shout. 2. Informal. To complain. — v. tr. To shout out (words or phrases). See Synonyms at shout. — n. 1. A yell or shout; a call. 2. Informal. A complaint or gripe. [From obsolete hollo, hail!, stop!]. See HELLO.]

hol·ler² (hōl'ər) adj. & v. Upper Southern U.S. a. Variant of hollow. — n. 1. Upper Southern U.S. Variant of hollow (n., senses 1, 2, and 3). 2. Appalachian Mountains. Variant of hollow (n., sense 4).

REGIONAL NOTE: One feature of Upper Southern English and specifically of Appalachian English is its pronunciation of the final unstressed syllable in words such as hollow, window, and potato as (-er). Holler, winder, and tater (immortalized as the name of the baby in Snuffy Smith) are merely variant pronunciations reflected in spelling. A noun holler has the specific meaning in the Appalachians of “a small valley between mountains”: They live up in the holler underneath Big Bald Mountain.

Hol·ler·ith (hɒl'ə-rɪθ'), Herman. 1860-1929. American inventor who created a system of recording and retrieving information on punched cards (1880) and founded the company that became IBM (1924).

Hollerith card (hɒl'ə-rɪθ' kɑrd) n. Computer Science. See punch card.

[After Herman HOLLERITH.]

Hollerith code (hɒl'ə-rɪθ' kōd) n. Computer Science. A code used for recording alphanumeric information on punch cards. [After Herman HOLLERITH.]

Hol·ley (hɒl'ē), Marietta. 1836-1926. American writer whose satires popularized many feminist concerns. Her works include My Opinions and Betsy Bobbet's (1873) and Josiah Allen on the Woman Question (1914).

Hol·ley (hɒl'ē), Robert William. Born 1922. American biochemist. He shared a 1968 Nobel Prize for the study of genetic codes.

Hol·li·day (hɒl'ɪ-dā'), Judith Tuvim. Known as "Judy." 1922-1965. American comedian best remembered for her performance in the play (1946-1950) and film (1950) Born Yesterday.

Hol·lings·head (hɒl'ɪŋz-hɛd'), Raphael. See Raphael Holinshed.

hol·low (hɒl'ō) adj. hol·low·er, hol·low·est. 1. Having a cavity, gap, or space within: a hollow wall. 2. Deeply indented or concave; sunken: "His bearded face already has a set, hollow look" (Conor Cruise O'Brien). 3. Without substance or character: a hollow person. See Synonyms at vain. 4. Devoid of truth or validity; specious: "Theirs is at best a hollow form of flattery" (Annalyn Swan). 5. Having a reverberating, sepulchral sound: hollow footsteps. — n. 1. A cavity, gap, or space: a hollow behind a wall. 2. An indented or concave surface or area. See Synonyms at hole. 3. A void; an emptiness: a hollow in one's life. 4. Also hol·ler (hɒl'ər). Appalachian Mountains. A small valley between mountains.

— v. hol·lowed, hol·low·ing, hol·lows. — v. tr. 1. To make hollow: hollow out a pumpkin. 2. To scoop or form by making concave: hollow out a nest in the sand. — v. intr. To become hollow or empty. [Middle English holwe, holowe, from holgh, hole, burrow (influenced by hole, hollow), from Old English holh. See kel¹ in Appendix.] — hol'low·ly adv. — hol'low·ness n.

hol·low·ware (hɒl'ō-wâr') n. Pieces of tableware, such as bowls, pitchers, or serving dishes, that have depth or volume.

hol·ly (hɒl'ē) n. pl. hol·lies. 1. a. Any of numerous trees or shrubs of the genus Ilex, usually having bright red berries and glossy, evergreen leaves with spiny margins. b. Branches of these plants, traditionally used for Christmas decoration. 2. Any of various similar or related plants. [Middle English holin, holi, from Old English holen.]

hol·ly·hock (hɒl'ē-hɒk') n. A tall plant (Alcea rosea) native to the Middle East and widely cultivated for its showy clusters of very large, variously colored flowers. Also called althea [Middle English holihocke, marsh mallow : holi, holy; see HOLY + hoc, mallow (from Old English).]

holly oak (hɒl'ē ōk) n. See holm oak.

Hol-ly-wood¹ (hɒl'ē-wōd') 1. A district of Los Angeles, California. Consolidated with Los Angeles in 1910, it has long been a film and entertainment center. 2. A city of southeast Florida on the Atlantic Ocean north of Miami Beach. It is a resort and retirement community with varied light industries. Population, 121,697.

Hol-ly-wood² (hɒl'ē-wōd') n. 1. The U.S. film industry. 2. A flashy, vulgar atmosphere or tone, held to be associated with the U.S. film industry. — adj. 1. Of or relating to the U.S. film industry: a Hollywood movie; a Hollywood producer. 2. Flashy and vulgar: their clothes were pure Hollywood. [After Hollywood¹, California.]

hol-ly-wood bed (hɒl'ē-wōd' bɛd) n. A mattress on a box spring supported by a metal frame or attached low legs, often with an upholstered headboard.

holm (hōm, hōlm) n. Chiefly British. An island in a river. [Middle English, from Old Norse hōlmr. See kel-² in Appendix.]

Holmes (hōmz, hōlmz), Oliver Wendell. 1809-1894. American physician and writer. A professor of anatomy and physiology at Harvard (1847-1882), he wrote humorous conversational pieces, including The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table (1858).

Holmes (hōmz, hōlmz), Oliver Wendell, Jr. 1841-1935. American jurist who served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1902-1932). Many of his opinions greatly influenced the American concept of law.

hol-mic (hɒl'mɪk) adj. Relating to holmium in its trivalent state.

hol-mi-um (hɒl'mē-əm) n. Symbol Ho A relatively soft, malleable, stable rare-earth element occurring in gadolinite, monazite, and other rare-earth minerals. Atomic number 67; atomic weight 164.930; melting point 1,461°C; boiling point 2,600°C; specific gravity 8.803; valence 3. [After Holmia (Stockholm), Sweden.]

holm oak (hōm ōk) n. A Mediterranean evergreen tree (Quercus ilex) having entire or toothed leaves with a dark green upper surface and a yellowish or white lower surface. Also called holly oak [Middle English holm, alteration of holin, holly. See HOLLY.]

holo- or hol- pref. Whole; entire; entirely: holoblastic. [Greek, from holos, whole. See sol- in Appendix.]

hol-o-blas-tic (hɒl'ə-blās'tɪk, hɒ'lə-) adj. Embryology. Exhibiting cleavage in which the entire egg separates into individual blastomeres.
—hol'o-blas'ti-cal-ly adv.

hol-o-caust (hɒl'ə-kôst', hɒ'lə-) n. 1. Great or total destruction, especially by fire. 2. a. Widespread destruction. b. A great disaster. 3. a. Holocaust. The genocide of European Jews and others by the Nazis during World War II: "Israel emerged from the Holocaust and is defined in relation to that catastrophe" (Emanuel Litvinoff). b. A massive slaughter: "an important document in the so-far sketchy annals of the Cambodian holocaust” (Rod Nordland). 4. A sacrificial offering that is consumed entirely by flames. [Middle English, burnt offering, from Old French holocauste, from Latin holocaustum, from Greek holokauston, from neuter of holokaustos, burnt whole : holo-, holo- + kaustos, burnt (from kaiein, to burn).] —hol’o-caus’tal, hol’o-caus’tic adj.

USAGE NOTE: When referring to the massive destruction of human beings by other human beings, holocaust has a secure place in the language. Fully 99 percent of the Usage Panel accepts the use of holocaust in the phrase nuclear holocaust. Sixty percent accepts the sentence As many as two million people may have died in the holocaust that followed the Khmer Rouge takeover in Cambodia. But because of its associations with genocide, extended applications of holocaust may not always be received with equanimity. When the word is used to refer to death brought about by natural causes, the percentage of the Panel’s acceptance drops sharply. Only 31 percent of the Panel accepts the sentence In East Africa five years of drought have brought about a holocaust in which millions have died. Just 11 percent approved the use of holocaust to summarize the effects of the AIDS epidemic. This suggests that other figurative usages such as the huge losses in the Savings and Loan holocaust may be viewed as overblown or in poor taste.

WORD HISTORY: Totality of destruction has been central to the meaning of holocaust since it first appeared in Middle English in the 14th century and referred to the biblical sacrifice in which a male animal was wholly burnt on the altar in worship of God. Holocaust comes from Greek holokauston (“that which is completely burnt”), which was a translation of Hebrew ôlâ (literally “that which goes up,” that is, in smoke). In this sense of “burnt sacrifice,” holocaust is still used in some versions of the Bible. In the 17th century the meaning of holocaust broadened to “something totally consumed by fire,” and the word eventually was applied to fires of extreme destructiveness. In the 20th century holocaust has taken on a variety of figurative meanings, summarizing the effects of war, rioting, storms, epidemic diseases, and even economic failures. Most of these usages arose after World War II, but it is unclear whether they permitted or resulted from the use of holocaust in reference to the mass murder of European Jews and others by the Nazis. This application of the word occurred as early as 1942, but the phrase the Holocaust did not become established until the late 1950’s. Here it parallels and may have been influenced by another Hebrew word, sho’ah (“catastrophe”). In the Bible sho’ah has a range of meanings including “personal ruin or devastation” and “a wasteland or desert.” Sho’ah was first used to refer to the Nazi slaughter of Jews in 1939, but its phrase ha-sho’ah (“the catastrophe”) only became established after World War II. Holocaust has also been used to translate hurban (“destruction”), another Hebrew word used to summarize the genocide of Jews by the Nazis. This sense of holocaust has since broadened to include the mass slaughter of other peoples, but when capitalized it refers specifically to the destruction of Jews and other Europeans by the Nazis and may also encompass the Nazi persecution of Jews that preceded the outbreak of the war.

Hol·o·cene (hۆl'ə-sēn', hۆ'lə-) adj. Of, belonging to, or designating the geologic time, rock series, or sedimentary deposits of the more recent of the two epochs of the Quaternary Period, extending from the end of the Pleistocene Epoch to the present. — n. The Holocene Epoch or its system of deposits.

hol·o·crine (hۆl'ə-krīn, -krīn', -krēn', hۆ'lə-) adj. Of or relating to a gland whose output consists of disintegrated secretory cells along with the secretory product itself. [HOLO- + Greek krinein, to separate; see ENDOCRINE.]

hol·o·en·zyme (hۆl'ō-ēn'zīm', hۆ'lō-) n. An active, complex enzyme consisting of an apoenzyme and a coenzyme.

ho·log·a·mous (hə-lۆg'ə-məs) adj. Of or relating to an organism whose germ cells morphologically resemble its somatic cells.

hol·o·gram (hۆl'ə-grām', hۆ'lə-) n. 1. The pattern produced on a photosensitive medium that has been exposed by holography and then photographically developed. 2. The photosensitive medium so exposed and so developed. Also called holograph hol·o·graph (hۆl'ə-gräf', hۆ'lə-) n. 1. A document written wholly in the handwriting of the person whose signature it bears. 2. See hologram. — adj. Variant of holographic (adj., sense 2). [From Late Latin holographus, entirely written by the signer, from Greek holographos : holo-, holo- + -graphos, -graph.]

hol·o·graph·ic (hۆl'ə-gräf'ik, hۆ'lə-) also hol·o·graph·i·cal (-i-kəl) adj.

1. Of or relating to holography or holograms. 2. Also hol·o·graph (hۆl'ə-gräf, hۆ'lə-). Of or being a document written wholly in the handwriting of the person whose signature it bears: a holographic will. — ho'lo·graph'i·cal·ly adv.

ho·log·raph·y (hۆ-lۆg'rə-fē) n. A method of producing a three-dimensional image of an object by recording on a photographic plate or film the pattern of interference formed by a split laser beam and then illuminating the pattern either with a laser or with ordinary light.

hol·o·gyn·ic (hۆl'ə-jīn'ik, -gī'nīk, hۆ'lə-) adj. Passing to successive generations only in females: a hologynic hereditary trait.

hol·o·he·dral (hۆl'ə-hē'drəl, hۆ'lə-) adj. Having as many planes as required for complete symmetry in a given crystal system.

hol·o·me·tab·o·lism (hۆl'ō-mə-tăb'ə-liz'əm, hۆ'lō-) n. See complete metamorphosis. — hol'ō·me·tab'ō·lous adj.

Ho·lon (hۆ-lۆn', KHō-lۆn') A city of west-central Israel near Tel Aviv-Jaffa. It was established in 1941. Population, 137,800.

hol·o·phas·tic (hōl'ə-frās'tĭk, hō'lə-) adj. Polysynthetic. [HOLO- + Greek phrastikos, expressive (from -phrastos, speakable, thought of, from phrazein, to show); see g^{wh}hren- in Appendix.]

hol·o·plank·ton (hōl'ə-plāngk'tən, hō'lə-) n. Plankton that remains free-swimming through all stages of its life cycle.

hol·o·thu·ri·an (hōl'ə-thōōr'ē-ən, -thyōōr'-, hō'lə-) n. Any of various echinoderms of the class Holothuroidea, which includes the sea cucumbers. [From Latin holothūria, water polyp, from Greek holothourion.] —hol·o·thu·ri·an adj.

hol·o·type (hōl'ə-tĭp', hō'lə-) n. The specimen used as the basis of the original published description of a taxonomic group and later designated as the type specimen. —hol·o·typ'ic (-tĭp'ĭk) adj.

hol·o·zo·ic (hōl'ə-zō'ĭk, hō'lə-) adj. Obtaining nourishment by the ingestion of organic material, as animals do.

holp (hōlp) v. Archaic. A past tense of help.

hol·pen (hōl'pən) v. Archaic. A past participle of help.

Hol·stein¹ (hōl'stĭn', -stĕn') A region and former duchy of northern Germany at the base of the Jutland Peninsula. It became a duchy under the suzerainty of the Holy Roman Empire in 1474 and was often controlled by Denmark in the years that followed.

Hol·stein² (hōl'stĭn', -stĕn') n. Any of a breed of large black and white dairy cattle originally developed in Friesland. [After Holstein¹.]

Hol·stein·Frie·sian (hōl'stĭn-frĕzhən, -stĕn-) n. A Holstein.

hol·ster (hōl'stər) n. 1. A leather case shaped to hold a pistol. 2. A belt with loops or slots for carrying small tools or other equipment. — v. tr. hol·stered, hol·ster·ing, hol·sters. To put (a gun, for example) in a holster. [Probably Dutch, alteration of holfter, hulfter, from Middle High German hulffter, case, sheath, quiver, covering, from hulft, from Old High German. See kel-¹ in Appendix.] —hol·stered adj.

Hol·ston (hōl'stən) A river, about 225 km (140 mi) long, rising in two forks in western Virginia and northeast Tennessee and flowing southwest to join the French Broad River and form the Tennessee River at Knoxville.

holt (hōlt) n. Archaic. A wood or grove; a copse. [Middle English, from Old English.]

Holt (hōlt), Winifred. 1870-1945. American sculptor and philanthropist who founded the first Lighthouse for the Blind in New York City (1913), which served as a model for other Lighthouses around the world.

ho·ly (hō'lē) adj. ho·li·er, ho·li·est. 1. Belonging to, derived from, or associated with a divine power; sacred. 2. Regarded with or worthy of worship or veneration; revered: a holy book. 3. Living according to a strict or highly moral religious or spiritual system; saintly: a holy person. 4. Specified or set apart for a religious purpose: a holy place. 5. Solemnly undertaken; sacrosanct: a holy pledge. 6. Regarded or deserving special respect or reverence: The pursuit of peace is our holiest quest. 7. Informal. Used as an intensive: raised holy hell over the mischief their children did. [Middle English holi, from Old English hālig. See kailo- in Appendix.] —ho'/li-ly adv. —ho'/li-ness n.

Ho-ly Ark (hō'lē ärk) n. Judaism. The cabinet in a synagogue in which the scrolls of the Torah are kept.

Holy Communion (hō'lē kə-myōon'yən) n. Abbr. H.C. The sacrament of the Eucharist received by a congregation.

Holy Cross (hō'lē krōs', krōs'), Mount of the. A peak, 4,271.5 m (14,005 ft) high, in the Sawatch Range of the Rocky Mountains in west-central Colorado.

holy day also ho-ly-day (hō'lē-dā') n. A day specified for religious observance.

holy day of obligation also holyday of obligation (hō'lē dā ÷v öb'li-gā'shən) n. pl. holy days of obligation also holydays of obligation.

Roman Catholic Church. A feast on which the faithful are obliged to hear Mass and abstain from servile work.

Holy Father (hō'lē fä'thər) n. Roman Catholic Church. Used as a title and form of address for the pope.

Holy Ghost (hō'lē göst) n. The Holy Spirit. [Middle English holi gost, holy spirit, from Old English hālig gāst (translation of Latin spīritus sanctus): hālig, holy; see HOLY + gāst, spirit.]

Holy Grail (hō'lē grāl) n. See grail (n., sense 1).

Holy In-no-cents' Day (hō'lē in'ə-sənts dā) n. Ecclesiastical. December 28, observed in commemoration of the slaughter of male infants in Bethlehem during Herod the Great's attempt to kill the infant Jesus.

Holy Island (hō'lē ī'lənd) or Lin-dis-farne (līn'dis-färn') An island off the coast of northeast England near the Scottish border. At low tide the island is connected with the mainland by a stretch of sand. Saint Aidan (died 651) established Celtic Christianity in England by founding a monastery here in 635. Danes destroyed the settlement in 793.

Holy Land (hō'lē länd) The biblical region of Palestine.

Hol-yoake (hōl'yök', hō'lē-ök'), Keith Jacka. Born 1904. New Zealand political leader who served as prime minister (1957 and 1960-1972) and governor-general (1977-1980).

Holy Office (hō'lē ô'fis) n. Roman Catholic Church. A Roman congregation of the Curia that deals with protection of the faith and morals.

holy of holies (hō'lē ÷v hō'lēz) n. 1. Judaism. The sanctuary inside the tabernacle in the Temple of Jerusalem, in which the Ark of the Covenant was kept.

2. Eastern Orthodox Church. The bema or sanctuary in a church. 3. A place of awe. [Translation of Late Latin sanctum sanctōrum (ultimately translation of holy oil (hō'lē oil) n. Ecclesiastical. 1. See chrism (n., sense 1). 2. Olive oil blessed by a bishop and used to anoint the sick and in sacramentals.

Hebrew qōdeš haqqodāšîm) : sanctum, holy + sanctōrum, neuter genitive pl. of sanctus, holy.]

Hol-yoke (hōl'yōk') A city of southwest Massachusetts on the Connecticut River north of Springfield. Settled in 1745, it is a manufacturing center specializing in paper products. Population, 43,704.

holy order also Holy Order (hō'lē ôr'dər) n. Ecclesiastical. 1. The sacrament or rite of ordination. Often used in the plural. 2. The rank of an ordained Christian minister or priest. Often used in the plural. 3. A principal order of the clergy, especially the rank of bishop, priest, and deacon, in the Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox, and Anglican churches. In this sense, also called major order

Holy Roller (hō'lē rō'lər) n. Offensive. Used as a disparaging term for a member of any of various religious denominations in which spiritual fervor is expressed by shouts and violent body movements.

Holy Ro-man Empire (hō'lē rō'mən ěm'pîr') Abbr. H.R.E. A loosely federated European political entity that began with the papal coronation of the German king Otto I as the first emperor in 962 and lasted until Francis II's renunciation of the title at the instigation of Napoleon in 1806. The empire was troubled from the beginning by papal-secular squabbles over authority and after the 13th century by the rising ambitions of nationalistic states in Europe. By 1273 the empire consisted primarily of the Hapsburg domains in Austria and Spain.

Holy Saturday (hō'lē sāt'ər-dē) n. The Saturday before Easter.

Holy Scripture (hō'lē skrîp'chər) n. See scripture (n., sense 2).

Holy See (hō'lē sē) n. Roman Catholic Church. 1. The see of the bishop of Rome. 2. The authority, jurisdiction, and governmental functions associated with the papacy.

Holy Spirit (hō'lē spîr'it) n. The third person of the Christian Trinity.

ho-ly-stone (hō'lē-stōn') n. A piece of soft sandstone used for scouring the wooden decks of a ship. — v. tr. ho-ly-stoned, ho-ly-ston-ing, ho-ly-stones. To scrub or scour with a piece of soft sandstone. [Origin unknown.]

Holy Synod (hō'lē sîn'əd) n. The governing body of any of the Eastern Orthodox churches.

Holy Thursday (hō'lē thûrz'dē) n. 1. See Maundy Thursday. 2. See Ascension Day.

holy war also Holy War (hō'lē wôr) n. A war declared or fought for a religious or high moral purpose, as to extend or defend a religion.

holy water (hō'lē wô'tər) n. Water blessed by a priest and used for religious purposes.

Holy Week (hō'lē wēk) n. The week before Easter.

holy writ (hō'lē rit) n. 1. Often Holy Writ. The Bible. 2. Informal. A document held to be the most authoritative of its kind.

hom- pref. Variant of homo-.

hom-age (hōm'ij, ōm'-) n. 1. Ceremonial acknowledgment by a vassal of allegiance to his lord under feudal law. 2. Special honor or respect shown or expressed publicly. See Synonyms at honor. [Middle English, from Old French, probably from omne, homme, man, from Latin homō, homin-. See dhghem- in Appendix.]

hom-bre¹ (ōm'brā', -brē) n. Slang. A man; a fellow. [Spanish, from Old Spanish omne, from Latin homō, homin-. See dhghem- in Appendix.]

hom-bre² (hōm'bər, ōm'-) n. Games. Variant of ombre.

Hom-burg also hom-burg (hōm'bûrg') n. A man's felt hat having a soft, dented crown and a shallow, slightly rolled brim. [After (Bad) Homburg.]

home (hōm) n. 1. A place where one lives; a residence. 2. The physical structure within which one lives, such as a house or an apartment. 3. A dwelling place together with the family or social unit that occupies it; a household. 4. a. An environment offering security and happiness. b. A valued place regarded as a refuge or place of origin. 5. The place, such as a country or town, where one was born or has lived for a long period. 6. The native habitat, as of a plant or animal. 7. The place where something is discovered, founded, developed, or promoted; a source. 8. A headquarters; a home base. 9. a. Baseball. Home plate. b. Games. Home base. 10. An institution where people are cared for: a home for the elderly. 11. Computer Science. The starting position of the cursor on a computer screen, usually in the upper left corner of the screen. — adj. 1. a. Of or relating to a home, especially to one's household or house: home cooking; home furnishings. b. Taking place in the home: home care for the elderly. 2. Of, relating to, or being a place of origin or headquarters: the home office. 3. Sports. Relating to a team's sponsoring institution or to the place where it is franchised: a home game; the home field advantage. 4. Of, relating to, or being the keys used as base positions for the fingers in touch-typing: The home row on a standard keyboard consists of the keys for A, S, D, F, J, K, L, and; — adv. 1. At, to, or toward the direction of home: going home for lunch. 2. On or into the point at which something is directed: The arrow struck home. 3. To the center or heart of something; deeply: Your comments really hit home. — v. hom-ed, hom-ing, homes. — v. intr. 1. To go or return to one's residence or base of operations. 2. To be guided to a target automatically, as by means of radio waves. 3. To move or lead toward a goal: The investigators were homing in on the truth. — v. tr. To guide (a missile or an aircraft) to a target automatically. — idioms. at home. 1. Available to receive visitors: at home on Thursdays. 2. Comfortable and relaxed; at ease: at home in diplomatic circles. 3. Feeling an easy competence and familiarity: at home in French. home free. Free of tension or stress, usually after expending considerable effort: met the schedule and was home free. [Middle English, from Old English hām. See tkei- in Appendix.]

home base (hōm bās) n. 1. a. Games. An objective toward which players of certain games, such as backgammon, progress. b. Baseball. Home plate. 2. A base of operations; a headquarters.

home·bod·y (hōm'bö'd'ē) n. pl. home·bod·ies. One whose interests center on the home.

home·bound¹ (hōm'bound') adj. Heading homeward. [HOME + BOUND⁴.]

home·bound² (hōm'bound') adj. Restricted or confined to home: home-bound invalids. [HOME + BOUND³.]

home·boy (hōm'boi') n. Slang. 1. A male friend or acquaintance from one's hometown or neighborhood. 2. A fellow gang member.

home·bred (hōm'brēd') adj. Raised, bred, or reared at home; domestic.

home·brew (hōm'brōō') n. An alcoholic beverage, especially beer, that is made at home. —home'·brewed' adj.

home·build·er (hōm'bīl'dər) n. 1. One, such as a person or firm, whose business is the construction of dwellings. 2. One who builds one's own home. —home'build'ing n.

home·buy·er (hōm'bī'ər) n. One who purchases or expects to purchase a home.

home·com·ing (hōm'kūm'ing) n. 1. A coming to or returning home. 2. An annual event at schools, colleges, and universities for visiting graduates.

home computer (hōm kəm-pyōō'tər) n. Computer Science. A microcomputer intended for use in the home.

home economics (hōm ěk'ə-nōm'iks) n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). The science and art of home management. Also called household arts —home economist n.

home front (hōm frünt) n. The civilian population or the civilian activities of a country at war.

home fry (hōm frī) n. A potato that has been peeled, boiled, sliced, and then fried in butter, oil, or shortening. Often used in the plural.

home ground (hōm ground) n. 1. One's familiar surroundings or habitat. 2. An area of special strength or competence: a company that never expected to be challenged on its home ground of software development.

home·grown (hōm'grōn') adj. 1. Raised or grown at home. 2. Originating in or characteristic of a locality: "Rock is homegrown music in the United States, evolved from blues and country and Tin Pan Alley" (Jon Pareles).

home guard (hōm gārd) n. A volunteer force formed to defend a homeland while the regular army is fighting elsewhere.

home·help·er (hōm'hěl'pər) n. One who aids a patient requiring long-term care in the private residence rather than in a hospital or nursing home.

home invasion (hōm ĩn-vā'zhən) n. Burglary of a dwelling while the residents are at home.

home-land (hōm'länd') n. 1. One's native land. 2. A state, region, or territory that is closely identified with a particular people or ethnic group. 3. Any of the ten regions designated by South Africa as semiautonomous territorial states for the Black population.

home-less (hōm'līs) adj. Having no home or haven. — n. (used with a pl. verb). People without homes considered as a group. Often used with the.

home-ly (hōm'lē) adj. home-li-er, home-li-est. 1. Not attractive or good-looking: a homely child. 2. Lacking elegance or refinement: homely furniture. 3. Of a simple or unpretentious nature; plain: homely truths. 4. Characteristic of the home or of home life: homely skills. —home/li-ness n.

home-made (hōm'mād') adj. 1. Made or prepared in the home: homemade pie. 2. Made by oneself. 3. Crudely or simply made.

home-mak-er (hōm'mā'kər) n. One who manages a household. —home/mak'ing n.

homeo- or homoio- pref. Like; similar: homeostasis. [Greek homoio-, from homoios, from homos, same. See sem-¹ in Appendix.]

ho-me-o-mor-phism (hō'mē-ə-môr'fĭz'əm) n. 1. Chemistry. A close similarity in the crystal forms of unlike compounds. 2. Mathematics. A one-to-one correspondence between the points of two geometric figures that is continuous in both directions. —ho/me-o-mor'phous adj.

ho-me-op-a-thy (hō'mē-öp'ə-thē) n. pl. ho-me-op-a-thies. A system for treating disease based on the administration of minute doses of a drug that in massive amounts produces symptoms in healthy individuals similar to those of the disease itself. —ho/me-o-path' (-ə-păth'), ho/me-op'a-thist n. —ho/me-o-path'ic adj. —ho/me-o-path'i-cal-ly adv.

ho-me-o-sta-sis (hō'mē-ō-stā'sĭs) n. The ability or tendency of an organism or a cell to maintain internal equilibrium by adjusting its physiological processes. —ho/me-o-stat'ic (-stăt'ĭk) adj.

ho-me-o-therm (hō'mē-ə-thûrm') also ho-moi-o-therm (hō-moi'ə-) n. An organism, such as a mammal or bird, having a body temperature that is constant and largely independent of the temperature of its surroundings; an endotherm.

ho-me-o-ther-mal (hō'mē-ə-thûr'məl) also ho-moi-o-ther-mal (hō-moi'ə-) adj. Homeothermic.

ho-me-o-ther-mic (hō'mē-ə-thûr'mĭk) also ho-moi-o-ther-mic (hō-moi'ə-) adj. Maintaining a relatively constant body temperature that is independent of the temperature of the surrounding environment.

ho-me-o-ther-mous (hō'mē-ə-thûr'məs) also ho-moi-o-ther-mous (hō-moi'ə-) adj. Homeothermic.

home·own·er (hōm'ō'nər) n. One who owns a home.

—home'own'er·ship' n.

home page (hōm pāj) n. Computer Science. The file available for access at a World Wide Web site intended chiefly to greet visitors, provide information about the site, and direct them to other sites with more related information.

home plate (hōm plāt) n. Baseball. A base, usually consisting of a hard rubber slab, at one of the corners of a diamond at which a batter stands when hitting and which a base runner must finally touch in order to score.

home port also home·port (hōm'pōrt', -pōrt') n. 1. The port in which a vessel is registered or permanently based. 2. The port from which a merchant vessel primarily operates, regardless of its registry. — v. tr. home·port·ed, home·port·ing, home·ports. To base (a ship) permanently in a given port.

hom·er¹ (hō'mər) n. 1. Baseball. A home run. 2. A homing pigeon. — v. intr. hom·er·ed, hom·er·ing, hom·ers. Baseball. To hit a home run: homered in the fifth inning.

ho·mer² (hō'mər) n. A unit of capacity used by the ancient Hebrews, equal to 10 ephahs (about 10 bushels) or 10 baths (about 100 gallons). Also called kor [Hebrew hōmer.]

Ho·mer (hō'mər), fl. 850 B.C. Greek epic poet. Two of the greatest works in Western literature, the Iliad and the Odyssey, are attributed to him.

Ho·mer (hō'mər), Winslow. 1836-1910. American painter known for his realistic seascapes, such as Eight Bells (1886).

home range (hōm rānj) n. The geographic area to which an organism normally confines its activity.

Ho·mer·ic (hō-mēr'ik) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of Homer, his works, or the legends and age of which he wrote. 2. Heroic in proportion, degree, or character; epic. —Ho·mer'i·cal·ly adv.

Homeric simile (hō-mēr'ik sīm'ə-lē) n. See epic simile.

home·room (hōm'rōom', -rōom') n. A school classroom to which a group of pupils of the same grade are required to report each day.

home rule (hōm rōol) n. Abbr. H.R. The principle or practice of self-government in the internal affairs of a dependent country or other political unit.

home run (hōm rün) n. Abbr. h.r. Baseball. A hit that allows the batter to make a complete circuit of the diamond and score a run.

home·sick (hōm'sik') adj. Acutely longing for one's family or home. —home'sick'ness n.

home·spun (hōm'spün') adj. 1. Spun or woven in the home: homespun linen. 2. Made of a homespun fabric: a homespun tablecloth. 3. Simple and homely; unpretentious: "Most small towns would have gladly forfeited some of their homespun values if it meant luring a firm there" (William Mueller). — n. 1. A plain, coarse, usually woolen cloth made of homespun yarn. 2. A similar sturdy fabric made on a power loom.

home stand (hōm stānd) n. Sports. A succession of games played especially by a baseball team at the team's home field or court.

home-stead (hōm/'stēd') n. 1. A house, especially a farmhouse, with adjoining buildings and land. 2. Law. Property designated by a householder as the householder's home and protected by law from forced sale to meet debts.

3. Land claimed by a settler or squatter, especially under the Homestead Act.

4. The place where one's home is. — v. home-stead-ed, home-stead-ing, home-steads. — v. intr. To settle and farm land, especially under the Homestead Act. — v. tr. To claim and settle (land) as a homestead.

—home/'stead'er n.

Home-stead (hōm/'stēd') A city of southeast Florida southwest of Miami. It is a trade center for a citrus-growing area. Population, 26,866.

Homestead Act (hōm/'stēd' äkt) n. An act passed by Congress in 1862 promising ownership of a 160-acre tract of public land to a citizen or head of a family who had resided on and cultivated the land for five years after the initial claim.

homestead law (hōm/'stēd' lô) n. Any of several laws passed in most states exempting a householder's homestead from attachment or forced sale to meet general debts.

home-stretch (hōm/'strēch') n. 1. Sports. The portion of a racetrack from the last turn to the finish line. 2. Informal. The final stages of an undertaking.

home study (hōm stüd/'ē) n. A course of study in which instruction is offered at home, usually by mail.

home-style (hōm/'stīl') adj. Prepared or served as if in the home: a restaurant serving authentic home-style dishes. —home/'style' adv.

home-town (hōm/'toun') n. The town or city of one's birth, rearing, or main residence.

home truth (hōm trōōth) n. A key or basic truth, especially one that is discomforting to acknowledge.

home video (hōm vīd/'ē-ō') n. Videotapes for viewing in the home.

home-ward (hōm/'wərd) adv. & adj. Toward or at home. —home/'wards (-wərdz) adv.

Home-wood (hōm/'wōōd') 1. A city of central Alabama, a residential suburb of Birmingham. Population, 22,922. 2. A village of northeast Illinois, a manufacturing and residential suburb of Chicago. Population, 19,278.

home-work (hōm/'wûrk') n. 1. Work, such as schoolwork or piecework, that is done at home. 2. Preparatory or preliminary work: did their homework before coming to the meeting.

hom-ey also hom-y (hō/'mē) adj. hom-i-er, hom-i-est. Informal. Having a feeling of home; comfortable; cozy. —hom/'ey-ness n.

hom·i·cid·al (hŏm'ī-sīd'əl, hō'mī-) adj. 1. Of or relating to homicide.

2. Capable of or conducive to homicide: a homicidal rage. —hom'·i·cid'al·ly adv.

hom·i·cide (hŏm'ī-sīd', hō'mī-) n. 1. The killing of one person by another.

2. A person who kills another person. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin homicīdium, and homicīda homō, man; see dhghem- in Appendix + -cīdiu-mand -cīda, -cide.] hom·i·let·ic (hŏm'ə-lēt'ik) also hom·i·let·i·cal (-ī-kəl) adj. 1. Relating to or of the nature of a homily. 2. Relating to homiletics. [Late Latin homilēticus, from Greek homilētikos, of conversation, from homilētos, conversation, from homilein, to converse with, from homilos, crowd. See HOMILY.] —hom'·i·let'·i·cal·ly adv.

hom·i·let·ics (hŏm'ə-lēt'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb.) The art of preaching.

hom·i·ly (hŏm'ə-lē) n. pl. hom·i·lies. 1. A sermon, especially one intended to edify a congregation on a practical matter and not intended to be a theological discourse. 2. A tedious moralizing lecture or admonition. [Middle English ome-lie, from Old French, from Late Latin homīlia, from Greek, discourse, from homilos, crowd. See sem-¹ in Appendix.] —hom'·i·list n.

hom·ing pigeon (hō'mɪŋ pɪj'ən) n. A pigeon trained to return to its home roost.

hom·i·nid (hŏm'ə-nīd) n. A primate of the family Hominidae, of which Homo sapiens is the only extant species. — adj. Of the Hominidae. [From New Latin Hominidae, family name, from Latin homō, homin-, man. See dhghem- in Appendix.]

hom·i·ni·za·tion (hŏm'ə-nī-zā'shən) n. The evolutionary process leading to the development of human characteristics that distinguish hominids from other primates. [Latin homō, homin-, man; see HOMO¹ + -IZATION.] hom·i·noid (hŏm'ə-noid') adj. 1. Of or belonging to the superfamily Hominoidea, which includes apes and human beings. 2. Resembling a human being. — n. A member of the Hominoidea. [From New Latin Hominoidea, superfamily name : Homō, Homin-, type genus (from Latin homō, man); see HOMO¹ + -oidea, resembling (from Greek -ooidēs, -oid.)] hom·i·ny (hŏm'ə-nē) n. Hulled and dried kernels of corn, prepared as food by boiling. [Short for Virginia Algonquian uskatahomen.] hominy grits (hŏm'ə-nē grīts) pl.n. Grits, especially eaten as a breakfast food. See Regional note at pone.

hom·mos (hŏm'əs, hŏm'-) n. Variant of hummus.

ho·mo¹ (hō'mō) n. A member of the genus Homo, which includes the extinct and extant species of human beings. [Latin homō, man. See dhghem- in Appendix.]

ho·mo² (hō'mō) n. pl. ho·mos. Offensive. Used as a disparaging term for a gay or homosexual person.

homo- or hom- pref. Same; like: homophone. [Greek, from homos, same. See sem¹ in Appendix.]

ho·mo·cen·tric (hō'mə-sĕn'trĭk, hŏm'ə-) adj. Having the same center.

ho·mo·cer·cal (hō'mə-sŭr'kəl, hŏm'ə-) adj. Relating to, designating, or characterized by a tail fin having two symmetrical lobes extending from the end of the vertebral column, as in most bony fishes. [HOMO- + Greek kerkos, tail + -AL¹.]

ho·mo·chro·mat·ic (hō'mə-krō-măt'ĭk, hŏm'ə-) adj. Of or characterized by one color; monochromatic. —ho'mo·chro'ma·tism (-krō'mə-tĭz'əm) n.

ho·moe·cious (hō-mē'shəs, hŏ-) adj. Of or being a parasite that spends all stages of its life cycle on the same host. [HOMO- + Greek oikia, house; see HETEROECIOUS + -OUS.]

Ho·mo e·rec·tus (hō'mō ĭ-rĕk'təs) n. An extinct species of human beings, regarded as an ancestor of Homo sapiens. [Latin homō, man + ērĕctus, upright.]

ho·mo·e·rot·ic (hō'mō-ĭ-rŏt'ĭk) adj. 1. Of or concerning homosexual love and desire; amatory. 2. Tending to arouse such sexual desire.

ho·mo·e·rot·i·cism (hō'mō-ĭ-rŏt'ĭ-sĭz'əm) also ho·mo·er·o·tism (-ĕr'ə-tĭz'əm) n. A homoerotic quality or theme.

ho·mo·ga·met·ic (hō'mō-gə-mĕt'ĭk) adj. Producing gametes that contain only one type of sex chromosome.

ho·mog·a·mous (hō-mŏg'ə-məs) adj. Botany. 1. Having one kind of flower on the same plant. 2. Having stamens and pistils that mature simultaneously.

ho·mo·ge·ne·i·ty (hō'mə-jə-nĕ'ĭ-tĕ, -nā'-, hŏm'ə-) n. pl.

ho·mo·ge·ne·i·ties. The state or quality of being homogeneous.

ho·mo·ge·ne·ous (hō'mə-jĕ'nĕ-əs, -jĕn'yəs) adj. 1. Of the same or similar nature or kind: “a tight-knit, homogeneous society” (James Fallows). 2. Uniform in structure or composition throughout. 3. Mathematics. Consisting of terms of the same degree or elements of the same dimension. [From Medieval Latin homogeneous, from Greek homogenēs: homo-, homo- + genos, kind; see HETEROGENEOUS.] —ho'mo·ge'ne·ous·ly adv. —ho'mo·ge'ne·ous·ness n.

ho·mog·e·nize (hə-mŏj'ə-nĭz', hŏ-) v. tr. ho·mog·e·nized, ho·mog·e·niz·ing, ho·mog·e·niz·es. 1. To make homogeneous. 2. a. To reduce to particles and disperse throughout a fluid. b. To make uniform in consistency, especially to render (milk) uniform in consistency by emulsifying the fat content. [From HOMOGENEOUS.] —ho·mog'e·ni·za'tion (-nĭ-zā'shən) n.

—ho·mog'e·niz'er n.

ho·mog·e·nous¹ (hə-mŏj'ə-nəs, hŏ-) adj. Biology. Of or exhibiting homogeneity.

ho·mog·e·nous² (hə-mŏj'ə-nəs, hŏ-) adj. Homogeneous. [Alteration of HOMOGENEOUS.]

ho·mog·e·ny (hə-mŏj'ə-nĕ, hŏ-) n. pl. ho·mog·e·nies. Similarity of structure between organs or parts, possibly of dissimilar function, that are related by common descent. [Greek homogenia, community of origin, from homogenēs, of the same race, family, kind. See HOMOGENEOUS.]

ho·mo·graft (hō'mə-gräft', hōm'ə-) n. See allograft.

hom·o·graph (hōm'ə-gräf', hō'mə-) n. One of two or more words that have the same spelling but differ in origin, meaning, and sometimes pronunciation. —hom'o-graph'ic adj.

Ho·mo hab·i·lis (hō'mō häb'ə-ləs) n. An extinct species of human beings considered to be an ancestor of modern human beings and the earliest hominid to make tools. This species existed between 1.5 and 2.0 million years ago. [Latin homō, man + Latin habilis, skillful.]

homoio- pref. Variant of homeo-.

ho·moi·o·therm (hō-moi'ə-thûrm') n. Variant of homeotherm.

ho·moi·o·ther·mal (hō-moi'ə-thûr'məl) adj. Variant of homeothermal.

ho·moi·o·ther·mic (hō-moi'ə-thûr'mik) adj. Variant of homeothermic.

ho·moi·o·ther·mous (hō-moi'ə-thûr'məs) adj. Variant of homeothermous.

Ho·moi·ou·si·an (hō'moi-ōō'sē-ən, -zē-) n. A member of the Semi-Arian party in the fourth century A.D. that held that Jesus the Son and God the Father were of similar but not of the same substance. [From Greek homoiousios, of similar substance : homoio-, homeo- + ousia, substance (from neuter present participle of einai, to be); see es- in Appendix.]

ho·mo·lec·i·thal (hō'mə-lēs'ə-thəl) adj. Having a yolk that is evenly distributed throughout: a homolecithal egg. [HOMO- + Greek lekithos, egg yolk + -AL¹.]

hom·o·log (hōm'ə-lôg', -lôg', hō'mə-) n. Variant of homologue.

ho·mol·o·gate (hə-mōl'ə-gāt', hō-) v. tr. ho·mol·o·gat·ed, ho·mol·o·gat·ing, ho·mol·o·gates. Scots. To approve, especially to confirm officially. [Medieval Latin homologāre, homologāt-, from Greek homologeîn, to agree, from homologos, agreeing. See HOMOLOGOUS.]

ho·mo·log·i·cal (hō'mə-lōj'i-kəl, hōm'ə-) also ho·mo·log·ic (-lōj'ik) adj. Homologous. —ho'mo-log'i-cal·ly adv.

ho·mol·o·gize (hə-mōl'ə-jīz', hō-) v. tr. ho·mol·o·gized, ho·mol·o·giz·ing, ho·mol·o·giz·es. 1. To make homologous. 2. To show to be homologous. —ho·mol'o·giz'er n.

ho·mol·o·gous (hə-mōl'ə-gəs, hō-) adj. 1. Corresponding or similar in position, value, structure, or function. 2. Biology. Similar in structure and evolutionary origin, though not necessarily in function, as the flippers of a seal and the hands of a human being. 3. Immunology. Relating to the correspondence between an antigen and the antibody produced in response to it. 4. Genetics. Having the same morphology and linear sequence of gene loci as another chromosome. 5. Chemistry. Belonging to or being a series of organic compounds each successive member of which differs from the preceding member by a constant increment, especially by an added CH₂ group. [From Greek homologos, agreeing : homo-, homo- + logos, word, proportion; see leg- in Appendix.]

hom·o·lo·graph·ic (hŏm'ə-lə-grăf'ik) adj. Maintaining the ratio of parts. [Greek homalos, even; see sem-¹ in Appendix + GRAPHIC.]

homolographic projection (hŏm'ə-lə-grăf'ik prə-jĕk'shən) n. A map projection reproducing the ratios of areas as they exist on the earth's surface.

hom·o·logue also hom·o·log (hŏm'ə-lŏg', -lŏg', hŏ'mə-) n. Something homologous; a homologous organ or part. [French, from Greek homologon, neuter of homologos, agreeing. See HOMOLOGOUS.]

ho·mol·o·gy (hə-mŏl'ə-jĕ, hŏ-) n. pl. ho·mol·o·gies. 1. The quality or condition of being homologous. 2. A homologous relationship or correspondence. 3. Chemistry. a. The relation of the elements of a periodic family or group. b. The relation of the organic compounds forming a homologous series. 4. Mathematics. A topologic classification of configurations into distinct types that imposes an algebraic structure or hierarchy on families of geometric figures. [Greek homologia, agreement, from homologos, agreeing. See HOMOLOGOUS.]

ho·mol·o·sine projection (hŏ-mŏl'ə-sin' prə-jĕk'shən, -sĭn, hə-) n. A map of the earth's surface laid out on the basis of sinusoidal curves, with the interruptions over ocean areas distorted so that the continents appear with minimal distortion. [HOMOLO(GRAPHIC) + SINE + PROJECTION.]

ho·mo·mor·phism (hŏ'mə-mŏr'fiz'əm, hŏm'ə-) n. 1. Biology. Similarity of external form or appearance but not of structure or origin. 2. Zoology. A resemblance in form between the immature and adult stages of an animal.

3. Mathematics. A transformation of one set into another that preserves in the second set the operations between the members of the first set.

—ho'mo·mor'phic, ho'mo·mor'phous adj.

hom·o·nym (hŏm'ə-nĭm', hŏ'mə-) n. 1. One of two or more words that have the same sound and often the same spelling but differ in meaning. 2. a. A word that is used to designate several different things. b. A namesake. 3. Biology. A taxonomic name that is identical to one previously applied to a different species or genus and that therefore is unacceptable in its new use. [Latin homōnymum, from Greek homōnumon, from neuter of homōnumos, homonymous. See HOMOONYMOUS.] —hom'·o·nym'ic adj.

ho·mon·y·mous (hŏ-mŏn'ə-məs, hə-) adj. 1. Having the same name. 2. Of the nature of a homonym; homonymic. [From Latin homōnymus, from Greek homōnumos : homo-, homo- + onuma, name; see nŏ-men- in Appendix.]

—ho·mon'y·mous·ly adv.

ho·mon·y·my (hŏ-mŏn'ə-mĕ, hə-) n. pl. ho·mon·y·mies. The quality or condition of being homonymous.

Ho·mo·ou·si·an (hŏ'mŏ-ŏŏ'sĕ-ən, -zĕ-) n. A Christian supporting the Council of Nicaea's Trinitarian definition of Jesus the Son of God as consubstantial with God the Father. [Late Latin homoūsiānus, from homoūsius, of same substance, from Greek homoousios : homo-, homo- + ousia, substance; see HOMOIΟΥSIAN.]

ho·mo·phile (hō'mə-fīl') adj. 1. Gay or homosexual. 2. Being actively concerned with the rights and welfare of gay or homosexual people.

—ho'mo·phile' n.

ho·mo·pho·bi·a (hō'mə-fō'bē-ə) n. 1. Aversion to gay or homosexual people or their lifestyle or culture. 2. Behavior or an act based on this aversion.

[HOMO(SEXUAL) + -PHOBIA.] —ho'mo·phobe' n. —ho'mo·pho'bic (-fō'bīk) adj.

hom·o·phone (hōm'ə-fōn', hō'mə-) n. One of two or more words, such as night and knight, that are pronounced the same but differ in meaning, origin, and sometimes spelling. —ho·moph'o·nous (hō-mōf'ə-nəs) adj.

hom·o·phon·ic (hōm'ə-fōn'īk, hō'mə-) adj. 1. Having the same sound. 2. Music. Having or characterized by a single melodic line with accompaniment. [From Greek homophōnos : homo-, homo- + phōnē, sound; see PHONE².]

ho·moph·o·ny (hō-mōf'ə-nē) n. pl. ho·moph·o·nies. 1. The quality or condition of being homophonic. 2. Music. Homophonic music.

ho·mo·phy·ly (hō'mə-fī'lē, hōm'ə-, hō-mōf'ə-lē) n. pl. ho·mo·phy·lies.

Zoology. Resemblance arising from common ancestry. [HOMO- + PHYL(UM) + -Y².] —ho'mo·phyl'ic (-fīl'īk) adj.

ho·mo·plas·tic (hō'mə-plās'tīk, hōm'ə-) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or exhibiting homoplasy. 2. Of, relating to, or derived from a different individual of the same species: a homoplastic graft. —ho'mo·plas'ti·cal·ly adv.

ho·mo·pla·sy (hō'mə-plā'sē, -plās'ē, hōm'ə-) n. Correspondence between parts or organs arising from evolutionary convergence.

ho·mop·ter·an (hō-mōp'tər-ən) n. A homopterous insect. — adj. Of or belonging to the order Homoptera; homopterous. [From New Latin Homoptera, order name : Greek homo-, homo- + Greek pteron, wing; see -PTER.]

ho·mop·ter·ous (hō-mōp'tər-əs) adj. Of or belonging to the order Homoptera, which includes the cicadas, aphids, and scale insects, characterized by sucking mouthparts. [From New Latin Homoptera, order name. See HOMOPTERAN.]

Ho·mo sa·pi·ens (hō'mō sā'pē-ənz, -ənz') n. The modern species of human beings, the only extant species of the primate family Hominidae. [New Latin Homō sapiēns, : Homō, genus name + Latin sapiēns, present participle of sapere, to be wise.]

ho·mo·sex·u·al (hō'mə-sĕk'shōō-əl, -mō-) adj. Of, relating to, or having a sexual orientation to persons of the same sex. — n. A homosexual person; a gay man or a lesbian.

ho·mo·sex·u·al·i·ty (hō'mə-sĕk'shōō-ăl'ĩ-tē, -mō-) n. 1. Sexual orientation to persons of the same sex. 2. Sexual activity with another of the same sex.

ho·mo·spo·rous (hō'mə-spôr'əs, -spôr'-, hōm'ə-, hō-mōs'pər-əs) adj. Botany. Producing spores of one kind only. —ho/mo-spo'ry n.

ho·mo·styled (hō'mō-stīld') adj. Botany. Having the same relation of length between stamens and styles of different species. —ho'mo-sty'lous adj.
—ho'mo-sty'ly n.

ho·mo·tax·is (hō'mō-tăk'sīs, hōm'ō-) n. Similarity of stratigraphic arrangement and fossils in noncontemporaneous or widely separated geologic deposits.
—ho'mo-tax'ic (-tăk'sĭk), ho'mo-tax'i·al (-tăk'sē-əl) adj.

ho·mo·thal·lic (hō'mō-thăl'ĭk, hōm'ō-) adj. Botany. Having male and female reproductive structures on the same thallus, as in some fungi and algae.

ho·mo·zy·go·sis (hō'mō-zī-gō'sīs, -mə-, hōm'ə-) n. The union of genetically identical gametes, resulting in the formation of a homozygote.
—ho'mo-zy-got'ic (-gōt'ĭk) adj.

ho·mo·zy·gote (hō'mō-zī'gōt', -mə-, hōm'ə-) n. Genetics. An organism that has the same alleles at a particular gene locus on homologous chromosomes.

ho·mo·zy·gous (hō'mō-zī'gəs, -mə-, hōm'ə-) adj. Genetics. Having the same alleles at a particular gene locus on homologous chromosomes.
—ho'mo-zy-gos'i·ty (-gōs'ĩ-tē) n. —ho'mo-zy'gous·ly adv.

Homs (hômz, hōms) A city of west-central Syria north of Damascus. Birthplace of the Roman emperor Heliogabalus, it was taken by the Arabs in 636. Egypt controlled the city from 1831 to 1840. Population, 346,871.

ho·mun·cu·lus (hō-mŭng'kyə-ləs, hə-) n. pl. ho·mun·cu·li (-lĭ'). 1. A diminutive human being. 2. A miniature, fully formed individual believed by adherents of the early biological theory of preformation to be present in the sperm cell. [Latin, diminutive of homō, man. See dhghem- in Appendix.]

hom·y (hō'mē) adj. Variant of homey.

Hon. abbr. 1. Honorable. 2. hon.. Honorary.

ho·nan also Ho·nan (hō'năn') n. A pongee fabric of even color made originally from silk produced by the silkworms of Henan (formerly Honan), China.

Honan See Henan.

hon·cho (hōn'chō) Slang. n. pl. hon·chos. One who is in charge; a manager or leader: "some of the big-name honchos... featured in the glossy... magazines" (New Yorker). — v. tr. hon·choed, hon·cho·ing, hon·chos. To direct and manage (personnel and projects): "He... is honchoing preparations for the forthcoming... economic summit" (Newsweek). [Japanese, squad leader : han, squad + chō, chief.]

Hon·du·ras (hōn-dōōr'əs, -dyōōr'-) Abbr. Hond. A country of northern Central America. Originally inhabited by a Mayan civilization, Honduras was colonized by the Spanish in the early 1500's and proclaimed its independence in 1821.

Tegucigalpa is the capital and the largest city. Population, 4,092,000.

—Hon·du'ran adj. & n.

Honduras, Gulf of. An inlet of the western Caribbean Sea bordering on Belize, Honduras, and Guatemala.

hone¹ (hōn) n. 1. A fine-grained whetstone for giving a keen edge to a cutting tool. 2. A tool with a rotating abrasive tip for enlarging holes to precise dimensions. — v. tr. honed, hon-ing, hones. 1. To sharpen on a fine-grained whetstone. 2. To perfect or make more intense or effective: a speaker who honed her delivery by long practice. [Middle English, from Old English hān, stone. See kō- in Appendix.]

hone² (hōn) v. intr. honed, hon-ing, hones. Informal. 1. To whine or moan. 2. To hanker; yearn. [Obsolete French hoigner, from Old French, perhaps from hon, cry of discontent.]

Hone (hōn), Philip. 1780-1851. American diarist and public official. His Diary (first published in 1889) gives a valuable account of New York City life and politics between 1828 and 1851.

Hon-eg-ger (hōn'ī-gər, hō'nĕg'ər, ô-nĕ-gĕr'), Arthur. 1892-1955. French-born Swiss composer. A proponent of the modern movement in French music, he is remembered for a number of compositions, including Pacific 231 (1923).

hon-est (ōn'ist) adj. 1. Marked by or displaying integrity; upright: an honest lawyer. 2. Not deceptive or fraudulent; genuine: honest weight. 3. Equitable; fair: honest wages for an honest day's work. 4. a. Characterized by truth; not false: honest reporting. b. Sincere; frank: an honest critique. 5. a. Of good repute; respectable. b. Without affectation; plain: honest folk. 6. Virtuous; chaste. [Middle English, from Old French honeste, from Latin honestus, honorable, from honōs, honor.]

honest broker (ōn'ist brō'kər) n. A neutral agent, as in mediation: "enhanced Canada's position as honest broker in the Commonwealth" (Kenneth McNaught).

hon-est-ly (ōn'ist-lē) adv. 1. In an honest manner. 2. Used as an intensive: I honestly don't care. — interj. Used to express mild disapproval or dismay: Honestly! Look at the mess you've made.

hon-es-ty (ōn'ī-stē) n. pl. hon-es-ties. 1. The quality or condition of being honest; integrity. 2. Truthfulness; sincerity: in all honesty. 3. Archaic. Chastity. 4. Botany. A European plant (Lunaria annua) cultivated for its fragrant purplish flowers and round, flat, papery, silver-white seedpods. In this sense, also called money plant, satin flower, silver dollar.

SYNONYMS: honesty, honor, integrity, probity, rectitude. These nouns denote the quality of being upright in principle and action. Honesty implies truthfulness, fairness in dealing with others, and refusal to engage in fraud, deceit, or dissembling: Honesty is the best policy. Honor implies principled uprightness of character and a worthy adherence to a strict moral or ethical code: “Never give in except to convictions of honor and good sense” (Winston S. Churchill). Integrity is moral soundness, especially as it is revealed in dealings that test steadfastness of purpose, responsibility, or trust: “Integrity without knowledge is weak and useless, and knowledge without integrity is dangerous and dreadful” (Samuel Johnson). Probity is proven integrity: A judge must be a person of unquestioned probity. Rectitude is moral righteousness both in principle and in practice: “The name of Brutus would be a guaranty to the people of rectitude of intention” (J.A. Froude).

hone-wort (hōn'wūrt', -wōrt') n. An eastern North American perennial plant (Cryptotaenia canadensis) having umbels of small whitish flowers and compound leaves with larger, double serrate leaflets. [hone-, of unknown meaning + WORT¹.]

hon-ey (hūn'ē) n. pl. hon-eyes. 1. Abbr. hny a. A sweet yellowish or brownish viscid fluid produced by various bees from the nectar of flowers and used as food. b. A similar substance made by certain other insects. 2. A sweet substance, such as nectar. 3. Sweetness; pleasantness. 4. Sugary or ingratiating words; flattery. 5. Informal. Sweetheart; dear. Used as a term of endearment. 6. Informal. Something remarkably fine: a honey of a car. — v. tr. hon-eyed or hon-ied (hūn'ēd), hon-ey-ing, hon-eyes. 1. To sweeten with or as if with honey. 2. To cajole with sweet talk. [Middle English honi, from Old English hunig.]

honey badger (hūn'ē bāj'ər) n. See ratel.

honey bear (hūn'ē bār) n. See kinkajou.

hon-ey-bee (hūn'ē-bē') n. Any of several social bees of the genus Apis that produce honey, especially A. mellifera, widely domesticated as a source of honey and beeswax.

hon-ey-ber-ry (hūn'ē-bēr'ē) n. See genip (n., sense 2).

hon-ey-comb (hūn'ē-kōm') n. 1. A structure of hexagonal, thin-walled cells constructed from beeswax by honeybees to hold honey and larvae. 2. Something resembling this structure in configuration or pattern. — v. tr.

hon-ey-combed, hon-ey-comb-ing, hon-ey-combs. 1. To fill with holes or compartments; riddle: cliffs that were honeycombed with caves and grottoes. 2. To form in or cover with a pattern like that of a honeycomb.

hon-ey-creep-er (hūn'ē-krē'pər) n. 1. Any of various small, often brightly colored tropical American birds of the family Coerebidae, having a curved bill adapted for sucking nectar from flowers. 2. Any of several birds of the family Drepanididae of Hawaii, similar to the mainland honeycreepers.

hon-ey-dew (hūn'ē-dōō', -dyōō') n. 1. A sweet, sticky substance excreted by various insects, especially aphids, on the leaves of plants. 2. A sweet exudate similar to honeydew on the leaves of plants. 3. A honeydew melon.

honeydew melon (hŭn'ē-dōō' mĕl'ən) n. A kind of melon (Cucumis melo) having a smooth, whitish rind and green flesh. Also called winter melon hon·ey·eat·er (hŭn'ē-ē'tər) n. Any of various birds of the family Meliphagidae of Australia and adjacent regions, having a long extensible tongue adapted for sucking nectar from flowers.

hon·eyed (hŭn'ēd) v. A past tense and a past participle of honey. — adj. also hon·ied 1. Containing, full of, or sweetened with honey. 2. Ingratiating; sugary: honeyed words. 3. Sweet; dulcet: a honeyed voice.

honey guide (hŭn'ē gīd) n. Any of various tropical Old World birds of the family Indicatoridae, some species of which lead people or animals to the nests of wild honeybees. The birds eat the wax and larvae that remain after the nest has been destroyed for its honey.

honey locust (hŭn'ē lō'kəst) n. Any of several trees of the genus Gleditsia, especially G. triacanthos, having deciduous, pinnately compound leaves, small flowers in racemes, and large, often twisted, indehiscent pods.

honey mesquite (hŭn'ē mĕ-skĕt') n. See mesquite (n., sense 1a). [From the high sugar content of its pods.]

hon·ey·moon (hŭn'ē-mōōn') n. 1. A holiday or trip taken by a newly married couple. 2. An early harmonious period in a relationship: The honeymoon between the new President and the press was soon over. — v. intr.

hon·ey·moon·ed, hon·ey·moon·ing, hon·ey·moon·s. To spend a honeymoon. [Perhaps from a comparison of the moon, which wanes as soon as it is full, to the affections of a newly married couple, which are most tender right after marriage.] — hon'ey·moon'er n.

hon·ey·suck·le (hŭn'ē-sŭk'əl) n. 1. Any of various shrubs or vines of the genus Lonicera, having opposite leaves, fragrant, usually paired tubular flowers, and small berries. 2. Any of various similar or related plants. [Middle English honysoukel, alteration of honisouke, from Old English hunīsūce: hunig, honey + sūcan, to suck; see SUCK.]

Hong Ha (hông'hă') See Red River (sense 1).

Hong Kong (hông'kông', -kông', hông'kông', -kông') A British crown colony on the southeast coast of China southeast of Guangzhou, including Hong Kong Island and adjacent areas. Hong Kong Island was occupied by the British during the Opium War (1839-1842) and ceded to them by the Treaty of Nanking (1842). Other portions of the colony were acquired in 1860 and in 1898 by a 99-year lease. The colony will revert to Chinese sovereignty in 1997. Victoria is the capital. Population, 5,021,066.

Hong-shui He also Hung-shui He (hông'shwā' hə') A river, about 1,448 km (900 mi) long, rising in southwest China and flowing generally southeast to join the Xiang Jiang. It is navigable for small craft.

Ho-ni-a-ra (hō'nē-ār'ə) The capital of the Solomon Islands, on the northwest coast of Guadalcanal. Population, 16,125.

hon-ied (hŭn'ēd) v. A past tense and a past participle of honey. — adj. Variant of honeyed.

honk (hôngk, hǒngk) n. 1. The raucous, resonant sound characteristic of a wild goose. 2. a. A sound similar to a goose's honk: blew a loud honk on the bass saxophone. b. The blaring sound of the horn on a motor vehicle. — v. honked, honk-ing, honks. — v. intr. To emit a honk. — v. tr. To cause (a horn) to produce a honk. [Imitative.] — honk'er n.

hon-ky or hon-kie also hon-key (hông'kē, hǒng'-) n. pl. hon-kies also hon-keys. Offensive Slang. Used as a disparaging term for a white person. [Possibly blend of Wolof honq, red, pink, of light complexion, and HUNKY.]

hon-ky-tonk (hông'kē-tôngk', hǒng'kē-tǒngk') n. Slang. A cheap, noisy bar or dance hall. — adj. 1. Slang. Of or relating to such a bar or dance hall; tawdry: a honky-tonk district; honky-tonk entertainers. 2. Music. Of, relating to, or being a type of ragtime characteristically played on a tinny-sounding piano. — v. intr. hon-ky-tonked, hon-ky-tonk-ing, hon-ky-tonks. Slang. To visit cheap, noisy bars or dance halls. [Perhaps from HONK.]

Hon-o-lu-lu (hǒn'ə-lōō'lōō) The capital and largest city of Hawaii, on the southeast coast of Oahu. Honolulu's harbor was first entered in 1794 by a British navigator. Settlement of the area began in 1816, and the city soon gained prominence as a whaling and sandalwood port. Today it is a major tourist center. Population, 365,272.

hon-or (ǒn'ər) n. 1. High respect, as that shown for special merit; esteem: the honor shown to a Nobel laureate. 2. a. Good name; reputation. b. A source or cause of credit: was an honor to the profession. 3. a. Glory or recognition; distinction. b. A mark, token, or gesture of respect or distinction: the place of honor at the table. c. A military decoration. d. A title conferred for achievement. 4. Nobility of mind; probity. 5. High rank. 6. The dignity accorded to position: awed by the honor of his office. 7. Great privilege: I have the honor to present the governor. 8. Honor. Used with His, Her, or Your as a title and form of address for certain officials, such as judges and mayors: Her Honor the Mayor. 9. a. A code of integrity, dignity, and pride, chiefly among men, that was maintained in some societies, as in feudal Europe, by force of arms. b. Principled uprightness of character; personal integrity. c. A woman's chastity or reputation for chastity. 10. honors. Social courtesies offered to guests: did the honors at tea. 11. honors. a. Special recognition for unusual academic achievement: graduated with honors. b. A program of individual advanced study for exceptional students: planned to take honors in history. 12. Sports. The right of being first at the tee in golf. 13. Games. a. Any of the four or five highest cards, especially the ace, king, queen, jack, and ten of the trump suit, in card games such as bridge or whist. b. The points allotted to these cards. Often used in the plural. — v. tr.

hon-ored, hon-or-ing, hon-ors. 1. a. To hold in respect; esteem. b. To show respect for. c. To bow to (another dancer) in square dancing: Honor your partner.
2. To confer distinction on: He has honored us with his presence. 3. To accept or pay as valid: honor a check; a store that honors all credit cards. —idiom. honor bound. Under an obligation enforced by the personal integrity of the one obliged: I was honor bound to admit that she had done the work. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin.] —hon/or-er n.

SYNONYMS: honor, homage, reverence, veneration, deference. These nouns denote admiration, respect, or esteem accorded to another as a right or as due. Honor, the most general term, is applicable both to the feeling and to the expression of such sentiments: He tried to be worthy of the honor in which he was held. Homage is an expression of high regard and respect, often in the form of a ceremonial tribute that conveys allegiance: “There is no country in which so absolute a homage is paid to wealth” (Ralph Waldo Emerson). Reverence is a feeling of deep respect and devotion: “Kill reverence and you’ve killed the hero in man” (Ayn Rand). Veneration is both the feeling and the reverential expression of respect, love, and awe: Her veneration for traditional learning never wavered. Deference is courteous, respectful regard for another that often takes the form of yielding to his or her decisions or wishes: Have confidence in your own judgment; don’t give undue deference to the opinions and feelings of others. See also Synonyms at honesty hon-or-a-ble (ɒn’ər-ə-bəl) adj. 1. Deserving or winning honor and respect: led an honorable life. 2. Bringing distinction or recognition: honorable service to one’s nation. 3. Possessing and characterized by honor: an honorable person.

4. Consistent with honor or good name: followed the only honorable course of action. 5. Distinguished; illustrious: this honorable gathering of scholars.
6. Attended by marks of recognition and honor: received an honorable burial.
7. Honorable.. a. Used as a title of respect for certain high government officials: The Honorable Jane Doe, Associate Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts. b. Used as a courtesy title for the children of barons and viscounts and the younger sons of earls. c. Used in the House of Commons as a title of respect when speaking of another member. —hon/or-a-ble-ness n. —hon/or-a-bly adv.

honorable discharge (ɒn’ər-ə-bəl dɪs-çärj’) n. Discharge from the armed forces with a commendable record.

honorable mention (ɒn’ər-ə-bəl mən’sən) n. A citation to one who has performed well in a competition but has not been awarded a prize.

hon-o-rar-i-um (ɒn’ə-râr’ē-əm) n. pl. hon-o-rar-i-ums or hon-o-rar-i-a (-ē-ə). A payment given to a professional person for services for which fees are not legally or traditionally required. [Latin honōrārium, from neuter of honōrārius, honorary, from honor, honōr-, honor.]

hon-or-ar-y (ɔ̃n'ə-rēr'ē) adj. Abbr. hon. 1. Held or given as a mark of honor, especially conferred as an honor without the usual adjuncts: an honorary degree.

2. a. Holding an office or title given as an honor, without payment: an honorary colonel. b. Voluntary: the honorary secretary of the association. 3. Relying on honor and not legally enforceable, as a duty or an obligation.

hon-or-ee (ɔ̃n'ə-rē') n. The recipient of an honor.

hon-or-if-ic (ɔ̃n'ə-rīf'ik) adj. Conferring or showing respect or honor. — n.

A title, phrase, or grammatical form conveying respect, used especially when addressing a social superior. [Latin honōrificus : honor, honōr-, honor + -ficus, -fic.] — hon'or-if'i-cal-ly adv.

Ho-no-ri-us (hō-nōr'ē-əs, -nōr'-), Flavius. A.D. 384-423. Roman emperor of the West (395-423). During his reign the decline of the empire became irreversible.

honor society (ɔ̃n'ər sə-sī'ī-tē) n. An organization to which students are admitted in recognition of academic achievement.

honor system (ɔ̃n'ər sīs'təm) n. A set of procedures under which persons, especially students or prisoners, are trusted to act without direct supervision in situations that might allow for dishonest behavior.

hon-our (ɔ̃n'ər) n. & v. Chiefly British. Variant of honor.

Hon-shu (hōn'shōō) The largest island of Japan, in the central part of the country between the Sea of Japan and the Pacific Ocean.

hooch¹ also hootch (hōōch) n. Slang. 1. Alcoholic liquor, especially inferior or bootleg liquor: “bootleggers smashed on their own hooch” (Christopher Hitchens).

2. Marijuana. [Short for hoochinoo, from Hoochinoo, a Tlingit village where illegal liquor was distilled, from Tlingit xutsnuuwú.] hooch² also hootch (hōōch) n. Slang. A dwelling, especially a thatched hut. [Alteration (perhaps influenced by HUT), of Japanese uchi, inside, interior.]

hood¹ (hōōd) n. 1. A loose pliable covering for the head and neck, either attached to a robe or jacket or separate. 2. An ornamental draping of cloth hung from the shoulders of an academic or ecclesiastical robe. 3. A sack placed over a falcon's head to keep the bird quiet. 4. a. A metal cover or cowl for a hearth or stove. b. A carriage top. c. The hinged metal lid over the engine of a motor vehicle. 5. Zoology. An expanded part, crest, or marking on or near the head of an animal. — v. tr. hood-ed, hood-ing, hoods. To supply or cover with a hood. [Middle English hod, from Old English hōd.] hood² (hōōd) n. Slang. 1. A hoodlum; a thug. 2. A young tough. [Short for HOODLUM.]

Hood (hōöd), John Bell. 1831-1879. American Confederate soldier who commanded the Atlanta Campaign (1864) and was defeated at Nashville later that year.

Hood, Mount. A volcanic peak, 3,426.7 m (11,235 ft) high, in the Cascade Range of northwest Oregon. It is the highest elevation in the state.

Hood (hōöd), Thomas. 1799-1845. British poet and editor who wrote comic and topical verse, including “The Dream of Eugene Aram” (1829) and “The Song of the Shirt” (1843).

-hood suff. 1. a. Condition; state; quality: manhood. b. An instance of a specified state or quality: falsehood. 2. A group sharing a specified state or quality: sisterhood. [Middle English -hed, -hode, from Old English -hæde*, -hād.]

'hood (hōöd) n. Slang. A neighborhood.

hood-ed (hōöd'īd) adj. 1. Covered with or having a hood. 2. Shaped like a hood, cowl, or similar covering. 3. Zoology. a. Having coloration or a crest suggesting a hood. b. Having elastic skin at the neck that, when distended, resembles a hood, as that of the cobra.

hooded seal (hōöd'īd sēl) n. A seal (Cystophora cristata) of northern seas, having a grayish, spotted coat and an inflatable hoodlike or bladderlike pouch in the region of the nose. Also called bladdernose hood-lum (hōöd'ləm, hōöd' -) n. 1. A gangster; a thug. 2. A tough, often aggressive or violent young man. [Origin unknown.] —hood'lum-ism n.

hood-mold (hōöd'möld') n. See dripstone (n., sense 1).

hoo-doo (hōō'dōō) n. pl. hoo-doos. 1. See voodoo (n., sense 3). 2. a. Bad luck. b. One that brings bad luck. 3. Geology. A column of eccentrically shaped rock, produced by differential weathering. — v. tr. hoo-dooed, hoo-doo-ing, hoo-doos. To bring bad luck to. [Of West African origin, possibly from VOODOO.] —hoo'doo-ism n.

hood-wink (hōöd'wīŋk') v. tr. hood-winked, hood-wink-ing, hood-winks. 1. To take in by deceptive means; deceive. See Synonyms at deceive. 2. Archaic. To blindfold. 3. Obsolete. To conceal. —hood'wink'er n.

hoo-ey (hōō'ē) n. Slang. Nonsense: “the romantic hooey that always sold women's cosmetics” (Jerry Adler). [Origin unknown.]

hoof (hōōf, hōōf) n. pl. hoofs or hooves (hōōvz, hōōvz). 1. a. The horny sheath covering the toes or lower part of the foot of a mammal of the orders Perissodactyla and Artiodactyla, such as a horse, an ox, or a deer. b. The foot of such an animal, especially a horse. 2. Slang. The human foot. — v. hoofed, hoof-ing, hoofs. — v. tr. 1. To trample with the hoofs. 2. Slang. To walk: We hoofed it the whole ten blocks. — v. intr. Slang. 1. To dance, especially as a professional entertainer. 2. To go on foot; walk. —idiom. on the hoof. Not yet butchered; alive. Used especially of cattle: beef on the hoof. [Middle English hof, from Old English hōf.]

hoof-and-mouth disease (hōōf'ən-mouth' dī-zēz', hōōf'-) n. See foot-and-mouth disease.

hoof-bound (hōōf'bound', hōōf'-) adj. Afflicted with drying and contraction of the hoof, resulting in lameness. Used of a horse.

hoofed (hōōft, hōōft) adj. Having hoofs; ungulate.

hoof-er (hōōf'ər, hōō'fər) n. Slang. A professional dancer, especially a tap dancer.

Hoogh-ly (hōō'glē) A channel, about 257 km (160 mi) long, of the Ganges River in eastern India. The westernmost channel on the Ganges Delta, it connects Calcutta with the Bay of Bengal.

hoo-hah (hōō'häh') n. Slang. 1. A fuss; a disturbance: “the subject of this last hoo-hah” (William Safire). 2. A chortle or laugh: got a good hoo-hah out of that story. [Perhaps from Yiddish hu-ha, to-do, uproar, exclamation.]

hook (hōōk) n. 1. a. A curved or sharply bent device, usually of metal, used to catch, drag, suspend, or fasten something else. b. A fishhook. 2. Something shaped like a hook, especially: a. A curved or barbed plant or animal part. b. A short angled or curved line on a letter. c. A sickle. 3. a. A sharp bend or curve, as in a river. b. A point or spit of land with a sharply curved end. 4. A means of catching or ensnaring; a trap. 5. Slang. a. A means of attracting interest or attention; an enticement: a sales hook. b. Music. A catchy motif or refrain: “sugary hard rock melodies [and] ear candy hooks” (Boston Globe). 6. Sports. a. A short swinging blow in boxing delivered with a crooked arm. b. A golf stroke that sends the ball to the left of a right-handed player or to the right of a left-handed player. c. In surfing, the lip of a breaking wave. 7. Baseball. A curve ball.

8. Basketball. A hook shot. — v. hooked, hook-ing, hooks. — v. tr.

1. a. To catch, suspend, or connect with a hook. b. Informal. To snare. c. Slang. To steal; snatch. See Synonyms at steal. 2. To fasten by or as if by a hook. 3. To pierce or gore with or as if with a hook. 4. Slang. a. To take strong hold of; captivate: a novel that hooked me on the very first page. b. To cause to become addicted. 5. To make (a rug) by looping yarn through canvas with a type of hook. 6. Sports. a. To hit with a hook in boxing. b. To hit (a golf ball) in a hook. 7. Baseball. To pitch (a ball) with a curve. 8. Basketball. To shoot (a ball) in a hook shot. — v. intr. 1. To bend like a hook. 2. To fasten by means of a hook or a hook and eye. 3. Slang. To work as a prostitute. — phrasal verb. hook up. 1. To assemble or wire (a mechanism). 2. To connect a mechanism and a source of power. 3. Slang. To form a tie or connection: hooked up with the wrong crowd. — idioms. by hook or by crook. By whatever means possible, fair or unfair. get the hook. Slang. To be unceremoniously dismissed or terminated.

hook, line, and sinker. Informal. Without reservation; completely: swallowed the excuse hook, line, and sinker. off the hook. Informal. Freed, as from blame or a vexatious obligation: let me off the hook with a mild reprimand. on (one's) own hook. By one's own efforts. [Middle English hok, from Old English hōc. See keg- in Appendix.]

Hook (hōök), Sidney. 1902-1989. American philosopher known for his studies of Marxism, especially Towards an Understanding of Karl Marx: A Revolutionary Interpretation (1933).

hook-ah (hōök'ə) n. An Eastern smoking pipe designed with a long tube passing through an urn of water that cools the smoke as it is drawn through. Also called hubble-bubble, narghile. [Urdu, from Arabic ḥuqqah, the hookah's water urn.]

hook and eye (hōök ənd ī) n. 1. A clothes fastener consisting of a small blunt metal hook that is inserted in a corresponding loop or eyelet. 2. A latch consisting of a hook that is inserted in a screw eye.

hook-and-ladder truck (hōök'an-läd'ər trūk) n. A fire engine equipped with extension ladders and hooked poles.

Hooke (hōök), Robert. 1635-1703. English physicist, inventor, and mathematician who formulated the theory of planetary movement.

hooked (hōökt) adj. 1. Bent or angled like a hook. 2. Having a hook. 3. Made by hooking yarn: a hooked rug. 4. Slang. a. Captivated by or devoted to a custom or thing: She's really hooked on gardening. b. Addicted to a narcotic.

—hook'ed-ness (hōök'id-nĭs) n.

hook-er¹ (hōök'ər) n. Nautical. 1. A single-masted fishing smack used off the coast of Ireland. 2. An old worn-out or clumsy ship. [Dutch hoeker, from Middle Dutch hoeckboot : hoec, fishhook; see keg- in Appendix + boot, boat.]

hook-er² (hōök'ər) n. 1. One that hooks. 2. Slang. A prostitute.

WORD HISTORY: In his Personal Memoirs Ulysses S. Grant described Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker as “a dangerous man... not subordinate to his superiors.” Hooker had his faults, of course. He may indeed have been insubordinate; undoubtedly he was an erratic leader. But there is one thing of which he is often accused that “Fighting Joe” Hooker certainly did not do: he did not give his name to prostitutes. According to a popular story, the men under Hooker's command during the Civil War were a particularly wild bunch. When his troops were on leave, we are told, they spent much of their time in brothels. For this reason, as the story goes, prostitutes came to be known as hookers. It is not difficult to understand how such a theory might have originated. The major general's name differs from the word hooker only in the capital letter that begins it. And it is true that Hooker's men were at times ill-disciplined (although it seems that liquor, not women, was the main source of their difficulties with the provost marshal). However attractive this theory may be, it cannot be true. The word hooker, with the sense “prostitute,” is in fact older than the Civil War. It appeared in the second edition (although not in the first) of John Russell Bartlett’s Dictionary of Americanisms, published in 1859. Bartlett defined hooker as “a strumpet, a sailor’s trull.” He also said that the word was derived from Corlear’s Hook, a district in New York City, but this was only a guess. There is no evidence that the term originated in New York. Norman Ellsworth Eliason has traced this use of hooker back to 1845 in North Carolina. He reported the usage in Tarheel Talk; an Historical Study of the English Language in North Carolina to 1860, published in 1956. The fact that we have no earlier written evidence does not mean that hooker was never used to mean “prostitute” before 1845. The history of hooker is, quite simply, murky; we do not know when or where it was first used, but we can be very certain that it did not begin with Joseph Hooker. Also, we have no firm evidence that it came from Corlear’s Hook. Scholarly evidence or lack thereof notwithstanding, the late Bruce Catton, the Civil War historian, did not go so far as to exonerate completely the Union general. Although “the term ‘hooker’ did not originate during the Civil War,” wrote Catton, “it certainly became popular then. During these war years, Washington developed a large [red-light district] somewhere south of Constitution Avenue. This became known as Hooker’s Division in tribute to the proclivities of General Joseph Hooker and the name has stuck ever since.” If the term hooker was derived neither from Joseph Hooker nor from Corlear’s Hook, what is its derivation? It is most likely that this hooker is, etymologically, simply “one who hooks.” The term portrays a prostitute as a person who hooks, or snares, clients.

Hook·er (hōök’ər), Joseph. Known as “Fighting Joe.” 1814-1879. American Union army officer who was defeated by Robert E. Lee at Chancellorsville (1863).

Hook·er (hōök’ər), Sir Joseph Dalton. 1817-1911. British botanist and explorer who wrote Genera Plantarum (1862-1883), a global study of the distribution of plants.

Hook·er (hōök’ər), Richard. 1554?-1600. English writer and theologian. His Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity (1594) was central to the formation of Anglican theology.

Hook·er (hōök’ər), Thomas. 1586?-1647. English-born American colonizer and cleric who founded Hartford, Connecticut (1636).

hook·nose (hōök’nōz’) n. An aquiline nose. —hook’ nosed’ adj.

Hook of Hol·land (hōök ūf hōl’ənd) also Hoek van Hol·land (hōök’ vān hō’lānt) A cape and harbor of southwest Netherlands on the North Sea west of Rotterdam, for which it serves as a port.

hook shot (hōök shōt) n. Basketball. A shot made by arcing the far hand upward while being positioned or moving sideways to the basket.

hook-up (hōök'üp') n. 1. A system of electric circuits and electrically powered equipment designed to operate together: a nationwide telecommunications hookup. 2. a. A configuration of mechanical parts or devices providing a link between a supply source and a user: a gas hookup for a mobile home. b. A plan or schematic drawing of such a system or such a configuration. 3. Informal. A linkage or connection, often between unlikely associates or factors.

hook-worm (hōök'wûrm') n. Any of numerous small parasitic nematode worms of the family Ancylostomatidae, having hooked mouthparts with which they fasten themselves to the intestinal walls of various hosts, including human beings, causing ancylostomiasis. Also called uncinaria hookworm disease (hōök'wûrm' dī-zēz') n. See ancylostomiasis.

hook-y (hōök'ē) n. Informal. Absence without leave; truancy: play hooky from school. [Perhaps from hook it, to make off.]

hoo-li-gan (hōō'lī-gən) n. Informal. A young ruffian; a hoodlum. [Origin unknown.] —hoo/li-gan-ism n.

hoop (hōōp, hōöp) n. 1. A circular band of metal or wood put around a cask or barrel to bind the staves together. 2. A large wooden, plastic, or metal ring, especially one used as a plaything or for trained animals to jump through. 3. One of the lightweight circular supports for a hoop skirt. 4. A circular, ringlike earring. 5. One of a pair of circular wooden or metal frames used to hold material taut for embroidery or similar needlework. 6. Basketball. a. The basket. b. The game of basketball. 7. Sports. A croquet wicket. — v. tr. hooped, hoop-ing, hoops.

1. To hold together or support with or as if with a hoop. 2. To encircle.

—idiom. jump through the hoop (or go through the hoop). To undergo a rigorous trial or examination. [Middle English hop.]

hooper (hōō'pær, hōöp'ær) n. A maker or repairer of barrels and tubs; a cooper.

hoop-la (hōōp'lä', hōöp'-) n. Slang. 1. a. Boisterous, jovial commotion or excitement. b. Extravagant publicity: The new sedan was introduced to the public with much hoopla. 2. Talk intended to mislead or confuse. [Perhaps from French houp-là, opsy-daisy! : houp (of imitative origin) + là, there; see VOILÀ.]

hoo-poe (hōō'pōō, -pō) n. Any of several Old World birds of the family Upupidae, especially Upupa epops, having distinctively patterned plumage, a fanlike crest, and a slender, downward-curving bill. [Alteration (influenced by Latin ūpupa), of obsolete hoop, from French huppe, from Old French, from Vulgar Latin ūppa*, alteration of Latin upupa, ūpupa, of imitative origin.]

hoop skirt (hōōp skûrt) n. A long full skirt belled out with a series of connected circular supports.

hoop snake (hōōp snāk) n. Any of several snakes, such as the mud snake, said to grasp the tail in the mouth and move with a rolling, hooplike motion.

hoo-ray (hōō-rā', hē-) interj., n. & v. Variant of hurrah.

Hoorn (hōrn, hōrn) A city of western Netherlands on an inlet of the IJsselmeer north-northeast of Amsterdam. Founded in 1311, it is a commercial and processing center for an agricultural region. Population, 50,473.

Hoorn Islands (hōrn ī'lændz) See Futuna Islands.

hoo-se-gow (hōōs'gou') n. Slang. A jail. [Spanish juzgado, tribunal, courtroom, from past participle of juzgar, to judge, from Latin iūdicāre, from iūdex, iūdic-, judge. See JUDGE.]

Hoo-sier (hōō'zhər) n. Used as a nickname for a native or resident of Indiana. [Origin unknown.]

WORD HISTORY: As the fame of Indiana basketball grows ever greater, perhaps a larger number of people have become curious about the origins of the word Hoosier, the nickname for a native or resident of Indiana. As more than one of the curious has discovered, the origins are rather opaque. The most likely possibility is that Hoosier is an alteration of hoozer, an English dialect word recorded in Cumberland, a former county of northwest England, in the late 19th century and used to refer to anything unusually large. The transition between hoozer and Hoosier is not clear. The first recorded instance of Hoosier meaning “Indiana resident” is dated 1826; however, it seems possible that senses of the word recorded later in the Dictionary of Americanisms, including “a big, burly, uncouth specimen or individual; a frontiersman, countryman, rustic,” reflect the kind of use this word had before it settled down in Indiana.

hoot¹ (hōōt) v. hoot-ed, hoot-ing, hoots. — v. intr. 1. To utter the characteristic cry of an owl. 2. To make a loud raucous cry, especially of derision or contempt. — v. tr. 1. To shout down or drive off with jeering cries: hooted the speaker off the platform. 2. To express or convey by hooting: hooted their disgust. — n. 1. a. The characteristic cry of an owl. b. A sound suggesting the cry of an owl, especially the sound of a horn. 2. A cry of scorn or derision. 3. Informal. One that is hilariously funny: “Emmett, that skirt is a hoot!” (Bobbie Ann Mason). — idiom. give a hoot (or care a hoot). To be completely indifferent to: I don't give a hoot what you think. [Middle English houten, perhaps of imitative origin.] — hoot'er n.

hoot² (hōōt, oōt) also hoots (hōōts, oōts) interj. Scots. Used to express annoyance or objection.

hootch¹ (hōōch) n. Variant of hooch¹.

hootch² (hōōch) n. Variant of hooch².

hootch-y-kootch-y (hōō'chē-kōō'chē) n. pl. hootch-y--kootch-ies. A deliberately sensual form of belly dance, typically performed as part of a carnival. [Origin unknown.]

hoot-en-an-ny (hōōt'n-än'ē) n. pl. hoot-en-an-nies. 1. Music. An informal performance by folk singers, typically with participation by the audience.

2. Informal. An unidentified or unidentifiable gadget. [Origin unknown.]

Hoo-ton (hōōt'n), Ernest Albert. 1887-1954. American anthropologist and educator whose numerous works include Apes, Men, and Morons (1937).

hoot owl (hōōt owl) n. Any of various owls having a hooting cry.

hoots (hōōts, oōts) interj. Variant of hoot².

Hoo-ver (hōō'vər) A city of north-central Alabama, a suburb of Birmingham. Population, 39,788.

Hoo-ver (hōō'vər), Herbert Clark. 1874-1964. The 31st President of the United States (1929-1933). After the stock market crash of 1929 he was unwilling to finance employment through federal intervention and lost the presidency to Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932.

Hoo-ver (hōō'vər), J(ohn) Edgar. 1895-1972. American director of the FBI (1924-1972). He is remembered for fighting gangsterism during the Prohibition era (1919-1933) and for a vigorous anti-Communist campaign after World War II.

Hoo-ver (hōō'vər), Lou Henry. 1874-1944. First Lady of the United States (1929-1933) as the wife of Herbert Hoover. She urged women to pursue careers and gave a series of radio talks for young people.

Hoo-ver-ville (hōō'vər-vīl') n. A crudely built camp put up usually on the edge of a town to house the dispossessed and destitute during the depression of the 1930's. [After Herbert Clark HOOVER.]

hooves (hōōvz, hōōvz) n. A plural of hoof.

hop¹ (hōp) v. hopped, hop-ping, hops. — v. intr. 1. a. To move with light bounding skips or leaps. b. Informal. To move quickly or busily: The shipping department is hopping this week. 2. To jump on one foot. 3. To make a quick trip, especially in an airplane. — v. tr. 1. To move over by hopping: hop a ditch two feet wide. 2. Informal. To jump aboard: hop a freight train. — n. 1. a. A light springy jump or leap, especially on one foot. b. A rebound: The ball took a bad hop. 2. Informal. A dance; a ball. 3. a. A short distance. b. A short trip, especially by air. 4. A free ride; a lift. — idioms. hop, skip, and (a) jump. A short distance. hop to it. To begin an activity or a task quickly and energetically. [Middle English hoppen, from Old English hoppian.]

hop² (hōp) n. 1. A twining vine (Humulus lupulus) having lobed leaves and green female flowers arranged in conelike spikes. 2. hops. The dried, ripe flowers of this plant, containing a bitter, aromatic oil. They are used in the brewing industry to prevent bacterial action and add the characteristic bitter taste to beer. 3. Slang. Opium. — v. tr. hopped, hop-ping, hops. To flavor with hops. — phrasal verb. hop up. Slang. 1. To increase the power or energy of: hop up a car. 2. To stimulate with or as if with a narcotic. [Middle English hoppe, from Middle Dutch.]

HOP abbr. High oxygen pressure.

Ho·pat·cong (hə-păt'kɔŋg', -kɔŋg') A borough of north central New Jersey on Lake Hopatcong northwest of Morristown. The city and lake are summer resorts. Population, 15,586.

hop clover (hɒp klō'vər) n. A Eurasian clover (Trifolium agrarium) or one of its relatives, having small yellow flower heads that resemble hops when withered.

hope (hōp) v. hoped, hop-ing, hopes. — v. intr. 1. To wish for something with expectation of its fulfillment. 2. Archaic. To have confidence; trust. — v. tr. 1. To look forward to with confidence or expectation: We hope that our children will carry on our family traditions. 2. To expect and desire. See Synonyms at expect. — n. 1. A wish or desire accompanied by confident expectation of its fulfillment. 2. Something that is hoped for or desired: Success is our hope. 3. One that is a source of or reason for hope: the team's only hope for victory. 4. Often Hope. The theological virtue defined as the desire and search for a future good, difficult but not impossible to attain with God's help. 5. Archaic. Trust; confidence. — idiom. hope against hope. To hope with little reason or justification. [Middle English hopen, from Old English hopian.] — hop'er n.

Hope (hōp), Anthony. See Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins.

Hope (hōp), Bob. Born 1903. British-born American entertainer. He costarred with Bing Crosby in the popular "Road" films, beginning with the Road to Singapore (1940).

Hope (hōp), John. 1868-1936. American educator who opposed Booker T. Washington's accommodationist methods in the struggle for civil rights.

hope chest (hōp chĕst) n. A chest used by a young woman for clothing and household goods, such as linens and silver, in anticipation of marriage.

hope-ful (hōp'fəl) adj. 1. Having or manifesting hope. 2. Inspiring hope; promising. — n. A person who aspires to success or who shows promise of succeeding, especially as a political candidate: a group of presidential hopefuls.

—hope'ful-ness n.

hope-ful-ly (hōp'fəl-lē) adv. 1. In a hopeful manner. 2. Usage Problem. It is to be hoped: "Marriage is a coming together for better or for worse, hopefully enduring" (William O. Douglas).

USAGE NOTE: Writers who use hopefully as a sentence adverb, as in Hopefully the measures will be adopted, should be aware that the usage is unacceptable to many critics, including a large majority of the Usage Panel. But it is not easy to explain why critics dislike this use of hopefully. It is justified by analogy to the unexceptionable uses of many other adverbs, as in Mercifully, the play was brief or Frankly, I have no use for your friend. And though this use of hopefully may have been a vogue word when it first gained currency 30 years ago, it has long since lost any taint of jargon or pretentiousness for the general reader. The well-attested acceptance of the usage reflects an implicit popular recognition of its usefulness; there is no precise substitute. Someone who says Hopefully, the treaty will be ratified makes a hopeful prediction about the fate of the treaty, whereas someone who says I hope (or We hope or It is hoped) the treaty will be ratified expresses a bald statement about what is desired. Only the latter could be continued with a clause such as but it isn't likely. • It might have been expected, then, that the initial flurry of objections to hopefully would have subsided once the usage became well established. Instead, increased currency of the usage appears only to have made the critics more adamant. In the 1969 Usage Panel survey the usage was acceptable to 44 percent of the Panel; in the most recent survey it was acceptable to only 27 percent. (By contrast, 60 percent accepted the analogous use of mercifully in the sentence Mercifully, the game ended before the opponents could add another touch-down to the lopsided score.) Yet the Panel has not shown any signs of becoming generally more conservative: in the very same survey panelists were disposed to accept once-vilified usages such as the employment of contact and host as verbs. • It seems that this use of hopefully has been made a litmus test, which distinguishes writers who take an active interest in questions of grammar or usage from the great mass of people who keep their own linguistic counsel. No one can be blamed who uses hopefully in blithe ignorance of the critics' disdain for it, since the rule could not be derived from any general concern for clarity or precision. But writers who are aware of the critical controversy face a more delicate decision. Some will simply flout the rule, seeing no reason that they should be deprived of a useful construction. Others may choose to avoid the usage, whether they are motivated by discretion or civility. • Like other sentence adverbs such as bluntly and happily, hopefully may occasionally be ambiguous. In the sentence Hopefully, the company has launched a new venture, the word hopefully might be construed as describing the point of view of either the speaker or the subject. Such ambiguities can be resolved either by repositioning the adverb (as in The company has launched the new venture hopefully) or by choosing a paraphrase (One may hope that the company has launched the new venture).

Ho·pei or Ho·peh (hō'pā', hū'bā') See Hebei.

hope-less (hōp'lis) adj. 1. Having no hope; despairing. See Synonyms at despondent. 2. Offering no hope; bleak. 3. Incurable. 4. Having no possibility of solution; impossible. —hope/less-ly adv.

hope-less-ness (hōp'lis-nis) n. The condition or quality of being hopeless. See Synonyms at despair.

Hope-well¹ (hōp'wəl', -wəl) n. An early Native American culture centered in the Ohio River valley from about the second century B.C. to the fourth century

A.D., noted for the construction of extensive earthworks and large conical burial mounds and for its highly developed arts and crafts. [After the owner of a farm in Ross County, Ohio.]

Hope-well² (hōp'wĕl') An independent city of southeast Virginia south-southeast of Richmond. It was founded in 1913 as a munitions center. Population, 23,101.

hop-head (hōp'hĕd') n. Slang. A drug addict. [HOP² + HEAD.]

hop hornbeam (hōp hōrn'bēm') n. Any of several deciduous trees of the genus Ostrya, especially O. virginiana of eastern North America, having unisexual flowers grouped in catkins and fruit clusters resembling hops.

Ho-pi (hō'pē) n. pl. Hopi or Ho-pis. 1. a. A Pueblo people occupying a number of mesa-top pueblos on reservation land in northeast Arizona. The Hopi are noted for their sophisticated dry-farming techniques, a rich ceremonial life, and fine craftsmanship in basketry, pottery, silverwork, and weaving. b. A member of this people. 2. The Uto-Aztecan language of the Hopi. [Hopi hópi, peaceable, a Hopi.]

Hop-kins (hōp'kĭnz) A city of southeast Minnesota, an industrial suburb of Minneapolis. Population, 15,336.

Hop-kins (hōp'kĭnz), Sir Frederick Gowland. 1861-1947. British biochemist. He shared a 1929 Nobel Prize for his discovery of growth-promoting vitamins.

Hop-kins (hōp'kĭnz), Gerard Manley. 1844-1889. British poet known for a number of works published posthumously, including "The Wreck of the Deutschland" and "The Windhover."

Hop-kins (hōp'kĭnz), Johns. 1795-1873. American financier and philanthropist who left $7 million to found the hospital and university in Baltimore that bear his name.

Hop-kins (hōp'kĭnz), Mark. 1802-1887. American educator and theologian who was president of Williams College from 1836 to 1872.

Hop-kins (hōp'kĭnz), Sam. Known as "Lightnin' Hopkins." 1912-1982. American musician considered one of the finest country blues guitarists.

Hop-kin-son (hōp'kĭn-sən), Francis. 1737-1791. American writer and Revolutionary leader. A member of the Continental Congress and a signer of the Declaration of Independence (1776), he is also known for his political satires against the British.

Hop-kins-ville (hōp'kĭnz-vĭl') A city of southwest Kentucky west-southwest of Bowling Green. It is a tobacco and livestock market. Population, 29,809.

hop-lite (hōp'lit') n. A heavily armed foot soldier of ancient Greece. [Greek hoplitēs, from hoplon, armor.] —hop-lit'ic (-lit'ik) adj.

Hop-pe (hōp'pē), William Frederick. Known as "Willie." 1887-1959. American billiards player who won 51 world titles between 1906 and 1952.

hop-per (hɒp'ər) n. 1. One that hops. 2. a. A funnel-shaped container in which materials, such as grain or fuel, are stored in readiness for dispensation. b. Informal. A place in which something is held in readiness before use or consideration: "Several hundred protectionist bills are now piling up in the congressional hoppers" (Christian Science Monitor). c. A freight car with a door in the floor through which materials are unloaded.

Hop-per (hɒp'ər), Edward. 1882-1967. American painter famous for his stark, realist style. Among his best-known works are Early Sunday Morning (1930) and Nighthawks (1942).

Hop-per (hɒp'ər), Hedda. 1890-1966. American actress and journalist noted for her syndicated Hollywood gossip column (1938-1966) and her large collection of exotic hats.

Hop-per (hɒp'ər), (William) DeWolf. 1858-1935. American musical-comedy actor remembered for his performances of the poem "Casey at the Bat."

hop-per-grass (hɒp'ər-grās') n. Chiefly Southern U.S. See grasshopper (n., sense 1). See Regional note at everwhere.

hop-sack-ing (hɒp'sæk'ɪŋ) also hop-sack (-sæk') n. A loosely woven, coarse fabric of cotton or wool used in clothing. [From its being used for bags by hop growers.]

hop-sotch (hɒp'skɒtʃ') n. Games. A children's game in which players toss a small object into the numbered spaces of a pattern of rectangles outlined on the ground and then hop or jump through the spaces to retrieve the object. — v. intr. hop-scotched, hop-sotch-ing, hop-sotch-es. To move in or as if in a series of irregular jumps: "hopscotching across dozens of new cable channels" (Harry F. Waters). [HOP¹ + SCOTCH¹, a score, line.]

hor. abbr. Horizontal.

ho-ra also ho-rah (hɒr'ə, hɒr'ə) n. A traditional round dance of Romania and Israel. [Modern Hebrew hōrâ, from Romanian horă, from Turkish hora, perhaps from Modern Greek khoro, accusative of khoros, round dance, from Greek. See gher-1 in Appendix.]

Hor-ace (hɒr'əs, hɒr'-), 65-8 B.C. Roman lyric poet. His Odes and Satires have exerted a major influence on English poetry. — Ho-ra'tian (hə-rā'shən) adj.

ho-rah (hɒr'ə, hɒr'ə) n. Variant of hora.

ho-ra-ry (hɒr'ə-rē, hɒr'-) adj. 1. Of an hour or hours. 2. Occurring once an hour; hourly. [Medieval Latin hōrārius, from Latin hōra, hour. See HOUR.]

Horatian ode (hɒ-rā'shən ɒd) n. An ode in which a fixed stanzaic pattern is followed.

horde (hɒrd, hɔrd) n. 1. A large group or crowd; a swarm: a horde of mosquitoes. See Synonyms at crowd¹. 2. a. A nomadic Mongol tribe. b. A nomadic tribe or group. [Ultimately (via Polish horda), from northwestern Turkic ordī, residence, court, from Old Turkic.]

hore·hound (hôr/'hound', hōr'-) n. 1. a. An aromatic Eurasian plant (Marrubium vulgare) having square stems, opposite leaves with white pubescence, and numerous white flowers in axillary cymes. The leaves yield a bitter extract used in flavoring and as a cough remedy. b. A candy or preparation flavored with this extract. 2. Any of similar or related plants, such as the black horehound. [Middle English, alteration (influenced by hound, hound); see HOUND, of horhune, from Old English hārehūne : hār, hoary + hūne, a kind of plant.]

ho·ri·zon (hə-rī/'zən) n. 1. The apparent intersection of the earth and sky as seen by an observer. Also called apparent horizon. 2. Astronomy. a. The sensible horizon. b. The celestial horizon. c. The limit of the theoretically possible universe. 3. The range of one's knowledge, experience, or interest. 4. Geology. a. A specific position in a stratigraphic column, such as the location of one or more fossils, that serves to identify the stratum with a particular period. b. A specific layer of soil or subsoil in a vertical cross section of land. [Middle English orizon, from Old French, from Latin, from Greek horizōn (kuklos), limiting (circle), horizon, from present participle of horizein, to limit, from horos, boundary.]

hor·i·zon·tal (hôr'ī-zōn'/tl, hōr'-) adj. Abbr. hor. 1. Of, relating to, or near the horizon. 2. a. Parallel to or in the plane of the horizon. b. At right angles to a vertical line. 3. Occupying or restricted to the same level in a hierarchy: a horizontal study of verbal ability; a horizontal transfer for an employee. — n. Something, such as a line, a plane, or an object, that is horizontal. [French, from Latin horizōn, horizont-, horizon. See HORIZON.] —hor'·i·zon'tal·ly adv.

horizontal union (hôr'ī-zōn'/tl yōōn/'yən) n. See craft union.

hor·mo·go·ni·um (hôr'mə-gō'nē-əm) n. pl. hor·mo·go·ni·a (-nē-ə). A portion of a filament of a cyanobacterium that detaches and grows by cell division into a new filament. [Greek hormos, chain, necklace; see ser⁻² in Appendix + New Latin gonium, germ cell during mitotic phase (GON(O)- + Latin -ium, n. suff.); see -IUM.]

hor·mone (hôr'mōn') n. 1. A substance, usually a peptide or steroid, produced by one tissue and conveyed by the bloodstream to another to effect physiological activity, such as growth or metabolism. 2. Any of various similar substances found in plants and insects that regulate development. [From Greek hormōn, present participle of horman, to urge on, from hormē, impulse. See er⁻¹ in Appendix.] —hor·mon'al (-mō'nəl), hor·mon'ic (-mōn'ik) adj. —hor·mon'al·ly adv.

Hor·muz (hôr'müz', hōr-mōōz'), Strait of. Also, Strait of. Or·muz (ôr'müz', ôr-mōōz'). A strategic waterway linking the Persian Gulf with the Gulf of Oman. The narrow strait controls oceangoing traffic to and from the oil-rich Gulf States.

horn (hōrn) n. 1. One of the hard, usually permanent structures projecting from the head of certain mammals, such as cattle, sheep, goats, or antelopes, consisting of a bony core covered with a sheath of keratinous material. 2. A hard protuberance, such as an antler or a projection on the head of a giraffe or rhinoceros, that is similar to or suggestive of a horn. 3. a. The hard, smooth keratinous material forming the outer covering of the horns of cattle or related animals. b. A natural or synthetic substance resembling this material. 4. A container, such as a powder horn, made from a horn. 5. Something having the shape of a horn, especially: a. A horn of plenty; a cornucopia. b. Either of the ends of a new moon. c. The point of an anvil. d. The pommel of a saddle. e. An ear trumpet. f. A device for projecting sound waves, as in a loudspeaker. g. A hollow, metallic electromagnetic transmission antenna with a circular or rectangular cross section. 6. Abbr. h., H. Music. a. A wind instrument made of an animal horn. b. A brass wind instrument, such as a trombone or tuba. c. A French horn. d. A wind instrument, such as a trumpet or saxophone, used in a jazz band. 7. a. A usually electrical signaling device that produces a loud, resonant sound: an automobile horn. b. Any of various noisemakers operated by blowing or by squeezing a hollow rubber ball. 8. Slang. A telephone. — v. intr. horned, horn-ing, horns. To join without being invited; intrude. Used with in. — idioms. blow (one's) own horn (or toot (one's) own horn). Informal. To brag or boast about oneself. draw in (one's) horns (or haul in (one's) horns) (or pull in (one's) horns). Informal. 2. To restrain oneself; draw back. 3. To retreat from a previously taken position, view, or stance. 4. To economize. on the horns of a dilemma. Faced with two equally undesirable alternatives. [Middle English, from Old English. See ker-¹ in Appendix.] — horn adj. — horn'ist n.

Horn (hörn), Cape. A headland of extreme southern Chile in the Tierra del Fuego archipelago. The southernmost point of South America, it was first rounded in 1616 by the Dutch navigator Willem Schouten (died 1625), who named it after his birthplace, Hoorn.

horn-beam (hörn'bēm') n. 1. Any of various trees of the genus Carpinus, having smooth, grayish bark and hard, whitish wood. 2. The wood of one of these trees.

horn-bill (hörn'bīl') n. Any of various tropical Old World birds of the family Bucerotidae, having a very large bill often surmounted by an enlarged protuberance at the base.

horn-blende (hörn'blënd') n. An amphibolic mineral, $\text{CaNa}(\text{Mg,Fe})_4(\text{Al,Fe,Ti})_3\text{Si}_6\text{O}_{22}(\text{OH,F})_2$, commonly green or bluish green to black in color, formed in the late stages of cooling in igneous rock. [German : Horn, horn (from Middle High German horn, from Old High German); see ker-¹ in Appendix + Blende, blende; see BLENDE.]

horn-book (hörn'bōök') n. 1. An early primer consisting of a single page protected by a transparent sheet of horn, formerly used in teaching children to read. 2. A text that instructs in the basic skills or rudiments of a subject.

- Horne (hôr'n), Lena. Born 1917. American singer and actress. Noted for her versatile voice and classic beauty, she has performed in Broadway musicals, films, and television productions.
- Horne (hôr'n), Marilyn. Born 1934. American operatic soprano who became a principal performer at the Metropolitan Opera in New York City after her debut there as Adalgisa in Norma (1970).
- horned (hôrnd) adj. Having a horn, horns, or a hornlike growth.
- horned cucumber (hôrnd kyōō'kūm'bər) n. 1. A tropical and southern African plant (Cucumis metuliferus) having heart-shaped to three-lobed leaves and oblong, spiny, orange to red fruits. 2. The fruit of this plant.
- horned lizard (hôrnd līz'ərd) n. See horned toad.
- horned owl (hôrnd oul) n. Any of various owls with characteristic ear tufts that resemble horns.
- horned pout (hôrnd pout) n. See hornpout.
- horned toad (hôrnd tōd) n. Any of several lizards of the genus Phrynosoma of western North America and Central America, having hornlike projections on the head, a spiny flattened body, and a short tail. Also called horned lizard
- horned viper (hôrnd vī'pər) n. A venomous African snake (Cerastes cornutus) having a hornlike projection above each eye. Also called sand viper
- hor-net (hôr'nīt) n. Any of various large stinging wasps of the family Vespidae, chiefly of the genera Vespa and Vespula, that characteristically build large papery nests. [Middle English hornet, alteration (probably influenced by horn, horn); see HORN, of hernet, from Old English hyrnet. See ker-¹ in Appendix.]
- hor-nets' nest (hôr'nīts nĕst) n. A violent or highly contentious situation: “such diplomatic hornets’ nests as [the] expulsion of Asians from Uganda” (Christian Science Monitor).
- Hor-ney (hôr'nī), Karen Danielsen. 1885-1952. German-born American psychoanalyst who emphasized the role of environmental and cultural factors in the development of neurosis. Her works include The Neurotic Personality of Our Time (1937) and Neurosis and Human Growth (1950).
- horn-fels (hôr'n'fĕlz') n. pl. hornfels. A fine-grained metamorphic rock composed of quartz, feldspar, mica, and other minerals, formed by the action of intrusive rock upon sedimentary rock, especially shale. [German : Horn, horn; see HORNBLLENDE + Fels, rock, cliff (from Middle High German vels, from Old High German felis).]
- horn fly (hôr'n flī) n. A small black European fly (Haematobia irritans), introduced into North America, that sucks blood from cattle, usually biting an animal at the base of the horn.
- horn-ing (hôr'nĭng) n. Upstate New York & Western New England. See shiva-ree. See Regional note at shivaree. [Probably because horns are blown at the shivaree.]

hor-ni-to (hôr-nē'tō) n. pl. hor-ni-tos. A low mound of volcanic origin, sometimes emitting smoke or vapor. [Spanish, diminutive of horno, oven, from Latin furnus. See g^wher- in Appendix.]

horn of plenty (hörn üv plēn'tē) n. pl. horns of plenty. See cornucopia (n., sense 1). [Translation of Late Latin cornūcōpia. See CORNUCOPIA.]

horn-pipe (hörn'pīp') n. 1. Music. An instrument with a single reed, finger holes, and a bell and mouthpiece made of horn. 2. a. A spirited British folk dance originally accompanied by this instrument. b. The music accompanying such a dance.

horn-pout (hörn'pout') n. A freshwater catfish (Ictalurus nebulosus) native to eastern North America, having a large head with barbels. Also called horned pout Horns-by (hörn'z'bē), Rogers. 1896-1963. American baseball player and manager. Known for his skill as a batter, he attained a batting average of .424 in 1924 and a lifetime average of .358.

horn-swog-gle (hörn'swög'əl) v. tr. horn-swog-gled, horn-swog-gling, horn-swog-gles. Chiefly Northern U.S. & Midland U.S. & Chiefly Western U.S. To bamboozle; deceive. [Origin unknown.]

horn-tail (hörn'tāl') n. Any of various sawflies of the family Siricidae, the female of which has a long, stout ovipositor.

horn-worm (hörn'wûrm') n. The larva of the hawk moth, having a hornlike posterior segment.

horn-wort (hörn'wûrt', -wôrt') n. Any of several submerged plants of the genus Ceratophyllum, forming branched masses in quiet water and having finely dissected, whorled leaves and minute unisexual flowers.

horn-y (hôr'nē) adj. horn-i-er, horn-i-est. 1. Having horns or hornlike projections. 2. Made of horn or a similar substance. 3. Tough and calloused: horny skin. 4. Vulgar Slang. a. Desirous of sexual activity. b. Sexually aroused. [Sense 4 from HORN, an erection.] —horn/i-ness n.

horol. abbr. Horology.

hor-o-loge (hôr'ə-lōj', hōr'-) n. A device, such as a clock or sundial, used in telling time. [Middle English orloge, from Old French, from Latin hōrologium, from Greek hōrologion : hōra, hour, season; see yēr- in Appendix + legein, to speak; see leg- in Appendix.]

ho-rol-o-ger (hō-rōl'ə-jər) n. Variant of horologist.

hor-o-log-ic (hôr'ə-lōj'ik, hōr'-) also hor-o-log-i-cal (-i-kəl) adj. Of or relating to horology or a horologe.

ho-rol-o-gist (hō-rōl'ə-jīst) also ho-rol-o-ger (-jər) n. One who practices or is skilled in horology.

Hor-o-lo-gi-um (hôr'ə-lō'jē-əm, hōr'-) n. A constellation in the Southern Hemisphere near Hydrus, Eridanus, and Reticulum. [Latin hōrologium, horologe. See HOROLOGE.]

ho·rol·o·gy (hō-rōl'ə-jē) n. Abbr. horol. 1. The science of measuring time.

2. The art of making timepieces. [Greek hōra, hour, season; see yēr- in Appendix + -LOGY.] hor·o·scope (hōr'ə-skōp', hōr'-) n. 1. a. The aspect of the planets and stars at a given moment, such as the moment of a person's birth, used by astrologers.

b. A diagram of the signs of the zodiac based on such an aspect. 2. An astrological forecast, as of a person's future, based on a diagram of the aspect of the planets and stars at a given moment. [French, from Old French, from Latin hōroscopus, from Greek hōroskopos: hōra, hour, season; see yēr- in Appendix + skopos, observer; see spek- in Appendix.]

Ho·ro·witz (hōr'ə-wīts, hōr'-), Vladimir. 1904-1989. Russian-born American pianist noted for his interpretations of Chopin and Liszt.

hor·ren·dous (hō-rěn'dəs, hə-) adj. Hideous; dreadful: "Horrendous explosions shook the whole city" (Howard Kaplan). [From Latin horrendus, from gerundive of horrēre, to tremble.] —hor·ren'dous·ly adv.

hor·rent (hōr'ənt, hōr'-) adj. Archaic. Covered with bristles; bristling. [Latin horrēns, horrent- present participle of horrēre, to tremble, bristle.]

hor·ri·ble (hōr'ə-bəl, hōr'-) adj. 1. Arousing or tending to arouse horror; dreadful: "War is beyond all words horrible" (Winston S. Churchill). 2. Very unpleasant; disagreeable. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin horribilis, from horrēre, to tremble.] —hor'ri·ble·ness n. —hor'ri·bly adv.

hor·rid (hōr'īd, hōr'-) adj. 1. Causing horror; dreadful. 2. Extremely disagreeable; offensive. 3. Archaic. Bristling; rough. [Alteration (influenced by Latin horridus, bristling, from horrēre, to bristle), of Middle English horred, past participle of horren, to bristle, from Latin horrēre, to tremble, bristle.] —hor'rid·ly adv. —hor'rid·ness n.

hor·rif·ic (hō-rīf'īk, hō-) adj. Causing horror; terrifying. [Latin horrificus: horrēre, to tremble + -ficus, -fic.] —hor·rif'i·cal·ly adv.

hor·ri·fy (hōr'ə-fī', hōr'-) v. tr. hor·ri·fied, hor·ri·fy·ing, hor·ri·fies. 1. To cause to feel horror. See Synonyms at dismay. 2. To cause unpleasant surprise to; shock. [Latin horrificāre, from horrificus, horrific. See HORRIFIC.] —hor'ri·fi·ca'tion (-fī-kā'shən) n. —hor'ri·fy·ing·ly adv.

hor·rip·i·la·tion (hō-rīp'ə-lā'shən, hō-) n. The bristling of the body hair, as from fear or cold; goose bumps. [Late Latin horripilātiō, horripilātiōn-, from Latin horripilātus, past participle of horripilāre, to bristle with hairs: horrēre, to tremble + pilāre, to grow hair (from pilus, hair).] —hor·rip'i·late' v.

hor·ror (hōr'ər, hōr'-) n. 1. An intense, painful feeling of repugnance and fear. See Synonyms at fear. 2. Intense dislike; abhorrence. 3. A cause of horror.

4. Informal. Something unpleasant, ugly, or disagreeable: That hat is a horror.

5. horrors. Informal. Intense nervous depression or anxiety. Often used with the.

— n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: a horror movie; a horror story. [Middle English horroure, from Old French horreur, from Latin horror, from horrēre, to tremble.]

hors de com·bat (ôr' də kôN-bă') adv. & adj. Out of action; disabled.

[French : hors, out + de, of + combat, combat.]

hors d'oeuvre (ôr dûrv') n. pl. hors d'oeuvres (ôr dûrvz') or hors d'oeuvre. An appetizer served before a meal. [French : hors, outside + de, of + oeuvre, (the main) work.]

horse (hôrs) n. 1. a. A large hoofed mammal (Equus caballus) having a short-haired coat, a long mane, and a long tail, domesticated since ancient times and used for riding and for drawing or carrying loads. b. An adult male horse; a stallion. c. Any of various equine mammals, such as the wild Asian species E. przewalskii or certain extinct forms related ancestrally to the modern horse. 2. A frame or device, usually with four legs, used for supporting or holding. 3. Sports. A piece of gymnastic equipment with an upholstered body used especially for vaulting. 4. Slang. Heroin. 5. Often horses. Horsepower. 6. Mounted soldiers; cavalry: a squadron of horse. 7. Geology. a. A block of rock interrupting a vein and containing no minerals. b. A large block of displaced rock that is caught along a fault. — v. horsed, hors-ing, hors-es. — v. tr. 1. To provide with a horse. 2. To haul or hoist energetically. — v. intr. To be in heat. Used of a mare. — adj. 1. Of or relating to a horse: a horse blanket. 2. Mounted on horses: horse guards. 3. Drawn or operated by a horse. 4. Larger or cruder than others that are similar: horse pills. — phrasal verb. horse around. Informal. To indulge in horseplay or frivolous activity: Stop horsing around and get to work. — idioms. a horse of another color (or a horse of a different color). Another matter entirely; something else. beat a dead horse (or flog a dead horse). 2. To continue to pursue a cause that has no hope of success. 3. To dwell tiresomely on a matter that has already been decided. be on (one's) high horse (or get on (one's) high horse). To be or become disdainful, superior, or conceited. hold (one's) horses. To restrain oneself. the horse's mouth. A source of information regarded as original or unimpeachable. [Middle English, from Old English hors.]

horse·back (hôrs'băk') n. 1. The back of a horse. 2. A natural ridge; a hog-back. — adv. & adj. On the back of a horse: rode horseback to town; horseback riding.

horse balm (hôrs bäm) n. Any of several strongly aromatic, eastern North American plants of the genus Collinsonia, having opposite leaves, square stems, and axillary clusters of lemon-scented yellow flowers. [From its former use for treating ailments of horses.]

horse bean (hôrs bēn) n. See broad bean.

horse chestnut (hôrs chēs'nŭt') n. 1. Any of several trees of the genus Aesculus, especially the European species A. hippocastanum, having opposite, palmately compound leaves, erect clusters of white flowers tinged with red or yellow, and spiny or smooth capsules containing large, shiny brown seeds. 2. The seed of any of these plants.

horse·feath·ers (hôrs'fěth'ərs) Slang. n. (used with a sing. verb). Nonsense; foolishness. — interj. Used to express disagreement or exasperation. [Alteration of HORSESHIT.]

horse·flesh (hôrs'flěsh') n. 1. The flesh of a horse. 2. Horses considered as a group, especially for driving, riding, or racing.

horse·fly also horse fly (hôrs'flī') n. Any of numerous large flies of the family Tabanidae, the females of which suck the blood of various mammals.

horse gentian (hôrs jěn'shən) n. Any of various plants of the genus Triosteum, having opposite leaves, small purplish-brown flowers, and leathery orange-yellow fruit. Also called feverwort horse·hair (hôrs'hâr') n. 1. The hair of a horse, especially from the mane or tail. 2. Cloth made of the hair of horses. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: a horsehair sofa; horsehair upholstery.

horsehair worm (hôrs'hâr' wûrm) n. Any of various slender aquatic worms of the phylum Nematomorpha, the larvae of which are parasitic within insects. Also called hairworm horse·hide (hôrs'hīd') n. 1. The hide of a horse. 2. Leather made from the hide of a horse.

horse latitudes (hôrs lăt'ī-tōōd'z) pl.n. Either of two belts of latitudes located over the oceans at about 30° to 35° north and south, having high barometric pressure, calms, and light, changeable winds. [Possibly from Spanish golfo de las yeguas, mares' sea.]

horse·laugh (hôrs'lăf', -lăf') n. Informal. A loud, coarse laugh; a guffaw.

horse·leech (hôrs'lěch') n. Any of several large leeches of the genus Haemopis.

horse·less carriage (hôrs'lis kăr'ij) n. An automobile: in the days when a horseless carriage was the talk of the town.

horse mackerel (hôrs măk'ər-əl) n. 1. See saurel (n., sense 1). 2. Any of several tunas or related fishes.

horse·man (hôrs'mən) n. 1. a. A man who rides a horse. b. A man skilled in equitation. 2. A man who breeds and raises horses.

horse·man·ship (hôrs'mən-shīp') n. The skill of riding horses; equitation.

horse marine (hôrs mə-rēn') n. 1. a. A marine assigned to the cavalry. b. A cavalryman assigned to a ship. 2. Informal. One who is out of one's element; a misfit.

horse·mint (hôrs'mīnt') n. 1. A perennial, aromatic eastern North American plant (Monarda punctata) having opposite leaves and yellowish flowers with purple spots. Also called wild bergamot 2. A Eurasian wild mint (Mentha longifolia), naturalized in the eastern United States and having long, opposite leaves and dense, spikelike elongated clusters of flowers.

horse nettle (hōrs nĕt'1) n. A prickly-stemmed plant (Solanum carolinense) of eastern and central North America, having purplish or white star-shaped flowers and yellowish berries.

Hor-sens (hōr'sənz, -səns) A city of central Denmark on the eastern Jutland Peninsula at the head of Horsens Fjord, an inlet of the Kattegat. A fortified medieval town, Horsens is now a commercial and industrial center. Population, 54,717.

horse opera (hōrs ɔp'ər-ə) n. A film or other theatrical work about the American West.

horse-play (hōrs'plā') n. Rowdy or rough play.

horse-play-er (hōrs'plā'ər) n. Games. One who regularly bets on horseraces.

horse-pow-er (hōrs'pou'ər) n. Abbr. hp 1. A unit of power in the U.S. Customary System, equal to 745.7 watts or 33,000 foot-pounds per minute. 2. The power exerted by a horse in pulling.

horse-race or horse race (hōrs'rās') n. 1. Sports. A contest in which horses ridden by jockeys are raced against each other. 2. A closely fought contest or competition: "The election appears now to be a horse race" (New York Times).

—horse'rac'ing n.

horse-rad-ish (hōrs'rād'ish) n. 1. A coarse Eurasian plant (Armoracia rusticana) in the mustard family, having a thick, whitish, pungent root, large basal leaves, and white flowers in a terminal panicle. 2. a. The roots of this plant. b. A sharp condiment made of the grated roots of this plant.

horse sense (hōrs sĕns) n. Informal. Common sense; gumption.

horse-shit (hōrs'shīt', hōrsh'-) n. 1. Vulgar. Excrement of a horse. 2. Vulgar Slang. Meaningless or insincere talk or action; nonsense.

horse-shoe (hōrs'shōō', hōrsh'-) n. 1. A flat U-shaped metal plate fitted and nailed to the bottom of a horse's hoof for protection. 2. A U-shaped object similar to a horseshoe. 3. horseshoes. (used with a sing. verb). Games. A game in which players toss horseshoes or horseshoe-shaped metal pieces at a stake so as to encircle it or come closer to it than the other players. — v. tr. horse-shoed, horse-shoe-ing, horse-shoes. To fit with horseshoes.

horseshoe crab (hōrs'shōō' krāb) n. Any of various marine arthropods of the class Merostomata, especially Limulus polyphemus or Xiphosura polyphemus of eastern North America, having a large, rounded body and a stiff, pointed tail. Also called king crab, limulus.

Horse-shoe Falls (hōrs'shōō' fōlz, hōrsh'-) See Canadian Falls.

horse-tail (hōrs'tāl') n. Any of various nonflowering plants of the genus Equisetum, having a jointed, hollow stem and narrow, sometimes much reduced leaves. Also called equisetum horse-trad·ing (hôrs'trā'dĩng) n. Negotiation characterized by hard bargaining and shrewd exchange: political horse-trading. —horse trade n. —horse/-trade' v. —horse trader n.

horse-weed (hôrs'wēd') n. A weedy North American plant (Erigeron canadensis) having narrow leaves and numerous small white or greenish flower heads grouped in panicles.

horse-whip (hôrs'hwĭp', -wĭp') n. A whip used to control a horse. — v. tr. horse-whipped, horse-whip·ping, horse-whips. To beat with or as if with a horsewhip.

horse-wom·an (hôrs'wōm'ən) n. 1. a. A woman who rides a horse. b. A woman skilled in equitation. 2. A woman who breeds and raises horses.

hors·ey (hôr'sē) adj. Variant of horsy.

horst (hôrst) n. A mass of the earth's crust that lies between two faults and is higher than the surrounding land. [German, from Middle High German hurst, thicket, from Old High German.]

hors·y also hors·ey (hôr'sē) adj. hors·i·er, hors·i·est. 1. Of, relating to, or resembling horses or a horse. 2. Devoted to horses and equitation: the horsy set. 3. Large and clumsy: a horsy bureau; horsy illustrations on the page. —hors'i·ly adv. —hors'i·ness n.

hort. abbr. 1. Horticultural. 2. Horticulture.

hor·ta·tive (hôr'tə-tĭv) adj. Hortatory. [Late Latin hortātīvus, from Latin hortātus, past participle of hortārī, to exhort. See gher⁻² in Appendix.] —hor'ta·tive·ly adv.

hor·ta·to·ry (hôr'tə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj. Marked by exhortation or strong urging: a hortatory speech. [Late Latin hortātōrius, from Latin hortātus, exhorted. See HORTATIVE.]

Hor·thy (hôr'tē, hōr'-), Miklós von Nagybánya. 1868-1957. Hungarian admiral and politician. He became regent after leading a counterrevolution against Béla Kun (1920) but was abducted by Nazi forces in 1944 and taken prisoner by the Allies in 1945.

hor·ti·cul·ture (hôr'tĭ-kŭl'chər) n. Abbr. hort. 1. The science or art of cultivating fruits, vegetables, flowers, or ornamental plants. 2. The cultivation of a garden. [Latin hortus, garden; see gher⁻¹ in Appendix + (AGRI)CULTURE.]

—hor'ti·cul'tur·al adj. —hor'ti·cul'tur·al·ly adv. —hor'ti·cul'tur·ist n.

Hor·ton River (hôr'tn rĭv'ər) A river, about 443 km (275 mi) long, of northern Northwest Territories, Canada, flowing northwest into Franklin Bay, an inlet of the Beaufort Sea.

Ho·rus (hôr'əs, hōr'-) n. Mythology. The ancient Egyptian god of the sun, son of Osiris and Isis, represented as having the head of a hawk.

Hos. abbr. Bible. Hosea.

ho·san·na also ho·san·nah (hō-zăn'ə) interj. Used to express praise or adoration to God. — n. 1. A cry of “hosanna.” 2. A shout of fervent and worshipful praise. [Middle English osanna, from Old English, from Late Latin ōsanna, from Greek hōsanna, from Hebrew hōšā' nā', from hōšā' nā', save (us), I pray.]

hose (hōz) n. pl. hose or hos-es. 1. pl. hose. Stockings; socks. Used only in the plural. 2. pl. hose. a. Close-fitting breeches or leggings reaching up to the hips and fastened to a doublet, formerly worn by men. Used only in the plural. b. Breeches reaching down to the knees. Used only in the plural. 3. pl. hos-es. A flexible tube for conveying liquids or gases under pressure. — v. tr. hosed, hos-ing, hos-es. 1. To water, drench, or wash with a hose: hosed down the deck; hosed off the dog. 2. Slang. To attack and kill (someone), typically by use of a firearm: hosed the enemy trooper. [Middle English, a stocking, from Old English hosa, leg covering. See (s)keu- in Appendix.]

Ho·se·a (hō-zē'ə, -zā'ə) n. Bible. 1. A Hebrew prophet of the eighth century B.C. 2. Abbr. Hos., Ho A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

ho·sey (hō'zē) v. intr. ho-seyed, ho-sey-ing, ho-seys. New England. To choose sides for a children's game. [Perhaps from French (je) choisis, (I) choose, first person sing. present of choisir, to choose, from Old French. See CHOICE.]

REGIONAL NOTE: Children in New England, especially in the Boston area, use the expression I hosey when they are choosing sides for a game. The Boston Globe asked readers about it in late 1987 and received responses from Boston; Belmont, Massachusetts; New Hampshire; and Maine. Its users agree that it is a children's expression but are unsure of its origin—some think that it derives from a pronunciation of choose with a heavy Irish brogue. Another possible origin of the expression is French-Canadian choisir, “to choose.”

ho·sier·y (hō'zhə-rē) n. 1. Socks and stockings; hose. 2. Chiefly British. Stockings, socks, and underclothing. [hosier, maker of stockings (from Middle English, from hose, a stocking); see HOSE + -Y².]

hosp. abbr. Hospital.

hos·pice (hös'pīs) n. 1. A shelter or lodging for travelers, pilgrims, foundlings, or the destitute, especially one maintained by a monastic order. 2. A program that provides palliative care and attends to the emotional, spiritual, social, and financial needs of terminally ill patients at an inpatient facility or at the patient's home. [French, from Old French, from Latin hospitium, hospitality, from hospes, hospit-, host. See ghos-ti- in Appendix.]

hos·pi·ta·ble (hös'pī-tə-bəl, hō-spīt'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Disposed to treat guests with warmth and generosity. 2. Indicative of cordiality toward guests: a hospitable act. 3. Having an open mind; receptive: hospitable to new ideas. 4. Favorable to growth and development; agreeable: a hospitable environment. [Obsolete hos-pi-tal (hōs/'pī-tl, -pīt'l) n. Abbr. hosp. 1. An institution that provides medical, surgical, or psychiatric care and treatment for the sick or the injured. 2. Chiefly British. A charitable institution, such as an orphanage or a home for the elderly. 3. A repair shop for specified items: a doll hospital. 4. Archaic. A hospice for travelers or pilgrims. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: hospital food; hospital patients. [Middle English, hospice, from Old French ospital, from Medieval Latin hospitāle, from Latin hospitālis, of a guest, from hospes, hospit-, guest. See ghos-ti- in Appendix.]

French, from Medieval Latin hospitābilis*, from Latin hospitāre, to put up as a guest, from hospes, hospit-, guest, host. See ghos-ti- in Appendix.]

—hos/pi-ta-bly adv.

hospital corner (hōs/'pī-tl kôr'nər) n. A tight-fitting triangular fold made by tucking a sheet and blanket securely under a mattress on the end and on each side at the corners.

Hos-pi-tal-er also Hos-pi-tal-ler (hōs/'pīt'l-ər) n. 1. A member of a military religious order founded among European crusaders in 12th-century Jerusalem to care for sick and needy pilgrims. 2. A member of any of several religious orders dedicated to the care of sick or needy persons. [Middle English Hospiteler, from Old French hospitalier, from Medieval Latin hospitālārius, giver of hospitality, from hospitāle, hospice. See HOSPITAL.]

Hos-pi-ta-let (hōs/'pīt-l-ēt', ôs'pē-tā-lēt') A city of northeast Spain, an industrial suburb of Barcelona. Population, 288,290.

hos-pi-tal-i-ty (hōs/'pī-tāl'ī-tē) n. pl. hos-pi-tal-i-ties. 1. Cordial and generous reception of or disposition toward guests. 2. An instance of cordial and generous treatment of guests. [Middle English hospitalite, from Old French, from Latin hospitālītās, from hospitālis, of a guest. See HOSPITAL.]

hos-pi-tal-i-za-tion (hōs/'pī-tl-ī-zā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of placing a person in a hospital as a patient. b. The condition of being hospitalized. 2. Insurance that fully or partially covers a patient's hospital expenses.

hos-pi-tal-ize (hōs/'pīt-l-īz') v. tr. hos-pi-tal-ized, hos-pi-tal-iz-ing, hos-pi-tal-iz-es. To place in a hospital for treatment, care, or observation.

Hos-pi-tal-ler (hōs/'pīt'l-ər) n. Variant of Hospitaler.

host¹ (hōst) n. 1. One who receives or entertains guests in a social or an official capacity. 2. A person who manages an inn or a hotel. 3. One that furnishes facilities and resources for a function or an event: the city chosen as host for the Olympic games. 4. The emcee or interviewer on a radio or television program.

5. Biology. The animal or plant on which or in which another organism lives.

6. Medicine. The recipient of a transplanted tissue or organ. — v. tr. host-ed, host-ing, hosts. Usage Problem. To serve as host to or at: “the garden party he had hosted last spring” (Saturday Review). [Middle English, host, guest, from Old French, from Late Latin hospes, hospit-. See ghos-ti- in Appendix.] —host/ly adj.

USAGE NOTE: Host was used as a verb in Shakespeare’s time, but this usage was long obsolete when the verb was reintroduced (or perhaps reinvented) in recent years to mean “perform the role of a host.” The usage occurs particularly in contexts relating to institutional gatherings or television and radio shows, where the person performing the role of host has not personally invited the guests to his or her own establishment (thus it would be odd to say This evening we are hosting a dinner party at our house for my husband’s cousins from New York). Perhaps because the verb involves a suspect extension of the traditional conception of hospitality, it initially met with critical resistance. In a 1968 survey only 18 percent of the Usage Panel accepted the usage in the sentence The Cleveland chapter will host this year’s convention. Over time, however, the usage has become increasingly well established and appears to serve a useful purpose in describing the activities of one who performs the ceremonial or practical role of a host (in arranging a conference or entertainment, welcoming guests, and so forth). In our most recent survey 53 percent of the Panelists accepted the usage in the phrase a reception hosted by the Secretary of State. The verb is less well accepted when used to describe the role of a performer who acts as a master of ceremonies for a broadcast or film, where the relation of the word to the notion of “hospitality” is stretched still further. Only 31 percent of the Panel accepted the use of the verb in the sentence Students have watched Sex, Drugs and AIDS, a graphic film hosted by actress Rae Dawn Chong. • The verb cohost has likewise become well established in its use to refer to those who collaborate in assuming responsibility for an occasion. Fifty-eight percent of the Usage Panel accepted this use in the sentence The Department of Architecture and the Department of History will be cohosting a reception for conference participants.

host² (hōst) n. 1. An army. 2. A great number; a multitude. See Synonyms at multitude. [Middle English, from Old French, from Late Latin hostis, from Latin, enemy. See ghos-ti- in Appendix.]

host³ also Host (hōst) n. Ecclesiastical. The consecrated bread or wafer of the Eucharist. [Middle English, from Latin hostia, sacrifice.]

hos-ta (hō’stə, hōs’tə) n. See plantain lily. [New Latin Hosta, genus name, after Nicolaus Thomas Host (1761-1834), Austrian botanist.]

hos-tage (hōs’tij) n. 1. A person held by one party in a conflict as security that specified terms will be met by the opposing party. 2. One that serves as security against an implied threat: superpowers held hostage to each other by their nuclear arsenals. 3. One that is manipulated by the demands of another: “National poli- cies cannot be made hostage to another country” (Alan D. Romberg). [Middle English, from Old French, probably from host, guest, host. See HOST¹.]

hos·tel (hös'təl) n. 1. A supervised, inexpensive lodging place for travelers, especially young travelers. 2. An inn; a hotel. — v. intr. hos·teled, hos·tel·ing, hos·tels. To stay at hostels while traveling. [Middle English, lodging, from Old French, from Medieval Latin hospitāle, hospice, inn. See HOSPITAL.]

hos·tel·er (hös'tə-lər) n. 1. A traveler who stays at hostels. 2. Archaic. An innkeeper.

hos·tel·ry (hös'təl-rē) n. pl. hos·tel·ries. An inn; a hotel. [Middle English hostelrie, from Old French hostellerie, from hostel, lodging, inn. See HOSTEL.]

host·ess (hō'stīs) n. 1. A woman who receives or entertains guests in a social or official capacity. 2. A woman who manages an inn or a hotel. 3. A woman who is the emcee or interviewer on a radio or television program. 4. A woman who is employed to greet and assist patrons, as in a restaurant. 5. A woman who is employed to dance with customers in a dance hall or nightclub. See Usage Note at -ess.

hos·tile (hös'təl, -tīl') adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of an enemy: hostile forces; hostile acts. 2. Feeling or showing enmity or ill will; antagonistic: a hostile remark. 3. Unfavorable to health or well-being; inhospitable or adverse: a hostile climate. — n. 1. An antagonistic person or thing. 2. An enemy in warfare. [Latin hostīlis, from hostis, enemy. See ghos-ti- in Appendix.]

—hos'tile·ly adv.

hos·til·i·ty (hō-stīl'ī-tē) n. pl. hos·til·i·ties. 1. The state of being hostile; antagonism or enmity. See Synonyms at enmity. 2. a. A hostile act.

b. hostilities. Acts of war; overt warfare.

hos·tler (hös'lər, ös'-) also os·tler (ös'-) n. 1. One who is employed to tend horses, especially at an inn. 2. One who services a large vehicle or engine, such as a locomotive. [Middle English, from Anglo-Norman hostiler, from Old French hostel, lodging. See HOSTEL.]

hot (hۆt) adj. hot·ter, hot·test. 1. a. Having or giving off heat; capable of burning. b. Being at a high temperature. 2. Being at or exhibiting a temperature that is higher than normal or desirable: a hot forehead. 3. Causing a burning sensation, as in the mouth; spicy: hot peppers; a hot curry. 4. a. Charged or energized with electricity: a hot wire. b. Radioactive, especially to a dangerous degree. 5. a. Marked by intensity of emotion; ardent or fiery: a hot temper.

b. Having or displaying great enthusiasm; eager: hot for travel. 6. a. Informal. Arousing intense interest, excitement, or controversy: a hot new book; a hot topic.

b. Informal. Marked by excited activity or energy: a hot week on the stock market.

c. Violent; raging: a hot battle. 7. Slang. Sexually excited or exciting. 8. Slang.

a. Recently stolen: a hot car. b. Wanted by the police: a hot suspect. 9. Close to a successful solution or conclusion: hot on the trail. 10. Informal. a. Most recent; new or fresh: a hot news item; the hot fashions for fall. b. Currently very popular or successful: one of the hottest young talents around. c. Requiring immediate action or attention: a hot opportunity. 11. Slang. Very good or impressive. Often used in the negative: I'm not so hot at math. 12. Slang. Funny or absurd: told a hot one about the neighbors' dog. 13. Slang. a. Performing with great skill and daring: a hot drummer. b. Fast and responsive: a hot sports car. c. Unusually lucky: hot at craps. 14. Music. Of, relating to, or being an emotionally charged style of performance marked by strong rhythms and improvisation: hot jazz. 15. Color. Bold and bright. — n. also hots Slang. Strong sexual attraction or desire. Used with the. — adv. 1. In a hot manner; hotly. 2. While hot: foods that are best eaten hot. — v. tr. hot-ted, hot-ting, hots. Informal. To cause to increase in intensity or excitement. Often used with up: “His book is an exercise in the fashionable art of instant history, in which every episode is hotted up with an anecdote” (Harper’s). — idioms. hot and bothered. Informal. In a state of agitated excitement; flustered: all hot and bothered before the opening performance. hot to trot. Slang. 2. Sexually avid; lascivious. 3. Ready and willing; eager. hot under the collar. Informal. Angry. make it hot for. Slang. To make things uncomfortable or dangerous for: Don't make it hot for yourself by needlessly finding fault. [Middle English, from Old English hāt. See kai- in Appendix.] — hot/ness n.

hot air (hõt âr) n. Slang. Empty, exaggerated talk.

hot-bed (hõt'bëd') n. 1. An environment conducive to vigorous growth or development, especially of something undesirable: a hotbed of intrigue. 2. A glass-covered bed of soil heated with fermenting manure or by electricity, used for the germination of seeds or for protecting tender plants.

hot-blood-ed (hõt'blüd'id) adj. Easily excited or aroused: a hot-blooded youth. — hot'/blood/ed-ness n.

hot-box (hõt'böks') n. An axle or journal box, as on a railway car, that has become overheated by excessive friction.

hot button (hõt бүt'n) n. Slang. 1. A psychological propensity for immediate or predictable response or reaction, as to a political issue or marketing tactic: an issue that presses voters' hot buttons. 2. Something that is of great interest or is known to elicit immediate or predictable response or reaction: a new product that is a hot button among young consumers. — hot'/but/ton (hõt'büt'n) adj.

hot-cake also hot cake (hõt'kāk') n. See pancake. — idiom. go like hot-cakes (or sell like hotcakes). Informal. To be disposed of quickly; be in great demand: Programs for the championship game went like hotcakes.

hotch (höch) v. intr. hotched, hotch-ing, hotch-es. Scots. To fidget. [Middle English, perhaps from Old French hocher, to shake, possibly of Germanic origin.]

hotch-pot (höch'pöt') n. Law. The gathering together of properties to ensure an equal division of the total for distribution, as among the heirs of an intestate parent. [Middle English hochepot, from Old French, mixture, stew : hocher, to shake together; see HOTCH + pot, pot.]

hotch·potch (höch'pöch') n. A hodgepodge. [Middle English hochepoche, alteration of hochepot. See HOTCHPOT.]

hot cross bun (höt krôs būn) n. A sweet bun marked on top with a cross of frosting, traditionally eaten during Lent.

hot dog or hot-dog (höt'dôg', -dög') n. 1. A frankfurter, especially one served hot in a long soft roll. Also called red-hot 2. Slang. One who performs showy, often dangerous stunts, as in skiing or surfing. — interj. Informal. Used to express delight or enthusiasm.

hot-dog (höt'dôg', -dög') v. intr. hot--dogged, hot--dog-ging, hot--dogs. Slang. To perform daring stunts or acrobatic feats, especially while skiing or surfing. — hot'-dog'ger n. — hot'-dog'ging adj. & n.

ho·tel (hō-těl') n. An establishment that provides lodging and usually meals and other services for travelers and other paying guests. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: hotel guests; hotel furnishings. [French hôtel, from Old French hostel, hostel. See HOSTEL.]

ho·te·lier (ō'təl-yā', hō'-) n. A manager or an owner of a hotel. Also called hotelkeeper [French hôtelier, from Old French hostilier, from hostel, inn. See HOSTEL.]

ho·tel·keep·er (hō-těl'kē'pər) n. See hotelier.

hot flash (höt flăsh) n. 1. A sudden, brief sensation of heat, often over the entire body, caused by a transient dilation of the blood vessels of the skin and experienced by some women during menopause. 2. Slang. A brief, important piece of news or other information.

hot-foot (höt'fööt') v. intr. hot-foot-ed, hot-foot-ing, hot-foots. Informal. To go in haste. Often used with it: hotfoot it out of town. — adv. In haste. — n. pl. hot-foots. The practical joke of lighting a match that has been secretly inserted between the sole and upper of a victim's shoe.

hot-head (höt'hěd') n. A quick-tempered or impetuous person.

hot-head·ed (höt'hěd'id) adj. 1. Easily angered; quick-tempered: a hotheaded commander. 2. Impetuous; rash: a hotheaded decision. — hot'/head'/ed-ly adv. — hot'/head'/ed-ness n.

hot-house (höt'hous') n. A heated greenhouse for plants that require an even, relatively warm temperature. — adj. 1. Grown in a hothouse: a hothouse orchid. 2. Delicate and sensitive, as if from growing up in a protective environment: hothouse children; hothouse views on social progress.

hot line or hot-line (höt'līn') n. 1. A direct and immediate telephone linkup, especially between heads of government, as for use in a crisis. 2. A telephone line that gives quick and direct access to a source of information or help: "This 24-hour hot line has... volunteers on duty to talk to callers about personal problems” (New York).

hot·ly (höt'lē) adv. In an intense or fiery way: a hotly contested will; answered hotly that he was innocent.

hot metal (höt mēt'l) n. Printing. Type cast from molten metal.

hot money (höt mün'ē) n. Money that is moved by its owner quickly from one form of investment to another, as to take advantage of changing international exchange rates or gain high short-term returns on investments.

hot pants (höt pänts) pl.n. 1. Vulgar Slang. Strong sexual desire. 2. Very brief tight shorts worn by women as an outer garment.

hot pepper (höt pēp'ər) n. 1. The pungent fruit of any of several varieties of Capsicum frutescens. 2. See pepper (n., sense 4).

hot plate (höt plāt) n. 1. An electrically heated plate for cooking or warming food. 2. A tabletop cooking device with one or two burners.

hot pot (höt pöt) n. Chiefly British. A stew of lamb or beef and potatoes cooked in a tightly covered pot.

hot potato (höt pə-tā'tō) n. Informal. A problem that is so controversial or sensitive that those handling it risk unpleasant consequences: gun control—a political hot potato.

hot rod also hot-rod (höt'röd') n. Slang. An automobile that has been rebuilt or modified to increase its speed and acceleration. —hot'-rod' v. —hot rod-der, hot'-rod'der n.

hot seat (höt sēt) n. 1. Slang. The electric chair. 2. Informal. A position in which one is subjected to extreme stress or discomfort, as by excessive criticism.

hot-shot (höt'shöt') n. 1. Slang. A person of impressive skill and daring, especially one who is highly successful and self-assured. 2. A nonstop freight train. —hot'shot' adj.

hot spot also hot-spot (höt'spöt') n. 1. An area in which there is dangerous unrest or hostile action: “opportunities... for United Nations forces to play a constructive role in some of the world's hot spots” (Paul Lewis). 2. Informal. A lively and popular place, such as a nightclub. 3. An area of intense heat, radiation, or activity.

hot spring (höt sprīng) n. A natural spring that issues water warmer than body temperature and therefore feels hot.

Hot Springs (höt sprīngz) A city of west-central Arkansas west-southwest of Little Rock. It is a health resort noted for its 47 thermal springs. Hernando de Soto first visited the site in 1541. Population, 32,462.

Hot·ten·tot (höt'n-töt') n. pl. Hottentot or Hot·ten·tots. Offensive. 1. A Khoikhoin. 2. Any of the Khoikhoin group of languages. [Afrikaans.]

hot-tish (höt'ish) adj. Somewhat hot.

hot toddy (höt tōd'ē) n. A drink consisting of whiskey, brandy, or other liquor mixed with hot water, sugar, and spices.

hot tub (höt tüb) n. A very large tub made of ceramic, acrylic, wood, or another substance and filled with hot water in which one or more bathers may soak.

hot war (höt wôr) n. Armed, open conflict between nations or factions. [HOT + (COLD) WAR.]

hot water (höt wô'tər) n. Trouble; difficulty: is in political hot water; got into hot water over the car deal.

hot-water bottle (höt'wô'tər bōt'l, -wōt'ər) n. A stoppered container, usually made of plastic or rubber, that is filled with hot water and applied to a part of the body for warmth. Also called hot-water bag hot-wire (höt'wīr') v. tr. hot-wired, hot-wiring, hot-wires. Informal.

To start the engine of (an automobile, for example) without a key, as by short-circuiting the ignition system.

hou-dah (hou'də) n. Variant of howdah.

Hou-dan (hōō'dän') n. A domesticated fowl characterized by black-and-white plumage and a V-shaped comb. [French, after Houdan, a village of north-central France.]

Hou-di-ni (hōō-dē'nē), Harry. 1874-1926. American magician known for his escapes from chains, handcuffs, straitjackets, and padlocked containers.

Hou-don (hōō'dōn', ōō-dōn') , Jean Antoine. 1741-1828. French sculptor who executed statues of Washington and Voltaire and busts of Jefferson, Rousseau, and Lafayette.

Hough (hūf), Emerson. 1857-1923. American writer and conservationist whose works include The Covered Wagon (1922) and Mother of Gold (1924).

Hough-ton (hōt'n), Henry Oscar. 1823-1895. American publisher who founded (1852) the printing office that became the Houghton Mifflin Company.

Hou-ma (hō'mə, hōō'-) A city of southeast Louisiana on the Intracoastal Waterway southwest of New Orleans. It is a processing center for seafood and sugar. Population, 30,495.

hound (hound) n. 1. a. A domestic dog of any of various breeds commonly used for hunting, characteristically having drooping ears, a short coat, and a deep, resonant voice. b. A dog. 2. A contemptible person; a scoundrel. 3. a. One who eagerly pursues something: a news hound. b. A devotee or an enthusiast: a coffee hound. — v. tr. hound-ed, hound-ing, hounds. 1. To pursue relentlessly and tenaciously. See Synonyms at harass. 2. To urge insistently; nag: hounded me until I agreed to cut my hair. [Middle English, from Old English hund. See kwon- in Appendix.] — hound'er n.

hound's-tongue (houndz'tüŋg') n. Any of several Eurasian plants of the genus Cynoglossum, having hairy leaves, small reddish-purple flowers, and prickly, clinging fruit. [Middle English houndes-tongue, from Old English hun- des-tunge (translation of Latin cynoglossus, from Greek kunoglossos) : hundes, genitive of hund, hound; see HOUND + tunge, tongue; see TONGUE.]

hounds-tooth check or hound's-tooth check (houndz'tōōth' chĕk) n. A textile design of small broken checks.

Houns-field (hounz'fēld'), Godfrey Newbold. Born 1919. British engineer and inventor. He shared a 1979 Nobel Prize for developing the CAT scan x-ray technique.

Hou-phouët-Boi-gny (ōō-fwā'bwä-nyē'), Felix. Born 1905. President of Ivory Coast since its independence from France in 1960. He has maintained close ties with France and encouraged the growth of large-scale agriculture.

hour (our) n. Abbr. hr, h 1. One of the 24 equal parts of a day. 2. a. One of the points on a timepiece marking off 12 or 24 successive intervals of 60 minutes, from midnight to noon and noon to midnight or from midnight to midnight.

b. The time of day indicated by a 12-hour clock. c. hours. The time of day determined on a 24-hour basis: 1730 hours is 5:30 P.M. 3. A unit of measure of longitude or right ascension, equal to 15° or 24 of a great circle. 4. a. A customary or fixed time: the dinner hour. b. hours. A set period of time for a specified activity: banking hours. 5. a. A particular time: their hour of need. b. A significant time: Her hour had come. c. The present time: the man of the hour.

6. a. The work that can be accomplished in an hour. b. The distance that can be traveled in an hour. 7. a. A single session of a school day or class. b. A credit hour. 8. hours. Ecclesiastical. The canonical hours. [Middle English, from Old French heure, from Latin hōra, from Greek, season, time. See yēr- in Appendix.]

hour angle (our äng'gəl) n. Abbr. ha The angular distance, measured westward along the celestial equator, between the celestial meridian of the observer and the hour circle passing through a celestial body.

hour circle (our sūr'kəl) n. A great circle passing through the poles of the celestial sphere and intersecting the celestial equator at right angles.

hour-glass (our'gläs') n. An instrument for measuring time, consisting of two glass chambers connected by a narrow neck and containing a quantity of sand, mercury, or another flowing substance that trickles from the upper chamber to the lower in a fixed amount of time, often one hour. — adj. Shaped like an hourglass: an hourglass design; an hourglass figure.

hou-ri (hōōr'ē, hōō'rē) n. pl. hou-ris. 1. A voluptuous, alluring woman.

2. One of the beautiful virgins of the Koranic paradise. [French, from Persian hūrī, from Arabic hūr, pl. of haurā', dark-eyed woman.]

hour-long or hour-long (our'lông', -lông') adj. Lasting an hour: an hour-long television episode.

hour-ly (our'lē) adj. 1. Occurring every hour: hourly chimes. 2. Frequent; continual: hourly changes in the plans. 3. By the hour as a unit: hourly pay. — adv.

1. At or during every hour: The news is broadcast hourly. 2. Frequently; continually: complaints that came hourly. — n. pl. hour-lies. Informal. An employee paid by the hour.

Hou-sa-ton-ic (hōō'sə-tŏn'ik) A river rising in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts and flowing about 209 km (130 mi) generally south through western Connecticut to Long Island Sound.

house (haus) n. pl. hous-es (hou'ziz, -siz). Abbr. ho. 1. a. A structure serving as a dwelling for one or more persons, especially for a family. b. A household or family. 2. Something, such as a burrow or shell, that serves as a shelter or habitation for a wild animal. 3. A dwelling for a group of people, such as students or members of a religious community, who live together as a unit: a sorority house. 4. A building that functions as the primary shelter or location of something: a carriage house; the lion house at the zoo. 5. a. A facility, such as a theater or restaurant, that provides entertainment or food for the public: a movie house; the specialty of the house. b. The audience or patrons of such an establishment: a full house. 6. a. A commercial firm: a brokerage house. b. A publishing company: a house that specializes in cookbooks. c. A gambling casino. d. Slang. A house of prostitution. 7. A residential college within a university. 8. a. Often House. A legislative or deliberative assembly. b. The hall or chamber in which such an assembly meets. c. A quorum of such an assembly. 9. Often House. A family line including ancestors and descendants, especially a royal or noble family: the House of Orange. 10. a. One of the 12 parts into which the heavens are divided in astrology. b. The sign of the zodiac indicating the seat or station of a planet in the heavens. In this sense, also called mansion — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: the house wine; house paint. — v. housed, hous-ing, hous-es (houz). — v. tr. 1. To provide living quarters for; lodge: The cottage housed ten students. 2. To shelter, keep, or store in or as if in a house: a library housing rare books. 3. To contain; harbor. 4. To fit into a socket or mortise. 5. Nautical. To secure or stow safely. — v. intr. 1. To reside; dwell. 2. To take shelter. — idioms. like a house on fire (or like a house afire). Informal. In an extremely speedy manner: ran away like a house on fire; tickets that sold like a house afire. on the house. At the expense of the establishment; free: food and drinks on the house. put (one's) house in order (or set (one's) house in order). To organize one's affairs in a sensible, logical way. [Middle English, from Old English hūs.]

House, Edward Mandell. Known as "Colonel House." 1858-1938. American diplomat and adviser to President Woodrow Wilson. He organized U.S. preparations for the Paris Peace Conference of 1919.

house arrest (haus ə-rĕst') n. Law. Confinement to one's quarters, rather than prison, by administrative or judicial order: a prisoner under house arrest.

house-boat (haus'bōt') n. 1. Nautical. A barge designed and equipped for use as a dwelling or cruiser. 2. See banana split. See Regional note at milk shake.

house-bound (hous'bound') adj. Confined to one's home, as by illness.

house-boy (hous'boi') n. A male servant in a house.

house brand (hous bränd) n. 1. A proprietary brand of merchandise sold by one retailer and often bearing the name of the retailer. 2. An item of merchandise sold under a house brand, usually at a lower price than an equivalent name-brand item.

house-break (hous'bräk') v. tr. house-broke (-brök'), house-bro-ken (-brō'kən), house-break-ing, house-breaks. 1. To train to have excretory habits that are acceptable for indoor living: housebreak a puppy. 2. To subdue; tame. — n. Burglary of a dwelling: a neighborhood in which housebreaks are a common occurrence.

house-break-ing (hous'brā'kīng) n. Law. The act of unlawfully breaking into and entering another's house. — house'break'er n.

house-broke (hous'brök') v. Past tense of housebreak.

house-bro-ken (hous'brō'kən) v. Past participle of housebreak. — adj.

1. Trained to have excretory habits that are appropriate for indoor living: a fully housebroken dog. 2. Trained to be docile or compliant.

house call (hous kôl) n. A professional visit made to a home, especially by a physician.

house-carl (hous'kärl') n. A member of the bodyguard or household troops of a Danish or Anglo-Saxon king or noble.

house-clean-ing (hous'klē'nīng) n. 1. The cleaning and tidying of a house and its contents. 2. Informal. Removal of unwanted personnel, methods, or policies in an effort at reform or improvement.

house-coat (hous'kōt') n. A woman's garment, usually long and loose, used for informal wear at home.

house detective (hous dī-tĕk'tiv) n. A detective employed by a retail store, a hotel, or another establishment to prevent theft or misconduct by patrons.

house-dress (hous'drĕs') n. A simple, washable dress worn for housework.

house finch (hous fīnch) n. See linnet (n., sense 2).

house-fly (hous'flī') n. A common, widely distributed fly (Musca domestica) that frequents human dwellings, breeds in moist or decaying organic matter, and transmits a wide variety of diseases.

house-ful (hous'fööl) n. The amount or number that a house can hold or accommodate: a houseful of Victorian furniture; a houseful of guests.

house-guest (hous'gĕst') n. A person who stays in a home as a guest.

house-hold (hous'höld') n. 1. a. A domestic unit consisting of the members of a family who live together along with nonrelatives such as servants. b. The living spaces and possessions belonging to such a unit. 2. A person or group of people occupying a single dwelling: the rise of nonfamily households. — adj.

1. Of, relating to, or used in a household: household appliances. 2. Commonly known; familiar: has become a household name. [Middle English : house, house; see HOUSE + hold, possession, holding (from Old English, from healdan, to hold); see HOLD¹.]

household arts (hous'höld' ärts) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). See home economics.

household-er (hous'höl'där) n. 1. One who occupies or owns a house.
2. The head of a household.

household troops (hous'höld' trōops) pl.n. The regiments of cavalry and infantry that escort and guard a sovereign and a royal family.

household word (hous'höld' wûrd) n. A widely known saying, name, person, or thing: "It was an American journalist... who made [T.E.] Lawrence a household word" (H.D.S. Greenway).

house-hus-band (hous'hüz'bænd) n. A married man who manages the household as his main occupation and whose wife usually earns the family income.

house-keep-er (hous'kē'pær) n. 1. One who is employed to perform or direct the domestic tasks in a household. 2. A housewife. 3. An employee of an establishment, such as a hospital, an inn, or a hotel, who manages other employees engaged in domestic tasks.

house-keep-ing (hous'kē'pïng) n. 1. Performance or management of household tasks. 2. Management and maintenance of the property and equipment of an institution or organization. 3. Routine tasks and procedures carried out in the functioning of an operation or a system. —house/keep' v.

hou-sel (hou'zəl) Archaic. n. The Eucharist. — v. tr. hou-seled, hou-sel-ing, hou-sels. To administer the Eucharist to. [Middle English, from Old English hūsel.]

house-leek (hous'lēk') n. Any of various plants of the genus Sempervivum native to the Old World, especially S. tectorum, having a persistent, basal rosette of fleshy leaves and a branching cluster of pinkish or purplish flowers. Also called live-forever, old-man-and-woman.

house-lights (hous'līts') pl.n. The lights that illuminate the audience section of a concert hall, a theater, or an auditorium.

house-maid (hous'mād') n. A woman or girl employed to do housework.

house-maid's knee (hous'mādz' nē) n. A swelling of the bursa in front of the patella just beneath the skin, caused by trauma, such as excessive kneeling.

house-man (hous'män', -mən) n. A man employed for cleaning, maintenance, and other general work in a house or hotel.

House-man (hous'mən), John. 1902-1988. American producer, director, and actor. He directed a number of Shakespearean productions and cofounded the Mercury Theater with Orson Welles.

house martin (hous mār'tn) n. An Old World bird (Delichon urbica) having blue-black plumage, white rump and underparts, and a forked tail. Also called martlet house-mas-ter (hous'mäs'tər) n. A male teacher in charge of a residence hall at a school.

house-mate (hous'māt') n. One who shares a house with another.

house-moth-er (hous'mūth'ər) n. A woman employed as supervisor or housekeeper of a residence hall for young people.

house mouse (hous mous) n. A common gray or brownish-gray mouse (Mus musculus) that lives in or near buildings and often carries disease. It is frequently used in laboratory experiments.

House of Burgesses (hous ūv būr'jis-iz) n. The lower house of the legislature in colonial Virginia.

House of Commons (hous ūv kōm'ənz) n. Abbr. H.C. The lower house of Parliament in the United Kingdom and Canada. Also called Commons house of correction (hous ūv kə-rĕk'shən) n. pl. houses of correction. An institution for the confinement of persons convicted of minor criminal offenses.

House of Delegates (hous ūv dĕl'i-gāts') n. The lower house of the state legislature in Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia.

House of Lords (hous ūv lôrdz) n. Abbr. H.L. The upper house of Parliament in the United Kingdom, made up of members of the nobility and high-ranking clergy. Also called Lords house of prostitution (hous ūv prōs'ti-tōō'shən) n. pl. houses of prostitution. An establishment in which the services of prostitutes are available on the premises.

House of Representatives (hous ūv rĕp'rĭ-zĕn'tĕ-tĭvz) n. Abbr. H.R. The lower house of the U.S. Congress and of most state legislatures.

house organ (hous ôr'gən) n. A periodical published by a business organization for its employees or clients.

house-paint-er or house painter (hous'pān'tər) n. One whose occupation is painting houses.

house party (hous pār'tĕ) n. A party at which guests stay overnight or for several days in a residence, such as the home of the one giving the party.

house physician (hous fĭ-zĭsh'ən) n. 1. A physician, especially an intern or a resident who cares for hospitalized patients under the supervision of the surgical and medical staff of a hospital. 2. A physician employed by a hotel or another establishment.

house-plant (hous'plānt') n. Any of a wide variety of plants grown indoors, often for decorative purposes.

house-proud (hous'prəud') adj. Proud of one's house or its furnishings or upkeep.

house-rais-ing (hous'rā'zɪŋ) n. The construction of a house or its framework by a group of friends or neighbors.

house-room (hous'rōom', -rōom') n. Space or accommodation in or as if in a house.

house-sit (hous'sit') v. intr. house-sat (-sāt'), house-sit-ting, house-sits. To act as a house sitter. —house/sit/ting n.

house sitter (hous sīt'ər) n. A person who lives in and cares for a house while the regular occupant is away.

house snake (hous snāk) n. See milk snake.

house sparrow (hous spär'ō) n. A small bird (Passer domesticus) native to the Old World but widely naturalized elsewhere, having brown and gray plumage with a characteristic black throat in the adult male. Also called English sparrow house-top (hous'tɒp') n. The roof of a house. —idiom. shout from the housetops (or proclaim from the housetops). To make known publicly.

house-train also house-train (hous'trān') v. tr. house-trained, house-train-ing, house-trains. Chiefly British. To housebreak. —house-'trained' adj.

house-wares (hous'wârz') pl.n. Cooking utensils, dishes, and other small articles used in a household, especially in the kitchen.

house-warm-ing (hous'wôr'mɪŋ) n. A celebration of the occupancy of a new home. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: a housewarming present; a housewarming party.

house-wife (hous'wɪf') n. pl. house-wives (-wɪvz'). 1. A woman who manages her own household as her main occupation. 2. (hŭz'ɪf) A small container for needles, thread, and other sewing equipment. [Middle English houswif: house, house; see HOUSE + wife, wife; see WIFE.]

house-wife-ly (hous'wɪf'lē) adj. Of, relating to, or suited to a housewife; domestic. —house/wife/li-ness n.

house-wif-er-y (hous'wɪ'fə-rē, -wɪf'rē) n. The function or duties of a housewife; housekeeping.

house-work (hous'wŭrk') n. The tasks, such as cleaning and cooking, that are performed in housekeeping. —house/work'er n.

housing¹ (hou'zɪŋ) n. 1. a. Buildings or other shelters in which people live: a shortage of housing in the city. b. A place to live; a dwelling: She came to college early to look for housing. 2. Provision of lodging or shelter: the housing of refugees; a contract that includes housing. 3. Something that covers, protects, or supports, especially: a. A frame, bracket, or box for holding or protecting a mechanical part: a wheel housing. b. An enclosing frame in which a shaft revolves. 4. A hole, groove, or slot in a piece of wood into which another piece is inserted. 5. A niche for a statue. 6. Nautical. a. The part of a mast that is below deck. b. The part of a bowsprit that is inside the hull.

housing² (hou'zɪŋ) n. 1. An ornamental or protective covering for a saddle. 2. Often housings. Trappings for a horse. [From Middle English house, from Old French houce, from Medieval Latin hucia, hulcia, hultia, protective covering, of Germanic origin. See kel-¹ in Appendix.]

housing development (hou'zɪŋ dɪ-vɛl'əp-mənt) n. A group of similarly designed houses or apartment buildings, usually under a single management.

housing project (hou'zɪŋ prɔj'ɛkt') n. A publicly funded and administered housing development, usually for low-income families.

housing start (hou'zɪŋ stɑrt) n. 1. The beginning of construction of a dwelling. 2. housing starts. The number of new dwellings begun nationwide during a particular period, used as an economic indicator: "Housing starts... are well above their recession lows" (Paul A. Samuelson).

Hous-man (hous'mən), Alfred Edward. 1859-1936. British poet and scholar whose works appeared in A Shropshire Lad (1896) and Last Poems (1922).

Hous-say (ōō-sī'), Bernardo Alberto. 1887-1971. Argentine physiologist. He shared a 1947 Nobel Prize for research on pituitary hormones.

Hous-ton (hyōō'stən) A city of southeast Texas northwest of Galveston. Founded in 1836 and named for Sam Houston, it is a major industrial, commercial, and financial hub, the center of the U.S. aerospace industry, and a deep-water port connected with Galveston Bay and the Gulf of Mexico by the Houston Ship Channel. Houston is also the largest city in Texas. Population, 1,630,553. —Hous-to'ni-an (hyōō-stō'nē-ən) n.

Hous-ton (hyōō'stən), Samuel. 1793-1863. American general and politician who fought in the Texan struggle for independence from Mexico and became president of the Republic of Texas (1836-1838 and 1841-1844). When Texas was admitted to the Union, he served as U.S. senator (1845-1859) and governor (1859-1861).

hove (hōv) v. Nautical. — v. tr. Past tense and past participle of heave (v. intr., sense 4). — v. intr. Past tense and past participle of heave (v. tr., sense 5).

Hove (hōv) A municipal borough of southeast England on the English Channel west of Brighton. It is a residential seaside resort. Population, 88,500.

hov-el (hŭv'əl, hŏv'-) n. 1. A small, miserable dwelling. 2. An open, low shed. [Middle English, hut.]

hov-er (hŭv'ər, hŏv'-) v. intr. hov-ered, hov-er-ing, hov-ers. 1. To remain floating, suspended, or fluttering in the air: gulls hovering over the waves. 2. To remain or linger in or near a place: hovering around the speaker's podium. See Synonyms at flutter. 3. To remain in an uncertain state; waver: hovered between anger and remorse. — n. The act or state of hovering: a helicopter in hover.

[Middle English hoveren, frequentative of hoven.] —hov'er-er n. —hov'er-ing-ly adv.

hov'er-craft (hŭv'ər-kraft', hŏv' -) n. See air-cushion vehicle.

Hov-ey (hŭv'ē), Richard. 1864-1900. American writer known for his poetic dramas Lancelot and Guenevere (1891) and To the End of the Trail (1908).

how (hou) adv. 1. In what manner or way; by what means: How does this machine work? 2. In what state or condition: How is she today? 3. To what extent, amount, or degree: How bad was it? 4. For what reason or purpose; why: How is it that he left early? 5. With what meaning: How should I take that remark? 6. By what name: How is she called? 7. By what measure; in what units: How do you sell this corn? 8. What. Usually used in requesting that something be said again: How's that again? 9. Used as an intensive: How we laughed! — conj.

1. The manner or way in which: forgot how it was done. 2. That. 3. In whatever way or manner; however: Cook it how you please. — n. A manner or method of doing something: "The how of research is generated by the why of the world" (Frederick Turner). — idioms. and how. Informal. Most certainly; you bet: She's a good dancer, and how how about. What is your thought, feeling, or desire regarding: How about a cup of tea? How about that storm last night? how about that. Informal. Used rhetorically to express surprise or wonder at or approval for something. how come. Informal. How is it that; why: How come you're so late? how so. How is it so: You say the answer is wrong. How so? [Middle English howe, from Old English hū. See k^wo- in Appendix.]

How-ard (hou'ərd), Ada Lydia. 1829-1907. American educator and first president of Wellesley College (1875-1881).

How-ard (hou'ərd), Catherine. 1520?-1542. Queen of England as the fifth wife of Henry VIII (1540-1542). She was accused of adultery and subsequently executed.

How-ard (hou'ərd), Henry First Earl of Surrey. 1517?-1547. English poet and soldier remembered for his sonnets and his translations of two books of Virgil's Aeneid. In 1547 he was falsely charged with treason and executed.

How-ard (hou'ərd), Roy Wilson. 1883-1964. American journalist and publisher. He was chairman of the board (1921-1936 and 1953-1964) and president (1936-1953) of the United Press Association.

How-ard (hou'ərd), Sidney Coe. 1891-1939. American playwright best known for his play They Knew What They Wanted (1924), for which he won a Pulitzer Prize.

how-be-it (hou-bē'it) adv. Be that as it may; nevertheless. — conj. Obsolete. Although.

how-dah also hou-dah (hou'də) n. A seat, usually fitted with a canopy and railing, placed on the back of an elephant or a camel. [Urdu haudah, from Arabic hawdaj, from hadaja, to shuffle along, totter.]

how-dy (hou/'dē) interj. Used to express a greeting. [From how do ye, how do you do.]

Howe (hou), Elias. 1819-1867. American inventor and manufacturer who designed early sewing machines (1845 and 1846) and subsequently won patent-infringement suits against a number of manufacturers, including Isaac M. Singer.

Howe (hou), Irving. Born 1920. American social critic and editor who founded the magazine Dissent (1953).

Howe (hou), Julia Ward. 1819-1910. American writer and feminist who was active in the women's suffrage movement. She wrote "Battle Hymn of the Republic" (published 1862) and edited Woman's Journal (1870-1890).

Howe (hou), Richard Earl Howe. 1726-1799. British admiral who conducted naval operations in America (1776-1778) and defeated the French at Ushant (1794).

Howe (hou), Samuel Gridley. 1801-1876. American humanitarian and reformer who founded (1832) and directed for 44 years what later became the Perkins Institute for the Blind.

Howe (hou), Sir William Fifth Viscount Howe. 1729-1814. British general in America. Although he defeated George Washington in a number of battles, he could not force a surrender and returned to England in 1778.

How-ells (hou/'əlz), William Dean. 1837-1920. American writer and editor in chief (1871-1881) of the Atlantic Monthly, who encouraged a number of writers, including Mark Twain and Henry James. He also wrote many novels, such as The Rise of Silas Lapham (1885), and books of literary criticism.

how-ev-er (hou-ěv'ər) adv. 1. In whatever manner or way: However he did it, it was very clever. 2. To whatever degree or extent: "have begun, however reluctantly, to acknowledge the legitimacy of some of the concerns" (Christopher Lasch).

3. In what way. Used as an intensive of how: However did you get here so soon?

4. In spite of that; nevertheless; yet: The book is expensive; however, it's worth it.

5. On the other hand; by contrast: The first part was easy; the second, however, took hours. — conj. 1. In whatever manner or way: Dress however you like.

2. Archaic. Notwithstanding that; although.

USAGE NOTE: Although some grammarians have insisted that however should not be used to begin a sentence, this rule has been ignored by a number of reputable writers. See Usage Note at but. See Usage Note at whatever.

how-it-zer (hou/'it-sər) n. A relatively short cannon that delivers shells at a medium muzzle velocity, usually by a high trajectory. [Dutch houwitser, from German Haubitze, alteration of obsolete haufnitz, catapult, from Old Czech haufnice: hauf, group, heap (of Germanic origin) + -nice, feminine n. suff.]

howl (hou) v. howled, howl-ing, howls. — v. intr. 1. To utter or emit a long, mournful, plaintive sound. 2. To cry or wail loudly, as in pain, sorrow, or anger. 3. Slang. To laugh heartily. 4. Slang. To go on a spree. — v. tr. To express or utter with a howl. See Synonyms at shout. — n. 1. A long, wailing cry. 2. Slang. Something uproariously funny or absurd. — phrasal verb.

howl down. To drown out or silence by loud derisive calls: The candidate was howled down at the town meeting. [Middle English houlen.]

howler (hou/lər) n. 1. One that howls: a dog that turned out to be a persistent howler. 2. A howler monkey. 3. Slang. A laughably stupid blunder.

howler monkey (hou/lər mʌŋg/kē) n. Any of several monkeys of the genus Alouatta of tropical America, having a long, prehensile tail and an extremely loud, howling call.

howling (hou/lɪŋ) adj. 1. Marked by the sound of howling: a howling wind. 2. Desolate; dreary: a howling wilderness. 3. Slang. Very great; tremendous: a howling success.

How-rah (hou/rə, -rə) A city of eastern India on the Hooghly River opposite Calcutta. It is a major industrial center. Population, 744,429.

how-so-ev-er (hou/sō-ěv/ər) adv. 1. To whatever degree or extent. 2. By whatever means.

how-to (hou/tō) Informal. adj. Offering practical advice and detailed instruction in an activity. — n. pl. how-tos. Something, such as a book or learning situation, that provides practical advice and detailed instruction in an activity: She read a how-to on plumbing. The weekend was a real how-to for would-be campers.

Hox-ie (hɔk/sē), Vinnie Ream. 1847-1914. American sculptor known especially for her marble statue of Abraham Lincoln (unveiled 1871) in the rotunda of the Capitol in Washington, D.C.

hoy¹ (hoi) n. Nautical. 1. A small sloop-rigged coasting ship. 2. A heavy barge used for freight. [Middle English hoie, from Middle Dutch hoey, hoede.]

hoy² (hoi) interj. Used to attract attention.

hoy-a (hoi/ə) n. Any of several evergreen climbing vines or shrubs of the genus Hoya, with a home range from India and southern China to Australia and having opposite, simple leaves and axillary, umbellate flower clusters. Also called porcelain flower, wax vine. [New Latin Hoya, genus name, after Thomas Hoy (1750?-1822), British gardener.]

hoy-den (hoid/n) n. A high-spirited, boisterous, or saucy girl. — adj. High-spirited; boisterous. [From earlier hoyden, a rude youth, probably from Dutch heiden, heathen, boor, from Middle Dutch. See kaito- in Appendix.]

—hoy-den-ish adj.

Hoy-ers-wer-da (hoi'ərz-vēr'də, -də, -ərs-) A city of east-central Germany north-northeast of Dresden. It was chartered in 1371 and today has a major glass-making industry. Population, 70,698.

Hoyle (hoil) n. Games. A reference book of rules for card games and other indoor games. —idiom. according to Hoyle. In accord with the prescribed rules or regulations. [After Edmond Hoyle (1672?-1769), British writer on games.]

hp abbr. Horsepower.

HP abbr. High pressure.

HPF abbr. Highest possible frequency.

HQ or h.q. or H.Q. abbr. Headquarters.

hr abbr. Hour.

HR abbr. Heart rate.

Hr. abbr. Herr.

h.r. abbr. Baseball. Home run.

H.R. abbr. 1. Home rule. 2. House of Representatives.

Hra-dec Krá-lo-vé (rä'děts krä'lə-və, -lô-vě, hrä'-) A city of north-central Czech Republic east of Prague. Founded in the tenth century, it was a leading town of medieval Bohemia. Population, 98,476.

H.R.E. abbr. Holy Roman Empire.

H. Rept. abbr. House Report.

H. Res. abbr. House Resolution.

H.R.H. abbr. 1. Her Royal Highness. 2. His Royal Highness.

Hrolf (rölf, hrölf) See Rollo.

hrs abbr. Hours.

HS or H.S. abbr. High school.

HSGT abbr. High-speed ground transit.

H.S.H. abbr. 1. Her Serene Highness. 2. His Serene Highness.

Hsia (shyä) See Xia.

Hsian (shyän) See Xi'an.

Hsiang Kiang (shyäng' kyäng') See Xiang Jiang.

Hsin-king (shĭn'gĭng') See Changchun.

HST abbr. 1. Or H.S.T. Hawaiian Standard Time 2. Hypersonic transport.

ht abbr. Height.

HT abbr. 1. Sports. Halftime. 2. Halftone. 3. High-tension. 4. High tide.

HTLV-I (äch'tē-ěl'vē-wŭn') n. A retrovirus that causes diseases similar to multiple sclerosis. [H(UMAN) T(-CELL) L(YMPHOTROPIC) V(IRUS) I.]

HTLV-III (äch'tē-ěl'vē-thrē') n. HIV. [H(UMAN) T(-CELL) L(YMPHOTROPIC) V(IRUS) III.]

Hts. abbr. Heights.

HUAC abbr. House Un-American Activities Committee.

Hua Guo-feng (hwä' gwô'füng') also Hua Kuo-feng (kwô'füng', gwô'-), Born 1920. Chinese prime minister (1976-1980). With Deng Xiaoping he initiated a program of modernization and increasing cooperation with the West.

Huai·nan (hwī'nän') A city of east-central China west-northwest of Nanjing. It grew after 1949 as the center of a coal-mining region. Population, 603,200.

Hua Kuo-feng (hwä' kwô'füng', gwô'-) See Hua Guofeng.

Hua·la·pai or Wa·la·pai (wä'lə-pī') n. pl. Hualapai or Huala·pais or Walapai or Wala·pais. 1. a. A Native American people inhabiting northwest Arizona south of the Grand Canyon. b. A member of this people. 2. The Yuman language of the Hualapai.

Hual·la·ga (wä-yä'gä) A river rising in the Andes of west-central Peru and flowing about 1,126 km (700 mi) generally northward to the Marañón River.

Huang He (hwäng' hə') also Hwang Ho (hō') or Yel·low River (yě'l'ō) A river of northern China rising in the Kunlun Mountains and flowing about 4,827 km (3,000 mi) generally eastward to the Gulf of Bo Hai. It is named for the vast quantities of yellow silt it carries to its delta. The river is sometimes called "China's Sorrow" because of the devastating floods that once occurred regularly in its lower course.

hua·ra·che (wə-rä'chē, hə-) n. A flat-heeled sandal with an upper of woven leather strips. [American Spanish, probably from Japanese warachi, straw sandal.]

Huás·car (wäs'kär'), Died 1532. Incan chieftain who fought with his brother Atahualpa over the division of the empire. Atahualpa had Huascar assassinated after the Spanish conquest because he feared Huascar would return to power.

Huas·ca·rán (wäs'kə-rän', -kä-) An extinct volcano, 6,770.4 m (22,198 ft) high, in the Andes of west-central Peru. It is the highest peak in the country.

hub (hüb) n. 1. The center part of a wheel, fan, or propeller. 2. A center of activity or interest; a focal point. See Synonyms at center. [Probably alteration of HOB¹.]

hub·ba·hub·ba (hüb'ə-hüb'ə) interj. Slang. Used to express approval, pleasure, or excitement.

Hub·bard (hüb'ərd), Gardiner Greene. 1822-1897. American lawyer and geographer who founded and was first president of the National Geographic Society (1888-1897).

Hubbard, Mount. A peak, 4,559.8 m (14,950 ft) high, in the Coast Mountains of southeast Alaska.

hub·bard squash (hüb'ərd skwōsh) n. Northern U.S. & Western U.S. See winter squash. [From the surname Hubbard.]

Hub·ble (hüb'əl), Edwin Powell. 1889-1953. American astronomer who discovered (1929) that the velocities of nebulae increase with distance.

hub-ble-bub-ble (hüb'əl-büb'əl) n. 1. An uproar; a hubbub. 2. See hoo-kah. [Reduplication and alteration of BUBBLE.]

Hub-ble's constant (hüb'əlz kōn'stənt) n. A ratio expressing the rate of apparent expansion of the universe, equal to the velocity of which a typical galaxy is receding from Earth divided by its distance from Earth. [After Edwin Powell HUBBLE.]

hub-bub (hüb'üb') n. 1. Loud noise; din. See Synonyms at noise.

2. Confusion; tumult. [Probably of Irish Gaelic origin; akin to Scottish Gaelic ubub, an interjection of aversion or contempt.]

WORD HISTORY: It has often been remarked that the Celtic inhabitants of Great Britain contributed very little to the stock of English words. Perhaps this should not be too surprising, given the difficult relations over the centuries between the people of Germanic stock and the people of Celtic stock in England and Ireland. It seems likely that a certain English contempt resides in the adoption of the word hubbub from a Celtic source, which is probably related to ub ub ubub, a Scots Gaelic interjection expressing contempt, or to abu, an ancient Irish war cry. In any case, hubbub was first recorded (1555) in the phrase Irish hubbub and meant “the confused shouting of a crowd.” In addition to the senses it has developed, hubbub was again used, possibly in a nonflattering way, by the New England colonists as a term for a rambunctious game played by Native Americans.

hub-by (hüb'ē) n. pl. hub-bies. Informal. A husband. [Alteration of HUSBAND.]

hub-cap (hüb'kăp') n. A round covering over the hub of the wheel of a motor vehicle.

Hu-bei (hōō'bā', hū-) also Hu-peì or Hu-peh (-pā') A province of east-central China. It is a major agricultural region watered by the Chang Jiang (Yangtze River). Wuhan is the capital. Population, 49,310,000.

Hu-bel (hyōō'bəl), David. Born 1926. American neurobiologist. He shared a 1981 Nobel Prize for studies on the organization and functioning of the brain.

Hu-ber (hōō'bər), Robert. Born 1937. German chemist. He shared a 1988 Nobel Prize for determining the structure of complex proteins that are essential to photosynthesis.

Hu-ber Heights (hyōō'bər hīts) A community of southwest Ohio, a suburb of Dayton. Population, 38,696.

Hu-bli-Dhar-war (hōōb'lē-dār-wār') A city of southwest India northwest of Bangalore. It was formed from two municipalities in 1961. Population, 527,108.

hu-bris (hyōō'brīs) n. Overbearing pride or presumption; arrogance: “There is no safety in unlimited technological hubris” (McGeorge Bundy). [Greek, excessive pride, wanton violence. See ud- in Appendix.] —hu-bris'tic (-brīs'tik) adj.

—hu-bris'tic-al-ly adv.

huck (hŭk) n. Huckaback.

huck·a·back (hŭk'ə-băk') n. A coarse absorbent cotton or linen fabric used especially for toweling. [Origin unknown.]

huck·le·ber·ry (hŭk'əl-běr'ē) n. 1. Any of various New World shrubs of the genus Gaylussacia, related to the blueberries and bearing edible fruit. 2. The glossy, blackish, many-seeded berry of these plants. [Probably alteration of hurtleberry, whortleberry.]

huck·ster (hŭk'stər) n. 1. One who sells wares or provisions in the street; a peddler or hawker. 2. One who uses aggressive, showy, and sometimes devious methods to promote or sell a product. 3. Informal. One who writes advertising copy, especially for radio or television. — v. huck·stered, huck·ster·ing, huck·sters. — v. tr. 1. To sell; peddle. 2. To promote or attempt to sell (a commercial product, for example) in an overaggressive or showy manner. 3. To haggle over; deal in. — v. intr. To engage in haggling. [Middle English, probably of Low German origin; akin to Middle Dutch hokester.] — huck'ster·ism n.

HUD abbr. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Hud·ders·field (hŭd'ərz-fēld') A borough of north-central England northeast of Manchester. First settled in Roman times, it is an industrial center specializing in textiles. Population, 125,800.

Hud·ding·e (hü'dĩng-ě) A city of eastern Sweden, a manufacturing suburb of Stockholm. Population, 69,581.

hud·dle (hŭd'l) n. 1. A densely packed group or crowd, as of people or animals. 2. Football. A brief gathering of a team's players behind the line of scrimmage to receive instructions for the next play. 3. A small private conference or meeting. — v. hud·dled, hud·dling, hud·dles. — v. intr. 1. To crowd together, as from cold or fear. 2. To draw or curl one's limbs close to one's body; crouch. 3. Football. To gather in a huddle. 4. Informal. To gather together for conference or consultation: During the crisis the President's national security advisers huddled. — v. tr. 1. To cause to crowd together. 2. To draw (oneself) together in a crouch. 3. Chiefly British. To arrange, do, or make hastily or carelessly. [From huddle, to crowd together, possibly from Low German hudeln. See (s)keu- in Appendix.] — hud'dler n.

Hu·di·bras·tic (hyōō'də-brăs'tík) adj. Of or relating to a style of satirical or mock-heroic verse composed in rhymed iambic pentameter couplets. [After Hudibras, a satiric epic by Samuel Butler.]

Hud·son (hŭd'sən) A town of east-central Massachusetts northeast of Worcester. It is an industrial community. Population, 17,233.

Hud·son (hŭd'sən), Henry. Died 1611. English navigator and explorer who discovered (1609) the Hudson River on an expedition for the East India Company.

Hud-son (hŭd'sən), William Henry. 1841-1922. British naturalist and writer whose works include The Purple Land that England Lost (1885) and Green Mansions (1904).

Hudson Bay (hŭd'sən bā) An inland sea of east-central Canada connected to the Atlantic Ocean by Hudson Strait, lying between southern Baffin Island and northern Quebec. James Bay is the southern extension of Hudson Bay, which was explored and named by Henry Hudson in 1610.

Hudson River (hŭd'sən rĭv'ər) A river rising in the Adirondack Mountains of northeast New York and flowing about 507 km (315 mi) generally southward to Upper New York Bay at New York City. Giovanni da Verrazano first sighted the river in 1524, but it was not explored until Henry Hudson's 1609 voyage.

Hudson seal (hŭd'sən sēl) n. Muskrat fur that is dyed, plucked, and sheared to resemble seal. [After Hudson (Bay).]

hue (hyōō) n. 1. The property of colors by which they can be perceived as ranging from red through yellow, green, and blue, as determined by the dominant wavelength of the light. 2. A particular gradation of color; a shade or tint.

3. Color: all the hues of the rainbow. 4. Appearance; aspect: a man of somber hue. [Middle English, color, form, from Old English hīw, hēo.]

Hue (hyōō-ā', hwā) A city of central Vietnam near the South China Sea northwest of Da Nang. An ancient Annamese city probably dating from the third century A.D., it was nearly destroyed during heavy fighting in the Vietnam War. Population, 165,865.

hue and cry (hyōō ənd krĭ) n. 1. A public clamor, as of protest or demand: raised a great hue and cry about political corruption. 2. a. The pursuit of a felon announced with loud shouts to alert others who were then legally obliged to give chase. b. The loud outcry formerly used in such a pursuit. [Middle English hew and cri, from Anglo-Norman hu e cri: hu, outcry, clamor (from Old French huer, to shout, of imitative origin) + cri, cry (from Old French crier, to cry); see CRY.]

hued (hyōōd) adj. Having a given hue, aspect, or character. Often used in combination: rosy-hued; dark-hued.

Huel·va (wĕl'və, -vā) A city of southwest Spain near the Gulf of Cádiz and the Portuguese border. Founded by Carthaginians, it was colonized by the Romans, who built a still-used aqueduct to supply water to the settlement. Population, 137,453.

Huer·ta (wĕr'tə, -tä), Victoriano. 1854-1916. Mexican president (1913-1914) who overthrew Francisca Madero and was forced to resign because of widespread unrest.

hue·vos ran·che·ros (wā'vōs răn-chĕr'ōs, hwā'-, răn-) pl.n. A Mexican dish consisting of fried or poached eggs covered with a spicy sauce of red or green tomatoes and usually served on a tortilla. [American Spanish : Spanish huevos, pl. of huevo, egg + American Spanish rancheros, pl. of ranchero, ranch-style.]

huff (hŭf) n. A fit of anger or annoyance; a pique: stormed off in a huff. — v. huffed, huff-ing, huffs. — v. intr. 1. To puff; blow. 2. To make noisy, empty threats; bluster. 3. To react indignantly; take offense. — v. tr. 1. To cause to puff up; inflate. 2. To treat with insolence; bully. 3. To anger; annoy. [Imitative of the sound of puffing.]

huff-ish (hŭf'ish) adj. 1. Peevish; sulky. 2. Arrogant; insolent. —huff'ish-ly adv. —huff'ish-ness n.

huff-y (hŭf'ē) adj. huff-i-er, huff-i-est. 1. Easily offended; touchy. 2. Irritated or annoyed; indignant. 3. Arrogant; haughty. —huff'i-ly adv. —huff'i-ness n.

hug (hŭg) v. hugged, hug-ging, hugs. — v. tr. 1. To clasp or hold closely, especially in the arms, as in affection; embrace. 2. To hold steadfastly to; cherish: He still hugs his outmoded beliefs. 3. To stay close to: a sailboat hugging the shore. — v. intr. To embrace or cling together closely. — n. 1. A close, affectionate embrace. 2. A crushing embrace, as in wrestling. [Probably of Scandinavian origin; akin to Old Norse hugga, to comfort.] —hug'ga-ble adj. —hug'ger n.

huge (hyōj) adj. hug-er, hug-est. 1. Of exceedingly great size, extent, or quantity; tremendous. See Synonyms at enormous. 2. Of exceedingly great scope or nature: the huge influence of the Hellenic world. [Middle English, from Old French ahuge.] —huge'ly adv. —huge'ness n.

huge-ous (hyō'jəs) adj. Huge. —huge'ous-ly adv. —huge'ous-ness n.

hug-ger-mug-ger or hug-ger-mug-ger (hŭg'ər-mŭg'ər) n. 1. Disorderly confusion; muddle. 2. Secrecy; concealment. — adj. 1. Disorderly; jumbled. 2. Secret; clandestine. — v. hug-ger-mug-gered, hug-ger-mug-ger-ing, hug-ger-mug-gers. — v. tr. To keep secret; conceal. — v. intr. To act in a secretive manner. [Origin unknown.] —hug'ger-mug'ger adv. —hug'ger-mug'ger-y n.

Hug-gins (hŭg'inz), Charles Brenton. Born 1901. Canadian-born American surgeon. He shared a 1966 Nobel Prize for research in hormone treatment for cancer of the prostate.

Hug-gins (hŭg'inz), Sir William. 1824-1910. British astronomer who made the first observations of stellar spectra and determined that stars were similar in composition to the sun (1863).

Hugh Ca-pet (hyō' kă'pĭt, kăp'it, kă-pă') See Capet.

Hughes (hyōz), Charles Evans. 1862-1948. American jurist and politician who was appointed an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1910) but resigned to make an unsuccessful bid for the presidency (1916). He served as secretary of state (1921-1925) and later as the chief justice of the Supreme Court (1930-1941).

Hughes (hyōz), Howard Robard. 1905-1976. American film producer, aviator, and multimillionaire. He founded Hughes Aircraft Corporation, broke the airplane speed record (1935), and flew around the world in record time (1938). After 1950 Hughes lived as a recluse.

Hughes (hyōōz), (James) Langston. 1902-1967. American writer. Through his poetry, prose, and drama he made important contributions to the Harlem Renaissance. His best-known works include Weary Blues (1926) and The Ways of White Folks (1934).

Hughes (hyōōz), Ted. Full name Edward James Hughes. Born 1930. British poet who was appointed poet laureate in 1984. His work is noted for its violence, passion, and natural imagery.

Hughes (hyōōz), Thomas. 1822-1896. British jurist and reformer best known for his book Tom Brown's School Days (1857).

Hughes (hyōōz), William Morris. 1864-1952. Australian public official who served as attorney general (1908-1909, 1910-1913, and 1914-1921) and prime minister (1915-1923).

Hu-go (hyōō'gō, ü-gō'), Victor Marie. 1802-1885. French writer who went into exile after Napoleon III seized power (1851), returning to France in 1870. His novels include The Hunchback of Notre Dame (1831) and Les Misérables (1862).

Hu-gue-not (hyōō'gə-nōt') n. A French Protestant of the 16th and 17th centuries. [French, from Old French huguenot, member of a Swiss political movement, alteration (influenced by Bezanson Hugues (c. 1491?-1532?), Swiss political leader), of dialectal eyguenot, from German dialectal Eidgenosse, confederate, from Middle High German eitgenōz: eit, oath (from Old High German eid) + genōz, companion (from Old High German ginōz.)] —Hu'gue-not'ic adj.
—Hu'gue-not'ism n.

huh (hū) interj. Used to express interrogation, surprise, contempt, or indifference.

Hu-he-hot (hōō'hā-hōt') See Hohhot.

Hui (hwē) also Hwei (hwā) n. pl. Hui or Huis also Hwei or Hweis. A member of a Muslim people of northwest China, descended chiefly from the Han and an important minority of the Chinese population; a Chinese Muslim.

hui-pil (wē-pēl') n. A loose, brocaded blouse worn by Maya women in Mexico and Central America. [American Spanish, from Nahuatl huipilli.]

Hui-zing-a (hī'zīng-ə, hoi'zīng-ä), Johan. 1872-1945. Dutch historian known for his writing on the late Middle Ages, especially The Waning of the Middle Ages (1919).

hu-la (hōō'lə) also hu-la-hu-la (hōō'lə-hōō'lə) n. A Polynesian dance characterized by undulating hips, miming movements of the arms and hands, and usually accompanied by rhythmic drumbeats and chants. [Hawaiian.]

Hu-la-Hoop (hōō'lə-hōōp') A trademark used for a light plastic hoop that is whirled around the body for play or exercise by the movement of the hips. This trademark, which often occurs in print without a hyphen and in lowercase, also occurs in figurative extensions: “His eyes swell to the size of hula hoops” (Los Angeles Times). “Clearly some of the current campaigning against South Africa is a fad, a moral Hula Hoop” (George F. Will).

hu·la-hu·la (hōō'lə-hōō'lə) n. Variant of hula.

hulk (hŭlk) n. 1. Nautical. a. A heavy, unwieldy ship. b. The hull of an old, unseaworthy, or wrecked ship. c. Often hulks. An old or unseaworthy ship used as a prison or warehouse. 2. One, such as a person or an object, that is bulky, clumsy, or unwieldy. — v. intr. hulked, hulk-ing, hulks. 1. To appear as a massive or towering form; loom: The big truck hulked out of the fog. 2. To move clumsily. [Middle English, from Old English hulc, from Medieval Latin hulcus, probably from Greek holkas, merchant ship, ship that is towed, from helkein, to pull.]

hulk-ing (hŭl'kɪŋ) also hulk-y (hŭl'kē) adj. Unwieldy or bulky; massive.

hull (hŭl) n. 1. a. The dry outer covering of a fruit, seed, or nut; a husk. b. The enlarged calyx of a fruit, such as a strawberry, that is usually green and easily detached. 2. a. Nautical. The frame or body of a ship, exclusive of masts, engines, or superstructure. b. The main body of various other large vehicles, such as a tank, an airship, or a flying boat. 3. The outer casing of a rocket, guided missile, or spaceship. — v. tr. hulled, hull-ing, hulls. To remove the hulls of (fruit or seeds). [Middle English hulle, husk, from Old English hulu. See kel-¹ in Appendix.] — hull'er n.

Hull (hŭl) 1. A city of southwest Quebec, Canada, opposite Ottawa, Ontario. It has a hydroelectric station and pulp, paper, and lumber mills. Population, 56,225.

2. Also King-ston-up-on-Hull (kɪŋ'stən-ə-pŏn-hŭl', -pŏn-). A borough of northeast-central England on the northern shore of the Humber estuary at the influx of the Hull River. Chartered in 1299, the city has been a major seaport since the late 1700's. Population, 272,500.

Hull (hŭl), Cordell. 1871-1955. American public official who as secretary of state (1933-1944) laid the groundwork for the founding of the United Nations.

Hull (hŭl), Isaac. 1773-1843. American naval officer who commanded the Constitution (known as “Old Ironsides”) during the War of 1812.

Hull (hŭl), William. 1753-1825. American general who surrendered Detroit to the British during the War of 1812. He was convicted of cowardice and sentenced to death but was pardoned by President James Madison.

hul·la·ba·loo also hul·la·bal·loo (hŭl'ə-bə-lōō') n. pl. hul·la·ba·loos. Great noise or excitement; uproar. See Synonyms at noise. [Alteration of obsolete hollo-ballo, probably from holla, hello. See HELLO.]

hul·lo (hə-lō') interj., n. & v. Variant of hello.

hum (hŭm) v. hummed, hum-ming, hums. — v. intr. 1. a. To emit a continuous low droning sound like that of the speech sound (m) when prolonged.

b. To emit the continuous droning sound of a bee on the wing; buzz. c. To give forth a low, continuous drone blended of many sounds: The avenue hummed with traffic. 2. To be in a state of busy activity. 3. To produce a tune without opening the lips or forming words. — v. tr. To sing (a tune) without opening the lips or forming words. — n. 1. The sound produced by humming. 2. The act of humming. — interj. Used to indicate hesitation, surprise, or displeasure. [Middle English hummen, of imitative origin.] —hum'ma-ble adj.

—hum'mer n.

hu·man (hyōō'mən) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of human beings: the course of human events; the human race. 2. Having or showing those positive aspects of nature and character that distinguish human beings from the lower animals: an act of human kindness. 3. Subject to or indicative of the weaknesses, imperfections, and fragility associated with human beings: a mistake that shows he's only human; human frailty. 4. Having the form of a human being. 5. Made up of human beings: formed a human bridge across the ice. — n. A human being; a person. [Middle English humain, from Old French, from Latin hūmānus. See dhghem- in Appendix.] —hu'man-hood' n. —hu'man-ness n.

human being (hyōō'mən bē'ɪŋ) n. 1. A member of the genus Homo and especially of the species H. sapiens. 2. A person: a fine human being.

human chorionic gonadotropin (hyōō'mən kôr'ē-ôn'ik gō-năd'ə-trō'pīn) n. Abbr. HCG A hormone produced by the placenta that maintains the corpus luteum during pregnancy.

hu·mane (hyōō-mān') adj. 1. Characterized by kindness, mercy, or compassion: a humane judge. 2. Marked by an emphasis on humanistic values and concerns: a humane education. [Middle English humain, human. See HUMAN.]

—hu·mane'ly adv. —hu·mane'ness n.

SYNONYMS: humane, compassionate, humanitarian, merciful. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “marked or motivated by concern with the alleviation of suffering”: a humane physician; compassionate toward disadvantaged people; released the prisoner for humanitarian reasons; is merciful to the repentant.

ANTONYM: inhumane

human ecology (hyōō'mən ĩ-kôl'ə-jē) n. See ecology.

human engineering (hyōō'mən ěn'jə-nîr'ɪŋ) n. See ergonomics (n., sense 2).

human factors engineering (hyōō'mən făk'tərz ěn'jə-nîr'ɪŋ) n. See ergonomics (n., sense 2).

human im·mu·no·de·fi·cien·cy virus (hyōō'mən ĩm'yə-nō-dĭ-fish'-ən-sē vī'rəs) n. HIV.

hu·man·in·ter·est (hyōō'mən-ĭn'trĭst, -tər-ĭst, -trĕst') adj. Treating people and their problems, concerns, or achievements in such a way as to arouse the interest or sympathy of the reader or viewer: a human-interest story.

hu·man·ism (hyōō'mə-nĭz'əm) n. 1. A system of thought that centers on human beings and their values, capacities, and worth. 2. Concern with the interests, needs, and welfare of human beings: "the newest flower on the vine of corporate humanism" (Savvy). 3. The study of the humanities; learning in the liberal arts. 4. Humanism. A cultural and intellectual movement of the Renaissance that emphasized secular concerns as a result of the rediscovery and study of the literature, art, and civilization of ancient Greece and Rome.

hu·man·ist (hyōō'mə-nĭst) n. 1. A believer in the principles of humanism. 2. One who is concerned with the interests and welfare of human beings. 3. a. A classical scholar. b. A student of the liberal arts. 4. Humanist. A Renaissance scholar devoted to Humanism. —hu'man-is'tic adj. —hu'man-is'ti-cal-ly adv.

hu·man·i·tar·i·an (hyōō-măn'ĭ-târ'ē-ən) n. One who is devoted to the promotion of human welfare and the advancement of social reforms; a philanthropist. — adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of a humanitarian or humanitarianism. See Synonyms at humane.

hu·man·i·tar·i·an·ism (hyōō-măn'ĭ-târ'ē-ənĭz'əm) n. 1. Concern for human welfare, especially as manifested through philanthropy. 2. The belief that the sole moral obligation of humankind is the improvement of human welfare. 3. Theology. The doctrine holding that Jesus was human only and not divine.

hu·man·i·ty (hyōō-măn'ĭ-tē) n. pl. hu·man·i·ties. 1. Human beings considered as a group; the human race. 2. The condition or quality of being human; humanness. 3. The quality of being humane; benevolence. 4. A humane characteristic, attribute, or act. 5. humanities. a. The languages and literatures of ancient Greece and Rome; the classics. b. Those branches of knowledge, such as philosophy, literature, and art, that are concerned with human thought and culture; the liberal arts. [Middle English humanite, from Old French, from Latin hūmānitās, from hūmānus, human. See HUMAN.] hu·man·ize (hyōō'mə-nĭz') v. tr. hu·man·ized, hu·man·iz·ing, hu·man·iz·es. 1. To portray or endow with human characteristics or attributes; make human: humanized the puppets with great skill. 2. To imbue with humanness or human kindness; civilize: acts of courtesy that humanize life in a big city. —hu'man-i-za'tion (-mə-nĭ-zā'shən) n. —hu'man-iz'er n.

hu·man·kind (hyōō'mən-kĭnd') n. The human race: "humankind's God-given creativity" (New York Times).

hu·man·ly (hyōō'mən-lē) adv. 1. In a human way. 2. Within the scope of human means, capabilities, or powers: not humanly possible. 3. According to human experience or knowledge: Humanly speaking, the recession was not severe.

human nature (hyōō'mən nā'chər) n. The sum of qualities and traits shared by all human beings.

hu·man·oid (hyōō'mə-noid') adj. Having human characteristics or form. — n. 1. A being having human form: “humanoids from some far-flung planet” (Robert Brustein). 2. See android.

human resources (hyōō'mən rē'sô'r'sīz) pl.n. 1. (used with a pl. verb). The persons employed in a business or an organization; personnel. 2. (used with a sing. verb). The field of personnel recruitment and management.

human rights (hyōō'mən rīts) pl.n. The basic rights and freedoms to which all human beings are entitled, often held to include the right to life and liberty, freedom of thought and expression, and equality before the law.

human T-cell lymphotropic virus I (hyōō'mən tē'sēl' līm'fə-trō'pīk vī'rəs) n. HTLV-I.

human T-cell lymphotropic virus III (hyōō'mən tē'sēl' līm'fō-trō'pīk vī'rəs) n. HTLV-III.

Hum·ber (hūm'bər) An estuary of the Trent and Ouse rivers in northeast-central England. It is navigable for large vessels as far inland as Hull.

hum·ble (hūm'bəl) adj. hum·bler, hum·blest. 1. Marked by meekness or modesty in behavior, attitude, or spirit; not arrogant or prideful. 2. Showing deferential or submissive respect: a humble apology. 3. Low in rank, quality, or station; unpretentious or lowly: a humble cottage. — v. tr. hum·bled, hum·bling, hum·bles. 1. To curtail or destroy the pride of; humiliate. 2. To cause to be meek or modest in spirit. 3. To give a lower condition or station to; abase. See Synonyms at degrade. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin humilis, low, lowly, from humus, ground. See dhghem- in Appendix.] —hum'ble-ness n. —hum'bler n. —hum'bly adv.

hum·ble·bee (hūm'bəl-bē') n. See bumblebee. [Middle English humbulbe: possibly Middle Dutch hummel + Middle English be, bee, bee; see BEE¹.]

humble pie (hūm'bəl pī) n. A pie formerly made from the edible organs of a deer or hog. —idiom. eat humble pie. To be forced to apologize abjectly or admit one's faults in humiliating circumstances. [Alteration (influenced by HUMBLE), of obsolete umble pie: Middle English umbles, edible animal organs (variant of numbles, from Norman French nombles, from Old French, loin of veal, probably from alteration of Latin lumbulus, diminutive of lumbus, loin) + PIE¹.]

Hum·boldt (hūm'bōlt', hōōm'bōlt'), Baron (Friedrich Heinrich) Alexander von. 1769-1859. German naturalist and writer. His expedition to South America, Cuba, and Mexico (1799-1804) advanced the science of ecology.

Hum·boldt (hūm'bōlt', hōōm'bōlt'), Baron (Karl) Wilhelm von. 1767-1835. German philologist and diplomat known for exploring the relationship between language and culture and for his study of the Basque language.

Hum-boldt Bay (hŭm'bölt' bā) A sheltered inlet of the Pacific Ocean in northwest California.

Humboldt Current (hŭm'bölt' kŭr'ənt) n. A cold ocean current of the South Pacific, flowing north along the western coast of South America. Also called Peru Current [After Baron Friedrich Heinrich Alexander von HUMBOLDT.]

Humboldt Peak (hŭm'bölt' pēk) A mountain, 4,289.5 m (14,064 ft) high, in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of south-central Colorado.

Humboldt River (hŭm'bölt' rĭv'ər) A river rising in the mountains of north-east Nevada and meandering about 467 km (290 mi) generally west and southwest to the Humboldt Sink, a lake in western Nevada. The river was an important route for early settlers.

hum-bug (hŭm'bŭg') n. 1. Something intended to deceive; a hoax or fraud. 2. A person who claims to be other than what he or she is; an impostor. See Synonyms at impostor. 3. Nonsense; rubbish. 4. Pretense; deception. — interj. Used to express disbelief or disgust. — v. hum-bugged, hum-bug-ging, hum-bugs. — v. tr. To deceive or trick. — v. intr. To practice deception or trickery. [Origin unknown.] — hum'bug'ger n. — hum'bug'ger-y n.

hum-ding-er (hŭm'dĭng'ər) n. Slang. One that is extraordinary or remarkable: a humdinger of a blizzard. [Origin unknown.]

hum-drum (hŭm'drŭm') adj. Lacking variety or excitement; dull. See Synonyms at boring. See Synonyms at dull. — n. Monotonous talk or routine. [Probably from HUM.]

Hume (hyōōm), David. 1711-1776. British philosopher and historian who argued that human knowledge arises only from sense experience. His works include A Treatise of Human Nature (1739-1740) and Political Discourses (1752).

hu-mec-tant (hyōō-mĕk'tənt) n. A substance that promotes retention of moisture. — adj. Promoting retention of moisture. [From Latin hūmectāns, hūmectānt- present participle of hūmectāre, to moisten, from hūmectus, moist, from hūmēre, to be moist.]

hu-mer-al (hyōō'mər-əl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or located in the region of the humerus or the shoulder. 2. Relating to or being a body part analogous to the humerus.

humeral veil (hyōō'mər-əl vāl) n. Roman Catholic Church. A vestment resembling a shawl worn over the shoulders by a subdeacon during High Mass and by a priest when holding the monstrance.

hu-mer-us (hyōō'mər-əs) n. pl. hu-mer-i (-mə-rĭ'). The long bone of the arm or forelimb, extending from the shoulder to the elbow. [Latin, upper arm.]

hu-mic (hyōō'mĭk) adj. Of, relating to, or derived from humus.

hu·mid (hyōō'mīd) adj. Containing or characterized by a high amount of water or water vapor: humid air; a humid evening. See Synonyms at wet. [Latin hūmidus, from hūmēre, to be moist.] —hu'mid-ly adv.

hu·mid-i-fi-er (hyōō-mīd'ə-fī'ər) n. A device for increasing the humidity in a room, greenhouse, or other enclosure.

hu·mid-i-fy (hyōō-mīd'ə-fī') v. tr. hu·mid-i-fied, hu·mid-i-fy-ing, hu·mid-i-fies. To make humid. —hu·mid'i-fi-ca'tion (-fī-kā'shən) n.

hu·mid-i-stat (hyōō-mīd'ī-stăt') n. An instrument designed to indicate or control the relative humidity of the air. Also called hygrostat hu·mid-i-ty (hyōō-mīd'ī-tē) n. Abbr. H 1. Dampness, especially of the air.

2. Relative humidity. [Middle English humidite, from Old French, from Medieval Latin hūmiditās, from Latin hūmidus, humid. See HUMID.]

hu·mi-dor (hyōō'mī-dôr') n. A container designed for storing cigars or other tobacco products at a constant level of humidity. [HUMID + -OR¹.]

hu·mil-i-ate (hyōō-mīl'ē-āt') v. tr. hu·mil-i-at-ed, hu·mil-i-at-ing, hu·mil-i-ates. To lower the pride, dignity, or self-respect of. See Synonyms at degrade. [Late Latin humiliāre, humiliāt-, to humble, from humilis, humble. See HUMBLE.]

hu·mil-i-a-tion (hyōō-mīl'ē-ā'shən) n. 1. The act of humiliating; degradation.

2. The state of being humiliated or disgraced; shame. 3. A humiliating condition or circumstance.

hu·mil-i-ty (hyōō-mīl'ī-tē) n. The quality or condition of being humble. [Middle English humilite, from Old French, from Late Latin humilitās, from humilis, humble. See HUMBLE.]

hum·ming·bird (hūm'īng-bûrd') n. Any of numerous New World birds of the family Trochilidae, usually very small in size and having brilliant, iridescent plumage, a long slender bill, and wings capable of beating very rapidly, thereby enabling the bird to hover.

hum·mock (hūm'ək) n. 1. A low mound or ridge of earth; a knoll. 2. Also ham·mock (hām'ək). A tract of forested land that rises above an adjacent marsh in the southern United States. 3. A ridge or hill of ice in an ice field. [Origin unknown.] —hum/mock-y adj.

hum·mus also hum·us or hom·mos (hōōm'əs, hūm'-) n. A smooth, thick mixture of mashed chickpeas, tahini, oil, lemon juice, and garlic, used especially as a dip for pita. [Arabic ḥummuṣ, chickpea.]

hu·mon·gous (hyōō-mōng'gəs, -mūng'-) or hu·mun·gous (-mūng'-) adj. Slang. Extremely large; enormous: "humongous baked potatoes piled high with sour cream" (Boston Globe). [Perhaps blend of HUGE, and MONSTROUS or TREMENDOUS.]

hu·mor (hyōō'mər) n. 1. The quality that makes something laughable or amusing; funniness: could not see the humor of the situation. 2. That which is intended to induce laughter or amusement: a writer skilled at crafting humor. 3. The ability to perceive, enjoy, or express what is amusing, comical, incongruous, or absurd. See Synonyms at wit¹. 4. One of the four fluids of the body, blood, phlegm, choler, and black bile, whose relative proportions were thought in ancient physiology to determine a person's disposition and general health.

5. Physiology. a. A body fluid, such as blood, lymph, or bile. b. Aqueous humor. c. Vitreous humor. 6. A person's characteristic disposition or temperament: a boy of sullen humor. 7. An often temporary state of mind; a mood: I'm in no humor to argue. 8. a. A sudden, unanticipated whim. See Synonyms at mood¹. b. Capricious or peculiar behavior. — v. tr. hu-mored, hu-mor-ing, hu-mors. 1. To comply with the wishes or ideas of; indulge. 2. To adapt or accommodate oneself to. See Synonyms at pamper. — idiom. out of humor. In a bad mood; irritable. [Middle English, fluid, from Old French umor, from Latin umor.]

hu-mor-al (hyōō'mər-əl) adj. 1. Physiology. Relating to bodily fluids, especially serum. 2. Relating to or arising from any of the bodily humors.

humoral immunity (hyōō'mər-əl ĩ-myōō'nĭ-tē) n. The component of the immune response involving the transformation of B-lymphocytes into plasma cells that produce and secrete antibodies to a specific antigen.

hu-mor-esque (hyōō'mə-rĕsk') n. Music. A whimsical or light-spirited composition. [German Humoreske, from Humor, humor, from English HUMOR.]

hu-mor-ist (hyōō'mər-ĭst) n. 1. A person with a good sense of humor. 2. A performer or writer of humorous material.

hu-mor-less (hyōō'mər-lĭs) adj. 1. Lacking a sense of humor. 2. Said or done without humor: "She winked at me, but it was humorless; a wink of warning" (Truman Capote). — hu'mor-less-ly adv. — hu'mor-less-ness n.

hu-mor-ous (hyōō'mər-əs) adj. 1. Full of or characterized by humor; funny: a humorous story. 2. Employing or showing humor; witty: a humorous writer.

3. Archaic. Given to moods or whims; capricious. 4. Obsolete. Damp; moist. — hu'mor-ous-ly adv. — hu'mor-ous-ness n.

hu-mour (hyōō'mər) n. & v. Chiefly British. Variant of humor.

hump (hŭmp) n. 1. A rounded mass or protuberance, such as the fleshy structure on the back of a camel or of some cattle. 2. A deformity of the back in human beings caused by an abnormal convex curvature of the upper spine.

3. a. A low mound of earth; a hummock. b. A mountain range. 4. Chiefly British. A fit of depression; an emotional slump. — v. humped, hump-ing, humps. — v. tr. 1. To bend or round into a hump; arch. 2. Slang. a. To exert (oneself). b. To carry, especially on the back. 3. Vulgar Slang. To engage in sexual intercourse with. — v. intr. 1. Slang. To exert oneself. 2. Slang. To hurry.

3. Vulgar Slang. To engage in sexual intercourse. — idiom. over the hump.

Past the worst or most difficult part or stage: At last I'm over the hump on my term paper. [Probably of Low German origin.] —humped (hŭmpt) adj.

hump-back (hŭmp'bāk') n. 1. See hunchback (n., sense 1). 2. A humped upper back. 3. A humpback whale. —hump/backed' adj.

humpback salmon (hŭmp'bāk' sām'ən) n. See pink salmon.

humpback whale (hŭmp'bāk' hwāl) n. A baleen whale (Megaptera novaengliae) having a rounded back and long, knobby flippers. Humpback whales communicate using complex, distinctive songs that identify individuals and play an important role in mating.

Hum-per-dinck (hŏom'pər-dīngk', hŭm'-), Engelbert. 1854-1921. German composer who wrote the fairy tale opera Hansel and Gretel (1893).

humph (hŭmf, həmf) interj. Used to express doubt, displeasure, or contempt.

Hum-phrey (hŭm'frē, hŭmp'-), Duke of Gloucester and Earl of Pembroke.

1391-1447. English prince and book collector who was arrested for high treason (1447) and died in prison. He contributed the first books to the library at Oxford University.

Hum-phrey (hŭm'frē, hŭmp'-), Doris. 1895-1958. American dancer and choreographer known for developing techniques of fall and recovery.

Hum-phrey (hŭm'frē, hŭmp'-), Hubert Horatio. 1911-1978. Vice President of the United States (1965-1969) under Lyndon Johnson. He ran unsuccessfully for the presidency in 1968.

Hum-phreys Peak (hŭm'frēz' pēk, hŭmp'-) A mountain, 3,853.1 m (12,633 ft) high, in the San Francisco Peaks of north-central Arizona. It is the highest point in the state.

hump-y (hŭm'pē) adj. hump-i-er, hump-i-est. 1. Covered with or containing humps. 2. Resembling a hump.

hu-mun-gous (hyōō-mŭng'gəs) adj. Slang. Variant of humongous.

hu-mus¹ (hyōō'məs) n. A brown or black organic substance consisting of partially or wholly decayed vegetable or animal matter that provides nutrients for plants and increases the ability of soil to retain water. [Latin, soil. See dhghem- in Appendix.]

hum-us² (hŏom'əs, hŭm'-) n. Variant of hummus.

Hun (hŭn) n. 1. A member of a nomadic pastoralist people who invaded Europe in the fourth and fifth centuries A.D. and were defeated in 455. 2. Often hun. A barbarous or destructive person. 3. Offensive Slang. Used as a disparaging term for a German, especially a German soldier in World War I. [From Late Latin Hunnī, the Huns, from Turki Hunyü.]

Hu-nan (hŏō'nän') A province of southeast-central China. Under Chinese rule since the third century B.C., the province is noted for its timber and mineral resources. Changsha is the capital. Population, 56,220,000.

hunch (hŭnch) n. 1. An intuitive feeling or a premonition: had a hunch that he would lose. 2. A hump. 3. A lump or chunk. — v. hunched, hunch-ing, hunch-es. — v. tr. 1. To bend or draw up into a hump: I hunched my shoulders against the wind. 2. To push or shove. — v. intr. 1. To assume a crouched or cramped posture: The cat hunched in a corner. 2. To thrust oneself forward. [Origin unknown.]

hunch-back (hŭnch'băk') n. 1. An individual whose back is hunched due to abnormal convex curvature of the upper spine. Also called humpback 2. An abnormally curved or hunched back. 3. Kyphosis. — hunch/backed' adj.

hun-dred (hŭn'drĭd) n. pl. hundred or hun-dreds. Abbr. h., H. 1. The cardinal number equal to 10×10 or 10^2 . 2. The number in the third position left of the decimal point in an Arabic numeral. 3. A note of currency worth 100 dollars. 4. hundreds. The numbers between 100 and 999: an attendance figure estimated in the hundreds. 5. An administrative division of some counties in England and the United States. [Middle English, from Old English. See dekṃ in Appendix.] — hun'dred adj.

hun-dredth (hŭn'drĭdth) n. 1. The ordinal number matching the number 100 in a series. 2. One of 100 equal parts. — hun'dredth adj.

hun-dred-weight (hŭn'drĭd-wăt') n. pl. hundredweight or hun-dred-weights. Abbr. cwt., cwt 1. A unit of weight in the U.S. Customary System equal to 100 pounds (45.36 kilograms). Also called cental, short hundred-weight. 2. A unit of weight in the British Imperial System equal to 112 pounds (50.80 kilograms). Also called quintal hung (hŭng) v. Past tense and a past participle of hang. See Usage Note at hang.

Hun-e-ker (hŭn'ĭ-kər), James Gibbons. 1860-1921. American musician and critic who gained a wide following with his incisive critiques of music, drama, and literature, which appeared in a number of New York newspapers.

Hung. abbr. Hungarian; Hungary.

Hun-gar-i-an (hŭng-gâr'ĕ-ən) adj. Abbr. Hung. Of or relating to Hungary or its people, language, or culture. — n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Hungary. 2. The Finno-Ugric language of the Magyars that is the official language of Hungary. In this sense, also called Magyar

Hun-ga-ry (hŭng'gə-rĕ) Abbr. Hung. A country of central Europe. Hungary became an independent kingdom under Saint Stephen (ruled 997?-1038). It passed to the Turks after 1526 and was later divided between the Ottoman Empire and Austria, subsequently becoming part of the dual monarchy of Austria-Hungary from 1867 until 1918, when it achieved independence again. A Communist regime was established in 1949 and with the aid of the U.S.S.R. suppressed a counterrevolutionary uprising in 1956. A new constitution, guaranteeing free multiparty elections, was adopted in 1989. Budapest is the capital and the largest city. Population, 10,657,000.

hun·ger (hŭng'gər) n. 1. a. A strong desire or need for food. b. The discomfort, weakness, or pain caused by a prolonged lack of food. 2. A strong desire or craving: a hunger for affection. — v. hun·gered, hun·ger·ing, hun·gers. — v. intr. 1. To have a need or desire for food. 2. To have a strong desire or craving. See Synonyms at yearn. — v. tr. To cause to experience hunger; make hungry. [Middle English, from Old English hungor.] hunger strike (hŭng'gər strīk) n. A voluntary fast undertaken as a means of protest, as by a prisoner. — hunger striker n.

hung jury (hŭng jōōr'ē) n. Law. A jury that is unable to agree on a verdict.

Hung·nam (hōōng'näm') A city of east-central North Korea on the Sea of Japan north-northeast of Seoul, South Korea. Heavily bombed in the Korean War, it is now an industrial center. Population, 260,000.

hung-over also hung over or hung·o·ver (hŭng'ō'vər) adj. Suffering from a hangover.

hun·gry (hŭng'grē) adj. hun·gri·er, hun·gri·est. 1. Experiencing a desire or need for food. 2. Extremely desirous; avid: hungry for recognition. 3. Characterized by or expressing hunger or craving: hungry eyes. 4. Lacking richness or fertility: hungry soil. [Middle English hungri, from Old English hungrig, from hungor, hunger.] — hun'gri·ly adv. — hun'gri·ness n.

Hung·shui He (hōōng'shwā' hœ) See Hongshui He.

hung up (hŭng ŭp) adj. Informal. 1. Delayed; hindered: motorists hung up in traffic. 2. Also hung-up (hŭng'ŭp'). Anxious; nervous: He got hung up on the details. She was all hung-up before the interview. 3. Over involved or preoccupied: a teenager hung up on the latest fashions.

hunk (hŭngk) n. 1. Informal. A large piece; a chunk: a hunk of fresh bread.

2. Slang. A sexually attractive man with a well-developed physique. [Perhaps from Flemish hunke, a piece of food.]

hun·ker (hŭng'kər) v. intr. hun·kered, hun·ker·ing, hun·kers. 1. To squat close to the ground; crouch: hunkered down to avoid the icy wind. 2. To hold stubbornly to a position: "As the White House hunkered down, G.O.P. congressional unity started crumbling" (Time). — n. also hunkers The haunches. [Perhaps of Scandinavian origin; akin to Old Norse hokra, to crouch.]

Hunk·pa·pa (hŭngk'pā'pā) n. pl. Hunkpapa or Hunk·pa·pas. 1. A Native American people constituting a subdivision of the Teton Sioux, formerly inhabiting an area from the western Dakotas to southeast Montana, with a present-day population along the border between North and South Dakota. The Hunkpapa figured prominently in the resistance to white encroachment on the northern Great Plains. 2. A member of this people.

hun·ky (hŭng'kē) n. pl. hun·kies. Offensive Slang. Used as a disparaging term for a person, especially a laborer, from east-central Europe. [Probably alteration of BOHUNK.]

hun·ky-do·ry (hŭng'kē-dôr'ē, -dôr'ē) adj. Slang. Perfectly satisfactory; fine. [Probably alteration of hunky, safe, all right, from obsolete hunk, goal, home in a game, from Dutch honk, from Frisian hunk.]

Hun-nish (hŭn'ish) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of the Huns. 2. Often hunnish. Barbarous; destructive. —Hun'nish-ness n.

hunt (hŭnt) v. hunt-ed, hunt-ing, hunts. — v. tr. 1. To pursue (game) for food or sport. 2. To search through (an area) for prey: hunted the ridges. 3. To make use of (hounds, for example) in pursuing game. 4. To pursue intensively so as to capture or kill: hunted down the escaped convict. 5. To seek out; search for. See Synonyms at seek. 6. To drive out forcibly, especially by harassing; chase away: hunted the newcomers out of town. — v. intr. 1. To pursue game. 2. To make a search; seek. 3. Aerospace. a. To yaw back and forth about a flight path, as if seeking a new direction or another angle of attack. Used of an aircraft, a rocket, or a space vehicle. b. To rotate up and down or back and forth without being deflected by the pilot. Used of a control surface or a rocket motor in gimbals. 4. Engineering. a. To oscillate about a selected value. Used of a machine, an instrument, or a system. b. To swing back and forth; oscillate. Used of an indicator on a display or an instrument panel. — n. 1. The act or sport of hunting: an enthusiast for the hunt. 2. a. A hunting expedition or outing, usually with horses and hounds. b. Those taking part in such an expedition or outing. 3. A diligent search or pursuit: on a hunt for cheap gas. [Middle English hunten, from Old English huntian.]

Hunt (hŭnt), Harriot Kezia. 1805-1875. American physician and reformer who emphasized prevention and education for the maintenance of health.

Hunt (hŭnt), (James Henry) Leigh. 1784-1859. British writer and editor of the Examiner (1806-1821). He is known for his essays defending romanticism.

Hunt (hŭnt), Richard Morris. 1827-1895. American architect who supervised an addition to the Louvre in Paris and designed an extension of the U.S. Capitol (1855) as well as the base of the Statue of Liberty.

Hunt (hŭnt), Ward. 1810-1886. American jurist who served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1873-1882).

Hunt (hŭnt), (William) Holman. 1827-1910. British painter who with Rossetti and Millais founded the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood. His works include The Light of the World (1854) and The Scapegoat (1856).

Hunt (hŭnt), William Morris. 1824-1879. American painter who brought the painting of the French Barbizon school to the attention of American artists and collectors.

hunt-and-peck (hŭnt'ən-pĕk') n. A slow method of typing in which an untrained typist seeks out each key before striking it.

hunt-er (hŭn'tər) n. 1. One who hunts game. 2. A dog bred or trained for use in hunting. 3. A horse, typically a strong fast jumper, that has been bred or trained for use in hunting. 4. One who searches for or seeks something: a treasure hunter.

Hun-ter (hŭn'tər), John. 1728-1793. British surgeon who founded pathological anatomy in England.

Hun-ter (hŭn'tər), Robert Mercer Taliaferro. 1809-1887. American politician who served as Confederate secretary of state (1861-1862) and as a member of the Confederate senate (1862-1865).

hunt-er-gath-er-er (hŭn'tər-găth'ər-ər) n. A member of a primitive people subsisting in the wild on food obtained by hunting and foraging.

hunt-er's moon (hŭn'tərz mōon) n. The first full moon following the harvest moon.

hunt-ing (hŭn'tĩng) n. 1. The activity or sport of pursuing game. 2. The act of conducting a search for something: house hunting. 3. Electronics. The periodic variation in speed of a synchronous motor with respect to the current.

Hun-ting-ton (hŭn'tĩng-tən) 1. A city of northeast Indiana southwest of Fort Wayne. It is a trade and industrial center. Population, 16,389. 2. A city of western West Virginia on the Ohio River west of Charleston. Founded in 1871 as a railroad terminus, it has glass and chemical industries. Population, 54,844.

Hun-ting-ton (hŭn'tĩng-tən), Collis Potter. 1821-1900. American transportation executive who built the western section of the first U.S. transcontinental railroad (completed 1869).

Hun-ting-ton (hŭn'tĩng-tən), Samuel. 1731-1796. American Revolutionary leader. He was president of the Continental Congress (1779-1781 and 1783), a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and governor of Connecticut (1786-1796).

Huntington Beach (hŭn'tĩng-tən bĕch) A city of southern California on the Pacific Ocean southeast of Long Beach. Aerospace, metallurgical, and food-processing industries are important to its economy. Population, 181,519.

Huntington Park (hŭn'tĩng-tən părk) A city of southern California, a residential and industrial suburb of Los Angeles. Population, 56,065.

Hun-ting-ton's chorea (hŭn'tĩng-tənz kô-rĕ'ə) n. A rare inherited disease of the central nervous system characterized by progressive dementia, abnormal posture, and involuntary movements. The typical age of onset is between 30 and 50 years. Also called Huntington's disease [After George Huntington (1851?-1916), American physician.]

Huntington Station (hŭn'tŭng-tən stā'shən) A community of southeast New York on the northern shore of western Long Island. It is chiefly residential with varied light industries. Population, 28,247.

hunt-ress (hŭn'trĭs) n. A woman who hunts.

hunts-man (hŭnts'mən) n. 1. A man who hunts. 2. A man who manages the hounds in the hunting field.

Hunts-ville (hŭnts'vĭl') 1. A city of northern Alabama east-northeast of Decatur. Settled in 1805, it is a major center for space research. Population, 159,789. 2. A city of east-central Texas north of Houston. Sam Houston's gravesite and restored home are here. Population, 27,925.

Hu-nya-di or Hu-nya-dy (hŭn'yā-dē, -yō-), János. 1387?-1456. Hungarian general and nationalist leader who fought to protect Hungary from Turkish conquest (1437-1456).

Hu-on Gulf (hyōō'ən gŭlf, -ŏn) An inlet of the Solomon Sea on the eastern coast of New Guinea.

Hu-pei or Hu-peh (hŭō'pā', hŭ'-) See Hubei.

hur-dle (hŭr'dl) n. 1. Sports. a. A light, portable barrier over which competitors must leap in certain races. b. hurdles. A race in which a series of such barriers must be jumped without the competitors' breaking their stride. 2. An obstacle or difficulty to be overcome: the last hurdle before graduation. 3. Chiefly British. A portable framework made of intertwined branches or wattle and used for temporary fencing. 4. Chiefly British. A frame or sledge on which condemned persons were dragged to execution. — v. hur-dled, hur-dling, hur-dles. — v. tr. 1. To leap over (a barrier) in or as if in a race. 2. To overcome or deal with successfully; surmount: hurdle a problem. — v. intr. To leap over a barrier or other obstacle. [Middle English hurdel, portable panel for temporary fences, from Old English hyrdel.] — hur'dler n.

hur-dy-gur-dy (hŭr'dē-gŭr'dē, hŭr'dē-gŭr'dē) n. pl. hur-dy-gur-dies. Music. 1. A medieval stringed instrument played by turning a rosined wheel with a crank and depressing keys connected to tangents on the strings. 2. Any instrument, such as a barrel organ, played by turning a crank. [Probably imitative.]

hurl (hŭrl) v. hurled, hurl-ing, hurls. — v. tr. 1. To throw with great force; fling. See Synonyms at throw. 2. To send with great vigor; thrust: hurled the army against the enemy. 3. To throw down; overthrow. 4. To utter vehemently: hurled insults at the speaker. — v. intr. 1. To move with great speed, force, or violence; hurtle. 2. To throw something with force. 3. Baseball. To pitch the ball. [Middle English hurlen.] — hurl n. — hurl'er n.

Hur-ley (hŭr'lē), Patrick Jay. 1883-1963. American public official and diplomat who served as U.S. ambassador to China (1944-1945).

hurl-ing (hŭr'lĭng) n. Sports. An Irish game resembling lacrosse played with a broad-bladed, netless stick.

hur-ly-bur-ly (hûr'lē-bûr'lē) n. pl. hur-ly-bur-lies. Noisy confusion; tumult. [Alteration and reduplication of hurling, gerund of HURL.]

Hur-ok (hyōōr'ök'), Solomon. Known as "Sol." 1888-1974. Russian-born American impresario who sponsored a number of concert series in New York City.

Hu-ron (hyōōr'ən, -ōn') n. pl. Huron or Hu-rons. 1. a. A Native American confederacy formerly inhabiting southeast Ontario around Lake Simcoe, with small present-day populations in Quebec and northeast Oklahoma, where they are known as Wyandot. The Huron traded extensively throughout eastern Canada until the confederacy was destroyed by war with the Iroquois in the mid-17th century. b. A member of this confederacy. 2. The Iroquoian language of the Huron. [French, boor, Huron, from Old French hure, bristling hair.]

Huron, Lake. The second largest of the Great Lakes, between southeast Ontario, Canada, and eastern Michigan. Part of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway system, it is navigable for oceangoing vessels, although winter ice in the shallower sections impedes free passage. Samuel de Champlain first sighted the lake in 1615.

hur-rah (hōō-rā', -rô', hæ-) also hoo-ray or hur-ray (-rā') interj. Used as an exclamation of pleasure, approval, elation, or victory. — n. 1. A shout of "hurrah." 2. Excitement; fanfare. — v. hur-rahed also hoo-rayed, hur-rah-ing also hoo-ray-ing, hur-rahs also hoo-rays. — v. tr. To applaud, cheer, or approve (someone or something) by shouting "hurrah." — v. intr. To shout "hurrah." [Alteration of HUZZAH.]

hur-ri-cane (hûr'ī-kān', hÿr'-) n. 1. A severe tropical cyclone originating in the equatorial regions of the Atlantic Ocean or Caribbean Sea, traveling north, northwest, or northeast from its point of origin, and usually involving heavy rains. 2. A wind with a speed greater than 74 miles (119 kilometers) per hour, according to the Beaufort scale. 3. Something resembling a hurricane in force or speed. [Spanish huracán, from Carib huracan; furacan.]

hurricane deck (hûr'ī-kān' dĕk) n. Nautical. The upper deck on a passenger steamship.

hurricane lamp (hûr'ī-kān' lămp) n. A lamp with a candle, an oiled wick, or an electric bulb protected by a glass chimney.

hur-ried (hûr'ēd, hÿr'-) adj. 1. a. Moving or acting rapidly. b. Required to move or act more rapidly; rushed. 2. Done in great haste: a hurried tour. —hur'ried-ly adv. —hur'ried-ness n.

hur-ry (hûr'ē, hÿr'-) v. hur-ried, hur-ry-ing, hur-ries. — v. intr. To move or act with speed or haste. — v. tr. 1. To cause to move or act with speed or haste: hurried the children to school. 2. To cause to move or act with undue haste; rush: was hurried into marriage. 3. To speed the progress or completion of; expedite. See Synonyms at speed. — n. pl. hur-ries. 1. The act or an instance of hurry-ing; hastened progress. 2. Activity or motion that is often unduly hurried; haste. See Synonyms at haste. 3. The need or wish to hurry; a condition of urgency: in no hurry to leave. [Possibly Middle English horien, perhaps variant of harien, to harass. See HARRY.] —hur'ri-er n.

hur-ry-scur-ry also hur-ry-skur-ry (hûr'ē-skûr'ē, hÿr'ē-skÿr'ē) v. intr.

hur-ry-scur-ried, hur-ry-scur-ry-ing, hur-ry-scur-ries. To move or act with undue hurry and confusion. — n. pl. hur-ry-scur-ries. Confused haste; agitation. [Reduplication of HURRY.]

Hurst (hûrst) A city of northeast Texas, an industrial and residential suburb of Fort Worth. Population, 33,574.

Hurst (hûrst), Sir Cecil James Barrington. 1870-1963. British jurist who served as a judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague (1929-1946) and president of the court (1934-1936).

Hurst (hûrst), Fannie. 1889-1968. American writer whose sentimental novels include *Lummo*x (1923) and Back Street (1931).

Hurston (hûr'stən), Zora Neale. 1901?-1960. American writer. In her several books and novels, including Their Eyes Were Watching God (1937), she gives detailed and sensitive accounts of Black life in the South.

hurt (hûrt) v. hurt, hurt-ing, hurts. — v. tr. 1. To cause physical damage or pain to; injure. 2. To cause mental or emotional suffering to; distress. 3. To damage or impair: The bad publicity has hurt the candidate's chances for victory. See Synonyms at injure. — v. intr. 1. To have or produce a feeling of physical pain or discomfort: My leg hurts. 2. a. To cause distress or damage: Parental neglect hurts. b. To have an adverse effect: "It never hurt to have a friend at court" (Tom Clancy). 3. Informal. To experience distress, especially of a financial kind; be in need: "Even in a business that's hurting there's always a guy who can make a buck" (New York). — n. 1. Something that hurts; a pain, an injury, or a wound. 2. Mental suffering; anguish: getting over the hurt of reading the letter. 3. A wrong; harm: What hurt have you done to them? [Middle English hurten, possibly from Old French hurter, to bang into, perhaps of Germanic origin.] —hurt'er n.

hurt-ful (hûrt'fəl) adj. Causing injury or suffering; damaging. —hurt'ful-ly adv. —hurt'ful-ness n.

Hürth (hürt) A city of west-central Germany south-southeast of Cologne. It is an industrial center in a coal-mining area. Population, 50,437.

hur-tle (hûr'tl) v. hur-tled, hur-ting, hur-tles. — v. intr. To move with or as if with great speed and a rushing noise: an express train that hurtled past. — v. tr. To fling with great force; hurl. [Middle English hurtlen, to collide, frequentative of hurten, to knock against, damage. See HURT.]

hurt-less (hûrt'lis) adj. 1. Causing no hurt; harmless. 2. Having no hurt; unhurt.

Hus (hÿs, hÿös), Jan. See John Huss.

Hu·sain or Hu·sayn (hōō-sān') See Hussein.

hus·band (hūz'bænd) n. Abbr. h., H. 1. A man joined to a woman in marriage; a male spouse. 2. Chiefly British. A manager or steward, as of a household.

3. Archaic. A prudent, thrifty manager. — v. tr. hus·band·ed, hus·band·ing, hus·bands. 1. To use sparingly or economically; conserve: husband one's energy.

2. Archaic. To find a husband for. [Middle English huseband, from Old English hūsbōnda, from Old Norse hūsbōndi: hūs, house + bōndi, būandi, householder, present participle of būa, to dwell; see bheuə- in Appendix.]

WORD HISTORY: We gain an insight into the history of the word husband by considering the Old English word hūsbōnde, meaning “the mistress of a house.” If hūsbōnde had survived into Modern English, husband, its modern form, would have been very ambiguous. The fact that hūsbōnde could mean “mistress of a house” helps us see the elements that make up the Old English ancestor of our word husband. Hūs corresponds to house. The element -bōnde is the feminine form of -bōnda, the second element of Old English hūsbōnda. The entire Old English word is a borrowing of the Old Icelandic word hūsbōndi, meaning “the master of a house.” The second element in hūsbōndi, bōndi, means “a man who has land and stock” and comes from the verb būa, meaning “to live, dwell, have a household.” The master of the house was of course usually the spouse of a wife as well, and it would seem that our main current sense of husband arises from this overlap.

hus·band·man (hūz'bænd-mən) n. One whose occupation is husbandry; a farmer.

hus·band·ry (hūz'bæn-drē) n. 1. a. The act or practice of cultivating crops and breeding and raising livestock; agriculture. b. The application of scientific principles to agriculture, especially to animal breeding. 2. Careful management or conservation of resources; economy. [Middle English husbondri, from huseband, husband. See HUSBAND.]

Hu·sein ibn-A·li (hōō-sān' īb'ən-ä-lē'), 1856?-1931. Arabian political and religious leader who led a revolt against the Turks and proclaimed himself king of Hejaz (1916). He was forced to abdicate in 1924.

hush (hūsh) v. hushed, hush·ing, hush·es. — v. tr. 1. To make silent or quiet. 2. To calm; soothe. 3. To keep from public knowledge; suppress mention of. Often used with up: tried to hush up the damaging details. — v. intr. To be or become silent or still. — n. A silence or stillness, especially after noise. — adj. Archaic. Silent; quiet. [Probably back-formation from Middle English husht, silent, of imitative origin.]

hush·hush (hūsh'hūsh') adj. Informal. Secret; confidential.

Hu Shi also Hu Shih (hōō' shcē'), 1891-1962. Chinese philosopher and diplomat. As a philosophy professor he promoted vernacular literature to replace writing in the classical style. He was also ambassador to the United States (1938-1942) and the United Nations (1957).

hush money (hūsh mūn'ē) n. Informal. A bribe paid to keep something secret.

hush-pup-py or hush puppy (hūsh'pūp'ē) n. A small, round or slightly oblong cake of cornmeal fried in deep fat. [Origin unknown.]

husk (hūsk) n. 1. The outer membranous or green envelope of some fruits or seeds, as that of a walnut or an ear of corn. 2. A shell or outer covering, especially when considered worthless. 3. A framework serving as a support. — v. tr.

husked, husk-ing, husks. To remove the husk from. [Middle English probably akin to hose, stocking, sheath. See HOSE.] —husk'er n.

hus-kie (hūs'kē) n. Variant of husky³.

husk-ing bee (hūs'kīng bē) n. See cornhusking (n., sense 2).

husk tomato (hūsk tə-mā'tō) n. See ground cherry.

husk-y¹ (hūs'kē) adj. husk-i-er, husk-i-est. 1. Hoarse or rough in quality: a voice husky with emotion. 2. a. Resembling a husk. b. Containing husks. [From HUSK.] —husk'i-ly adv.

husk-y² (hūs'kē) adj. husk-i-er, husk-i-est. 1. Strongly built; burly. 2. Heavily built: clothing sizes for husky boys. — n. pl. husk-ies. A husky person. [Perhaps from HUSK.]

hus-ky³ also hus-kie (hūs'kē) n. pl. hus-kies. 1. Often Husky or Huskie. A dog of a breed developed in Siberia for pulling sleds and having a dense, variously colored coat. Also called Siberian husky 2. A similar dog of Arctic origin. [Probably from shortening and alteration of ESKIMO.]

Huss or Hus (hūs, hōōs), John or Jan. 1372?-1415. Czechoslovakian religious reformer who was excommunicated (1409) for attacking the corruption of the clergy. His De Ecclesia questioned the authority and infallibility of the Catholic Church.

hus-sar (hə-zār', -sār') n. 1. A horseman of the Hungarian light cavalry organized during the 15th century. 2. A member of any of similar, ornately uniformed European units of light cavalry. [Hungarian huszár, from Serbian husar, highwayman, from Old Italian corsaro. See CORSAIR.]

Hus-sein or Hu-sain or Hu-sayn (hōō-sān'), Born 1935. King of Jordan (since 1952). Since he lost control of western Jordan in the Arab-Israeli War (1967), Hussein has attempted to remain neutral in Arab-Israeli conflicts.

Hus-sein (hōō-sān'), Saddam. Born 1937. Iraqi military and political leader. The president of Iraq since 1979, he waged war against Iran over a territorial dispute (1980-1988) and invaded and occupied Kuwait (1990).

Hus-serl (hōös'ərl, -ərl), Edmund. 1859-1938. Austrian-born German philosopher. A leader in the development of phenomenology, he had a major influence on the existentialists.

Hus-sey (hüs'ē), Obed. 1792-1860. American inventor and manufacturer of an early mechanical reaper (patented 1833).

Huss-ite (hüs'it', hōös'-) n. A follower of the religious reformer John Huss. — adj. Of or relating to John Huss or his religious theories. — Huss'it'ism n.

hus-sy (hüz'ē, hüs'ē) n. pl. hus-sies. 1. A woman considered brazen or immoral. 2. A saucy or impudent girl. [Alteration of Middle English houswif, housewife. See HOUSEWIFE.]

Hus-ted (hyōō'stīd), Marjorie Child. 1892?-1986. American home economist who created the “Betty Crocker” homemaker image.

hust-ings (hüs'tīngz) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). 1. a. A place where political campaign speeches are made: a candidate out on the hustings in the farm belt. b. The activities involved in political campaigning: a veteran of the hustings. 2. Chiefly British. A court formerly held in some English cities and still held infrequently in London. 3. Chiefly British. a. A platform on which candidates for Parliament formerly stood to address the electors. b. The proceedings of a parliamentary election. [From Middle English husting, court of common pleas, from Old English hūsting, court, from Old Norse hūsting: hūs, house + thing, assembly.]

hus-tle (hüs'əl) v. hus-tled, hus-ting, hus-tles. — v. tr. 1. To jostle or shove roughly. 2. To convey in a hurried or rough manner: hustled the prisoner into a van. 3. To cause or urge to proceed quickly: hustled the board into a quick decision. 4. To gain by energetic effort: hustled a hot lunch. 5. Slang. a. To sell or get by questionable or aggressive means: hustled stolen watches; hustling spare change. b. To pressure into buying or doing something: a barfly hustling the other customers for drinks. — v. intr. 1. To jostle and push. 2. To work or move energetically and rapidly: We hustled to get dinner ready on time. 3. To act aggressively, especially in business dealings. 4. Slang. To obtain something by deceitful or illicit means. 5. Slang. To solicit customers. Used of a pimp or prostitute. — n. 1. The act or an instance of jostling or shoving. 2. Energetic activity; drive. 3. Slang. An illicit or unethical way of doing business or obtaining money; a fraud or deceit: “the most dangerous and wide-open drug hustle of them all” (Newsweek). [Dutch husselen, to shake, from Middle Dutch hustelen, frequentative of hutsen.] — hus'tler n.

Hus-ton (hyōō'stən), John. 1906-1987. American filmmaker whose works include The Maltese Falcon (1941) and The African Queen (1951). He won an Academy Award for his direction of the film Treasure of Sierra Madre (1948). His father, Walter Huston (1884-1950), won an Academy Award for his performance in that film.

hut (hüt) n. 1. A crude or makeshift dwelling or shelter; a shack. 2. A temporary structure for sheltering troops. — v. tr. intr. hut-ted, hut-ting, huts. To shelter or take shelter in a hut. [French hutte, of Germanic origin. See (s)keu- in Appendix.]

hutch (hüch) n. 1. A pen or coop for small animals, especially rabbits. 2. A cupboard with drawers for storage and usually open shelves on top, often used for dishes. 3. A chest or bin for storage. 4. A hut. [Middle English huche, chest, from Old French, from Medieval Latin hūtica, possibly of Germanic origin.]

Hutch-ins (hüch'inz), Robert Maynard. 1899-1977. American educator who was president (1929-1945) and chancellor (1945-1951) of the University of Chicago.

Hutch-in-son (hüch'ın-sən) A city of south-central Kansas on the Arkansas River northwest of Wichita. It is a commercial and industrial center in an agricultural and oil-producing area. Population, 39,308.

Hutch-in-son (hüch'ın-sən), Anne. 1591-1643. English-born American colonist and religious leader who was banished from Boston (1637) for her religious beliefs.

Hutch-in-son (hüch'ın-sən), Thomas. 1711-1780. American colonial official who was unpopular as governor of Massachusetts (1771-1774) because he supported British policies.

Hutch-in-son-Gil-ford syndrome (hüch'ınsən-gıl'fərd sın'dröm') n. See progeria. [After Sir Jonathan Hutchinson (1828-1913) and Hastings Gilford (1861-1941), British physicians.]

hut-ment (hüt'mənt) n. An encampment of huts.

Hut-ten (hōöt'n), Ulrich von. 1488-1523. German humanist and soldier whose works show strong opposition to the authority of the pope.

Hut-ter-ite (hüt'ə-rīt', hōöt'-) n. A member of an Anabaptist sect originating in Moravia and now living communally in parts of Canada and the northwest United States. [After Jakob Hutter (died 1536), Moravian Anabaptist leader.]

hutz-pah (KHōöt'spə, hōöt'-) n. Variant of chutzpah.

Hux-ley (hüks'lē), Aldous Leonard. 1894-1963. British writer. His best-known work, Brave New World (1932), paints a grim picture of a scientifically organized utopia.

Hux-ley (hüks'lē), Andrew Fielding. Born 1917. British physiologist. He shared a 1963 Nobel Prize for research on nerve cells.

Hux-ley (hüks'lē), Sir Julian Sorell. 1887-1975. British biologist and writer who was secretary of the Zoological Society of London (1935-1942) and the first director general of UNESCO (1946-1948).

Hux-ley (hüks'lē), Thomas Henry. 1825-1895. British biologist who championed Darwin's theory of evolution. His works include Zoological Evidences as to Man's Place in Nature (1863) and Science and Culture (1881).

Hu Yao-bang (hōo' you'bäng', hū') also Hu Yao-pang (-päng'), 1915-1989. Chinese politician who served as general secretary of the Communist Party from 1980 to 1989.

Huy-gens (hī'gənz, hoi'gəns), Christiaan. 1629-1695. Dutch physicist and astronomer who discovered Saturn's rings (1655), pioneered the use of the pendulum in clocks (1657), and formulated Huygens' principle.

Huy-gens' principle (hī'gənz prīn'sə-pəl) n. The principle that any point on a wave front of light may be regarded as the source of secondary waves and that the surface that is tangent to the secondary waves can be used to determine the future position of the wave front. [After Christiaan HUYGENS.]

Huys-mans (wēs-māns'), Joris Karl. 1848-1907. French writer whose realistic novels include Marthe, Histoire d'une Fille (1876) and En Rade (1887).

Huy-ton-with-Ro-by (hīt'n-wīth-rō'bē, -wīth-) An urban district of north-west England, a residential suburb of Liverpool. Population, 174,100.

huz-zah also huz-za (hə-zā') interj. Used to express joy, encouragement, or triumph. — n. 1. A shout of "huzzah." 2. A cheer. [Perhaps variant of Middle English hisse, heave!. See HOIST.]

H.V. abbr. 1. High velocity. 2. High voltage.

HW abbr. 1. High water. 2. Hot water.

Hwang Ho (hwäng' hō') See Huang He.

Hwei (hwā) n. Variant of Hui.

HWM abbr. High-water mark.

hwy abbr. Highway.

hy-a-cinth (hī'ə-sīnth) n. 1. a. A bulbous Mediterranean plant (Hyacinthus orientalis) having narrow leaves and a terminal raceme of variously colored, usually fragrant flowers, with a funnel-shaped perianth. Also called jacinth b. Any of several similar or related plants, such as the grape hyacinth. 2. Greek Mythology. A plant, perhaps the larkspur, gladiolus, or iris, that sprang from the blood of the slain Hyacinthus. 3. Color. A deep purplish blue to vivid violet. 4. a. A reddish or cinnamon-colored variety of transparent zircon, used as a gemstone. b. A blue precious stone, perhaps the sapphire, known in antiquity. [Latin hyacinthus, from Greek huakinthos, wild hyacinth.] —hy'a-cin'thine (-sīn'thīn, -thīn') adj.

hyacinth bean (hī'ə-sīnth bēn) n. A twining vine (Dolichos lablab) of the Old World tropics, having purple or white flowers and edible pods and seeds. Also called lablab Hy-a-cin-thus (hī'ə-sīn'thəs) n. Greek Mythology. A beautiful youth, loved but accidentally killed by Apollo, from whose blood Apollo caused the hyacinth to grow.

Hy-a-des (hī'ə-dēz') pl.n. 1. Greek Mythology. The five daughters of Atlas and sisters of the Pleiades, placed by Zeus among the stars. 2. A cluster of stars in the constellation Taurus, the five brightest of which form a V, supposed by ancient astronomers to indicate rain when they rose with the sun. [Latin, from Greek Huades.]

hy·ae·na (hī-ē'nə) n. Variant of hyena.

hy·a·lin (hī'ə-līn) also hy·a·line (-līn, -līn') n. 1. Physiology. The uniform matrix of hyaline cartilage. 2. Pathology. A translucent product of some degenerative skin conditions. [Greek hualos, glass + -IN.]

hy·a·line (hī'ə-līn, -līn') adj. Resembling glass, as in translucence or transparency; glassy. — n. 1. Something that is translucent or transparent. 2. Variant of hyalin. [Late Latin hyalīnus, from Greek hualinos, of glass, from hualos, glass.]

hyaline cartilage (hī'ə-līn kār'tl-ij) n. Semitransparent, opalescent cartilage with a blue tint, consisting of cells that synthesize a surrounding matrix of hyaluronic acid, collagen, and protein. It forms most of the fetal skeleton and is found in the trachea, larynx, and joint surfaces of the adult.

hyaline membrane disease (hī'ə-līn mēm'brān' dī-zēz') n. See respiratory distress syndrome.

hy·a·lite (hī'ə-līt') n. A clear, colorless opal. [Greek hualos, glass + -ITE¹.]

hy·a·loid (hī'ə-loid') adj. Glassy or transparent in appearance; hyaline. [Greek hualoeidēs; hualos, glass + -oeidēs, -oid.]

hy·a·lo·plasm (hī'ə-lō-plāz'əm) n. The clear, fluid portion of cytoplasm as distinguished from the granular and netlike components. Also called ground substance [Greek hualos, glass + -PLASM.]

hy·al·u·ron·ic acid (hī'ə-lōō-rōn'ik əs'īd) n. A gellike aminoglycan that is found in the tissue space, the synovial fluid of joints, and the vitreous humor of the eyes and acts as a binding, lubricating, and protective agent. [Greek hualos, glass + -URONIC.]

hy·a·lu·ron·i·dase (hī'ə-lōō-rōn'ī-dās', -dāz') n. An enzyme that inactivates hyaluronic acid in the body, thereby increasing tissue permeability to fluids. Also called spreading factor

Hy·an·nis (hī-ān'īs) A town of southeast Massachusetts on Nantucket Sound in south-central Cape Cod. It is a popular summer resort. The summer White House was located nearby while John F. Kennedy was President. Population, 8,000.

Hy·att (hī'ət), Anna Vaughn. 1876-1973. American sculptor known for her animal figures and works such as Diana and the Chase (1922) and Don Quixote (1942).

Hy·att (hī'ət), John Wesley. 1837-1920. American inventor who developed celluloid (1868), the first useful plastic.

hy·brid (hī'brīd) n. 1. Genetics. The offspring of genetically dissimilar parents or stock, especially the offspring produced by breeding plants or animals of different varieties, species, or races. 2. a. Something of mixed origin or composition. b. Something, such as a computer or power plant, having two kinds of components that produce the same or similar results. 3. A word whose elements are derived from different languages. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: a hybrid tulip; a hybrid cell. [Latin hybrida.] —hy'brid-ism n. —hy'brid-ist n. —hy-brid'i-ty (hī-brīd'ī-tē) n.

hy-brid-ize (hī'brī-dīz') v. intr. tr. hy-brid-ized, hy-brid-iz-ing, hy-brid-iz-es. To produce or cause to produce hybrids; crossbreed.

—hy'brid-i-za'tion (-brī-dī-zāshən) n. —hy'brid-iz'er n.

hy-brid-o-ma (hī'brī-dō'mə) n. A cell produced in the laboratory from the fusion of an antibody-producing lymphocyte and a myeloma tumor cell. It proliferates into clones that produce a continuous supply of a specific antibody.

hybrid vigor (hī'brīd vīg'ər) n. Increased vigor or other superior qualities arising from the crossbreeding of genetically different plants or animals. Also called heterosis hyd. abbr. 1. Hydraulics. 2. Hydrostatics.

hy-da-thode (hī'də-thōd') n. A water-excreting microscopic epidermal structure in many plants. [Greek hudōr, hudat-, water; see wed⁻¹ in Appendix + hodos, way, road.]

hy-da-tid (hī'də-tīd) n. 1. A cyst formed as a result of infestation by larvae of the tapeworm Echinococcus granulosus. 2. The encysted larva of E. granulosus. [Greek hudatis, hudatid-, watery vesicle, from hudōr, hudat-, water. See wed⁻¹ in Appendix.]

Hyde (hīd), Douglas. 1860-1949. Irish nationalist and writer who founded the Gaelic League (1893) and was president of Ireland (1938-1945).

Hyde (hīd), Edward First Earl of Clarendon. 1609-1674. English politician who was chief adviser to Charles I during the English Civil War and served as Lord Chancellor from 1660 to 1667.

Hyde Park¹ (hīd pärk) A large public park in west-central London, England, famous for its soapbox orators.

Hyde Park² (hīd pärk) A village of southeast New York on the eastern bank of the Hudson River north of Poughkeepsie. It is the birth and burial place of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Population, 2,805.

Hy-der-a-bad (hī'dər-ə-bād', -bād', hī'drə-) 1. A city of south-central India east-southeast of Bombay. Center of a former Mogul kingdom and Indian state, the city was founded in 1589 and is today a commercial center and transportation hub. Population, 2,187,262. 2. A city of southern Pakistan on the Indus River northeast of Karachi. Founded in 1768, it was occupied by the British in 1839. The city is noted for its handicrafts. Population, 745,000.

hydr- pref. Variant of hydro-.

hy-dra (hī'drə) n. pl. hy-dras or hy-drae (-drē). Any of several small freshwater polyps of the genus Hydra and related genera, having a naked cylindrical body and an oral opening surrounded by tentacles. [New Latin Hydra, genus name, from Latin Hydra, Hydra. See HYDRA.]

Hy-dra (hī'drə) n. 1. Greek Mythology. The many-headed monster that was slain by Hercules. 2. A constellation in the equatorial region of the southern sky near Cancer, Libra, and Centaurus. Also called *Snake*² 3. A persistent or multifaceted problem that cannot be eradicated by a single effort. [Middle English Idra, from Latin Hydra, from Greek Hudra, Hydra, a water serpent. See wed-¹ in Appendix.]

hy-dral-a-zine (hī-drāl'ə-zēn') n. An antihypertensive drug, C₈H₈N₄. [HYDR(O)- + (PHTH)AL(IC ACID) + AZINE.]

hy-dra-mine (hī'drə-mēn') n. A dihydric alcohol in which one hydroxyl has been replaced with an amino group.

hy-dran-gea (hī-drān'jə, -drān'-) n. Any of various shrubs of the genus Hydrangea, having opposite leaves and large, flat-topped or rounded clusters of white, pink, or blue flowers. [New Latin Hydrangēa, genus name : Greek hudro-, hudr-, hydro- + Greek angeion, vessel; see ANGIO-.]

hy-drant (hī'drənt) n. A fire hydrant.

hy-dranth (hī'drānth') n. A feeding zooid in a hydroid colony having an oral opening surrounded by tentacles. [HYDR(A) + Greek anthos, flower.]

hy-drarch (hī'drārk) adj. Originating in a wet habitat, such as a pond. Used of an ecological succession.

hy-drase (hī'drās', -drāz') n. An enzyme that catalyzes the addition or removal of water from a substrate.

hy-dras-tine (hī-drās'tēn', -tīn) n. A poisonous white alkaloid, C₂₁H₂₁NO₆, obtained from the root of the goldenseal and formerly used locally to treat inflammation of mucous membranes. [New Latin Hydrastis, plant genus + -INE².]

hy-drate (hī'drāt') n. A solid compound containing water molecules combined in a definite ratio as an integral part of the crystal. — v. hy-drat-ed, hy-drat-ing, hy-drates. — v. tr. 1. To rehydrate. 2. To supply water to (a person, for example) in order to restore or maintain fluid balance. — v. intr. To become a hydrate. — hy-dra'tion n. — hy'dra'tor n.

hy-drat-ed (hī'drā'tīd) adj. Chemically combined with water, especially existing in the form of a hydrate.

hy-drau-lic (hī-drō'lik) adj. 1. Of, involving, moved by, or operated by a fluid, especially water, under pressure. 2. Able to set and harden under water, as Portland cement. 3. Of or relating to hydraulics. [Latin hydraulicus, from Greek hudraulikos, from hudraulis, water organ : hudro-, hudr-, hydro- + aulos, pipe, flute.] — hy-drau/li-cal-ly adv.

hydraulic press (hī-drô'lik prēs) n. A machine in which a large force is exerted on the larger of two pistons in a pair of hydraulically coupled cylinders by means of a relatively small force applied to the smaller piston.

hydraulic ram (hī-drô'lik rām) n. 1. A water pump in which the downward flow of naturally running water is intermittently halted by a valve so that the flow is forced upward through an open pipe into a reservoir. 2. The large output piston of a hydraulic press.

hy-drau-lics (hī-drô'liks) n. (used with a sing. verb). Abbr. hyd. The physical science and technology of the static and dynamic behavior of fluids.

hy-dra-zide (hī'drə-zīd') n. An acyl derivative of hydrazine.

hy-dra-zine (hī'drə-zēn', -zīn) n. A colorless, fuming, corrosive hygroscopic liquid, H_2NNH_2 , used in jet and rocket fuels.

hy-dric (hī'drīk) adj. Relating to, characterized by, or requiring considerable moisture.

hy-dride (hī'drīd') n. A compound of hydrogen with another, more electropositive element or group.

hy-dril-la (hī-drīl'ə) n. A submersed Old World Plant (Hydrilla verticillata) having whorled, lance-shaped leaves and unisexual, solitary, axillary flowers. [New Latin, genus name, diminutive of Latin hydra, hydra. See HYDRA.]

hy-dri-od-ic acid (hī'drē-ōd'ik əs'īd) n. A clear, colorless or pale yellow aqueous solution of hydrogen iodide, HI, that is a strong acid and reducing agent.

hy-dro (hī'drō) adj. Hydroelectric. — n. pl. hy-dros. 1. Hydroelectric power. 2. A hydroelectric power plant.

hydro- or hydr- pref. 1. a. Water: hydroelectric. b. Liquid: hydrodynamics. 2. Hydrogen: hydrochloride. [Greek hudro-, hudr-, from hudōr. See wed¹ in Appendix.]

hy-dro-bi-ol-o-gy (hī'drō-bī-ōl'ə-jē) n. The biological study of bodies of water. — hy'dro-bi'o-log'i-cal (-bī'ə-lōj'i-kəl) adj. — hy'dro-bi-ol'o-gist n.

hy-dro-bro-mic acid (hī'drə-brō'mīk əs'īd) n. A clear, colorless or faintly yellow, highly acidic and corrosive aqueous solution of hydrogen bromide, HBr, used in the manufacture of bromides.

hy-dro-car-bon (hī'drə-kär'bən) n. Any of numerous organic compounds, such as benzene and methane, that contain only carbon and hydrogen. — hy'dro-car'bo-na'ceous (-bə-nā'shəs), hy'dro-car-bon'ic (-bōn'ik), hy'dro-car'bon-ous (-bə-nəs) adj.

hy-dro-cele (hī'drə-sēl') n. A pathological accumulation of serous fluid in a bodily cavity, especially in the scrotal pouch. [Latin hydrocēlē, from Greek hudrokēlē: hudro-, hydro- + kēlē, tumor; see -CELE¹.]

hy-dro-ceph-a-lus (hī'drō-sěf'ə-ləs) also hy-dro-ceph-a-ly (-lē) n. A usually congenital condition in which an abnormal accumulation of fluid in the cerebral ventricles causes enlargement of the skull and compression of the brain, destroying much of the neural tissue. [New Latin, from Greek hudrokephalon : hudro-, hydro- + kephalē, head; see ghebh-el- in Appendix.] —hy'dro-ce-phal'ic (-sə-fäl'ik), hy'dro-ceph'a-loid' (-loid') , hy'dro-ceph'a-lous (-ləs) adj.

hy-dro-chlo-ric acid (hī'drə-klôr'ik əs'īd, -klôr'-) n. A clear, colorless, fuming, poisonous, highly acidic aqueous solution of hydrogen chloride, HCl, used as a chemical intermediate and in petroleum production, ore reduction, food processing, pickling, and metal cleaning. It is found in the stomach in dilute form.

hy-dro-chlo-ride (hī'drə-klôr'īd', -klôr'-) n. A compound resulting or regarded as resulting from the reaction of hydrochloric acid with an organic base.

hy-dro-chlo-ro-thi-a-zide (hī'drə-klôr'ə-thī'ə-zīd', -klôr'-) n. A diuretic drug, $C_7H_8ClN_3O_4S_2$, used in the treatment of hypertension. [HYDRO- + CHLORO- + THIAZ(OLE) + -IDE.]

hy-dro-col-loid (hī'drə-kōl'oid') n. A substance that forms a gel with water. —hy'dro-col-loid'al (-kə-loid'l) adj.

hy-dro-cor-al (hī'drə-kôr'əl, -kôr'-) n. Any of various colonial marine hydrozoans of the order Hydrocorallinae, having a limestone skeleton and thus resembling the true corals.

hy-dro-cor-ti-sone (hī'drə-kôr'tī-sōn', -zōn') n. 1. A steroid hormone, $C_{21}H_{30}O_5$, produced by the adrenal cortex, that regulates carbohydrate metabolism and maintains blood pressure. Also called cortisol 2. A preparation of this hormone obtained from natural sources or produced synthetically and used to treat inflammatory conditions and adrenal failure.

hy-dro-crack (hī'drə-krāk') v. tr. hy-dro-cracked, hy-dro-crack-ing, hy-dro-cracks. To break down (a hydrocarbon) by the process of hydrocracking. —hy'dro-crack'er n.

hy-dro-crack-ing (hī'drə-krāk'īng) n. A process by which the hydrocarbon molecules of petroleum are broken into simpler molecules, as of gasoline or kerosene, by the addition of hydrogen under high pressure and in the presence of a catalyst.

hy-dro-cy-an-ic acid (hī'drō-sī-ăn'ik əs'īd) n. An aqueous solution of hydrogen cyanide. Also called prussic acid hy-dro-dy-nam-ic (hī'drō-dī-năm'ik) also hy-dro-dy-nam-i-cal (-ī-kəl) adj. 1. Of or relating to hydrodynamics. 2. Of, relating to, or operated by the force of liquid in motion. —hy'dro-dy-nam'i-cal-ly adv.

hy-dro-dy-nam-ics (hī'drō-dī-năm'iks) n. 1. (used with a sing. verb). The branch of science that deals with the dynamics of fluids, especially incompressible fluids, in motion. 2. (used with a pl. verb). The dynamics of fluids in motion. —hy'dro-dy-nam'i-cist (-ī-sīst) n.

hy-dro-e-lec-tric (hī'drō-ī-lĕk'trīk) adj. 1. Generating electricity by conversion of the energy of running water. 2. Of, relating to, or using electricity so generated. —hy'dro-e-lec'tri-cal-ly adv. —hy'dro-e-lec-tric'i-ty (-i-lĕk-trīs'ī-tē) n.

hy-dro-fluor-ic acid (hī'drō-flōōr'īk əs'īd, -flōr'-, -flōr'-) n. A colorless, fuming, corrosive, dangerously poisonous aqueous solution of hydrogen fluoride, HF, used to etch or polish glass, pickle certain metals, and clean masonry.

hy-dro-foil (hī'drə-foīl') n. Nautical. 1. A winglike structure attached to the hull of a boat that raises all or part of the hull out of the water when the boat is moving forward, thus reducing drag. 2. A boat equipped with hydrofoils. In this sense, also called hydroplane hy-dro-form-ing (hī'drə-fōr'mīng) n. A process in which naphthas are converted to high-octane aromatics in the presence of hydrogen and a catalyst under pressure and heat. —hy'dro-form'er n.

hy-dro-gen (hī'drə-jən) n. Symbol H A colorless, highly flammable gaseous element, the lightest of all gases and the most abundant element in the universe, used in the production of synthetic ammonia and methanol, in petroleum refining, in the hydrogenation of organic materials, as a reducing atmosphere, in oxyhydrogen torches, and in rocket fuels. Atomic number 1; atomic weight 1.00797; melting point -259.14°C ; boiling point -252.8°C ; density at 0°C 0.08987 gram per liter; valence 1. [French hydrogène : Greek hudro-, hydro- + -gène, -gen.]

—hy-drog'e-nous (-drōj'ə-nəs) adj.

hy-drog-e-nase (hī-drōj'ə-nās', -nāz') n. An enzyme in certain microorganisms that catalyzes the formation of hydrogen.

hy-dro-gen-ate (hī'drə-jə-nāt', hī-drōj'ə-) v. tr. hy-dro-gen-at-ed, hy-dro-gen-at-ing, hy-dro-gen-ates. To combine with or subject to the action of hydrogen, especially to combine (an unsaturated oil) with hydrogen to produce a solid fat.

hydrogen bomb (hī'drə-jən bōm) n. An explosive weapon of enormous destructive power caused by the fusion of the nuclei of various hydrogen isotopes in the formation of helium nuclei.

hydrogen bond (hī'drə-jən bōnd) n. A chemical bond in which a hydrogen atom of one molecule is attracted to an electronegative atom, especially a nitrogen, oxygen, or fluorine atom, usually of another molecule.

hydrogen bromide (hī'drə-jən brō'mīd') n. An irritating colorless gas, HBr, used in the manufacture of barbiturates and synthetic hormones.

hydrogen chloride (hī'drə-jən klōr'īd') n. A colorless, fuming, corrosive suffocating gas, HCl, used in the manufacture of plastics.

hydrogen cyanide (hī'drə-jən sī'ə-nīd') n. A colorless, volatile, extremely poisonous flammable liquid, HCN, miscible in water and used in the manufacture of dyes, fumigants, and plastics. It becomes a gas at 26°C .

hydrogen fluoride (hī'drə-jən flōōr'īd') n. A colorless, fuming corrosive liquid or a highly soluble corrosive gas, HF, used in the manufacture of hydrofluoric acid, as a reagent, catalyst, and fluorinating agent, and in the refining of uranium and the preparation of many fluorine compounds.

hydrogen iodide (hī'drə-jən ī'ə-dīd') n. A corrosive, colorless suffocating gas, HI, used to manufacture hydriodic acid.

hydrogen ion (hī'drə-jən ī'ən) n. The positively charged ion of hydrogen, H⁺, formed by removal of the electron from atomic hydrogen and found in all aqueous solutions of acids.

hy-dro-gen-ol-y-sis (hī'drō-jə-nōl'ī-sīs) n. The breaking of a chemical bond in an organic molecule with the simultaneous addition of a hydrogen atom to each of the resulting molecular fragments.

hydrogen peroxide (hī'drə-jən pə-rōk'sīd') n. A colorless, heavy, strongly oxidizing liquid, H₂O₂, capable of reacting explosively with combustibles and used principally in aqueous solution as a mild antiseptic, a bleaching agent, an oxidizing agent, and a laboratory reagent.

hydrogen sulfide (hī'drə-jən sül'fīd') n. A colorless, flammable poisonous gas, H₂S, having a characteristic rotten-egg odor and used as an antiseptic, a bleach, and a reagent.

hy-dro-ge-ol-o-gy (hī'drō-jē-ōl'ə-jē) n. The branch of geology that deals with the occurrence, distribution, and effect of ground water.

—hy'dro-ge'o-log'i-cal (-jē'ə-lōj'ī-kəl), hy'dro-ge'o-log'ic adj.

—hy'dro-ge-ol'o-gist n.

hy-drog-ra-phy (hī-drōg'rə-fē) n. pl. hy-drog-ra-phies. 1. The scientific description and analysis of the physical conditions, boundaries, flow, and related characteristics of the earth's surface waters. 2. The mapping of bodies of water.

—hy-drog'ra-pher n. —hy'dro-graph'ic (hī'drə-grāf'īk) adj.

—hy'dro-graph'ic-cal-ly adv.

hy-droid (hī'droid') n. 1. Any of numerous characteristically colonial hydrozoan coelenterates having a polyp rather than a medusoid form as the dominant stage of the life cycle. 2. The asexual polyp in the life cycle of a hydrozoan. — adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of a hydroid. [HYDRA + -OID.]

hy-dro-ki-net-ic (hī'drō-kī-nēt'īk, -kī-) also hy-dro-ki-net-i-cal (-ī-kəl) adj.

1. Of or relating to hydrokinetics. 2. Of or relating to the kinetic energy and motion of fluids.

hy-dro-ki-net-ics (hī'drō-kī-nēt'īks, -kī-) n. (used with a sing. verb). The branch of physics that deals with fluids in motion.

hydrologic cycle (hī'drə-lōj'ī-k sī'kəl) n. See water cycle.

hy-drol-o-gy (hī-drōl'ə-jē) n. The scientific study of the properties, distribution, and effects of water on the earth's surface, in the soil and underlying rocks, and in the atmosphere. —hy'dro-log'ic (-drə-lōj'īk), hy'dro-log'ic-cal adj.

—hy'dro-log'ic-cal-ly adv. —hydrol'o-gist n.

hy-drol-y-sate (hī-drōl'ī-sāt', hī'drə-lī'-) also hy-drol-y-zate (-zāt') n. A product of hydrolysis. [HYDROLYS(IS) + -ATE².]

hy-drol-y-sis (hī-drōl'ī-sīs) n. Decomposition of a chemical compound by reaction with water, such as the dissociation of a dissolved salt or the catalytic conversion of starch to glucose. —hy'dro-lyte' (-līt') n. —hy'dro-lyt'ic (-drə-līt'ik) adj.

hy-dro-lyze (hī'drə-līz') v. tr. intr. hy-dro-lyzed, hy-dro-lyz-ing, hy-dro-lyz-es. To subject to or undergo hydrolysis. —hy'dro-lyz'a-ble adj. —hy'dro-ly-za'tion (-lī-zā'shən) n.

hy-dro-mag-net-ics (hī'drō-măg-nět'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb). See magnetohydrodynamics. —hy'dro-mag-net'ic adj.

hy-dro-man-cy (hī'drə-măn'sē) n. Divination by the observation of water. [Middle English ydromancy, from Old French ydromancie, from Latin hydromantīa, from Greek hudromanteia: hudro-, hydro- + manteia, divination; see -MANCY.]

hy-dro-me-chan-ics (hī'drō-mī-kăn'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb). The study of the mechanics of fluids or the laws of equilibrium and motion concerning fluids. —hy'dro-me-chan'i-cal adj.

hy-dro-me-du-sa (hī'drō-mī-dōō'sə, -dyōō'-) n. pl. hy-dro-me-du-sas or hy-dro-me-du-sae (-sē). A hydrozoan in the medusoid stage of its life cycle. [HYDRO- + MEDUSA.]

hy-dro-mel (hī'drə-měl') n. A mixture of water and honey that becomes mead when fermented. [Middle English ydromel, from Old French, from Latin hydromeli, from Greek hudromeli: hudro-, hydro- + meli, honey; see melit- in Appendix.]

hy-dro-met-al-lur-gy (hī'drō-mět'l-ûr'jē) n. The treatment of metal or the separation of metal from ores and ore concentrates by liquid processes, such as leaching, extraction, and precipitation. —hy'dro-met'al-lur'gi-cal adj.

hy-dro-me-te-or (hī'drō-mē'tē-ər, -ôr') n. A precipitation product, such as rain, snow, fog, or clouds, formed from the condensation of water vapor in the atmosphere.

hy-dro-me-te-or-ol-o-gy (hī'drō-mē'tē-ə-rōl'ə-jē) n. The branch of meteorology that deals with the occurrence, motion, and changes of state of atmospheric water. —hy'dro-me'te-or'o-log'i-cal (-ôr'ə-lōj'ī-kəl, -ôr'-) adj. —hy'dro-me'te-or-ol'o-gist n.

hy-drom-e-ter (hī-drōm'ī-tər) n. An instrument used to determine specific gravity, especially a sealed, graduated tube, weighted at one end, that sinks in a fluid to a depth used as a measure of the fluid's specific gravity.

—hy'dro-met'ric (hī'drə-mět'rik), hy'dro-met'ri-cal adj.

—hy'dro-met'ri-cal-ly adv. —hy-drom'e-try n.

hy-dro-ni-um (hī-drō'nē-əm) n. A hydrated hydrogen ion, H_3O^+ . Also called hydronium ion [HYDR(O)- + (AMM)ONIUM.]

hy-drop-a-thy (hī-dröp'ə-thē) n. pl. hy-drop-a-thies. Internal and external use of water as a therapeutic treatment for all forms of disease.

—hy'dro-path'ic (hī'drə-pāth'ik), hy'dro-path'i-cal adj.

—hy-drop'a-thist, hy'dro-path' n.

hy-dro-phane (hī'drə-fān') n. An opal that is almost opaque when dry but transparent when wet. —hy-droph'a-nous (hī-drōf'ə-nəs) adj.

hy-dro-phil-ic (hī'drə-fil'ik) adj. Having an affinity for water; readily absorbing or dissolving in water. —hy'dro-phile' (-fil') n. —hy'dro-phi-lic'i-ty (-fə-lis'ī-tē) n.

hy-droph-i-lous (hī-drōf'ə-ləs) adj. Botany. 1. Growing or thriving in water. 2. Pollinated by water, as the flowers of ribbon grass and hornwort.

—hy-droph'i-ly n.

hy-dro-pho-bi-a (hī'drə-fō'bē-ə) n. 1. An abnormal fear of water. 2. Rabies.

hy-dro-pho-bic (hī'drə-fō'bik, -fōb'ik) adj. 1. Repelling, tending not to combine with, or incapable of dissolving in water. 2. Of or exhibiting hydrophobia.

—hy'dro-pho-bic'i-ty (-bis'ī-tē) n.

hy-dro-phone (hī'drə-fōn') n. An electrical instrument for detecting or monitoring sound under water.

hy-dro-phyte (hī'drə-fit') n. A plant adapted to grow in water.

—hy'dro-phyt'ic (-fit'ik) adj.

hy-dro-plane (hī'drə-plān') n. 1. See seaplane. 2. Nautical. A motorboat designed so that the prow and much of the hull lift out of the water and skim the surface at high speeds. 3. Nautical. See hydrofoil (n., sense 2). 4. A horizontal rudder on a submarine. — v. intr. hy-dro-planed, hy-dro-plan-ing, hy-dro-planes. 1. To drive or ride in a hydroplane. 2. a. To skim along on the surface of the water. b. To be or go out of control by skimming along the surface of a wet road. Used of a motor vehicle.

hy-dro-pon-ics (hī'drə-pōn'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb). Cultivation of plants in nutrient solution rather than in soil. [HYDRO- + (GEO)PONICS.]

—hy'dro-pon'ic adj. —hy'dro-pon'i-cal-ly adv. —hy'dro-pon'i-cist (-isist), hy'dro-pon'ist (hī'drə-pōn'ist, hī-dröp'ə-hist) n.

hy-dro-pow-er (hī'drə-pou'ər) n. Hydroelectric power.

hy-dro-qui-none (hī'drō-kwī-nōn', -kwīn'ōn') also hy-dro-quin-ol (-kwīn'ōl', -ōl') n. A white crystalline compound, $\text{C}_6\text{H}_4(\text{OH})_2$, used as a photographic developer, an antioxidant, a stabilizer, and a reagent.

hy-dro-scope (hī'drə-skōp') n. An optical device used for viewing objects far below the surface of water. —hy'dro-scop'ic (-skōp'ik) adj.

hy-dro-sol (hī'drə-sōl', -sōl', -sōl') n. A colloid with water as the dispersing medium. —hy'dro-sol'ic (-sōl'ik) adj.

hy·dro·space (hī'drə-spās') n. The regions beneath the ocean's surface, especially when considered as an area to be studied.

hy·dro·sphere (hī'drə-sfir') n. 1. The waters of the earth's surface as distinguished from those of the lithosphere and the atmosphere. 2. The water vapor in the earth's atmosphere. —hy'dro·spher'ic (-sfir'ik, -sfēr'-) adj.

hy·dro·stat·ic (hī'drə-stāt'ik) also hy·dro·stat·i·cal (-ī-kəl) adj. Of or relating to hydrostatics. —hy'dro·stat'i·cal·ly adv.

hy·dro·stat·ics (hī'drə-stāt'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb). Abbr. hyd. The branch of physics that deals with fluids at rest and under pressure.

hy·dro·sul·fate (hī'drə-sül'fāt') n. A salt formed by the union of sulfuric acid with an alkaloid or other organic base.

hy·dro·sul·fide (hī'drə-sül'fid') n. A chemical compound derived from hydrogen sulfide by replacement of one of the hydrogen atoms with a basic radical or base.

hy·dro·sul·fite (hī'drə-sül'fīt') n. 1. A salt of hyposulfurous acid. 2. See sodium hydrosulfite.

hy·dro·sul·fu·rous acid (hī'drə-sül-fyōōr'əs əs'īd, -sül'fər-əs) n. See hyposulfurous acid.

hy·dro·tax·is (hī'drə-tāk'sīs) n. Biology. Movement of an organism in response to moisture. —hy'dro·tac'tic (-tāk'tik) adj.

hy·dro·ther·a·peu·tics (hī'drə-thēr'ə-pyōō'tīks) n. (used with a sing. verb). Hydrotherapy. —hy'dro·ther'a·peu'tic adj.

hy·dro·ther·a·py (hī'drə-thēr'ə-pē) n. pl. hy·dro·thera·pies. External use of water in the medical treatment of certain diseases.

hy·dro·ther·mal (hī'drə-thûr'məl) adj. 1. Of or relating to hot water. 2. Geology. a. Of or relating to hot magmatic emanations rich in water. b. Of or relating to the rocks, ore deposits, and springs produced by such emanations. —hy'dro·ther'mal·ly adv.

hy·dro·tho·rax (hī'drə-thô'r'ăks', -thôr'-) n. Accumulation of serous fluid in one or both pleural cavities.

hy·drot·ro·pism (hī-drōt'rə-pīz'əm) n. Growth or movement in a sessile organism toward or away from water, as of the roots of a plant.

—hy'dro·tro'pic (hī'drə-trō'pīk, -trōp'īk) adj. —hy'dro·tro'pi·cal·ly adv.

hy·drous (hī'drəs) adj. Containing water, especially water of crystallization or hydration.

hy·drox·ide (hī-drōk'sīd') n. A chemical compound containing the hydroxyl group.

hydroxide ion (hī-drōk'sīd' ī'ən) n. The ion OH⁻, characteristic of basic hydroxides. Also called hydroxyl ion hy·drox·y (hī-drōk'sē) adj. Containing the hydroxyl group. [From HYDROXYL.]

hy-drox-y-a-pa-tite (hī-drök'sē-äp'ī-tīt') n. The principal bone salt, $\text{Ca}_5(\text{PO}_4)_3\text{OH}$, which provides the compressional strength of vertebrate bone.

hy-drox-yl (hī-drök'sīl) n. The univalent radical or group OH, a characteristic component of bases, certain acids, phenols, alcohols, carboxylic and sulfonic acids, and amphoteric compounds. [HYDR(O)- + OX(YGEN) + -YL.]

—hy'drox-yl'ic (hī'drök-sīl'ik) adj.

hy-drox-yl-a-mine (hī-drök'sə-lə-mēn', hī'drök-sīl'ə-mēn', -sə-läm'in) n. A colorless crystalline compound, NH_2OH , explosive when heated, that is used as a reducing agent and in organic synthesis.

hy-drox-yl-ate (hī-drök'sə-lāt') v. tr. hy-drox-yl-at-ed, hy-drox-yl-at-ing, hy-drox-yl-ates. To introduce hydroxyl into (a compound). —hy-drox'y-la'-tion n.

hydroxyl ion (hī-drök'sīl ī'ən) n. See hydroxide ion.

hy-dro-zo-an (hī'drə-zō'ən) n. Any of numerous coelenterates of the class Hydrozoa, including the freshwater hydras, hydroids, hydrocorals, and siphonophores. — adj. Of, relating to, or belonging to the class Hydrozoa. [From New Latin Hydrozoa, class : HYDRO- + -zoa (pl. of -ZOON).]

Hy-drus (hī'drəs) n. A constellation in the Southern Hemisphere near Tucana and Mensa. [Latin, from Greek hudros, water snake. See wed-¹ in Appendix.]

hy-e-na also hy-ae-na (hī-ē'nə) n. Any of several carnivorous mammals of the family Hyaenidae of Africa and Asia, which feed as scavengers and have powerful jaws, relatively short hind limbs, and coarse hair. [Middle English hiena, from Old French hiene, from Latin hyaena, from Greek huaina, feminine of hus, swine. See sū- in Appendix.]

Hy-ères (ē-âr', yâr) A city of southeast France on the Mediterranean Sea east of Toulon. A medieval port, Hyères is now a resort. The small Hyères Islands lie just off the coast. Population, 32,191.

hy-e-tal (hī'ī-tl) adj. Of or relating to rain or rainy regions. [From Greek huetos, rain. See seuə-² in Appendix.]

Hy-ge-ia (hī-jē'ə) n. Greek Mythology. The goddess of health.

hy-giene (hī'jēn') n. 1. The science that deals with the promotion and preservation of health. Also called hygienics 2. Conditions and practices that serve to promote or preserve health: hygiene in the workplace; personal hygiene. [French hygiène, and New Latin hygieina both from Greek hugieinē (tekhne), (art) of health, from hugiēs, healthy. See g^wei- in Appendix.] —hy-gien'ist (hī-jē'nīst, hī'jē'-, hī-jēn'īst) n.

hy-gi-en-ic (hī'jē-ēn'ik, hī-jēn'-, -jē'nīk) adj. 1. Of or relating to hygiene.

2. Tending to promote or preserve health. 3. Sanitary. —hy'gi-en'i-cal-ly adv.

hy-gi-en-ics (hī'jē-ēn'iks, hī-jēn'-, -jē'nīks) n. (used with a sing. verb). See hygiene (n., sense 1).

hygro- pref. Moisture; humidity: hygroscope. [From Greek hugros, wet, moist.]

hy·grom·e·ter (hī-grōm'ī-tər) n. Any of several instruments that measure atmospheric humidity. —hy'gro-met'ric (hī'grə-mēt'rik) adj.

—hy·grom'e·try n.

hy·gro·scope (hī'grə-skōp') n. An instrument that indicates changes in atmospheric humidity.

hy·gro·scop·ic (hī'grə-skōp'ik) adj. Readily absorbing moisture, as from the atmosphere. —hy'gro-scop'i-cal-ly adv. —hy'gro-sco-pic'i-ty (-skō-pis'ī-tē) n.

hy·gro·stat (hī'grə-stāt') n. See humidistat.

hy·ing (hī'ing) v. A present participle of hie.

hy·lo·zo·ism (hī'lə-zō'iz'əm) n. The philosophical doctrine holding that all matter has life, which is a property or derivative of matter. [Greek hulē, matter + Greek zoē, life; see AZO- + -ISM.] —hy'lo-zo'ic adj. —hy'lo-zo'ist n.

—hy'lo-zo-is'tic (-zō-īs'tik) adj.

Hy·mans (hī'māns', ē-māns'), Paul. 1865-1941. Belgian diplomat and politician. As Belgium's representative to the Paris Peace Conference he helped draft the covenant of the League of Nations (1919).

hy·men (hī'mən) n. A membranous fold of tissue that partly or completely occludes the external vaginal orifice. [Late Latin hymēn, from Greek humēn, thin skin, membrane. See syū- in Appendix.] —hy'men·al adj.

Hy·men (hī'mən) n. Greek Mythology. The god of marriage.

hy·me·ne·al (hī'mə-nē'əl) adj. Of or relating to a wedding or marriage. — n.

1. A wedding song or poem. 2. hymeneals. Archaic. A wedding; nuptials.

[From Latin hymenaeus, wedding song, wedding, from Greek humēnaios, from Humēn, Hymen, from humēn, membrane. See HYMEN.] —hy'me-ne'al-ly adv.

hy·me·ni·um (hī-mē'nē-əm) n. pl. hy·me·ni·a (-nē-ə) or hy·me·ni·ums.

The spore-bearing layer of the fruiting body of certain fungi, containing asci or basidia. [New Latin, from Greek humenion, diminutive of humēn, membrane.

See HYMEN.] —hy·me'ni-al (-əl) adj.

hy·me·nop·ter·an (hī'mə-nōp'tər-ən) adj. Of or belonging to the Hymenoptera. — n. also hy·me·nop·ter·on (-tə-rōn') An insect of the order Hymenoptera, including the bees, wasps, and ants, often living in complex social groups and characteristically having two pairs of membranous wings. [From New Latin Hymenoptera, order name, from Greek hymenopteros, membrane-winged : humēn, membrane; see HYMEN + pteron, wing; see -PTER.]

—hy'me-nop'ter-ous (-tər-əs) adj.

Hy·met·tus (hī-mēt'əs) A mountain ridge, rising to about 1,028 m (3,370 ft), in east-central Greece near Athens. Marble has been quarried here since antiquity. Hymettus is also famous for its honey.

Hy·mie (hī'mē) n. Offensive Slang. Used as a disparaging term for a Jew. [Probably from Hymie, nickname for Hyman.]

hymn (hĭm) n. 1. A song of praise or thanksgiving to God or a deity. 2. A song of praise or joy; a paean. — v. hymned, hymn-ing, hymns. — v. tr. To praise, glorify, or worship in or as if in a hymn. — v. intr. To sing hymns. [Middle English imne, from Old French ymne, from Latin hymnus, song of praise, from Greek humnos.]

hym·nal (hĭm'nal) n. A book or collection of church hymns. Also called hymnary, hymnbook. [Middle English himnale, from Medieval Latin hymnāle, from Latin hymnus, hymn. See HYMN.]

hymnal stanza (hĭm'nal stān'zə) n. See common measure (n., sense 3).

hym·na·ry (hĭm'nə-rē) n. See hymnal.

hymn·book (hĭm'bōök') n. See hymnal.

hym·no·dy (hĭm'nə-dē) n. pl. hym·no·dies. 1. The singing of hymns. 2. The composing or writing of hymns. 3. The hymns of a particular period or church. [Medieval Latin hymnōdia, from Greek humnōidia : humnos, hymn + ōidē, song; see wed-² in Appendix.] — hym'no·dist (-dĭst) n.

hym·nol·o·gy (hĭm-nŏl'ə-jē) n. 1. Hymnody. 2. The study of hymns. [Greek humnologia, singing of hymns : humnos, hymn + -logia, -logy.]

— hym'no·log'ic (hĭm'nə-lŏj'ĭk), hym'no·log'i·cal (-ĭ-kəl) adj.

— hym·nol'o·gist n.

hy·oid (hĭ'oid') adj. Of or relating to the hyoid bone. — n. The hyoid bone. [New Latin hyoidēs, the hyoid bone, from Greek huoēidēs, shaped like the letter upsilon : hu, name of the letter upsilon + -oēidēs, -oid.]

hyoid bone (hĭ'oid' bŏn) n. A U-shaped bone at the base of the tongue that supports the muscles of the tongue.

hy·o·scine (hĭ'ə-sēn') n. See scopolamine. [German Hyoscin, from New Latin Hyoscyamus, henbane genus, from Greek huoskuamos, henbane : huos, genitive of hus, swine; see sū- in Appendix + kuamos, bean.]

hy·o·scy·a·mine (hĭ'ə-sĭ'ə-mēn') n. A poisonous white crystalline alkaloid, C₁₇H₂₃NO₃, isometric with atropine and having similar uses but more potent effects. [New Latin Hyoscyamus, henbane genus; see HYOSCINE + *-INE*².]

hyp. abbr. 1. Mathematics. Hypotenuse. 2. Hypothesis. 3. Hypothetical.

hyp- pref. Variant of hypo-.

hyp·a·bys·sal (hĭp'ə-bĭs'əl, hĭ'pə-) adj. Geology. Solidifying chiefly as a minor intrusion, especially as a dike or sill, before reaching the earth's surface. Used of rocks. — hyp'a·bys/sal·ly adv.

hy·pae·thral also hy·pe·thral (hĭ-pē'thrəl) adj. Wholly or partly open to the sky: an ancient hypaethral temple. [From Latin hypoethrus, from Greek hupaithros : hupo, under; see HYPO- + aithēr, sky, air.]

hy·pan·thi·um (hĭ-pān'thē-əm) n. pl. hy·pan·thi·a (-thē-ə). The ringlike, cup-shaped, or tubular structure of a flower on which the sepals, petals, and stamens are borne, as in the flowers of the rose or cherry. [New Latin : HYP(O)- + Greek anthos, flower.] —hy-pan'thi-al adj.

hype¹ (hīp) Slang. n. 1. Excessive publicity and the ensuing commotion: the hype surrounding the murder trial. 2. Exaggerated or extravagant claims made especially in advertising or promotional material: “It is pure hype, a gigantic PR job” (Saturday Review). 3. An advertising or promotional ploy: “Some restaurant owners in town are cooking up a $75,000 hype to promote New York as ‘Restaurant City, U.S.A.’” (New York). 4. Something deliberately misleading; a deception: “[He] says that there isn’t any energy crisis at all, that it’s all a hype, to maintain outrageous profits for the oil companies” (Joel Oppenheimer). — v. tr. hyped, hyp-ing, hypes. To publicize or promote, especially by extravagant, inflated, or misleading claims: hyped the new book by sending its author on a promotional tour. [Partly from hype, a swindle (perhaps from HYPER-), and partly from HYPE(RBOLE).]

hype² (hīp) Slang. n. 1. A hypodermic injection, syringe, or needle. 2. A drug addict. — v. tr. hyped, hyp-ing, hypes. To stimulate with or as if with a hypodermic injection: “hyped the country up to a purposeless pitch” (Newsweek). [Shortening and alteration of HYPODERMIC.]

hyped-up (hīpt'üp') adj. Slang. Stimulated with or as if with a hypodermic injection: “hyped-up rhetoric to dramatize the strike” (New York Times).

hy-per (hī'pər) adj. Slang. 1. Having a very excitable or nervous temperament; high-strung. 2. Emotionally stimulated or overexcited. [Short for HYPERACTIVE.] hyper- pref. 1. Over; above; beyond: hypercharge. 2. Excessive; excessively: hypercritical. [Greek huper-, from huper, over, beyond. See uper in Appendix.]

hy-per-ac-id (hī'pər-ās'īd) adj. Containing excessive acid; excessively acidic: a hyperacid stomach. —hy'per-a-cid'i-ty (-ə-sīd'ī-tē) n.

hy-per-ac-tive (hī'pər-āk'tiv) adj. 1. Highly or excessively active: a hyperactive new drug; a hyperactive thyroid gland. 2. a. Having behavior characterized by constant overactivity. b. Afflicted with attention deficit disorder.

—hy'per-ac'tive-ly adv. —hy'per-ac-tiv'i-ty (-āk-tiv'ī-tē) n.

hy-per-aes-the-sia (hī'pər-īs-thē'zhə) n. Variant of hyperesthesia.

hy-per-bar-ic (hī'pər-bār'ik) adj. Of, relating to, producing, operating, or occurring at pressures higher than normal atmospheric pressure: a hyperbaric chamber; hyperbaric therapy. —hy'per-bar'i-cal-ly adv.

hy-per-ba-ton (hī-pūr'bə-tōn') n. A figure of speech, such as anastrophe or hysteron proteron, using deviation from normal or logical word order to produce an effect. [Greek hyperbaton, from neuter of hyperbatos, transposed, from hyperbainein, to step over : huper-, over, across; see HYPER- + bainein, to step; see g^wā- in Appendix.]

hy-per-bo-la (hī-pūr'bə-lə) n. pl. hy-per-bo-las or hy-per-bo-lae (-lē).

Mathematics. A plane curve having two branches, formed by the intersection of a plane with both halves of a right circular cone at an angle parallel to the axis of the cone. It is the locus of points for which the difference of the distances from two given points is a constant. [New Latin, from Greek huperbolē, a throwing beyond, excess (from the relationship between the line joining the vertices of a conic and the line through its focus and parallel to its directrix). See HYPERBOLE.]

hy·per·bo·le (hī-pûr'bə-lē) n. A figure of speech in which exaggeration is used for emphasis or effect, as in I could sleep for a year or This book weighs a ton.

[Latin hyperbolē, from Greek huperbolē, excess, from huperballein, to exceed : huper, beyond; see HYPER- + ballein, to throw; see g^welə- in Appendix.]

hy·per·bol·ic (hī'pər-bōl'ik) also hy·per·bol·i·cal (-ĭ-kəl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or employing hyperbole. 2. Mathematics. a. Of, relating to, or having the form of a hyperbola. b. Of or relating to a geometric system in which two or more lines can be drawn through any point in a plane and not intersect a given line in the plane. c. Of or relating to a hyperbolic function: hyperbolic cosine.

—hy'per·bol'i·cal·ly adv.

hyperbolic function (hī'pər-bōl'ik fŭŋk'shən) n. Mathematics. Any of a set of six functions related, for a real variable z , to the hyperbola in a manner analogous to the relationship of the trigonometric functions to a circle, including: a. The hyperbolic sine, defined by the equation $\sinh z = 2(e^z - e^{-z})$. b. The hyperbolic cosine, defined by the equation $\cosh z = 2(e^z + e^{-z})$. c. The hyperbolic tangent, defined by the equation $\tanh z = \sinh z / \cosh z$. d. The hyperbolic cotangent, defined by the equation $\coth z = \cosh z / \sinh z$. e. The hyperbolic secant, defined by the equation $\operatorname{sech} z = 1 / \cosh z$. f. The hyperbolic cosecant, defined by the equation $\operatorname{csch} z = 1 / \sinh z$.

hyperbolic paraboloid (hī'pər-bōl'ik pə-răb'ə-loid') n. Mathematics. A surface of which all sections parallel to one coordinate plane are hyperbolas and all sections parallel to another coordinate plane are parabolas.

hy·per·bo·lism (hī-pûr'bə-lĭz'əm) n. 1. The use of hyperbole. 2. An instance of hyperbole.

hy·per·bo·lize (hī-pûr'bə-lĭz') v. hy·per·bo·lized, hy·per·bo·liz·ing, hy·per·bo·liz·es. — v. intr. To use hyperbole; exaggerate. — v. tr. To express with hyperbole.

hy·per·bo·loid (hī-pûr'bə-loid') n. Mathematics. Either of two quadric surfaces generated by rotating a hyperbola about either of its main axes and having a finite center with certain plane sections that are hyperbolas and others that are ellipses or circles. —hy·per'bo·loid'al (-loid'l) adj.

Hy·per·bo·re·an (hī'pər-bōr'ē-ən, -bōr'-, -bə-rē'ən) n. Greek Mythology. One of a people known to the ancient Greeks from the earliest times, living in a perpetually warm and sunny land north of the source of the north wind. — adj.

1. Of or relating to the Hyperboreans. 2. hyperborean. a. Of or relating to the far north; Arctic. b. Very cold; frigid. [From Latin Hyperboreus, from Hyper- boreī, the Hyperboreans, from Greek Huperboreoi : huper-, hyper- + boreios, northern or Boreas, the north wind, the north.]

hy·per·cal·ce·mia (hī'pər-kāl-sē'mē-ə) n. An excessive amount of calcium in the blood.

hy·per·cap·ni·a (hī'pər-käp'nē-ə) n. An increased amount of carbon dioxide in the blood as a result of hypoventilation. [HYPER- + Greek kapnos, smoke + -IA².]

hy·per·cat·a·lec·tic (hī'pər-kät'l-ĕk'tik) adj. Having an extra syllable or syllables at the end of a metrically complete line of verse or in a metrical foot. [Latin hypercatalēcticus, from Greek huperkatalēktikos : huper-, hyper- + katalēktikos, incomplete; see CATALECTIC.] —hy'per·cat'a·lex'is (-kät'l-ĕk'sis) n.

hy·per·charge (hī'pər-chärj') n. Symbol Y A quantum number equal to twice the average electric charge of a particle multiplet or, equivalently, to the sum of the strangeness and the baryon number.

hy·per·cho·les·ter·ol·e·mi·a (hī'pər-kə-lēs'tər-ə-lē'mē-ə) n. 1. An excess of cholesterol in the blood. 2. A familial disorder characterized by a high level of cholesterol in the blood.

hy·per·cor·rect (hī'pər-kə-rĕkt') adj. Of, relating to, or marked by hypercorrection. —hy'per·cor·rect'ly adv. —hy'per·cor·rect'ness n.

hy·per·cor·rec·tion (hī'pər-kə-rĕk'shən) n. Linguistics. 1. A construction or pronunciation produced by mistaken analogy with standard usage out of a desire to be correct, as in the substitution of I for me in on behalf of my wife and I.

2. The production of such a construction or pronunciation.

hy·per·crit·ic (hī'pər-krit'ik) n. A person who is excessively critical.

hy·per·crit·i·cal (hī'pər-krit'i-kəl) adj. Excessively critical; captious. See Synonyms at critical. —hy'per·crit'i·cal·ly adv. —hy'per·crit'i·cism (-ĭ-sĭz'əm) n.

hy·per·e·mi·a (hī'pə-rē'mē-ə) n. An increase in the quantity of blood flow to a body part; engorgement. —hy'per·e'mic (-mĭk) adj.

hy·per·es·the·sia also hy·per·aes·the·sia (hī'pər-ĭs-thē'zhə) n. An abnormal or pathological increase in sensitivity to sensory stimuli, as of the skin to touch or the ear to sound. —hy'per·es·thet'ic (-thĕt'ik) adj.

hy·per·eu·tec·tic (hī'pər-yōō-tĕk'tik) adj. Having the minor component present in a larger amount than in the eutectic composition of the same components.

hy·per·ex·ten·sion (hī'pər-ĭk-stĕn'shən) n. Extension of a bodily joint beyond its normal range of motion. —hy'per·ex·tend' (-ĭk-stĕnd') v.

hy·per·fine structure (hī'pər-fĭn' strŭk'chər) n. Abbr. hfs The splitting of a spectral line into two or more components as a result of the spin or magnetic moment of the atomic nucleus.

- hy·per·gly·ce·mi·a (hī'pər-glī-sē'mē-ə) n. The presence of an abnormally high concentration of glucose in the blood. —hy'per·gly·ce'mic (-mīk) adj.
- hy·per·gol·ic (hī'pər-gōl'īk) adj. 1. Of or relating to a rocket propellant consisting of fuel and an oxidizer that ignites spontaneously on contact. 2. Using such a fuel. [From German Hypergol, a hypergolic fluid propellant : from hyper-, extreme (from Greek huper-); see HYPER- + Greek ergon, work; see ERG.] —hy'per·gol' (hī'pər-gōl', -gōl', -gōl') n. —hy'per·gol'i·cal·ly adv.
- hy·per·in·fla·tion (hī'pər-īn-flā'shən) n. Extremely high monetary inflation. —hy'per·in·fla'tion·ar'y adj.
- hy·per·in·su·lin·ism (hī'pər-īn'sə-lə-nīz'əm) n. An abnormally high level of insulin in the blood, resulting in hypoglycemia.
- Hy·pe·ri·on (hī-pîr'ē-ən) n. 1. Greek Mythology. A Titan, the son of Gaea and Uranus and the father of Helios. 2. The satellite of Saturn that is 15th in distance from the planet. [Greek Huperiōn.]
- hy·per·ir·ri·ta·bil·i·ty (hī'pər-īr'ī-tə-bīl'ī-tē) n. Excessive response to a stimulus. —hy'per·ir·ri·ta·ble adj.
- hy·per·ker·a·to·sis (hī'pər-kēr'ə-tō'sīs) n. pl. hy·per·ker·a·to·ses (-sēz). Hypertrophy of the cornea or the horny layer of the skin. —hy'per·ker'a·tot'ic (-tōt'īk) adj.
- hy·per·ki·ne·sia (hī'pər-kī-nē'zhə) also hy·per·ki·ne·sis (-sīs) n. Pathologically increased muscular movement. [HYPER- + Greek kinēsis, movement (from kinein, to move); see kei-² in Appendix + -IA¹.] —hy'per·ki·net'ic (-nēt'īk) adj.
- hy·per·li·pe·mi·a (hī'pər-lī-pē'mē-ə, -lī-) n. An excess of fat or lipids in the blood. Also called hyperlipidemia
- hy·per·li·pi·de·mi·a (hī'pər-līp'ī-dē'mē-ə, -lī'pī-) n. See hyperlipemia.
- hy·per·mar·ket (hī'pər-mār'kīt) n. A very large commercial establishment that is a combination of a department store and a supermarket.
- hy·per·me·di·a (hī'pər-mē'dē-ə) n. Computer Science. A computer-based information retrieval system that enables a user to gain or provide access to texts, audio and video recordings, photographs, and computer graphics related to a particular subject.
- hy·per·met·ric (hī'pər-mēt'rik) adj. 1. Having one or more syllables in addition to those found in a standard metrical unit or line of verse. 2. Being one of these additional syllables. —hy'per'me·ter (hī-pûr'mī-tər) n. —hy'per·met'ri·cal adj.
- hy·per·me·tro·pi·a (hī'pər-mī-trō'pē-ə) n. See hyperopia. [Greek hypermetros, beyond measure (huper-, hyper- + metron, measure); see METER² + -OPIA.] —hy'per·me·tro'pic (-trō'pīk, -trōp'īk), hy'per·me·tro'pi·cal adj. —hy'per·met'ro·py (-mēt'rə-pē) n.

hy·perm·ne·sia (hī'pərm-nē'zhə) n. Exceptionally exact or vivid memory, especially as associated with certain mental illnesses. [HYPER- + (A)MNESIA.]

—hy'perm·ne'sic (-zīk, -sīk) adj.

hy·per·on (hī'pə-rŏn') n. A semistable or unstable baryon with mass greater than the neutron.

hy·per·o·pi·a (hī'pə-rŏ'pē-ə) n. An abnormal condition of the eye in which vision is better for distant objects than for near objects. It results from the eyeball being too short from front to back, causing images to be focused behind the retina. Also called farsightedness, hypermetropia. —hy'per·ope' (hī'pə-rŏp') n.

—hy'per·o'pic (-ŏ'pīk, -ŏp'īk) adj.

hy·per·os·to·sis (hī'pər-ŏ-stŏ'sis) n. pl. hy·per·os·to·ses (-sēz). Excessive or abnormal thickening or growth of bone tissue. [HYPER- + OST(EO)- + -OSIS.]

—hy'per·os·tot'ic (-ŏ-stŏt'īk) adj.

hy·per·pi·tu·i·ta·rism (hī'pər-pī-tŏŏ'i-tə-rīz'əm, -tyŏŏ'-) n.

1. Pathologically excessive production of anterior pituitary hormones, especially growth hormones. 2. The condition resulting from an excess of pituitary hormones, characterized by gigantism in children and acromegaly in adults.

—hy'per·pi·tu'i·tar'y (-tēr'ē) adj.

hy·per·pla·sia (hī'pər-plā'zhə) n. An abnormal increase in the number of cells in an organ or a tissue with consequent enlargement. —hy'per·plas'tic (-plās'tīk) adj.

hy·per·ploid (hī'pər-ploid') adj. Having a chromosome number greater than but not an exact multiple of the normal euploid number. —hy'per·ploid' n.

—hy'per·ploi'dy n.

hy·perp·ne·a (hī'pərp-nē'ə, hī'pər-nē'ə) n. Abnormally deep or rapid breathing. [HYPER- + Greek pnoia, pnoē, breath, breathing (from pnein, to breathe); see pneu- in Appendix.] —hy'perp·ne'ic (-īk) adj.

hy·per·po·lar·ize (hī'pər-pŏ'lə-rīz') v. tr. hy·per·po·lar·ized, hy·per·po·lar·iz·ing, hy·per·po·lar·iz·es. Physiology. To cause an increase in polarity, as across a biological membrane.

hy·per·py·rex·i·a (hī'pər-pī-rēk'sē-ə) n. Abnormally high fever.

—hy'per·py·rex'i·al, hy'per·py·ret'ic (-rēt'īk) adj.

hy·per·re·al·ism (hī'pər-rē'ə-līz'əm) n. An artistic style characterized by highly realistic graphic representation. —hy'per·re'al·ist adj., n.

—hy'per·re'al·ist'ic adj.

hy·per·sen·si·tive (hī'pər-sən'sī-tīv) adj. Highly or excessively sensitive.

—hy'per·sen'si·tive·ness, hy'per·sen'si·tiv'i·ty (-tīv'ī-tē) n.

hy·per·sex·u·al (hī'pər-sěk'shŏŏ-əl) adj. Excessively interested or involved in sexual activity. —hy'per·sex'u'al'i·ty (-sěk'shŏŏ-āl'ī-tē) n.

hy·per·son·ic (hī'pər-sŏn'īk) adj. Of, relating to, or capable of speed equal to or exceeding five times the speed of sound. —hy'per·son'i·cal·ly adv.

hy·per·space (hī'pər-spās') n. Space that has four or more dimensions.

hy·per·sthene (hī'pərs-thēn') n. A green, brown, or black splintery, cleavable pyroxene mineral, essentially $(\text{Fe,Mg})_2\text{Si}_2\text{O}_6$. [French hypersthène: hyper-, extreme (from Greek huper-); see HYPER- + Greek sthenos, strength.]

—hy'per·sthen'ic (-thēn'ik) adj.

hy·per·ten·sion (hī'pər-tēn'shən) n. 1. Arterial disease in which chronic high blood pressure is the primary symptom. 2. Abnormally elevated blood pressure. —hy'per·ten'sive adj. & n.

hy·per·text (hī'pər-tĕkst') n. Computer Science. A computer-based text retrieval system that enables the user to provide access to or gain information related to a particular text.

hy·per·ther·mi·a (hī'pər-thûr'mē-ə) n. Unusually high body temperature. —hy'per·ther'mal adj.

hy·per·thy·roid (hī'pər-thī'roid') adj. Of, relating to, or affected with hyperthyroidism.

hy·per·thy·roid·ism (hī'pər-thī'roi-dĭz'əm) n. 1. Pathologically excessive production of thyroid hormones. 2. The condition resulting from excessive activity of the thyroid gland, characterized by increased basal metabolism.

hy·per·to·ni·a (hī'pər-tō'nē-ə) n. Pathology. The state of being hypertonic.

hy·per·ton·ic (hī'pər-tŏn'ik) adj. 1. Pathology. Having extreme muscular or arterial tension. 2. Chemistry. Having the higher osmotic pressure of two solutions. —hy'per·to·nic'i·ty (-tə-nĭs'ĭ-tē, -tō-) n.

hy·per·tro·phy (hī-pûr'trə-fĕ) n. pl. hy·per·tro·phies. A nontumorous enlargement of an organ or a tissue as a result of an increase in the size rather than the number of constituent cells: muscle hypertrophy. — v. intr. tr.

hy·per·tro·phied, hy·per·tro·phy·ing, hy·per·tro·phies. To grow or cause to grow abnormally large. —hy'per·tro·phic (-trŏf'ik, -trŏf'ik) adj.

hy·per·ven·ti·late (hī'pər-vĕn'tl-āt') v. hy·per·ven·ti·lat·ed, hy·per·ven·ti·lat·ing, hy·per·ven·ti·lates. — v. intr. 1. To breathe abnormally fast or deeply so as to effect hyperventilation. 2. To breathe in this manner as from excitement or anxiety. — v. tr. To subject to hyperventilation.

hy·per·ven·ti·la·tion (hī'pər-vĕn'tl-ā'shən) n. Abnormally fast or deep respiration, which results in the loss of carbon dioxide from the blood, thereby causing a fall in blood pressure, tingling of the extremities, and sometimes fainting.

hy·per·vi·ta·min·o·sis (hī'pər-vī'tə-mə-nŏ'sĭs) n. pl.

hy·per·vi·ta·min·o·ses (-sĕz). Any of various abnormal conditions in which the physiological effect of a vitamin is produced to a pathological degree by excessive intake of the vitamin.

hy·pes·the·sia (hī'pĭs-thĕ'zhə) n. Variant of hypoesthesia.

hy·pe·thral (hī-pĕ'thrəl) adj. Variant of hypoethral.

hy·pha (hī'fə) n. pl. hy·phae (-fē). Any of the threadlike filaments forming the mycelium of a fungus. [New Latin, from Greek huphē, web. See webh- in Appendix.] —hy'phal adj.

hy·phen (hī'fən) n. A punctuation mark (-) used between the parts of a compound word or name or between the syllables of a word, especially when divided at the end of a line of text. — v. tr. hy·phen-er, hy·phen-ing, hy·phen-s. To hyphenate. [Late Latin, from Greek huphen, a sign indicating a compound or two words which are to be read as one, from huph' hen, in one : hupo, under; see HYPNO- + hen, neuter of heis, one; see sem-¹ in Appendix.]

hy·phen-ate (hī'fə-nāt') v. tr. hy·phen-at-ed, hy·phen-at-ing, hy·phen-ates. To divide or connect (syllables, word elements, or names) with a hyphen. —hy'phen-a'tion n.

hypn- pref. Variant of hypno-.

hyp·na·gog·ic also hyp·no·gog·ic (hĭp'nə-gōj'ĭk, -gō'jĭk) adj. 1. Inducing sleep; soporific. 2. Of or relating to the state of drowsiness preceding sleep. [French hypnagogique : Greek hupnos, sleep; see HYPNO- + Greek agōgos, leading (from agein, to lead); see ag- in Appendix.]

hypno- or hypn- pref. 1. Sleep: hypnophobia. 2. Hypnosis: hypnoanalysis. [From Greek hupnos, sleep. See swep- in Appendix.]

hyp·no·a·nal·y·sis (hĭp'nō-ə-nāl'ĭ-sĭs) n. pl. hyp·no·a·nal·y·ses (-sēz'). The use of hypnosis in conjunction with psychoanalytic techniques.

hyp·no·gen·e·sis (hĭp'nō-jĕn'ĭ-sĭs) n. The process of inducing or entering sleep or a hypnotic state. —hyp'no·ge·net'ic (-jə-nĕt'ĭk) adj.
—hyp'no·ge·net'i·cal·ly adv.

hyp·no·gog·ic (hĭp'nə-gōj'ĭk, -gō'jĭk) adj. Variant of hypnagogic.

hyp·noid (hĭp'noid') also hyp·noi·dal (hĭp-noid'l) adj. Of or resembling hypnosis or sleep.

hyp·no·pe·di·a (hĭp'nə-pĕ'dē-ə) n. See sleep-learning. [HYPNO- + Greek paideia, education; see ENCYCLOPEDIA.]

hyp·no·pho·bi·a (hĭp'nə-fō'bē-ə) n. An abnormal fear of falling asleep.
—hyp'no·pho'bic adj.

hyp·no·pom·pic (hĭp'nə-pŏm'pĭk) adj. Of or relating to the partially conscious state that precedes complete awakening from sleep. [From HYPNO- + Greek pompē, a sending away; see POMP.]

Hyp·nos (hĭp'nŏs') n. Greek Mythology. The god of sleep.

hyp·no·sis (hĭp-nŏ'sĭs) n. pl. hyp·no·ses (-sēz). 1. A sleeplike state usually induced by another person in which the subject may experience forgotten or suppressed memories, hallucinations, and heightened suggestibility. 2. Hypnotism. 3. A sleeplike condition.

hyp·no·ther·a·py (hĭp'nō-thĕr'ə-pĕ) n. pl. hyp·no·ther·a·pies. Therapy based on or using hypnosis, especially for treatment of chronic pain.

hyp-not-ic (hĭp-nŏt'ĭk) adj. 1. a. Of or relating to hypnosis. b. Of or relating to hypnotism. 2. Inducing or tending to induce sleep; soporific: read the bedtime story in a hypnotic voice. — n. 1. a. A person who is hypnotized. b. A person who can be hypnotized. 2. An agent that causes sleep; a soporific. [French hypnotique, from Late Latin hypnōticus, inducing sleep, from Greek hypnōtikos, from hypnōnōn, to put to sleep, from hypnos, sleep. See swep- in Appendix.]
—hyp-not'i-cal-ly adv.

hyp-no-tism (hĭp'nə-tĭz'əm) n. 1. The theory or practice of inducing hypnosis. 2. The act of inducing hypnosis. —hyp'no-tist n.

hyp-no-tize (hĭp'nə-tĭz') v. tr. hyp-no-tized, hyp-no-tiz-ing, hyp-no-tiz-es. 1. To put into a state of hypnosis. 2. To fascinate by or as if by hypnosis. —hyp'no-tiz'a-bil'i-ty n. —hyp'no-tiz'a-ble adj.
—hyp'no-ti-za'tion (-tĭ-zā'shən) n. —hyp'no-tiz'er n.

hy-po¹ (hĭ'pō) n. See sodium thiosulfate. [Short for HYPOSULFITE.]

hy-po² (hĭ'pō) Informal. n. pl. hy-pos. 1. A hypodermic syringe. 2. A hypodermic injection. — v. tr. hy-poed, hy-po-ing, hy-pos. To stimulate by or as if by hypodermic injection: “pandering to community fears in order to hypo ratings” (Variety).

hypo- or hyp- pref. 1. Below; beneath; under: hypodermic. 2. Less than normal; deficient: hypoesthesia. 3. In the lowest state of oxidation: hypoxanthine. [Greek hupo-, from hupo, under, beneath. See upo in Appendix.]

hy-po-a-cid-i-ty (hĭ'pō-ə-sĭd'ĭ-tē) n. pl. hy-po-a-cid-i-ties. 1. Chemistry. Slight acidity. 2. Medicine. A condition of less than normal acidity, especially in the stomach.

hy-po-al-ler-gen-ic (hĭ'pō-ăl'ər-jĕn'ĭk) adj. Having a decreased tendency to provoke an allergic reaction: hypoallergenic cosmetics.

hy-po-bar-ic (hĭ'pə-bār'ĭk) adj. Below normal pressure. —hy'po-bar'ism n.

hy-po-blast (hĭ'pə-blăst') n. See endoderm. —hy'po-blas'tic adj.

hy-po-caust (hĭ'pə-kôst') n. A space under the floor of an ancient Roman building where heat from a furnace was accumulated to heat a room or a bath. [Latin hypocaustum, from Greek hupokauston, from hupokaiein, to light a fire beneath : hupo-, hypo- + kaiein, to burn.]

hy-po-cen-ter (hĭ'pə-sĕn'tər) n. The surface position directly beneath the center of a nuclear explosion. —hy'po-cen'tral (-sĕn'trəl) adj.

hy-po-chlo-rite (hĭ'pə-klôr'ĭt', -klôr'-) n. A salt or ester of hypochlorous acid.

hy-po-chlo-rous acid (hĭ'pə-klôr'əs əs'ĭd, -klôr'-) n. A weak, unstable acid, HOCl, occurring only in solution and used as a bleach, an oxidizer, a deodorant, and a disinfectant.

hy-po-chon-dri-a (hĭ'pə-kŏn'drĕ-ə) n. 1. The persistent neurotic conviction that one is or is likely to become ill, often involving experiences of real pain when illness is neither present nor likely. Also called hypochondriasis 2. Plural of hypochondrium. [Late Latin, abdomen, from Greek hupokhondria, pl. of hupokhondrion, abdomen (held to be the seat of melancholy) neuter of hupokhondrios, under the cartilage of the breastbone : hupo-, hypo- + khondros, cartilage; see ghrendh- in Appendix.]

hy·po·chon·dri·ac (hī'pə-kŏn'drē-ăk') n. A person affected with hypochondria. — adj. 1. Relating to or affected with hypochondria. 2. Anatomy. Relating to or located in the hypochondrium. — hy'po·chon·dri'a·cal (-kŏn-dri'ə-kəl) adj. — hy'po·chon·dri'a·cal·ly adv.

hy·po·chon·dri·a·sis (hī'pə-kən-dri'ə-sīs) n. pl. hy·po·chon·dri·a·ses (-sēz'). See hypochondria (n., sense 1). [HYPOCHONDR(IA) + -IASIS.]

hy·po·chon·dri·um (hī'pə-kŏn'drē-əm) n. pl. hy·po·chon·dri·a (-drē-ə). The upper lateral region of the abdomen, marked by the lower ribs. [New Latin, from Greek hupokhondrion, abdomen. See HYPOCHONDRIA.]

hy·poc·o·rism (hī-pŏk'ə-rīz'əm, hī'pə-kŏr'īz'əm, -kŏr'-) n. 1. A name of endearment; a pet name. 2. The use of such names. [Late Latin hypocorisma, from Greek hupokorisma, from hupokorizesthai, to call by endearing names : hypo, beneath, secretly; see HYPO- + korizesthai, to caress (from koros, boy, and korē, girl); see ker-² in Appendix.] — hy'po·co·ris'tic (hī'pə-kə-rīs'tīk), hy'po·co·ris'ti·cal (-tī-kəl) adj. — hy'po·co·ris'ti·cal·ly adv.

hy·po·cot·yl (hī'pə-kŏt'l) n. The part of the axis of a plant embryo or seedling plant that is below the cotyledons. [HYPO- + COTYL(EDON).]

hy·poc·ri·sy (hī-pŏk'rī-sē) n. pl. hy·poc·ri·sies. 1. The practice of professing beliefs, feelings, or virtues that one does not hold or possess; falseness. 2. An act or instance of such falseness. [Middle English ipocrisie, from Old French, from Late Latin hypocrisis, play-acting, pretense, from Greek hupokrisis, from hupokrinesthai, to play a part, pretend : hupo-, hypo- + krinesthai, to explain (from krinein, to decide, judge); see krei- in Appendix.]

hyp·o·cite (hīp'ə-krīt') n. A person given to hypocrisy. [Middle English ipocrite, from Old French, from Late Latin hypocrita, from Greek hupocritēs, actor, from hupokrinesthai, to play a part, pretend. See HYPOCRISY.]

hy·po·crit·i·cal (hīp'ə-krīt'ī-kəl) adj. 1. Characterized by hypocrisy: hypocritical praise. 2. Being a hypocrite: a hypocritical rogue. — hyp'o·crit'i·cal·ly adv.

hy·po·cy·cloid (hī'pŏ-sī'kloid') n. Mathematics. The plane locus of a point fixed on a circle that rolls on the inside circumference of a fixed circle.

hy·po·derm (hī'pə-dûrm') n. Variant of hypodermis.

hy·po·der·mal (hī'pə-dûr'məl) adj. 1. Of or relating to the hypodermis. 2. Lying below the epidermis.

hy·po·der·mic (hī'pə-dûr'mīk) adj. 1. Of or relating to the layer just beneath the epidermis. 2. Relating to the hypodermis. 3. Injected beneath the skin. —

n. 1. A hypodermic injection. 2. A hypodermic needle. 3. A hypodermic syringe. —hy'po-der'mi-cal·ly adv.

hypodermic injection (hī'pə-dûr'mĭk ĩn-jĕk'shən) n. A subcutaneous, intracutaneous, intramuscular, or intravenous injection by means of a hypodermic syringe and needle.

hypodermic needle (hī'pə-dûr'mĭk nĕd'l) n. 1. A hollow needle used with a hypodermic syringe. 2. A hypodermic syringe including the needle.

hypodermic syringe (hī'pə-dûr'mĭk sə-rĭnj') n. A piston syringe that is fitted with a hypodermic needle for giving injections.

hy·po·der·mis (hī'pə-dûr'mĭs) also hy·po·derm (hī'pə-dûrm') n. 1. An epidermal layer of cells that secretes an overlying chitinous cuticle, as in arthropods. 2. Botany. A layer of cells lying immediately below the epidermis. 3. Anatomy. A subcutaneous layer of loose connective tissue containing a varying number of fat cells.

hy·po·es·the·sia (hī'pō-ĭs-thĕ'zhə) also hy·pes·the·sia (hī'pĭs-) n. Partial loss of sensation; diminished sensibility.

hy·po·eu·tec·tic (hī'pō-yōō-tĕk'tĭk) adj. Chemistry. Having the minor component present in a smaller amount than in the eutectic composition of the same components.

hy·po·gas·tri·um (hī'pə-găs'trĕ-əm) n. pl. hy·po·gas·tri·a (-trĕ-ə). The lowest of the three median regions of the abdomen. [New Latin, from Greek hypogastrion : hupo, hypo- + gastrion, diminutive of gastēr, belly.]

—hy'po-gas'tric adj.

hy·po·ge·a (hī'pə-jĕ'ə) n. Plural of hypogeum.

hy·po·ge·al (hī'pə-jĕ'əl) also hy·po·ge·an (-ən) or hy·po·ge·ous (-əs) adj. 1. Located under the earth's surface; underground. 2. Botany. Of or relating to seed germination in which the cotyledons remain below the surface of the ground. [From Latin hypogēus, from Greek hupogeios : hupo, hypo- + gē, earth.]

—hy'po-ge'al·ly adv.

hy·po·gene (hī'pə-jĕn') adj. Formed or situated below the earth's surface. Used of rocks.

hy·pog·e·nous (hī-pŏj'ə-nəs) adj. Botany. Growing on a lower surface of a structure, as fungi on leaves.

hy·po·ge·ous (hī'pə-jĕ'əs) adj. Variant of hypogeal.

hy·po·ge·um (hī'pə-jĕ'əm) n. pl. hy·po·ge·a (-jĕ'ə). 1. A subterranean chamber of an ancient building. 2. An ancient subterranean burial chamber, such as a catacomb. [Latin hypogēum, from Greek hupogeion, from neuter of hupogeios, underground. See HYPOGEAL.]

hy·po·glos·sal (hī'pə-glŏs'səl) adj. 1. Of or relating to the area under the tongue. 2. Of or relating to the hypoglossal nerve. [HYPO- + Greek glōssa, tongue.]

hypoglossal nerve (hī'pə-glōs'əl nŭrv) n. Either of the 12th pair of cranial nerves that innervate the muscles of the tongue.

hy·po·gly·ce·mi·a (hī'pō-glī-sē'mē-ə) n. An abnormally low level of glucose in the blood.

hy·po·gly·ce·mic (hī'pō-glī-sē'mĭk) adj. 1. Of or relating to hypoglycemia.

2. Lowering the concentration of glucose in the blood: a hypoglycemic drug.

hy·pog·y·nous (hī'pŏj'ə-nəs) adj. Botany. Having the floral parts, such as sepals, petals, and stamens, borne on the receptacle beneath the ovary.

—hy·pog'y·ny (-nē) n.

hy·po·lim·ni·on (hī'pə-lĭm'nē-ŏn', -ən) n. The layer of water in a thermally stratified lake that lies below the thermocline, is noncirculating, and remains perpetually cold. [HYPO- + Greek limnion, diminutive of limnē, lake, pool.]

—hy'po·lim·net'ic (-lĭm-nēt'ĭk), hy'po·lim'ni·al adj.

hy·po·ma·ni·a (hī'pə-mā'nē-ə, -mān'yə) n. A mild state of mania, especially as a phase of a manic-depressive cycle. —hy'po·man'ic (-mān'ĭk) adj.

hy·po·nas·ty (hī'pə-nās'tē) n. pl. hy·po·nas·ties. An upward bending of leaves or other plant parts, resulting from growth of the lower side.

—hy'po·nas'tic adj.

hy·po·phos·phite (hī'pō-fŏs'fĭt') n. A salt of hypophosphorous acid.

hy·po·phos·pho·rous acid (hī'pō-fŏs'fər-əs əs'ĭd, -fŏs-fŏr'əs, -fŏr'-) n. A clear, colorless or slightly yellow liquid, H₃PO₂, used as a reducing agent.

hy·poph·y·sis (hī-pŏf'ĭ-sĭs) n. pl. hy·poph·y·ses (-sēz'). See pituitary gland.

[New Latin, from Greek hupophusis, attachment underneath, from hupophuein, to grow up beneath : hupo-, hypo- + phuein, to make grow; see bheuə- in Appendix.] —hy·poph'y·se'al (hī-pŏf'ĭ-sē'əl), hy'po·phys'i·al (hī'pə-fĭz'ē-əl) adj.

hy·po·pi·tu·i·ta·rism (hī'pō-pĭ-tōō'ĭ-tə-rĭz'əm, -tyōō'-) n. 1. Deficient or diminished production of pituitary hormones. 2. The condition resulting from a deficiency in pituitary hormone, especially growth hormone, characterized by dwarfism in children and sometimes by decreased activity of the thyroid, adrenal, or gonadal glands. —hy'po·pi·tu'i·tar'y (-tēr'ē) adj.

hy·po·pla·sia (hī'pō-plā'zhə, -zhē-ə) n. Incomplete or arrested development of an organ or a part. —hy'po·plas'tic (-plās'tĭk) adj.

hy·po·ploid (hī'pō-ploid') adj. Genetics. Having a chromosome number lower by only a few chromosomes than the normal diploid number. —hy'po·ploi'dy n.

hy·pop·ne·a (hī-pŏp'nē-ə, hī'pō-nē'ə) n. Abnormally slow, shallow breathing. [HYPO- + Greek pnoia, pnoē, breath, breathing (from pnein, to breathe); see pneu- in Appendix.] —hy'pop·ne'ic adj.

hy·po·sen·si·tiv·i·ty (hī'pō-sĕn'sĭ-tĭv'ĭ-tē) n. pl. hy·po·sen·si·tiv·i·ties. Less than the normal ability to respond to stimuli. —hy'po·sen'si·tive adj.

hy-po-sen-si-tize (hī'pō-sĕn'sī-tīz') v. tr. hy-po-sen-si-tized, hy-po-sen-si-tiz-ing, hy-po-sen-si-tiz-es. To make less sensitive, as to an allergen; desensitize. —hy'po-sen'si-ti-za'tion (-tī-zā'shən) n.

hy-pos-ta-sis (hī-pōs'tə-sīs) n. pl. hy-pos-ta-ses (-sēz'). 1. Philosophy. The substance, essence, or underlying reality. 2. Theology. a. Any of the persons of the Trinity. b. The essential person of Jesus in which his human and divine natures are united. 3. Something that has been hypostatized. 4. a. A settling of solid particles in a fluid. b. Something that settles to the bottom of a fluid; sediment. 5. Medicine. The settling of blood in the lower part of an organ or the body as a result of decreased blood flow. 6. Genetics. A condition in which the action of one gene conceals or suppresses the action of another gene that is not its allele but that affects the same part or biochemical process in an organism. [Late Latin, from Greek hupostasis : hupo-, hypo- + stasis, a standing; see stā- in Appendix.] —hy'po-stat'ic (hī'pə-stāt'ik), hy'po-stat'i-cal adj.

—hy'po-stat'i-cal-ly adv.

hy-pos-ta-tize (hī-pōs'tə-tīz') v. tr. hy-pos-ta-tized, hy-pos-ta-tiz-ing, hy-pos-ta-tiz-es. To ascribe material existence to. [From Greek hupostatōs, placed under, substantial, from huphistasthai, to stand under, exist : hupo, beneath; see HYPO- + histasthai, middle voice of histanai, to set, place; see EPISTASIS.] —hy-pos'ta-ti-za'tion (-tī-zā'shən) n.

hy-po-sthe-ni-a (hī'pəs-thĕ'nĕ-ə) n. An abnormal lack of strength; weakness.

[HYPO- + Greek sthenos, strength + -IA¹.] —hy'po-sthen'ic (-pəs-thĕn'ik) adj.

hy-po-style (hī'pə-stīl') adj. Having a roof or ceiling supported by rows of columns.

— n. A building with a roof or ceiling supported by rows of columns. [From Greek hupostulos, resting upon pillars : hupo-, hypo- + stulos, pillar; see stā- in Appendix.]

hy-po-sul-fite (hī'pō-sŭl'fīt') n. See sodium thiosulfate.

hy-po-sul-fu-rous acid (hī'pō-sŭl-fyŭŕ'əs əs'ŭd, -sŭl'fər-əs) n. An unstable acid, H₂S₂O₄, known only in aqueous solution and used as a bleaching and reducing agent. Also called hydrosulfurous acid hy-po-tax-is (hī'pə-tāk'sis) n. Grammar. The dependent or subordinate relationship of clauses with connectives. [Greek hupotaxis, subjection, from hupotassein, to arrange under : hupo-, hypo- + tassein, tag-, to arrange.]

—hy'po-tac'tic (-tāk'tik) adj.

hy-po-ten-sion (hī'pə-tĕn'shən) n. Abnormally low blood pressure.

hy-pot-e-nuse (hī-pŏt'n-ŏŏs', -yŏŏs') also hy-poth-e-nuse (-pŏth'ə-nŏŏs', -nyŏŏs') n. Abbr. hyp. Mathematics. The side of a right triangle opposite the right angle. [Latin hypotēnusa, from Greek hypoteinousa, feminine sing. present participle of hypoteinein, to stretch or extend under : hupo-, hypo- + teinein, to stretch; see ten- in Appendix.]

hypoth. abbr. Hypothesis.

hy·po·thal·a·mus (hī'pō-thăl'ə-məs) n. The part of the brain that lies below the thalamus, forming the major portion of the ventral region of the diencephalon and functioning to regulate bodily temperature, certain metabolic processes, and other autonomic activities. —hy'po·tha·lam'ic (-thə-lăm'ik) adj.

hy·poth·e·cate (hī-pōth'ī-kāt') v. tr. hy·poth·e·cat·ed, hy·poth·e·cat·ing, hy·poth·e·cates. To pledge (property) as security or collateral for a debt without transfer of title or possession. [Medieval Latin hypothēcare, hypothēcāt-, from Latin hypothēca, pledge, deposit, from Greek hupothēkē, from hupotithenai, to give as a pledge, suppose. See HYPOTHESIS.] —hy·poth'e·ca'tion n.

—hy·poth'e·ca'tor n.

hy·poth·e·nuse (hī-pōth'ə-nōōs', -nyōōs') n. Variant of hypotenuse.

hy·po·ther·mal (hī'pō-thûr'məl) adj. Geology. Of, relating to, or being mineral deposits formed at great depths and high temperatures.

hy·po·ther·mi·a (hī'pə-thûr'mē-ə) n. Abnormally low body temperature.

[HYPO- + Greek thermē, heat; see g^wher- in Appendix + -IA¹.]

—hy'po·ther'mic (-mīk) adj.

hy·poth·e·sis (hī-pōth'ī-sīs) n. pl. hy·poth·e·ses (-sēz'). Abbr. hyp., hypoth.

1. A tentative explanation that accounts for a set of facts and can be tested by further investigation; a theory. 2. Something taken to be true for the purpose of argument or investigation; an assumption. 3. The antecedent of a conditional statement. [Latin, subject for a speech, from Greek hupothesis, proposal, supposition, from hupotithenai, to suppose : hupo-, hypo- + tithenai, to place; see dhē- in Appendix.]

hy·poth·e·size (hī-pōth'ī-sīz') v. hy·poth·e·sized, hy·poth·e·siz·ing, hy·poth·e·siz·es. — v. tr. To assert as a hypothesis. — v. intr. To form a hypothesis.

hy·po·thet·i·cal (hī'pə-thēt'ī-kəl) also hy·po·thet·ic (-thēt'ik) adj. Abbr.

hyp. 1. Of, relating to, or based on a hypothesis: a hypothetical situation. See Synonyms at theoretical. 2. a. Suppositional; uncertain. See Synonyms at supposed. b. Conditional; contingent. [From Greek hupothetikos, from hupothetos, placed under, supposed, from hupotithenai, to suppose. See HYPOTHESIS.]

—hy'po·thet'i·cal n. —hy'po·thet'i·cal·ly adv.

hypothetical imperative (hī'pə-thēt'ī-kəl im-pĕr'ə-tĭv) n. In the ethical system of Immanuel Kant, a moral command that is conditional on personal motive or desire.

hy·po·thy·roid (hī'pō-thī'roid') adj. Affected by or manifesting hypothyroidism.

hy·po·thy·roid·ism (hī'pō-thī'roi-dĭz'əm) n. 1. Insufficient production of thyroid hormones. 2. A pathological condition resulting from severe thyroid insufficiency, which may lead to cretinism or myxedema.

hy-po-ton-ic (hī'pō-tōn'ik) adj. 1. Pathology. Having less than normal tone or tension, as of muscles or arteries. 2. Chemistry. Having the lower osmotic pressure of two fluids. —hy'po-to-nic'i-ty (-tə-nīs'ī-tē) n.

hy-pot-ro-phy (hī-pōt'rə-fē) n. pl. hy-pot-ro-phies. Progressive degeneration of an organ or tissue caused by loss of cells. —hy'po-tro'phic (hī'pə-trō'fik) adj.

hy-po-ven-ti-la-tion (hī'pə-vēn'tl-ā'shən) n. Abnormally slow and shallow respiration, resulting in an increased level of carbon dioxide in the blood.

hy-po-xan-thine (hī'pō-zān'thēn') n. A white powder, C₅H₄N₄O, that is an intermediate in the metabolism of animal purines.

hy-pox-e-mi-a (hī'pōk-sē'mē-ə) n. Insufficient oxygenation of the blood.

hy-pox-i-a (hī-pōk'sē-ə, hī-) n. Deficiency in the amount of oxygen reaching body tissues. —hy-pox'ic adj.

hypso- or hyps- pref. Height: hypsometer. [From Greek hupsos, height, top. See upo in Appendix.]

hyp-sog-ra-phy (hīp-sōg'rə-fē) n. pl. hyp-sog-ra-phies. 1. a. The scientific study of the earth's topologic configuration above sea level, especially the measurement and mapping of land elevations. b. A representation or description of the earth's topologic features above sea level, as on a map. 2. Hypsometry. —hyp'so-graph'ic (hīp'sə-grāf'ik), hyp'so-graph'i-cal adj.

hyp-som-e-ter (hīp-sōm'ī-tər) n. An instrument using the atmospheric pressure as measured by the change in the boiling point of water to determine land elevations.

hyp-som-e-try (hīp-sōm'ī-trē) n. The measurement of elevation relative to sea level. —hyp'so-met'ric (hīp'sə-mēt'rik), hyp'so-met'ri-cal adj. —hyp'so-met'ri-cal-ly adv. —hyp-som'e-trist n.

hy-rax (hī'rāks') n. pl. hy-rax-es or hy-ra-ces (-rə-sēz'). Any of several herbivorous mammals of the family Procaviidae within the order Hyraoidea of Africa and adjacent Asia, resembling woodchucks or similar rodents but more closely related to the hoofed mammals. Also called *coney*¹, dassie. [Greek hurax, shrew mouse.]

hy-son (hī'sən) n. A type of Chinese green tea with twisted leaves. [Chinese (Mandarin) xī chūn : xī, warm, sunny + chūn, springlike.]

hys-sop (hīs'əp) n. 1. A woody Eurasian plant (Hyssopus officinalis) having spikes of small blue flowers and aromatic leaves used in perfumery and as a condiment. a. Any of several similar or related plants. 2. An unidentified plant mentioned in the Bible as the source of twigs used for sprinkling in certain Hebraic purificatory rites. [Middle English ysope, from Old English ȳsōpe, from Latin hysōpum, hyssōpus, from Greek hussōpos, probably of Semitic origin; akin to Hebrew 'ēzōb.]

hyster- pref. Variant of hystero-.

hys·ter·ec·to·my (hĭs'tə-rĕk'tə-mĕ) n. pl. hys·ter·ec·to·mies. Surgical removal of part or all of the uterus.

hys·ter·e·sis (hĭs'tə-rĕ'sĭs) n. pl. hys·ter·e·ses (-sĕz). The lagging of an effect behind its cause, as when the change in magnetism of a body lags behind changes in the magnetic field. [Greek husterēsis, a shortcoming, from husterein, to come late, from husteros, late. See ud- in Appendix.] —hys'ter·et'ic (-rĕt'ĭk) adj.

hys·ter·i·a (hĭ-stĕr'ĕ-ə, -stĭr'-) n. 1. A neurosis characterized by the presentation of a physical ailment without an organic cause, sleepwalking, amnesia, episodes of hallucinations, and other mental and behavioral aberrations.

2. Excessive or uncontrollable emotion, such as fear or panic. [New Latin : HYS-TER(IC) + -IA¹.]

hys·ter·ic (hĭ-stĕr'ĭk) n. 1. A person suffering from hysteria. 2. hysterics. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). a. A fit of uncontrollable laughing or crying. b. An attack of hysteria. — adj. Hysterical. [From Latin hystericus, hysterical, from Greek husterikos, from hustera, womb (from the former idea that disturbances in the womb caused hysteria).]

hys·ter·i·cal (hĭ-stĕr'ĭ-kəl) adj. 1. Of, characterized by, or arising from hysteria. 2. Having or prone to having hysterics. 3. Informal. Extremely funny: told a hysterical story. —hys·ter'ĭ·cal·ly adv.

hystero- or hyster- pref. 1. Uterus: hysterectomy. 2. Hysteria: hysteroid. [From Greek hustera, womb.]

hys·ter·o·gen·ic (hĭs'tə-rō-jĕn'ĭk) adj. Inducing hysteria.

hys·ter·oid (hĭs'tə-roid') adj. Resembling hysteria.

hys·ter·on prot·er·on (hĭs'tə-rŏn' prŏt'ə-rŏn') n. 1. A figure of speech in which the natural or rational order of its terms is reversed, as in bred and born instead of born and bred. 2. The logical fallacy of assuming as true and using as a premise a proposition that is yet to be proved. [Late Latin, from Greek husteron proteron, latter first : husteron, neuter sing. of husteros, latter, later; see ud- in Appendix + proteron, neuter sing. of proteros, former; see per¹ in Appendix.]

hys·ter·ot·o·my (hĭs'tə-rŏt'ə-mĕ) n. pl. hys·ter·ot·o·mies. Surgical incision of the uterus, as in a cesarean section.

Hz abbr. Hertz.

- i¹ or I (ī) n. pl. i's or I's. 1. The ninth letter of the modern English alphabet. 2. Any of the speech sounds represented by the letter i. 3. The ninth in a series. 4. Something shaped like the letter I.
- i² abbr. Mathematics. Imaginary unit.
- I¹ (ī) pron. Used to refer to oneself as speaker or writer. — n. pl. I's. The self; the ego. [Middle English, from Old English ic. See eg in Appendix.]

USAGE NOTE: The question of when to use nominative forms of the personal pronouns (for example, I, she, they) and when to use objective forms (for example, me, her, them) has always created controversy among grammarians and uncertainty among speakers and writers. There is no problem when the pronoun stands alone in combination with a single verb or preposition: every native speaker says I (not me) read the book; They told him (not he); The company bought a computer for us (not we); and so forth. But the decision is more problematic in other environments. • When pronouns are joined with other nouns or pronouns by and or or, there is a widespread tendency to use the objective form even when the phrase is the subject of the sentence: Robert and her are not speaking to each other. This usage is natural in colloquial speech, but the nominative forms should be used in formal speech and writing: John and she (not her) will be giving the talk. • When pronouns joined by a conjunction occur as the object of a preposition such as between, according to, or like, many people use the nominative form where the traditional grammatical rule would require the objective; they say between you and I rather than between you and me, and so forth. Many critics have seen this construction as originating in a hypercorrection, whereby speakers who have been taught to say It is I instead of It is me come further to assume that correctness also requires between you and I in place of between you and me. This explanation of the tendency cannot be the whole story, inasmuch as the phrase between you and I occurs in Shakespeare, centuries before the prescriptive rules requiring It is I and the like were formulated. But the between you and I construction is nonetheless widely regarded as a marker of grammatical ignorance and is best avoided. • In other contexts the traditional insistence that the nominative form be used is more difficult to defend. The objective form sounds most natural when the pronoun is not grammatically related to an accompanying verb or preposition. Thus, in response to the question “Who cut down the cherry tree?” we more colloquially say “Me,” even though some grammarians have argued that I must be correct here by analogy to the form “I did”; and few speakers would accept that the sentence What, me worry? is improved if it is changed to What, I worry? The prescriptive insistence that the nominative be used in such a construction is grammatically questionable and is apt to lead to almost comical pedantries. • There is also a widespread tendency to use the objective form when a pronoun is used as a subject together with a noun in apposition, as in Us engineers were left without any technical support. In formal speech or writing the nominative we would be preferable here. But when the pronoun itself appears in apposition to a subject noun phrase, the use of nominative may sound pedantic in a sentence such as The remaining members of the admissions committee, namely we, will have to meet on another day. A writer who is uncomfortable about using the objective us here would be best advised to rewrite the sentence to avoid the difficulty. See Usage Note at be. See Usage Note at but. See Usage Note at we.

I² 1. The symbol for the element iodine (n., sense 1). 2. Electricity. The symbol for current (n., sense 4). 3. Also i. The symbol for the Roman numeral 1.

I³ abbr. 1. Institute. 2. Intelligence. 3. Interstate. 4. Isospin.

i. abbr. 1. Incisor. 2. Interest. 3. Grammar. Intransitive. 4. Or I.. Island; isle.

-i-. Used as a connective to join word elements: setiform. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin, stem vowel of nouns and adjectives used in combination.]

IA or Ia. abbr. Iowa.

i.a. abbr. In absentia.

-ia¹ suff. 1. Disease; pathological or abnormal condition: anoxia. 2. Territory; country: Australia. [New Latin, from Latin, and Greek, n. suff.]

-ia² suff. Things derived from, relating to, or belonging to: personalia. [Latin, neuter pl. of -ius, and Greek, neuter pl. of -ios, n. and adj. suffixes.]

IAA abbr. Indoleacetic acid.

IAAF abbr. International Amateur Athletic Federation.

IABA abbr. International Amateur Boxing Association.

IADB abbr. Inter-American Defense Board.

-ial suff. Of, relating to, or characterized by: baronial. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin -iālis.]

IALC abbr. Instrument approach and landing chart.

IAMAW abbr. International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

i-amb (ī'āmb', ī'ām') also i-am-bus (ī-ām'bəs) n. pl. i-ambs also i-am-bus-es or i-am-bi (-bī'). A metrical foot consisting of an unstressed syllable followed by a stressed syllable or a short syllable followed by a long syllable, as in delay.

[French iambe, from Latin iambus, from Greek iambos.]

i-am-bic (ī-ām'bĭk) adj. Consisting of iambs or characterized by their predominance: iambic pentameter. — n. 1. An iamb. 2. Often iambics. A verse, stanza, or poem written in iambs.

i-am-bus (ī-ām'bəs) n. Variant of iamb.

-ian suff. 1. Of, relating to, or resembling: Bostonian. 2. One relating to, belonging to, or resembling: academician. [Middle English -ien, -ian, from Old French -ien, from Latin -iānus, adj. and n. suff.]

-iana suff. Variant of -ana.

IAP abbr. International airport.

I·ap·e·tus (ī-ăp'ī-təs, ē-ăp'(-) n. 1. Greek Mythology. A Titan who was the father of Prometheus and Atlas and an ancestor of the human race. 2. The satellite of Saturn that is 16th in distance from the planet. [Latin Īapetus, from Greek Iape-tos.]

IARU abbr. International Amateur Radio Union.

IAS abbr. Indicated air speed.

Ia·și (yăsh, yă'shē) A city of northeast Romania north-northeast of Bucharest. It was the capital of the country until 1861 and temporarily during World War I. Population, 305,598.

-iasis suff. A pathological condition characterized or produced by: teniasis. [New Latin, from Greek, n. suff.] IATA abbr. International Air Transport Association.

-iatric suff. Of or relating to a specified kind of medical practice, treatment, or healing: geriatric. [From Greek iatrikos, medical, from iatros, physician, from iasthai, to heal.]

-iatrics suff. Medical treatment: pediatrics. [From -IATRIC.]

i·at·ro·gen·ic (ī-ăt'rə-jěn'ik) adj. Induced in a patient by a physician's activity, manner, or therapy. Used especially of an infection or other complication of treatment. [Greek iatros, physician; see -IATRIC + -GENIC.] —i·at'ro·gen'i·cal·ly adv.

-iatry suff. Medical treatment: psychiatry. [Greek -iatreia, art of healing, from iatros, physician. See -IATRIC.]

IAU abbr. 1. International Association of Universities. 2. International Astronomical Union.

IB abbr. 1. In bond. 2. Incendiary bomb.

ib. abbr. Ibidem.

I·ba·dan (ē-băd'n, ē-bă'dän) A city of southwest Nigeria north-northwest of Lagos. Founded in the 1830's as a military camp, it developed into a powerful Yoruba city-state and is now a major commercial and industrial center. Population, 1,009,400.

I·ba·gué (ē-bă-gě') A city of west-central Colombia west of Bogotá. It grew rapidly in the 1890's as the result of a coffee boom. Population, 265,598.

I·ba·ra·ki (ē'bă-ră'kē, ē-bă'ră-kē) A city of southern Honshu, Japan, a residential suburb of Osaka. Population, 250,468.

Ib·ár·ru·ri Gó·mez (ĭ-băr'ōör-ē gō'měz, ē-bă'rōō-rē gô'měs), Dolores. Known as "La Pasionaria." 1895-1989. Spanish political leader. A founder (1920) of the Communist Party of Spain, she escaped to the U.S.S.R. after Francisco Franco's victory in the Spanish Civil War (1939) and returned to Spain in 1977.

I-beam (ī'bēm') n. A steel joist or girder with short flanges and a cross section formed like the letter I.

I-be-ri-a (ī-bîr'ē-ə) 1. An ancient country of Transcaucasia roughly equivalent to the eastern part of present-day Georgia. Iberia was allied to Rome and later ruled by a Persian dynasty. It became a Byzantine province in the sixth century A.D. 2. See Iberian Peninsula.

I-be-ri-an (ī-bîr'ē-ən) adj. 1. Of or relating to ancient Iberia in Transcaucasia or its peoples, languages, or cultures. 2. a. Of or relating to the Iberian Peninsula or its modern peoples, languages, or cultures. b. Of or relating to the ancient peoples that inhabited the Iberian Peninsula or their languages or cultures. — n. 1. A native or inhabitant of ancient Iberia in Transcaucasia. 2. a. A native or inhabitant of the Iberian Peninsula. b. A member of one of the ancient peoples that inhabited the Iberian Peninsula. 3. Any of the languages of these peoples.

Iberian Peninsula (ī-bîr'ē-ən pə-nî'n'syə-lə) also I-be-ri-a (ī-bîr'ē-ə) A peninsula of southwest Europe occupied by Spain and Portugal. It is separated from the rest of Europe by the Pyrenees and from Africa by the Strait of Gibraltar.

I-ber-ville (ē-bēr-vēl'), Pierre Le Moyne Sieur d'Iberville. 1661-1706. Canadian-born French explorer who established settlements in what is now southern Louisiana.

i-bex (ī'bĕks') n. pl. ibex or i-bex-es. Any of several wild goats of the genus Capra, especially C. ibex, native to mountainous regions of Eurasia and northern Africa and having long, ridged, backward-curving horns. [Latin.]

I-bib-i-o (ī-bīb'ē-ō) n. pl. Ibibio or I-bib-i-os. 1. A member of a people of southeast Nigeria, noted for their woodcarving. 2. The South Central Niger Congo language of the Ibibio, closely related to Efik.

i-bi-dem (īb'i-dĕm', ĩ-bī'dĕm) adv. Abbr. ib., ibid. In the same place. Used in footnotes and bibliographies to refer to the book, chapter, article, or page cited just before. [Latin ibidem. See i- in Appendix.]

-ibility suff. Variant of -ability.

i-bis (ī'bīs) n. pl. ibis or i-bis-es. 1. Any of various storklike wading birds of the family Threskiornithidae of temperate and tropical regions, having a long, slender, downward-curving bill. 2. The wood ibis. [Middle English ibin, from Latin ībis, from Greek, from Egyptian hbj.]

I-bi-za also I-vi-za (ē-bē'sə, ē-vē'thā) A Spanish island of the Balearic Islands in the western Mediterranean Sea southwest of Majorca. The island attracts tourists and artists and has Roman, Phoenician, and Carthaginian ruins.

I-bi-zan hound (ī-bē'zən hound, -zän) n. A swift, slender, medium-sized hunting dog, bred primarily in the Balearic Islands and having a short, solid, or spotted red and white or tawny coat. [After Ibiza.]

-ible suff. Variant of -able.

ibn-Khal-dun (īb'ən-kāl-dōn', -kĥäl-), 1332-1406. Arab historian. His Muqaddimah (c. 1375) is an important work on the theory of history.

ibn-Sa·ud (ĩb'ən-sä-ōōd'), Abdul Aziz. 1880?-1953. Arab leader who was the founder and first king of Saudi Arabia (1932-1953).

I·bo (ē'bō) also Ig·bo (ĩg'bō) n. pl. Ibo or I·bos also Igbo or Ig·bos. 1. A member of a people inhabiting southeast Nigeria. 2. The South Central Niger Congo language of the Ibo.

Ib·ra·him Pa·sha (ĩb'rä-hĩm' pä'shə, -shä, -hēm'), 1789-1848. Egyptian general who subdued the Wahhabis (1816-1818) and Greek rebels (1824-1832). He became viceroy in 1848 but died the same year.

IBRD abbr. International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

Ib·sen (ĩb'sən, ĩp'-), Henrik. 1828-1906. Norwegian playwright who influenced the development of modern drama with his realistic masterpieces. His major works include Peer Gynt (1867), A Doll's House (1879), and Ghosts (1881). —Ib·sen'i·an (-sē'nē-ən, -sĕn'ē-) adj.

i·bu·pro·fen (ĩ'byōō-prō'fən) n. A nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory medication, C₁₃H₁₈O₂, used especially in the treatment of arthritis and commonly taken for its analgesic and antipyretic properties. [Alteration of chemical name i(so)bu(tyl)phen(yl) pro(pionic acid).]

IBY abbr. International Biological Year.

IC abbr. Integrated circuit.

-ic suff. 1. Of, relating to, or characterized by: seismic. 2. Having a valence higher than that of a specified element in compounds or ions named with adjectives ending in -ous: sulfuric acid. 3. One relating to or characterized by: academic. [Middle English, from Old French -ique, from Latin -icus, from Greek -ikos.]

I·ca (ē'kə, ē'kä) A city of southwest Peru south-southeast of Lima. Settled by the Spanish in 1563, it is now a commercial center. The surrounding area was inhabited by Inca peoples in pre-Columbian times. Population, 114,786.

ICAO abbr. International Civil Aeronautics Organization.

I·car·i·a (ĩ-kâr'ē-ə, ĩ-kâr'-) See Ikaria.

Ic·a·rus (ĩk'ər-əs) n. 1. Greek Mythology. The son of Daedalus who, in escaping from Crete on artificial wings made for him by his father, flew so close to the sun that the wax with which his wings were fastened melted, and he fell into the Aegean Sea. 2. An asteroid with an eccentric orbit approaching within 30 million kilometers (19 million miles) of the sun. [Latin, from Greek Ikaros.]

ICBM abbr. Intercontinental ballistic missile.

ICC abbr. 1. Indian Claims Commission. 2. International Chamber of Commerce. 3. Interstate Commerce Commission.

ice (īs) n. 1. Water frozen solid. 2. A surface, layer, or mass of frozen water. 3. Something resembling frozen water. 4. A dessert consisting of sweetened and flavored crushed ice. 5. Cake frosting; icing. 6. Slang. Diamonds. 7. Sports. The playing field in ice hockey; the rink. 8. Extreme unfriendliness or reserve.

9. Slang. A payment over the listed price of a ticket for a public event. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: ice cubes; ice fragments. — v. iced, ic-ing, ic-es. — v. tr. 1. To coat or slick with solidly frozen water. 2. To cause to become ice; freeze. 3. To chill by setting in or as if in ice. 4. To cover or decorate (a cake, for example) with a sugar coating. 5. Slang. To ensure of victory, as in a game; clinch. 6. Sports. To shoot (the puck) far out of defensive territory in ice hockey. 7. Slang. To kill; murder. — v. intr. To turn into or become coated with ice; freeze: The pond iced over in November. — idiom. on ice. Slang. 1. In reserve or readiness. 2. Held incommunicado. [Middle English ise, from Old English īs.] — ice/less adj.

ICE abbr. 1. Internal-combustion engine. 2. International Cultural Exchange.

Ice. abbr. Iceland; Icelandic.

ice age (īs āj) n. 1. A cold period marked by episodes of extensive glaciation alternating with episodes of relative warmth. 2. Ice Age. The most recent glacial period, which occurred during the Pleistocene epoch.

ice ax (īs äks) n. An ax used by mountaineers for cutting steps in ice.

ice bag (īs bäg) n. See ice pack (n., sense 2).

ice barrier (īs bär'ē-ər) n. Geology. A section of the Antarctic ice shelf that extends beyond the coastline, resting partly on the ocean floor.

ice-berg (īs'bûrg') n. 1. A massive floating body of ice broken away from a glacier. Only about 10 percent of its mass is above the surface of the water.

2. Informal. A cold, aloof person. [Partial translation of Dutch ijsberg, from Middle Dutch ijsbergh : ijs, ice + bergh, mountain (from Middle Dutch); see bhergh-² in Appendix.]

iceberg lettuce (īs'bûrg' lět'əs) n. A crisp, round, compact head of lettuce with light green, tightly folded leaves. [From its pale color.]

ice-blink (īs'blîngk') n. 1. A yellowish glare in the sky over an ice field. Also called blink 2. A coastal ice cliff.

ice blue (īs'blōō') n. Color. A very pale blue. — ice'-blue' adj.

ice-boat (īs'bōt') n. Nautical. 1. A boatlike vehicle set on sharp runners, used for sailing on ice. 2. See icebreaker (n., sense 1). — ice'/boat'er n. — ice'-boat'ing n.

ice-bound (īs'bound') adj. Locked in or covered over by ice.

ice-box (īs'bōks') n. 1. An insulated chest or box into which ice is placed, used for cooling and preserving food. 2. A refrigerator.

ice-break-er (īs'brā'kər) n. 1. Nautical. A sturdy ship built for breaking a passage through icebound waters. Also called iceboat 2. A protective pier or dock apron used as a buffer against floating ice. 3. a. Something done or said to relax an unduly formal atmosphere or situation. b. A beginning; a start.

— ice'/break'ing n.

ice bucket (īs bŭk'ŭt) n. 1. A small insulated container with a lid for holding ice. 2. A similar container without a lid used to cool bottles placed inside it.

ice-cap or ice cap (īs'kăp') n. An extensive dome-shaped or platelike perennial cover of ice and snow that spreads out from a center and covers a large area, especially of land.

ice-cold (īs'kôld') adj. Extremely cold.

ice cream (īs krēm) n. A smooth, sweet, cold food prepared from a frozen mixture of milk products, containing a minimum of 10 percent milk fat and flavorings and eaten as a snack or dessert.

WORD HISTORY: Since Americans eat about 15 quarts of ice cream per capita each year, it is appropriate that the first recorded instance of the word (1744) occurs in the writings of an American, who mentions “fine ice cream... with... strawberries and milk.” The history of ice cream itself can be traced much further back, to the Roman Empire, China, and India. Ice cream was introduced to England in the 17th century and to America in the 18th. It seems to have been called iced cream at first (1673), in line with such expressions as iced tea and iced coffee, which we still use, but the form ice cream has taken over.

ice-cream chair (īs'krēm') n. An armless wire chair with a round seat, originally used at tables in ice-cream parlors.

ice-cream cone (īs'krēm' kōn) n. 1. A conical wafer used to hold a scoop of ice cream. 2. A cone with ice cream in it.

ice-cream parlor (īs'krēm' pär'lər) n. An establishment where ice cream is served.

ice-cream social (īs'krēm' sō'shəl) n. Northern U.S. A picnic featuring ice cream, often held for the purpose of raising money for charity. Also called ice-cream sociable ice-cream soda (īs'krēm' sō'də) n. A refreshment consisting of scoops of ice cream in a mixture of soda water and syrup.

iced (īst) adj. 1. Covered over with ice. 2. Chilled with ice. 3. Decorated or coated with icing.

ice-fall (īs'fôl') n. 1. The part of a glacier resembling a frozen waterfall that flows down a steep slope. 2. An avalanche of ice.

ice field (īs fēld) n. A large, level expanse of floating ice that is more than eight kilometers (five miles) in its greatest dimension.

ice floe (īs flō) n. A flat expanse of floating ice that is smaller than an ice field.

ice fog (īs fôg) n. A fog of ice particles. Also called pogonip ice foot (īs fōot) n. A belt or ledge of ice that forms along the shoreline in Arctic regions.

ice-free (īs'frē') adj. 1. Free of ice and open to travel or navigation: an ice-free channel in the river. 2. Marked by a lack of obstructive ice: a three-month ice-free period during the summer.

ice hockey (īs'hök'ē) n. Sports. A game played on ice in which two opposing teams of skaters, using curved sticks, try to drive a puck into the opponent's goal.

ice-house (īs'hous') n. A place where ice is made, stored, or sold.

Icel. abbr. Iceland; Icelandic.

Ice-land (īs'lænd) Abbr. Ice., Icel. An island country in the North Atlantic near the Arctic Circle. Norse settlers arrived c. 850-875, and Christianity was introduced c. 1000. The feudal state was united with Norway in 1262 and with Denmark in 1380. In 1918 it became a sovereign state in personal union with Denmark, which lasted until the Icelanders voted for full independence in 1944. Reykjavík is the capital and the largest city. Population, 240,443. —Ice'land-er n.

Ice-land-ic (īs-län'dīk) adj. Abbr. Ice., Icel. Of or relating to Iceland or its people, language, or culture. — n. Abbr. Ice., Icel. The North Germanic language of Iceland.

Iceland moss (īs'lænd môs) n. A brittle, grayish-brown, Arctic lichen (Cetraria islandica) sometimes used as a food or in medicine.

Iceland spar (īs'lænd spär) n. A doubly refracting transparent calcite used in optical instruments.

ice-mak-er (īs'mā'kær) n. A machine, often built into a refrigerator, that freezes water into ice cubes. Also called ice machine ice-man (īs'mæn) n. 1. A man who cuts, sells, or delivers ice. 2. Slang. A hired killer.

ice milk (īs mīlk) n. A smooth, sweet, cold food prepared from a frozen mixture of milk products, usually containing 3 to 6 percent butterfat, 11 to 14 percent nonfat milk solids, and 12 to 15 percent sugar.

ice-mi-nus (īs'mī'nəs) adj. Of or relating to a strain of genetically altered bacteria that are applied to crop plants to inhibit the formation of frost.

ice needle (īs nēd'l) n. A thin ice crystal floating high in the atmosphere in certain conditions of clear, cold weather.

I-ce-ni (ī-sē'nī') pl.n. An ancient Celtic tribe of eastern Britain who under Queen Boudicca fought unsuccessfully against the Romans about A.D. 60. [Latin Icēnī.] —I-ce'nic (-nīk) adj.

ice-out (īs'out') n. The thawing of ice on the surface of a body of water, such as a lake.

ice pack (īs pāk) n. 1. A floating mass of compacted ice fragments. 2. A folded sac filled with crushed ice and applied to sore or swollen parts of the body to reduce pain and inflammation. In this sense, also called ice bag ice pick (īs pīk) n. A pointed awl for chipping or breaking ice.

ice plant (īs plānt) n. A succulent annual (Mesembryanthemum crystallinum) native to southern Africa, having white or pink flowers, fleshy leaves, and stems covered with glistening papillae.

ice point (īs point) n. The temperature, equal to 1.0°C (33.8°F), at which pure water and ice are in equilibrium in a mixture at 1 atmosphere of pressure.

ice-scape (īs'skāp') n. A wide view or vista of a region of ice and snow: “the vast and empty icescape now called Antarctica” (Sharon Begley).

ice show (īs shō) n. An entertainment consisting of figure skating, ice dancing, acrobatic stunts, and buffoonery performed by ice skaters.

ice skate (īs skāt) n. Sports. A shoe or light boot with a metal runner or blade fitted to the sole, used for skating on ice.

ice-skate (īs'skāt') v. intr. ice--skated, ice--skating, ice--skates. Sports. To engage in skating on ice. —ice skater n.

ice storm (īs stōrm) n. A storm in which snow or rain freezes on contact, forming a coat of ice on the surfaces it touches.

ice water (īs wō'tər) n. 1. Very cold or chilled water, especially for drinking, often with ice in it. 2. Melted ice.

ice wine also ice-wine (īs'wīn') n. A sweet wine made from grapes that have been left to freeze on the vines. They are picked and pressed while still frozen so that the grape sugar and acid remain intensely concentrated.

ICFTU abbr. International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

ich (ik) n. A contagious disease of tropical marine and freshwater fishes, caused by a protozoan (Ichthyophthirius multifiliis) and characterized by small white pustules on the skin and eyes. [Short for New Latin Ichthyophthirius, genus name : ICHTHYO- + Greek phtheir, louse.]

I·chi·ha·ra (ē-chē'hā-rā') A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, on Tokyo Bay opposite Tokyo. It is an industrial center. Population, 237,618.

I·chi·ka·wa (ē-chē'kā-wā') A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, an industrial suburb of Tokyo. Population, 397,806.

I Ching (ē jǐng) n. A Chinese book of ancient origin consisting of 64 interrelated hexagrams along with commentaries. The hexagrams embody Taoist philosophy by describing all nature and human endeavor in terms of the interaction of yin and yang, and the book may be consulted as an oracle. [Chinese (Mandarin) Yì Jīng : Yì, divination + Jīng, classic, book.]

I·chi·no·mi·ya (ē'chē-nō'mē-ä', -yā') A city of central Honshu, Japan, a textile-manufacturing suburb of Nagoya. Population, 257,392.

ich·neu·mon (ik-nō'mən, -nyō'-) n. 1. A large mongoose (Herpestes ichneumon) of Africa and southern Europe, having a gray coat and black tail tufts. Also called Egyptian mongoose 2. The ichneumon fly. [Latin ichneumon, weasel, ichneumon fly, from Greek ikhneumon, from ikhneuein, to track, from ikhnos, track.]

ichneumon fly (ĭk-nōō'mən flī) n. Any of various wasplike insects of the family Ichneumonidae, having larvae that are parasitic on the larvae of other insects. Also called ichneumon wasp ich·nite (ĭk'nīt') also ich·no·lite (-nō-līt') n. A fossilized footprint. [Greek ikhnos, track + -ITE¹.]

ich·nog·ra·phy (ĭk-nōg'rə-fē) n. pl. ich·nog·ra·phies. 1. The art or process of drawing ground plans. 2. A ground plan of a building. [Latin ichnographia : Greek ikhnos, track + Latin -graphia, -graphy.]

ich·no·lite (ĭk'nō-līt') n. Variant of ichnite.

i·chor (ī'kōr', ī'kər) n. 1. Greek Mythology. The rarefied fluid said to run in the veins of the gods. 2. Pathology. A watery, acrid discharge from a wound or ulcer. [Middle English icor, from Late Latin īchōr, from Greek ikhōr.] —i'chor·ous (ī'kər-əs) adj.

ichth. abbr. Ichthyology.

ichthy- pref. Variant of ichthyo-.

ich·thy·ic (ĭk'thē-ĭk) adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of fishes.

ichthyo- or ichthy- pref. Fish: ichthyophagous. [Latin, from Greek ikhthuo-, from ikhthus, fish.]

ich·thy·o·fau·na (ĭk'thē-ə-fô'nə) n. The fish of a particular region.

ich·thy·oid (ĭk'thē-oid') n. A fish or fishlike vertebrate. — adj. also ich·thy·oi·dal (ĭk'thē-oid'l) Characteristic of or resembling a fish.

ich·thy·ol·o·gy (ĭk'thē-ōl'ə-jē) n. Abbr. ichth., ichthyol. The branch of zoology that deals with the study of fishes. —ich'thy·o·log'ic (-ə-lōj'ĭk), ich'thy·o·log'i·cal adj. —ich'thy·ol'ogist n.

ich·thy·oph·a·gous (ĭk'thē-ōf'ə-gəs) adj. Feeding on fish; fish-eating.

ich·thy·or·nis (ĭk'thē-ōr'nĭs) n. Any of various extinct, toothed birds of the genus Ichthyornis that existed during the Cretaceous Period. [ICHTHY(O)- + Greek ornis, bird; see or- in Appendix.]

ich·thy·o·saur (ĭk'thē-ə-sôr') also ich·thy·o·sau·rus (ĭk'thē-ə-sôr'əs) n. pl.

ich·thy·o·saurs also ich·thy·o·sau·ri (-sôr'ī'). Any of various extinct fishlike marine reptiles of the order Ichthyosauria of the Triassic Period to the Cretaceous Period, having a porpoiselike head and an elongated, toothed snout. [From New Latin ichthyosaurus : Greek ikhthuo-, ichthyo- + Greek sauros, lizard.]

ich·thy·o·sis (ĭk'thē-ō'sĭs) n. A congenital, often hereditary skin disease characterized by dry, thickened, scaly skin. Also called fishskin disease

-ician suff. One who practices; a specialist: technician. [Middle English, from Old French -icien : -ique, n. suff.; see -IC + -ien, adj. and n. suff.; see -IAN.]

i·ci·cle (ī'sĭ-kəl) n. 1. A tapering spike of ice formed by the freezing of dripping or falling water. 2. Informal. An aloof or emotionally unresponsive person.

[Middle English isikel : is, ice; see ICE + ikel, icicle (from Old English gicel); see yeg- in Appendix.]

icicle plant (ī'sī-kəl plänt) n. See fig marigold. [From its glistening papillae.]

icing (ī'sīng) n. 1. A sweet glaze made of sugar, butter, water, and egg whites or milk, often flavored and cooked and used to cover or decorate baked goods, such as cakes or cookies. 2. Sports. The act of intentionally shooting the puck far out of defensive territory in ice hockey.

ICJ abbr. Law. International Court of Justice.

Ick-es (īk'ēz, -əs), Harold LeClair. 1874-1952. American politician who served as secretary of the interior (1933-1946) under presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S Truman.

ick-y (īk'ē) adj. ick-i-er, ick-i-est. Informal. 1. Disagreeably sticky: icky candy. 2. Offensive; distasteful: icky sentimentality. [Origin unknown.] —ick'i-ness n.

i-con also i-kon (ī'kōn') n. 1. a. An image; a representation. b. A simile or symbol: “Voyager will take its place... alongside such icons of airborne adventure as The Spirit of St. Louis and [the] Bell X-1” (William D. Marbach). 2. A representation or picture of a sacred or sanctified Christian personage, traditional to the Eastern Church. 3. One who is the object of great attention and devotion; an idol: “He is... a pop icon designed and manufactured for the video generation” (Harry F. Waters). 4. Computer Science. A picture on a screen that represents a specific command. [Ultimately from Greek eikōn.]

icon- pref. Variant of icono-.

i-con-ic (ī-kōn'īk) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or having the character of an icon. 2. Having a conventional formulaic style. Used of certain memorial statues and busts.

icono- or icon- pref. Image; icon: iconolatry. [Greek eikono-, from eikōn, image.]

i-con-o-clasm (ī-kōn'ə-klāz'əm) n. The beliefs, practices, or doctrine of an iconoclast. [From ICONOCLAST.]

i-con-o-clast (ī-kōn'ə-klāst') n. 1. One who attacks and seeks to overthrow traditional or popular ideas or institutions. 2. One who destroys sacred religious images. [French iconoclaste, from Medieval Greek eikonoklastēs, smasher of religious images : Greek eikono-, icono- + -klastēs, breaker (from Greek klan, klas-, to break).] —i-con'o-clas'tic adj. —i-con'o-clas'ti-cal-ly adv.

WORD HISTORY: An iconoclast can be unpleasant company, but at least the modern iconoclast only attacks such things as ideas and institutions. The original iconoclasts destroyed countless works of art. Eikonoklastēs, the ancestor of our word, was first formed in Medieval Greek from the elements eikōn, “image, likeness,” and -klastēs, “breaker,” from klan, “to break.” The images referred to by the word are religious images, which were the subject of controversy among Christians of the Byzantine Empire in the 8th and 9th centuries, when iconoclasm was at its height. Those who opposed images did not, of course, simply destroy them, although many were demolished; they also attempted to have the images barred from display and veneration. During the Protestant Reformation images in churches were again felt to be idolatrous and were once more banned and destroyed. It is around this time that iconoclast, the descendant of the Greek word, is first recorded in English (1641), with reference to the Greek iconoclasts. In the 19th century iconoclast took on the secular sense that it has today, as in “Kant was the great iconoclast” (James Martineau).

-
- i·co·nog·ra·phy (ī'kə-nŏg'rə-fē) n. pl. i·co·nog·ra·phies. 1. a. Pictorial illustration of a subject. b. The collected representations illustrating a subject. 2. A set of specified or traditional symbolic forms associated with the subject or theme of a stylized work of art. 3. A treatise or book dealing with iconography. [Late Latin iconographia, description, verbal sketch, from Greek eikonographia : eikono-, icono- + -graphia, -graphy.] — i'co·nog'ra·pher n.
— i·con'o·graph'ic (ī-kŏn'ə-grăf'ik), i·con'o·graph'i·cal adj.
- i·co·nol'a·try (ī'kə-nŏl'ə-trē) n. Worship of icons or images.
— i'co·nol'a·ter n. — i'con·o·lat'ric (ī'kŏn-ə-lăt'rik) adj.
- i·co·nol·o·gy (ī'kə-nŏl'ə-jē) n. The branch of art history that deals with the description, analysis, and interpretation of icons or iconic representations.
— i·con'o·log'i·cal (ī-kŏn'ə-lŏj'ī-kəl) adj. — i'co·nol'o·gist n.
- i·con·o·scope (ī-kŏn'ə-skŏp') n. An early form of a television-camera tube, equipped for rapid scanning of an information-storing, photoactive mosaic. [Originally a trademark.]
- i·co·nos·ta·sis (ī'kə-nŏs'tə-sis) n. pl. i·co·nos·ta·ses (-sēz'). The screen decorated with icons that divides the sanctuary from the nave of an Eastern Orthodox church. [From Late Greek eikonostasion, shrine : eikono-, icono- + Greek stasis, a standing; see stā- in Appendix.]
- i·co·sa·he·dron (ī-kŏ'sə-hē'drən, ī-kŏs'ə-) n. pl. i·co·sa·he·drons or i·co·sa·he·dra (-drə). A polyhedron having 20 faces. [Greek eikosaedron : eikosi, twenty; see wikm̩t̩i in Appendix + -edron, -hedron.] — i·co'sa·he'dral (-drəl) adj.
- ICRC abbr. International Committee of the Red Cross.
- ics suff. 1. Science; art; study; knowledge; skill: graphics. 2. Actions, activities, or practices of: athletics. 3. Qualities or operations of: mechanics. [-IC + -s¹ (translation of Greek -ika, from neuter pl. of -ikos, adj. suff.)]
- ic·ter·ic (ik-tēr'ik) adj. 1. Relating to or affected with jaundice. 2. Used to treat jaundice. — n. A remedy for jaundice. [Latin ictericus, from Greek ikterikos, from ikteros, jaundice.]
- ic·ter·us (ik'tər-əs) n. See jaundice. [New Latin, from Greek ikteros.]

Ic-ti-nus (ĭk-tī'nəs), fl. fifth century B.C. Greek architect and the chief designer of the Parthenon at Athens.

ic-tus (ĭk'təs) n. pl. ictus or ic-tus-es. Medicine. 1. A sudden attack, blow, stroke, or seizure. 2. The accent that falls on a stressed syllable in a line of scanned verse. [Latin, stroke, from past participle of icere, to strike.]

ICU abbr. Intensive care unit.

ic-y (ĭ'sē) adj. ic-i-er, ic-i-est. 1. Containing or covered with ice: an icy road. 2. Bitterly cold; freezing: an icy day. See Synonyms at cold. 3. a. Resembling ice: icy fingers. b. Chilling in manner: an icy smile; icy detachment. —ic'i-ly adv. —ic'i-ness n.

id (ĭd) n. In Freudian theory, the division of the psyche that is totally unconscious and serves as the source of instinctual impulses and demands for immediate satisfaction of primitive needs. [New Latin (translation of German Es, a special use of es, it, as a psychoanalytic term), from Latin, it. See i- in Appendix.]

ID¹ (ĭ'dē') n. pl. ID's or IDs. Informal. An ID card.

ID² abbr. 1. Id.. Idaho. 2. Also I.D.. Identification. 3. Intelligence Department.

id. abbr. Idem.

i.d. abbr. Inner diameter; inside diameter; internal diameter.

-id suff. Body; particle: chromatid. [Latin -is, -id-, feminine patronymic suff., from Greek.]

I'd (ĭd) 1. I had. 2. I would. 3. I should.

I-da (ĭ'də), Mount. A peak, 2,457.7 m (8,058 ft) high, of central Crete. It is the highest elevation on the island and in ancient times was closely associated with the worship of Zeus.

I-da-ho (ĭ'də-hō') Abbr. ID, Id. A state of the northwest United States. It was admitted as the 43rd state in 1890. First explored by the Lewis and Clark expedition in 1805, the region was held jointly by Great Britain and the United States from 1818 to 1846. Idaho became a separate territory in 1863. Boise is the capital and the largest city. Population, 1,011,986. —I'da-ho'an adj. & n.

Idaho Falls (ĭ'də-hō' fôlz) A city of southeast Idaho north-northeast of Pocatello. The site was originally a miner's fording point over the Snake River. Population, 43,929.

ID card (ĭ'dē' kărd) n. A card, often bearing a photograph, that gives identifying data, such as name, age, or organizational membership, about a person.

IDDD abbr. International direct distance dialing.

-ide suff. 1. Group of related chemical compounds: monosaccharide. 2. Binary compound: sodium chloride, hydrogen cyanide. 3. Chemical element with properties similar to another: lanthanide. [From (OX)IDE.]

i-de-a (ĭ-dē'ə) n. 1. Something, such as a thought or conception, that potentially or actually exists in the mind as a product of mental activity. 2. An opinion, a conviction, or a principle: has some strange political ideas. 3. A plan, scheme, or method. 4. The gist of a specific situation; significance: The idea is to finish the project on time and under budget. 5. A notion; a fancy. 6. Music. A theme or motif. 7. Philosophy. a. In the philosophy of Plato, an archetype of which a corresponding being in phenomenal reality is an imperfect replica. b. In the philosophy of Kant, a concept of reason that is transcendent but nonempirical. c. In the philosophy of Hegel, absolute truth; the complete and ultimate product of reason. 8. Obsolete. A mental image of something remembered. [Middle English, from Latin, from Greek. See weid- in Appendix.] —i·de/a·less adj.

SYNONYMS: idea, thought, notion, concept, conception. These nouns refer to what is formed or represented in the mind as the product of mental activity. Idea has the widest range: Fruit is not her idea of a dessert. Don't get any ideas about revenge. "Human history is in essence a history of ideas" (H.G. Wells). Thought is applied to what is distinctively intellectual and thus especially to what is produced by contemplation and reasoning as distinguished from mere perceiving, feeling, or willing: Quiet—she's trying to collect her thoughts. I have no thought of going to Europe. "Language is the dress of thought" (Samuel Johnson). Notion often refers to a vague, general, or even fanciful idea: "She certainly has some notion of drawing" (Rudyard Kipling). Concept and conception are applied to mental formulations on a broad scale: He seems to have absolutely no concept of time. "Every succeeding scientific discovery makes greater nonsense of old-time conceptions of sovereignty" (Anthony Eden).

i·de·al (ī-dē'əl, ī-dēl') n. 1. A conception of something in its absolute perfection. 2. One that is regarded as a standard or model of perfection or excellence. 3. An ultimate object of endeavor; a goal. 4. An honorable or worthy principle or aim. — adj. 1. a. Of, relating to, or embodying an ideal. b. Conforming to an ultimate form or standard of perfection or excellence. 2. Considered the best of its kind. 3. Completely or highly satisfactory: The location of the new house is ideal. 4. a. Existing only in the mind; imaginary. b. Lacking practicality or the possibility of realization. 5. Of, relating to, or consisting of ideas or mental images. 6. Philosophy. a. Existing as an archetype or pattern, especially as a Platonic idea or perception. b. Of or relating to idealism. [From Middle English, pertaining to the divine archetypes of things, from Late Latin ideālis, from Latin idea, idea. See IDEA.]

SYNONYMS: ideal, model, example, exemplar, standard, pattern. These nouns refer to someone or something worthy of imitation or duplication. An ideal is a sometimes unattainable standard of perfection: "Religion is the vision of... something which is the ultimate ideal, and the hopeless quest" (Alfred North Whitehead). A model is something to be imitated and often something deserving of imitation:

“Our fellow countryman is a model of a man” (Charles Dickens). An example is a model that is likely to be imitated; the term often refers to something that serves rather as a deterrent or warning than as something to be emulated: “Our Government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. For good or for ill, it teaches the whole people by its example” (Louis D. Brandeis). An exemplar is a person or thing that serves as an ideal example by reason of being either very worthy or truly representative of a type, admirable or otherwise: “He is indeed the perfect exemplar of all nobleness” (Jane Porter). A standard is an established criterion or recognized level of excellence regarded as being proper, fitting, or right: “It wouldn’t be quite fair to test him by our standards” (William Dean Howells). A pattern serves as a model, plan, or guide in the creation of something: “I will be the pattern of all patience” (Shakespeare).

ideal gas (ī-dē’əl gās) n. A gas that, when kept at a constant temperature, would obey the gas laws exactly. No known gas is an ideal gas.

i·de·al·ism (ī-dē’ə-līz’əm) n. 1. The act or practice of envisioning things in an ideal form. 2. Pursuit of one’s ideals. 3. Idealized treatment of a subject in literature or art. 4. Philosophy. The theory that the object of external perception, in itself or as perceived, consists of ideas.

i·de·al·ist (ī-dē’ə-līst) n. 1. One whose conduct is influenced by ideals that often conflict with practical considerations. 2. One who is unrealistic and impractical; a visionary. 3. An artist or a writer whose work is imbued with idealism. 4. An adherent of any system of philosophical idealism.

i·de·al·is·tic (ī-dē’ə-līs’tik) adj. Of, relating to, or having the nature of an idealist or idealism. — i’de·al·is’ti·cal·ly adv.

i·de·al·i·ty (ī’dē-āl’ī-tē) n. pl. i·de·al·i·ties. 1. The state or quality of being ideal. 2. Existence in idea only.

i·de·al·ize (ī-dē’ə-līz’) v. i·de·al·ized, i·de·al·iz·ing, i·de·al·iz·es. — v. tr. 1. To regard as ideal. 2. To make or envision as ideal. — v. intr. 1. To render something as an ideal. 2. To conceive ideals or an ideal. — i·de’al·i·za’tion (-ə-lī-zā’shən) n. — i·de’al·iz’er n.

i·de·al·ly (ī-dē’ə-lē) adv. 1. In conformity with an ideal; perfectly. 2. In theory or imagination; theoretically.

i·de·ate (ī’dē-āt’) v. i·de·at·ed, i·de·at·ing, i·de·ates. — v. tr. To form an idea of; imagine or conceive: “Such characters represent a grotesquely blown-up aspect of an ideal man... if not realizable, capable of being ideated” (Anthony Burgess). — v. intr. To conceive mental images; think. — i’de·a’tion n. — i’de·a’tion·al adj.

i·dée fixe (ē-dā fēks’) n. pl. i·dées fixes (ē-dā fēks’). A fixed idea; an obsession. [French : idée, idea + fixe, fixed.]

i-dem (ī'dĕm') pron. Abbr. id. Something that has been mentioned previously; the same. [Latin idem, from id, it. See i- in Appendix.]

i-den-tic (ī-dĕn'tĭk) adj. 1. Being or constituting a diplomatic action or diplomatic language in which two or more governments agree to use the same forms in their relations with other governments. 2. Identical. [Medieval Latin identicus, identical. See IDENTICAL.]

i-den-ti-cal (ī-dĕn'tĭ-kəl) adj. 1. Being the same: another orator who used the senator's identical words. See Synonyms at same. 2. Exactly equal and alike. 3. Having such a close similarity or resemblance as to be essentially equal or interchangeable. 4. Biology. Of or relating to a twin or twins developed from the same fertilized ovum and having the same genetic makeup and closely similar appearance; monozygotic. [From Medieval Latin identicus, from Late Latin identitās, identity. See IDENTITY.] —i-den'ti-cal-ly adv. —i-den'ti-cal-ness n.

USAGE NOTE: Some authorities on usage specify with as the preferred preposition after identical. But either with or to is now acceptable.

identical rhyme (ī-dĕn'tĭ-kəl rīm) n. 1. Repetition of the same word in the rhyme position. 2. See rime riche.

i-den-ti-fi-ca-tion (ī-dĕn'tə-fĭ-kā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of identifying. b. The state of being identified. 2. Abbr. ID, I.D. Proof or evidence of identity. 3. Psychology. a. A person's association with the qualities, characteristics, or views of another person or group. b. An unconscious process by which a person transfers the response appropriate to a particular person or group to a different person or group.

identification card (ī-dĕn'tə-fĭ-kā'shən kărd) n. An ID card.

i-den-ti-fi-er (ī-dĕn'tə-fĭ'ər) n. Computer Science. A symbol that serves to identify, indicate, or name a body of data.

i-den-ti-fy (ī-dĕn'tə-fĭ') v. i-den-ti-fied, i-den-ti-fy-ing, i-den-ti-fies. — v. tr. 1. To establish the identity of. 2. To ascertain the origin, nature, or definitive characteristics of. 3. Biology. To determine the taxonomic classification of (an organism). 4. To consider as identical or united; equate. 5. To associate or affiliate (oneself) closely with a person or group. — v. intr. To establish an identification with another or others. [Medieval Latin identificāre, to make to resemble : Late Latin identitās, identity; see IDENTITY + Latin -ficāre, -fy.]

—i-den'ti-fi'a-ble adj. —i-den'ti-fi'a-bly adv. —i-den'ti-fi'er n.

USAGE NOTE: In the sense “to associate or affiliate (oneself) closely with a person or group,” identify has developed two distinct subsenses. In one, the verb suggests a psychological empathy with the feelings or experiences of another person, as in Most young readers readily identify (or identify themselves) with Holden Caulfield. This usage derives originally from psychoanalytic writing, where it has a specific technical sense, but like other terms from that field, it was widely regarded as jargon when introduced into the wider discourse. In particular, critics seized on the fact that in this sense the verb was often used intransitively, with no reflexive pronoun. As Wilson Follett wrote in 1966, “The critic... could help restore the true notion in these words if he would give up identifying at large and resume identifying himself with Ivan Karamazov, Don Quixote, Mary Poppins, or whomever.” In recent years, however, this use of identify with without the reflexive has become a standard locution. Eighty-two percent of the Usage Panel accepts the sentence I find it hard to identify with any of his characters; whereas only 63 percent now accepts this same usage when the reflexive pronoun is used, as in I find it hard to identify myself with any of his characters. • Omission of the reflexive with this use of identify serves among other things to distinguish it from use of the verb to mean “to associate (oneself) with the goals, interests, or principles of a group.” This use of the verb can be traced back to the 18th century, but it is now somewhat less acceptable to the Panel than the first sense under discussion: 58 percent of the Panel accepts the sentence She identified herself with the campaign against drug abuse, and only 40 percent accepts She identified with the campaign against drug abuse, where no reflexive pronoun is used.

i·den·ti·ty (ī-dĕn'tī-tē) n. pl. i·den·ti·ties. 1. The collective aspect of the set of characteristics by which a thing is definitively recognizable or known: “If the broadcast group is the financial guts of the company, the news division is its public identity” (Bill Powell). 2. The set of behavioral or personal characteristics by which an individual is recognizable as a member of a group. 3. The quality or condition of being the same as something else. 4. The distinct personality of an individual regarded as a persisting entity; individuality. 5. Mathematics. a. An equation that is satisfied by any number that replaces the letter for which the equation is defined. b. Identity element. [French identité, from Old French identite, from Late Latin identitās, from Latin idem, the same (influenced by Late Latin essentitās, being, and identidem, repeatedly), from id, it. See i- in Appendix.]

identity crisis (ī-dĕn'tī-tē krī'sis) n. 1. A psychosocial state or condition of disorientation and role confusion occurring especially in adolescents as a result of conflicting pressures and expectations and often producing acute anxiety. 2. An analogous state of confusion occurring in a social structure, such as an institution or a corporation.

identity element (ī-dĕn'tī-tē ěl'ə-mənt) n. Mathematics. The element of a set of numbers that when combined with another number in an operation leaves that number unchanged. For example, 0 is the identity element under addition for the real numbers, since if a is any real number, $a + 0 = 0 + a = a$. Similarly, 1 is the identity element under multiplication for the real numbers, since $a \times 1 = 1 \times a = a$. Also called unity identity matrix (ī-dĕn'tī-tē mā'trīks) n. Mathematics. A square matrix with numeral 1's along the diagonal from upper left to lower right and 0's in all other positions.

identity sign (ī-dĕn'tī-tē sīn) n. Mathematics. The symbol (\equiv), used to designate identity rather than equality.

ideo- pref. Idea: ideography. [French idéo-, from Greek idea, form, idea. See weid- in Appendix.]

id·e·o·gram (īd'ē-ə-grām', ī'dē-) n. 1. A character or symbol representing an idea or a thing without expressing the pronunciation of a particular word or words for it, as in the traffic sign commonly used for “no parking” or “parking prohibited.” Also called ideograph 2. See logogram. 3. A graphic symbol, such as &, $, or @. —id'e·o·gram·mat'ic (grə-măt'ik) adj.

—id'e·o·gram·mat'i·cal·ly adv.

id·e·o·graph (īd'ē-ə-grăf') n. See ideogram (n., sense 1).

—id'e·o·graph'ic adj. —id'e·o·graph'i·cal·ly adv.

id·e·o·g·r·a·p·h·y (īd'ē-ōg'rə-fē, ī'dē-) n. 1. The representation of ideas by graphic symbols. 2. The use of ideograms to express ideas.

i·de·o·log·i·cal (ī'dē-ə-lōj'ī-kəl, īd'ē-) also i·de·o·log·ic (-lōj'ik) adj. 1. Of or relating to ideology. 2. Of or concerned with ideas.

i·de·o·logue (ī'dē-ə-lōg', -lōg', īd'ē-) n. An advocate of a particular ideology, especially an official exponent of that ideology. [French idéologue, back-formation from idéologie, ideology. See IDEOLOGY.]

i·de·ol·o·gy (ī'dē-ōl'ə-jē, īd'ē-) n. pl. i·de·ol·o·gies. 1. The body of ideas reflecting the social needs and aspirations of an individual, a group, a class, or a culture. 2. A set of doctrines or beliefs that form the basis of a political, economic, or other system. [French idéologie : idéo-, ideo- + -logie, -logy.]

—i'de·ol'o·gist n.

i·de·o·mo·tor (ī'dē-ə-mō'tər, īd'ē-) adj. Psychology. Of or relating to an unconscious or involuntary bodily movement made in response to a thought or an idea rather than to a sensory stimulus.

ides (īdz) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). The 15th day of March, May, July, or October or the 13th day of the other months in the ancient Roman calendar. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin Idūs.] idio- pref. 1. One's own; private; personal: idiolect. 2. Distinct; separate: idioblast. [Greek, from idios, personal, private. See s(w)e- in Appendix.]

id·i·o·blast (īd'ē-ə-blăst') n. A plant cell that differs noticeably in form from neighboring cells. —id'i·o·blas'tic adj.

id·i·o·cy (ɪd'ē-ə-sē) n. pl. id·i·o·cies. 1. Extreme folly or stupidity. 2. A foolish or stupid utterance or deed. 3. Psychology. The state or condition of being an idiot; profound mental retardation. [From IDIOT.]

id·i·o·lect (ɪd'ē-ə-lěkt') n. The speech of an individual, considered as a linguistic pattern unique among speakers of his or her language or dialect. [IDIO- + (DIA)LECT.] —id'·i·o·lec'tal, id'·i·o·lec'tic adj.

id·i·om (ɪd'ē-əm) n. 1. A speech form or an expression of a given language that is peculiar to itself grammatically or cannot be understood from the individual meanings of its elements, as in keep tabs on. 2. The specific grammatical, syntactic, and structural character of a given language. 3. Regional speech or dialect. 4. a. A specialized vocabulary used by a group of people; jargon: legal idiom. b. A style or manner of expression peculiar to a given people: “Also important is the uneasiness I've always felt at cutting myself off from my idiom, the American habits of speech and jest and reaction, all of them entirely different from the local variety” (S.J. Perelman). 5. A style of artistic expression characteristic of a particular individual, school, period, or medium: the idiom of the French impressionists; the punk rock idiom. [Late Latin idiōma, idiōmat-, from Greek, from idiousthai, to make one's own, from idios, own, personal, private. See s(w)e- in Appendix.]

id·i·o·mat·ic (ɪd'ē-ə-măt'ɪk) adj. 1. Peculiar to or characteristic of a given language. 2. Resembling or having the nature of an idiom. 3. Using many idioms. 4. Peculiar to or characteristic of the style or manner of a particular group or people. —id'·i·o·mat'·i·cal·ly adv.

id·i·o·path·ic (ɪd'ē-ə-păth'ɪk, ɪd'ē-ō-) adj. Medicine. Of, relating to, or designating a disease having no known cause. —id'·i·o·path'·i·cal·ly adv.

id·i·o·p·a·thy (ɪd'ē-ə-p'ə-thē) n. Medicine. 1. A disease of unknown origin or cause. 2. A primary disease arising spontaneously with no apparent external cause. [New Latin idiopathia, primary disease, from Greek idiopatheia : idio-, idio- + -patheia, -pathy.]

id·i·o·syn·cra·sy (ɪd'ē-ō-sɪng'krə-sē) n. pl. id·i·o·syn·cra·sies. 1. A structural or behavioral characteristic peculiar to an individual or a group. See Synonyms at eccentricity. 2. A physiological or temperamental peculiarity. 3. An unusual individual reaction to food or a drug. [Greek idiosunkrasia : idio-, idio- + sunkrasis, mixture, temperament (sun-, syn- + krasis, a mixing); see kerə- in Appendix.] —id'·i·o·syn·crat'ic (-sɪn-krăt'ɪk) adj. —id'·i·o·syn·crat'·i·cal·ly adv.

id·i·ot (ɪd'ē-ət) n. 1. A foolish or stupid person. 2. A person of profound mental retardation having a mental age below three years and generally being unable to learn connected speech or guard against common dangers. The term belongs to a classification system no longer in use and is now considered offensive. [Middle English, ignorant person, from Old French idiote, from Latin idiōta, from idiot box (ɪd'ē-ət böks) n. Slang. A television.

Greek idiōtēs, private person, layman, from idios, own, private. See s(w)e- in Appendix.]

id·i·ot·ic (ɪd'ē-ət'ɪk) adj. 1. Showing foolishness or stupidity. 2. Exhibiting idiocy. —id'·i·ot'·i·cal·ly adv.

idiot light (ɪd'ē-ət lit) n. Slang. A light on the instrument panel of a motor vehicle that gives forewarning, as of an overheated engine.

id·i·ot·proof (ɪd'ē-ət-prōf') adj. Slang. Made or designed to be used or operated with very little risk of breakage or failure: “These point-and-shoot cameras are almost idiot-proof” (Donald H. Dunn).

idiot savant (ɪd'ē-ət sə-vānt') n. pl. idiot savants. A mentally retarded person who exhibits genius in a highly specialized area, such as mathematics or music. [French : idiot, idiot + savant, learned.]

i·dle (ɪd'l) adj. i·dler, i·dlest. 1. a. Not employed or busy: idle carpenters. See Synonyms at inactive. b. Avoiding work or employment; lazy: shiftless, idle youth. See Synonyms at lazy. c. Not in use or operation: idle hands. 2. Lacking substance, value, or basis. See Synonyms at baseless. See Synonyms at vain.

— v. i·dled, i·dling, i·dles. — v. intr. 1. To pass time without working or while avoiding work. 2. To move lazily and without purpose. 3. To run at a slow speed or out of gear. Used of a motor vehicle. — v. tr. 1. To pass (time) without working or while avoiding work; waste: idle the afternoon away. 2. To make or cause to be unemployed or inactive. 3. To cause (a motor, for example) to idle. [Middle English idel, from Old English īdel.] —i'·dle·ness n. —i'·dler (ɪd'lər) n. —i'·dly adv.

idle character (ɪd'l kār'ək-tər) n. Computer Science. An alphanumeric or digital character that is transmitted over a communications line but does not appear in the output of the receiving terminal.

idle pulley also idler pulley (ɪd'l pōl'ē) n. A pulley on a shaft that rests on or presses against a drive belt to guide it or take up slack. Also called idle wheel idle wheel (ɪd'l hwēl) n. 1. A gear, wheel, or roller interposed between two similar parts to convey motion from one to the other without change in speed or direction of motion. 2. See idle pulley.

i·do·cra·se (ɪ'də-krās', -krāz', ɪd'ə-) n. See vesuvianite. [French : Greek eidos, form; see weid- in Appendix + krasis, mixture; see IDIOSYNCRASY.] i·dol (ɪd'l) n. 1. a. An image used as an object of worship. b. A false god.

2. One that is adored, often blindly or excessively. 3. Something visible but without substance. [Middle English, from Old French idole, from Late Latin īdolum, from Greek eidōlon, phantom, idol, from eidos, form. See weid- in Appendix.]

i·dol·a·ter or i·dol·a·tor (ɪ-dōl'ə-tər) n. 1. One who worships idols. 2. One who blindly or excessively admires or adores another. [Middle English idolatre, from Old French, from Latin īdōlōlatrēs, from Greek eidōlōlatrēs : eidōlon, idol; see IDOL + -latrēs, worshiper.]

i·dol·a·trous (ī-dōl'ə-trəs) adj. 1. Of or having to do with idolatry. 2. Given to blind or excessive devotion to something: "The religiosity of the [group] is self-righteous and idolatrous. It perceives no virtue in its opponents and magnifies its own" (Christopher Lasch). 3. Constituting idolatry. —i·dol'a·trous·ly adv. —i·dol'a·trous·ness n.

i·dol·a·try (ī-dōl'ə-trē) n. pl. i·dol·a·tries. 1. Worship of idols. 2. Blind or excessive devotion to something. [Middle English idolatrie, from Old French, from Latin īdōlōlatrīa, from Greek eidōlōlatrīa : eidōlon, idol; see IDOL + latreia, service.]

i·dol·ize (īd'l-īz') v. tr. i·dol·ized, i·dol·iz·ing, i·dol·iz·es. 1. To regard with blind admiration or devotion. See Synonyms at revere¹. 2. To worship as an idol. —i'dol·i·za'tion (-ī-zā'shən) n. —i'dol·iz'er n.

IDP abbr. 1. Computer Science. Integrated data processing. 2. International driving permit.

i·dyll also i·dyl (īd'l) n. 1. a. A short poem or prose piece depicting a rural or pastoral scene, usually in idealized terms. b. A narrative poem treating an epic or romantic theme. 2. A scene or an event of a simple and tranquil nature. 3. a. A carefree episode or experience: a summer idyll on the coast of France. b. A romantic interlude. [Latin īdyllium, from Greek eidullion, diminutive of eidōs, form, figure. See weid- in Appendix.] —i·dyl'li·cal·ly adv.

i·dyl·lic (ī-dīl'ik) adj. 1. Of or having the nature of an idyll. 2. Simple and carefree: an idyllic vacation in a seashore cottage.

i·dyl·list (īd'l-īst) n. A writer of idylls.

IE or I.E. abbr. 1. Industrial engineer. 2. Industrial engineering.

i.e. abbr. Latin. Id est (that is).

-ie suff. Variant of -y³.

IEEE or I.E.E.E. abbr. Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

Ie·per (yā'pər) also Y·pres (ē'prə) A city of western Belgium near the French border south of Ostend. A famous cloth-weaving center in medieval times, it was the site of three major World War I battles (1914, 1915, and 1917). Population, 21,200.

if (if) conj. 1. a. In the event that: If I were to go, I would be late. b. Granting that: If that is true, what should we do? c. On the condition that: She will play the piano only if she is paid. 2. Although possibly; even though: It is a handsome if useless trinket. 3. Whether: Ask if he plans to come to the meeting. 4. Used to introduce an exclamatory clause, indicating a wish: If they had only come earlier! — n. A possibility, condition, or stipulation: There will be no ifs, ands, or buts in this matter. [Middle English, from Old English gif. See i- in Appendix.]

USAGE NOTE: In informal writing both if and whether are standard in their use to introduce a clause indicating uncertainty after a verb such as ask, doubt, know, learn, or see: We shall soon learn whether (or if) it is true. In such contexts, however, the use of if can sometimes create ambiguities. Depending on the intended meaning, the sentence Let her know if she is invited might be better paraphrased as Let her know whether she is invited or If she is invited, let her know. • In conditional sentences the clause introduced by if may contain either a past subjunctive verb (if I were going) or an indicative verb (if I am going; if I was going), depending on the intended meaning. According to the traditional rule, the subjunctive should be used to describe an occurrence that is presupposed to be contrary to fact, as in if I were ten years younger or if Napoleon had won at Waterloo. The main verb of such a sentence must then contain the modal verb would or (less frequently) should: If America were still a British colony, we would have an anthem that human voices could sing. If I were the President, I should (or would) declare November 1 a national holiday. When the situation described by the if clause is not presupposed to be false, however, that clause must contain an indicative verb, and the choice of verb in the main clause will depend on the intended meaning: If Hamlet was really written by Marlowe, as many have argued, then we have underestimated Marlowe's genius. If Kevin was out all day, then it makes sense that he couldn't answer the phone. Note also that the presence of the modal verb would in the main clause should not be taken as a sign that the verb in the if clause must be in the subjunctive, if the content of that clause is not presupposed to be false: If I was (not were) to accept their offer—which I'm still considering—I would have to start the new job on May 2. He would always call her from the office if he was (not were) going to be late for dinner. • Again according to the traditional rule, the subjunctive is not correctly used following verbs such as ask or wonder in if clauses that express indirect questions, even if the content of the question is presumed to be contrary to fact: We wondered if dinner was (not were) included in the room price. Some of the people we met even asked us if California was (not were) an island. • With all deference to the traditional rules governing the use of the subjunctive, it should be noted that a survey of the prose of reputable writers over the past 200 years would reveal a persistent tendency to use the indicative was where the traditional rule would require the subjunctive were. A sentence beginning If I was the only boy in the world, while not strictly correct, is wholly unremarkable. But the corresponding practice of using the subjunctive in place of the indicative may be labeled a hypercorrection. • In spoken English there is a growing tendency to use would have in place of the subjunctive in contrary-to-fact clauses, as in if I would have been the President, but this usage is still widely considered incorrect. See Usage Note at doubt. See Usage Note at should. See Usage Note at wish.

IF or i.f. abbr. Intermediate frequency.

I-fe (ē'fā) A city of southwest Nigeria east of Ibadan. Center of a powerful Yoruba kingdom until the late 17th century, it is an agricultural market with varied industries. Population, 209,100.

IFF abbr. Identification, friend or foe.

if·fy (if'ē) adj. if·fi·er, if·fi·est. Informal. Doubtful; uncertain: an iffy proposition. [From IF.] —if'fi·ness n.

If·ni (ēf'nē) A former Spanish possession on the Atlantic coast of southwest Morocco. It was ceded to Spain in 1860, but overseas control was nominal until 1934. Ifni was returned to Morocco in 1969.

IFO abbr. Identified flying object.

I formation (ī' fôr-mā'shən) n. Football. An alignment of the offensive team in which all the backs line up in single file behind the center.

IFR abbr. Instrument flight rules.

-ify suffix. Variant of -fy.

Ig abbr. Immunoglobulin.

IG or I.G. abbr. Inspector general.

igg (ig) v. tr. igged, igg·ing, iggs. Northern U.S. To ignore.

REGIONAL NOTE: Igg, a shortened form of ignore, seems to have come into American speech from jive, the special jargon of Black jazz musicians in the 1930's. Its use has spread from the musicians' exclusive jargon into the Black communities of Northern U.S. cities. The reduction of a word to its initial syllable is a common source of slang or informal words, especially among groups of speakers who for reasons of exclusivity like to remain avant garde in their speech. Often such words come into general use, as in mike for microphone.

Ig·bo (ig'bō) n. Variant of Ibo.

ig·loo (ig'lōō) n. pl. ig·loos. 1. An Eskimo dwelling, especially a dome-shaped winter dwelling built of blocks of packed snow. 2. A dome-shaped structure or building. [Canadian Eskimo iglu, house.]

ign. abbr. Ignition.

Ig·na·tius (ig-nā'shəs), Saint. Died c. A.D. 110. Bishop of Antioch noted especially for his epistles. He was martyred during the reign of the Roman emperor Trajan.

Ignatius of Loy·o·la (ig-nā'shəs ūv loi-ō'lə), Saint. 1491-1556. Spanish ecclesiastic who founded the Jesuits and was a leader of the Counter Reformation.

ig·ne·ous (ig'nē-əs) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of fire. 2. Geology. a. Formed by solidification from a molten state. Used of rocks. b. Of or relating to rock so formed; pyrogenic. [From Latin igneus, from ignis, fire.]

ig·nes fat·u·i (ig'nēz fäch'ōō-ī') n. Plural of ignis fatuus.

ig-nim-brite (ig'nīm-brīt') n. A volcanic rock formed by the welding together of tuff material from an explosive volcanic eruption. [Latin ignis, fire + imber, imbr-, rain + -ITE¹.]

ig-nis fat-u-us (ig'nīs fäch'ōō-əs) n. pl. ig-nes fat-u-i (ig'nēz fäch'ōō-ī').

1. A phosphorescent light that hovers or flits over swampy ground at night, possibly caused by spontaneous combustion of gases emitted by rotting organic matter. Also called friar's lantern, will-o'-the-wisp, wisp. 2. Something that misleads or deludes; an illusion. [Medieval Latin : Latin ignis, fire + Latin fatuus, foolish.]

ig-nite (ig-nīt') v. ig-nit-ed, ig-nit-ing, ig-nites. — v. tr. 1. a. To cause to burn. b. To set fire to. 2. To subject to great heat, especially to make luminous by heat. 3. To arouse the passions of; excite: The insults ignited my anger. — v. intr. 1. To begin to burn. 2. To begin to glow. [Late Latin ignire, ignīt-, from Latin ignis, fire.] — ig-nit'a-ble, ig-nit'i-ble adj. — ig-nit'er, ig-ni'tor n.

ig-ni-tion (ig-nīsh'ən) n. 1. The raising of a substance to its ignition point, as by electric current, friction, or mechanical shock. 2. Abbr. ign. a. An electrical system, typically powered by a battery or magneto, that provides the spark to ignite the fuel mixture in an internal-combustion engine. b. A switch that activates this system.

ignition point (ig-nīsh'ən point) n. The minimum temperature at which a substance will continue to burn without additional application of external heat. Also called kindling point ig-ni-tron (ig-nī'trōn', ig'nī-) n. A single-anode, mercury-vapor rectifier in which current passes as an arc between the anode and a mercury-pool cathode, used in power rectification. [IGNI(TE) + -TRON.]

ig-no-ble (ig-nō'bəl) adj. 1. Not noble in quality, character, or purpose; base or mean. See Synonyms at mean². 2. Not of the nobility; common. [Middle English, of low birth, from Old French, from Latin ignobilis : i-, in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + nobilis, gnobilis, noble; see NOBLE.] — ig'no-bil'i-ty (-bīl'ī-tē), ig-no'ble-ness n. — ig-no'bly adv.

ig-no-min-i-ous (ig'nə-mīn'ē-əs) adj. 1. Marked by shame or disgrace: "It was an ignominious end.... as a desperate mutiny by a handful of soldiers blossomed into full-scale revolt" (Angus Deming). 2. Deserving disgrace or shame; despicable. 3. Degrading; debasing: "The young people huddled with their sodden gritty towels and ignominious goosebumps inside the gray-shingled bathhouse" (John Updike). — ig'no-min'i-ous-ly adv. — ig'no-min'i-ous-ness n.

ig-no-min-y (ig'nə-mīn'ē, -mā-nē) n. pl. ig-no-min-ies. 1. Great personal dishonor or humiliation. See Synonyms at disgrace. 2. Shameful or disgraceful action, conduct, or character. [French ignominie, from Old French, from Latin ignōminia : i-, in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + nōmen, nōmin-, name, reputation; see nō-men- in Appendix.]

ig·no·ra·mus (ig'nə-rā'məs) n. pl. ig·no·ra·mus·es. An ignorant person. [New Latin ignōrāmus, a grand jury's endorsement upon a bill of indictment when evidence is deemed insufficient to send the case to a trial jury, from Latin, we do not know, first person pl. present tense of ignōrāre, to be ignorant. See IGNORE.]

ig·no·rance (ig'nər-əns) n. The condition of being uneducated, unaware, or uninformed.

ig·no·rant (ig'nər-ənt) adj. 1. Lacking education or knowledge. 2. Showing or arising from a lack of education or knowledge: an ignorant mistake. 3. Unaware or uninformed. [Middle English ignoraunt, from Old French ignorant, from Latin ignōrāns, ignōrant- present participle of ignōrāre, to be ignorant, not to know. See gnō- in Appendix.] —ig·no·rant·ly adv.

SYNONYMS: ignorant, uneducated, untaught, unlearned, untutored, unlettered, illiterate. These adjectives mean lacking in knowledge or education. Ignorant can refer to a person's low level of knowledge in general or to the person's lack of information about or awareness of a specific fact or subject: was ignorant of the hidden dangers. Uneducated, untaught, unlearned, and untutored imply lack of schooling: uneducated youngsters; untaught people whose verbal skills are grossly deficient; an unlearned group incapable of understanding complex issues; an untutored genius. Unlettered describes one deficient in book learning: exhibited contempt for his unlettered colleagues. Illiterate most often refers to the inability to meet an established minimum level of achievement in reading and writing: developed special tutorials to assist the illiterate sector of society.

ig·nore (ig-nôr', -nōr') v. tr. ig·nored, ig·nor·ing, ig·nores. To refuse to pay attention to; disregard. See Regional note at igg. [French ignorer, from Old French, from Latin ignōrāre. See gnō- in Appendix.] —ig·nor'a·ble adj.
—ig·nor'er n.

I·go·rot (ig'ə-rōt', ē'gə-) n. pl. Igorot or I·go·rots. 1. A member of any of several peoples of the mountains of northern Luzon in the Philippines. 2. Any of the Austronesian languages of the Igorot.

I·gua·çú also I·guas·sú (ē'gwə-sō') A river, about 1,199 km (745 mi) long, of southern Brazil flowing west to the Paraná River at the Argentina-Paraguay-Brazil border. Just above the border it forms Iguaçú Falls, consisting of a series of cataracts averaging 61 m (200 ft) high and separated by rocky crags and islands.

ig·ua·na (i-gwä'nə) n. Any of various large tropical American lizards of the family Iguanidae, often having spiny projections along the back. [Spanish, from Arawak iwana.]

i·guan·o·don (ĩ-gwä'nə-dõn') n. Any of various large dinosaurs of the genus Iguanodon, of the Jurassic Period and Cretaceous Period. [New Latin Iguanodon, genus name : IGUANA + -ODON.]

I·guas·sú (ē'gwə-sōō') See Iguaçú.

IGY abbr. International Geophysical Year.

ihp or i.hp. abbr. Indicated horsepower.

ih·ram (ē-rām') n. Islam. 1. The sacred dress of Muslim pilgrims, consisting of two lengths of white cotton, one wrapped around the loins, the other thrown over the left shoulder. 2. The sacred state of Muslim pilgrims in wearing this dress, during which time they practice great self-denial. [Arabic 'iḥrām, prohibition, iḥram, from 'aḥrama, to consecrate.]

IHS abbr. Jesus (Greek ΙΗΣΟΥΣ with S for sigma).

Ij·mui·den (ī-mī'dən) A city of west-central Netherlands on the North Sea at the entrance to the North Sea Canal west of Amsterdam. It is a seaport and fishing center. Population, 58,287.

Ijs·sel or IJs·sel (ī'səl) A river, about 113 km (70 mi) long, of eastern Netherlands flowing from the Lower Rhine River northward to the IJsselmeer.

Ijs·sel·meer or IJs·sel·meer (ī'səl-mâr', -mâr') A shallow, dike-enclosed lake of northwest Netherlands. It was formed from the Zuider Zee by the construction of two dams (completed in 1932). Much fertile farmland has been reclaimed from the lake since that time.

I·ka·ri·a (ē'kā-rē'ä) also I·car·i·a (ĩ-kâr'ē-ə, ī-kâr'-) An island of southeast Greece in the Aegean Sea west of Samos. According to Greek legend, Icarus plummeted into the sea near the island.

i·ke·ba·na (ē'kě-bä'nä, ik'ə-) n. The Japanese art of formal flower arrangement with special regard shown to balance, harmony, and form. [Japanese : ikeru, to arrange + hana, flower.]

Ikh·na·ton (ik-nät'n) See Akhenaton.

i·kon (ī'kõn') n. Variant of icon.

IL abbr. Illinois.

il-¹ pref. Variant of in-¹.

il-² pref. Variant of in-².

IL-1 abbr. Interleukin-1.

IL-2 abbr. Interleukin-2.

ILA abbr. International Longshoremen's Association.

i·lang·i·lang (ē'läng-ē'läng) n. Variant of ylang-ylang.

-ile¹ suff. Of, relating to, or capable of: audile. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin -ilis, -ilis.]

-ile² suff. A division of a specified size in the range of a statistic: percentile. [Probably from -ile¹.]

il·e·a (il'ē-ə) n. Plural of ileum.

il·e·ac¹ (ɪl'ē-āk') adj. Of, relating to, or having the nature of ileus.

il·e·ac² (ɪl'ē-āk') adj. Of, relating to, or involving the ileum.

Île-de-France (ēl'də-frāns') A historical region and former province of north-central France in the Paris basin. The name came into use in the 14th century, but the region was known much earlier. In 987 with the choice of Hugh Capet, Count of Paris, as the French king, the Île-de-France became the nucleus of the crown lands.

il·e·i·tis (ɪl'ē-ī'tis) n. Inflammation of the ileum. [ILE(UM) + -ITIS.]

il·e·os·to·my (ɪl'ē-ōs'tə-mē) n. pl. il·e·os·to·mies. 1. Surgical construction of an artificial excretory opening through the abdominal wall into the ileum. 2. The opening created by such a surgical procedure. [ILE(UM) + -STOMY.]

I·le·sha (i-lěsh'ə) A city of southwest Nigeria east-northeast of Ibadan. Formerly a caravan trade center, it is now an agricultural market. Population, 266,700.

il·e·um (ɪl'ē-əm) n. pl. il·e·a (-ē-ə). The terminal portion of the small intestine extending from the jejunum to the cecum. [Late Latin īleum, groin, flank, variant of Latin īlia.] —il'·e·al adj.

il·e·us (ɪl'ē-əs) n. Intestinal obstruction causing colic, vomiting, and constipation. [Latin īleos, from Greek eileos, from eilein, to squeeze, hold in check. See wel² in Appendix.]

i·lex (i'lěks') n. Any of various trees or shrubs of the genus Ilex; holly. [Middle English, holm oak, from Latin īlex.]

ILGWU or I.L.G.W.U. abbr. International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

I·li (ē'lī') A river, about 1,287 km (800 mi) in total length, of northwest China and southeast Kazakhstan flowing west and northwest into Lake Balkhash.

il·i·a (ɪl'ē-ə) n. Plural of ilium.

il·i·ac (ɪl'ē-āk') adj. Of, relating to, or situated near the ilium.

Il·i·am·na Lake (ɪl'ē-ām'nə lāk) A lake of southwest Alaska at the base of the Alaska Peninsula. Noted for sport fishing, it is the largest lake in the state. Nearby is Iliamna Peak, a volcano rising to 3,054.9 m (10,016 ft).

Il·i·on (ɪl'ē-ən, -ōn') See Troy (sense 1).

il·i·um (ɪl'ē-əm) n. pl. il·i·a (-ē-ə). The uppermost and widest of the three bones constituting either of the lateral halves of the pelvis. [Late Latin īlium, groin, flank, variant of Latin īlia.] —il'·i·ac' (-āk') adj.

Il·i·um (ɪl'ē-əm) See Troy (sense 1).

ilk¹ (ɪlk) n. Type or kind: can't trust people of that ilk. See Synonyms at type. — pron. Scots. The same. Used following a name to indicate that the one named resides in an area bearing the same name: Duncan of that ilk. [Middle English, same, from Old English ilca. See i- in Appendix.]

WORD HISTORY: When one uses ilk, as in the phrase men of his ilk, one is using a word with an ancient pedigree even though the sense of ilk, “kind or sort,” is actually quite recent, having been recorded no earlier than the end of the 18th century. This sense grew out of an older use of ilk in the phrase of that ilk, meaning “of the same place, territorial designation, or name.” This phrase was used chiefly in names of landed families, Guthrie of that ilk meaning “Guthrie of Guthrie.” “Same” is the fundamental meaning of the word. The ancestors of ilk, Old English ilca and Middle English ilke, were common words, usually appearing with such words as the or that, but the word hardly survived the Middle Ages in those uses.

ilk² (ɪlk) adj. Variant of ilka.

il·ka (ɪl'kə) also ilk (ɪlk) adj. Scots. Each; every. [Middle English ilk a, each one : ilk (variant of ech, each); see EACH + a, one, a; see A².]

ill (ɪl) adj. worse (wûrs), worst (wûrst). 1. Not healthy; sick: I began to feel ill last week. 2. Not normal; unsound: an ill condition of body and mind.

3. Resulting in suffering; distressing: ill effects. 4. a. Having evil intentions; hostile or unfriendly: You certainly did me an ill turn. b. Ascribing an objectionable quality: holds an ill view of that political group. c. Harmful; cruel. 5. Not favorable; unpropitious: ill predictions. 6. Not measuring up to recognized standards of excellence, as of behavior or conduct. — adv. worse, worst. 1. In a sickly or unsound manner; not well. 2. Scarcely or with difficulty. — n. 1. Evil; sin. 2. Disaster, distress, or harm. 3. Something that causes suffering; trouble: the social ills of urban life. 4. Something that reflects in an unfavorable way on one: Please don't speak ill of me when I'm gone. [Middle English, from Old Norse illr, bad.]

ill. abbr. 1. Illustrated. 2. Illustration. 3. Illustrator.

Ill. abbr. Illinois.

I'll (ɪl) 1. I will. 2. I shall.

ill-ad·vised (ɪl'əd·vīzd') adj. Performed, carried out, or done without the benefit of wise counsel or careful prior deliberation. — ill'-ad·vis'ed·ly (-vī'zīd-lē) adv.

Il·lam·pu (ē-yām'pōo) A peak, 6,366.3 m (20,873 ft) high, in the Andes of western Bolivia northwest of La Paz.

ill at ease (ɪl ət ēz) adj. Nervously uncomfortable.

il·la·tion (ɪ-lā'shən) n. 1. The act of inferring or drawing conclusions. 2. A conclusion drawn; a deduction. In this sense, also called illative [Late Latin illātiō, illātiōn-, from Latin illātus, past participle of īnferre, to carry in, infer : in-, in + lātus, brought; see telə- in Appendix.]

il·la·tive (ɪl'ə-tīv, ɪ-lā'-) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or of the nature of an illation. 2. Expressing or preceding an inference. Used of a word. 3. Linguistics. Of, relating to, or being a grammatical case indicating motion toward or into in some languages, as in Finnish Helsinkiin, “to Helsinki.” — n. 1. A word or phrase, such as hence or for that reason, that expresses an inference. 2. See illation (n., sense 2). —il'la-tive-ly adv.

ill-be-ing (il'bē'ing) n. Lack of prosperity, happiness, or health.

ill-bod-ing (il'bō'ding) adj. Portending evil; inauspicious.

ill-bred (il'brēd') adj. 1. Badly brought up; impolite and crude. 2. Not thoroughbred; underbred. Used of animals.

ill-con-ceived (il'kən-sēvd') adj. Poorly conceived or planned: an ill-conceived scheme to take over the company.

ill-con-sid-ered (il'kən-sīd'ərd) adj. Unwise; foolish: ill-considered actions sure to result in disaster.

ill-de-fined (il'dī-fīnd') adj. Not defined clearly or distinctly: an ill-defined concept; an ill-defined view across the foggy moor.

ill-dis-guised (il'dīs-gīzd') adj. Poorly hidden or concealed: ill-disguised animosity.

ill-dressed (il'drēst') adj. Clothed in a shabby or inappropriate manner.

il-le-gal (ī-lē'gəl) adj. 1. Prohibited by law. 2. Prohibited by official rules: an illegal pass in football. 3. Computer Science. Unacceptable to or not performable by a computer: an illegal operation. — n. An illegal immigrant. —il-le'gal-ly adv.

il-le-gal-i-ty (il'ē-gäl'ī-tē) n. pl. il-le-gal-i-ties. 1. The quality or state of being illegal. 2. An illegal act.

il-leg-i-ble (ī-lēj'ə-bəl) adj. Not legible or decipherable. —il-leg'i-bil'i-ty, il-leg'i-ble-ness n. —il-leg'i-bly adv.

il-le-git-i-ma-cy (il'ī-jīt'ə-mə-sē) n. 1. The quality or condition of being illegitimate. 2. Bastardy.

il-le-git-i-mate (il'ī-jīt'ə-mīt) adj. 1. Against the law; illegal. 2. Born out of wedlock. 3. Grammar. Not in correct usage. 4. Incorrectly deduced; illogical. 5. Biology. Unacceptable as a scientific name because of contradiction to the international rules of nomenclature. —il'le-git'i-mate-ly adv.

ill-fat-ed (il'fā'tīd) adj. 1. Destined for misfortune; doomed. 2. Marked by or causing misfortune; unlucky. See Synonyms at unfortunate.

ill-fa-vored (il'fā'vərd) adj. 1. Having an ugly or unattractive face. See Synonyms at ugly. 2. Objectionable; offensive.

ill feeling (il'fē'ling) n. A feeling of animosity or rancor.

ill-fit-ting (il'fit'ing) adj. 1. Not fitting well or correctly: ill-fitting trousers. 2. Unsuitable or inappropriate: ill-fitting levity.

ill-found-ed (il'foun'dīd) adj. Having no factual basis.

ill-got-ten (il'gōt'n) adj. Obtained in an evil manner or by dishonest means: ill-gotten gains.

ill health (il'hēlth) n. Poor health; sickness.

ill-housed (il'houzd') adj. Having inadequate, improper, or bad housing.

ill humor (il hyōō'mər) n. An irritable state of mind; surliness.

ill-hu-mored (il'hyōō'mərd) adj. Irritable; surly. —ill'-hu'mored-ly adv.

il-lib-er-al (i-līb'er-əl) adj. 1. Narrow-minded; bigoted. 2. Archaic. Ungenerous, mean, or stingy. 3. Archaic. a. Lacking liberal culture. b. Ill-bred; vulgar. [Latin illiberālis: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + liberālis, liberal; see LIBERAL.]

—il-lib'er-al-ism n. —il-lib'er-al'i-ty (-ə-rāl'i-tē), il-lib'er-al-ness n.

—il-lib'er-al-ly adv.

il-lic-it (i-lis'it) adj. Not sanctioned by custom or law; unlawful. [Latin illicitus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + licitus, lawful; see LICIT.] —il-lic'it-ly adv. —il-lic'it-ness n.

Il-li-ma-ni (ē'yē-mä'nē) A mountain, 6,461.1 m (21,184 ft) high, in the Andes of western Bolivia east of La Paz. It was first scaled in 1898.

il-lim-it-a-ble (i-līm'i-tə-bəl) adj. Impossible to limit or circumscribe; limitless.

See Synonyms at infinite. —il-lim'it-a-bil'i-ty, il-lim'it-a-ble-ness n.

—il-lim'it-a-bly adv.

Il-li-noi-an (il'ə-noi'ən) adj. Of or relating to the third glacial stage of the Pleistocene in North America. [After Illinois².]

Il-li-nois¹ (il'ə-noi', -noiz') n. pl. Illinois. 1. a. A confederacy of Native American peoples formerly inhabiting southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois, and parts of eastern Iowa and Missouri, with present-day descendants mostly in Oklahoma. b. A member of this confederacy. 2. The Algonquian language of the Illinois.

[French, of Algonquian origin.]

Il-li-nois² (il'ə-noi', -noiz') Abbr. IL, Ill. A state of the north-central United States. It was admitted as the 21st state in 1818. The area was explored by the French in the late 1600's, ceded by France to the British in 1763, and ceded by them to the newly formed United States in 1783. Springfield is the capital and Chicago the largest city. Population, 11,466,682. —Il'li-nois'an (-noi'ən, -zən) adj. & n.

Illinois River (il'ə-noi' rīv'ər) A river rising in northeast Illinois and flowing about 439 km (273 mi) generally southwest to the Mississippi River in west-central Illinois.

Illinois Waterway (il'ə-noi' wô'tər-wā') A system of rivers and canals of northern and western Illinois, linking Chicago and Lake Michigan with the Mississippi River. It includes the Chicago, Des Plaines, and Illinois rivers.

il-liq-uid (i-līk'wid) adj. 1. Not readily converted into cash: illiquid assets.

2. Lacking cash or liquid assets. —il'li-uid'i-ty n.

il-lit-er-a-cy (i-līt'ər-ə-sē) n. pl. il-lit-er-a-cies. 1. The condition of being unable to read and write. 2. An error, as in writing or speech, made by or thought to be characteristic of one who is illiterate. See Usage Note at literate.

il-lit-er-ate (i-līt'ər-īt) adj. 1. a. Unable to read and write. See Synonyms at ignorant. b. Having little or no formal education. 2. a. Marked by inferiority to an expected standard of familiarity with language and literature. b. Violating prescribed standards of speech or writing. 3. Ignorant of the fundamentals of a given art or branch of knowledge: musically illiterate. See Usage Note at literate. [Middle English, from Latin illiterātus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + līterātus, literate; see LITERATE.] —il·lit'er·ate n. —il·lit'er·ate·ly adv. —il·lit'er·ate·ness n.

ill-man·nered (il'män'nərd) adj. Lacking or indicating a lack of good manners; rude. —ill'·man'nered·ly adv.

ill nature (il nā'chər) n. A disagreeable, irritable, or malevolent disposition.

ill-na·tured (il'nā'chərd) adj. 1. Having a disagreeable, irritable, or malevolent disposition. 2. Spiteful; nasty: an ill-natured retort. —ill'·na'tured·ly adv. —ill'·na'tured·ness n.

ill·ness (il'nīs) n. 1. a. Disease of body or mind; poor health; sickness. b. A disease. 2. Obsolete. Evil; wickedness.

ill-nour·ished (il'nūr'isht, -nūr'-) adj. Inadequately or poorly nourished; malnourished.

ill-off (il'ōf', -ōf') n. (used with a pl. verb). Poor or needy people: “If the ill-off and well-to-do lived cheek by jowl, the well-to-do might do better by their brothers” (William H. Gass).

il·log·ic (i-lōj'ik) n. A lack of logic.

il·log·i·cal (i-lōj'i-kəl) adj. 1. Contradicting or disregarding the principles of logic. 2. Without logic; senseless. —il·log'i·cal'i·ty (-kəl'i-tē), il·log'i·cal·ness n. —il·log'i·cal·ly adv.

ill-o·mened (il'ō'mənd) adj. Marked by bad omens; inauspicious.

ill-shap·en (il'shā'pən) adj. Unattractive, deformed, or distorted in shape; misshapen.

ill-sort·ed (il'sôr'tid) adj. Badly matched.

ill-starred (il'stərd') adj. Ill-fated; unlucky. See Synonyms at unfortunate.

ill-tem·pered (il'tēm'pərd) adj. Having a bad temper; irritable. —ill'·tem'pered·ly adv.

ill-timed (il'timd') adj. Done or occurring at an inappropriate time; untimely.

ill-treat (il'trēt') v. tr. ill-treat·ed, ill-treat·ing, ill-treats. To treat unkindly or harshly; maltreat. See Synonyms at abuse. —ill'·treat'ment n.

il·lume (i-lōōm') v. tr. il·lumed, il·lum·ing, il·lumes. To illuminate. [Short for ILLUMINE.]

il·lu·mi·nance (i-lōō'mə-nəns) n. Physics. See illumination (n., sense 7).

il·lu·mi·nant (i-lōō'mə-nənt) n. Something that gives off light. [Latin illūmināns, illūminant- present participle of illūmināre, to illuminate. See ILLUMINATE.]

il·lu·mi·nate (i-lōō'mə-nāt') v. il·lu·mi·nat·ed, il·lu·mi·nat·ing, il·lu·mi·nates. — v. tr. 1. To provide or brighten with light. 2. To decorate or hang with lights. 3. To make understandable; clarify: “Cleverly made attacks can often serve to illuminate important differences between candidates, as well as enter- tain the voters” (New Republic). 4. To enlighten intellectually or spiritually; enable to understand. 5. To endow with fame or splendor; celebrate. 6. To adorn (a page of a book, for example) with ornamental designs, miniatures, or lettering in brilliant colors or precious metals. 7. To expose to or reveal by radiation. — v. intr. 1. To become lighted; glow. 2. To provide intellectual or spiritual enlightenment and understanding: “Once you decide to titillate instead of illuminate, you’re on a slippery slope” (Bill Moyers). 3. To be exposed to or revealed by radiation. — n. (-nīt) One who has or professes to have an unusual degree of enlightenment. [Middle English illuminaten, from Latin illumināre, illūmināt-: in-, in; see IN-² + lūmināre, to light up (from lūmen, lūmin-, light); see leuk- in Appendix.] — il·lu’mi·nat’ing·ly adv.

il·lu·mi·na·ti (ĭ-lōō’mə-nā’tē) pl.n. 1. People claiming to be unusually enlightened with regard to a subject. 2. Illuminati. Any of various groups claiming special religious enlightenment. [Latin, pl. of illūminātus past participle of illūmināre, to illuminate. See ILLUMINATE.]

il·lu·mi·na·tion (ĭ-lōō’mə-nā’shən) n. 1. a. The act of illuminating. b. The state of being illuminated. 2. A source of light. 3. Decorative lighting. 4. Spiritual or intellectual enlightenment. 5. Clarification; elucidation. 6. a. The art or act of decorating a text, a page, or an initial letter with ornamental designs, miniatures, or lettering. b. An example of this art. 7. Physics. The luminous flux per unit area at any point on a surface exposed to incident light. In this sense, also called illuminance il·lu·mi·na·tive (ĭ-lōō’mə-nā’tiv) adj. Of, causing, or capable of causing illumination.

il·lu·mi·na·tor (ĭ-lōō’mə-nā’tər) n. 1. One that illuminates, especially a device for producing, concentrating, or reflecting light. 2. One who illuminates manuscripts or other objects.

il·lu·mine (ĭ-lōō’mĭn) v. tr. il·lu·min·ed, il·lu·min·ing, il·lu·min·es. To give light to; illuminate. [Middle English illuminen, from Old French illuminer, from Latin illūmināre, to illuminate. See ILLUMINATE.] — il·lu’min·a·ble adj.

il·lu·mi·nism (ĭ-lōō’mə-nĭz’əm) n. 1. Belief in or proclamation of a special personal enlightenment. 2. Illuminism. The ideas and principles of various groups of Illuminati. [French illuminisme, from illuminé, an illuminist, from past participle of illuminer, to illuminate, from Old French. See ILLUMINE.] — il·lu’mi·nist n.

illus. abbr. 1. Illustrated. 2. Illustration. 3. Illustrator.

ill·us·age (ĭl’yōō’sĭj, -zĭj) n. Bad treatment; ill-use.

ill·use (ĭl’yōōz’) v. tr. ill·used, ill·us·ing, ill·us·es. To maltreat. — n. (ĭl’yōōs’) Unjust or poor treatment; ill-usage.

il·lu·sion (ĭ-lōō’zhən) n. 1. a. An erroneous perception of reality. b. An erroneous concept or belief. 2. The condition of being deceived by a false perception or belief. 3. Something, such as a fantastic plan or desire, that causes an erroneous belief or perception. 4. Illusionism in art. 5. A fine transparent cloth, used for dresses or trimmings. [Middle English, from Old French, from Late Latin illūsiō, illūsiōn-, from Latin, a mocking, irony, from illūsus, past participle of illūdere, to mock : in-, against; see IN⁻² + lūdere, to play; see leid- in Appendix.] —il·lu'sion·al, il·lu'sion·ar'y (-zhə-nēr'ē) adj. —il·lu'sion·less adj.

il·lu·sion·ism (i-lōō'zhə-nīz'əm) n. 1. Philosophy. The doctrine that the material world is an immaterial product of the senses. 2. The use of illusionary techniques and devices in art or decoration. —il·lu'sion·is'tic adj. —il·lu'sion·is'ti·cal·ly adv.

il·lu·sion·ist (i-lōō'zhə-nīst) n. 1. Philosophy. An adherent of the doctrine of illusionism. 2. An artist whose work is marked by illusionism. 3. A magician or ventriloquist.

il·lu·sive (i-lōō'siv) adj. Illusory. —il·lu'sive·ly adv. —il·lu'sive·ness n.

il·lu·so·ry (i-lōō'sə-rē, -zə-rē) adj. Produced by, based on, or having the nature of an illusion; deceptive: “Secret activities offer presidents the alluring but often illusory promise that they can achieve foreign policy goals without the bothersome debate and open decision that are staples of democracy” (Tom Wicker).

il·lus·trate (il'ə-strāt', i-lūs'trāt') v. il·lus·trat·ed, il·lus·trat·ing, il·lus·trates. — v. tr. 1. a. To clarify, as by use of examples or comparisons.

b. To clarify by serving as an example or comparison. 2. To provide (a publication) with explanatory or decorative features. 3. Obsolete. To illuminate. — v. intr. To present a clarification, an example, or an explanation. [Latin illūstrāre, illūstrāt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + lūstrāre, to make bright; see leuk- in Appendix.]

—il'lus·trat'a·ble adj. —il'lus·tra'tor n.

il·lus·tra·tion (il'ə-strā'shən) n. Abbr. ill., illus. 1. a. The act of clarifying or explaining. b. The state of being clarified or explained. 2. Material used to clarify or explain. See Synonyms at example. 3. Visual matter used to clarify or decorate a text. 4. Obsolete. Illumination. —il'lus·tra'tion·al adj.

il·lus·tra·tive (i-lūs'trə-tiv, il'ə-strā'tiv) adj. Acting or serving as an illustration. —il'lus'tra·tive·ly adv.

il·lus·tri·ous (i-lūs'trē-əs) adj. 1. Well known and very distinguished; eminent. See Synonyms at noted. 2. Obsolete. Shining brightly. [From Latin illūstris, from illūstrāre, to give glory to, shine upon. See ILLUSTRATE.] —il·lus'tri·ous·ly adv. —il·lus'tri·ous·ness n.

il·lu·vi·ate (i-lōō'vē-āt') v. intr. il·lu·vi·at·ed, il·lu·vi·at·ing, il·lu·vi·ates. To undergo illuviation. [Back-formation from ILLUVIATION.]

il·lu·vi·a·tion (i-lōō'vē-ā'shən) n. The deposition in an underlying soil layer of colloids, soluble salts, and mineral particles leached out of an overlying soil layer. [illuvial, resulting from illuviation (IN⁻² + -luvial, relating to the action of flowing water as in ALLUVIAL) + -ATION.]

ill will (ĩl wĩl) n. Unfriendly feeling; enmity.

ill-wish·er (ĩl'wĩsh'ər) n. One who wishes no good fortune for another or others.

il·ly (ĩl'lē) adv. Badly; ill: “Beauty is jealous, and illy bears the presence of a rival” (Thomas Jefferson).

Il·lyr·i·a (ĩ-lĩr'ē-ə) also Il·lyr·i·cum (-ĩ-kəm) An ancient region of the Balkan Peninsula on the Adriatic coast. Occupied in prehistoric times by an Indo-European-speaking people, the area became the Roman province of Illyricum after the final conquest of the Illyrians in 35-33 B.C. The name was revived by Napoleon for the provinces of Illyria (1809-1815) and retained for the kingdom of Illyria, a division of Austria from 1816 to 1849.

Il·lyr·i·an (ĩ-lĩr'ē-ən) adj. Of or relating to ancient Illyria or its peoples, languages, or cultures. — n. 1. A member of one of the ancient peoples that inhabited Illyria. 2. Any of the Indo-European languages of these peoples.

Il·lyr·i·cum (ĩ-lĩr'ĩ-kəm) See Illyria.

il·men·ite (ĩl'mə-nĩt') n. A lustrous black to brownish titanium ore, essentially FeTiO₃. [After the Ilmen Mountains, a range of the southern Ural Mountains.]

ILO abbr. International Labor Organization.

I·lo·ca·no also I·lo·ka·no (ē'lō-kä'nō) n. pl. Ilocano or I·lo·ca·nos also Ilo·kano or I·lo·ka·nos. 1. A member of an agricultural people of northern Luzon in the Philippines. 2. The Austronesian language of the Ilocano. — adj. Of or relating to the Ilocano or their language or culture. [Spanish Ilócano, from Iloko, Austronesian people of the Philippines.]

I·lo·i·lo (ē'lō-ē'lō) A city of southeast Panay, Philippines, on Iloilo Strait, an inlet of the Sulu Sea. Iloilo is a major port noted for its delicate, handwoven fabrics. Population, 244,827.

I·lo·ka·no (ē'lō-kä'nō) n. Variant of Ilocano.

I·lo·rin (ē'lə-rēn', ĩ-lĩr'ən) A city of southwest Nigeria north-northeast of Lagos. Capital of a Yoruba kingdom c. 1800-1825, it is now an industrial center and agricultural market. Population, 355,400.

ILS abbr. Instrument landing system.

im⁻¹ pref. Variant of in⁻¹.

im⁻² pref. Variant of in⁻².

I'm (ĩm) I am.

im·age (ĩm'ij) n. 1. A reproduction of the form of a person or an object, especially a sculptured likeness. 2. Physics. An optically formed duplicate, counterpart, or other representative reproduction of an object, especially an optical reproduction of an object formed by a lens or mirror. 3. One that closely or exactly resembles another; a double: He is the image of his uncle. 4. a. The opinion or concept of something that is held by the public. b. The character projected to the public, as by a person or an institution, especially as interpreted by the mass media. 5. A personification of something specified: That child is the image of good health. 6. A mental picture of something not real or present. 7. a. A vivid description or representation. b. A figure of speech, especially a metaphor or simile. c. A concrete representation, as in art, literature, or music, that is expressive or evocative of something else: night as an image of death. 8. Mathematics. A set of values of a function corresponding to a particular subset of a domain.

9. Computer Science. An exact copy of data in a file transferred to another medium. 10. Obsolete. An apparition. — v. tr. im-aged, im-ag-ing, im-ag-es. 1. To make or produce a likeness of. 2. To mirror or reflect. 3. To symbolize or typify. 4. To picture (something) mentally; imagine. 5. To describe, especially so vividly as to evoke a mental picture of. 6. Computer Science. To translate (photographs or other pictures) by computer into numbers that can be transmitted to a remote location and then reconverted into pictures by another computer. 7. To visualize (something), as by magnetic resonance imaging. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin imāgō.] — im'age-less adj.

image intensifier (im'ij ĭn-tĕn'sə-fī'ər) n. A type of image tube that is capable of increasing the brightness of an image up to 10,000 times.

im-age-mak-er (im'ij-mā'kər) n. Informal. One who uses skillful techniques in publicity and advertising, especially by way of the mass media, to create a favorable public view, as of a person or an institution. — im'age-mak'ing n.

image orthicon (im'ij ōr'thī-kŏn') n. See orthicon.

im-age-ry (im'ij-rē) n. pl. im-age-ries. 1. A set of mental pictures or images.

2. a. The use of vivid or figurative language to represent objects, actions, or ideas. b. The use of expressive or evocative images in art, literature, or music.

c. A group or body of related images, as in a painting or poem.

3. a. Representative images, particularly statues or icons. b. The art of making such images.

image tube (im'ij tōb) n. An electronic device that uses a photoelectric surface to release electrons and ultimately produce an image.

i-mag-i-na-ble (i-măj'ə-nə-bəl) adj. Conceivable in the imagination: imaginable exploits. — i-mag'i-na-bil/i-ty n. — i-mag/i-na-bly adv.

i-ma-gi-nal (i-mā'gə-nəl, ĭ-mă'-) adj. Of, relating to, or having the form of an insect imago.

i-mag-i-nar-y (i-măj'ə-nĕr'ē) adj. 1. Having existence only in the imagination; unreal. 2. Mathematics. a. Of, relating to, or being the coefficient of the imaginary unit in a complex number. b. Of, relating to, involving, or being an imaginary number. c. Involving only a complex number of which the real part is zero.

— n. pl. i-mag-i-nar-ies. Mathematics. An imaginary number.

— i-mag'i-nar/i-ly adv. — i-mag'i-nar/i-ness n.

imaginary number (i-măj'ə-nēr'ē nŭm'bər) n. Mathematics. A complex number in which the real part is zero and the coefficient of the imaginary unit is not zero.

imaginary unit (i-măj'ə-nēr'ē yōō'nīt) n. Abbr. i Mathematics. The positive square root of -1 .

i·mag·i·na·tion (i-măj'ə-nā'shən) n. 1. a. The formation of a mental image of something that is neither perceived as real nor present to the senses. b. The mental image so formed. c. The ability or tendency to form such images. 2. The ability to confront and deal with reality by using the creative power of the mind; resourcefulness: handled the problems with great imagination. 3. A traditional or widely held belief or opinion. 4. Archaic. a. An unrealistic idea or notion; a fancy. b. A plan or scheme. —i·mag'i·na'tion·al adj.

SYNONYMS: imagination, fancy, fantasy. These nouns refer to the power of the mind to form images, especially of what is not present to the senses. Imagination is the most broadly applicable: The actor rehearsed the lines in his imagination. The glorious music haunts my imagination. "In the world of words, the imagination is one of the forces of nature" (Wallace Stevens). Fancy especially suggests mental invention that is whimsical, capricious, or playful and that is characteristically well removed from reality: "which... claims to be founded not on fancy... but on Fact" (Arthur P. Stanley). Is world peace only the fancy of idealists? Fantasy is applied principally to the product of imagination given free rein and especially to elaborate or extravagant fancy: The sitting room was a kind of Victorian fantasy, full of cabbage roses, fringe, and tassels. "The poet is in command of his fantasy, while it is exactly the mark of the neurotic that he is possessed by his fantasy" (Lionel Trilling).

i·mag·i·na·tive (i-măj'ə-nə-tiv, -nā'tiv) adj. 1. Having a lively imagination, especially a creative imagination. 2. Created by, indicative of, or characterized by imagination or creativity. 3. Tending to indulge in the fanciful or in make-believe. 4. Having no truth; false. —i·mag'i·na·tive·ly adv.

—i·mag'i·na·tive·ness n.

i·mag·i·ne (i-măj'in) v. i·mag·ined, i·mag·in·ing, i·mag·ines. — v. tr.

1. To form a mental picture or image of. 2. To think; conjecture: I imagine you're right. 3. To have a notion of or about without adequate foundation; fancy: She imagines herself to be a true artist. — v. intr. 1. To employ the imagination.

2. To make a guess; conjecture. [Middle English imagine, from Old French imaginer, from Latin imāginārī, from imāgō, imāgin-, image.] —i·mag'in·er n.

i·ma·gi·nes (i-mā'gə-nēz') n. A plural of imago.

im·ag·ing (im'i-jing) n. 1. Medicine. Visualization of internal bodily organs, tissues, or cavities using specialized instruments and techniques, such as ultrasonography, for diagnostic purposes. 2. Psychology. The use of mental images to influence bodily processes, especially to control pain.

im·a·gism also Im·a·gism (im'ə-jīz'əm) n. A literary movement launched by British and American poets early in the 20th century in reaction against Victorian sentimentalism that advocated the use of free verse, common speech patterns, and clear concrete images. —im'·a·gist n. —im'·a·gis'tic adj.

—im'·a·gis'ti·cal·ly adv.

i·ma·go (i-mā'gō, ĩ-mä'g-) n. pl. i·ma·goes or i·ma·gi·nes (-gə-nēz'). 1. An insect in its sexually mature adult stage after metamorphosis. 2. Psychology. An often idealized image of a person, usually a parent, formed in childhood and persisting unconsciously into adulthood. [Latin imāgō, imāgin-, image.]

i·mam also I·mam (i-mām') n. Islam. 1. a. In law and theology, the caliph who is successor to Mohammed as the lawful supreme leader of the Islamic community. b. The male prayer leader in a mosque. c. The Muslim worshiper who leads the recitation of prayer when two or more worshipers are present. 2. a. A male leader regarded by Shiites as a descendant of Mohammed divinely appointed to guide human beings. b. An earthly representative of the 12 such leaders recognized by the majority form of Shiism. 3. A ruler claiming descent from Mohammed and exercising authority in an Islamic state. 4. a. Any one of the founders of the four schools of law and theology. b. An authoritative scholar who founds a school of law or theology. 5. Used as a title for such a man. [Arabic 'imām, leader, imam, from 'amma, to lead.]

i·mam·ate (i-mā'māt') n. Islam. The office of an imam.

i·ma·ret (i-mä'rēt) n. An inn or hostel for pilgrims in Turkey. [Turkish, from Arabic 'imārah, from 'amara, to build.]

im·bal·ance (im-bäl'əns) n. A lack of balance, as in distribution or functioning. —im·bal'anced adj.

im·be·cile (im'bə-sil, -səl) n. 1. A stupid or silly person; a dolt. 2. A person whose mental acumen is well below par. 3. A person of moderate to severe mental retardation having a mental age of from three to seven years and generally being capable of some degree of communication and performance of simple tasks under supervision. The term belongs to a classification system no longer in use and is now considered offensive. — adj. also im·be·cil·ic (im'bə-sil'ik) im·be·cil·i·ty (im'bə-sil'ī-tē) n. pl. im·be·cil·i·ties. 1. a. Great stupidity or foolishness. b. Something, such as conduct or an act, that is stupid or foolish. 2. Psychology. The state or condition of being an imbecile; moderate or severe mental retardation.

1. Stupid; silly. 2. Well below par in mental acumen. [From obsolete French imbécille, weak, feeble, from Old French, from Latin imbēcillus: in-, not; see *IN-*¹ + possibly bacillum, staff, diminutive of baculum, rod; see bak- in Appendix.]

—im'be·cile·ly adv.

im·bed (ĩm·bĕd') v. Variant of embed.

im·bibe (ĩm·bīb') v. im·biped, im·bib·ing, im·bibes. — v. tr. 1. To drink. 2. To absorb or take in as if by drinking: “The whole body... imbibes delight through every pore” (Henry David Thoreau). 3. To receive and absorb into the mind: “Gladstone had... imbibed a strong prejudice against Americans” (Philip Magnus). 4. Obsolete. To permeate; saturate. — v. intr. To drink alcoholic beverages. [Middle English embiben, to soak up, saturate, from Latin imbibere, to drink in, imbibe : in-, in; see IN⁻² + bibere, to drink; see pō(i)- in Appendix.] — im·bib'er n.

im·bi·bi·tion (ĩm' bə·bīsh' ən) n. 1. The act of imbibing. 2. Chemistry. Absorption of fluid by a solid or colloid that results in swelling.

im·bri·cate (ĩm'brī·kāt') adj. Having the edges overlapping in a regular arrangement, as roof tiles or the scales of a fish. — v. im·bri·cat·ed, im·bri·cat·ing, im·bri·cates. — v. tr. To overlap in a regular pattern. — v. intr. To be arranged with regular overlapping edges. [Late Latin imbricātus, past participle of imbricāre, to cover with roof tiles, from imbrex, imbric-, roof tile, from imber, imbr-, rain.] — im'brī·ca'tion n.

im·bro·glio (ĩm·brōl'yō) n. pl. im·bro·glios. 1. a. A difficult or intricate situation; an entanglement. b. A confused or complicated disagreement. 2. A confused heap; a tangle. [Italian, from Old Italian, from imbrogliare, to tangle, confuse : in-, in (from Latin); see IN⁻² + brogliare, to mix, stir (probably from Old French brooiller, brouiller); see BROIL².]

im·brue (ĩm·brōō') also em·brue (ĕm-) v. tr. im·brued, im·bruing, im·brues. 1. To saturate. 2. To stain. [Middle English embrewen, from Old French embreuver, from Vulgar Latin imbiberāre* : in-, in; see IN⁻² + Late Latin biber, beverage (from Latin bibere, to drink); see BEVERAGE.]

im·brute (ĩm·brōōt') v. tr. intr. im·brut·ed, im·brut·ing, im·brutes. To make or become brutal.

im·bue (ĩm·byōō') v. tr. im·bued, im·bu·ing, im·bues. 1. To inspire, permeate, or invade: work imbued with the revolutionary spirit. See Synonyms at charge. 2. To stain or dye deeply. [Middle English enbuen, imbeuen, from Latin imbuere, to moisten, stain.]

IMD abbr. Intermodulation distortion.

IMF abbr. International Monetary Fund.

im·id·az·ole (ĩm'ĩ·dāz'ōl') n. An organic crystalline base, C₃H₄N₂, that is an inhibitor of histamine. [IMID(E) + AZOLE.]

im·ide (ĩm'īd') n. A compound derived from ammonia and containing the bivalent NH group combined with a bivalent acid group or two monovalent acid groups. [Alteration of AMIDE.]

im·i·do (ĩm'ĩ·dō') adj. Of or relating to imides or an imide. [From imido-, from IMIDE.]

im·ine (im'ēn', -in, ĭ-mēn') n. A compound derived from ammonia and containing the bivalent NH group combined with a bivalent nonacid group. [Alteration of AMINE.]

im·i·no (im'ə-nō') adj. Of or relating to imines or an imine. [From imino-, from IMINE.]

im·ip·ra·mine (ĭ-mĭp'rə-mēn') n. A tricyclic compound, C₁₉H₂₄N₂, used to treat depression and enuresis. [IMI(DE) + PR(OPYL) + AMINE.]

imit. abbr. Imitation; imitative.

im·i·ta·ble (im'ĭ-tə-bəl) adj. 1. That can be imitated: the imitable sounds of a bird. 2. Worthy of imitation: imitable behavior.

im·i·tate (im'ĭ-tāt') v. tr. im·i·tat·ed, im·i·tat·ing, im·i·tates. 1. To use or follow as a model. 2. a. To copy the actions, appearance, mannerisms, or speech of; mimic: amused friends by imitating the teachers. b. To copy or use the style of: brushwork that imitates Rembrandt. 3. To copy exactly; reproduce. 4. To appear like; resemble. [Latin imitārī, imitāt-.] —im'ĭ·ta'tor n.

SYNONYMS: imitate, copy, mimic, ape, parody, simulate. These verbs mean to follow something or someone taken as a model. To imitate is to act like or follow a pattern or style set by another: The adults drank their tea in a ceremonious manner, and the children imitated them. The decorator had the wood paneling painted to imitate marble. "Art imitates Nature" (Richard Franck). To copy is to duplicate an original as precisely as possible: tried to copy her cultivated accent; a building that evokes the neoclassic style of architecture without copying it. To mimic is to make a close imitation, as of another's actions, speech, or mannerisms, often with an intent to ridicule: "fresh carved cedar, mimicking a glade/Of palm and plaintain" (John Keats). In private the candidate mimicked his opponent's stammer. To ape is to follow another's lead slavishly but often with an absurd result: "Those [superior] states of mind do not come from aping an alien culture" (John Russell). To parody is either to imitate with comic effect or to attempt a serious imitation and fail: "All these peculiarities [of Samuel Johnson's literary style] have been imitated by his admirers and parodied by his assailants" (Macaulay). To simulate is to feign or falsely assume the appearance or character of something: "I... lay there simulating death" (W.H. Hudson).

im·i·ta·tion (im'ĭ-tā'shən) n. Abbr. imit. 1. The act or an instance of imitating. 2. Something derived or copied from an original. 3. Music. Repetition of a phrase or sequence often with variations in key, rhythm, and voice. — adj. Made to resemble another, usually superior material: imitation fur. —im'ĭ·ta'tion·al adj.

im·i·ta·tive (im'ī-tā'tiv) adj. Abbr. imit. 1. Of or involving imitation. 2. Not original; derivative. 3. Tending to imitate. 4. Onomatopoeic. —im'ī-ta'tive-ly adv. —im'ī-ta'tive-ness n.

im·mac·u·la·cy (i-māk'yə-lə-sē) n. The quality or condition of being immaculate.

im·mac·u·late (i-māk'yə-līt) adj. 1. Impeccably clean; spotless. See Synonyms at clean. 2. Free from stain or blemish; pure. 3. Free from fault or error: an immaculate record. 4. Having no markings. [Middle English immaculat, from Latin immaculātus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + maculātus, past participle of maculāre, to blemish (from macula, spot).] —im·mac'u·late-ly adv.

—im·mac'u·late-ness n.

Im·mac·u·late Conception (i-māk'yə-līt kən-sĕp'shən) n. 1. Roman Catholic Church. The doctrine that the Virgin Mary was conceived free from all stain of original sin. 2. December 8, on which the feast of the Immaculate Conception is celebrated.

im·ma·nent (im'ə-nənt) adj. 1. Existing or remaining within; inherent: believed in a God immanent in human beings. 2. Restricted entirely to the mind; subjective. [Late Latin immanēns, immanent- present participle of immanēre, to remain in : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin manēre, to remain; see men⁻³ in Appendix.] —im'ma·nence, im'ma·nen·cy n. —im'ma·nent-ly adv.

im·ma·nent·ism (im'ə-nən-tīz'əm) n. Any of various religious theories postulating that a deity, mind, or spirit is immanent in the world and in the individual. —im'ma·nent·ist adj. & n.

im·ma·te·ri·al (im'ə-tīr'ē-əl) adj. 1. Of no importance or relevance; inconsequential or irrelevant. 2. Having no material body or form.

—im'ma·te'ri·al-ly adv. —im'ma·te'ri·al-ness n.

SYNONYMS: immaterial, incorporeal, insubstantial, metaphysical, spiritual. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “lacking material body, form, or substance”: immaterial apparitions; an incorporeal spirit; imaginary and insubstantial victories; metaphysical forces; spiritual beings. See also Synonyms at irrelevant

ANTONYM: material

WORD HISTORY: The word immaterial, meaning “of no importance or relevance,” has made its way in the world in spite of the opposition of no less a figure than Samuel Johnson. Johnson stated that “this sense has crept into the conversation and writings of barbarians; but ought to be utterly rejected.” More than two centuries later it is difficult for us to recover Johnson’s strength of feeling, and this tale might in fact serve as a warning to those who believe that the usages they abominate will not survive and become standard. Although Johnson was a man of immense learning, he did not have the lexicographical resources available today. If Johnson had had access to the Oxford Latin Dictionary and the Middle English Dictionary, among other works, he would have seen that from māter, meaning “a mother,” “a plant as the source of things such as cuttings or fruit,” and “a source,” was derived the word māteria, meaning “wood as a building material,” “any substance of which a physical object is made,” “the subject matter of a speech or book,” and “the condition whereby an action is effected.” The adjective māteriālis derived from māteria only meant “of or concerned with subject matter” in Classical Latin, but its descendant in Late and Medieval Latin and its descendants in Old French (materiel) and Middle English (material) developed other meanings, such as “consisting of matter.” One Middle English sense, “important, relevant,” that probably harks back to senses of Classical Latin māteria such as “subject matter” continued in existence after Middle English times. So it was natural for the English word immaterial, first recorded in the 15th century, to come to mean “not important,” in spite of Johnson’s wrath.

im·ma·te·ri·al·ism (im'ə-tîr'ē-ə-lîz'əm) n. A metaphysical doctrine asserting the nonexistence of corporeal reality. —im'·ma·te'ri·al·ist adj. & n.

im·ma·te·ri·al·i·ty (im'ə-tîr'ē-ăl'î-tē) n. pl. im·ma·te·ri·al·i·ties. 1. The state or quality of being immaterial. 2. Something immaterial.

im·ma·te·ri·al·ize (im'ə-tîr'ē-ə-lîz') v. tr. im·ma·te·ri·al·ized, im·ma·te·ri·al·izing, im·ma·te·ri·al·izes. To render immaterial.

im·ma·ture (im'ə-tyōōr', -tōōr', -chōōr') adj. 1. Not fully grown or developed. See Synonyms at young. 2. Marked by or suggesting a lack of normal maturity: silly, immature behavior. [Latin immātūrus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + mātūrus, mature; see mā⁻¹ in Appendix.] —im'·ma·ture'ly adv.

—im'·ma·tur'·i·ty, im'·ma·ture'ness n.

im·meas·ur·a·ble (i-mězh'ər-ə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to measure. See Synonyms at incalculable. 2. Vast; limitless. —im·meas'ur·a·bil'·i·ty, im·meas'ur·a·ble·ness n. —im·meas'ur·a·bly adv.

im·me·di·a·cy (i-mē'dē-ə-sē) n. pl. im·me·di·a·cies. 1. The condition or quality of being immediate. 2. Lack of an intervening or mediating agency; directness: the immediacy of live television coverage. 3. Something immediate, as in importance.

im·me·di·ate (i-mē'dē-īt) adj. 1. Occurring at once; instant: gave me an immediate response. 2. a. Of or near the present time: in the immediate future. b. Of or relating to the present time and place; current: “It is probable that, apart from the most immediate, pragmatic, technical revisions, the writer’s effort to detach himself from his work is quixotic” (Joyce Carol Oates). 3. Close at hand; near: in the immediate vicinity. See Synonyms at close. 4. Next in line or relation: is an immediate successor to the president of the company. 5. Directly apprehended or perceived: had immediate awareness of the scope of the crisis. 6. Acting or occurring without the interposition of another agency or object; direct. [Middle immediate constituent (ĩ-mē′dē-īt kən-stīch′ōō-ənt) n. Grammar. A meaningful constituent, such as a word, that enters directly into the formation of a linguistic construction, such as a phrase.

English immediat, from Old French, from Late Latin immediātus : Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + mediātus, past participle of mediāre, to be in the middle; see MEDIATE.]

—im·me′di·ate·ness n.

im·me·di·ate·ly (ĩ-mē′dē-īt-lē) adv. 1. Without delay. 2. Without an intermediary; directly: met with the parties immediately involved in the suit. — conj. As soon as; directly: They phoned immediately they reached home.

im·med·i·ca·ble (ĩ-mēd′ĩ-kə-bəl) adj. Incurable.

Im·mel·mann turn (ĩm′əl-mən tûrn, -mān′) n. A maneuver in which an airplane first completes half a loop and then half a roll in order to gain altitude and change flight direction simultaneously. [After Max Immelmann (1890-1916), German aviator.]

im·me·mo·ri·al (ĩm′ə-môr′ē-əl, -mōr′-) adj. Reaching beyond the limits of memory, tradition, or recorded history. [Medieval Latin immemoriālis : Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin memoriālis, memorial; see MEMORIAL.]

—im′me·mo′ri·al·ly adv.

im·mense (ĩ-měns′) adj. 1. Extremely large; huge. 2. Of boundless or immeasurable size or extent. See Synonyms at enormous. 3. Informal. Surpassingly good; excellent. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin immēsus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + mēsus, past participle of mētīrī, to measure; see mē⁻² in Appendix.] —im·mense′ly adv. —im·mense′ness n.

im·men·si·ty (ĩ-měn′sĩ-tē) n. pl. im·men·si·ties. 1. The quality or state of being immense. 2. Something immense: “the empty immensity of earth, sky, and water” (Joseph Conrad).

im·men·sur·a·ble (ĩ-měn′shər-ə-bəl) adj. Immeasurable.

im·merge (ĩ-mûrj′) v. intr. im·merged, im·merg·ing, im·merg·es. To submerge or disappear in or as if in a liquid. [Latin immergere. See IMMERSE.]

—im·mer′gence n.

im·merse (ĩ-mûrs′) v. tr. im·mersed, im·mers·ing, im·mers·es. 1. To cover completely in a liquid; submerge. See Synonyms at dip. 2. To baptize by submerging in water. 3. To engage wholly or deeply; absorb: scholars who immerse themselves in their subjects. [From Middle English immersed, embedded deeply, from Latin immersus, past participle of immergere, to immerse : in-, in; see IN⁻² + mergere, to dip.]

im·mers·i·ble (ĩ-mûr′sə-bəl) adj. Capable of being completely immersed in water without suffering damage: an immersible hot plate.

im·mer·sion (ĩ-mûr′zhən, -shən) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of immersing. b. The condition of being immersed. 2. Baptism performed by totally submerging a person in water. 3. Astronomy. The obscuring of a celestial body by another or by the shadow of another.

im·mesh (im-měsh') v. Variant of enmesh.

im·mi·grant (im'ī-grənt) n. 1. A person who leaves one country to settle permanently in another. 2. A plant or an animal that establishes itself in an area where it previously did not exist.

im·mi·grate (im'ī-grāt') v. im·mi·grat·ed, im·mi·grat·ing, im·mi·grates.

— v. intr. To enter and settle in a country or region to which one is not native.

See Usage Note at migrate. — v. tr. To send or introduce as immigrants: Britain immigrated many colonists to the New World. [Latin immigrāre, immigrāt-, to go into : in-, in; see IN⁻² + migrāre, to depart.] — im'·mi·gra'tion n.

im·mi·nence (im'ə-nəns) n. 1. The quality or condition of being about to occur. 2. Something about to occur.

im·mi·nen·cy (im'ə-nən-sē) n. pl. im·mi·nen·cies. Imminence.

im·mi·nent (im'ə-nənt) adj. About to occur; impending: in imminent danger.

[Middle English iminent, from Old French imminent, from Latin imminēns, imminent- present participle of imminēre, to overhang : in-, in; see IN⁻² + minēre, to jut, threaten; see men⁻² in Appendix.] — im'·mi·nent·ly adv.

— im'·mi·nent·ness n.

im·mis·ci·ble (i-mis'ə-bəl) adj. That cannot undergo mixing or blending: immiscible elements. — im·mis'·ci·bil'·i·ty n. — im·mis'·ci·bly adv.

im·mit·i·ga·ble (i-mit'ī-gə-bəl) adj. That cannot be mitigated: immitigable circumstances. — im·mit'·i·ga·bil'·i·ty, im·mit'·i·ga·ble·ness n.

— im·mit'·i·ga·bly adv.

im·mit·tance (i-mit'ns) n. Electrical impedance or admittance. [IM(PEDANCE) + (AD)MITTANCE.]

im·mix (i-miks') v. tr. im·mixed, im·mix·ing, im·mix·es. To commingle; blend. [Back-formation from Middle English immixte, past participle of immixten, to intermingle with, from Latin immixtus, past participle of immiscēre, to blend : in-, in; see IN⁻² + miscēre, to mix; see meik- in Appendix.] — im·mix'·ture (-miks'chər) n.

im·mo·bile (i-mō'bəl, -bēl', -bīl') adj. 1. Immovable; fixed. 2. Not moving; motionless. — im'·mo·bil'·i·ty (-bīl'·i·tē) n.

im·mo·bi·lize (i-mō'bə-līz') v. tr. im·mo·bi·lized, im·mo·bi·liz·ing, im·mo·bi·liz·es. 1. To render immobile. 2. To fix the position of (a joint or fractured limb), as with a splint or cast. 3. To impede movement or use of:

Severe weather immobilized the rescue team. 4. Economics. a. To withdraw (specie) from circulation and reserve as security for other money. b. To convert (floating capital) into fixed capital. — im·mo'·bi·li·za'tion (-lī-zā'shən) n.

— im·mo'·bi·liz'er n.

im·mod·er·a·cy (ĩ-möđ'ər-ə-sē) n. pl. im·mod·er·a·cies. 1. The quality or condition of being extreme or immoderate. 2. Something extreme or immoderate.

im·mod·er·ate (ĩ-möđ'ər-īt) adj. Exceeding normal or appropriate bounds; extreme: immoderate spending; immoderate laughter. See Synonyms at excessive. [Middle English, from Latin immoderātus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + moderātus, past participle of moderārī, to moderate; see med- in Appendix.]

—im·mod'er·ate·ly adv. —im·mod'er·ate·ness, im·mod'er·a'tion n.

im·mod·est (ĩ-möđ'ist) adj. 1. Lacking modesty. 2. a. Offending against sexual mores in conduct or appearance; indecent: a bathing suit considered immodest by the local people. b. Not properly restrained in expression or self-assertion; boastful: immodest claims in advertising and promotion. 3. Arrogant. [Latin immodestus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + modestus, moderate, modest; see med- in Appendix.] —im·mod'est·ly adv. —im·mod'es·ty n.

im·mo·late (ĩm'ə-lāt') v. tr. im·mo·lat·ed, im·mo·lat·ing, im·mo·lates.

1. To kill as a sacrifice. 2. To kill (oneself) by fire. 3. To destroy. [Latin immolāre, immolāt-, to sacrifice, sprinkle with sacrificial meal : in-, on; see IN⁻² + mola, meal, millstone; see melə- in Appendix.] —im'mo·la'tion n.

—im'mo·la'tor n.

im·mor·al (ĩ-môr'əl, -môr'-) adj. Contrary to established moral principles.

—im·mor'al·ly adv.

im·mor·al·ist (ĩ-môr'ə-lĩst, -môr'-) n. An advocate of immorality.

im·mor·al·i·ty (ĩm'ô-rāl'ĩ-tē, ĩm'ə-) n. pl. im·mor·al·i·ties. 1. The quality or condition of being immoral. 2. An immoral act or practice.

im·mor·tal (ĩ-môr'tl) adj. 1. Not subject to death: immortal deities; the immortal soul. 2. Never to be forgotten; everlasting: immortal words. 3. Of or relating to immortality. 4. Biology. Capable of indefinite growth or division. Used of cells in culture. — n. 1. One not subject to death. 2. One whose fame is enduring. [Middle English, from Old French immortel, from Latin immortālis. See mer- in Appendix.] —im·mor'tal·ly adv.

im·mor·tal·i·ty (ĩm'ôr-tāl'ĩ-tē) n. 1. The quality or condition of being immortal. 2. Endless life or existence. 3. Enduring fame.

im·mor·tal·ize (ĩ-môr'tl-iz') v. tr. im·mor·tal·ized, im·mor·tal·iz·ing, im·mor·tal·iz·es. To make immortal.

im·mor·telle (ĩm'ôr-tě'l') n. A plant with flowers that retain their color when dried. [French, from feminine of immortel, immortal, from Old French. See IMMORTAL.]

im·mo·tile (ĩ-môt'l, ĩ-mō'til') adj. Not moving or lacking the ability to move. —im'mo·til'i·ty (-tĩl'ĩ-tē) n.

im·mov·a·ble (ĩ-mōō'və-bəl) adj. 1. a. Impossible to move. b. Incapable of movement. 2. Impossible to alter: immovable plans. 3. Unyielding in principle, purpose, or adherence; steadfast. 4. Incapable of being moved emotionally.

5. Law. Not liable to be removed; permanent: immovable property. — n.

1. One that cannot move or be moved. 2. Often immovables. Law. Property that cannot be moved; real property. — im·mov'a·bil'i·ty, im·mov'a·ble·ness n. — im·mov'a·bly adv.

immun. abbr. 1. Immunity. 2. Immunization.

im·mune (ĩ-myōōn') adj. 1. Not subject to an obligation imposed on others; exempt: immune from taxation; immune from criminal prosecution. 2. Not affected by a given influence; unresponsive: immune to persuasion.

3. Immunology. Of, relating to, or having immunity to infection by a specific pathogen. — n. A person who is immune. [Middle English, from Latin immūnis. See mei¹ in Appendix.]

immune reaction (ĩ-myōōn' rē-āk'shən) n. The reaction resulting from the recognition and binding of an antigen by its specific antibody or by a previously sensitized lymphocyte. Also called immunoreaction immune response (ĩ-myōōn' rī-spōns') n. An integrated bodily response to an antigen, especially one mediated by lymphocytes and involving recognition of antigens by specific antibodies or previously sensitized lymphocytes.

immune system (ĩ-myōōn' sīs'təm) n. The integrated body system of organs, tissues, cells, and cell products such as antibodies that differentiates self from nonself and neutralizes potentially pathogenic organisms or substances.

im·mu·ni·ty (ĩ-myōō'nĩ-tē) n. pl. im·mu·ni·ties. Abbr. immun. 1. The quality or condition of being immune. 2. Immunology. Inherited, acquired, or induced resistance to infection by a specific pathogen. 3. Law. a. Exemption from normal legal duties, penalties, or liabilities, granted to a special group of people: legislative immunity. b. Exemption from legal prosecution, often granted a witness in exchange for self-incriminating testimony.

im·mu·nize (ĩm'yə-nīz') v. tr. im·mu·nized, im·mu·niz·ing, im·mu·niz·es. 1. To render immune. 2. To produce immunity in, as by inoculation. 3. Law. To grant immunity from prosecution: immunize a witness. — im'mu·ni·za'tion (-nĩ-zā'shən) n.

immuno- pref. Immune; immunity: immunoelectrophoresis. [From IMMUNE.]

im·mu·no·as·say (ĩm'yə-nō-ās'ā, ĩ-myōō'-) n. A laboratory or clinical technique that makes use of the specific binding between an antigen and its homologous antibody in order to identify and quantify a substance in a sample.

im·mu·no·chem·is·try (ĩm'yə-nō-kēm'ĩ-strē, ĩ-myōō'-) n. The chemistry of immunologic phenomena, as of antigen-antibody reactions.

im·mu·no·com·pe·tent (ĩm'yə-nō-kōm'pĩ-tənt, ĩ-myōō'-) adj. Having the normal bodily capacity to develop an immune response following exposure to an antigen. — im'mu·no·com'pe·tence n.

im·mu·no·com·pro·mised (im'yə-nō-kōm'prə-mīzd, ĭ-myōō'-) adj. Incapable of developing a normal immune response, usually as a result of disease, malnutrition, or immunosuppressive therapy.

im·mu·no·de·fi·cien·cy (im'yə-nō-dī-fīsh'ən-sē, ĭ-myōō'-) n. pl.

im·mu·no·de·fi·cien·cies. An innate, acquired, or induced inability to develop a normal immune response. —im'mu·no·de·fi'cient adj.

im·mu·no·de·pres·sion (im'yə-nō-dī-prēsh'ən, ĭ-myōō'-) n. See immunosuppression. —im'mu·no·de·pres'sant (-prēs'ənt) n.

—im'mu·no·de·pres'sive adj.

im·mu·no·e·lec·tro·pho·re·sis (im'yə-nō-ĭ-lēk'trə-fə-rē'sīs, ĭ-myōō'-) n.

The separation and identification of proteins based on differences in electrical charge and reactivity with antibodies.

im·mu·no·fluo·res·cence (im'yə-nō-flōō-rēs'əns, -flō-, -flō-) n. Any of various techniques that use antibodies chemically linked to a fluorescent dye to identify or quantify antigens in a tissue sample. —im'mu·no·fluo·res'cent adj.

im·mu·no·ge·net·ics (im'yə-nō-jə-nēt'īks) n. (used with a sing. verb). 1. The study of the interrelation between immunity to disease and genetic makeup.

2. The branch of immunology that deals with the molecular and genetic bases of the immune response. —im'mu·no·ge·net'i·cist (-ĭ-sĭst) n.

im·mu·no·gen·ic (im'yə-nō-jĕn'īk, ĭmyōō'-) adj. Producing an immune response; antigenic.

im·mu·no·glob·u·lin (im'yə-nō-glōb'yə-lĭn, ĭ-myōō'-) n. Abbr. Ig Any of a group of large glycoproteins secreted by plasma cells in vertebrates that function as antibodies in the immune response by binding the specific antigens. Immunoglobulins are found along the respiratory and intestinal tracts, on mucosal surfaces, and in milk, saliva, tears, and blood serum.

im·mu·nol·o·gy (im'yə-nōl'ə-jē) n. The branch of biomedicine that is concerned with the structure and function of the immune system, innate and acquired immunity, the bodily distinction of self from nonself, and laboratory techniques involving the interaction of antigens with specific antibodies.

—im'mu·no·log'ic (-nə-lōj'īk), im'mu·no·log'i·cal adj.

—im'mu·no·log'i·cal·ly adv. —im'mu·nol'o·gist n.

im·mu·no·re·ac·tion (im'yə-nō-rē-āk'shən, ĭ-myōō'-) n. See immune reaction. —im'mu·no·re·ac'tive adj. —im'mu·no·re·ac'tiv'i·ty n.

im·mu·no·sup·pres·sion (im'yə-nō-sə-prēsh'ən, ĭ-myōō'-) n. Suppression of the immune response, as by drugs or radiation, in order to prevent the rejection of grafts or transplants or control autoimmune diseases. Also called immunodepression —im'mu·no·sup·pres'sant (-prēs'ənt) n.

—im'mu·no·sup·pres'sive adj.

im·mu·no·ther·a·py (ĩm'yə-nō-thēr'ə-pē, ĩ-myōō'-) n. pl.

im·mu·no·ther·a·pies. Treatment of disease by inducing, enhancing, or suppressing an immune response. —im'mu·no·ther'a·peu'tic (-pyōō'tĭk) adj.

—im'mu·no·ther'a·pist n.

im·mure (ĩ-myōōr') v. tr. im·mured, im·mur·ing, im·mures. 1. To confine within or as if within walls; imprison. 2. To build into a wall: immure a shrine.

3. To entomb in a wall. [Medieval Latin immūrāre : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin mūrus, wall.] —im·mure'ment n.

im·mu·ta·ble (ĩ-myōō'tə-bəl) adj. Not subject or susceptible to change.

—im·mu'ta·bil'i·ty, im·mu'ta·ble·ness n. —im·mu'ta·bly adv.

imp (ĩmp) n. 1. A mischievous child. 2. A small demon. 3. Obsolete. A graft.

— v. tr. imped, imp·ing, imps. 1. To graft (new feathers) onto the wing of a trained falcon or hawk to repair damage or increase flying capacity. 2. To furnish with wings. [Middle English impe, scion, sprig, offspring, from Old English impa, young shoot, from impian, to graft, ultimately from Medieval Latin impo-tus, graft, from Greek emphutos, grafted, from Greek emphuein, to implant : en-, in; see EN⁻² + phuein, to make grow; see bheuə- in Appendix.]

imp. abbr. 1. Imperative. 2. Imperfect. 3. Imperial. 4. a. Import.

b. Imported; importer. 5. Important. 6. Imprimatur.

im·pact (ĩm'păkt') n. 1. The striking of one body against another; collision.

2. The force or impetus transmitted by a collision. 3. The effect or impression of one thing on another: still gauging the impact of automation on the lives of factory workers. 4. The power of making a strong, immediate impression: a speech that lacked impact. — v. im·pact·ed, im·pact·ing, im·pacts (ĩm-păkt'). — v. tr.

1. To pack firmly together. 2. To strike forcefully: meteorites impacting the lunar surface. 3. Usage Problem. To have an effect or impact on. — v. intr. Usage Problem. To have an effect or impact. [From Latin impāctus, past participle of impingere, to push against. See IMPINGE.] —im·pac'tion n.

SYNONYMS: impact, repercussion. The central meaning shared by these nouns is “a strong effect exerted by one person or thing on another”: the far-reaching impact of an oil embargo; a strike that had dire repercussions. See also Synonyms at collision

USAGE NOTE: Each generation of critics seems to select one particular usage to stand as the emblem of what they view as linguistic crassness. Thirty years ago it was the use of contact as a verb, but opposition to that form has more or less disappeared, and attention now focuses on the verbal use of impact meaning “have an effect, affect.” Eighty-four percent of the Usage Panel disapproves of the construction to impact on, as in the phrase social pathologies, common to the inner city, that impact heavily on such a community; and fully 95 percent disapproves of the use of impact as a transitive verb in the sentence Companies have used dispos- able techniques that have a potential for impacting our health. But even these figures do not reflect the degree of distaste with which critics view the usage: in their comments some Panelists labeled the usage as “bureaucratic,” “pretentious,” “vile,” and “a vulgarism.” • It may be that the particular pretentiousness associated with the verbal use of impact is caused by its derivation from an already questionable metaphoric use of the noun impact, as in phrases such as the political impact of the decision or the impact of the program on the community, in which no more is usually meant than might have been expressed by effects or consequences. But though impact may have begun life a generation ago as an inflated substitute for “affect significantly,” it has by now become so common in corporate and institutional contexts that younger speakers appear to regard it as wholly standard and straightforward usage. Within a few years, accordingly, the usage is likely to be no more objectionable than contact is now, since it will no longer betray any particular pretentiousness on the part of those who use it. See Usage Note at contact.

WORD HISTORY: The often criticized use of impact, as in the passage “social pathologies, common to the inner city, that impact heavily on such a community,” illustrates how one part of speech can have an impact on another part of speech spelled the same way. The usage also reflects the role played by science in the formation of new senses of words. The noun impact comes from the past participle impāctus of the Latin verb impingere, which means “to bring into violent contact,” “to drive persons or other creatures onto or against,” and “to fix, fasten onto.” Our noun, first recorded in 1781, derived its sense from the “contact” sense of impingere. First recorded in a scientific context having to do with the collision of bodies, it was much used in scientific contexts and later, in the 19th century, took on a figurative sense, “the effect of one thing upon another.” The verb impact, on the other hand, also coming from Latin impāctus, is found much earlier than the noun, that is, it is first recorded in 1601, deriving its sense from the “driving” and “fixing” senses of impingere and meaning “to press closely into something, pack in.” This old sense is still with us, but the later noun had an influence on the verb, giving us senses such as “to strike forcefully” and “to have an effect.”

im·pact·ed (im-păk'tid) adj. 1. Wedged together at the broken ends. Used of a fractured bone. 2. Placed in the alveolus in a manner prohibiting eruption into a normal position. Used of a tooth. 3. Wedged or packed in, so as to fill or block an organ or a passage: impacted feces.

impact zone (im'păkt' zōn) n. Sports. The spot on a wave where the water is just about to collapse and explode, the spot of greatest danger to and opportunity for a surfer.

im·pair (im-pâr') v. tr. im·paired, im·pair·ing, im·pairs. To cause to diminish, as in strength, value, or quality: an injury that impaired my hearing; a severe storm impairing communications. See Synonyms at injure. [Middle English empairen, from Old French empeïrer, from Vulgar Latin impēiōrāre* : Latin in-, causative pref.; see IN⁻² + Late Latin pēiōrāre, to worsen (from Latin pēior, pēiōr-, worse); see ped- in Appendix.] —im·pair'ment n.

im·pa·la (ĩm-pä'lə) n. A reddish African antelope (Aepyceros melampus) noted for its leaping ability and having ridged, curved horns in the male. [Nguni (Zulu) im-pala.]

im·pale (ĩm-pāl') also em·pale (ěm-) v. tr. im·paled, im·pal-ing, im·pales.

1. a. To pierce with a sharp stake or point. b. To torture or kill by impaling.
2. To render helpless as if by impaling. [Medieval Latin impālāre : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin pālus, stake; see pag- in Appendix.] —im·pale'ment n.

—im·pal'er n.

im·pal·pa·ble (ĩm-pāl'pə-bəl) adj. 1. Not perceptible to the touch; intangible.
2. Difficult to perceive or grasp by the mind. —im·pal'pa·bil'i·ty n.

—im·pal'pa·bly adv.

im·pan·el (ĩm-pän'əl) also em·pan·el (ěm-) v. tr. im·pan·eled or im·pan·elled, im·pan·el-ing or im·pan·el-ling, im·pan·els or im·pan·els.

Law. To enroll (a jury) upon a panel or list. [Middle English empanellen, from Anglo-Norman empaneller : en-, in (from Latin in-); see IN⁻² + panel, piece of paper listing jurors, jury; see PANEL.] —im·pan'el·ment n.

im·par·i·ty (ĩm-pär'ĩ-tē) n. pl. im·par·i·ties. Inequality; disparity. [Late Latin imparitās, from Latin impār, not equal : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + pār, equal; see perə⁻² in Appendix.]

im·part (ĩm-pärt') v. tr. im·part-ed, im·part-ing, im·parts. 1. To grant a share of; bestow: impart a subtle flavor; impart some advice. 2. To make known; disclose: persuaded to impart the secret. [Middle English imparten, from Old French impartir, from Latin impertire, impartire : in-, in; see IN⁻² + partire, to share (from pars, part-, part); see perə⁻² in Appendix.]

im·par·tial (ĩm-pär'shəl) adj. Not partial or biased; unprejudiced. See Synonyms at fair¹. —im'par·ti·al'i·ty (-shē-äl'ĩ-tē), im·par'tial·ness n.

—im·par'tial·ly adv.

im·part·i·ble (ĩm-pär'tə-bəl) adj. Not partible; indivisible: an impartible inheritance. —im·part'i·bil'i·ty n. —im·part'i·bly adv.

im·pass·a·ble (ĩm-päs'ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to pass, cross, or overcome: impassable roads; impassable problems. —im·pass'a·bil'i·ty, im·pass'a·ble·ness n. —im·pass'a·bly adv.

im·passe (ĩm'päs') n. 1. A road or passage having no exit; a cul-de-sac. 2. A situation that is so difficult that no progress can be made; a deadlock or a stalemate: reached an impasse in the negotiations. [French : in-, not (from Latin in-); see IN⁻¹ + passe, a passing (from Old French, from passer, to pass); see PASS.]

im·pas·si·ble (ĩm-päs'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Not subject to suffering or pain.

2. Unfeeling; impassive. [Middle English, from Old French, from Late Latin impassibilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + passibilis, passible; see PASSIBLE.]

—im·pas'si·bil'i·ty, im·pas'si·ble·ness n. —im·pas'si·bly adv.

im·pas·sion (im-păsh'ən) v. tr. im·pas·sioned, im·pas·sion·ing, im·pas·sions. To arouse the passions of. [Italian impassionare : in-, in (from Latin); see IN⁻² + passione, passion (from Latin passiō, passiōn-, emotion); see PASSION.]

im·pas·sioned (im-păsh'ənd) adj. Filled with passion; fervent: an impassioned plea for justice.

im·pas·sive (im-păs'iv) adj. 1. Devoid of or not subject to emotion.

2. Revealing no emotion; expressionless. 3. Incapable of physical sensation.

4. Motionless; still. [IN⁻¹ + PASSIVE, suffering (obsolete).] —im·pas'sive·ly adv.

—im·pas'sive·ness, im'pas·siv'i·ty n.

im·paste (im-păst') v. tr. im·past·ed, im·past·ing, im·pastes. 1. To enclose with or as if with a paste or crust. 2. To paint by applying thick layers of pigment.

im·pas·to (im-păs'tō, -pă'stō) n. pl. im·pas·tos. 1. The application of thick layers of pigment to a canvas or other surface in painting. 2. The paint so applied. [Italian, from impastare, to make into a paste : in-, in (from Latin); see IN⁻² + pasta, paste (from Late Latin); see *PASTE*¹.]

im·pa·tience (im-pā'shəns) n. The quality or condition of being impatient.

im·pa·tiens (im-pā'shənz, -shənz) n. Any of various plants of the genus Impatiens, which includes the jewelweed. [Latin impatiens, impatient (so called because the ripe pods burst open when touched). See IMPATIENT.]

im·pa·tient (im-pā'shənt) adj. 1. Unable to wait patiently or tolerate delay; restless. 2. Unable to endure irritation or opposition; intolerant: impatient of criticism. 3. Expressing or produced by impatience: an impatient scowl.

4. Restively eager or desirous; anxious: impatient to begin. [Middle English impacient, from Old French impatient, from Latin impatiens, impatient- : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + patiēns, present participle of patī, to suffer, endure; see PATIENT.]

—im·pa'tient·ly adv.

im·peach (im-pēch') v. tr. im·peach·ed, im·peach·ing, im·peach·es.

1. a. To make an accusation against. b. To charge (a public official) with improper conduct in office before a proper tribunal. 2. To challenge the validity of; try to discredit: impeach a witness's credibility. [Middle English empechen, to impede, accuse, from Anglo-Norman empecher, from Late Latin impedicāre, to entangle : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin pedica, fetter; see ped- in Appendix.]

—im·peach'er n. —im·peach'ment n.

WORD HISTORY: Nothing hobbles a President so much as impeachment, and there is an etymological as well as procedural reason for this. The word impeach can be traced back through Anglo-Norman empecher to Late Latin impedicāre, “to catch, entangle,” from Latin pedica, “fetter for the ankle, snare.” Thus we find that Middle English empechen, the ancestor of our word, means such things as “to cause to get stuck fast,” “hinder or impede,” “interfere with,” and “criticize unfavorably.” A legal sense of empechen is first recorded in 1384. This sense, which had previously developed in Old French, was “to accuse, bring charges against.” A further development of the sense had specific reference to Parliament and its formal accusation of treason or other high crimes, a process that the United States borrowed from the British. Although we have used it rarely at the federal level, impeachment stands as the ultimate snare for those who would take advantage of the public trust.

im·peach·a·ble (ĩm-pē'chə-bəl) adj. 1. Capable of being impeached: venal, impeachable public servants. 2. Being such as to make one liable to impeachment: an impeachable offense. —im·peach'·a·bil'i·ty n.

im·pearl (ĩm-pûrl') v. tr. im·pearled, im·pearl·ing, im·pearls. 1. To form (something) into pearls. 2. To adorn with or as if with pearls.

im·pec·ca·ble (ĩm-pĕk'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Having no flaws; perfect. See Synonyms at perfect. 2. Incapable of sin or wrongdoing. [Latin impeccābilis: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + peccāre, to sin; see ped- in Appendix.] —im·pec'·ca·bil'i·ty n.
—im·pec'·ca·bly adv.

im·pe·cu·ni·ous (ĩm'pĩ-kyōō'nē-əs) adj. Lacking money; penniless. See Synonyms at poor. [IM⁻¹ + pecunious, rich (from Middle English, from Old French pecunios, from Latin pecūniōsus, from pecūnia, money, wealth); see peku- in Appendix.] —im'·pe·cu'ni·ous·ly adv. —im'·pe·cu'ni·ous·ness, im'·pe·cu'ni·os'i·ty (-ōs'ĩ-tē) n.

im·pe·dance (ĩm-pĕd'ns) n. Symbol Z A measure of the total opposition to current flow in an alternating current circuit, made up of two components, ohmic resistance and reactance, and usually represented in complex notation as $Z = R + iX$, where R is the ohmic resistance and X is the reactance.

impedance match·ing (ĩm-pĕd'ns mäch'ing) n. The use of electric circuits, transmission lines, and other devices to make the impedance of a load equal to the internal impedance of the source of power, thereby making possible the most efficient transfer of power.

im·pede (ĩm-pĕd') v. tr. im·ped·ed, im·ped·ing, im·pedes. To retard or obstruct the progress of. See Synonyms at hinder¹. [Latin impedire. See ped- in Appendix.] —im·ped'er n.

im·ped·i·ment (ĩm-pĕd'ə-mənt) n. 1. Something that impedes; a hindrance or an obstruction. See Synonyms at obstacle. 2. An organic defect preventing clear articulation: a speech impediment. 3. Law. Something that obstructs the making of a legal contract. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin impedimentum, from impedire, to impede. See IMPEDE.] —im·ped'i·men'tal (-mĕn'tl), im·ped'i·men'ta·ry (-mĕn'tə-rē) adj.

im·ped·i·men·ta (im-pěd'ə-měn'tə) pl.n. Objects, such as provisions or baggage, that impede or encumber. [Latin impedimenta, pl. of impedimentum, impediment. See IMPEDIMENT.]

im·pel (im-pěl') v. tr. im·pelled, im·pel·ling, im·pels. 1. To urge to action through moral pressure; drive: We were impelled by circumstances to take a stand. 2. To drive forward; propel. [Middle English impellen, from Latin impellere: in-, against; see IN⁻² + pellere, to drive; see pel⁻⁵ in Appendix.]

im·pel·ler (im-pěl'ər) n. 1. One that impels, as a rotating device used to force a fluid in a desired direction under pressure. 2. A rotor or rotor blade.

im·pend (im-pěnd') v. intr. im·pend·ed, im·pend·ing, im·pends. 1. To be about to take place: Her retirement is impending. 2. To threaten to happen; menace: discouraged by the trouble that impended. 3. Archaic. To jut out; hang suspended. [Latin impendēre: in-, over; see IN⁻² + pendēre, to hang; see (s)pen- in Appendix.]

im·pen·e·tra·bil·i·ty (im-pěn'ī-trə-bīl'ī-tē) n. 1. The quality or condition of being impenetrable. 2. The inability of two bodies to occupy the same space at the same time.

im·pen·e·tra·ble (im-pěn'ī-trə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to penetrate or enter: an impenetrable fortress. 2. Impossible to understand; incomprehensible: impenetrable jargon. 3. Impervious to sentiment or argument: an impenetrable heart. —im·pen'·e·tra·ble·ness n. —im·pen'·e·tra·bly adv.

im·pen·i·tent (im-pěn'ī-tənt) adj. Not penitent; unrepentant.

—im·pen'·i·tence n. —im·pen'·i·tent n. —im·pen'·i·tent·ly adv.

im·per·a·tive (im-pěr'ə-tīv) adj. Abbr. imp. 1. Expressing a command or plea; peremptory: requests that grew more and more imperative. 2. Having the power or authority to command or control. 3. Grammar. Of, relating to, or constituting the mood that expresses a command or request. 4. Impossible to deter or evade; pressing: imperative needs. See Synonyms at urgent. — n. Abbr. imp. 1. a. A command; an order. b. An obligation; a duty: social imperatives. 2. A rule, a principle, or an instinct that compels a certain behavior: a people driven to aggression by territorial imperatives. 3. Grammar. a. The imperative mood. b. A verb form of the imperative mood. [Middle English imperatif, relating to the imperative mood, from Old French, from Late Latin imperātīvus, from Latin imperātus, past participle of imperāre, to command. See EMPEROR.] —im·per'·a·tive·ly adv. —im·per'·a·tive·ness n.

im·pe·ra·tor (im'pə-rä'tôr', -tər) n. 1. a. An army commander in the Roman Republic. b. Used as a form of address and salutation by soldiers to a victorious Roman general. 2. The supreme power of the Roman emperor. 3. The head of state and supreme commander in the Roman Empire, in whose name all victories were won. [Latin imperātōr. See EMPEROR.] —im·per'·a·to'·ri·al (im-pěr'ə-tôr'ē-əl, -tôr'-) adj.

Im-per-a-triz (im-pĕr'ă-trĭs) A city of northeast Brazil on the Tocantins River south-southeast of Belém. It is a shipping center. Population, 111,705.

im-per-cep-ti-ble (im'pĕr-sĕp'tĕ-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible or difficult to perceive by the mind or senses: an imperceptible drop in temperature. 2. So subtle, slight, or gradual as to be barely perceptible: an imperceptible nod.

—im'per-cep'ti-bil'i-ty, im'per-cep'ti-ble-ness n. —im'per-cep'ti-bly adv.

im-per-cep-tive (im'pĕr-sĕp'tĭv) adj. Lacking perception; not perceptive.

—im'per-cep'tive-ness, im'per-cep-tiv'i-ty n.

im-per-fect (im-pûr'fĭkt) adj. Abbr. imp., imperf. 1. Not perfect.

2. Grammar. Of or being the tense of a verb that shows, usually in the past, an action or a condition as incomplete, continuous, or coincident with another action. 3. Botany. Having either stamens or a pistil only. Used of a flower.

4. Law. Not legally enforceable: an imperfect contract. — n. Abbr. imp., imperf. 1. A piece of merchandise having a minor flaw that does not impair its use, usually sold at a discount. 2. Grammar. a. The imperfect tense. b. A verb in the imperfect tense. [Middle English imparfit, from Old French imparfait, from Latin imperfectus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + perfectus, perfect; see PERFECT.] —im-per'fect-ly adv. —im-per'fect-ness n.

imperfect fungus (im-pûr'fĭkt fŭng'gəs) n. Any of various fungi of the order Fungi Imperfecti, which reproduce only by asexual means.

im-per-fec-tion (im'pĕr-fĕk'shən) n. 1. The quality or condition of being imperfect. 2. Something imperfect; a defect or flaw. See Synonyms at blemish.

im-per-fec-tive (im'pĕr-fĕk'tĭv) adj. Grammar. Of, relating to, or being action without regard to its beginning or completion.

im-per-fo-rate (im-pûr'fĕr-ĭt) adj. 1. Having no opening; not perforated.

2. Not separated by rows of perforations: imperforate sheets of stamps.

3. Medicine. Lacking a normal opening: an imperforate anus. — n. An imperforate stamp.

im-pe-ri-a (im-pĭr'ĕ-ə) n. Plural of imperium.

im-pe-ri-al (im-pĭr'ĕ-əl) adj. Abbr. imp. 1. Of, relating to, or suggestive of an empire or a sovereign, especially an emperor or empress: imperial rule; the imperial palace. 2. Ruling over extensive territories or over colonies or dependencies: imperial nations. 3. a. Having supreme authority; sovereign. b. Regal; majestic. 4. Outstanding in size or quality. 5. Of or belonging to the British Imperial System of weights and measures. — n. 1. An emperor or empress. 2. The top of a carriage. 3. Something outstanding in size or quality. 4. A variable size of paper, usually 23 by 33 inches. 5. A pointed beard grown from the lower lip and chin. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin imperiālis, from imperium, command; see EMPIRE. N., sense 5, after the beard of NAPOLÉON III.]

—im-pe'ri-al-ly adv.

Im-pe-ri-al Beach (ĩm-pîr'ē-əl bēch) A city of southern California on the Pacific Ocean at the Mexican border. It is a residential and resort community. Population, 26,512.

im-pe-ri-al-ism (ĩm-pîr'ē-əl-iz'əm) n. 1. The policy of extending a nation's authority by territorial acquisition or by the establishment of economic and political hegemony over other nations. 2. The system, policies, or practices of such a government. —im-pe'ri-al-ist adj., n. —im-pe'ri-al-is'tic adj.
—im-pe'ri-al-is'ti-cal-ly adv.

imperial moth (ĩm-pîr'ē-əl môth) n. A large New World moth (Eacles imperialis) having yellow wings with purplish or brownish markings.

Imperial Valley (ĩm-pîr'ē-əl vāl'ē) A fertile, irrigated region of southeast California and northeast Baja California, Mexico. Mostly below sea level, it includes the Salton Sea.

im-per-il (ĩm-pěr'əl) v. tr. im-per-iled or im-per-illed, im-per-il-ing or im-per-il-ling, im-per-ils or im-per-ils. To put into peril; endanger. See Synonyms at endanger. —im-per'il-ment n.

im-pe-ri-ous (ĩm-pîr'ē-əs) adj. 1. Arrogantly domineering or overbearing. See Synonyms at dictatorial. 2. Urgent; pressing. 3. Obsolete. Regal; imperial. [From Latin imperiōsus, from imperium, imperium. See EMPIRE.]
—im-pe'ri-ous-ly adv. —im-pe'ri-ous-ness n.

im-per-ish-a-ble (ĩm-pěr'ĩ-shə-bəl) adj. Not perishable: imperishable food; imperishable hopes. —im-per'ish-a-bil'i-ty, im-per'ish-a-ble-ness n.
—im-per'ish-a-bly adv.

im-pe-ri-um (ĩm-pîr'ē-əm) n. pl. im-pe-ri-a (-pîr'ē-ə). 1. Absolute rule; supreme power. 2. A sphere of power or dominion; an empire. 3. Law. The right or power of a state to enforce the law. [Latin. See EMPIRE.]

im-per-ma-nent (ĩm-pûr'mə-nənt) adj. Not lasting or durable; not permanent. —im-per'ma-nence, im-per'ma-nen-cy n.

im-per-me-a-ble (ĩm-pûr'mē-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to permeate: an impermeable fortress. —im-per'me-a-bil'i-ty, im-per'me-a-ble-ness n.
—im-per'me-a-bly adv.

im-per-mis-si-ble (ĩm'pər-mis'ə-bəl) adj. Not permitted; not permissible: impermissible behavior. —im'per-mis'si-bil'i-ty n. —im'per-mis'si-bly adv.

im-per-son-al (ĩm-pûr'sə-nəl) adj. 1. Lacking personality; not being a person: an impersonal force. 2. a. Showing no emotion or personality: an aloof, impersonal manner. b. Having no personal reference or connection: an impersonal remark. c. Not responsive to or expressive of human personalities: a large, impersonal corporation. 3. Grammar. a. Of, relating to, or being the action of a verb that expresses the action of an unspecified subject, as in methinks, “it seems to me”; Latin pluit, “it rains”; or, with an expletive subject, English it snowed.

b. Indefinite. Used of pronouns. —im-per'son-al'i-ty (-sə-nāl'ī-tē) n.
—im-per'son-al-ly adv.

im-per-son-al-ize (īm-pûr'sə-nə-līz') v. tr. im-per-son-al-ized, im-per-son-al-iz-ing, im-per-son-al-iz-es. To make impersonal.

im-per-son-ate (īm-pûr'sə-nāt') v. tr. im-per-son-at-ed, im-per-son-at-ing, im-per-son-ates. 1. To assume the character or appearance of, especially fraudulently: impersonate a police officer. 2. To imitate the appearance, voice, or manner of; mimic: an entertainer who impersonates celebrities.
3. Archaic. To embody; personify. —im-per'son-a'tion n. —im-per'-son-a'tor n.

im-per-ti-nence (īm-pûr'tn-əns) n. 1. The quality or condition of being impertinent, especially: a. Insolence. b. Irrelevance. 2. An impertinent act or statement.

im-per-ti-nen-cy (īm-pûr'tn-ən-sē) n. pl. im-per-ti-nen-cies. Impertinence.

im-per-ti-nent (īm-pûr'tn-ənt) adj. 1. Exceeding the limits of propriety or good manners; improperly forward or bold: impertinent of a child to lecture a grownup. 2. Not pertinent; irrelevant. See Synonyms at irrelevant. [Middle English, irrelevant, from Old French, from Late Latin impertinēns, impertinent-: Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + pertinēns, pertinent; see PERTINENT.] —im-per'ti-nent-ly adv.

im-per-turb-a-ble (īm'pər-tûr'bə-bəl) adj. Unshakably calm and collected. See Synonyms at cool. —im'per-turb'a-bil'i-ty, im'per-turb'a-ble-ness n.
—im'per-turb'a-bly adv.

im-per-vi-ous (īm-pûr'vē-əs) adj. 1. Incapable of being penetrated: a material impervious to water. 2. Incapable of being affected: impervious to fear. [From Latin impervius: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + pervius, pervious; see PERVIOUS.] —im-per'vi-ous-ly adv. —im-per'vi-ous-ness n.

im-pe-ti-go (īm'pī-tī'gō) n. pl. im-pe-ti-gos. A contagious bacterial skin infection, usually of children, that is characterized by the eruption of superficial pustules and the formation of thick yellow crusts, commonly on the face. [Middle English, from Latin impetīgō, from impetere, to attack. See IMPETUS.] im-pet-u-os-i-ty (īm-pěch'ōō-ōs'ī-tē) n. pl. im-pet-u-os-i-ties. 1. The quality or condition of being impetuous. 2. An impetuous act.

im-pet-u-ous (īm-pěch'ōō-əs) adj. 1. Characterized by sudden and forceful energy or emotion; impulsive and passionate. 2. Having or marked by violent force: impetuous, heaving waves. [Middle English, violent, from Old French impetueux, from Late Latin impetuōsus, from Latin impetus, impetus. See IMPETUS.] —im-pet'u-ous-ly adv. —im-pet'u-ous-ness n.

SYNONYMS: impetuous, heedless, hasty, headlong, precipitate, sudden. These adjectives describe people and their actions when they are marked by abruptness or lack of deliberation. Impetuous suggests forceful impulsiveness or impatience: “[a race driver who was] flamboyant, impetuous, disdainful of death” (Jim Murray). Headless implies carelessness or lack of a sense of responsibility or proper regard for consequences: “Hobbling down stairs with heedless haste, I set my foot full in a pail of water” (Richard Steele). Hasty and headlong both stress hurried, often reckless action: “Hasty marriage seldom proveth well” (Shakespeare). The soldiers made a headlong rush for cover. Precipitate suggests impulsiveness and lack of due reflection: “Some of the fickle populace began to doubt whether they had not been rather precipitate in deposing his brother” (Washington Irving). Sudden applies to what becomes apparent abruptly or unexpectedly: The patient is given to sudden and inexplicable paroxysms of anger.

im-pe-tus (ĩm'pĩ-təs) n. pl. im-pe-tus-es. 1. An impelling force; an impulse. 2. The force or energy associated with a moving body. 3. a. Something that incites; a stimulus. b. Increased activity in response to a stimulus: The approaching deadline gave impetus to the investigation. [Latin, from impetere, to attack : in-, against; see IN⁻² + petere, to go towards, seek; see pet- in Appendix.]

im-pi-e-ty (ĩm-pĩ'ĩ-tē) n. pl. im-pi-e-ties. 1. The quality or state of being impious. 2. An impious act. 3. Undutifulness.

im-pinge (ĩm-pĩnj') v. intr. im-pinged, im-ping-ing, im-ping-es. 1. To collide or strike: Sound waves impinge on the eardrum. 2. To encroach; trespass: Do not impinge on my privacy. — v. tr. To encroach upon: “One of a democratic government’s continuing challenges is finding a way to protect... secrets without impinging the liberties that democracy exists to protect” (Christian Science Monitor). [Latin impingere : in-, against; see IN⁻² + pangere, to fasten; see pag- in Appendix.] —im-pinge'ment n. —im-ping'er n.

im-pi-ous (ĩm'pē-əs, ĩm-pĩ'-) adj. 1. Lacking reverence; not pious. 2. Lacking due respect or dutifulness: impious toward one’s parents. [From Latin impius : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + pious, dutiful.] —im/pi-ous-ly adv. —im/pi-ous-ness n.

imp-ish (ĩm'pĩsh) adj. Of or befitting an imp; mischievous. See Synonyms at playful. —imp-ish-ly adv. —imp-ish-ness n.

im-pi-toy-a-ble (ăN-pē-toi-ă'blə) n. A large wine-tasting glass configured so as to enhance taste and amplify aroma. [French, pitiless, from Old French : in-, not (from Latin in-); see IN⁻¹ + pitable, capable of pity (from piteer, to pity, from pite, pity); see PITY.]

im-plac-a-ble (ĩm-plăk'ə-bəl, -plă'kə-) adj. Impossible to placate or appease: implacable foes; implacable suspicion. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin implacabilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + placabilis, placable; see PLACABLE.] —im-plac'a-bil/i-ty, im-plac'a-ble-ness n. —im-plac'a-bly adv.

im-plant (ĩm-plănt') v. im-plant-ed, im-plant-ing, im-plants. — v. tr. 1. To set in firmly, as into the ground: implant fence posts. 2. To establish securely, as in the mind or consciousness; instill: habits that had been implanted early in childhood. 3. Medicine. a. To insert or embed (an object or a device) surgically: implant a pacemaker; implant a drug capsule. b. To graft or insert (a tissue) within the body. — v. intr. Embryology. To become attached to and embedded in the uterine lining. Used of a fertilized egg. — n. (im'plānt') Something implanted, especially a surgically implanted tissue or device: a dental implant; a subcutaneous implant. [Middle English implanten, from Medieval Latin implantāre: Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin plantāre, to plant (from planta, a shoot); see PLANT.] —im·plant'·a·ble adj.

im·plan·ta·tion (im'plān-tā'shən) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of implanting. b. The condition of being implanted. 2. Embryology. The process by which a fertilized egg implants in the uterine lining.

im·plau·si·ble (im-plō'zə-bəl) adj. Difficult to believe; not plausible.

—im·plau'si·bil'i·ty, im·plau'si·ble·ness n. —im·plau'si·bly adv.

im·plead (im-plēd') v. tr. im·plead·ed, im·plead·ing, im·pleads. Law. To sue in court in response to an earlier pleading. [Middle English empledēn, from Anglo-Norman empler, variant of Old French emplaidier: en-, intensive pref. (from Latin in-); see IN⁻² + plaidier, to plead; see PLEAD.]

im·ple·ment (im'plə-mənt) n. 1. A tool or an instrument used in doing work: a gardening implement. See Synonyms at tool. 2. An article used to outfit or equip. 3. A means of achieving an end; an instrument or agent. — v. tr.

im·ple·ment·ed, im·ple·ment·ing, im·ple·ments (-mənt'). 1. To put into practical effect; carry out: implement the new procedures. See Synonyms at enforce. 2. To supply with implements. [Middle English, supplementary payment, from Old French ement, act of filling, from Late Latin implēmentum, from Latin implēre, to fill up: in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + plēre, to fill; see pelə⁻¹ in Appendix.] —im'ple·men·ta'tion (-mənt-tā'shən, -mēn-) n. —im'ple·ment'er n.

USAGE NOTE: The verb implement, meaning “to put into practice, carry out,” has in fact been in use since the 19th century. Critics have sometimes objected to the verb as jargon, but its obvious usefulness appears to have outweighed their reservations. Eighty-nine percent of the Usage Panel accepts the usage in the sentence The mayor's office announced the creation of a special task force that will be responsible for implementing the new policy.

im·pli·cate (im'plī-kāt') v. tr. im·pli·cat·ed, im·pli·cat·ing, im·pli·cates.

1. To involve or connect intimately or incriminatingly: evidence that implicates others in the plot. 2. To have as a consequence or an inference; imply. 3. Archaic. To interweave or entangle; entwine. [Middle English, to convey a truth bound up in a fable, from Latin implicāre, implicāt-, to entangle, unite : in-, in; see IN⁻² + plicāre, to fold; see plek- in Appendix.]

im·pli·ca·tion (im'plī-kā'shən) n. 1. The act of implicating or the condition of being implicated. 2. The act of implying or the condition of being implied. 3. Something that is implied, especially: a. An indirect indication; a suggestion. b. An implied meaning; implicit significance. c. An inference. —im'pli·ca'-tive adj. —im'pli·ca'tive·ly adv.

im·plic·it (im-plīs'īt) adj. 1. Implied or understood though not directly expressed: an implicit agreement not to raise the touchy subject. 2. Contained in the nature of something though not readily apparent: "Frustration is implicit in any attempt to express the deepest self" (Patricia Hampl). 3. Having no doubts or reservations; unquestioning: implicit trust. [Latin implicitus, variant of implicātus, past participle of implicāre, to entangle. See IMPLICATE.]

—im·plic'it·ly adv. —im·plic'it·ness n.

implicit differentiation (im-plīs'īt dīf-ə-rĕn'shē-ā'shən) n. Mathematics. The process of isolating the derivative of a dependent variable of an implicit function by differentiating each term of the function separately, expressing the desired derivative as a symbol, and solving the resulting expression for the symbol.

implicit function (im-plīs'īt fŭngk'shən) n. Mathematics. An equation in which the variable being solved for is not directly expressed but must be arrived at by manipulation of the expression. For example, in the equation $2x + 3y = 0$, x is an implicit function of y .

im·plode (im-plōd') v. im·plod·ed, im·plod·ing, im·plodes. — v. intr. To collapse inward violently. — v. tr. 1. To cause to collapse inward violently. 2. To demolish (a building) by causing to collapse inward. [IN⁻² + (EX)PLODE.]

im·plore (im-plōr', -plōr') v. tr. im·plored, im·plor·ing, im·plores. 1. To appeal to in supplication; beseech: implored the tribunal to have mercy. 2. To beg for urgently; entreat. — v. intr. To make an earnest appeal. See Synonyms at beg. [Latin implōrāre : in-, toward; see IN⁻² + plōrāre, to weep.] —im'plo·ra'-tion n. —im·plor'er n. —im·plor'ing·ly adv.

im·plo·sion (im-plō'zhən) n. 1. A violent collapse inward, as of a highly evacuated glass vessel. 2. Violent compression. 3. The inward collapse of a building that is being demolished in a controlled fashion by the weakening and breaking of structural members by explosives. 4. Linguistics. The pronunciation of a stop consonant with the breath drawn in. [IN⁻² + (EX)PLOSION.]

im·plo·sive (im-plō'sīv) n. Linguistics. A stop consonant pronounced with the breath drawn in. —im·plo'sive adj.

im·ply (im-plī') v. tr. im·plied, im·ply·ing, im·plies. 1. To involve by logical necessity; entail: Life implies growth and death. 2. To express or indicate indirectly: His tone implied disapproval. See Synonyms at suggest. See Usage Note at infer. 3. Obsolete. To entangle. [Middle English implien, from Old French emplier, to unfold, from Latin implicāre. See IMPLICATE.]

im·po·lite (im'pə-līt') adj. Not polite; discourteous. [Latin impolītus, unpolished, inelegant : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + polītus, polished, past participle of polīre, to polish; see POLISH.] —im'po·lite/ly adv. —im'po·lite/ness n.

im·pol·i·tic (im-pōl'ī-tīk) adj. Not wise or expedient; not politic: an impolitic approach to a sensitive issue. —im·pol/i·tic·ly adv.

im·pon·der·a·ble (im-pōn'dər-ə-bəl) adj. That cannot undergo precise evaluation: imponderable problems. —im·pon'der·a·ble n.

—im·pon'der·a·bil/i·ty, im·pon'der·a·ble·ness n. —im·pon'der·a·bly adv.

im·port (im-pōrt', -pōrt', im'pōrt', -pōrt') v. im·port·ed, im·port·ing, im·ports. — v. tr. 1. To bring or carry in from an outside source, especially to bring in (goods or materials) from a foreign country for trade or sale.

2. Computer Science. To transfer (a file, for example) from one database to another. 3. To carry or hold the meaning of; signify: a high inflation rate importing hard times for the consumer. See Synonyms at mean¹. 4. To imply.

5. Archaic. To have importance for. — v. intr. To be significant. See Synonyms at count¹. — n. (im'pōrt', -pōrt') 1. Abbr. imp. Something imported.

2. The act or occupation of importing goods or materials. 3. Meaning; significance. See Synonyms at meaning. 4. Importance; significance: a legal decision of far-reaching import. See Synonyms at importance. [Middle English importen, to convey a meaning, from Medieval Latin importāre, and from Old French importer, to cause both from Latin importāre, to carry in, cause : in-, in; see IN⁻² + portāre, to carry; see per⁻² in Appendix.] —im·port'a·bil/i·ty n.

—im·port'a·ble adj. —im·port'er n.

im·por·tance (im-pōrt'ns) n. 1. The quality or condition of being important; significance. 2. Personal status; standing. 3. Obsolete. An important matter.

4. Obsolete. Meaning; import. 5. Obsolete. Importunity.

SYNONYMS: importance, consequence, moment, significance, import, weight.

These nouns refer to the state or quality of being significant, influential, or worthy of note or esteem. Importance is the most general term: The importance of a proper diet in maintaining health should not be disregarded. In this profession, training and experience are of equal importance. Cartoonists are considered by some to be artists of secondary importance. Consequence is especially applicable to persons or things of notable rank or position (scholars of consequence) and to what is important because of its possible outcome, result, or effect (Changes in the tax law are of consequence to all investors). Moment implies importance or consequence that is readily apparent: Heads of state are confronted with making decisions of great moment. Significance and import refer to the quality of something, often not obvious, that gives it special meaning or value: Your vote can be of real significance in the outcome of the election. The works of John Locke are of great social import. Weight is frequently used when a personal evaluation or judgment of importance is suggested: “The popular faction at Rome... was led by men of weight” (J.A. Froude).

im·por·tant (im-pôr'tnt) adj. Abbr. imp. 1. Strongly affecting the course of events or the nature of things; significant: an important message that must get through; close friends who are important to me. 2. Having or suggesting a consciousness of high position or authority; authoritative: recited the decree with an important air. 3. Obsolete. Importunate. [Middle English, from Old French, from Medieval Latin importāns, important- present participle of importāre, to mean, from Latin, to import. See IMPORT.] —im·por'tant·ly adv.

USAGE NOTE: Some critics have objected to the use of the phrase more importantly in place of more important as a means of introducing an assertion, as in More importantly, there is no party ready to step into the vacuum left by the Communists. But both forms are widely used by reputable writers, and there is no obvious reason for preferring one or the other. In an earlier survey the introductory use of more importantly was acceptable to half of the members of the Usage Panel.

im·por·ta·tion (im'pôr-tā'shən, -pôr-) n. 1. a. The act or business of importing. b. The condition or process of being imported. 2. Something imported; an import.

im·por·tu·nate (im-pôr'chə-nīt) adj. Troublesomely urgent or persistent in requesting; pressingly entreating: an importunate job seeker.

—im·por'tu·nate·ly adv. —im·por'tu·nate·ness n.

im·por·tune (im'pôr-tōon', -tyōon', im-pôr'chən) v. im·por·tuned, im·por·tun·ing, im·por·tunes. — v. tr. 1. To beset with insistent or repeated requests; entreat pressingly. 2. Archaic. To ask for urgently or repeatedly. 3. To annoy; vex. — v. intr. To plead or urge irksomely, often persistently. See Synonyms at beg. — adj. Importunate. [French importuner, from Old French importun, inopportune, from Latin importūnus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + portus, port, refuge; see per⁻² in Appendix.] —im'por·tune'ly adv. —im'por·tun'er n.

im·por·tu·ni·ty (im'pôr-tōō'nī-tē, -tyōō'-) n. pl. im·por·tun·i·ties. 1. An importunate request; an insistent or pressing demand. 2. The quality of being importunate.

im·pose (im-pōz') v. im·posed, im·pos·ing, im·pos·es. — v. tr. 1. To establish or apply as compulsory; levy: impose a tax. 2. To apply or make prevail by or as if by authority: impose a peace settlement. See Synonyms at dictate.

3. To obtrude or force (oneself, for example) on another or others. 4. Printing.

To arrange (type or plates) on an imposing stone. 5. To offer or circulate fraudulently; pass off: imposed a fraud on consumers. — v. intr. To take unfair advantage: You are always imposing on their generosity. [Middle English imposen, from Old French imposer, alteration (influenced by poser, to put, place); see POSE¹, of Latin impōnere, to place upon : in-, on; see IN⁻² + pōnere, to place; see apo- in Appendix.] —im·pos'er n.

im·pos·ing (im-pō'zɪŋ) adj. Impressive, as by virtue of size, bearing, or power: the monarch's imposing presence. See Synonyms at grand.

—im·pos'ing·ly adv.

imposing stone (im-pō'zɪŋ stōn) n. Printing. A stone or metal slab on which material to be printed is arranged. Also called imposing table im·po·si·tion (im'pə-zɪsh'ən) n. 1. The act of imposing or the condition of being imposed. 2. Something imposed, such as a tax, an undue burden, or a fraud. 3. A burdensome or unfair demand, as upon someone's time: listened to the telephone solicitor but resented the imposition. 4. Printing. The arrangement of printed matter to form a sequence of pages.

im·pos·si·bil·i·ty (im-pōs'ə-bɪl'ɪ-tē) n. pl. im·pos·si·bil·i·ties. 1. The condition or quality of being impossible. 2. Something impossible.

im·pos·si·ble (im-pōs'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Incapable of having existence or of occurring. 2. Not capable of being accomplished: an impossible goal. 3. Unacceptable; intolerable: impossible behavior. 4. Extremely difficult to deal with or tolerate: an impossible child; an impossible situation. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin impossibilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + possibilis, possible; see POSSIBLE.]

—im·pos'si·bly adv.

im·post¹ (im'pōst') n. 1. Something, such as a tax or duty, that is imposed. 2. Sports. The weight a horse must carry in a handicap race. [Obsolete French, from Old French, from Medieval Latin impostum, from Latin, neuter of impostus, variant of impositus, past participle of impōnere, to place upon. See IMPOSE.]

im·post² (im'pōst') n. Architecture. The uppermost part of a column or pillar supporting an arch. [French imposte, from Italian imposta, from Latin, feminine past participle of impōnere, to place upon. See IMPOSE.]

im·pos·tor (im-pōs'tər) n. One who engages in deception under an assumed name or identity. [French imposteur, from Late Latin impostor, variant of impositor, one who assigns a name, from impositus, past participle of impōnere, to place upon. See IMPOSE.]

SYNONYMS: impostor, quack, faker, humbug, mountebank, charlatan. These nouns denote people who pretend to be other than what they are or to have abilities or qualifications that they do not really have. An impostor assumes the character or identity of another for the purpose of deceiving: He succeeded in his profession, but he always secretly considered himself an impostor. Quack refers especially to one who practices medicine without being properly qualified: “He who has once been under the hands of a quack, is for ever after prone to dabble in drugs” (Washington Irving). A faker simulates or feigns the appearance of being what he or she is not: The brokerage executive was unmasked as a faker. A humbug is a self-important or self-deluded faker: “What a humbug that woman is!” (Thackeray). A mountebank is a flamboyant, unscrupulous dealer or promoter: “I remember... there was an impudent mountebank who sold pills which (as he told the country people) were very good against an earthquake” (Joseph Addison). A charlatan makes false claims to skill or knowledge and hides his or her deficiency by an elaborate, fraudulent, often voluble display: It was difficult to discern that despite all the abstruse vocabulary the professor was really a charlatan.

im·pos·ture (im-pŏs'tchər) n. The act or instance of engaging in deception under an assumed name or identity. [French, from Old French, from Late Latin impostūra, from Latin impostus, variant of impositus, past participle of impōnere, to place upon. See IMPOSE.]

im·po·tence (im'pə-təns) also im·po·ten·cy (-tən-sē) n. The quality or condition of being impotent.

im·po·tent (im'pə-tənt) adj. 1. Lacking physical strength or vigor; weak.

2. Lacking in power, as to act effectively; helpless: “Technology without morality is barbarous; morality without technology is impotent” (Freeman J. Dyson).

3. a. Incapable of sexual intercourse, often because of an inability to achieve or sustain an erection. b. Sterile. Used of males. See Synonyms at sterile.

4. Obsolete. Lacking self-restraint. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin impotēns, impotent- : in-, not; see IN-¹ + potēns, potent; see POTENT.]

—im'po·tent·ly adv.

im·pound (im-pound') v. tr. im·pound·ed, im·pound·ing, im·pounds.

1. To confine in or as if in a pound: capture and impound stray dogs. 2. To seize and retain in legal custody: impounding disputed electoral ballots. 3. To set aside in a fund rather than spend as prescribed: a governor who impounded monies designated for the use of cities and towns. 4. To accumulate and store in a reservoir: By damming the stream, the engineers impounded its waters for irrigation.

—im·pound'age, im·pound'ment n. —im·pound'er n.

im·pov·er·ish (im-pŏv'ər-ish) v. tr. im·pov·er·ished, im·pov·er·ish·ing, im·pov·er·ish·es. 1. To reduce to poverty; make poor. 2. To deprive of natural richness or strength: impoverish the soil by overuse. See Synonyms at deplete.

[Middle English empoverishen, from Old French empovrir, empovriss- : en-, causative pref.; see IN-² + povre, poor (from Latin pauper); see PAUPER.] —im·pov·er·ish·ment n.

im·pov·er·ished (im-pöv'ər-ışht) adj. 1. Reduced to poverty; poverty-stricken. See Synonyms at poor. 2. Deprived of natural richness or strength; depleted: an impoverished speech; a region impoverished by drought.

im·prac·ti·ca·ble (im-präk'ti-kə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to do or carry out: Refloating the sunken ship intact proved impracticable because of its fragility.

2. Unfit for passage: roads impracticable in winter. 3. Archaic. Unmanageable; intractable. —im·prac'ti·ca·bil'i·ty, im·prac'ti·ca·ble·ness n.

—im·prac'ti·ca·bly adv.

USAGE NOTE: Impracticable applies to a course of action that is impossible to carry out or put into practice; impractical, though it can be used in this way, also can be weaker in sense, suggesting that the course of action would yield an insufficient return or would have little practical value. A plan for a new baseball stadium might be rejected as impracticable if the site was too marshy to permit safe construction; but if the objection was merely that the site was too remote for patrons to attend games easily, the plan would better be described as impractical. See Usage Note at practicable.

im·prac·ti·cal (im-präk'ti-kəl) adj. 1. Unwise to implement or maintain in practice: Refloating the sunken ship proved impractical because of the great expense.

2. Incapable of dealing efficiently with practical matters, especially finances.

3. Not a part of experience, fact, or practice; theoretical. 4. Impracticable. See Usage Note at impracticable. —im·prac'ti·cal'i·ty (-käl'i-tē), im·prac'ti·cal·ness n.

im·pre·cate (im'pri-kāt') v. tr. im·pre·cat·ed, im·pre·cat·ing, im·pre·cates. To invoke evil upon; curse. [Latin imprecāri, imprecāt- : in-, towards; see IN-² + precāri, to pray, ask; see prek- in Appendix.] —im'pre·ca'-tor n.

—im'pre·ca·to'ry (-kə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj.

im·pre·ca·tion (im'pri-kā'shən) n. 1. The act of imprecating. 2. A curse.

im·pre·cise (im'pri-sīs') adj. Not precise. —im'pre·cise'ly adv.

—im'pre·ci'sion (-sīzh'ən) n.

im·preg·na·ble¹ (im-præg'nə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to capture or enter by force: an impregnable fortress. 2. Difficult or impossible to attack, challenge, or refute with success: an impregnable argument. [Middle English, from Old French imprenable : in-, not (from Latin in-); see IN-¹ + pregnable, pregnable; see PREGNA·BLE.]

im·preg·na·ble² (im-præg'nə-bəl) adj. Capable of being impregnated.

[IMPREGN(ATE) + -ABLE.]

im·preg·nate (im-præg'nāt) v. tr. im·preg·nat·ed, im·preg·nat·ing, im·preg·nates. 1. To make pregnant; inseminate. 2. To fertilize (an ovum, for example). 3. To fill throughout; saturate: a cotton wad that was impregnated with ether. 4. To permeate or imbue: impregnate a speech with optimism. See Synonyms at charge. — adj. (also -nĭt) Saturated or filled. [Probably from Late Latin impraegnātus, pregnant : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin praegnātus variant of praegnās, pregnant. See PREGNANT¹.] —im'preg-na'tion n. —im-preg'na'tor n.

im-pre-sa (ĭm-prā'zə) n. An emblem or a device with a motto. [Italian, undertaking, impresa. See IMPRESARIO.]

im-pre-sa-ri-o (ĭm'prĭ-sār'ē-ō', -sār'-) n. pl. im-pre-sa-ri-os. 1. One who sponsors or produces entertainment, especially the director of an opera company. 2. A manager; a producer. [Italian, from impresa, undertaking, from feminine past participle of imprendere, to undertake, from Vulgar Latin imprendere*. See EMPRISE.]

im-press¹ (ĭm-prĕs') v. tr. im-pressed, im-press-ing, im-press-es. 1. To affect strongly, often favorably: wrote down whatever impressed me during the journey; was impressed by the child's sincerity. See Synonyms at affect¹. 2. To produce or attempt to produce a vivid impression or image of: a scene that impressed itself on his memory; tries to impress the value of money on the students. 3. To mark or stamp with or as if with pressure: impressed a design on the hot wax. 4. To apply with pressure; press. — n. (ĭm'prĕs') 1. The act of impressing. 2. A mark or pattern produced by or as if by impressing. See Synonyms at impression. 3. A stamp or seal meant to be impressed. [Middle English impresen, to imprint, from Old French empresser, from Latin impressus, past participle of imprimere : in-, in; see IN⁻² + premere, to press; see per⁻⁴ in Appendix.]

im-press² (ĭm-prĕs') v. tr. im-pressed, im-press-ing, im-press-es. 1. To compel (a person) to serve in a military force. 2. To seize (property) by force or authority; confiscate. — n. (ĭm'prĕs) Impressment. [IN⁻² + PRESS² (influenced by IMPREST, advance on a soldier's pay (obsolete)).]

im-press-i-ble (ĭm-prĕs'ə-bəl) adj. Susceptible to impressions; malleable: impressible young minds. —im-press'i-bil/i-ty n. —im-press'i-bly adv.

im-pres-sion (ĭm-prĕsh'ən) n. 1. An effect, a feeling, or an image retained as a consequence of experience. 2. A vague notion, remembrance, or belief: I have the impression that we have met once before. 3. A mark produced on a surface by pressure. 4. The act or process of impressing. 5. Printing. a. All the copies of a publication printed at one time from the same set of type. b. A single copy of such a printing. 6. A humorous imitation of the voice and mannerisms of a famous person done by an entertainer. 7. An initial or single coat of color or paint. 8. Dentistry. An imprint of the teeth and surrounding tissues, formed with a plastic material that hardens into a mold for use in making dentures, inlays, or plastic models.

SYNONYMS: impression, impress, imprint, print, stamp. The central meaning shared by these nouns is “a visible mark made on a surface by pressure”: an impression of a notary’s seal on wax; the impress of bare feet in the sand; a medal marked with the imprint of a bald eagle; a tar driveway with the print of automobile tires; a gold ingot with the refiner’s stamp.

im·pres·sion·a·ble (im-prĕsh’ə-nə-bəl) adj. 1. Readily or easily influenced; suggestible: impressionable young people. 2. Capable of receiving an impression; plastic: impressionable plaster. —im·pres’·sion·a·bil’·i·ty, im·pres’·sion·a·ble·ness n.

im·pres·sion·ism (im-prĕsh’ə-nĭz’əm) n. 1. Often Impressionism. A theory or style of painting originating and developed in France during the 1870’s, characterized by concentration on the immediate visual impression produced by a scene and by the use of unmixed primary colors and small strokes to simulate actual reflected light. 2. A literary style characterized by the use of details and mental associations to evoke subjective and sensory impressions rather than the re-creation of objective reality. 3. Music. A style of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, using lush and somewhat vague harmony and rhythm to evoke suggestions of mood, place, and natural phenomena. 4. The practice of expressing or developing one’s subjective response to a work of art or to actual experience.

im·pres·sion·ist (im-prĕsh’ə-nĭst) n. 1. An artist, a composer, or a writer who practices or upholds the theories of impressionism. 2. An entertainer who does impressions. — adj. Of, relating to, or practicing impressionism, especially in painting; impressionistic.

im·pres·sion·is·tic (im-prĕsh’ə-nĭs’tĭk) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or practicing impressionism. 2. Of, relating to, or predicated on impression as opposed to reason or fact: impressionistic memories of early childhood. 3. Impressionable. —im·pres’·sion·is’ti·cal·ly adv.

im·pres·sive (im-prĕs’ĭv) adj. Making a strong or vivid impression; striking or remarkable: an impressive ceremony. —im·pres’sive·ly adv. —im·pres’sive·ness n.

im·press·ment (im-prĕs’mənt) n. The act or policy of seizing people or property for public service or use.

im·pres·sure (im-prĕsh’ər) n. Archaic. A mark produced by pressure; an impression.

im·prest (im-prĕst’) n. An advance or a loan of funds, especially for services rendered to a government. [From obsolete Italian impresto, loan, from past participle of imprestare, to lend : in-, toward (from Latin); see IN-² + prestare, to lend (from Latin praestāre, to give, from praestō, at hand).]

im·pri·ma·tur (im’prə-mā’tōor, -mā’tər) n. 1. Abbr. imp. Official approval or license to print or publish, especially under conditions of censorship. 2. a. Official approval; sanction. b. A mark of official approval: a directive bear- ing the imprimatur of high officials. [New Latin imprimatur, let it be printed, third person sing. present subjunctive passive of Latin imprimere, to imprint. See IMPRESS¹.]

im-pri-mis (ĩm-přĩ'mĩs) adv. In the first place. [Middle English in primis, from Latin in primis : in, among; see IN⁻² + primis, ablative pl. of primus, first; see per¹ in Appendix.]

im-print (ĩm-přĩnt') v. tr. im-print-ed, im-print-ing, im-prints. 1. To produce (a mark or pattern) on a surface by pressure. 2. To produce a mark on (a surface) by pressure. 3. To impart a strong or vivid impression of: "We imprint our own ideas onto acts" (Ellen Goodman). 4. To fix firmly, as in the mind: He tried to imprint the number on his memory. — n. (ĩm'přĩnt') 1. A mark or pattern produced by imprinting. See Synonyms at impression. 2. A distinguishing influence or effect: Spanish architecture that shows the imprint of Islamic rule. 3. A publisher's name, often with the date, address, and edition, printed at the bottom of a title page of a publication. [Middle English emprenten, from Old French empreinter, from empreinte, impression, from feminine past participle of empreindre, to print, from Latin imprimere, to impress. See IMPRESS¹.]

im-print-ing (ĩm'přĩn'tĩng) n. A learning process occurring early in the life of a social animal in which a specific behavior pattern is established through association with a parent or other role model.

im-pris-on (ĩm-přĩz'ən) v. tr. im-pris-oned, im-pris-on-ing, im-pris-ons. To put in or as if in prison; confine. [Middle English emprisonen, from Old French emprisoner : en-, in (from Latin in-); see IN⁻² + prison, prison; see PRISON.]

—im-pris'on-a-ble adj. —im-pris'on-ment n.

im-prob-a-bil-i-ty (ĩm-přöb'ə-bĩl'ĩ-tē) n. pl. im-prob-a-bil-i-ties. 1. The quality or condition of being improbable. 2. Something improbable.

im-prob-a-ble (ĩm-přöb'ə-bəl) adj. Unlikely to take place or be true.

—im-prob'a-ble-ness n. —im-prob'a-bly adv.

im-pro-bi-ty (ĩm-přöb'ĩ-tē) n. Lack of probity; dishonesty. [Middle English improbite, shameless persistence, from Old French, dishonesty, from Latin improbitās, from improbus, dishonest : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + probus, honest, good; see per¹ in Appendix.]

im-promp-tu (ĩm-přömp'tö, -työ) adj. 1. Prompted by the occasion rather than being planned in advance: an impromptu party. 2. Spoken, performed, done, or composed with little or no preparation; extemporaneous: a few impromptu remarks. See Synonyms at extemporaneous. — adv. With little or no preparation; extemporaneously. — n. 1. Something, such as a speech, that is made or done extemporaneously. 2. Music. A short lyrical composition especially for the piano. [French, from Latin in promptu, at hand : in, in; see IN⁻² + promptu, ablative of promptus, readiness from past participle of prömere, to bring forth; see PROMPT.]

im·prop·er (im-prŏp'ər) adj. 1. Not suited to circumstances or needs; unsuitable: improper shoes for a walk on the beach; improper medical treatment. 2. Not in keeping with conventional mores; indecorous: improper behavior. 3. Not consistent with established truth, fact, or rule; incorrect. 4. Irregular or abnormal. —im·prop'er·ly adv. —im·prop'er·ness n.

SYNONYMS: improper, unbecoming, unseemly, indelicate, indecent, indecorous. These adjectives mean not in keeping with accepted standards of what is right or proper. Improper often refers to unethical conduct, a breach of etiquette, or morally offensive behavior: pleasant but slightly improper to dine alone with a married person. Unbecoming suggests what is beneath the standard implied by one's character or position: language unbecoming to a gentleman. What is unseemly or indelicate is in gross violation of good taste; indelicate especially suggests immodesty, coarseness, or tactlessness: unseemly to use profanity; an indelicate suggestion. Indecent refers to what is morally offensive or harmful: an earthy but not indecent story. Indecorous implies violation of the mores or manners of polite society: indecorous behavior; an indecorous proposition.

improper fraction (im-prŏp'ər frăk'shən) n. Mathematics. A fraction in which the numerator is larger than or equal to the denominator.

improper integral (im-prŏp'ər in'ti-grəl) n. Mathematics. An integral having at least one nonfinite limit or an integrand that becomes infinite between the limits of integration.

im·pro·pri·e·ty (im'prə-prī'i-tē) n. pl. im·pro·pri·e·ties. 1. The quality or condition of being improper. 2. An improper act. 3. An improper or unacceptable usage in speech or writing.

im·prove (im-prōv') v. im·proved, im·prov·ing, im·proves. — v. tr. 1. To raise to a more desirable or more excellent quality or condition; make better. 2. To increase the productivity or value of (land or property). 3. To put to good use; use profitably. — v. intr. 1. To become better. 2. To make beneficial additions or changes: improve on the translation. [Middle English improwen, to enclose land for cultivation, from Anglo-Norman emprouwer, to turn to profit : Old French en-, causative pref. (from Latin in); see IN-² + prou, profit (from Late Latin prōde, advantageous); see PROUD.]

SYNONYMS: improve, better, help, ameliorate. These verbs mean to advance to a more desirable, valuable, or excellent state. Improve and better, the most general terms, are often interchangeable: improve (or better) the mind through study; had a haircut to improve (or better) his appearance; practicing to improve (or better) her golf game. It is sometimes difficult for disadvantaged people to improve (or better) their situation in life. Help in this sense usually implies limited relief or change for the better: Gargling helps a sore throat. To ameliorate is to improve or better circumstances that demand change: Volunteers could do little to ameliorate conditions in the refugee camp.

- im-prove-ment (ĩm-prōv'mənt) n. 1. a. The act or process of improving. b. The state of being improved. 2. A change or an addition that improves.
- im-prov-i-dent (ĩm-prōv'ĩ-dənt) adj. 1. Not providing for the future; thriftless. 2. Rash; incautious. —im-prov/i-dence n. —im-prov/i-dent-ly adv.
- im-prov-i-sa-tion (ĩm-prōv'ĩ-zā'shən, ĩm'prə-vĩ-) n. 1. The act of improvising. 2. Something improvised, especially a dramatic skit.
- im-prov-i-sa-tor (ĩm-prōv'ĩ-zā'tər) n. One who improvises.
- im-prov-i-sa-to-ry (ĩm-prōv'ĩ-zə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē, ĩm'prə-vĩ'-) also im-prov-i-sa-to-ri-al (ĩm-prōv'ĩ-zə-tōr'ē-əl, -tōr'-) adj. 1. Made up without preparation; improvised. 2. Of or relating to improvisation: improvisatory skill.
- im-pro-viso (ĩm'prə-vĩz') v. im-pro-vised, im-pro-vis-ing, im-pro-vis-es. — v. tr. 1. To invent, compose, or recite without preparation. 2. To make or provide from available materials: improvised a dinner for the unexpected guests; improvise a makeshift tourniquet. — v. intr. To invent, compose, recite, or execute something offhand. [French improviser, from Italian improvvisare, from improvviso, unforeseen, from Latin imprōvīsus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + prōvīsus, past participle of prōvidēre, to foresee; see PROVIDE.] —im/pro-vis'er n.
- im-pru-dence (ĩm-prōd'ns) n. 1. The quality or condition of being unwise or indiscreet. 2. An unwise or indiscreet act.
- im-pru-dent (ĩm-prōd'nt) adj. Unwise or indiscreet; not prudent.
- im-pu-dence (ĩm'pyə-dəns) also im-pu-den-cy (-dən-sē) n. 1. The quality of being offensively bold. 2. Offensively bold behavior.
- im-pu-dent (ĩm'pyə-dənt) adj. 1. Characterized by offensive boldness; insolent or impertinent. See Synonyms at shameless. 2. Obsolete. Immodest. [Middle English, from Latin impudēns, impudent- : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + pudēns, present participle of pudēre, to be ashamed.] —im/pu-dent-ly adv.
- im-pu-dic-i-ty (ĩm'pyō-dīs'ĩ-tē) n. Immodesty; shamelessness. [Late Latin impudicitās, from Latin impudīcus, immodest : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + pudīcus, modest (from pudēre, to be ashamed).]
- im-pugn (ĩm-pyōn') v. tr. im-pugned, im-pugn-ing, im-pugns. To attack as false or questionable; challenge in argument: impugn a political opponent's record. [Middle English impugnen, from Old French impugner, from Latin impugnāre : in-, against; see IN⁻² + pugnāre, to fight; see peuk- in Appendix.] —im-pugn/a-ble adj. —im-pugn'er n.
- im-pu-is-sance (ĩm-pyō'ĩ-səns, ĩm-pwīs'əns) n. Lack of power or effectiveness; weakness. [Middle English impuissaunce, from Old French impuissance : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + puissance, power; see PUISSANCE.] —im-pu/is-sant adj.

im·pulse (im'puls') n. 1. a. An impelling force; an impetus. b. The motion produced by such a force. 2. A sudden wish or urge that prompts an unpremeditated act or feeling; abrupt inclination: had an impulse to run away; an impulse of regret that made me hesitate; bought a hat on impulse. 3. A motivating force or tendency: "Respect for the liberty of others is not a natural impulse in most men" (Bertrand Russell). 4. Electronics. A surge of electrical power in one direction. 5. Physics. The product obtained by multiplying the average value of a force by the time during which it acts. The impulse equals the change in momentum produced by the force in this time interval. 6. Physiology. The electrochemical transmission of a signal along a nerve fiber that produces an excitatory or inhibitory response at a target tissue, such as a muscle or another nerve. — adj. Characterized by impulsiveness or acting on impulse: an impulse shopper; impulse buying. [Latin impulsus, from past participle of impellere, to impel. See IMPEL.]

im·pul·sion (im-pul'shən) n. 1. The act of impelling or the condition of being impelled: "I do not move... unless it be under the impulsion of a third party" (Samuel Beckett). 2. An impelling force; a thrust. 3. Motion produced by an impelling force; momentum. 4. A wish or an urge from within; an impulse.

im·pul·sive (im-pul'siv) adj. 1. Inclined to act on impulse rather than thought. 2. Motivated by or resulting from impulse: such impulsive acts as hugging strangers; impulsive generosity. See Synonyms at spontaneous. 3. Having force or power to impel or incite; forceful. 4. Physics. Acting within brief time intervals. Used especially of a force. —im·pul'sive·ly adv. —im·pul'sive·ness, im'pul·siv'i·ty n.

im·pu·ni·ty (im-pyōō'nī-tē) n. pl. im·pu·ni·ties. Exemption from punishment, penalty, or harm. [Latin impūnitās, from impūne, without punishment : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + poena, penalty (from Greek poinë); see k^wei⁻¹ in Appendix.]

im·pure (im-pyōōr') adj. im·pur·er, im·pur·est. 1. Not pure or clean; contaminated. 2. Not purified by religious rite; unclean. 3. Immoral or obscene. 4. Mixed with another, usually inferior substance; adulterated. 5. Color. Being a composite of more than one color or mixed with black or white. 6. Deriving from more than one source, style, or convention; eclectic: an impure art form. 7. Not consistent in grammar, vocabulary, idiom, or usage: an impure style. —im·pure'ly adv. —im·pure'ness n.

im·pu·ri·ty (im-pyōōr'ī-tē) n. pl. im·pu·ri·ties. 1. The quality or condition of being impure, especially: a. Contamination or pollution. b. Lack of consistency or homogeneity; adulteration. c. A state of immorality; sin. 2. Something that renders something else impure; an inferior component or additive.

im·put·a·ble (im-pyōō'tə-bəl) adj. Possible to impute or ascribe; attributable: imputable oversights. —im·put'a·bly adv.

im·pu·ta·tion (im'pyōō-tā'shən) n. 1. The act of imputing or ascribing; attribution. 2. Something imputed, ascribed, or attributed. — im·pu'ta·tive (im-pyōō'tə-tiv) adj. — im·pu'ta·tive·ly adv.

im·pute (im-pyōōt') v. tr. im·put·ed, im·put·ing, im·putes. 1. To charge with the fault or responsibility for: imputed the rocket failure to a faulty gasket; kindly imputed my clumsiness to inexperience. 2. To attribute; credit: the gracefulness so often imputed to cats. See Synonyms at attribute. [Middle English imputen, from Old French emputer, from Latin imputāre: in-, in-; see IN⁻² + putāre, to settle an account; see peu- in Appendix.]

in¹ (in) prep. 1. a. Within the limits, bounds, or area of: was hit in the face; born in the spring; a chair in the garden. b. From the outside to a point within; into: threw the letter in the wastebasket. 2. To or at a situation or condition of: was split in two; in debt; a woman in love. 3. a. Having the activity, occupation, or function of: a life in politics; the officer in command. b. During the act or process of: tripped in racing for the bus. 4. a. With the arrangement or order of: fabric that fell in luxuriant folds; arranged to purchase the car in equal payments. b. After the style or form of: a poem in iambic pentameter. 5. With the characteristic, attribute, or property of: a tall man in an overcoat. 6. a. By means of: paid in cash. b. Made with or through the medium of: a statue in bronze; a note written in German. 7. With the aim or purpose of: followed in pursuit. 8. With reference to: six inches in depth; has faith in your judgment. 9. Used to indicate the second and larger term of a ratio or proportion: saved only one in ten. — adv. 1. To or toward the inside: opened the door and stepped in. 2. To or toward a destination or goal: The mob closed in. 3. Baseball. To home base; so as to score: runs batted in; singled the runner in. 4. Within a place, as of business or residence: The manager is in before anyone else. 5. So as to include or incorporate: Fold in the egg whites. 6. So as to occupy a position of success or favor: campaigned hard and was voted in. 7. In a particular relationship: got in bad with their supervisor. — adj. 1. Located inside; inner. 2. Incoming; inward: took the in bus. 3. Holding office; having power: the in party. 4. Informal. a. Currently fashionable: the in thing to wear this season. b. Concerned with or attuned to the latest fashions: the in crowd. See Synonyms at fashionable. — n. 1. One that has position, influence, or power: the ins against the outs. 2. Informal. Influence; power: had an in with the authorities. — idioms. in for. Guaranteed to get or have: You're in for a big surprise. in that. For the reason that. [Middle English, from Old English. See en in Appendix.]

in² or in. abbr. Inch.

In The symbol for the element indium.

IN abbr. Indiana.

in¹ or il- or im- or ir- pref. Not: inarticulate. Before l, in- is usually assimilated to il-, before r to ir-, and before b, m, and p to im-. See Usage Note at un¹.

[Middle English, from Old French, from Latin. See ne in Appendix.]

in² or il- or im- or ir- pref. 1. In; into; within: illuviation. Before l, in- is usually assimilated to il-, before r to ir-, and before b, m, and p to im-. 2. Variant of en¹. [Middle English, from Old English (from in, in); see IN¹, and from Old French (from Latin, from in, in, within); see en in Appendix.]

-in suff. 1. Neutral chemical compound, especially: a. Neutral carbohydrate: inulin. b. Protein or protein derivative: albumin. c. Lipid or lipid derivative: lecithin. d. Enzyme: pancreatin. e. Glycoside: chitin. 2. A pharmaceutical: rifampin. 3. An antibiotic: penicillin. 4. Antigen: tuberculin. 5. Variant of -ine² (suff., sense 1). [Variant of -INE².]

in-a-bil-i-ty (ɪn'ə-bɪl'ɪ-tē) n. Lack of ability or means.

in ab-sen-tia (ɪn əb-sən'shə, -shē-ə) adv. Abbr. i.a. While or although not present; in absence: was tried and convicted in absentia. [Latin in absentia: in, in + absentiā, ablative of absentia, absence.]

in-ac-ces-si-ble (ɪn'æk-sēs'ə-bəl) adj. Not accessible; unapproachable: inaccessible executives. —in'ac-ces'si-bil'i-ty n. —in'ac-ces'si-bly adv.

in-ac-cu-ra-cy (ɪn-äk'yər-ə-sē) n. pl. in-ac-cu-ra-cies. 1. The quality or condition of being inaccurate. 2. An instance of being inaccurate; an error.

in-ac-cu-rate (ɪn-äk'yər-ɪt) adj. Mistaken or incorrect; not accurate. —in-ac'cu-rate-ly adv. —in-ac'cu-rate-ness n.

in-ac-tion (ɪn-äk'shən) n. Lack or absence of action.

in-ac-ti-vate (ɪn-äk'tə-vāt') v. tr. in-ac-ti-vat-ed, in-ac-ti-vat-ing, in-ac-ti-vates. To render inactive. —in-ac'ti-va'tion n.

in-ac-tive (ɪn-äk'tiv) adj. 1. Not active or tending to be active. 2. a. Not functioning or operating; out of use: inactive machinery. b. Not being in continuous use or operation: an inactive brokerage account. 3. Retired from duty or service. 4. Chemistry. Not readily participating in chemical reactions. 5. Biology. Having no significant effect on or interaction with living organisms. 6. Medicine. Quiescent. Used especially of a disease. 7. Physics. Showing no optical activity in polarized light. —in-ac'tive-ly adv. —in'ac-tiv'i-ty, in-ac'tive-ness n.

SYNONYMS: inactive, idle, inert, passive, dormant, torpid, supine. These adjectives mean not involved in or disposed to activity. Inactive simply indicates absence of activity: retired but not inactive; an inactive and unhappy life; an inactive factory. Idle refers to persons who are doing nothing or are not busy, as through unemployment or choice (employees idle because of the strike; can't bear being idle); it also refers to what is not in use or operation (idle machinery; idle hands). Inert describes things powerless to move themselves or to produce a desired effect (an inert mass of soil); applied to persons, it implies lethargy or sluggishness, especially of mind or spirit: “The Honorable Mrs. Jamieson... was fat and inert, and very much at the mercy of her old servants” (Elizabeth C. Gaskell). Passive implies being acted on by external force or provocation without reacting positively: “in an hour like this, when the mind has a passive sensibility, but no active strength” (Nathaniel Hawthorne). “Much benevolence of the passive order may be traced to a disinclination to inflict pain upon oneself” (George Meredith). Dormant refers principally to a state of suspended activity but often implies the possibility of renewal: Her feelings of affection are dormant but easily awakened. Torpid suggests sluggishness or apathy: “It is a man’s own fault, it is from want of use, if his mind grows torpid in old age” (Samuel Johnson). Supine implies abject lack of will, as that resulting from indifference: “No other colony showed such supine, selfish helplessness in allowing her own border citizens to be mercilessly harried” (Theodore Roosevelt).

in·ad·e·qua·cy (in-ăd’î-kwə-sē) n. pl. in·ad·e·qua·cies. 1. The quality or condition of being inadequate. 2. An instance of being inadequate; a failing or lack.

in·ad·e·quate (in-ăd’î-kwit) adj. Not adequate to fulfill a need or meet a requirement; insufficient. —in·ad’e·quate·ly adv.

in·ad·mis·si·ble (in’əd-mis’ə-bəl) adj. Not admissible: inadmissible evidence. —in’ad·mis’i·bil’i·ty n. —in’ad·mis’i·bly adv.

in·ad·ver·tence (in’əd-vûr’tns) n. 1. The quality of being inadvertent. 2. An instance of being inadvertent; an oversight or a slip. [Middle English, from Old French, from Medieval Latin inadvertentia : Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin advertēns, advertent- present participle of advertere, to turn toward; see ADVERSE.]

in·ad·ver·ten·cy (in’əd-vûr’tn-sē) n. pl. in·ad·ver·ten·cies. Inadvertence.

in·ad·ver·tent (in’əd-vûr’tnt) adj. 1. Not duly attentive. 2. Marked by unintentional lack of care. See Synonyms at careless. —in’ad·ver’tent·ly adv.

in·ad·vis·a·ble (in’əd-vī’zə-bəl) adj. Not recommended; unwise: Running on the ice is inadvisable. —in’ad·vis’a·bil’i·ty n.

in ae·ter·num (in ē-tûr’nəm) adv. To eternity; forever. [Latin : in, in + aeternum, forever, from neuter of aeternus, eternal.]

in·al·ien·a·ble (in-āl’yə-nə-bəl, -āl’lē-ə-) adj. That cannot be transferred to another or others: inalienable rights. —in·al’ien·a·bil’i·ty n.
—in·al’ien·a·bly adv.

in·al·ter·a·ble (in-ôl’tər-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to alter; unchangeable: the inalterable routine of a physician. —in·al’ter·a·bil’i·ty n. —in·al’ter·a·bly adv.

in·am·o·ra·ta (in-ăm’ə-ră’tə) n. pl. in·am·o·ra·tas. A woman with whom one is in love or has an intimate relationship. [Italian, feminine of inamorato, inamorato. See INAMORATO.]

in-am-o-ra-to (in-ăm'ə-ră'tō) n. pl. in-am-o-ra-tos. A man with whom one is in love or has an intimate relationship. [Italian, from past participle of inammorare, to enamor : in-, into (from Latin); see IN-² + amore, love (from Latin amor, from amāre, to love).]

in-and-in (in'ənd-ın') adv. Repeatedly within the same or closely related stocks: to breed pigs in-and-in. —in'-and-in' adj.

in-and-out (in'ənd-out') adj. Involving the purchase and sale of a single security within a short period of time.

in-ane (in-ān') adj. in-an-er, in-an-est. Lacking sense or substance; empty: an inane comment. [Latin inānis, empty, lacking sense.] —in-ane/ly adv.

in-an-i-mate (in-ăn'ə-mīt) adj. 1. Not having the qualities associated with active, living organisms; not animate. See Synonyms at dead. 2. Not animated or energetic; dull. 3. Grammar. Belonging to the class of nouns that stand for nonliving things: The word car is inanimate; the word dog is animate.

—in-an/i-mate-ly adv. —in-an/i-mate-ness n.

in-a-ni-tion (in'ə-nīsh'ən) n. 1. Exhaustion, as from lack of nourishment or vitality. 2. The condition or quality of being empty. [Middle English inanisioun, emptiness, from Old French inanicion, exhaustion from hunger, from Late Latin inānitiō, inānitiōn-, emptiness, from inānītus, past participle of inānīre, to make empty, from inānis, empty.]

in-an-i-ty (i-năn'ī-tē) n. pl. in-an-i-ties. 1. The condition or quality of being inane. 2. Something empty of meaning or sense.

in-ap-peas-a-ble (in'ə-pē'zə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to appease: inappeasable resentment.

in-ap-pe-tence (in-ăp'ī-təns) also in-ap-pe-ten-cy (-tən-sē) n. Lack of appetite. —in-ap'pe-tent adj.

in-ap-pli-ca-ble (in-ăp'li-kə-bəl, in'ə-plīk'ə-) adj. Not applicable: rules inapplicable to day students. —in-ap'pli-ca-bil/i-ty n. —in-ap'pli-ca-bly adv.

in-ap-po-site (in-ăp'ə-zīt) adj. Not pertinent; unsuitable. —in-ap'po-site-ly adv. —in-ap'po-site-ness n.

in-ap-pre-cia-ble (in'ə-prē'shə-bəl) adj. Too small to be noticed or make a significant difference; negligible: inappreciable fluctuations in temperature. —in'ap-pre'cia-bly adv.

in-ap-pre-cia-tive (in'ə-prē'shə-tīv, -shē-ā'tīv, shē-ə-) adj. Feeling or showing no appreciation; unappreciative. —in'ap-pre'cia-tive-ly adv. —in'ap-pre'cia-tive-ness n.

in-ap-proach-a-ble (in'ə-prō'chə-bəl) adj. Not approachable: an inapproachable bastion; a cold, inapproachable person. —in'ap-proach'a-bil/i-ty n. —in'ap-proach'a-bly adv.

in-ap-pro-pri-ate (in'ə-prō'prē-īt) adj. Unsuitable or improper; not appropriate. —in'ap-pro'pri-ate-ly adv. —in'ap-pro'pri-ate-ness n.

in·apt (in-äpt') adj. 1. Inappropriate: always making inapt remarks. 2. Inept: inapt handling of the project. —in·apt/ly adv. —in·apt/ness n.

in·ap·ti·tude (in-äp'ti-tōod', -tyōod') n. 1. Lack of talent or ability. 2. The quality or state of being inappropriate.

I·na·ri (in'ə-rē, ē'när'ē), Lake. A lake of northern Finland with an outlet to the Arctic Ocean. The island-studded lake is a tourist attraction.

in·ar·tic·u·late (in'är-tik'yə-lit) adj. 1. Uttered without the use of normal words or syllables; incomprehensible as speech or language: "a cry... that... sank down into an inarticulate whine" (Jack London). 2. Unable to speak; speechless: inarticulate with astonishment. See Synonyms at dumb. 3. Unable to speak with clarity or eloquence: an inarticulate debater. 4. Going unexpressed: inarticulate sorrow. 5. Biology. Not having joints or segments. —in'ar·tic/u·late·ly adv. —in'ar·tic/u·late·ness, in'ar·tic/u·la·cy (-lə-sē) n.

in·ar·tis·tic (in'är-tis'tik) adj. 1. Not conforming to the principles or criteria of art. 2. Lacking taste or interest in art. —in'ar·tis/tic·al·ly adv.

in·as·much·as (in'əz-müch' əz) conj. 1. Because of the fact that; since. 2. To the extent that; insofar as.

in·at·ten·tion (in'ə-těn'shən) n. Lack of attention, notice, or regard.

in·at·ten·tive (in'ə-těn'tiv) adj. Exhibiting a lack of attention; not attentive. —in'at·ten/tive·ly adv. —in'at·ten/tive·ness n.

in·au·di·ble (in-ô'də-bəl) adj. Impossible to hear: an inaudible conversation. —in·au'di·bil/i·ty n. —in·au'di·bly adv.

in·au·gu·ral (in-ô'gyər-əl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of an inauguration. 2. Initial; first: the inaugural issue of a magazine. — n. 1. An inauguration. 2. A speech given by a person being formally inducted into office.

in·au·gu·rate (in-ô'gyə-rāt') v. tr. in·au·gu·rat·ed, in·au·gu·rat·ing, in·au·gu·rates. 1. To induct into office by a formal ceremony. 2. To cause to begin, especially officially or formally: inaugurate a new immigration policy. See Synonyms at begin. 3. To open or begin use of formally with a ceremony; dedicate: inaugurate a community center. [Latin inaugurāre, inaugurāt- : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + augurāre, to augur (from augur, soothsayer); see aug- in Appendix.] —in·au'gu·ra'tor n.

in·au·gu·ra·tion (in-ô'gyə-rā'shən) n. 1. Formal induction into office. 2. A formal beginning or introduction.

in·aus·pi·cious (in'ô-spish'əs) adj. Not favorable; not auspicious. —in'aus·pi/cious·ly adv. —in'aus·pi/cious·ness n.

in·au·then·tic (in'ô-thěn'tik) adj. Not genuine or authentic. —in'au·then·tic/i·ty (-tis'ī-tē) n.

inbd. abbr. Inboard.

in between (in bī-twēn') prep. & adv. Between: Mortar in between the bricks; two crackers with a filling in between.

in-be-tween (in'бі-twēn') adj. Intermediate: Adolescence is an awkward, in-between age. — n. An intermediate: conservatives, radicals, and in-betweens.

in-board (in'bōrd', -bōrd') adj. Abbr. inbd. 1. Nautical. Within the hull or toward the center of a vessel. 2. Relatively close to the fuselage of an aircraft: the inboard engines. — n. Nautical. A motor attached to the inside of the hull of a boat. — in'board' adv.

in-born (in'bōrn') adj. 1. Possessed by an organism at birth. See Synonyms at innate. 2. Inherited or hereditary.

in-bound¹ (in'bound') adj. Bound inward; incoming: inbound commuter traffic.

in-bound² (in'bound') v. in-bound-ed, in-bound-ing, in-bounds. Basketball. — v. tr. To put (the ball) into play by passing it from out of bounds to a teammate on the court. — v. intr. To execute an inbounds pass.

in-bounds (in'boundz') adj. 1. Basketball. Involving putting the ball into play by passing it from out of bounds to a teammate on the court. 2. Sports. Within the designated boundaries.

in-breathe (in'brēth') v. tr. in-breathed, in-breath-ing, in-breathes. To breathe (something) in; inhale.

in-bred (in'brēd') adj. 1. Produced by inbreeding. 2. Fixed in the character or disposition as if inherited; deep-seated: an inbred distrust of radicalism. See Synonyms at innate.

in-breed (in'brēd') v. tr. in-bred (-brēd'), in-breed-ing, in-breeds. 1. To breed by the continued mating of closely related individuals, especially to preserve desirable traits in a stock. 2. To breed or develop within; engender. — in-breed'er n.

in-breed-ing (in'brē'dīng) n. 1. The breeding of related individuals within an isolated or a closed group of organisms or people. 2. The continued breeding of closely related individuals so as to preserve desirable traits in a stock.

in-built (in'bīlt') adj. Built-in; inherent.

inc. abbr. 1. Income. 2. Incomplete. 3. Also Inc.. Incorporated. 4. Increase.

In-ca (ing'kə) n. pl. Inca or In-cas. 1. a. A member of the group of Quechuan peoples of highland Peru who established an empire from northern Ecuador to central Chile before the Spanish conquest. b. A ruler or high-ranking member of the Inca empire. 2. A member of any of the peoples ruled by the Incas. [Spanish, from Quechua inka, ruler, man of royal lineage.]

In-ca-ic (in-kā'ik) adj. Incan.

in-cal-cu-la-ble (in-kāl'kyə-lə-bəl) adj. 1. a. Impossible to calculate: a mass of incalculable figures. b. Too great to be calculated or reckoned: incalculable wealth. 2. Impossible to foresee; unpredictable: "The motions of her mind were as incalculable as the flit of a bird" (Edith Wharton). — in-cal'cu-la-bil'i-ty, in-cal'cu-la-ble-ness n. — in-cal'cu-la-bly adv.

SYNONYMS: incalculable, countless, immeasurable, incomputable, inestimable, infinite, innumerable, measureless. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “being greater than can be calculated or reckoned”: incalculable riches; countless hours; an immeasurable distance; an incomputable amount; jewels of inestimable value; an infinite number of reasons; innumerable difficulties; measureless power.

ANTONYM: calculable

in-ca-les-cent (in'kə-lēs'ənt) adj. Growing hotter or more ardent. [Latin incalēscēns, incalēscēt- present participle of incalēscere, to grow warm : in-, intensive pref.; see IN-² + calēscere, to grow warm, inchoative of calēre, to be warm; see kelə-¹ in Appendix.] —in'ca-les'cence n.

in cam-er-a (in kām'ər-ə) adv. 1. In secret; privately. 2. Law. In private with a judge rather than in open court. [New Latin in camerā : Latin in, in + Medieval Latin camerā, ablative of camera, chamber.]

In-can (ɪŋ'kən) adj. Of or relating to the Inca, their civilization, or their language. — n. 1. An Inca. 2. Quechua.

in-can-desce (in'kən-dēs') v. tr. intr. in-can-desced, in-can-desc-ing, in-can-desc-es. To make or become incandescent. [Latin incandēscere, to glow : in-, intensive pref.; see IN-² + candēscere, to glow, inchoative of candēre, to shine; see kand- in Appendix.]

in-can-des-cence (in'kən-dēs'əns) n. 1. The emission of visible light by a hot object. 2. The light emitted by an incandescent object. See Synonyms at blaze¹. 3. A high degree of emotion, intensity, or brilliance.

in-can-des-cent (in'kən-dēs'ənt) adj. 1. Emitting visible light as a result of being heated. 2. Shining brilliantly; very bright. See Synonyms at bright. 3. Characterized by ardent emotion, intensity, or brilliance: an incandescent performance. —in'can-des'cent-ly adv.

incandescent lamp (in'kən-dēs'ənt lămp) n. An electric lamp in which a filament is heated to incandescence by an electric current.

in-can-ta-tion (in'kän-tā'shən) n. 1. Ritual recitation of verbal charms or spells to produce a magic effect. 2. a. A formula used in ritual recitation; a verbal charm or spell. b. A conventionalized utterance repeated without thought or aptness; a formula: the pious incantations of the administration. [Middle English incantacioun, from Old French incantation, from Late Latin incantātiō, incantātiōn-, spell, from Latin incantātus, past participle of incantāre, to enchant. See ENCHANT.] —in'can-ta'tion-al adj. —in-can'ta-to'ry (-tə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj.

in-ca-pa-ble (in-kā'pə-bəl) adj. 1. a. Lacking the necessary ability, capacity, or power: incapable of carrying a tune; incapable of love. b. Unable to perform adequately; incompetent: an incapable administrator. 2. Not admitting or permitting; not susceptible: a unique feat, incapable of duplication. 3. Law. Lacking legal qualifications or requirements; ineligible. —in-ca'pa-bil/i-ty, in-ca'pa-ble-ness n. —in-ca'pa-bly adv.

in-ca-pac-i-tant (in'kə-päs'ī-tənt) n. A device or substance, such as tear gas, used to incapacitate individuals temporarily, as in riot control.

in-ca-pac-i-tate (in'kə-päs'ī-tāt') v. tr. in-ca-pac-i-tat-ed, in-ca-pac-i-tat-ing, in-ca-pac-i-tates. 1. To deprive of strength or ability; disable. 2. To make legally ineligible; disqualify. —in'ca-pac'i-ta'tion n.

in-ca-pac-i-ty (in'kə-päs'ī-tē) n. pl. in-ca-pac-i-ties. 1. Inadequate strength or ability; lack of capacity. 2. A defect or handicap; a disability. 3. Law. Something that renders one legally ineligible; a disqualification.

in-cap-su-late (in-kăp'sə-lāt') v. Variant of encapsulate.

in-car-cer-ate (in-kär'sə-rāt') v. tr. in-car-cer-at-ed, in-car-cer-at-ing, in-car-cer-ates. 1. To put into jail. 2. To shut in; confine. [Medieval Latin incarcerāre, incarcerāt- : Latin in-, in-; see IN-² + Latin carcer, prison.]

—in-car'cer-a'tion n. —in-car'cer-a'tor n.

in-car-na-dine (in-kär'nə-dīn', -dēn', -dīn) adj. 1. Flesh-colored. 2. Blood-red. — v. tr. in-car-na-dined, in-car-na-din-ing, in-car-na-dines. To make incarnadine, especially to redden. [French incarnadin, from Italian incarnadino, variant of incarnatino, diminutive of incarnato : in, in (from Latin); see IN-² + carne, flesh (from Latin carō, carn-; see incarnate, influenced by Italian incarnato, incarnate).]

in-car-nate (in-kär'nīt) adj. 1. a. Invested with bodily nature and form: an incarnate spirit. b. Embodied in human form; personified: a villain who is evil incarnate. 2. Incarnadine. — v. tr. in-car-nat-ed, in-car-nat-ing, in-car-nates (-nāt'). 1. a. To give bodily, especially human, form to. b. To personify. 2. To realize in action or fact; actualize: a community that incarnates its founders' ideals. [Middle English, from Late Latin incarnātus, past participle of incarnāre, to make flesh : Latin in-, causative pref.; see IN-² + Latin carō, carn-, flesh; see sker-¹ in Appendix.] —in-car'na'tor n.

in-car-na-tion (in'kär-nā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of incarnating. b. The condition of being incarnated. 2. Incarnation. Theology. The Christian doctrine that the Son of God was conceived in the womb of Mary and that Jesus is true God and true man. 3. A bodily manifestation of a supernatural being. 4. One who is believed to personify a given abstract quality or idea. 5. A period of time passed in a given bodily form or condition: hopes for a better life in another incarnation.

in-case (in-kās') v. Variant of encase.

in-cau-tious (in-kô'shəs) adj. Not cautious; rash. —in-cau'tious-ly adv.

—in-cau'tious-ness n.

in-cen-di-ar-y (in-sěn'dē-ēr'ē) adj. 1. a. Causing or capable of causing fire.

b. Of or containing chemicals that produce intensely hot fire when exploded: an incendiary bomb. c. Of or involving arson. 2. Tending to inflame; inflammatory. — n. pl. in-cen-di-ar-ies. 1. An arsonist. 2. An incendiary device.

3. One who creates or stirs up factionism or sedition; an agitator. [Middle English, from Latin incendiārius, from incendium, fire, from incendere, to set on fire. See *INCENSE*¹.] — in-cen'di-a-rism (-ə-rīz'əm) n.

in-cense¹ (in-sěns') v. tr. in-censed, in-cens-ing, in-cens-es. To cause to be extremely angry; infuriate. [Middle English encensen, from Old French incenser, from Late Latin incēnsāre, to sacrifice, burn, from Latin incēnsus, past participle of incendere, to set on fire. See kand- in Appendix.]

in-cense² (in'sěns') n. 1. a. An aromatic substance, such as wood or a gum, that is burned to produce a pleasant odor. b. The smoke or odor produced by the burning of such a substance. 2. A pleasant smell. 3. Flattering or fawning attention; homage. — v. tr. in-censed, in-cens-ing, in-cens-es. 1. To perfume with incense. 2. To burn incense to, as a ritual offering. [Middle English encens, from Old French, from Latin incēsum, from neuter past participle of incendere, to set on fire. See kand- in Appendix.]

incense cedar (in-sěns' sē'dər) n. Any of several coniferous evergreen trees of the genera Calocedrus and Libocedrus, having flattened branches with scalelike leaves.

in-cen-tive (in-sěn'tiv) n. Something, such as the fear of punishment or the expectation of reward, that induces action or motivates effort. — adj. Serving to induce or motivate: an incentive bonus for high productivity. [Middle English, from Late Latin incentivum, from neuter of incentivus, inciting, from Latin, setting the tune, from incentus, past participle of incinere, to sound : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + canere, to sing; see kan- in Appendix.]

in-cen-tiv-ize (in-sěn'tə-vīz') v. tr. in-cen-tiv-ized, in-cen-tiv-iz-ing, in-cen-tiv-iz-es. Usage Problem. To offer incentives or an incentive to; motivate: “This bill will help incentivize everybody to solve that part of the problem” (Richard A. Gephardt). See Usage Note at -ize.

in-cept (in-sěpt') v. tr. in-cept-ed, in-cept-ing, in-cepts. To take in; ingest. [Latin incipere, incept-, to begin, take up. See INCEPTION.] — in-cep'tor n.

in-cep-tion (in-sěp'shən) n. The beginning of something, such as an undertaking; a commencement. See Synonyms at origin. [Middle English inception, from Latin inceptiō, inceptiōn-, from inceptus, past participle of incipere, to begin, take up : in-, in; see IN⁻² + capere, to take; see kap- in Appendix.]

in-cep-tive (in-sěp'tiv) adj. 1. Incipient; beginning. 2. Grammar. Inchoative. — n. Grammar. An inchoative verb.

in-cer-ti-tude (in-sūr'tī-tōōd', -tyōōd') n. 1. Uncertainty. 2. Absence of confidence; doubt. 3. Insecurity or instability.

in-ces-sant (in-sěs'ənt) adj. Continuing without interruption. See Synonyms at continual. [Middle English incessaunte, from Late Latin incessāns, incessant-

: Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin cessāns, present participle of cessāre, to stop; see CEASE.] —in-ces/san-cy n. —in-ces/sant-ly adv.

in-cest (ɪn/ˈsɛst/) n. 1. Sexual relations between persons who are so closely related that their marriage is illegal or forbidden by custom. 2. The statutory crime of sexual relations with such a near relative. [Middle English, from Latin incestum, neuter of incestus, impure, unchaste : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + castus, pure, chaste; see kes- in Appendix.]

in-ces-tu-ous (ɪn-sɛs/ˈtʃoʊ-əs) adj. 1. Of, involving, or suggestive of incest. 2. Having committed incest. 3. Improperly intimate or interconnected: “Press-politics relations are notoriously incestuous” (Boston Globe). —in-ces/tu-ous-ly adv. —in-ces/tu-ous-ness n.

inch¹ (ɪnʃ) n. Abbr. in, in. 1. A unit of length in the U.S. Customary and British Imperial systems, equal to 12 of a foot (2.54 centimeters). See Table at mea-surement. 2. A fall, as of rain or snow, sufficient to cover a surface to the depth of one inch. 3. A unit of atmospheric pressure that is equal to the pressure exerted by a one-inch column of mercury at the earth’s surface at a temperature of 0°C. 4. A very small degree or amount: won’t budge an inch. — v. intr. tr. inched, inch-ing, inch-es. To move or cause to move slowly or by small degrees: inching along through stalled traffic; inched the chair forward. —idi-oms. every inch. In every respect; entirely: “Ay, every inch a king!” (Shakespeare). inch by inch. Very gradually or slowly. within an inch of. Almost to the point of: came within an inch of death. [Middle English, from Old English ynce, from Latin uncia, one twelfth of a unit. See oi-no- in Appendix.]

inch² (ɪnʃ) n. Scots. A small island. [Middle English, from Scottish Gaelic innis, from Old Irish inis.]

inch-er (ɪn/ˈtʃɛr) n. Something measuring a specified number of inches, as in length or height. Often used in combination: an 18-incher.

inch-meal (ɪnʃ/ˈmɛl/) adv. Little by little; gradually. [*INCH*¹ + (PIECE)MEAL.]

in-cho-ate (ɪn-kō/ˈɪt) adj. 1. In an initial or early stage; incipient.

2. Imperfectly formed or developed: a vague, inchoate idea. [Latin inchoātus, past participle of inchoāre, to begin, alteration of incohāre : in-, in; see IN⁻² + cohum, strap from yoke to harness.] —in-cho/ate-ly adv. —in-cho/ate-ness n.

in-cho-a-tive (ɪn-kō/ə-tɪv) adj. 1. Beginning; initial. 2. Grammar. Of or being a verb or verbal form that designates the beginning of an action, a state, or an event. —in-cho/a-tive n. —in-cho/a-tive-ly adv.

In-chon (ɪn/ˈtʃɒn/) A city of northwest South Korea on an inlet of the Yellow Sea southwest of Seoul. It was opened to foreign trade in 1883. Population, 1,387,000.

inch-worm (ɪnʃ/ˈwûrm/) n. See measuring worm.

in-ci-dence (ɪnˈsɪ-dəns) n. 1. The act or an instance of happening; occurrence: did not expect criticism and was surprised by its incidence. 2. Extent or frequency of occurrence: a high incidence of malaria in the tropics. 3. Physics. a. The arrival of radiation or a projectile at a surface. b. Angle of incidence.

in-ci-dent (ɪnˈsɪ-dənt) n. 1. A definite and separate occurrence; an event. See Synonyms at occurrence. 2. A usually minor event or condition that is subordinate to another. 3. Something contingent on or related to something else. 4. An occurrence or event that interrupts normal procedure or precipitates a crisis: an international incident. — adj. 1. Tending to arise or occur as a result or an accompaniment: “There is a professional melancholy... incident to the occupation of a tailor” (Charles Lamb). 2. Related to or dependent on another thing. 3. Physics. Falling upon or striking a surface: incident radiation. [Middle English, from Old French, apt to happen, an incident, from Latin incidēns, incident- present participle of incidere, to happen : in-, on; see IN⁻² + cadere, to fall; see kad- in Appendix.]

in-ci-den-tal (ɪnˈsɪ-dɛnˈtl) adj. 1. Occurring or likely to occur as an unpredictable or minor accompaniment: the snags incidental to a changeover in upper management. See Synonyms at accidental. 2. Of a minor, casual, or subordinate nature: incidental expenses. — n. A minor accompanying item or expense: a pocket in the suitcase for incidentals.

in-ci-den-tal-ly (ɪnˈsɪ-dɛnˈtl-ē) adv. 1. As a minor or subordinate matter: by profession a lawyer and incidentally a musician. 2. (also -dɛntˈlē) Apart from the main subject; parenthetically.

incidental music (ɪnˈsɪ-dɛnˈtl myōōˈzɪk) n. Music. Music composed to accompany the action or dialogue of a drama or to fill intervals between scenes or acts.

in-cin-er-ate (ɪn-sɪnˈə-rātˈ) v. in-cin-er-at-ed, in-cin-er-at-ing, in-cin-er-ates. — v. tr. To cause to burn to ashes. — v. intr. To burn completely. [Medieval Latin incinerāre, incinerāt- : Latin in-, causative pref.; see IN⁻² + Latin cinis, ciner-, ashes.] — in-cin'er-a'tion n.

in-cin-er-a-tor (ɪn-sɪnˈə-rāˈtɔr) n. One that incinerates, especially an apparatus, such as a furnace, for burning waste.

in-cip-i-ent (ɪn-sɪpˈi-ɛ-ənt) adj. Beginning to exist or appear: detecting incipient tumors; an incipient personnel problem. [Latin incipiēns, incipient- present participle of incipere, to begin. See INCEPTION.] — in-cip'i-en-cy, in-cip'i-ence n. — in-cip'i-ent-ly adv.

in-ci-pit (ɪnˈsɪ-pɪtˈ, ɪŋˈkɪ-) n. The beginning or opening words of the text of a medieval manuscript or early printed book. [Latin, third person sing. present tense of incipere, to begin. See INCEPTION.] in-cise (ɪn-sīzˈ) v. tr. in-cised, in-cis-ing, in-cis-es. 1. To cut into, as with a sharp instrument: incised the tablet with chisels; a plateau that had been deeply incised by streams. 2. a. To engrave (designs or writing, for example) into a surface; carve. b. To engrave designs, writing, or other marks into. [French inciser, from Old French enciser, from Vulgar Latin incīsāre*, frequentative of Latin incīdere, incīs- : in-, in; see IN-² + caedere, to cut; see kaə-id- in Appendix.]

in-cised (ĩn-sīzd') adj. 1. Cut into a surface; engraved. 2. Made with or as if with a sharp instrument. 3. Deeply and sharply cut: the incised margin of a leaf.

in-ci-sion (ĩn-sīzh'ən) n. 1. The act of incising. 2. Medicine. a. A cut into a body tissue or organ, especially one made during surgery. b. The scar resulting from such a cut. 3. A notch, as in the edge of a leaf. 4. The condition or quality of being incisive; incisiveness.

in-ci-sive (ĩn-sī'siv) adj. Penetrating, clear, and sharp, as in operation or expression: an incisive mind; incisive comments. —in-ci'sive-ly adv. —in-ci'sive-ness n.

SYNONYMS: incisive, trenchant, biting, cutting, crisp, clear-cut. These adjectives are synonymous when they refer to keenness and forcefulness of thought, expression, or intellect. Incisive and trenchant suggest penetration to the heart of a subject and clear, sharp, and vigorous expression: an incisive and piquant style of writing; trenchant wit. Biting and cutting apply to penetration and discernment that often have a sarcastic or sardonic quality capable of wounding or stinging: "Biting remarks revealed her attitude of contempt" (D.H. Lawrence). "He can say the driest, most cutting things in the quietest of tones" (Charlotte Brontë). Crisp suggests clarity, conciseness, and briskness: a crisp retort; crisp banter. Clear-cut specifies distinctness and sharpness of definition: The wording of the lease is so clear-cut that no one could possibly misinterpret its meaning.

in-ci-sor (ĩn-sī'zər) n. Abbr. i. A tooth adapted for cutting or gnawing, located at the front of the mouth along the apex of the dental arch.

in-ci-ta-tion (ĩn'sī-tā'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of inciting; stimulation. 2. Something that incites.

in-cite (ĩn-sīt') v. tr. in-cit-ed, in-cit-ing, in-cites. To provoke and urge on: troublemakers who incite riots; inciting workers to strike. [Middle English encyten, from Old French enciter, from Latin incitāre, to urge forward : in-, intensive pref.; see IN-² + citāre, to stimulate, frequentative of ciēre, to put in motion; see kei-² in Appendix.] —in-cite'ment n. —in-cit'er n.

SYNONYMS: incite, instigate, foment, abet. These verbs mean to stir or give support to action. Incite is applied primarily to arousing the will and spirit to act: Their leader tried to incite the dissidents to overthrow the government. Instigate is to conceive and encourage the implementation of a plan of action, usually an evil or illegal one: instigating a prison riot. "Commonly, though not always, we ex- hort to good actions, we instigate to ill” (Samuel Johnson). Foment usually refers to the systematic fostering of feelings, as of discord or rebellion, that produce violent action: foment discontent; foment civil insurrection. To abet is to approve, encourage, and support actions, especially those in violation of what is right or proper: The treasurer, aided and abetted by an assistant, misappropriated company funds. See also Synonyms at provoke in·ci·vil·i·ty (in'sī-vīl'ī-tē) n. pl. in·ci·vil·i·ties. 1. The quality or condition of being uncivil. 2. An uncivil or discourteous act.

incl. abbr. 1. Including. 2. Inclusive.

in·clasp (in-kläsp') v. Variant of enclasp.

in·clem·ent (in-klēm'ənt) adj. 1. Stormy: inclement weather. 2. Showing no clemency; unmerciful. —in·clem'ent·cy n. —in·clem'ent·ly adv.

in·clin·a·ble (in-klī'nə-bəl) adj. 1. Having a specified tendency or disposition; inclined: inclinable to laziness. 2. Favorably disposed; amenable: inclinable to our urgings.

in·cli·na·tion (in'klə-nā'shən) n. 1. The act of inclining or the state of being inclined; a bend or tilt: The inclination of the child's head suggested sleep. 2. a. A deviation or the degree of deviation from the horizontal or vertical; a slant: the steep inclination of a roof. b. An inclined surface; a slope. 3. A tendency toward a certain condition or character: the alkaline inclination of the local waters. 4. A characteristic disposition to do, prefer, or favor one thing rather than another; a propensity: “I shall indulge the inclination so natural in old men, to be talking of themselves” (Benjamin Franklin). See Synonyms at tendency.

in·cline (in-klīn') v. in·clined, in·clin·ing, in·clines. — v. intr. 1. To deviate from the horizontal or vertical; slant. 2. To be disposed to a certain preference, opinion, or course of action. 3. To lower or bend the head or body, as in a nod or bow. — v. tr. 1. To cause to lean, slant, or slope. 2. To influence to have a certain tendency; dispose: Recent events incline us to distrust all politicians. 3. To bend or lower in a nod or bow: inclined her head in acquiescence. — n.

(in'klīn') An inclined surface; a slope or gradient. [Middle English enclinen, from Old French encliner, from Latin inclināre: in-, into, toward; see IN-² + -clināre, to lean; see klei- in Appendix.] —in·clin'er n.

SYNONYMS: incline, bias, dispose, predispose. The central meaning shared by these verbs is “to influence or be influenced toward a particular attitude or course of action”: wasn't inclined to believe the excuse; is unjustly biased in her favor; an accomplishment that disposes us to admire him; isn't predisposed to the study of history. See also Synonyms at slant in-clined (in-klīnd') adj. 1. Sloping, slanting, or leaning. 2. Having a preference, disposition, or tendency.

ANTONYM: disincline

inclined plane (in-klīnd' plān) n. A plane set at an angle to the horizontal, especially a simple machine used to raise or lower a load by rolling or sliding.

in-cli-nom-e-ter (in'klə-nōm'i-tər) n. 1. An instrument used to determine the angle of the earth's magnetic field in respect to the horizontal plane. 2. An instrument for showing the inclination of an aircraft or a ship relative to the horizontal. 3. See clinometer.

in-close (in-klōz') v. Variant of enclose.

in-clude (in-klōod') v. tr. in-clud-ed, in-clud-ing, in-cludes. 1. To take in as a part, an element, or a member. 2. To contain as a secondary or subordinate element. 3. To consider with or place into a group, class, or total: thanked the host for including us. [Middle English includen, from Latin includere, to enclose : in-, in; see IN-² + cludere, to close.] —in-clud'a-ble, in-clud'i-ble adj.

SYNONYMS: include, comprise, comprehend, embrace, involve. These verbs mean to take in or contain as part of something larger. Include and comprise both take as their objects things or persons that are constituent parts. Comprise usually implies that all of the components are stated: The book comprises (that is, consists of or is composed of) 15 chapters. Include, like the remaining terms, more often implies an incomplete listing: included a reference to the accompanist in the review of the concert; will include an amount for postage in my payment. "Through the process of amendment, interpretation and court decision I have finally been included in 'We, the people'" (Barbara C. Jordan). Comprehend and embrace usually refer to the taking in of subordinate elements as part of something broader: The study of art comprehends both aesthetic and intellectual considerations. No single theory can embrace and explain every facet of human behavior. Involve usually suggests inclusion as a logical consequence or necessary condition: "Every argument involves some assumptions" (Brooke F. Westcott).

USAGE NOTE: Some writers have insisted that include be used only when it is followed by a partial list of the contents of the referent of the subject. On this account, one may write New England includes Connecticut and Rhode Island, but one must use comprise or consist of when a full enumeration is provided: New England comprises (not includes) Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine. This restriction is too strong. Include does not rule out the possibility of a complete listing. Thus the sentence The bibliography should include all the journal articles you have used does not entail that the bibliography must contain something other than journal articles, though it does leave that possibility open. When one wants to make clear that the listing is exhaustive, however, the use of comprise or consist of will avoid ambiguity. Thus the sentence The task force includes all of the Navy units on active duty in the region allows for the possibility that Marine and Army units are also taking part, where the same sentence with comprise would entail that the task force contained only Navy forces. See Usage Note at comprise.

in·clud·ed (ĭn-klōō'ḍīd) adj. 1. Botany. Not protruding beyond a surrounding part, as stamens that do not project from a corolla. 2. Mathematics. Formed by and between two intersecting straight lines: an included angle.

in·clu·sion (ĭn-klōō'zhən) n. 1. The act of including or the state of being included. 2. Something included. 3. Geology. A solid, liquid, or gaseous foreign body enclosed in a mineral or rock. 4. Biology. A nonliving mass, such as a droplet of fat, in the cytoplasm of a cell. 5. Computer Science. A logical operation that assumes the second statement of a pair is true if the first one is true. [Latin includsiō, includsiōn-, from includsus, past participle of includere, to enclose. See INCLUDE.] —in·clu'sion·ar'y (-zhə-nēr'ē) adj.

inclusion body (ĭn-klōō'zhən bōd'ē) n. An abnormal structure in a cell nucleus or cytoplasm having characteristic staining properties and associated especially with certain viral infections, such as rabies and smallpox.

in·clu·sive (ĭn-klōō'siv) adj. Abbr. incl. 1. Taking a great deal or everything within its scope; comprehensive: an inclusive survey of world economic affairs. 2. Including the specified extremes or limits as well as the area between them: the numbers one to ten, inclusive. —in·clu'sive·ly adv. —in·clu'sive·ness n.

inclusive of (ĭn-klōō'siv ūv) prep. Taking into consideration or account; including.

in·co·er·ci·ble (ĭn'kō-ūr'sə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to coerce or control forcibly: incoercible rebel leaders.

incog. abbr. Incognita; incognito.

in·cog·i·tant (ĭn-kōj'ī-tənt) adj. Thoughtless; inconsiderate. [Latin incōgitāns, incōgitant- : in-, not; see IN-¹ + cōgitāns, present participle of cōgitāre, to think; see COGITATE.]

in·cog·ni·ta (ĭn'kōg-nē'tə, ĭn-kōg'nī-tə) adv. & adj. Abbr. incog. With one's identity disguised or concealed. Used of a woman. — n. A woman or girl whose identity is disguised or concealed. [Italian, feminine of incognito, incognito. See INCOGNITO.]

in·cog·ni·to (ĭn'kōg-nē'tō, ĭn-kōg'nī-tō') adv. & adj. Abbr. incog. With one's identity disguised or concealed. — n. pl. in·cog·ni·tos. 1. One whose identity is disguised or concealed. 2. The condition of having a disguised or concealed identity. [Italian, from Latin incognitus, unknown : in-, not; see IN-¹ + cognitus, past participle of cognōscere, to learn, recognize; see COGNITION.]

in·cog·ni·zant (ĭn-kōg'nī-zənt) adj. Lacking knowledge or awareness; unaware: incognizant of the new political situation.

in-co-her-ence (ɪn'kō-hîr'əns) n. 1. The condition or quality of being incoherent. 2. Something incoherent.

in-co-her-en-cy (ɪn'kō-hîr'ən-sē) n. pl. in-co-her-en-cies. Incoherence.

in-co-her-ent (ɪn'kō-hîr'ənt) adj. 1. Lacking cohesion, connection, or harmony; not coherent: incoherent fragments of a story. 2. Unable to think or express one's thoughts in a clear or orderly manner: incoherent with grief.
—in'co-her'ent-ly adv. —in'co-her'ent-ness n.

in-com-bus-ti-ble (ɪn'kəm-bŭs'tə-bəl) adj. Incapable of burning. — n. An incombustible object or material. —in'com-bus'ti-bil'i-ty n. —in'-com-bus'ti-bly adv.

in-come (ɪn'kŭm') n. 1. Abbr. inc. The amount of money or its equivalent received during a period of time in exchange for labor or services, from the sale of goods or property, or as profit from financial investments. 2. The act of coming in; entrance. [Middle English, arrival, entrance, from incomen, to come in, from Old English incuman : in, in; see IN¹ + cuman, to come; see COME.] income tax (ɪn'kŭm' tæks) n. A tax levied on net personal or business income.

income tax return (ɪn'kŭm' tæks rĭ-tŭrn') n. See return (n., sense 16).

in-com-ing (ɪn'kŭm'ɪŋ) adj. 1. Coming in or about to come in; entering: incoming trains; incoming mail; incoming mortar fire. 2. About to assume an office or a position: the incoming governor. — n. 1. The act of coming in; arrival. 2. Often incomings. Income; revenue.

in-com-men-su-ra-ble (ɪn'kə-mĕn'sər-ə-bəl, -shər-) adj. 1. a. Impossible to measure or compare. b. Lacking a common quality on which to make a comparison. 2. Mathematics. Having no common measure or number of which all the given lengths or measures are integral multiples. — n. One that is incommensurable. —in'com-men'su-ra-bil'i-ty n. —in'com-men'su-ra-bly adv.

in-com-men-su-rate (ɪn'kə-mĕn'sər-ĭt, -shər-) adj. 1. a. Not commensurate; disproportionate: a reward incommensurate with their efforts.

b. Inadequate. 2. Incommensurable. —in'com-men'su-rate-ly adv. —in'-com-men'su-rate-ness n.

in-com-mode (ɪn'kə-mōd') v. tr. in-com-mod-ed, in-com-mod-ing, in-com-modes. To cause to be inconvenienced; disturb. [French incommoder, from Old French, from Latin incommodāre, from incommodus, inconvenient : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + commodus, convenient; see COMMODIOUS.]

in-com-mo-di-ous (ɪn'kə-mō'dē-əs) adj. Inconvenient or uncomfortable, as by not affording sufficient space. —in'com-mo'di-ous-ly adv. —in'-com-mo'di-ous-ness n.

in-com-mod-i-ty (ɪn'kə-mōd'ĭ-tē) n. pl. in-com-mod-i-ties.

1. Inconvenience. 2. Something inconvenient.

in-com-mu-ni-ca-ble (ɪn'kə-myōō'nĭ-kə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to be transmitted; not communicable: an incommunicable disease. 2. Incommunicative: an executive who was virtually incommunicable. —in'com·mu'ni-ca-bil'i-ty n.

—in'com·mu'ni-ca-bly adv.

in·com·mu·ni·ca·do (in'kə-myōō'nĭ-kā'dō) adv. & adj. Without the means or right of communicating with others: a prisoner held incommunicado; incommunicado political detainees. [Spanish incomunicado, past participle of incomunicar, to deny communication : in-, not (from Latin); see IN⁻¹ + comunicar, to communicate (from Latin commūnicāre); see COMMUNICATE.]

in·com·mu·ni·ca·tive (in'kə-myōō'nĭ-kə-tĭv, -kā'tĭv) adj. Not disposed to be forthcoming or communicative; uncommunicative: an incommunicative press secretary. —in'com·mu'ni-ca-tive-ly adv. —in'com·mu'ni-ca-tive-ness n.

in·com·mut·a·ble (in'kə-myōō'tə-bəl) adj. 1. Not able to be exchanged one for another: a rare, incommutable skill. 2. That cannot be changed; unalterable: an incommutable death sentence. —in'com·mut'a-bil'i-ty, in'-com·mut'a-ble-ness n. —in'com·mut'a-bly adv.

in·com·pa·ra·ble (in-kōm'pər-ə-bəl) adj. 1. Being such that comparison is impossible; incommensurable. 2. So outstanding as to be beyond comparison; unsurpassed. —in·com'pa-ra-bil'i-ty, in·com'pa-ra-ble-ness n. —in·com'pa-ra-bly adv.

in·com·pat·i·bil·i·ty (in'kəm-păt'ə-bĭl'i-tē) n. pl. in·com·pat·i·bil·i·ties.

1. The state or quality of being incompatible. 2. incompatibilities. Mutually exclusive or antagonistic qualities or things.

in·com·pat·i·ble (in'kəm-păt'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Incapable of associating or blending or of being associated or blended because of disharmony, incongruity, or antagonism: incompatible views on religion. 2. Impossible to be held simultaneously by one person: the incompatible offices of prosecutor and judge. 3. Logic. That cannot be simultaneously true; mutually exclusive. See Synonyms at inconsistent. 4. Medicine. a. Producing an undesirable effect when used in combination with a particular substance: a medication that is incompatible with alcohol. b. Not immunologically compatible: incompatible blood types. — n. One that is incompatible. —in'com·pat'i-ble-ness n. —in'com·pat'i-bly adv.

in·com·pe·tent (in-kōm'pĭ-tənt) adj. 1. Not qualified in legal terms: a defendant who was incompetent to stand trial. 2. Inadequate for or unsuited to a particular purpose or application. 3. Devoid of those qualities requisite for effective conduct or action. — n. An incompetent person. —in·com'pe-tence, in·com'pe-ten-cy n. —in·com'pe-tent-ly adv.

in·com·plete (in'kəm-plēt') adj. Abbr. inc. 1. Not complete. 2. Football. Not caught or not caught in bounds: an incomplete forward pass. —in'-com·plete'ly adv. —in'com·plete'ness, in'com·ple'tion n.

incomplete dominance (in'kəm-plēt' dōm'ə-nəns) n. Genetics. A heterozygous condition in which both alleles at a gene locus are partially expressed, often producing an intermediate phenotype.

incomplete flower (in'kəm-plēt' flou'ər) n. A flower lacking sepals, petals, stamens, or pistils.

incomplete fracture (in'kəm-plēt' frāk'chər) n. A fracture that does not extend through the full transverse width of a bone.

incomplete metamorphosis (in'kəm-plēt' mēt'ə-môrfə-sis) n. A life cycle of certain insects, such as crickets and grasshoppers, characterized by the absence of a pupal stage between the immature and adult stages.

in-com-pli-ant (in'kəm-plī'ənt) adj. Not willing to comply; unyielding.
—in'com-pli'ance, in'com-pli'an-cy n. —in'com-pli'ant-ly adv.

in-com-pre-hen-si-ble (in'kۆm-pri-hěn'sə-bəl, in-kۆm'-) adj.

1. a. Difficult or impossible to understand or comprehend; unintelligible: incomprehensible jargon. b. Impossible to know or fathom: incomprehensible mysteries. 2. Archaic. Having no limits; boundless. —in'-com-pre-hen'si-bil'i-ty, in'com-pre-hen'si-ble-ness n. —in'-com-pre-hen'si-bly adv.

in-com-pre-hen-sion (in'kۆm-pri-hěn'shən, in-kۆm'-) n. Lack of comprehension or understanding.

in-com-pre-hen-sive (in'kۆm-pri-hěn'siv, in-kۆm'-) adj. Limited in scope; not all-inclusive. —in'com-pre-hen'sive-ly adv. —in'com-pre-hen'sive-ness n.

in-com-press-i-ble (in'kəm-prēs'ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to compress; resisting compression: mounds of incompressible garbage. —in'com-press'i-bil'i-ty n.

in-com-put-a-ble (in'kəm-pyōō'tə-bəl) adj. Impossible to compute or be computed; incalculable. See Synonyms at incalculable. —in'-com-put'a-bil'i-ty n.

in-con-ceiv-a-ble (in'kən-sē'və-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to comprehend or grasp fully: inconceivable folly; an inconceivable disaster. 2. So unlikely or surprising as to have been thought impossible; unbelievable: an inconceivable victory against all odds. —in'con-ceiv'a-bil'i-ty, in'con-ceiv'a-ble-ness n. —in'-con-ceiv'a-bly adv.

in-con-cin-ni-ty (in'kən-sin'ĩ-tē) n. Lack of congruity or harmony; unsuitability.

in-con-clu-sive (in'kən-klōō'siv) adj. Not conclusive: inconclusive evidence. —in'con-clu'sive-ly adv. —in'con-clu'sive-ness n.

in-con-den-sa-ble also in-con-den-si-ble (in'kən-děn'sə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to condense: an incondensable judicial opinion. —in'-con-den'sa-bil'i-ty n.

in-con-dite (in-kۆn'dīt, -dīt') adj. Badly constructed; crude. [Latin inconditus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + conditus, past participle of condere, to put together; see dhē- in Appendix.] —in-con'dite-ly adv.

in-con-form-i-ty (in'kən-fōr'mĩ-tē) n. Lack of conformity; disagreement.

in-con-gru-ent (in-kōng'grōō-ənt, in'kōn-grōō'ənt) adj. 1. Not congruent.

2. Incongruous. —in-con'gru-ence n. —in-con'gru-ent-ly adv.

in-con-gru-i-ty (in'kōn-grōō'ī-tē) n. pl. in-con-gru-i-ties. 1. Lack of congruence. 2. The state or quality of being incongruous. 3. Something incongruous.

in-con-gru-ous (in-kōng'grōō-əs) adj. 1. Lacking in harmony; incompatible: a joke that was incongruous with polite conversation. 2. Not in agreement, as with principles; inconsistent: a plan incongruous with reason. 3. Not in keeping with what is correct, proper, or logical; inappropriate: incongruous behavior. See Synonyms at inconsistent. [From Latin incongruus : in-, not; see IN-¹ + congruus, congruous; see CONGRUOUS.] —in-con'gru-ous-ly adv.

—in-con'gru-ous-ness n.

in-con-se-quent (in-kōn'sī-kwənt) adj. 1. Having no importance or significance. 2. Inconsistent or illogical: displayed stunningly inconsequent reasoning.

3. Proceeding without a natural or logical sequence; haphazard: a speech full of inconsequent statements. [Late Latin incōnsequēns, incōnsequent- : Latin in-, not; see IN-¹ + Latin cōnsequēns, cōnsequent-, consequent; see CONSEQUENT.]

—in-con'se-quence n. —in-con'se-quent-ly adv.

in-con-se-quen-tial (in-kōn'sī-kwən'shəl, in'kōn-) adj. 1. Lacking importance. 2. Not following from premises or evidence; illogical. — n. A triviality.

—in-con'se-quen'ti-al/i-ty (-kwən'shē-əl'ī-tē), in-con'se-quen'tial-ness (-shəl-nīs) n. —in-con'se-quen'tial-ly adv.

in-con-sid-er-a-ble (in'kən-sīd'ər-ə-bəl) adj. Too small or unimportant to merit attention or consideration; trivial. —in-con-sid'er-a-ble-ness n. —in-con-sid'er-a-bly adv.

in-con-sid-er-ate (in'kən-sīd'ər-īt) adj. 1. Thoughtless of others; displaying a lack of consideration. 2. Not well considered or carefully thought out; ill-advised. —in-con-sid'er-ate-ly adv. —in-con-sid'er-ate-ness, in-con-sid'er-a'tion (-ā'shən) n.

—in-con-sid'er-a'tion (-ā'shən) n.

in-con-sis-tence (in'kən-sīs'təns) n. Inconsistency.

in-con-sis-ten-cy (in'kən-sīs'tən-sē) n. pl. in-con-sis-ten-cies. 1. The state or quality of being inconsistent. 2. Something inconsistent: many inconsistencies in your proposal.

in-con-sis-tent (in'kən-sīs'tənt) adj. 1. Displaying or marked by a lack of consistency, especially: a. Not regular or predictable; erratic: inconsistent behavior.

b. Lacking in correct logical relation; contradictory: inconsistent statements.

c. Not in agreement or harmony; incompatible: an intersection inconsistent with the road map. 2. Mathematics. Not solvable for the unknowns by the same set of values. Used of two or more equations or inequalities. —in-con-sis'tent-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: inconsistent, incongruous, incompatible, discordant, uncongenial, discrepant. These adjectives mean being in marked disagreement. Inconsistent implies lack of uniformity, as in overall purpose, design, or content: Occasional hostility is inconsistent with true friendship. Incongruous suggests a lack of harmony and especially a lack of suitability or appropriateness, as between one person or thing and another: Negotiating with terrorists is incongruous with national policy. Incompatible implies conflict or an inability to coexist, as between persons of differing temperaments or things marked by fundamental differences or contradictions: “Here are two, not only different, but incompatible things, called by the same name, liberty” (Abraham Lincoln). Discordant implies a clash, as of temperaments, opinions, or principles: “[Imagination] reveals itself in the balance or reconciliation of opposite or discordant qualities” (Samuel Taylor Coleridge). Uncongenial suggests a lack of sympathy, as in character or nature: “Realpolitik thinking is uncongenial to American political discourse” (Christopher Layne). Discrepant stresses divergence where similarity or consistency is expected: The two witnesses gave widely discrepant testimony.

in·con·sol·a·ble (ɪnˈkən-sōˈlə-bəl) adj. Impossible or difficult to console; despondent: was inconsolable after his pet died. —inˈcon·solˈa·bilˈi·ty, inˈcon·solˈa·ble·ness n. —inˈcon·solˈa·bly adv.

in·con·so·nant (ɪn-kŏnˈsə-nənt) adj. Lacking harmony, agreement, or compatibility; discordant. —in·conˈso·nance n. —in·conˈso·nant·ly adv.

in·con·spic·u·ous (ɪnˈkən-spɪkˈyoʊ-əs) adj. Not readily noticeable. —inˈcon·spicˈu·ous·ly adv. —inˈcon·spicˈu·ous·ness n.

in·con·stan·cy (ɪn-kŏnˈstən-sē) n. pl. in·con·stan·cies. 1. The state or quality of being eccentrically variable or fickle. 2. An instance of being eccentrically variable or fickle.

in·con·stant (ɪn-kŏnˈstənt) adj. 1. Changing or varying, especially often and without discernible pattern or reason. 2. Fickle; faithless. —in·conˈstant·ly adv.

in·con·sum·a·ble (ɪnˈkən-sōʊˈmə-bəl) adj. That cannot be consumed: seemingly inconsumable natural resources. —inˈcon·sumˈa·bly adv.

in·con·test·a·ble (ɪnˈkən-tēsˈtə-bəl) adj. Impossible to contest; unquestionable: incontestable proof of the defendant's guilt. —inˈcon·testˈa·bilˈi·ty, inˈcon·testˈa·ble·ness n. —inˈcon·testˈa·bly adv.

in·con·ti·nence (ɪn-kŏnˈtə-nəns) n. The quality or state of being incontinent.

in·con·ti·nent (ɪn-kŏnˈtə-nənt) adj. 1. Not restrained; uncontrolled: incontinent rage. 2. Lacking normal voluntary control of excretory functions. 3. Lacking sexual restraint; unchaste. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin incontinēns, incontinent-, unrestrained : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + continēns, continent; see *CONTINENT*².] —in·conˈti·nent·ly adv.

in-con-trol-la-ble (ɪnˈkən-trōˈlə-bəl) adj. Being such that control is impossible: incontrollable rage; uncontrollable children.

in-con-tro-vert-i-ble (ɪn-kɒnˈtrə-vûrˈtə-bəl, ɪnˈkɒn-) adj. Impossible to dispute; unquestionable: incontrovertible proof of the defendant's innocence.

—in-conˈtro-vertˈi-bilˈi-ty, in-conˈtro-vertˈi-ble-ness n.

—in-conˈtro-vertˈi-bly adv.

in-con-ven-i-ence (ɪnˈkən-vēnˈyəns) n. 1. The state or quality of being inconvenient. 2. Something inconvenient. — v. tr. in-con-ven-i-enced, in-con-ven-i-enc-ing, in-con-ven-i-enc-es. To cause inconvenience to; trouble: The snow inconvenienced the holiday travelers.

in-con-ven-i-ent (ɪnˈkən-vēnˈyənt) adj. Not convenient, especially: a. Not accessible; hard to reach. b. Not suited to one's comfort, purpose, or needs: inconvenient to have no telephone in the kitchen. c. Inopportune: An early departure date is inconvenient for us. —inˈcon-venˈient-ly adv.

in-con-vert-i-ble (ɪnˈkən-vûrˈtə-bəl) adj. Not redeemable for money in coin: inconvertible paper currency. —inˈcon-vertˈi-bilˈi-ty, inˈcon-vertˈi-ble-ness n. —inˈcon-vertˈi-bly adv.

in-con-vinc-i-ble (ɪnˈkən-vɪnˈsə-bəl) adj. Impossible to convince: was inconvincible as to the validity of our idea.

in-co-or-di-nate (ɪnˈkō-ôrˈdn-ɪt, -ātˈ) adj. Lacking coordination; uncoordinated. —inˈco-orˈdi-nate-ly adv.

in-co-or-di-na-tion (ɪnˈkō-ôrˈdn-āˈʃən) n. Lack of coordination, especially a lack of normal voluntary and harmonious control of muscular movement.

in-cor-po-rate (ɪn-kôrˈpə-rātˈ) v. in-cor-po-rat-ed, in-cor-po-rat-ing, in-cor-po-rates. — v. tr. 1. To unite (one thing) with something else already in existence: incorporated the letter into her diary. 2. To admit as a member to a corporation or similar organization. 3. To cause to merge or combine together into a united whole. 4. To cause to form into a legal corporation: incorporate a business. 5. To give substance or material form to; embody. — v. intr. 1. To become united or combined into an organized body. 2. To become or form a legal corporation: San Antonio incorporated as a city in 1837. — adj. (-pər-ɪt)

1. Combined into one united body; merged. 2. Formed into a legal corporation. [Middle English incorporaten, from Late Latin incorporāre, incorporāt-, to form into a body : Latin in-, in; see IN-² + Latin corpus, corpor-, body; see CORPUS.]

—in-corˈpo-ra-ble (-pər-ə-bəl) adj. —in-corˈpo-raˈtion n. —in-corˈpo-raˈtive adj. —in-corˈpo-raˈtor n.

in-cor-po-rat-ed (ɪn-kôrˈpə-rāˈtɪd) adj. 1. United into one body; combined. 2. Abbr. inc., Inc. Formed into or organized and maintained as a legal corporation.

in-cor-po-rat-ing (ɪn-kôrˈpə-rāˈtɪŋ) adj. Linguistics. Polysynthetic.

in·cor·po·re·al (in'kôr-pôr'ē-əl, -pôr'-) adj. 1. Lacking material form or substance. See Synonyms at immaterial. 2. Law. Intangible, as a right or patent. [Middle English incorporealle, from Latin incorporeus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + corporeus, consisting of a body; see CORPOREAL.] —in'cor·po're·al'i·ty (äl'ī-tē) n. —in'cor·po're·al·ly adv.

in·cor·po·re·i·ty (in-kôr'pə-rē'ī-tē) n. The state or quality of being incorporeal; immateriality. [Medieval Latin incorporeitās, from Latin incorporeus, incorporeal. See INCORPOREAL.]

in·cor·rect (in'kə-rĕkt') adj. 1. Not correct; erroneous or wrong: an incorrect answer. 2. Defective; faulty: incorrect programming of the computer. 3. Improper; inappropriate: incorrect behavior. —in'cor·rect'ly adv. —in'cor·rect'ness n.

in·cor·ri·gi·ble (in-kôr'ī-jə-bəl, -kôr'-) adj. 1. Incapable of being corrected or reformed: an incorrigible criminal. 2. Firmly rooted; ineradicable: incorrigible faults. 3. Difficult or impossible to control or manage: an incorrigible, spoiled child. — n. One that cannot be corrected or reformed. [Middle English, from Latin incorrigibilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + corrigere, to correct; see CORRECT.] —in·cor'ri·gi·bil'i·ty, in·cor'ri·gi·ble·ness n. —in·cor'ri·gi·bly adv.

in·cor·rupt (in'kə-rŭpt') adj. 1. Free of corruption or immorality. 2. Not decayed; unspoiled. 3. Free of errors or faults. —in'cor·rupt'ly adv. —in'cor·rupt'ness n.

in·cor·rupt·i·ble (in'kə-rŭpt'tə-bəl) adj. 1. Incapable of being morally corrupted. 2. Not subject to corruption or decay. —in'cor·rupt'i·bil'i·ty n. —in'cor·rupt'i·bly adv.

incr. abbr. 1. Increase. 2. Incremental.

in·crease (in-krēs') v. in·creased, in·creas·ing, in·creas·es. — v. intr. 1. To become greater or larger. 2. To multiply; reproduce. — v. tr. To make greater or larger. — n. (in'krēs') Abbr. inc., incr. 1. The act of increasing: a steady increase in temperature. 2. The amount or rate by which something is increased: a tax increase of 15 percent. 3. Obsolete. Reproduction and spread; propagation. —idiom. on the increase. Increasing, especially in frequency of occurrence: Crime is on the increase. [Middle English encresen, from Old French encreistre, encreiss-, from Latin incrēscere : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + crēscere, to grow; see ker⁻² in Appendix.] —in·creas'a·ble adj. —in·creas'er n. —in·creas'ing·ly adv.

SYNONYMS: increase, expand, enlarge, extend, augment, multiply. These verbs mean to make or become greater or larger. Increase applies most widely; it sometimes suggests steady growth: "Absence diminishes mediocre passions and increases great ones" (La Rochefoucauld). The mayor's political influence rapidly increased. To expand is to increase in size, area, volume, bulk, or range: He does exercises to expand his chest. “Work expands so as to fill the time available for its completion” (C. Northcote Parkinson). Enlarge refers to expansion in size, extent, capacity, or scope: The landowner enlarged her property by repeated purchases. Our group of friends is enlarging by leaps and bounds. To extend is to lengthen in space or time or to broaden in range, as of application: The transit authority extended the subway line to the next town. The baseball season may be extended. “His [Jefferson’s] eye, like his mind, sought an extended view” (Dumas Malone). Augment usually applies to what is already developed or well under way: augmented her collection of books; depression that augments with each visit to the hospital. To multiply is to increase in number, especially by propagation or procreation: “As for my cats, they multiplied” (Daniel Defoe). “May thy days be multiplied!” (Sir Walter Scott).

in·cre·ate (ɪnˈkrē-āt, ɪn-krēˈɪt) adj. Existing without having been created.

[Middle English increat, from Late Latin increātus: Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin creātus, past participle of creāre, to create; see CREATE.] —in·cre·ate·ly adv.

in·cred·i·ble (ɪn-krədʹə-bəl) adj. 1. So implausible as to elicit disbelief: gave an incredible explanation of the cause of the accident. 2. Astonishing: dressed with incredible speed. [Middle English, from Latin incrēdibilis: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + crēdibilis, believable; see CREDIBLE.] —in·credʹi·bilʹi·ty, in·credʹi·ble·ness n. —in·credʹi·bly adv.

in·cre·du·li·ty (ɪnˈkrī-dōʹlī-tē, -dyōʹ-) n. The state or quality of being incredulous; disbelief.

in·cred·u·lous (ɪn-krējʹə-ləs) adj. 1. Skeptical; disbelieving: incredulous of stories about flying saucers. 2. Expressive of disbelief: an incredulous stare. [From Latin incrēdulus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + crēdulus, believing; see CREDULOUS.]

—in·credʹu·lous·ly adv. —in·credʹu·lous·ness n.

in·cre·ment (ɪnˈkrə-mənt, ɪŋgʹ-) n. 1. The process of increasing in number, size, quantity, or extent. 2. Something added or gained: a force swelled by increments from allied armies. 3. A slight, often barely perceptible augmentation. 4. One of a series of regular additions or contributions: accumulating a fund by increments. 5. Mathematics. A small positive or negative change in the value of a variable. [Middle English, from Latin incrēmentum, from incrēscere, to increase. See INCREASE.] —inʹcre·menʹtal (-mənʹtl) adj. —inʹcre·menʹtal·ly adv.

in·cre·men·tal·ism (ɪnˈkrə-mənʹtl-ɪzʹəm) n. Social or political gradualism. —inʹcre·menʹtal·ist n.

in·cres·cent (ɪn-krəsʹənt) adj. Showing a progressively larger lighted surface; waxing: the increscent moon. [Latin incrēscēns, incrēscēt- present participle of incrēscere, to increase. See INCREASE.] in·cre·tion (ɪn-krēʹshən) n. 1. The process of internal secretion characteristic of endocrine glands. 2. The product of this process; a hormone. [IN⁻² + (SE)CRETION¹.]

in-crim-i-nate (in-krīm'ə-nāt') v. tr. in-crim-i-nat-ed, in-crim-i-nat-ing, in-crim-i-nates. 1. To accuse of a crime or other wrongful act. 2. To cause to appear guilty of a crime or fault; implicate: testimony that incriminated the defendant. [Late Latin incrimināre, incrimināt- : Latin in-, causative pref.; see IN⁻² + Latin crīmen, crīmin-, crime; see CRIME.] —in-crim'i-na'tion n.
—in-crim'i-na-to'ry (-nə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj.

in-crust (in-krüst') v. Variant of encrust.

in-crust-a-tion (in'krū-stā'shən) also en-crust-a-tion (ɛn'-) n. 1. a. The act of encrusting. b. The state of being encrusted. 2. A material encrusted on a surface. 3. Biology. A coating of hardened exudate or other material on a body or body part; a scale or scab.

in-cu-bate (in'kyə-bāt', ɪŋg'-) v. in-cu-bat-ed, in-cu-bat-ing, in-cu-bates.
— v. tr. 1. To sit on (eggs) to provide heat, so as to promote embryonic development and the hatching of young; brood. 2. a. To maintain (eggs, organisms, or living tissue) at optimal environmental conditions for growth and development. b. To maintain (a chemical or biochemical system) under specific conditions in order to promote a particular reaction. 3. To form or consider slowly and protectively, as if hatching: incubated the idea for a while, then announced it. — v. intr. 1. To brood eggs. 2. To develop and hatch. 3. To undergo incubation. [Latin incubāre, incubāt-, to lie down on : in-, on; see IN⁻² + cubāre, to lie down.] —in'cu-ba'tive adj.

in-cu-ba-tion (in'kyə-bā'shən, ɪŋg'-) n. 1. a. The act of incubating. b. The state of being incubated. 2. Medicine. The development of an infection from the time the pathogen enters the body until signs or symptoms first appear. 3. Medicine. The maintenance of an infant, especially a premature infant, in an environment of controlled temperature, humidity, and oxygen concentration in order to provide optimal conditions for growth and development. —in'cu-ba-tion-al adj.

in-cu-ba-tor (in'kyə-bā'tər, ɪŋg'-) n. 1. An apparatus in which environmental conditions, such as temperature and humidity, can be controlled, often used for growing bacterial cultures, hatching eggs artificially, or providing suitable conditions for a chemical or biological reaction. 2. Medicine. An apparatus for maintaining an infant, especially a premature infant, in an environment of controlled temperature, humidity, and oxygen concentration. 3. A place or situation that permits or encourages the formation and development, as of new ideas: the college campus as an incubator of radical new sociological concepts.

in-cu-bus (in'kyə-bəs, ɪŋg'-) n. pl. in-cu-bus-es or in-cu-bi (-bī'). 1. An evil spirit believed to descend upon and have sexual intercourse with women as they sleep. 2. A nightmare. 3. An oppressive or nightmarish burden. [Middle English, from Late Latin, from Latin incubō, from incubāre, to lie down on. See INCUBATE.]

in-cu-des (ĩng-kyōō'dēz) n. Plural of incus.

in-cul-cate (ĩn-kũl'kāt', ĩn'kũl-) v. tr. in-cul-cat-ed, in-cul-cat-ing, in-cul-cates. 1. To impress (something) upon the mind of another by frequent instruction or repetition; instill: inculcating sound principles. 2. To teach (others) by frequent instruction or repetition; indoctrinate: inculcate the young with a sense of duty. [Latin inculcāre, inculcāt-, to force upon : in-, on; see IN^{-2} + calcāre, to trample (from calx, calc-, heel).] —in'cul-ca'tion n. —in-cul'ca'tor n.

in-cul-pa-ble (ĩn-kũl'pə-bəl) adj. Free of guilt; blameless.

in-cul-pate (ĩn-kũl'pāt', ĩn'kũl-) v. tr. in-cul-pat-ed, in-cul-pat-ing, in-cul-pates. To incriminate. [Latin inculpāre, inculpāt- : in-, on; see IN^{-2} + culpāre, to blame (from culpa, fault).] —in'cul-pa'tion n. —in-cul'pa-to'ry (-pə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj.

in-cult (ĩn-kũlt') adj. Not cultured; coarse. [Latin incultus : in-, not; see IN^{-1} + cultus, past participle of colere, to till, cultivate; see k^wel-¹ in Appendix.]

in-cum-ben-cy (ĩn-kũm'bən-sē) n. pl. in-cum-ben-cies. 1. The quality or condition of being incumbent. 2. Something incumbent; an obligation.

3. a. The holding of an office or ecclesiastical benefice. b. The term of an office or a benefice.

in-cum-bent (ĩn-kũm'bənt) adj. 1. Imposed as an obligation or a duty; obligatory: felt it was incumbent on us all to help. 2. Lying, leaning, or resting on something else: incumbent rock strata. 3. Currently holding a specified office: the incumbent mayor. — n. A person who holds an office or ecclesiastical benefice: defeated the incumbent in a close election. [Middle English, holder of an office, from Medieval Latin incumbēns, incumbent-, from Latin, present participle of incumbere, to lean upon, apply oneself to : in-, on; see IN^{-2} + -cumbere, to recline.] —in-cum'bent-ly adv.

in-cu-na-ble (ĩn-kyōō'nə-bəl) n. An incunabulum. [French, from New Latin incūnābulum. See INCUNABULUM.]

in-cu-nab-u-lum (ĩn'kyə-nəb'yə-ləm, ĩng'-) n. pl. in-cu-nab-u-la (-lə). 1. A book printed before 1501; an incunable. 2. An artifact of an early period. [New Latin incūnābulum, from sing. of Latin incūnābula, swaddling clothes, cradle : in-, in; see IN^{-2} + cūnābula, cradle, infancy (from cūnae, cradle); see kei-¹ in Appendix.] —in'cu-nab'u-lar (-lər) adj.

in-cur (ĩn-kũr') v. tr. in-curred, in-cur-ring, in-curs. 1. To acquire or come into (something usually undesirable); sustain: incurred substantial losses during the stock market crash. 2. To become liable or subject to as a result of one's actions; bring upon oneself: incur the anger of a friend. [Middle English incurren, from Old French encorir, from Latin incurrere, to run upon : in-, on; see IN^{-2} + currere, to run; see kers- in Appendix.]

in-cur-a-ble (ĩn-kyōō'r'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Being such that a cure is impossible; not curable: an incurable disease. 2. Incapable of being altered, as in disposition or habits: an incurable optimist; an incurable smoker. —in-cur'a·bil'i·ty, in-cur'a·ble·ness n. —in-cur'a·ble n. —in-cur'a·bly adv.

in-cu·ri·ous (ĩn-kyōōr'ē-əs) adj. Lacking intellectual inquisitiveness or natural curiosity; uninterested. See Synonyms at indifferent. —in-cu'ri-os'i·ty (-ōs'ĩ-tē), in-cu'ri-ous·ness n. —in-cu'ri-ous·ly adv.

in-cur·rent (ĩn-kūr'ənt, -kūr'-) adj. Affording passage to an inflowing current. [Latin incurrēns, incurrent- present participle of incurrere, to run upon. See INCUR.]

in-cur·sion (ĩn-kūr'zhən, -shən) n. 1. An aggressive entrance into foreign territory; a raid or an invasion. 2. The act of entering another's territory or domain. 3. The act of entering or running into: homes damaged by the incursion of flood-water. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin incursiō, incursiōn-, from incursus, past participle of incurrere, to run upon. See INCUR.]

in-cur·vate (ĩn-kūr'vāt', ĩn'kūr-) v. tr. in-cur·vat·ed, in-cur·vat·ing, in-cur·vates. To cause to bend into an inward curve. — adj. Curved inward. —in'cur·va'tion n. —in-cur'va·ture' (-və-chōōr', -chər) n.

in-curve (ĩn-kūr'v', ĩn'kūr'v') v. tr. intr. in-curved, in-curv·ing, in-curves. To cause to bend or to bend into an inward curve. — n. (ĩn'kūr'v') An inward curve. [Middle English incurven, to twist, distort, from Latin incurvāre, to curve in, be crooked : in-, in; see IN-² + curvus, curve; see CURVE.]

in-cus (ĩng'kəs) n. pl. in-cu·des (ĩng-kyōō'dēz). 1. Anatomy. An anvil-shaped bone between the malleus and the stapes in the mammalian middle ear. Also called anvil. 2. A thunderhead. [Latin incūs, incūd-, anvil, from incūsus, past participle of incūdere, to forge with a hammer : in-, intensive pref.; see IN-² + cūdere, to beat, forge; see kau- in Appendix.]

in-cuse (ĩn-kyōōz', -kyōōs') adj. Formed by hammering, stamping, or pressing: an incuse design on a coin. [Latin incūdere, incūs-, to forge with a hammer. See INCUS.]

ind. abbr. 1. Independence; independent. 2. Index. 3. Indigo. 4. Industrial; industry.

Ind. abbr. 1. Indian. 2. Indiana. 3. Indies.

in-da·ba (ĩn-dā'bə) n. A conference of indigenous peoples of southern Africa. [Nguni (Zulu) in-daba, topic, conference.]

in-da·mine (ĩn'də-mēn') n. Any of a group of organic bases forming unstable bluish or greenish salts and used in making dyes. [IND(IGO) + AMINE.]

in-debt·ed (ĩn-dět'ĭd) adj. Morally, socially, or legally obligated to another; beholden. [Middle English endotted, from Old French endette, past participle of endetter, to oblige : en-, causative pref.; see EN-¹ + dette, debt; see DEBT.]

in-debt·ed·ness (ĩn-dět'ĭd-nĭs) n. 1. The state of being indebted.

2. Something owed to another.

in-de-cen-cy (in-dē'sən-sē) n. pl. in-de-cen-cies. 1. The state or quality of being unseemly or immodest. 2. Something indecent.

in-de-cent (in-dē'sənt) adj. 1. Offensive to good taste; unseemly. 2. Offensive to public moral values; immodest. See Synonyms at improper. —in-de-cent-ly adv.

in-de-ci-pher-a-ble (in'dī-sī'fər-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to decipher: indecipherable handwriting; an indecipherable message. —in-de-ci'pher-a-bil'i-ty, in'de-ci'pher-a-ble-ness n. —in'de-ci'pher-a-bly adv.

in-de-ci-sion (in'dī-sīzh'ən) n. Reluctance or an inability to make up one's mind; irresolution.

in-de-ci-sive (in'dī-sī'siv) adj. 1. Prone to or characterized by indecision; irresolute: an indecisive manager. 2. Inconclusive: an indecisive contest; an indecisive battle. 3. Not clearly defined; indefinite: indecisive boundaries running through mountainous terrain. —in'de-ci'sive-ly adv. —in'de-ci'sive-ness n.

in-de-clin-a-ble (in'dī-klī'nə-bəl) adj. 1. Without grammatical inflection. 2. Of, relating to, or being a word that lacks grammatical inflection though belonging to a form class whose members are usually inflected.

in-de-com-pos-a-ble (in-dē'kəm-pō'zə-bəl) adj. That cannot be separated into components: indecomposable matter.

in-dec-o-rous (in-dēk'ər-əs) adj. Lacking propriety or good taste. See Synonyms at improper. —in-dec'o-rous-ly adv. —in-dec'o-rous-ness n.

in-de-cor-um (in'dī-kôr'əm, -kôr'-) n. 1. Lack of propriety or good taste; impropriety. 2. An instance of indecorous behavior or action.

in-deed (in-dēd') adv. 1. Without a doubt; certainly: very cold indeed; was indeed grateful. 2. In fact; in reality: said the car would break down, and indeed it did. — interj. Used to express surprise, skepticism, or irony. [Middle English in dede, in fact : in, in; see IN¹ + dede, deed, fact; see DEED.]

indef. abbr. Indefinite.

in-de-fat-i-ga-ble (in'dī-fāt'i-gə-bəl) adj. Incapable or seemingly incapable of being fatigued; tireless. See Synonyms at tireless. [Obsolete French indéfati-gable, from Latin indēfatīgābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + dēfatīgāre, to tire out (dē-, intensive pref.; see de- + fatīgāre, to weary).] —in'de-fat'i-ga-bil'i-ty, in'de-fat'i-ga-ble-ness n. —in'de-fat'i-ga-bly adv.

in-de-fea-si-ble (in'dī-fē'zə-bəl) adj. That cannot be annulled or made void: an infeasible claim; infeasible rights. —in'de-fea'si-bil'i-ty n. —in'de-fea'si-bly adv.

in-de-fec-ti-ble (in'dī-fēk'tə-bəl) adj. 1. Having the ability to resist decay or failure; lasting. 2. Having no flaw or defect; perfect. —in'de-fec'ti-bil'i-ty n. —in'de-fec'ti-bly adv.

in-de-fen-si-ble (in'dī-fən'sə-bəl) adj. 1. Inexcusable; unpardonable: indefensible behavior. 2. Invalid; untenable: an indefensible assumption.

3. Vulnerable to physical attack: indefensible borders. —in'de-fen'si-bil'i-ty, in'de-fen'si-ble-ness n. —in'de-fen'si-bly adv.

in-de-fin-a-ble (in'dī-fī'nə-bəl) adj. Impossible to define, describe, or analyze. See Synonyms at unspeakable. — n. One that is indefinable.

—in'de-fin'a-bil'i-ty, in'de-fin'a-ble-ness n. —in'de-fin'a-bly adv.

in-def-i-nite (in-děf'ə-nīt) adj. Abbr. indef. Not definite, especially:

a. Unclear; vague. b. Lacking precise limits: an indefinite leave of absence.

c. Uncertain; undecided: indefinite about their plans. —in-def/i-nite-ly adv.

—in-def/i-nite-ness n.

indefinite article (in-děf'ə-nīt är'tī-kəl) n. Grammar. An article, such as English a or an, that does not fix the identity of the noun modified.

indefinite integral (in-děf'ə-nīt in'tī-grəl) n. Mathematics. A function whose derivative is a given function.

indefinite number (in-děf'ə-nīt nŭm'bər) n. Abbr. n Mathematics. A variable number.

indefinite pronoun (in-děf'ə-nīt prō'noun') n. Grammar. A pronoun, such as English any or some, that does not specify the identity of its object.

in-de-his-cent (in'dī-hīs'ənt) adj. Botany. Not splitting open at maturity: indehiscent fruit. —in'de-his'cence n.

in-del-i-ble (in-děl'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to remove, erase, or wash away; permanent: indelible ink. 2. Making a mark not easily erased or washed away: an indelible pen for labeling clothing. [Latin indēlēbilis: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + dēlēbilis, capable of being effaced (from dēlĕre, to wipe out).] —in-del/i-bil'i-ty, in-del/i-ble-ness n. —in-del/i-bly adv.

in-del-i-ca-cy (in-děl'ī-kə-sē) n. pl. in-del-i-ca-cies. 1. The quality or condition of being indelicate. 2. Something indelicate.

in-del-i-cate (in-děl'ī-kīt) adj. 1. Offensive to established standards of propriety; improper. See Synonyms at improper. 2. Marked by a lack of good taste; coarse. See Synonyms at coarse. 3. Lacking in consideration for the feelings of others; tactless. 4. See Synonyms at improper. —in-del/i-cate-ly adv. —in-del/i-cate-ness n.

in-dem-ni-fi-ca-tion (in-dēm'nə-fī-kā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of indemnifying. b. The condition of being indemnified. 2. Something that indemnifies; a compensation for loss.

in-dem-ni-fy (in-dēm'nə-fī') v. tr. in-dem-ni-fied, in-dem-ni-fy-ing, in-dem-ni-fies. 1. To protect against damage, loss, or injury; insure. 2. To make compensation to for damage, loss, or injury suffered. [Latin indemnis, uninjured (in-, not; see in⁻¹ + damnum, harm, damage entailing liability) + -FY.] —in-dem'ni-fi'er n.

in-dem-ni-ty (in-dēm'nī-tē) n. pl. in-dem-ni-ties. 1. Security against damage, loss, or injury. 2. A legal exemption from liability for damages.

3. Compensation for damage, loss, or injury suffered. See Synonyms at reparation. [Middle English indempnite, from Anglo-Norman, from Late Latin indemnitas, from Latin indemnis, uninjured. See INDEMNIFY.]

in·de·mon·stra·ble (in'dĭ-mŏn'strə-bəl) adj. Impossible to prove or demonstrate: a seemingly valid but indemonstrable hypothesis.

—in'de·mon'stra·ble·ness, in'de·mon'stra·bil'i·ty n.

—in'de·mon'stra·bly adv.

in·dene (in'dĕn') n. A colorless organic liquid, C₉H₈, obtained from coal tar and used in preparing synthetic resins. [IND(OLE) + -ENE.]

in·dent¹ (in-dĕnt') v. in·dent·ed, in·dent·ing, in·dents. — v. tr.

1. Printing. To set (the first line of a paragraph, for example) in from the margin.

2. a. To cut or tear (a document with two or more copies) along an irregular line so that the parts can later be matched for establishing authenticity. b. To draw up (a document) in duplicate or triplicate. 3. a. To notch or serrate the edge of; make jagged. b. To make notches, grooves, or holes in (wood, for example) for the purpose of mortising. c. To fit or join together by or as if by mortising.

4. Chiefly British. To order (goods) by purchase order or official requisition. — v. intr. 1. To make or form an indentation. 2. Chiefly British. To draw up or order an indent. — n. (in-dĕnt', in'dĕnt') 1. The act of indenting or the condition of being indented. 2. Printing. A blank space before the beginning of an indented line: a two-pica indent. 3. An indenture. 4. A U.S. certificate issued at the close of the American Revolution for interest due on the public debt.

5. Chiefly British. An official requisition or purchase order for goods. [Middle English endenten, to notch, from Anglo-Norman, and Old French endenter both from Medieval Latin indentāre: Latin in-, in; see IN-² + Latin dĕns, dent-, tooth; see dent- in Appendix.]

in·dent² (in-dĕnt') v. tr. in·dent·ed, in·dent·ing, in·dents. 1. To make a dent in: a bay that indents the southern coast. 2. To impress (a design, for example); stamp. — n. (in-dĕnt', in'dĕnt') An indentation.

in·den·ta·tion (in'dĕn-tā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of indenting. b. The condition of being indented. 2. Printing. The blank space between a margin and the beginning of an indented line. 3. A notch or jagged cut in an edge. 4. A recess, as in a border or coastline.

in·den·tion (in-dĕn'shən) n. 1. a. The act of indenting. b. The condition of being indented. 2. Printing. The blank space between a margin and the beginning of an indented line. 3. Archaic. An indentation or a dent.

in·den·ture (in-dĕn'chər) n. 1. Often indentures. A contract binding one party into the service of another for a specified term. 2. a. A document in duplicate having indented edges. b. A deed or legal contract executed between two or more parties. c. An official or authenticated inventory, list, or voucher.

3. Indentation. — v. tr. in·den·tured, in·den·tur·ing, in·den·tures. 1. To bind into the service of another by indenture. 2. Archaic. To form a small depression in (a surface). [Middle English indenture, a written agreement, from Anglo-Norman, from endenter, to indent (from the matching notches on multiple copies of the documents). See INDENT¹.]

in-de-pend-ence (in'dī-pĕn'dəns) n. 1. Abbr. ind. The state or quality of being independent. 2. Archaic. Sufficient income for comfortable self-support; a competence.

In-de-pend-ence (in'dī-pĕn'dəns) A city of western Missouri, a suburb of Kansas City. A starting point for the Santa Fe and Oregon trails during the 19th century, it was the home of President Harry S Truman. His gravesite and presidential library are here. Population, 112,301.

Independence Day (in'dī-pĕn'dəns dā) n. July 4, celebrated in the United States to commemorate the adoption in 1776 of the Declaration of Independence. Also called Fourth of July in-de-pend-en-cy (in'dī-pĕn'dən-sē) n. pl. in-de-pend-en-cies.

1. Independence. 2. An independent territory or state. 3. Independency. The Independent movement in 17th-century England.

in-de-pend-ent (in'dī-pĕn'dənt) adj. Abbr. ind. 1. Not governed by a foreign power; self-governing. 2. Free from the influence, guidance, or control of another or others; self-reliant: an independent mind. 3. Not determined or influenced by someone or something else; not contingent: a decision independent of the outcome of the study. 4. Often Independent. Affiliated with or loyal to no one political party or organization. 5. Not dependent on or affiliated with a larger or controlling group or system: an independent food store. 6. a. Not relying on others for support, care, or funds; self-supporting. b. Providing or being sufficient income to enable one to live without working: a person of independent means. 7. Mathematics. a. Not dependent on other variables. b. Of or relating to a system of equations no one of which can be derived from another equation in the system. 8. Independent. Of or relating to the 17th-century English Independents. — n. 1. Often Independent. One that is independent, especially a voter, an officeholder, or a political candidate who is not committed to a political party. 2. Independent. A member of a movement in England in the 17th century advocating the political and religious independence of individual congregations. 3. Independent. Chiefly British. A Congregationalist.

independent clause (in'dī-pĕn'dənt klôz) n. Grammar. See main clause.

independent variable (in'dī-pĕn'dənt vâr'ĕ-ə-bəl) n. 1. Mathematics. A variable whose value determines the value of other variables. 2. Statistics. A manipulated variable in an experiment or a study whose presence or degree determines the change in the dependent variable.

in-depth (in'dĕpth') adj. Detailed; thorough: an in-depth study.

In·der·al (in'də-rôl', -rôl') A trademark used for a beta-adrenergic blocking agent for the treatment of certain cardiovascular conditions.

in·de·scrib·a·ble (in'dī-skrī'bə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to describe: indescribable views. 2. Exceeding description: experienced indescribable delight. See Synonyms at unspeakable. —in'de·scrib'a·bil'i·ty, in'de·scrib'a·ble·ness n. —in'de·scrib'a·bly adv.

in·de·struc·ti·ble (in'dī-strūk'tə-bəl) adj. Impossible to destroy: indestructible furniture; indestructible faith. [Late Latin indēstrūctibilis: Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + dēstrūctibilis, destructible (from Latin dēstrūctus, past participle of dēstruere, to destroy); see DESTROY.] —in'de·struc'ti·bil'i·ty, in'de·struc'ti·ble·ness n. —in'de·struc'ti·bly adv.

in·de·ter·min·a·ble (in'dī-tûr'mə-nə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to fix or measure: indeterminable traces of poison; indeterminable assets. 2. Impossible to settle or decide with finality: indeterminable questions. —in'de·ter'min·a·bly adv.

in·de·ter·mi·na·cy (in'dī-tûr'mə-nə-sē) n. The state or quality of being indeterminate.

in·de·ter·mi·nate (in'dī-tûr'mə-nīt) adj. 1. a. Not precisely determined, determinable, or established: a person of indeterminate age. b. Not precisely fixed, as to extent, size, nature, or number: an indeterminate number of plant species in the jungle. c. Lacking clarity or precision, as in meaning; vague: an indeterminate turn of phrase. d. Not fixed or known in advance: an indeterminate future. e. Not leading up to a definite result or ending: an indeterminate campaign. 2. Botany. Not terminating in a flower and continuing to grow at the apex: an indeterminate inflorescence. [Middle English, from Latin indēterminātus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + dēterminātus, determined; see DETERMINE.] —in'de·ter'mi·nate·ly adv. —in'de·ter'mi·nate·ness, in'de·ter'mi·na·tion (-nā'shən) n.

indeterminate vowel (in'dī-tûr'mə-nīt vou'əl) n. Linguistics. See schwa (n., sense 1).

in·de·ter·min·ism (in'dī-tûr'mə-nīz'əm) n. 1. Unpredictability. 2. Philosophy. The doctrine that the will is free and that human action is not necessarily or not at all predetermined by physiological and psychological antecedents. —in'de·ter'min·ist n. —in'de·ter'min·is'tic adj.

in·dex (in'dĕks') n. pl. in·dex·es or in·di·ces (-dī-sēz'). 1. Abbr. ind. Something that serves to guide, point out, or otherwise facilitate reference, especially: a. An alphabetized list of names, places, and subjects treated in a printed work, giving the page or pages on which each item is mentioned. b. A thumb index. c. A table, file, or catalog. 2. Something that reveals or indicates; a sign: "Her face... was a fair index to her disposition" (Samuel Butler). 3. Printing. A character (☞) used in printing to call attention to a particular paragraph or section. Also called fist, hand. 4. An indicator or a pointer, as on a scientific instrument.

5. a. Mathematics. A number or symbol, often written as a subscript or superscript to a mathematical expression, that indicates an operation to be performed on, an ordering relation involving, or a use of the associated expression. b. A number derived from a formula, used to characterize a set of data. 6. Index. Roman Catholic Church. A list formerly published by Church authority, restricting or forbidding the reading of certain books. — v. tr. in-dexed, in-dex-ing, in-dex-es. 1. To furnish with an index: index a book. 2. To enter in an index. 3. To indicate or signal. 4. To adjust through indexation. [Middle English, forefinger, from Latin. See deik- in Appendix.] — in'dex'er n.

in-dex-a-tion (in'dĕk-sā'shən) n. The automatic adjustment of an economic variable, such as wages, taxes, or pension benefits, to a cost-of-living index, so that the variable rises or falls in accordance with the rate of inflation.

index case (in'dĕks' kās) n. The earliest documented case of a disease included in an epidemiologic study.

index finger (in'dĕks' fing'gər) n. The finger next to the thumb. Also called first finger, forefinger.

index fossil (in'dĕks' fōs'əl) n. The fossil remains of an organism that lived in a particular geologic age, used to identify or date the rock or rock layer in which it is found. Also called guide fossil index number (in'dĕks' nŭm'bər) n. A number indicating change in magnitude, as of price, wage, employment, or production shifts, relative to the magnitude at a specified point usually taken as 100.

index of refraction (in'dĕks' ūv rī-frāk'shən) n. The ratio of the speed of light in a vacuum to the speed of light in a medium under consideration. Also called refractive index

In-di-a (in'dē-ə) 1. A peninsula and subcontinent of southern Asia south of the Himalaya Mountains, occupied by India, Nepal, Bhutan, Sikkim, Pakistan, and Bangladesh. 2. A country of southern Asia. India was the site of one of the oldest civilizations in the world, centered in the Indus River valley c. 2500 to 1500 B.C. Parts of India were overrun by the Aryans and later occupied or controlled by various powers, including the Moguls, European states, and local nawabs and rajahs. The British finally assumed authority over “the Jewel in the Crown” in 1857, although Queen Victoria did not assume the title of empress until 1876. In the 20th century increasing unrest led to Britain’s withdrawal and independence for the country (1947). New Delhi is the capital and Calcutta the largest city. Population, 685,184,692.

India ink (in'dē-ə ɪŋk) n. 1. A black pigment made from lampblack mixed with a binding agent and molded into cakes or sticks. 2. A liquid ink made from this pigment. In this sense, also called Chinese ink

In-di-a-man (in'dē-ə-mən) n. Nautical. A large merchant ship formerly used on trade routes to India.

In·di·an (ɪn'dē-ən) adj. Abbr. Ind. 1. Of or relating to India or the East Indies or to their peoples, languages, or cultures. 2. Of or relating to any of the Native American peoples. — n. Abbr. Ind. 1. A native or inhabitant of India or of the East Indies. 2. See Native American. See Usage Note at Native American. 3. Any of the languages of the Native Americans. 4. See Indus².

In·di·an·a (ɪn'dē-ən'ə) 1. Abbr. IN, Ind. A state of the north-central United States. It was admitted as the 19th state in 1816. The area was controlled by France until 1763 and then by Great Britain until 1783. The Indiana Territory was formed in 1800. Indianapolis is the capital and the largest city. Population, 5,564,228. 2. A borough of west-central Pennsylvania east-northeast of Pittsburgh. It is an industrial center. Population, 15,174. — In'di-an'an, In'di-an'i-an adj. & n.

In·di·an·a (ɪn'dē-ən'ə), Robert. Born 1928. American pop artist known for his “Love” theme in paintings and sculpture.

Indian almond (ɪn'dē-ən ə'lænd) n. An Asiatic tree (Terminalia catappa) widely cultivated and naturalized in the tropics and having fruit with edible seeds. Also called myrobalan, tropical almond.

In·di·an·ap·o·lis (ɪn'dē-ən-əp'ə-lɪs) The capital and largest city of Indiana, in the central part of the state. It was settled in 1820 as the site of a new state capital, which was moved here in 1825. Population, 741,952.

Indian bean (ɪn'dē-ən bēn) n. See catalpa.

Indian bread (ɪn'dē-ən brɛd) n. Any of various plants, such as the breadroot, having edible parts used by certain Native American peoples for food.

Indian club (ɪn'dē-ən klüb) n. Sports. A bottle-shaped wooden club swung in the hand for gymnastic exercise.

Indian corn (ɪn'dē-ən kôrn) n. See corn¹ (n., sense 1).

Indian currant (ɪn'dē-ən kûr'ənt) n. See coralberry (n., sense 1).

Indian file (ɪn'dē-ən fil) n. See single file. — Indian file adv.

Indian giver (ɪn'dē-ən gɪv'ər) n. Offensive. One who gives something to another and then takes or demands the gift back.

Indian hemp (ɪn'dē-ən hɛmp) n. Cannabis.

Indian licorice (ɪn'dē-ən lɪk'ər-ɪs) n. See rosary pea.

Indian mallow (ɪn'dē-ən mäl'ō) n. See flowering maple.

Indian meal (ɪn'dē-ən mēl) n. See cornmeal.

Indian mustard (ɪn'dē-ən mʌs'tərd) n. An annual plant (Brassica juncea) in the mustard family, having yellow flowers, petiolate leaves, and oil-rich seeds. Also called brown mustard

Indian Ocean (ɪn'dē-ən ō'shən) A body of water extending from southern Asia to Antarctica and from eastern Africa to southeast Australia.

- Indian paintbrush (ɪnˈdē-ən pāntˈbrūshˈ) n. Any of various partly parasitic plants of the genus Castilleja, having spikes of flowers surrounded by showy, brightly colored bracts. Also called painted cup
- Indian pipe (ɪnˈdē-ən pīp) n. A waxy white or sometimes pinkish saprophytic woodland plant (Monotropa uniflora) having scalelike leaves and a solitary, nodding flower.
- Indian pony (ɪnˈdē-ən pōˈnē) n. A small, hardy horse of western North America, often used for crossbreeding.
- Indian pudding (ɪnˈdē-ən pōdˈɪŋ) n. New England. A pudding consisting of milk, cornmeal, egg, and molasses baked for several hours in a heavy casserole. [So called because it is made with Indian meal.]
- Indian red (ɪnˈdē-ən rēd) n. An iron oxide used as a paint and cosmetic pigment.
- Indian River (ɪnˈdē-ən rɪvˈər) A lagoon extending about 265 km (165 mi) along the coast of east-central Florida.
- Indian summer (ɪnˈdē-ən sʌmˈər) n. 1. A period of mild weather occurring in late autumn. 2. A pleasant, tranquil, or flourishing period occurring near the end of something: the Indian summer of the administration.
- Indian Territory (ɪnˈdē-ən tērˈɪ-tôrˈē) A region and former territory of the south-central United States, mainly in present-day Oklahoma. It was set aside by the government as a homeland for forcibly displaced Native Americans in 1834. The western section was opened to general settlement in 1889 and became part of the Oklahoma Territory in 1890. The two territories were merged in 1907 to form the state of Oklahoma.
- Indian tobacco (ɪnˈdē-ən tə-bākˈō) n. A poisonous North American plant (Lobelia inflata) having light blue to white flowers and rounded seedpods enclosed by an inflated, persistent calyx.
- Indian turnip (ɪnˈdē-ən tûrˈnɪp) n. Midland U.S. See jack-in-the-pulpit.
- Indian wrestling (ɪnˈdē-ən rēsˈlɪŋ) n. Sports. 1. See arm wrestling. 2. A form of wrestling in which two opponents, lying supine in reversed position, lock their near arms, raise and lock their near legs, and attempt to force the other's leg down. 3. A form of wrestling in which two opponents stand facing each other with usually right hands interlocked and the outsides of their near feet set together and attempt to unbalance each other.
- India paper (ɪnˈdē-ə pāˈpər) n. 1. A thin, uncoated, delicate paper made of vegetable fiber, used especially for taking impressions of engravings. 2. See Bible paper.
- India rubber (ɪnˈdē-ə rübˈər) n. See rubber¹ (n., sense 1).
- In-dic (ɪnˈdɪk) adj. 1. Of or relating to India or its peoples or cultures. 2. Of, relating to, or constituting the Indo-European languages of the Indian subcontinent and Sri Lanka. — n. A branch of the Indo-European language family that comprises the languages of the Indian subcontinent and Sri Lanka. Also called Sanskritic indic. abbr. 1. Grammar. Indicative. 2. Indicator.

in-di-can (in'dī-kān') n. 1. A potassium salt, $C_8H_6NO_4SK$, found in sweat and urine and formed by the conversion of tryptophan to indole by intestinal bacteria. 2. A glucoside, $C_{14}H_{17}NO_6$, occurring in the indigo plant and used as a source for indigo dye. [Latin indicum, indigo; see INDIGO + -AN².]

in-di-cant (in'dī-kənt) n. Something, such as a typographical device, that serves to indicate.

in-di-cate (in'dī-kāt') v. tr. indi-cat-ed, indi-cat-ing, indi-cates. 1. To show the way to or the direction of; point out: an arrow indicating north; indicated the right road by nodding toward it. 2. To serve as a sign, symptom, or token of; signify: "The cracking and booming of the ice indicate a change of temperature" (Henry David Thoreau). 3. To suggest or demonstrate the necessity, expedience, or advisability of: The symptoms indicate immediate surgery. 4. To state or express briefly: indicated his wishes in a letter; indicating her approval with a nod. [Latin indicāre, indicāt-, to show, from index, forefinger, indicator. See deik- in Appendix.] —in/di-ca-to'ry (-kə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj.

SYNONYMS: indicate, argue, attest, bespeak, betoken, testify, witness. The central meaning shared by these verbs is "to give grounds for supposing or inferring the existence or presence of something": a fever indicating illness; a shabby house that argues poverty; paintings that attest the artist's genius; disorder that bespeaks negligence; melting snows that betoken spring floods; a comment testifying ignorance; a stunned silence that witnessed his astonishment.

in-di-ca-tion (in'dī-kā'shən) n. Abbr. indn. 1. The act of indicating.

2. Something that serves to indicate; a sign: smiles, frowns, and other indications of emotion. 3. Something indicated as necessary or expedient: Bed rest is usually the indication for flu cases. 4. The degree indicated by a measuring instrument.

in-dic-a-tive (in-dīk'ə-tīv) adj. 1. Serving to indicate: symptoms indicative of anemia; an insignia indicative of high rank. 2. Abbr. indic. Grammar. Of, relating to, or being the mood of the verb used in ordinary objective statements. — n. Abbr. indic. Grammar. 1. The indicative mood. 2. A verb in the indicative mood. —in-dic'a-tive-ly adv.

in-di-ca-tor (in'dī-kā'tər) n. Abbr. indic. 1. One that indicates, especially: a. A pointer or an index. b. An instrument used to monitor the operation or condition of an engine, a furnace, an electrical network, a reservoir, or another physical system; a meter or gauge. c. The needle, dial, or other registering device on such an instrument. 2. Chemistry. Any of various substances, such as litmus or phenolphthalein, that indicate the presence, absence, or concentration of another substance or the degree of reaction between two or more substances by means of a characteristic change, especially in color. 3. Any of various statistical values that together provide an indication of the condition or direction of the economy.

in-di-cēs (ɪn'di-sēz') n. A plural of index.

in-di-cia (ɪn-dɪʃ'ə, -dɪʃ'ē-ə) pl.n. 1. Identifying marks; indications.

2. Markings on bulk mailings used as a substitute for stamps or cancellations.

[Latin, pl. of indicium, sign, from index, indic-, indicator. See INDEX.]

in-di-ci-um (ɪn-dɪʃ'ē-əm) n. Singular of indicia.

in-dict (ɪn-dɪt') v. tr. in-dict-ed, in-dict-ing, in-dicts. 1. To accuse of wrongdoing; charge: a book that indicts modern values. 2. Law. To make a formal accusation or indictment against (a party) by the findings of a jury, especially a grand jury. [Alteration of Middle English enditen, to accuse, write a document. See INDITE.]

—in'dict-ee' (ɪn'di-tē') n. —in-dict'er, in-dict'or n.

in-dict-a-ble (ɪn-dɪ'tə-bəl) adj. 1. Capable of being indicted: Evidence suggested that the official was indictable for the crime. 2. Making one liable to indictment: an indictable offense.

in-dic-tion (ɪn-dɪk'shən) n. A 15-year cycle used as a chronological unit in ancient Rome and incorporated in some medieval systems. [Middle English indicioun, from Late Latin indictiō, indictiōn-, proclamation, period of 15 years, from Latin indictus, past participle of indīcere, to proclaim. See INDITE.]

in-dict-ment (ɪn-dɪt'mənt) n. 1. a. The act of indicting. b. The condition of being indicted. 2. Law. A written statement charging a party with the commission of a crime or other offense, drawn up by a prosecuting attorney and found and presented by a grand jury.

In-dies (ɪn'dēz) Abbr. Ind. 1. See East Indies. 2. See West Indies.

in-dif-fer-ence (ɪn-dɪf'ər-əns, -dɪf'rəns) n. The state or quality of being indifferent.

in-dif-fer-en-cy (ɪn-dɪf'ər-ən-sē, -dɪf'rən-) n. Archaic. Indifference.

in-dif-fer-ent (ɪn-dɪf'ər-ənt, -dɪf'rənt) adj. 1. Characterized by a lack of partiality; unbiased: a properly indifferent jury. 2. Not mattering one way or the other. 3. Having no marked feeling for or against. 4. Having no particular interest in or concern for; apathetic: indifferent to the sufferings of others. 5. Being neither too much nor too little; moderate. 6. Being neither good nor bad; mediocre: an indifferent performance. 7. Being neither right nor wrong. 8. Not active or involved; neutral: an indifferent chemical in a reaction. 9. Biology. Undifferentiated, as cells or tissue. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin indifferēns, indifferent-: in-, not; see IN-¹ + differēns, different; see DIFFERENT.]

—in-dif'fer-ent-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: indifferent, unconcerned, incurious, detached, uninterested. These adjectives mean marked by an absence of interest. Indifferent applies most broadly; it can suggest lack of partiality, bias, or preference or a lack of feeling one way or another: “The universe is not hostile, nor yet is it friendly. It is simply indifferent” (John H. Holmes). Unconcerned implies not only a lack of interest but also a lack of solicitude, feeling, concern, or care: blithely unconcerned about his friend’s plight. Incurious stresses absence of intellectual inquisitiveness or natural curiosity: strangely incurious about the causes of the political upheaval surrounding her. Detached suggests absence of involvement together with an impersonal point of view: “[His] maturity appears in the detached clear-sightedness with which he could observe his own character” (David Cecil). Uninterested merely denotes lack of interest: an uninterested spectator; an uninterested glance. See also Synonyms at average in-dif-fer-ent-ism (in-dif’ər-ən-tiz’əm, -dif’rən-) n. The belief that all religions are of equal validity. —in-dif’fer-ent-ist n.

in-di-gen (in’di-jən, -jən’) also in-di-gene (-jən, -jēn’) n. One that is native or indigenous to an area. [French indigène, native, a native, from Latin indigena. See genə- in Appendix.]

in-di-gence (in’di-jəns) n. Poverty; neediness.

in-di-gene (in’di-jən, -jēn’) n. Variant of indigen.

in-dig-e-nous (in-dij’ə-nəs) adj. 1. Originating and growing or living in an area or environment. See Synonyms at native. 2. Intrinsic; innate. [From Latin indigena, a native. See INDIGEN.] —in-dig’e-nous-ly adv.

—in-dig’e-nous-ness n.

in-di-gent (in’di-jənt) adj. 1. Experiencing want or need; impoverished. See Synonyms at poor. 2. Archaic. Lacking or deficient. — n. A needy or destitute person. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin indigēns, indigent- present participle of indigēre, to need : indu-, in; see en in Appendix + egēre, to lack.]

—in’di-gent-ly adv.

in-di-gest-ed (in’di-jēs’tid, -dī-) adj. 1. Not digested; undigested: indigested food. 2. Archaic. a. Not carefully thought over or considered. b. Formless or shapeless.

in-di-gest-i-ble (in’di-jēs’tə-bəl, -dī-) adj. Difficult or impossible to digest: an indigestible meal. —in’di-gest’i-bil’i-ty n. —in’di-gest’i-bly adv.

in-di-ges-tion (in’di-jēs’chən, -dī-) n. 1. Inability to digest or difficulty in digesting something, especially food. 2. Discomfort or illness resulting from this inability or difficulty.

In-di-gir-ka (in’di-gîr’kə) A river, about 1,789 km (1,112 mi) long, of northeast Russia flowing generally northward to the East Siberian Sea.

in-dign (in-dīn’) adj. 1. Archaic. Unworthy. 2. Obsolete. Shameful; disgraceful. [Middle English indigne, from Old French, from Latin indignus : in-, not; see IN-¹ + dignus, worthy; see dek- in Appendix.]

in-dig-nant (in-dig'nənt) adj. Characterized by or filled with indignation. See Synonyms at angry. [Latin indignāns, indignant- present participle of indignāri, to be indignant, from indignus, unworthy. See INDIGN.] —in-dig'nant-ly adv.

in-dig-na-tion (in'dig-nā'shən) n. Anger aroused by something unjust, mean, or unworthy. See Synonyms at anger. [Middle English indignacioun, from Old French indignation, from Latin indignātiō, indignātiōn-, from indignātus, past participle of indignāri, to regard as unworthy, from indignus, unworthy. See INDIGN.]

in-dig-ni-ty (in-dig'nī-tē) n. pl. in-dig-ni-ties. 1. Humiliating, degrading, or abusive treatment. 2. A source of offense, as to a person's pride or sense of dignity; an affront. 3. Obsolete. Lack of dignity or honor. [French indignité, from Old French, from Latin indignitās, from indignus, unworthy. See INDIGN.]

in-di-go (in'dī-gō') n. pl. in-di-gos or in-di-goes. 1. a. Any of various shrubs or herbs of the genus Indigofera in the pea family, having odd-pinnate leaves and usually red or purple flowers in axillary racemes. b. A blue dye obtained from these plants or produced synthetically. 2. Any of several related plants, especially those of the genera Amorpha or Baptisia. 3. Abbr. ind. Color. The hue of that portion of the visible spectrum lying between blue and violet, evoked in the human observer by radiant energy with wavelengths of approximately 420 to 450 nanometers; a dark blue to grayish purple blue. [Spanish índigo, Dutch indigo (from Portuguese endego) both from Latin indicum, from Greek Indikon (pharmakon), Indian (dye), from neuter of Indikos, of India, from India, India, from Indos, the Indus River, from Old Persian Hindu. See HINDI.] —in'di-go' adj.

indigo bunting (in'dī-gō' būn'ting) n. A small common finch (Passerina cyanea) of North and Central America, the male of which has deep blue plumage.

indigo snake (in'dī-gō' snāk) n. A nonvenomous bluish-black snake (Drymarchon corais) of the southern United States and northern Mexico.

indigo squill (in'dī-gō' skwīl) n. See eastern camass.

in-dig-o-tin (in-dig'ə-tīn, in'dī-gō'-) n. A dark blue crystalline compound, $C_{16}H_{10}N_2O_2$, the principal coloring matter of indigo. [INDIGO + -IN.]

In-di-o (in'dē-ō') A city of southeast California east of Santa Ana. It is a resort and processing center in a farming region. Population, 36,793.

in-di-rect (in'dī-rēkt', -dī-) adj. 1. Diverging from a direct course; roundabout. 2. a. Not proceeding straight to the point or object. b. Not forthright and candid; devious. 3. Not directly planned for; secondary: indirect benefits.

4. Reporting the exact or approximate words of another with such changes as are necessary to bring the original statement into grammatical conformity with the sentence in which it is included: indirect discourse. 5. Logic. Involving, relating to, or being the proof of a statement by the demonstration of the impossibility or absurdity of the statement's negation. —in'di-rect'ly adv. —in'di-rect'ness n.

SYNONYMS: indirect, circuitous, roundabout. These adjectives mean not leading by a direct or straight line or course to a destination. Indirect implies a deviation from the shortest route between starting point and destination: Sometimes taking the indirect path saves time. Circuitous suggests a twisting or winding and lengthy course: We had to take a circuitous route because of an accident on the turnpike. Roundabout implies taking a course that circles: I chose a roundabout road to avoid the rush-hour traffic. In their extended senses the terms are applied to something that is not open and straightforward; they sometimes imply an effort to evade or deceive: “Persecution is a bad and indirect way to plant religion” (Thomas Browne). His explanation was circuitous and puzzling. “I heard in a roundabout way that she’s going to marry an old neighbor of theirs” (Arthur S.M. Hutchinson).

in-di-rec-tion (in’ dī-rĕk’ shən, -dī-) n. 1. The quality or state of being indirect.

2. a. Lack of straightforwardness; deviousness: obtained their goal by subtle indirection. b. A devious act or statement: wouldn’t give us a straight answer, only hints and indirections. 3. Lack of direction; aimlessness.

indirect lighting (in’ dī-rĕkt’ lī’ tīng) n. Illumination by reflected or diffused light.

indirect object (in’ dī-rĕkt’ ōb’ jĭkt) n. Grammar. An object indirectly affected by the action of a verb, as me in Sing me a song and the turtle in He feeds the turtle lettuce.

indirect tax (in’ dī-rĕkt’ tākz) n. A tax, such as a sales tax or value-added tax, that is levied on goods or services rather than individuals and is ultimately paid by consumers in the form of higher prices.

in-dis-cern-i-ble (in’ dī-sūr’ nā-bəl, -zūr’ -) adj. Difficult or impossible to discern or perceive; imperceptible: an indiscernible increase in temperature. —in’-dis-cern’i-bly adv.

in-dis-ci-pline (in’ dīs’ ə-plīn) n. Lack of discipline or restraint. —in’-dis-’ci-plined adj.

in-dis-creet (in’ dī-skrĕt’) adj. Lacking discretion; injudicious: an indiscreet remark. —in’dis-creet’ly adv. —in’dis-creet’ness n.

in-dis-crete (in’ dī-skrĕt’) adj. Not divided or divisible into separate parts: layers that were fused into an indiscrete mass.

in-dis-cre-tion (in’ dī-skrĕsh’ ən) n. 1. Lack of discretion; injudiciousness.

2. An indiscreet act or remark.

in-dis-crim-i-nate (in’ dī-skrĭm’ ə-nīt) adj. 1. a. Not making or based on careful distinctions; unselective: an indiscriminate shopper; indiscriminate taste in music. b. Widespread; wholesale: indiscriminate violence; the indiscriminate use of pesticides. 2. Random; haphazard: an indiscriminate assortment of used books for sale. 3. Confused; chaotic: the indiscriminate policies of the previous adminis- tration. 4. Unrestrained or wanton; profligate: indiscriminate spending. —in'/dis-crim'i-nate-ly adv. —in'/dis-crim'i-nate-ness n.

in-dis-crim-i-nat-ing (in'dī-skrīm'ə-nā'ting) adj. Not discriminating: entertainment aimed at an indiscriminating audience.

in-dis-crim-i-na-tion (in'dī-skrīm'ə-nā'shən) n. Lack of discrimination or judgment. —in'/dis-crim'i-na'tive adj.

in-dis-pen-sa-ble (in'dī-spən'sə-bəl) adj. 1. Not to be dispensed with; essential. 2. Obligatory; unavoidable: the routine but indispensable ceremonies of state. — n. One that is indispensable. —in'/dis-pen'sa-bil'i-ty, in'/dis-pen'sa-ble-ness n. —in'/dis-pen'sa-bly adv.

SYNONYMS: indispensable, essential, necessary, needful, requisite. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “pressingly needed”: foods indispensable to good nutrition; funds essential to the completion of the project; necessary tools and materials; provided them with all things needful; lacking the requisite qualifications for the position.

ANTONYM: dispensable

in-dis-pose (in'dī-spōz') v. tr. in-dis-posed, in-dis-pos-ing, in-dis-pos-es.

1. To make averse; disincline. 2. To cause to be or feel ill; sicken. 3. To render unfit; disqualify.

in-dis-posed (in'dī-spōzd') adj. 1. Mildly ill. 2. Averse; disinclined: was clearly indisposed to grant their request.

in-dis-po-si-tion (in-dīs'pə-zīsh'ən) n. 1. Disinclination; unwillingness. 2. A minor ailment.

in-dis-put-a-ble (in'dī-spyō'tə-bəl) adj. Beyond dispute or doubt; undeniable: indisputable evidence. —in'/dis-put'a-ble-ness n. —in'/dis-put'a-bly adv.

in-dis-sol-u-ble (in'dī-sōl'yə-bəl) adj. 1. Permanent; binding: an indissoluble contract; an indissoluble union. 2. Impossible to dissolve, disintegrate, or decompose: an indissoluble compound. —in'/dis-sol'u-bil'i-ty, in'/dis-sol'u-ble-ness n. —in'/dis-sol'u-bly adv.

in-dis-tinct (in'dī-stīngkt') adj. 1. Not clearly or sharply delineated: an indistinct pattern; indistinct shapes in the gloom. 2. Faint; dim: indistinct stars.

3. a. Hazy, vague: an indistinct memory; an indistinct notion of how to proceed.

b. Difficult to understand or make out: indistinct speech. —in'/dis-tinct'ly adv. —in'/dis-tinct'ness n.

in-dis-tinc-tive (in'dī-stīngk'tiv) adj. Lacking distinguishing qualities; not distinctive. —in'/dis-tinc'tive-ly adv. —in'/dis-tinc'tive-ness n.

in-dis-tin-guish-a-ble (in'dī-stīng'gwī-shə-bəl) adj. 1. Not distinguishable, especially: a. Impossible to differentiate or tell apart: indistinguishable twins; a moth with markings that make it indistinguishable from its background.

b. Impossible to discern; imperceptible: a sound that was indistinguishable to the human ear. 2. Difficult to understand or make out; vague: indistinguishable speech. —in-'dis-tin'guish-a-ble-ness, in-'dis-tin'guish-a-bil/i-ty n. —in-'dis-tin'guish-a-bly adv.

in-dite (in-dīt') v. tr. in-dit-ed, in-dit-ing, in-dites. 1. To write; compose. 2. To set down in writing. 3. Obsolete. To dictate. [Middle English enditen, from Old French enditer, from Vulgar Latin indictāre*: Latin in-, toward; see IN⁻² + Latin dictāre, to compose, to say habitually, frequentative of dīcere, to say; see deik- in Appendix.] —in-dite'ment n. —in-dit'er n.

in-di-um (in'dē-əm) n. Symbol In A soft, malleable, silvery-white metallic element found primarily in ores of zinc and tin, used as a plating over silver in making mirrors, in plating aircraft bearings, and in compounds for making transistors. Atomic number 49; atomic weight 114.82; melting point 156.61°C; boiling point 2,000°C; specific gravity 7.31; valence 1, 2, 3. [IND(IGO) + -IUM (so called from the indigo-blue lines in its spectrum).]

in-di-vid-u-al (in'də-vij'ō-əl) adj. 1. a. Of or relating to an individual, especially a single human being: individual consciousness. b. By or for one person: individual work; an individual portion. 2. Existing as a distinct entity; separate: individual drops of rain. 3. a. Marked by or expressing individuality; distinctive or individualistic: an individual way of dressing. b. Special; particular: Each variety of melon has its individual flavor and texture. c. Serving to identify or set apart: "There was nothing individual about him except a deep scar... across his right cheek" (Rebecca West). — n. 1. a. A single human being considered apart from a society or community: the rights of the individual. b. A human being regarded as a unique personality: always treated her clients as individuals. c. A person distinguished from others by a special quality. d. Usage Problem. A person. 2. A single animal or plant as distinguished from a species, community, or group. 3. A member of a collection or set; a specimen. [Middle English, single, indivisible, from Old French, from Medieval Latin indīviduālis, from Latin indīviduus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + dividuus, divisible (from dīvidere, to divide).] —in'di-vid'u-al-ly adv.

USAGE NOTE: The noun individual is used unexceptionably when it refers to an individual person as opposed to a larger social group or as distinguished from others by some special quality: "This is not only a crisis of individuals, but also of a society" (Raymond Williams). She is a real individual. Since the 19th century, however, there have been numerous critical objections to use of the word to refer simply to "a person" where no larger contrast is implied, as in Two individuals were placed under arrest or The Mayor will make time for any individual who wants to talk to her. In such contexts the words person and people will usually do the same semantic job with less affectation.

in-di-vid-u-al-ism (ɪn' də-vɪj' oʊ-ə-lɪz' əm) n. 1. a. Belief in the primary importance of the individual and in the virtues of self-reliance and personal independence. b. Acts or an act based on this belief. 2. A doctrine advocating freedom from government regulation in the pursuit of a person's economic or social goals. 3. The doctrine that the interests of the individual should take precedence over the interests of the state or social group. 4. a. The quality of being an individual; individuality. b. An individual characteristic; a quirk.

in-di-vid-u-al-ist (ɪn' də-vɪj' oʊ-ə-lɪst) n. 1. One that asserts individuality by independence of thought and action. 2. An advocate of individualism.

—in'di-vid'u-al-is'tic adj. —in'di-vid'u-al-is'ti-cal-ly adv.

in-di-vid-u-al-i-ty (ɪn' də-vɪj' oʊ-əl' i-tē) n. pl. in-di-vid-u-al-i-ties. 1. a. The aggregate of qualities and characteristics that distinguish one person or thing from others; character: choices that were intended to express his individuality; monotonous towns lacking in individuality. b. An individual or distinguishing feature. 2. The quality or state of being individual; singularity: She was so absorbed by the movement that she lost all sense of individuality. 3. A single, distinct entity. 4. Archaic. Indivisibility.

in-di-vid-u-al-ize (ɪn' də-vɪj' oʊ-ə-līz') v. tr. in-di-vid-u-al-ized, in-di-vid-u-al-iz-ing, in-di-vid-u-al-iz-es. 1. To give individuality to. 2. To consider or treat individually; particularize. 3. To modify to suit the wishes or needs of a particular individual: individualized the work schedules of all the physicians.

—in'di-vid'u-al-i-za'tion (-ə-lī-zā'shən) n.

in-di-vid-u-ate (ɪn' də-vɪj' oʊ-āt') v. tr. in-di-vid-u-at-ed, in-di-vid-u-at-ing, in-di-vid-u-ates. 1. To give individuality to; individualize. 2. To form into a separate, distinct entity.

in-di-vid-u-a-tion (ɪn' də-vɪj' oʊ-ā'shən) n. 1. The act or process of individuating, especially the process by which social individuals become differentiated one from the other. 2. The condition of being individuated; individuality. 3. Philosophy. a. The development of the individual from the general or universal. b. The distinction or determination of the individual within the general or universal. 4. In Jungian psychology, the gradual integration and unification of the self through the resolution of successive layers of psychological conflict. 5. Embryology. Formation of distinct organs or structures through the interaction of adjacent tissues.

in-di-vis-i-ble (ɪn' də-vɪz' ə-bəl) adj. 1. Incapable of undergoing division: an indivisible union of states. 2. Mathematics. Incapable of being divided without a remainder: The number 15 is indivisible by 7. —in'di-vis'i-ble-ness, in'di-vis'i-bil'i-ty n. —in'di-vis'i-bly adv.

indn. abbr. Indication.

Indo- pref. 1. India; East Indies: Indochina. 2. Indo-European: Indo-Hittite.

[Greek, from Indos, the Indus River. See INDIGO.]

In-do-Ar-y-an (in'dō-âr'ē-ən, -âr'-) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or being any of the peoples of the Indian subcontinent who speak an Indo-European language.

2. Indo-Iranian. — n. 1. A member of any of the Indo-Aryan peoples. 2. The Indo-Iranian languages.

In-do-chi-na (in'dō-chī'nə) 1. A peninsula of southeast Asia comprising Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia, Thailand, Burma, and the mainland territory of Malaysia. The area was influenced in early times by India (particularly the Hindu culture) and China. 2. The former French colonial empire in southeast Asia, including much of the eastern part of the Indochinese peninsula. French influence extended from roughly 1862 to the fall of Dien Bien Phu (1954).

—In'do-chi'nese' (-nēz', -nēs') adj. & n.

in-doc-ile (in-dŏs'əl) adj. Resistant to authority or discipline; recalcitrant.

—in'do-cil'i-ty (in'dŏ-sīl'ī-tē, -dŏ-) n.

In-do-cin (in'də-sīn) A trademark used for a preparation of indomethacin.

in-doc-tri-nate (in-dŏk'trə-nāt') v. tr. in-doc-tri-nat-ed, in-doc-tri-nat-ing, in-doc-tri-nates. 1. a. To instruct in a body of doctrine or principles. b. To initiate by means of doctrinal instruction: indoctrinate new members into the party.

2. To imbue with a partisan or ideological point of view: a generation of children who had been indoctrinated against the values of their parents. —in-doc'tri-na'-tion n.

In-do-Eu-ro-pe-an (in'dō-yŏŏr'ə-pē'ən) n. 1. a. A family of languages consisting of most of the languages of Europe as well as those of Iran, the Indian subcontinent, and other parts of Asia. b. Proto-Indo-European. Also called Indo-Germanic. 2. A member of any of the peoples speaking an Indo-European language. —In'do-Eu'ro-pe'an adj.

In-do-Eu-ro-pe-an-ist (in'dō-yŏŏr'ə-pē'ə-nīst) n. A student of Indo-European linguistics.

In-do-Ger-man-ic (in'dō-jər-măn'ik) n. See Indo-European (n., sense 1).

—In'do-Ger-man'ic adj.

In-do-Hit-tite (in'dō-hīt'it') n. 1. A language family that includes Indo-European and Anatolian. 2. The hypothetical parent language of Indo-European and Anatolian.

In-do-I-ra-ni-an (in'dō-ī-rā'nē-ən) n. 1. A subfamily of the Indo-European language family that comprises the Indic and Iranian branches. 2. A member of any of the peoples speaking an Indo-Iranian language. Also called Aryan —In'do-I-ra'ni-an adj.

in-dole (in'dŏl') n. 1. A white crystalline compound, C₈H₇N, obtained from coal tar or various plants and produced by the bacterial decomposition of trypt-tophan in the intestine. It is used in perfumery and as a reagent. 2. Any of various derivatives of this compound. [IND(IGO) + -OLE.]

in·dole·a·ce·tic acid (ĭn'dō-lə-sē'tĭk əs'ĭd) n. Abbr. IAA A plant hormone, $C_{10}H_9NO_2$, that stimulates growth.

in·dole·am·ine (ĭn'dō-lām'ēn, ĭn'dō-lə-mēn') n. Any of various derivatives of indole, such as serotonin, containing an amine group.

in·dole·bu·tyr·ic acid (ĭn'dōl-byōō-tĭr'ĭk əs'ĭd) n. A synthetic compound, $C_{12}H_{13}NO_2$, used to regulate plant growth and development.

in·do·lence (ĭn'də-ləns) n. Habitual laziness; sloth.

in·do·lent (ĭn'də-lənt) adj. 1. a. Disinclined to exert oneself; habitually lazy. See Synonyms at lazy. b. Conducive to inactivity or laziness; lethargic: humid, indolent weather. 2. a. Causing little or no pain: an indolent tumor. b. Slow to heal, grow, or develop; inactive: an indolent ulcer. [Late Latin indolēns, indolent-, painless : Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin dolēns, present participle of dolēre, to feel pain.] —in·do·lent·ly adv.

in·do·meth·a·cin (ĭn'dō-mēth'ə-sĭn) n. A nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory, antipyretic, and analgesic drug, $C_{19}H_{16}ClNO_4$, used especially in the treatment of some forms of arthritis. [INDO(LE) + METH- + AC(ETIC ACID) + -IN.]

in·dom·i·ta·ble (ĭn-dōm'ĭ-tə-bəl) adj. Incapable of being overcome, subdued, or vanquished; unconquerable. [Late Latin indomitābilis : Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin domitāre, to tame, frequentative of domāre, to subdue; see demə- in Appendix.] —in·dom'·i·ta·bil'·i·ty, in·dom'·i·ta·ble·ness n.

—in·dom'·i·ta·bly adv.

In·do·ne·sia (ĭn'də-nē'zhə, -shə, -dō-) Formerly Dutch East Indies (dŭch; ĭn'dēz). A country of southeast Asia in the Malay Archipelago comprising Sumatra, Java, Sulawesi, the Moluccas, parts of Borneo, New Guinea, and Timor, and many smaller islands. First visited by Dutch navigators in 1595-1596, Indonesia was dominated by the Dutch East Indies Company from 1602 to 1798, when authority was turned over to the government of the Netherlands. In 1945 the territory declared its independence, which was finally achieved in 1949. Jakarta, on Java, is the capital and the largest city. Population, 147,490,298.

In·do·ne·sian (ĭn'də-nē'zhən, -shən) n. Abbr. Indon. 1. A native or inhabitant of Indonesia. 2. A native or inhabitant of the Malay Archipelago. 3. A subfamily of Austronesian that includes Malay, Tagalog, and the languages of Indonesia. 4. A dialect of Malay that is the official language of Indonesia. In this sense, also called Bahasa Indonesia — adj. Of or relating to Indonesia, the Indonesians, or their languages or cultures.

in·door (ĭn'dôr', -dôr') adj. 1. Of, situated in, or intended for use in the interior of a building: an indoor pool; indoor paint. 2. Carried on within doors: an indoor party; indoor gardening.

in-door-out-door (in'dôr'out'dôr', in'dôr'out'dôr') adj. Designed or suitable for either indoor or outdoor use: indoor-outdoor furniture; indoor-outdoor carpeting.

in-doors (in-dôrz', -dôrz') adv. In or into a house or building.

in-do-phen-ol (in'dô-fē'nôl, -nôl, -nôl) n. Any of various synthetic blue or green dyes. [IND(IGO) + PHENOL.]

In-dore (in-dôr', -dôr') A city of west-central India north-northeast of Bombay. Founded in 1715, it is a commercial and industrial center. Population, 829,327.

in-dorse (in-dôrs') v. Variant of endorse.

In-dra (in'drə) n. Hinduism. A principal Vedic deity associated with rain and thunder.

in-draft (in'drăft') n. 1. An inward flow or current, as of air. 2. A pulling or drawing inward.

in-drawn (in'drôn') adj. 1. Drawn in: an indrawn gasp. 2. Emotionally unresponsive or reserved; withdrawn: "Her psychiatrist had pronounced her too tense and indrawn to endure a strange teacher" (Louis Auchincloss).

in-dri (in'drē) n. A large arboreal lemur (Indri indri) of Madagascar, having large eyes and a rudimentary tail. [Probably ultimately of Malagasy origin.]

in-du-bi-ta-ble (in-dōō'bĭ-tə-bəl, -dyōō'-) adj. Too apparent to be doubted; unquestionable. —in-du'bi-ta-bly adv.

in-duce (in-dōōs', -dyōōs') v. tr. in-duced, in-duc-ing, in-duc-es. 1. To lead or move, as to a course of action, by influence or persuasion. See Synonyms at persuade. 2. To bring about or stimulate the occurrence of; cause: a drug used to induce labor. 3. To infer by inductive reasoning. 4. Physics. a. To produce (an electric current or a magnetic charge) by induction. b. To produce (radioactivity, for example) artificially by bombardment of a substance with neutrons, gamma rays, and other particles. 5. Biochemistry. To initiate or increase the production of (an enzyme or other protein) at the level of genetic transcription. [Middle English inducen, from Old French inducer, from Latin indūcere: in-, in; see IN-² + dūcere, to lead; see deuk- in Appendix.] —in-duc'i-ble adj.

in-duce-ment (in-dōōs'mənt, -dyōōs'-) n. 1. Something that helps bring about an action or a desired result; an incentive: tax breaks intended as an inducement to greater reinvestment. 2. The act or process of inducing: inducement of sleep. 3. Law. An introductory or background statement explaining the main allegations in a proceeding.

in-duc-er (in-dōō'sər, -dyōōs'-) n. 1. One that induces, especially a substance that is capable of activating specific genes within a cell. 2. A part or structure in an embryo that influences the differentiation of another part.

in-duct (in-dūkt') v. tr. in-duct-ed, in-duct-ing, in-ducts. 1. To place ceremoniously or formally in an office or a position; install: a service to induct the new president of the university. 2. a. To admit as a member; receive. b. To admit to military service: a draftee waiting to be inducted into the army. c. To introduce, as to new experience or knowledge; initiate: She was inducted into the ways of the legal profession. 3. Physics. To induce. [Middle English inducten, from Latin indūcere, induct-. See INDUCE.]

in-duc-tance (in-dŭk'təns) n. 1. The property of an electric circuit by which an electromotive force is induced in it or in a nearby circuit by a change of current in either circuit. 2. A circuit element, typically a conducting coil, in which electromotive force is generated by electromagnetic induction.

in-duct-ee (in'dŭk-tē') n. One who is inducted, especially a person newly admitted to military service.

in-duc-tion (in-dŭk'shən) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of inducting. b. A ceremony or formal act by which a person is inducted, as into office or military service. 2. Electricity. a. The generation of electromotive force in a closed circuit by a varying magnetic flux through the circuit. b. The charging of an isolated conducting object by momentarily grounding it while a charged body is nearby. 3. Logic. a. The process of deriving general principles from particular facts or instances. b. A conclusion reached by this process. 4. Mathematics. A two-part method of proving a theorem involving a positive integral variable. First the theorem is verified for the smallest admissible value of the integer. Then it is proven that if the theorem is true for any value of the integer, it is true for the next greater value. The final proof contains the two parts. 5. The act of inducing: induction of sleep. 6. Presentation of material, such as facts or evidence, in support of an argument or a proposition. 7. A preface or prologue, as to a literary composition, especially an early English play. 8. Biochemistry. The process of initiating or increasing the production of an enzyme or other protein at the level of genetic transcription. 9. Embryology. The change in form or shape caused by the action of one tissue of an embryo on adjacent tissues or parts, as by the diffusion of hormones or chemicals.

induction coil (in-dŭk'shən kōil) n. A transformer, often used in automotive ignition systems, in which an interrupted, low-voltage direct current in the primary is converted into an intermittent, high-voltage current in the secondary.

in-duc-tive (in-dŭk'tiv) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or using logical induction: inductive reasoning. 2. Electricity. Of or arising from inductance: inductive reactance. 3. Causing or influencing; inducing. 4. Introductory. —in-duc'tive-ly adv. —in-duc'tive-ness n.

inductive statistics (in-dŭk'tiv stə-tis'tiks) n. (used with a sing. verb). The branch of statistics that deals with generalizations, predictions, estimations, and decisions from data initially presented.

in-duc-tor (in-dŭk'tər) n. One that inducts, especially a device that functions by or introduces inductance into a circuit.

in·due (in-dōō', -dyōō') v. Variant of endue.

in·dulse (in-dūlj') v. in·dulg·ed, in·dulg·ing, in·dulg·es. — v. tr. 1. To yield to the desires and whims of, especially to an excessive degree; humor.

2. a. To yield to; gratify: indulge a craving for chocolate. b. To allow (oneself) unrestrained gratification: indulged herself with idle daydreams. See Synonyms at pamper. 3. To grant an ecclesiastical indulgence or dispensation to. — v. intr.

1. To indulge oneself. 2. To engage or take part, especially freely or avidly: indulged in outrageous behavior; indulged in all the latest fads. [Latin indulgēre.] — in·dulg'er n.

in·dul·gence (in-dūlj'jəns) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of indulging; gratification: indulgence of every whim. b. The state of being indulgent. 2. a. The act of indulging in something: indulgence in irresponsible behavior. b. Something indulged in: Sports cars are an expensive indulgence. 3. Liberal or lenient treatment; tolerance: treated their grandchildren with fond indulgence. 4. Self-indulgence: a life of wealth and indulgence. 5. a. Something granted as a favor or privilege. b. Permission to extend the time of payment or performance.

c. Patient attention: I beg your indulgence for just a few minutes. 6. Roman Catholic Church. The remission of temporal punishment still due for a sin that has been sacramentally absolved. — v. tr. in·dul·genced, in·dul·genc·ing, in·dul·genc·es. Roman Catholic Church. To attach an indulgence to.

in·dul·gent (in-dūlj'jənt) adj. Showing, characterized by, or given to indulgence; lenient: indulgent grandparents. — in·dul'gent·ly adv.

in·dult (in-dūlt') n. Roman Catholic Church. A faculty granted by the pope to deviate from the common law of the Church. [Middle English, from Medieval Latin indultum, from Late Latin, concession, gift, from Latin indultum, neuter past participle of indulgēre, to be kind.]

in·du·ment (in'də-mənt, -dyə-) also in·du·men·tum (in'dōō-mən'təm, -dyōō-) n. pl. in·du·ments also in·du·men·ta (-mən'tə). A covering of fine hairs or scales. [Latin, garment, from induere, to put a garment on, from indu-, in. See INDUSTRY.]

in·du·pli·cate (in-dōō'plī-kīt, -dyōō'-) adj. Botany. Having the edges folded or turned inward.

in·du·rate (in'də-rāt', -dyə-) v. in·du·rat·ed, in·du·rat·ing, in·du·rates. — v. tr. 1. To make hard; harden: soil that had been indurated by extremes of climate. 2. To inure, as to hardship or ridicule. 3. To make callous or obdurate: "It is the curse of revolutionary calamities to indurate the heart" (Helen Maria Williams). — v. intr. 1. To grow hard; harden. 2. To become firmly fixed or established. — adj. (in'dōō-rīt, -dyə-) Hardened; obstinate; unfeeling. [Latin indūrāre, indūrāt- : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + dūrus, hard; see deru- in Appendix.] — in'du·ra'tive adj.

in-du-ra-tion (ɪn'də-rā'shən, -dyə-) n. 1. The quality or condition of being hardened. 2. The act or process of becoming hardened. 3. Pathology. The hardening of a normally soft tissue or organ, especially the skin, because of inflammation, infiltration of a neoplasm, or an accumulation of blood.

In-dus¹ (ɪn'dəs) A river of south-central Asia rising in southwest Tibet and flowing about 3,057 km (1,900 mi) northwest through northern India and southwest through Pakistan to the Arabian Sea. Its valley was the site of an advanced civilization lasting c. 2500 to 1500 B.C.

In-dus² (ɪn'dəs) n. A constellation in the Southern Hemisphere near Tucana and Pavo. Also called Indian [Latin Indus, an Indian, from Greek Indos, the Indus River, an Indian. See INDIGO.] indus. abbr. Industrial; industry.

in-du-si-um (ɪn-dōō'zē-əm, -zhē-, -dyōō'-) n. pl. in-du-si-a (-zē-ə, -zhē-ə). An enclosing membrane, as that covering the sorus of a fern. [Latin, tunic, perhaps alteration of Greek endusis, dress, from enduein, sink into, to put on : en-, in; see EN-² + duein, to sink.]

in-dus-tri-al (ɪn-dūs'trē-əl) adj. Abbr. indus., ind. 1. Of, relating to, or resulting from industry: industrial development; industrial pollution. 2. Having highly developed industries: an industrial nation. 3. Employed, required, or used in industry: industrial workers; industrial diamonds. — n. 1. A firm engaged in industry. 2. A stock or bond issued by an industrial enterprise. 3. A person employed in industry. —in-dus'tri-al-ly adv.

industrial action (ɪn-dūs'trē-əl äk'shən) n. Chiefly British. A job action.

industrial arts (ɪn-dūs'trē-əl ärts) n. (used with a sing. verb). A subject of study aimed at developing the manual and technical skills required to work with tools and machinery.

industrial disease (ɪn-dūs'trē-əl dī-zēz') n. Occupational disease.

industrial engineering (ɪn-dūs'trē-əl ɛn'jə-nîr'ɪŋ) n. Abbr. IE, I.E. The branch of engineering that is concerned with the efficient production of industrial goods as affected by elements such as plant and procedural design, the management of materials and energy, and the integration of workers within the overall system. —industrial engineer n.

in-dus-tri-al-ism (ɪn-dūs'trē-ə-līz'əm) n. An economic and social system based on the development of large-scale industries and marked by the production of large quantities of inexpensive manufactured goods and the concentration of employment in urban factories.

in-dus-tri-al-ist (ɪ-dūs'trē-ə-līst) n. One who owns, directs, or has a substantial financial interest in an industrial enterprise.

in-dus-tri-al-ize (ɪn-dūs'trē-ə-līz') v. in-dus-tri-al-ized, in-dus-tri-al-iz-ing, in-dus-tri-al-iz-es. — v. tr. 1. To develop industry in (a country or society, for example). 2. To organize (the production of something) as an industry. — v. intr. To become industrial. — in·dus'tri-al-i-za'tion (-ə-lī-zā'shən) n.

industrial park (in-dūs'trē-əl pārk) n. An area usually located on the outskirts of a city and zoned for a group of industries and businesses.

industrial psychology (in-dūs'trē-əl sī-kōl'ə-jē) n. The branch of applied psychology that is concerned with efficient management of an industrial labor force and especially with problems encountered by workers in a mechanized environment. — industrial psychologist n.

industrial relations (in-dūs'trē-əl rī-lā'shənz) pl.n. Relations between the management of an industrial enterprise and its employees.

industrial revolution also Industrial Revolution (in-dūs'trē-əl rēv'ə-lōō'shən) n. The complex of radical socioeconomic changes, such as the ones that took place in England in the late 18th century, which are brought about when extensive mechanization of production systems results in a shift from home-based hand manufacturing to large-scale factory production.

industrial union (in-dūs'trē-əl yōōn'yən) n. A labor union to which all the workers of a particular industry can belong regardless of their occupation or trade.

in·dus·tri·ous (in-dūs'trē-əs) adj. 1. Assiduous in work or study; diligent. See Synonyms at busy. 2. Obsolete. Skillful; clever. — in·dus'tri·ous·ly adv.
— in·dus'tri·ous·ness n.

in·dus·try (in'də-strē) n. pl. in·dus·tries. Abbr. indus., ind. 1. Commercial production and sale of goods. 2. A specific branch of manufacture and trade: the textile industry. See Synonyms at business. 3. The sector of an economy made up of manufacturing enterprises: government regulation of industry. 4. Industrial management. 5. Energetic devotion to a task or an endeavor; diligence: demonstrated great intelligence and industry as a prosecutor. 6. Ongoing work or study associated with a specified subject or figure: the Civil War industry; the Hemingway industry. [Middle English industrie, skill, from Old French, from Latin industria, diligence, from feminine of industrius, diligent. See ster² in Appendix.]

WORD HISTORY: A clear indication of the way in which human effort has been harnessed as a force for the commercial production of goods and services is the change in meaning of the word industry. Coming from the Latin word industria, meaning “diligent activity directed to some purpose,” and its descendant, Old French industrie, with the senses “activity,” “ability,” and “a trade or occupation,” our word (first recorded in 1475) originally meant “skill,” “a device,” and “diligence” as well as “a trade.” As more and more human effort over the course of the Industrial Revolution became involved in producing goods and services for sale, the last sense of industry as well as the slightly newer sense “systematic work or habitual employment” grew in importance, to a large extent taking over the word. We can even speak now of the Shakespeare industry, rather like the garment industry. The sense “diligence, assiduity,” lives on, however, perhaps even to survive industry itself.

in·dus·try·wide (in'də-strē-wīd') adv. & adj. Throughout an entire industry: sales that have decreased industrywide; industrywide cooperation.

in·dwell (in-dwəl') v. in·dwelt (-dwəlt'), in·dwell·ing, in·dwells. — v. intr. 1. To exist as an animating or divine inner spirit, force, or principle. 2. To be located or implanted inside something. — v. tr. To inhabit or reside within as such a spirit, force, or principle. — in'dwell'er n.

In·dy (än'dē, äN-dē'), (Paul Marie Théodore) Vincent d'. 1851-1931.

French composer who was a founder (1894) and director of the Schola Cantorum in Paris.

-ine¹ suff. 1. Of or relating to: Benedictine. 2. Made of; resembling: opaline. [Middle English -in, -ine, from Old French, from Latin -īnus, -īna, adj. suff., and from Latin -inus (from Greek -inos, adj. suff..)]

-ine² suff. 1. Also -in. A chemical substance, especially: a. Halogen: bromine. b. Basic compound: amine. c. Alkaloid: quinine. 2. Amino acid: glycine. 3. A mixture of compounds: gasoline. 4. Commercial material: glassine. [Ultimately from Latin -īnus, and -inus, adj. suffixes; see -INE¹.]

in·e·bri·ant (in-ē'brē-ənt) adj. Serving to intoxicate. — n. An intoxicant.

in·e·bri·ate (in-ē'brē-āt') v. tr. in·e·bri·at·ed, in·e·bri·at·ing, in·e·bri·ates.

1. To make drunk; intoxicate. 2. To exhilarate or stupefy as if with alcohol. — adj. (-it) Intoxicated. — n. (-it) An intoxicated person. [Latin inēbriāre, inēbriāt- : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + ēbriāre, to intoxicate (from ēbrius, drunk); see ēg^{wh}- in Appendix.] — in·e'brī·a'tion n.

in·e·bri·at·ed (in-ē'brē-ā'tīd) adj. Exhilarated or stupefied by or as if by alcohol; intoxicated.

in·e·bri·e·ty (in'ī-brī'ī-tē) n. Intoxication; drunkenness.

in·ed·i·ble (in-əd'ə-bəl) adj. Unfit to be eaten; not edible. — in·ed'i·bil'i·ty n. — in·ed'i·bly adv.

in·ed·it·ed (in-əd'ī-tīd) adj. 1. Not edited. 2. Not published.

in·ed·u·ca·ble (in-ēj'ə-kə-bəl) adj. Incapable of being educated.

— in·ed'u·ca·bil'i·ty n.

in·ef·fa·ble (in-ēf'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Incapable of being expressed; indescribable or unutterable. See Synonyms at unspeakable. 2. Not to be uttered; taboo: the ineffable name of the Deity. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin ineffābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + effābilis, utterable (from effārī, to utter : ex-, ex- + fārī, to speak); see bhā⁻² in Appendix.] — in·ef'fa·bil'i·ty, in·ef'fa·ble·ness n.

— in·ef'fa·bly adv.

in·ef·face·a·ble (in'ī-fā'sə-bəl) adj. Impossible to efface; indelible.

—in'ef·face'a·bil'i·ty n. —in'ef·face'a·bly adv.

in·ef·fec·tive (in'ī-fĕk'tīv) adj. 1. Not producing an intended effect; ineffectual: an ineffective plea. 2. Inadequate; incompetent: an ineffective teacher.

—in'ef·fec'tive·ly adv. —in'ef·fec'tive·ness n.

in·ef·fec·tu·al (in'ī-fĕk'chō-əl) adj. 1. a. Insufficient to produce a desired effect: an ineffectual effort to block the legislation. b. Useless; worthless: an ineffectual treatment for cancer. 2. Lacking forcefulness or effectiveness; weak: an ineffectual ruler. —in'ef·fec'tu·al'i·ty (-ăl'ī-tē), in'ef·fec'tu·al·ness n.

—in'ef·fec'tu·al·ly adv.

in·ef·fi·ca·cious (in-ĕf'ī-kā'shəs) adj. Not capable of producing a desired effect or result; ineffective. —in·ef'fi·ca'cious·ly adv. —in·ef'fi·ca'cious·ness n.

in·ef·fi·ca·cy (in-ĕf'ī-kə-sē) n. The state or quality of being incapable of producing a desired effect or result.

in·ef·fi·cien·cy (in'ī-fish'ən-sē) n. pl. in·ef·fi·cien·cies. 1. The quality, condition, or fact of being inefficient. 2. An inefficient act, design, or procedure: pointed out certain inefficiencies in the shipping operation.

in·ef·fi·cient (in'ī-fish'ənt) adj. 1. Not efficient, as: a. Lacking the ability or skill to perform effectively; incompetent: an inefficient worker. b. Not producing the intended result; ineffective: an inefficient campaign against illegal drugs.

2. Wasteful of time, energy, or materials: an inefficient design; outdated and inefficient methods. —in'ef·fi'cient·ly adv.

in·e·gal·i·tar·i·an (in'ī-gäl'ī-târ'ē-ən) adj. Marked by or accepting of social, economic, or political inequality.

in·e·las·tic (in'ī-lās'tik) adj. Lacking elasticity; unyielding or unadaptable. See Synonyms at stiff. —in'e·las·tic'i·ty (-ī-lā-stis'ī-tē) n.

inelastic collision (in'ī-lās'tik kə-līzh'ən) n. A collision between two particles in which part of their kinetic energy is transformed to another form of energy. The total amount of energy remains the same.

inelastic scattering (in'ī-lās'tik skăt'ər-īng) n. The scattering of particles resulting from inelastic collision.

in·el·e·gance (in-ĕl'ī-gəns) n. Lack of refinement or polish.

in·el·e·gant (in-ĕl'ī-gənt) adj. Lacking refinement or polish; not elegant.

—in·el'e·gant·ly adv.

in·el·i·gi·ble (in-ĕl'ī-jə-bəl) adj. 1. Disqualified by law, rule, or provision: ineligible to run for office; ineligible for retirement benefits. 2. Unworthy of being chosen; unfit: considered her ineligible for the job. — n. One that is not eligible.

—in·el'i·gi·bil'i·ty n. —in·el'i·gi·bly adv.

in·el·o·quent (in-ĕl'ə-kwənt) adj. Lacking or displaying a lack of eloquence.

—in·el'o·quent·ly adv.

in·e·luc·ta·ble (in'ī-lūk'tə-bəl) adj. Not to be avoided or escaped; inevitable: "Those war plans rested on a belief in the ineluctable superiority of the offense over the defense" (Jack Beatty). [Latin inēluctābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + ēluctābilis, penetrable (from ēluctārī, to struggle out of : ex-, ex- + luctārī, to struggle).] —in'e-luc'ta-bil'i-ty n. —in'e-luc'ta-bly adv.

in·ept (in-ĕpt') adj. 1. Not apt or fitting; inappropriate. See Synonyms at awkward. 2. a. Displaying a lack of judgment, sense, or reason; foolish: an inept remark. b. Bungling or clumsy; incompetent: inept handling of the account. [Latin ineptus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + aptus, suitable; see APT.] —in-ept'ly adv. —in-ept'ness, in-ep'ti-tude' (-ĕp'tī-tōod', -tyōod') n.

in·e·qual·i·ty (in'ī-kwōl'ī-tē) n. pl. in-e-qual-i-ties. 1. a. The condition of being unequal. b. An instance of being unequal. 2. a. Lack of equality, as of opportunity, treatment, or status. b. Social or economic disparity: the growing inequality between rich and poor. 3. Lack of smoothness or regularity; unevenness. 4. Variability; changeability. 5. Mathematics. An algebraic expression showing that a quantity is greater than or less than another quantity.

in·eq·ui·ta·ble (in-ĕk'wī-tə-bəl) adj. Not equitable; unfair. —in-eq'ui-ta-bly adv.

in·eq·ui·ty (in-ĕk'wī-tē) n. pl. in-eq-ui-ties. 1. Injustice; unfairness. 2. An instance of injustice or unfairness: discerned some inequities in the criminal justice system.

in·e·rad·i·ca·ble (in'ī-rād'ī-kə-bəl) adj. Impossible to eradicate or be eradicated: ineradicable stains. —in'e-rad'ī-ca-bly adv.

in·er·ran·cy (in-ĕr'ən-sē) n. Freedom from error or untruths; infallibility: belief in the inerrancy of the Scriptures.

in·er·rant (in-ĕr'ənt) adj. 1. Incapable of erring; infallible. 2. Containing no errors.

in·er·ran·tism (in-ĕr'ən-tīz'əm) n. Belief in the inerrancy or literal truth of a particular writing or document. —in-er'ran-tist' adj. & n.

in·ert (in-ûrt') adj. 1. Unable to move or act. 2. Sluggish in action or motion; lethargic. See Synonyms at inactive. 3. Chemistry. Not readily reactive with other elements; forming few or no chemical compounds. [Latin iners, inert- : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + ars, skill; see ar- in Appendix.] —in-ert'ly adv. —in-ert'ness n.

inert gas (in-ûrt' gās) n. See noble gas.

in·er·tia (ī-nûr'shə) n. 1. Physics. The tendency of a body to resist acceleration; the tendency of a body at rest to remain at rest or of a body in motion to stay in motion in a straight line unless acted on by an outside force. 2. Resistance or disinclination to motion, action, or change: the inertia of an entrenched bureaucracy. [Latin, idleness, from iners, inert-, inert. See INERT.] —in-er'tial adj. —in-er'tial-ly adv.

inertial frame (ĩ-nûr'shəl frām) n. A coordinate system in which the Newtonian law of motion is valid, specifically one in which a mass m subjected to a force F moves in accordance with the equation $F = ma$, where a is the acceleration.

inertial guidance (ĩ-nûr'shəl gāid'ns) n. Guidance of an aircraft or a spacecraft in which gyroscopic and accelerometer data are used by a computer to maintain a predetermined course.

inertial platform (ĩ-nûr'shəl plăt'fôrm') n. The sensing devices used in inertial guidance and the platform on which they are mounted.

in-es-cap-a-ble (ĩn'ĩ-skā'pə-bəl) adj. Impossible to escape or avoid; inevitable: inescapable consequences. See Synonyms at certain. —in'es-cap'a-bly adv.

in-es-sen-tial (ĩn'ĩ-sĕn'shəl) adj. 1. Not essential; unessential. 2. Without essence. — n. Something that is not essential. —in'es-sen'ti-al'i-ty (-shĕ-ăl'ĩ-tē) n.

in-es-ti-ma-ble (ĩn-ĕs'tə-mə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to estimate or compute: inestimable damage. See Synonyms at incalculable. 2. Of immeasurable value or worth; invaluable: "shared all the inestimable advantages of being wealthy, good-looking, confident and intelligent" (Doris Kearns Goodwin). —in-es'ti-ma-bly adv.

in-ev-i-ta-ble (ĩn-ĕv'ĩ-tə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to avoid or prevent. See Synonyms at certain. 2. Invariably occurring or appearing; predictable: the inevitable changes of the seasons. —in-ev'i-ta-bil'i-ty n. —in-ev'i-ta-bly adv.

in-ex-act (ĩn'ĩg-zăkt') adj. 1. Not strictly accurate or precise; not exact: an inexact quotation; an inexact description of what had taken place. 2. Not rigorous or meticulous: an inexact mind; an inexact method. —in'ex-act'ly adv. —in'ex-act'ness n.

in-ex-act-i-tude (ĩn'ĩg-zăk'ti-tōod', -tyōod') n. Lack of exactitude; inexactness.

in-ex-cus-a-ble (ĩn'ĩk-skyōō'zə-bəl) adj. Impossible to excuse or justify; unpardonable: inexcusable behavior. —in'ex-cus'a-ble-ness n. —in'ex-cus'a-bly adv.

in-ex-haust-i-ble (ĩn'ĩg-zô'stə-bəl) adj. 1. That cannot be entirely consumed or used up: an inexhaustible supply of coal. 2. Never wearying; tireless: an inexhaustible campaigner. —in'ex-haust'i-bil'i-ty, in'ex-haust'i-ble-ness n. —in'ex-haust'i-bly adv.

in-ex-is-tent (ĩn'ĩg-zis'tĕnt) adj. Having no existence; nonexistent. —in'ex-is'tence n.

in-ex-o-ra-ble (ĩn-ĕk'sər-ə-bəl) adj. Not capable of being persuaded by entreaty; relentless: an inexorable opponent; a feeling of inexorable doom. See Synonyms at inflexible. [Latin inexorābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + exorābilis, pliant in-ex-pe-di-ent (in'ik-spē'dē-ənt) adj. Not expedient; inadvisable: an inexpedient tactic. —in'ex-pe'di-ence, in'ex-pe'di-en-cy n. —in'ex-pe'di-ent-ly adv.

(from exōrāre, to prevail upon : ex-, intensive pref.; see ex- + ōrāre, to argue).]

—in-ex'ō-ra-bil'i-ty, in-ex'ō-ra-ble-ness n. —in-ex'ō-ra-bly adv.

in-ex-pen-sive (in'ik-spən'siv) adj. Not high in price; cheap. —in'ex-pen-sive-ly adv. —in'ex-pen/sive-ness n.

in-ex-pe-ri-ence (in'ik-spîr'ē-əns) n. 1. Lack of experience. 2. Lack of the knowledge gained from experience. —in'ex-pe'ri-enced adj.

in-ex-pert (in-ĕk'spûrt') adj. Not expert; unskilled. —in'ex'pert/ly adv. —in-ex'pert'ness n.

in-ex-pi-a-ble (in-ĕk'spē-ə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to expiate or atone for: inexpiable crimes. 2. Obsolete. Implacable. —in-ex'pi-a-bly adv.

in-ex-plain-a-ble (in'ik-splā'nə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to explain; inexplicable. —in'ex-plain'a-bly adv.

in-ex-pli-ca-ble (in-ĕk'splī-kə-bəl, in'ik-splīk'ə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to explain or account for: left the house at three in the morning for inexplicable reasons. —in-ex'pli-ca-bil'i-ty, in-ex'pli-ca-ble-ness n. —in-ex'pli-ca-bly adv.

in-ex-plic-it (in'ik-splis'it) adj. Not explicit; indefinite.

in-ex-press-i-ble (in'ik-sprēs'ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to express; indescribable: inexpressible grief. See Synonyms at unspeakable.

—in'ex-press'i-bil'i-ty, in'ex-press'i-ble-ness n. —in'ex-press'i-bly adv.

in-ex-pres-sive (in'ik-sprēs'iv) adj. 1. Lacking expression; blank: an inexpressive stare. 2. Devoid of emotion or style; flat or dull: an inexpressive performance of the aria. —in'ex-pres/sive-ly adv. —in'ex-pres/sive-ness n.

in-ex-pug-na-ble (in'ik-spüg'nə-bəl, -spyōō'nə-) adj. 1. Impossible to overcome or overthrow by force. 2. Impossible to put aside or drive away: inexpugnable dislike. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin inexpugnābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + expugnābilis, capable of being overcome (from expugnāre : ex-, completely; see ex- + pugnāre, to fight); see IMPUGN.] —in'ex-pug-na-bil'i-ty n. —in'ex-pug/na-bly adv.

in-ex-ten-si-ble (in'ik-stĕn'sə-bəl) adj. Not extensible: an inextensible antenna.

in ex-ten-so (in ĕk-stĕn'sō) adv. At full length: an article reprinted in extenso in a later collection. [Latin : in, at + extĕnsō, ablative of extensus, stretch.]

in-ex-tin-guish-a-ble (in'ik-stīng'gwī-shə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to extinguish: an inextinguishable flame; an inextinguishable faith.

—in'ex-tin/guish-a-bly adv.

in-ex-tir-pa-ble (in'ik-stîr'pə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to eradicate or destroy.

in ex-tre-mis (in ěk-strĕ'mis) adv. 1. At the point of death. 2. In grave or extreme circumstances. [Latin : in, in + extrĕmĭs, ablative pl. of extrĕmus, extreme.]

in-ex-tri-ca-ble (in-ĕk'stri-kĕ-bĕl, in'ik-strĭk'ĕ-bĕl) adj. 1. a. So intricate or entangled as to make escape impossible: an inextricable maze; an inextricable web of deceit. b. Difficult or impossible to disentangle or untie: an inextricable tangle of threads. c. Too involved or complicated to solve: an inextricable problem. 2. Unavoidable; inescapable: bound together by an inextricable fate.
—in-ex'tri-ca-bil'i-ty, in-ex'tri-ca-ble-ness n. —in-ex'tri-ca-bly adv.

INF abbr. Intermediate-range nuclear forces.

inf. abbr. 1. Also Inf. Infantry. 2. Inferior. 3. Infinitive. 4. Infinity. 5. Information.

in-fal-li-ble (in-fĕl'ĕ-bĕl) adj. 1. Incapable of erring: an infallible guide; an infallible source of information. 2. Incapable of failing; certain: an infallible antidote; an infallible rule. 3. Roman Catholic Church. Incapable of error in expounding doctrine on faith or morals. [Middle English, from Medieval Latin ĭnfallibilis : Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Medieval Latin fallibilis, fallible; see FALLIBLE.]
—in-fal'li-bil'i-ty, in-fal'li-ble-ness n. —in-fal'li-bly adv.

in-fa-mous (in'fĕ-mĕs) adj. 1. Having an exceedingly bad reputation; notorious. 2. Causing or deserving infamy; heinous: an infamous deed. 3. Law. a. Punishable by severe measures, such as death, long imprisonment, or loss of civil rights. b. Convicted of a crime, such as treason or felony, that carries such a punishment. [Middle English ĭnfamis, from Latin ĭnfĕmis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + fĕma, renown, fame; see bhĕ⁻² in Appendix.] —in'fa-mous-ly adv.
—in'fa-mous-ness n.

in-fa-my (in'fĕ-mĕ) n. pl. in-fa-mies. 1. Evil fame or reputation. 2. The condition of being infamous. See Synonyms at disgrace. 3. An evil or criminal act that is publicly known. [Middle English ĭnfamie, dishonor, from Old French, from Latin ĭnfĕmia, from ĭnfĕmis, infamous. See INFAMOUS.]

in-fan-cy (in'fĕn-sĕ) n. pl. in-fan-cies. 1. The earliest period of childhood, especially before the ability to walk has been acquired. 2. The state of being an infant. 3. An early stage of existence: Space exploration is still in its infancy. 4. Law. The state or period of being a minor.

in-fant (in'fĕnt) n. 1. A child in the earliest period of life, especially before he or she can walk. 2. Law. A person under the legal age of majority; a minor. — adj. 1. Of or being in infancy. 2. Intended for infants or young children. 3. Newly begun or formed: an infant enterprise. [Middle English, from Old French enfant, from Latin ĭnfĕns, ĭnfant-, from ĭnfĕns, not able to speak, young : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + fĕns, present participle of fĕrĕ, to speak; see bhĕ⁻² in Appendix.]

WORD HISTORY: Anyone who has ever responded to the cries of a howling infant may find it difficult to believe the etymology of the word infant. The source of our word is the Latin word īnfāns (stem form, or form to which inflections are added, īnfant-), meaning “a little child; strictly, one who does not yet speak.” The noun is from the adjective īnfāns, meaning “not having the power of speech” and “newly born” and made up of the negative prefix in- and the present participle fāns, “speaking,” of the verb fārī, “to speak.” Latin īnfāns and its Old French descendant enfant could both be used to refer to a speaking child, and the earliest recorded use (around 1384) of their Middle English descendant infaunte, the ancestor of our word, is in the sense “child.” This use gave rise to our legal sense of infant, “a minor,” thus reminding us of individuals who can be very talkative indeed.

in·fan·ta (in-făn'tə, -făn'-) n. A daughter of a Spanish or Portuguese king.

[Spanish, and Portuguese, feminine of infante, infante; see INFANTE.]

in·fan·te (in-făn'tē, -făn'tā) n. A son of a Spanish or Portuguese king other than the heir to the throne. [Spanish, and Portuguese both from Latin īnfāns, īnfant-, infant. See INFANT.]

in·fan·ti·cide (in-făn'tī-sīd') n. 1. The act of killing an infant. 2. The practice of killing newborn infants. 3. One who kills an infant. [Late Latin īnfanticīdium, the killing of a child, and īnfānticīda, killer of a child Latin īnfāns, īnfant-, infant; see INFANT + Latin -cīdium and -cīda, -cide.] —in·fan'ti·cid'al (-sīd'l) adj.

in·fan·tile (in'fən-tīl', -tīl) adj. 1. Of or relating to infants or infancy.

2. Displaying or suggesting a lack of maturity; extremely childish: infantile behavior; an infantile remark. [Middle English infantil, from Latin īnfantīlis, from īnfāns, īnfant-, infant. See INFANT.]

infantile autism (in'fən-tīl' ō'tīz'əm) n. Psychology. A severe disorder of childhood characterized by withdrawal, preoccupation with fantasy, language impairment, and abnormal behavior, such as ritualistic acts and excessive object attachment.

infantile paralysis (in'fən-tīl' pə-räl'i-sīs) n. See poliomyelitis.

in·fan·til·ism (in'fən-tl-īz'əm, in-făn'tl-) n. 1. A state of arrested development in an adult, characterized by retention of infantile mentality, accompanied by stunted growth and sexual immaturity, and often by dwarfism. 2. a. Extreme immaturity, as in behavior or character: “infantilism, which is the subtext of so much American cinema and culture” (John Simon). b. An infantile act or remark.

in·fan·til·ize (in'fən-tl-īz', in-făn'-) v. tr. in·fan·til·ized, in·fan·til·iz·ing, in·fan·til·iz·es. 1. To reduce to an infantile state or condition: “It creates a crisis that infantilizes them—causes grown men to squabble like kids about trivial things” (New Yorker). 2. To treat or condescend to as if still a young child: “The Victorian physician infantilized his patient” (Judith Moore). —in·fan'til·i·za'tion (-ĭ-zā'shən) n.

in·fan·tine (ĭn'fən-tĭn', -tĭn) adj. Infantile; childish.

in·fan·try (ĭn'fən-trē) n. pl. in·fan·tries. Abbr. inf., Inf. The combat arm made up of units trained to fight on foot. [French infanterie, from Old French, from Old Italian infanteria, from infante, youth, foot soldier, from Latin īnfāns, īnfant-, infant. See INFANT.]

in·fan·try·man (ĭn'fən-trē-mən) n. A soldier in the infantry.

infant school (ĭn'fənt skōōl) n. Chiefly British. A kindergarten.

in·farct (ĭn'färkt', ĭn-färkt') n. Pathology. An area of tissue that undergoes necrosis as a result of obstruction of local blood supply, as by a thrombus or an embolus. [From Latin īnfarctus, past participle of īnfarctĭre, to cram : in-, in; see IN-² + farctĭre, to stuff.] —in·farct'ed adj.

in·farc·tion (ĭn-färk'shən) n. 1. The formation or development of an infarct. 2. An infarct.

in·fat·u·ate (ĭn-fäch'ōō-āt') v. tr. in·fat·u·at·ed, in·fat·u·at·ing, in·fat·u·ates. 1. To inspire with unreasoning love or attachment. 2. To cause to behave foolishly. — adj. (-ĭt, -āt') Infatuated. [Latin īnfatuāre, īnfatuāt- : in-, causative pref.; see IN-² + fatuus, foolish.]

in·fat·u·at·ed (ĭn-fäch'ōō-ā'tĭd) adj. Possessed by an unreasoning passion or attraction. —in·fat'u·at'ed·ly adv.

in·fat·u·a·tion (ĭ-fäch'ōō-ā'shən) n. 1. A foolish, unreasoning, or extravagant passion or attraction. See Synonyms at love. 2. An object of extravagant, short-lived passion.

in·fau·na (ĭn'fô'nə) n. Aquatic animals that live in the substrate of a body of water, especially in a soft sea bottom. [IN-² + FAUNA.]

in·fea·si·ble (ĭn-fē'zə-bəl) adj. Not feasible; impracticable: a plan that turned out to be infeasible.

in·fect (ĭn-fĕkt') *v. tr. in·fect·ed, in·fect·ing, in·fects. 1. To contaminate with a pathogenic microorganism or agent. 2. To communicate a pathogen or disease to. 3. To invade and produce infection in. 4. To contaminate or corrupt: envy that infected their thoughts; a society that was infected by racism. 5. To affect in a contagious way: “His fear infected me, and... I followed as fast as I could” (W.H. Hudson). [Middle English infecten, to afflict with disease, from Latin īnficere, īnfect-, to stain, infect (in-, in; see IN-² + facere, to do). See dhē- in Appendix.]*

in·fec·tion (ĭn-fĕk'shən) n. 1. a. Invasion by and multiplication of pathogenic microorganisms in a bodily part or tissue, which may produce subsequent tissue injury and progress to overt disease through a variety of cellular or toxic mechanisms. b. An instance of being infected. c. An agent or a contaminated substance responsible for one's becoming infected. d. The pathological state resulting from having been infected. 2. An infectious disease. 3. a. Moral contamination or corruption. b. Ready communication of an emotion or attitude by contact or example.

in·fec·tious (ĭn-fĕk'shəs) adj. 1. Capable of causing infection. 2. Caused by or capable of being transmitted by infection. 3. Caused by a pathogenic microorganism or agent. 4. Easily or readily communicated: an infectious laugh.

—in·fec'tious·ly adv. —in·fec'tious·ness n.

infectious enterohepatitis (ĭn-fĕk'shəs ěn'tə-rō-hĕp'ə-tī'tis) n. See blackhead (n., sense 2).

infectious hepatitis (ĭn-fĕk'shəs hĕp'ə-tī'tis) n. See hepatitis A. infectious mononucleosis (ĭn-fĕk'shəs mŏn'ō-nŏŏ'klĕ-ŏ'sis) n. A common, acute, infectious disease, usually affecting young people, caused by Epstein-Barr virus and characterized by fever, swollen lymph nodes, sore throat, and lymphocyte abnormalities. Also called glandular fever in·fec·tive (ĭn-fĕk'tiv) adj. Capable of producing infection; infectious.

—in·fec'tive·ness, in'fec·tiv'i·ty n.

in·fe·lic·i·tous (ĭn'fī-lis'ī-təs) adj. 1. Inappropriate; ill-chosen: an infelicitous remark. 2. Not happy; unfortunate. —in'fe·lic'ī·tous·ly adv.

in·fe·lic·i·ty (ĭn'fī-lis'ī-tē) n. pl. in·fe·lic·i·ties. 1. The quality or condition of being infelicitous. 2. Something inappropriate or unpleasing. [Middle English infelicite, from Latin īnfēlicitās, from īnfēlix, īnfēlic-, unhappy : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + fēlix, happy; see dhē(i)- in Appendix.]

in·fer (ĭn-fūr') v. in·ferred, in·fer·ring, in·fers. — v. tr. 1. To conclude from evidence or premises. See Synonyms at conjecture. 2. To reason from circumstance; surmise: We can infer that his motive in publishing the diary was less than honorable. 3. To lead to as a consequence or conclusion: “Socrates argued that a statue inferred the existence of a sculptor” (Academy). 4. To hint; imply.

— v. intr. To draw inferences. See Synonyms at conjecture. [Latin īnferre, to bring in, adduce : in-, in; see IN⁻² + ferre, to bear; see bher⁻¹ in Appendix.]

—in·fer'a·ble adj. —in·fer'a·bly adv. —in·fer'rer n.

USAGE NOTE: Infer is sometimes confused with imply, but the distinction is a useful one. When we say that a speaker or sentence implies something, we mean that it is conveyed or suggested without being stated outright: When the mayor said that she would not rule out a business tax increase, she implied (not inferred) that some taxes might be raised. Inference, on the other hand, is the activity performed by a reader or interpreter in deriving conclusions that are not explicit in what is said: When the mayor said that she would not rule out a tax increase, we inferred that she had been consulting with some new financial advisers, since her old advisers were in favor of tax reductions.

in·fer·ence (ɪn'fər-əns) n. 1. a. The act or process of deriving logical conclusions from premises known or assumed to be true. b. The act of reasoning from factual knowledge or evidence. 2. a. Something inferred. b. Usage Problem. A hint or suggestion: The editorial contained an inference of foul play in the awarding of the contract.

in·fer·en·tial (ɪn'fə-rən'shəl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or involving inference. 2. Derived or capable of being derived by inference. —in·fer·en·tial·ly adv.

in·fe·ri·or (ɪn-fîr'ē-ər) adj. Abbr. inf. 1. Low or lower in order, degree, or rank: Captain is an inferior rank to major. 2. a. Low or lower in quality, value, or estimation: inferior craft; felt inferior to his older sibling. b. Second-rate; poor: an inferior student. 3. Situated under or beneath. 4. Botany. Located below the perianth and other floral parts. Used of an ovary. 5. Anatomy. Located beneath or directed downward. 6. Printing. Set below the normal line of type; subscript. 7. Astronomy. a. Orbiting between the earth and the sun: Mercury is an inferior planet. b. Lying below the horizon. — n. Abbr. inf. 1. A person lower in rank, status, or accomplishment than another. 2. Printing. An inferior character, such as the number 2 in CO₂. [Middle English, from Latin, comparative of īferus, low. See ndher- in Appendix.] —in·fe·ri·or·i·ty (-ôr'î-tē, -ôr'-) n.

inferiority complex (ɪn-fîr'ē-ôr'î-tē kəm-plēks') n. A persistent sense of inadequacy or a tendency to self-diminishment, sometimes resulting in excessive aggressiveness through overcompensation.

in·fer·nal (ɪn-fûr'nəl) adj. 1. a. Of or relating to a lower world of the dead. b. Of or relating to hell: infernal punishments; infernal powers. 2. Fiendish; diabolical: infernal instruments of war. 3. Abominable; awful: the infernal racket of the jackhammers. [Middle English, from Old French, from Late Latin īfernālis, from īfernus, hell, from Latin, lower, underground. See ndher- in Appendix.] —in·fer·nal·ly adv.

infernal machine (ɪn-fûr'nəl mə-shēn') n. Law. An explosive device maliciously designed to harm or destroy.

in·fer·no (ɪn-fûr'nō) n. pl. in·fer·nos. 1. A place or condition suggestive of hell, especially with respect to human suffering or death: the inferno of battle. 2. A place of fiery heat or destruction. [Italian, hell, from Late Latin īfernus. See INFERNAL.]

in·fer·tile (ɪn-fûr'tl) adj. 1. Not fertile; unproductive or barren. See Synonyms at sterile. 2. Biology. Incapable of producing offspring; sterile.

in·fer·til·i·ty (ɪn'fər-tîl'î-tē) n. 1. Absent or diminished fertility. 2. The persistent inability to conceive a child.

in·fest (ɪn-fĕst') v. tr. in·fest·ed, in·fest·ing, in·fests. 1. To inhabit or overrun in numbers large enough to be harmful, threatening, or obnoxious: rats infesting the sewers; streets that were infested with drugs. 2. To live as a parasite in or on tissues or organs or on the skin and its appendages: livestock that were infested with tapeworms. [Middle English infesten, to distress, from Old French infester, from Latin īnfestāre, from īnfestus, hostile. See g^whedh- in Appendix.]

—in'fes-ta'tion n. —in-fest'er n.

in-fi-del (in'fī-dəl, -děl') n. 1. An unbeliever with respect to a particular religion, especially Christianity or Islam. 2. One who has no religious beliefs.

3. One who doubts or rejects a particular doctrine, system, or principle: an infidel to the prohibitionist cause. [Middle English infidele, from Old French, from Latin īnfidēlis, disloyal : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + fidēlis, faithful (from fidēs, faith); see bheidh- in Appendix.]

in-fi-del-i-ty (in'fī-dəl'ī-tē) n. pl. in-fi-del-i-ties. 1. a. Unfaithfulness to a sexual partner, especially a spouse. b. An act of sexual unfaithfulness. 2. Lack of fidelity or loyalty: infidelity to the family tradition; infidelity to the principles of the revolution. 3. Lack of religious belief.

in-field (in'fēld') n. 1. Baseball. a. The area of the field bounded by home plate and first, second, and third bases. b. The defensive positions of first base, second base, third base, and shortstop considered as a unit. 2. Sports. The area inside a racetrack or running track. 3. A field located near a farmhouse.

in-field-er (in'fēl'dər) n. Baseball. A player assigned to the infield.

in-fight-ing (in'fī'tiŋ) n. 1. Contentious rivalry or disagreement among members or groups within an organization: behind-the-scenes infighting on the President's staff. 2. Sports. Fighting or boxing at close range. —in'fight'er n.

in-fill (in'fīl') n. 1. The use of vacant land and property within a built-up area for further construction or development, especially as part of a neighborhood preservation or limited growth program. 2. A substance or material used to fill in: a steel structure with an infill of redwood sheathing.

in-fil-trate (in-fīl'trāt', in'fīl-) v. in-fil-trat-ed, in-fil-trat-ing, in-fil-trates. — v. tr. 1. a. To pass (troops, for example) surreptitiously into enemy-held territory. b. To penetrate with hostile intent: infiltrate enemy lines; a team of terrorists that had infiltrated the country. 2. To enter or take up positions in gradually or surreptitiously, as for purposes of espionage or takeover: tried to infiltrate key government agencies with spies. 3. To cause (a liquid, for example) to permeate a substance by passing through its interstices or pores. 4. To permeate (a porous substance) with a liquid or gas. — v. intr. To gain entrance gradually or surreptitiously. — n. One that infiltrates, especially an abnormal substance that accumulates gradually in cells or body tissues. —in-fil'tra-tor n.

in-fil-tra-tion (in'fīl-trā'shən) n. 1. The act or process of infiltrating. 2. The state of being infiltrated. 3. Something that infiltrates. —in-fil'tra-tive (-trā-tiv) adj.

infin. abbr. Infinitive.

in-fi-nite (in'fə-nīt) adj. 1. Having no boundaries or limits. 2. Immeasurably great or large; boundless: infinite importance. 3. Mathematics. a. Existing beyond or being greater than any arbitrarily large value. b. Unlimited in spatial extent. c. Of or relating to a set capable of being put into one-to-one correspondence with a proper subset of itself. — n. Something infinite. [Middle English infinif, from Old French, from Latin īnfīnītus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + fīnītus, finite, from past participle of fīnīre, to limit; see FINITE.] —in/fi-nite-ly adv.

—in/fi-nite-ness n.

SYNONYMS: infinite, boundless, eternal, illimitable, sempiternal. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “being without beginning or end”: infinite wisdom; boundless ambition; eternal beauty; illimitable space; sempiternal truth. See also Synonyms at incalculable

ANTONYM: finite

USAGE NOTE: Infinite is sometimes grouped with absolute terms such as unique, absolute, and omnipotent, since in its strict mathematical sense it allows no degree modification or comparison; one quantity cannot be more infinite than another (though technically one infinite set can be larger than another). Unlike other absolute terms, however, infinite also does not permit modification by adverbs such as nearly and almost; mathematically, infinity is not approached by degrees. In nontechnical usage, of course, infinite is often used metaphorically to refer simply to an unimaginably large degree or amount, and here the comparison of the word is unexceptionable: Listening to the late quartets on that little gramophone, I experienced the most infinite musical joy that I have ever known. See Usage Note at unique.

in-fin-i-tes-i-mal (in'fīn-ī-tēs'ə-məl) adj. 1. Immeasurably or incalculably minute. 2. Mathematics. Capable of having values approaching zero as a limit. — n. 1. An immeasurably or incalculably minute amount or quantity. 2. Mathematics. A function or variable continuously approaching zero as a limit. [From New Latin īnfīnītēsīmus, infinite in rank, from Latin īnfīnītus, infinite. See INFINITE.] —in/fin-i-tes/i-mal-ly adv.

infinitesimal calculus (in'fīn-ī-tēs'ə-məl kəl'kyə-ləs) n. Mathematics. Differential and integral calculus.

in-fin-i-ti-val (in'fīn-ī-tī'vəl) adj. Relating to the infinitive.

in-fin-i-tive (in-fīn'ī-tīv) n. Abbr. inf., infin. A verb form that functions as a substantive while retaining certain verbal characteristics, such as modification by adverbs, and that in English may be preceded by to, as in To go willingly is to show strength or We want him to work harder, or may also occur without to, as in She had them read the letter or We may finish today. See Usage Note at split infinitive. [From Middle English īnfīnitif, of an infinitive, from Old French, from Late Latin īnfīnītīvus, unlimited, indefinite, infinitive, from Latin īnfīnītus, infinite. See INFINITE.]

in·fin·i·tude (ĭn-fĭn'ī-tōōd', -tyōōd') n. 1. The state or quality of being infinite. 2. An immeasurably large quantity, number, or extent: “[His designs contain] an infinitude of forest shadings for the scenes with animals” (Alan Rich).

in·fin·i·ty (ĭn-fĭn'ī-tē) n. pl. in·fin·i·ties. Abbr. inf. 1. The quality or condition of being infinite. 2. Unbounded space, time, or quantity. 3. An indefinitely large number or amount. 4. Mathematics. The limit that a function f is said to approach at x = a when for x close to a, f(x) is larger than any preassigned number. 5. a. A range in relation to an optical system, such as a camera lens, representing distances great enough that light rays reflected from objects within the range may be regarded as parallel. b. A distance setting, as on a camera, beyond which the entire field is in focus.

in·firm (ĭn-fûrm') adj. 1. Weak in body, especially from old age or disease; feeble. See Synonyms at weak. 2. Lacking firmness of will, character, or purpose; irresolute. 3. Not strong or stable; shaky: an infirm support. [Middle English infirme, from Old French, from Latin īnfirmus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + firmus, strong, firm; see dher- in Appendix.] —in·firm'ly adv.

in·fir·ma·ry (ĭn-fûr'mə-rē) n. pl. in·fir·ma·ries. A place for the care of the infirm, sick, or injured, especially a small hospital or dispensary in an institution. [Middle English infirmarie, from Medieval Latin īnfirmāria, from Latin īnfirmus, infirm. See INFIRM.]

in·fir·mi·ty (ĭn-fûr'mĭ-tē) n. pl. in·fir·mi·ties. 1. A bodily ailment or weakness, especially one brought on by old age. 2. Frailty; feebleness. 3. A condition or disease producing weakness. 4. A failing or defect in a person's character.

in·fix (ĭn-fĭks') v. tr. in·fixed, in·fix·ing, in·fix·es. 1. To fix in the mind; instill. 2. Linguistics. To insert (a morphological element) into the body of a word. — n. (ĭn'fiks') An inflectional or derivational element appearing in the body of a word. In the Tagalog word sinulat, “written,” the infix -in- appears as the marker of a passive form that contrasts with the active form sulat, “write.” [Back-formation from Middle English infixed, stuck in, from Latin īnfixus, past participle of īnfĭgere, to fasten in : in-, in; see IN⁻² + fĭgere, to fasten; see dhĭg^w- in Appendix.]

infl. abbr. 1. Influence 2. Influenced.

in·flame (ĭn-flām') v. in·flamed, in·flam·ing, in·flames. — v. tr. 1. To arouse to passionate feeling or action: crimes that inflamed the entire community. 2. To make more violent; intensify: “inflamed to madness an already savage nature” (Robert Graves). 3. a. To cause (the skin) to redden or grow hot, as from strong emotion or stimulants. b. To turn red or make glow: Great bonfires inflamed the night. 4. To produce inflammation in (a tissue or an organ). 5. To set on fire; kindle. — v. intr. 1. To become excited or aroused. 2. To be affected by inflammation. 3. To catch fire. [Middle English enflaumen, from Old French enflammer, from Latin īnflammāre : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + flammāre, to set on fire (from flamma, flame); see bhel⁻¹ in Appendix.] —in·flam'er n.

in·flam·ma·ble (ĭn-flām'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Easily ignited and capable of burning rapidly; flammable. See Usage Note at flammable. 2. Quickly or easily aroused to strong emotion; excitable. [Middle English, liable to inflammation, from Medieval Latin īnflammābilis, from Latin īnflammāre, to inflame. See INFLAME.] —in·flam'ma·bil'i·ty n. —in·flam'ma·ble n. —in·flam'ma·bly adv.

in·flam·ma·tion (ĭn'flə-mā'shən) n. 1. The act of inflaming or the state of being inflamed. 2. A localized protective reaction of tissue to irritation, injury, or infection, characterized by pain, redness, swelling, and sometimes loss of function.

in·flam·ma·to·ry (ĭn-flām'ə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj. 1. Arousing passion or strong emotion, especially anger, belligerence, or desire. 2. Characterized or caused by inflammation. —in·flam'ma·to'ri·ly adv.

in·flat·a·ble (ĭn-flā'tə-bəl) adj. Designed to be filled with air or gas before use: an inflatable mattress. — n. An object or a device that can be filled with air or gas, especially: a. A small rubber boat or raft filled with air. b. A large helium or hot-air balloon constructed so as to resemble a figure or an object when inflated.

in·flate (ĭn-flāt') v. in·flat·ed, in·flat·ing, in·flates. — v. tr. 1. To fill (something) with air or gas so as to make it swell. 2. a. To enlarge or amplify unduly or improperly; aggrandize. b. To raise or expand abnormally or improperly. See Synonyms at exaggerate. 3. To cause (a currency or an economy) to undergo inflation. — v. intr. To become inflated. [Middle English inflaten, from Latin īnflāre, īnflāt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + flāre, to blow; see bhlē- in Appendix.] —in·fla'tor, in·flat'er n.

in·flat·ed (ĭn-flā'tĭd) adj. 1. Filled or expanded by or as if by gas or air. 2. Unduly enlarged or aggrandized; swollen: an inflated estimate; an inflated ego. 3. Full of empty or pretentious language; bombastic. 4. Raised or expanded to abnormal levels: an inflated economy; inflated wages. 5. Hollow and enlarged: an inflated calyx.

in·fla·tion (ĭn-flā'shən) n. 1. The act of inflating or the state of being inflated. 2. A persistent increase in the level of consumer prices or a persistent decline in the purchasing power of money, caused by an increase in available currency and credit beyond the proportion of available goods and services.

in·fla·tion·ar·y (ĭn-flā'shə-nēr'ē) adj. Of, associated with, or tending to cause inflation: inflationary prices; inflationary policies.

inflationary spiral (ĭn-flā'shə-nēr'ē spī'rəl) n. A trend toward ever higher levels of inflation primarily as a result of continuing interactive increases in wages and prices.

in·fla·tion·ist (ɪn-flā'shə-nɪst) n. An advocate of the policy of deliberate inflation achieved by increasing the supply of available currency and credit.

—in·fla'tion·ism n. —in·fla'tion·ist adj.

in·flect (ɪn-flɛkt') v. in·flect·ed, in·flect·ing, in·flects. — v. tr. 1. To alter (the voice) in tone or pitch; modulate. 2. Grammar. To alter (a word) by inflection. 3. To turn from a course or a specified alignment; bend. — v. intr. Grammar. 1. To be modified by inflection. 2. To give all of the inflected forms of a word; to provide a paradigm. [Middle English inflecten, to bend down, from Latin inflectere: in-, in; see IN-² + flectere, to bend.] —in·flec'tive adj.

—in·flec'tor n.

in·flec·tion (ɪn-flɛk'shən) n. 1. The act of inflecting or the state of being inflected. 2. Alteration in pitch or tone of the voice. 3. Grammar. a. An alternation of the form of a word by adding affixes, as in English dogs from dog, or by changing the form of a base, as in English spoke from speak, that indicates grammatical features such as number, person, mood, or tense. b. The paradigm of a word. c. A pattern of forming paradigms, such as noun inflection or verb inflection. 4. A turning or bending away from a course or position of alignment.

—in·flec'tion·al adj. —in·flec'tion·al·ly adv.

in·flex·ed (ɪn-flɛkst') adj. Bent or curved inward or downward, as petals or sepals. [From Latin inflexus, past participle of inflectere, to bend. See INFLECT.]

in·flex·i·ble (ɪn-flɛk'sə-bəl) adj. 1. Not easily bent; stiff or rigid. 2. Incapable of being changed; unalterable. 3. Unyielding in purpose, principle, or temper; immovable. —in·flex'i·bil'i·ty, in·flex'i·ble·ness n. —in·flex'i·bly adv.

SYNONYMS: inflexible, inexorable, adamant, obdurate. These adjectives mean not capable of being swayed or diverted from a course. Inflexible implies unyielding adherence to rigidly fixed principles or purposes: Polite but inflexible, she would not be deflected from her intention. Inexorable implies lack of susceptibility to persuasion or entreaty: "Cynthia was inexorable—she would have none of him" (Winston Churchill). The term also describes things, such as fate and law, that are inevitable, relentless, and often severe in effect: "Russia's final hour, it seemed, approached with inexorable certainty" (W. Bruce Lincoln). Adamant usually implies imperviousness to pleas or appeals: He is adamant in his refusal to change his mind. Obdurate adds to adamant the implication of hard, unfeeling resistance to tender feelings: The child's misery would move even the most obdurate heart. See also Synonyms at stiff in·flex·ion (ɪn-flɛk'shən) n. Chiefly British. Variant of inflection.

in·flict (ɪn-flɪkt') v. tr. in·flict·ed, in·flict·ing, in·flicts. 1. To deal or mete out (something punishing or burdensome); impose: inflicted heavy losses on the enemy; a storm that inflicted widespread damage. 2. To afflict. [Latin infligere, *in*flīct- : in-, ON; see IN-² + fligere, to strike.] —in-flict'er, in-flic'tor n.

—in-flic'tive adj.

in-flic-tion (in-flīk'shən) n. 1. The act or process of imposing or meting out something unpleasant. 2. Something, such as punishment, that is imposed.

in-flight (in'flīt') adj. 1. Occurring, carried out, or present while in flight: in-flight refueling; an in-flight emergency. 2. Provided or offered during a flight: in-flight meals; in-flight entertainment.

in-flo-res-cence (in'flə-rēs'əns) n. 1. a. A characteristic arrangement of flowers on a stem. b. A flower cluster. 2. A flowering. [New Latin *in*flōrēscēntia, from Late Latin *in*flōrēscēns, *in*flōrēscēt- present participle of *in*flōrēscere, to begin to flower : Latin in-, intensive pref.; see IN-² + Latin flōrēscere, to begin to blossom; see FLORESCENCE.] —in'flo-res'cent adj.

in-flow (in'flō') n. 1. The act or process of flowing in or into: an inflow of water; an inflow of information. 2. Something that flows in or into: a lake fed by a freshwater inflow.

in-flu-ence (in'flō-əns) n. Abbr. infl. 1. A power affecting a person, thing, or course of events, especially one that operates without any direct or apparent effort: relaxed under the influence of the music; the influence of television on modern life. 2. a. Power to sway or affect based on prestige, wealth, ability, or position: used her parent's influence to get the job. b. One exercising such power: My parents considered my friend to be a bad influence on me. c. An effect or change produced by such power. 3. a. A determining factor believed by some to affect individual tendencies and characteristics understood to be caused by the positions of the stars and planets at the time of one's birth. b. Factors believed to be caused by the changing positions of the stars and planets in relation to those positions at the time of one's birth. — v. tr. in-flu-enced, in-flu-enc-ing, in-flu-enc-es. 1. To produce an effect on by imperceptible or intangible means; sway. 2. To affect the nature, development, or condition of; modify. See Synonyms at affect¹. —idiom. under the influence. Intoxicated, especially with alcohol. [Middle English, from Old French, from Medieval Latin *in*fluentia, influx, from Latin *in*fluēns, *in*fluent- present participle of *in*fluere, to flow in : in-, in; see IN-² + fluere, to flow; see bhleu- in Appendix.] —in'flu-ence-a-ble adj. —in'flu-enc-er n.

influence ped-dling (in'flō-əns pēd'līng) n. The practice of using one's influence with persons in authority to obtain favors or preferential treatment for another, usually in return for payment. —influence peddler n.

in-flu-ent (in'flō-ənt, in-flō-') adj. Flowing in or into. — n. 1. An inflow, especially a tributary. 2. Ecology. A nondominant organism in a community that exerts an important modifying effect. [Middle English, from Latin *in*fluēns, *in*fluent- present participle of *in*fluere, to flow in. See INFLUENCE.]

in·flu·en·tial (in'flō-ĕn'shəl) adj. Having or exercising influence. — n.

One that is of considerable importance or influence: a select group of media influentials. — in'flu·en'tial·ly adv.

in·flu·en·za (in'flō-ĕn'zə) n. 1. An acute contagious viral infection characterized by inflammation of the respiratory tract and by fever, chills, muscular pain, and prostration. Also called grippe 2. Any of various viral infections of domestic animals characterized generally by fever and respiratory involvement. [Italian, from Medieval Latin influentia, influence (so called apparently from the belief that epidemics were due to the influence of the stars). See INFLUENCE.]

— in'flu·en'zal adj.

in·flux (in'flŭks') n. 1. A flowing in: an influx of foreign capital. 2. A mass arrival or incoming: an influx of visitors to the city; large influxes of refugees. [Late Latin inflŭxus, from Latin, past participle of influere, to flow in. See INFLUENCE.]

in·fo (in'fō) n. Informal. Information.

in·fold (in'fōld') v. in·fold·ed, in·fold·ing, in·folds. — v. intr. To fold inward. — v. tr. To enfold. — in·fold'er n. — in·fold'ment n.

in·fo·mer·cial (in'fə-mŭr'shəl, -fō-) also in·for·mer·cial (in'fər-mŭr'shəl, -fə-) n. A commercial television program or relatively long commercial segment offering consumer information, such as educational or instructional material, related to the sponsor's product or service. [INFO(RMATION) + (COM)MERCIAL.]

in·form (in-fōrm') v. in·form·ed, in·form·ing, in·forms. — v. tr. 1. a. To impart information to; make aware of something: We were informed by mail of the change in plans. The nurse informed me that visiting hours were over. b. To acquaint (oneself) with knowledge of a subject. 2. To give form or character to; imbue with a quality or an essence: "A society's strength is measured by... its ability to inform a future generation with its moral standards" (Vanity Fair). 3. To be a pervasive presence in; animate: "It is this brash, backroom sensibility that informs his work as a novelist" (Jeff Shear). 4. Obsolete. To form (the mind or character) by teaching or training. — v. intr. 1. To give or provide information. 2. To disclose confidential or incriminating information to an authority: The defendant informed against the other members of the ring. [Middle English enfourmen, informen, from Old French enfourmer, from Latin infōrmāre: in-, in; see IN⁻² + fōrmāre, to fashion (from fōrma, form).]

in·for·mal (in-fōr'məl) adj. 1. Not formal or ceremonious; casual: an informal gathering of friends; a relaxed, informal manner. 2. Not being in accord with prescribed regulations or forms; unofficial: an informal agreement. 3. Suited for everyday wear or use: informal clothes. 4. Being more appropriate for use in the spoken language than in the written language. — in·for'mal·ly adv.

in·for·mal·i·ty (in'fōr-məl'i-tē) n. pl. in·for·mal·i·ties. 1. The state or quality of being informal. 2. An informal act.

in·form·ant (in-fôr'mənt) n. 1. a. One that gives information. b. One who informs against others; an informer. 2. One who furnishes linguistic or cultural information to a researcher.

in·for·mat·ics (in'fər-măt'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb). Chiefly British. Information science. [INFORMAT(ION) + -ICS.]

in·for·ma·tion (in'fər-mā'shən) n. Abbr. inf. 1. Knowledge derived from study, experience, or instruction. 2. Knowledge of a specific event or situation; intelligence. See Synonyms at knowledge. 3. A collection of facts or data: statistical information. 4. The act of informing or the condition of being informed; communication of knowledge: Safety instructions are provided for the information of our passengers. 5. Computer Science. A nonaccidental signal or character used as an input to a computer or communications system. 6. A numerical measure of the uncertainty of an experimental outcome. 7. Law. A formal accusation of a crime made by a public officer rather than by grand jury indictment. —in'-for·ma'tion·al adj.

information retrieval (in'fər-mā'shən rĭ-trē'vəl) n. Computer Science. The process of searching for and recovering specific data from large quantities of information stored in a computer.

information science (in'fər-mā'shən sĭ'əns) n. The science that is concerned with the gathering, manipulation, classification, storage, and retrieval of recorded knowledge.

information superhighway (in'fər-mā'shən sōō'pər-hī'wā') n. Computer Science. A hypothetical high-speed computer network intended to have the global reach of television, linking users and databases worldwide.

information theory (in'fər-mā'shən thē'ə-rē) n. The theory of the probability of transmission of messages with specified accuracy when the bits of information constituting the messages are subject, with certain probabilities, to transmission failure, distortion, and accidental additions.

in·form·a·tive (in-fôr'mə-tĭv) adj. Serving to inform; providing or disclosing information; instructive. —in·form'a·tive·ly adv. —in·form'a·tive·ness n.

in·form·a·to·ry (in-fôr'mə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj. Informative.

in·formed (in-fôrmd') adj. 1. Possessing, displaying, or based on reliable information: informed sources; an informed opinion. 2. Knowledgeable; educated: the informed consumer.

informed consent (in-fôrmd' kən-sənt') n. Consent by a patient to a surgical or medical procedure or participation in a clinical study after achieving an understanding of the relevant medical facts and the risks involved.

in·form·er (in-fôr'mər) n. An informant, especially one who informs against others, often for compensation.

in·for·mer·cial (in'fər-mûr'shəl, -fə-) n. Variant of infomercial.

in·fo·tain·ment (in'fə-tān'mənt) n. A television program with a mixture of news and entertainment features, such as interviews, commentaries, and reviews. Also called docutainment [INFO(RMATION) + (ENTER)TAINMENT.]

infra- pref. Inferior to, below, or beneath: infrasonic. [From Latin īnfrā, below. See ndher- in Appendix.]

in·fra·class (in'frə-klās') n. A taxonomic category of related organisms ranking below a subclass and above an order.

in·fract (in-fräkt') v. tr. in·fract·ed, in·fract·ing, in·fracts. To infringe; violate. [Latin īnfringere, īnfrāct-, to destroy. See INFRINGE.] — in·frac'tor n.

in·frac·tion (in-fräk'shən) n. The act or an instance of infringing; a violation. See Synonyms at breach.

in·fra dig (in'frə dīg') adj. Beneath one's dignity. [Short for Latin īnfrā dignitātem: īnfrā, below + dignitātem, accusative of dignitās, dignity.]

in·fra·hu·man (i'frə-hyōō'mən) adj. Of a lower order than human beings; subhuman. — in'fra·hu'man n.

in·fran·gi·ble (in-frän'jə-bəl) adj. 1. Difficult or impossible to break or separate into parts. 2. Inviolable: infrangible human rights. [Late Latin īnfrangibilis: Latin in-, not; see IN-¹ + Latin frangere, to break; see bhreg- in Appendix.]

— in·fran'gi·bil'i·ty n. — in·fran'gi·bly adv.

in·fra·red (in'frə-rēd') adj. Abbr. IR 1. Of or relating to the range of invisible radiation wavelengths from about 750 nanometers, just longer than red in the visible spectrum, to 1 millimeter, on the border of the microwave region.

2. Generating, using, or sensitive to infrared radiation. — n. Infrared light or the infrared part of the spectrum.

in·fra·son·ic (in'frə-sōn'ik) adj. Generating or using waves or vibrations with frequencies below that of audible sound.

in·fra·sound (in'frə-sound') n. A wave phenomenon sharing the physical nature of sound but with a range of frequencies below that of human hearing.

in·fra·struc·ture (in'frə-strūk'chər) n. 1. An underlying base or foundation especially for an organization or a system. 2. The basic facilities, services, and installations needed for the functioning of a community or society, such as transportation and communications systems, water and power lines, and public institutions including schools, post offices, and prisons.

in·fre·quent (in-frē'kwənt) adj. 1. Not occurring regularly; occasional or rare: an infrequent guest. 2. Situated or placed at rather wide intervals, as in time or space: infrequent oases in the desert. — in·fre'quence, in·fre'quen·cy n.

— in·fre'quent·ly adv.

in·fringe (in-frinj') v. in·fringed, in·fring·ing, in·fring·es. — v. tr. 1. To transgress or exceed the limits of; violate: infringe a contract; infringe a patent.

2. Obsolete. To defeat; invalidate. — v. intr. To encroach on someone or something; engage in trespassing: an increased workload that infringed on his personal life. [Latin īnfringere, to destroy : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + frangere, to break; see bhreg- in Appendix.] —in·fring'er n.

in·fringe·ment (in-frinj'mənt) n. 1. A violation, as of a law, a regulation, or an agreement; a breach. 2. An encroachment, as of a right or privilege. See Synonyms at breach.

in·fruc·tes·cence (in'frūk-tēs'əns) n. The fruiting stage of an inflorescence. [French : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin frūctus, fruit; see FRUIT.]

in·fun·dib·u·la (in'fən-dīb'yə-lə) n. Plural of infundibulum.

in·fun·dib·u·li·form (in'fən-dīb'yə-lə-fôrm') adj. Shaped like a funnel.

in·fun·dib·u·lum (in'fən-dīb'yə-ləm) n. pl. in·fun·dib·u·la (-lə). Anatomy.

Any of various funnel-shaped bodily passages, openings, structures, or parts, especially: a. The stalk of the pituitary gland. b. The calyx of a kidney. c. The ovarian opening of a fallopian tube. [Latin, funnel, from īnfundere, to pour in. See INFUSE.] —in'fun·dib'u·lar (-lər), in'fun·dib'u·late' (-lāt', -līt) adj.

in·fu·ri·ate (in-fyōōr'ē-āt') v. tr. in·fu·ri·at·ed, in·fu·ri·at·ing, in·fu·ri·ates.

To make furious; enrage. — adj. (in-fyōōr'ē-īt) Archaic. Furious. [Medieval Latin īnfuriāre, īnfuriāt- : Latin in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + Latin furiāre, to enrage (from furia, fury); see FURY.] —in·fu'ri·at'ing·ly adv. —in·fu'ri·a'tion n.

in·fuse (in-fyōōz') v. tr. in·fused, in·fus·ing, in·fus·es. 1. To put into or introduce as if by pouring: infused new vigor into the movement. 2. To fill or cause to be filled with something: infused them with a love of the land.

3. Chemistry. To steep or soak without boiling in order to extract soluble elements or active principles. 4. To introduce (a solution) into the body through a vein for therapeutic purposes. [Middle English infusen, from Old French infuser, from Latin īnfundere, īnfūs- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + fundere, to pour; see gheu- in Appendix.] —in·fus'er n.

in·fus·i·ble (in-fyōō'zə-bəl) adj. Suitable for infusion; capable of being infused. —in·fus'i·bil'i·ty, in·fus'i·ble·ness n.

in·fu·sion (in-fyōō'zhən) n. 1. The act or process of infusing. 2. Something infused or introduced: an economy in need of regular capital infusions. 3. The liquid product obtained by infusing: prepared an infusion of medicinal herbs.

4. a. Introduction of a solution into the body through a vein for therapeutic purposes. b. The solution so introduced: a sucrose infusion.

-ing¹ suff. 1. Used to form the present participle of verbs: seeing. 2. Used to form adjectives resembling present participles but not derived from verbs: swash-buckling. [Middle English, alteration (influenced by -inge, noun or gerund suff.); see *-ING*², of -ende, -inde, from Old English -ende, present participle suff..]

-ing² suff. 1. a. Action, process, or art: dancing. b. An instance of an action, a process, or an act: a gathering. 2. An action or a process connected with a specified thing: berrying. 3. a. Something necessary to perform an action or a process: mooring. b. The result of an action or a process: a drawing. c. Something connected with a specified thing or concept: siding; offing. [Middle English, from Old English -ung, -ing.]

-ing³ suff. One having a specified quality or nature: wilding. [Middle English, from Old English, belonging to, descended from.]

in·gath·er (ɪn'gəθ'ər) v. in·gath·ered, in·gath·er·ing, in·gath·ers. — v. tr. To gather in; collect. — v. intr. To come together in a central place.

Inge (ɪnj), William. 1913-1973. American playwright whose dramas explored the hopes and fears of small-town Midwesterners. His play Picnic (1953) won a Pulitzer Prize.

Inge (ɪŋg), William Ralph. 1860-1954. British prelate and writer whose pessimistic sermons and articles won him the nickname "the Gloomy Dean."

in·gen·ious (ɪn-jən'yəs) adj. 1. Marked by inventive skill and imagination.

2. Having or arising from an inventive or cunning mind; clever: an ingenious scheme. See Synonyms at clever. 3. Obsolete. Having genius; brilliant. [Middle English, from Old French ingenios, from Latin ingeniōsus, from ingenium, inborn talent. See genə- in Appendix.] — in·gen'iously·ly adv. — in·gen'ious·ness n.

in·gé·nue (ănz'hə-nōō') n. 1. An artless, innocent girl or young woman.

2. a. The role of an artless, innocent girl or young woman in a dramatic production. b. An actress playing such a role. [French, feminine of ingénu, guileless, from Latin ingenuus, ingenuous. See INGENUOUS.]

in·ge·nu·i·ty (ɪn'jə-nōō'ī-tē, -nyōō'-) n. pl. in·ge·nu·i·ties. 1. Inventive skill or imagination; cleverness. 2. Imaginative and clever design or construction: a narrative plot of great ingenuity. 3. An ingenious or imaginative contrivance.

4. Obsolete. Ingenuousness. [Latin ingenuitās, frankness (influenced by INGENUOUS), from ingenuus, ingenuous. See INGENUOUS.]

in·gen·u·ous (ɪn-jən'yōō-əs) adj. 1. Lacking in sophistication or worldliness; artless. 2. Openly straightforward or frank; candid. See Synonyms at naive.

3. Obsolete. Ingenious. [Latin ingenuus, honest, freeborn. See genə- in Appendix.] — in·gen'u·ous·ly adv. — in·gen'u·ous·ness n.

In·ger·soll (ɪŋ'gər-sōl', -sōl', -səl), Robert Green. 1833-1899. American politician and lecturer known for his adamant support of scientific and humanistic rationalism.

in·gest (ɪn-jest') v. tr. in·gest·ed, in·gest·ing, in·gests. To take into the body by the mouth for digestion or absorption. See Synonyms at eat. [Latin ingerere, ingest- : in-, in; see IN-² + gerere, to carry.] — in·ges'tion n. — in·ges'tive adj.

in·ges·ta (ɪn-jēs'tə) pl.n. Ingested matter, especially food taken into the body through the mouth. [New Latin, from neuter pl. of Latin ingestus, past participle of ingerere, to carry in. See INGEST.]

in·gle (ɪŋ'gəl) n. 1. An open fire in a fireplace. 2. A fireplace. [Perhaps Scottish Gaelic aingeal, fire, light.]

in·gle·nook (ɪŋ'gəl-nōok') n. 1. A nook or corner beside an open fireplace.

2. A bench, especially either of two facing benches, placed in a nook or corner beside a fireplace. [INGLE + NOOK.]

In·gle·wood (ɪŋ'gəl-wōod') A city of southern California, a residential and industrial suburb of Los Angeles. Population, 109,602.

in·glo·ri·ous (ɪn-glôr'ē-əs, -glôr'-) adj. 1. Ignominious; disgraceful: Napoleon's inglorious end. 2. Not famous or renowned; obscure: an inglorious young writer. —in·glo'ri·ous·ly adv. —in·glo'ri·ous·ness n.

in·go·ing (ɪn'gō'ɪŋ) adj. 1. Going in; entering: the ingoing administration; ingoing data. 2. Initial; opening: an ingoing negotiating position.

In·gol·stadt (ɪŋ'gəl-shtät', -gôl-) A city of southeast Germany on the Danube River north of Munich. Chartered c. 1250, it is a commercial and industrial center. Population, 90,763.

in·got (ɪŋ'gət) n. 1. A mass of metal, such as a bar or block, that is cast in a standard shape for convenient storage or shipment. 2. A casting mold for metal. [Middle English, mold for casting metal : probably in-, in; see IN-² + Old English goten, past participle of geotan, to pour, or perhaps from Old French lingot, metal ingot (as if l'ingot : le, definite article + ingot*, ingot).]

ingot iron (ɪŋ'gət ɪ'ərn) n. A bar of iron that contains small quantities of other elements.

in·grain (ɪn-grān') v. tr. in·grained, in·grain·ing, in·grains. 1. To fix deeply or indelibly, as in the mind: "A system that had been ingrained for generations could not be easily undone by change from the top" (Doris Kearns Goodwin). 2. Archaic. To dye or stain into the fiber of. — adj. (ɪn'grān') 1. Deep-seated; ingrained.

2. Made of predyed fibers; thoroughly dyed: ingrain yarn. 3. Made of fiber or yarn dyed before weaving. Used especially of rugs. — n. (ɪn'grān') 1. Yarn or fiber dyed before manufacture. 2. An ingrain rug or carpet. [Variant of ENGRAIN.]

in·grained (ɪn-grānd') adj. 1. Firmly established; deep-seated: ingrained prejudice; the ingrained habits of a lifetime. 2. Worked deeply into the texture or fiber: a carpet disfigured by ingrained dirt.

in·grate (ɪn'grāt') n. An ungrateful person. [From Middle English ingrat, ungrateful, from Old French ingrat, from Latin ingrātus : in-, not; see IN-¹ + grātus, pleasing, thankful; see g^werə-² in Appendix.]

in·gra·ti·ate (ɪn-grā'shē-āt') v. tr. in·gra·ti·at·ed, in·gra·ti·at·ing, in·gra·ti·ates. To bring (oneself, for example) into the favor or good graces of another, especially by deliberate effort: She quickly sought to ingratiate herself with the new administration. [Perhaps from Italian ingraziare, from in grazia, into favor, from Latin in grātiām : in, in; see IN-² + grātiām, accusative of grātia, favor (from grātus, pleasing); see g^werə-² in Appendix.] —in·gra'ti·a'tion n.

—in·gra'ti·a'to'ry (-shē-ə-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) adj.

in·gra·ti·at·ing (in-grā'ti'shē-ā'tīng) adj. 1. Pleasing; agreeable: "Reading requires an effort.... Print is not as ingratiating as television" (Robert MacNeil).

2. Calculated to please or win favor: an unctuous, ingratiating manner.

—in·gra'ti·at'ing·ly adv.

in·grat·i·tude (in-grāt'i-tōōd', -tyōōd') n. Lack of gratitude; ungratefulness.

in·gre·di·ent (in-grē'dē-ənt) n. An element in a mixture or compound; a constituent. See Synonyms at element. [Middle English, from Latin ingrediens, ingredient- present participle of ingredī, to enter. See INGRESS.]

In·gres (än'grə), Jean Auguste Dominique. 1780-1867. French painter and leader of the French classical school who is remembered for his historical and mythological works.

in·gress (in'grēs') n. 1. Also in·gres·sion (in-grēsh'ən). A going in or entering. 2. Right or permission to enter. 3. A means or place of entering. [Middle English ingresse, from Latin ingressus, from past participle of ingredī, to enter : in-, in; see IN⁻² + gradī, to step; see ghredh- in Appendix.]

in·gres·sive (in-grēs'iv) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or involving ingress.

2. Grammar. Inchoative. 3. Linguistics. Of, designating, or being a speech sound produced with an inhalation of breath. —in·gres'sive n. —in·gres'sive·ness n.

in·group (in'grōp') n. A group of people united by common beliefs, attitudes, or interests and characteristically excluding outsiders; a clique.

in·grow·ing (in'grō'ing) adj. Growing inward or into, especially into the flesh.

in·grown (in'grōn') adj. 1. Grown abnormally into the flesh: an ingrown toenail. 2. Inbred; innate: ingrown habits. 3. Insular; self-contained: "the small, ingrown world of lower Manhattan" (Forbes).

in·growth (in'grōth') n. 1. The act of growing inward or into. 2. Something that grows inward or into.

in·gui·nal (ing'gwə-nəl) adj. Of, relating to, or located in the groin. [Latin inguinālis, from inguen, inguin-, groin.]

in·gur·gi·tate (in-gūr'jī-tāt') v. tr. in·gur·gi·tat·ed, in·gur·gi·tat·ing, in·gur·gi·tates. To swallow greedily or in excessive amounts; gulp. [Latin ingurgitāre, ingurgitāt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + gurgēs, gurgit-, throat, whirlpool.]

—in·gur'gi·ta'tion n.

INH A trademark used for the drug isoniazid.

in·hab·it (in-hăb'it) v. in·hab·it·ed, in·hab·it·ing, in·hab·its. — v. tr. 1. To live or reside in. 2. To be present in; fill: Old childhood memories inhabited the attic. — v. intr. Archaic. To dwell. [Middle English enhabiten, from Old French enhabiter, from Latin inhabitāre : in-, in; see IN⁻² + habitāre, to dwell, frequentative of habēre, to have; see ghabh- in Appendix.] —in·hab'it·a·bil'i·ty n.

—in·hab'it·a·ble adj. —in·hab'i·ta'tion n. —in·hab'it·er n.

in·hab·i·tan·cy (in-hăb'itən-sē) n. pl. in·hab·i·tan·cies. Occupancy.

in·hab·i·tant (ĭn-hăb'ĭ-tənt) n. One that inhabits a place, especially as a permanent resident: the inhabitants of a fishing village; snakes, lizards, and other inhabitants of the desert.

in·hab·it·ed (ĭn-hăb'ĭ-tĭd) adj. Having inhabitants; lived in: a sparsely inhabited plain.

in·ha·lant (ĭn-hā'lənt) adj. Used in or for inhaling. — n. 1. Something inhaled. 2. A medication, an anesthetic, or another compound in vapor or aerosol form, taken by inhalation.

in·ha·la·tion (ĭn'hə-lā'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of inhaling. 2. An inhalant.

in·ha·la·tor (ĭn'hə-lā'tər) n. 1. See respirator (n., sense 1). 2. See inhaler (n., sense 2).

in·hale (ĭn-hāl') v. in·haled, in·hal·ing, in·hales. — v. tr. 1. To draw (air or smoke, for example) into the lungs by breathing; inspire. 2. Informal. To take in rapidly or eagerly; devour: inhaled lunch and then rushed off to the meeting. — v. intr. 1. To breathe in; inspire. 2. To draw smoke into the lungs; puff. [Latin inhālāre, to breathe upon (meaning influenced by contrast with EXHALE) : in-, in; see IN-² + hālāre, to breathe.]

in·hal·er (ĭn-hāl'ər) n. 1. One that inhales: an avid inhaler of aromatic pipe smoke. 2. A device that produces a vapor to ease breathing or is used to medicate by inhalation, especially a small nasal applicator containing a volatile medication. In this sense, also called inhalator in·har·mon·ic (ĭn'här-mön'ĭk) adj. Not harmonic; discordant.

in·har·mo·ni·ous (ĭn'här-mō'nĕ-əs) adj. 1. Not in harmony; discordant.

2. Not in accord or agreement. — in'har·mo'ni·ous·ly adv.

— in'har·mo'ni·ous·ness n.

in·har·mo·ny (ĭn-här'mə-nĕ) n. pl. in·har·mo·nies. 1. Lack of harmony; discord. 2. An instance of such discord.

in·here (ĭn-hîr') v. intr. in·hered, in·her·ing, in·heres. To be inherent or innate. [Latin inhaerēre : in-, in; see IN-² + haerēre, to stick.] — in·her'ence (-hîr'əns, -hĕr'-), in·her'en·cy n.

in·her·ent (ĭn-hîr'ənt, -hĕr'-) adj. Existing as an essential constituent or characteristic; intrinsic. [Latin inhaerēns, inhaerent- present participle of inhaerēre, to inhere. See INHERE.] — in·her'ent·ly adv.

in·her·it (ĭn-hĕr'ĭt) v. in·her·it·ed, in·her·it·ing, in·her·its. — v. tr.

1. a. To receive (property or a title, for example) from an ancestor by legal succession or will. b. To receive by bequest or as a legacy. 2. To receive or take over from a predecessor: The new administration inherited the economic problems of the last four years. 3. Biology. To receive (a characteristic) from one's parents by genetic transmission. 4. To gain (something) as one's right or portion. — v. intr. To hold or take possession of an inheritance. [Middle English enheriten, from Old French enheriter, to make heir to, from Late Latin inhēreditāre, to inherit : Latin in-, in; see IN-² + Late Latin hērēditāre, to inherit (from Latin hērēs, hērēd-, heir); see ghē- in Appendix.] —in-her/i-tor n.

in-her-it-a-ble (ĭn-hĕr'ĭ-tə-bəl) adj. 1. That can be inherited: inheritable traits; inheritable property. 2. Having the right to inherit or the capability of inheriting: an inheritable heir. —in-her'it-a-bil'i-ty n.

in-her-i-tance (ĭn-hĕr'ĭ-təns) n. 1. a. The act of inheriting. b. Something inherited or to be inherited. 2. Something regarded as a heritage: the cultural inheritance of Rome. See Synonyms at heritage. 3. Biology. a. The process of genetic transmission of characteristics from parents to offspring. b. A characteristic so inherited. c. The sum of characteristics genetically transmitted from parents to offspring.

inheritance tax (ĭn-hĕr'ĭ-təns tāk) n. A tax imposed on the privilege of receiving property by inheritance or legal succession and assessed on the value of the property received. Also called death tax in-hib-in (ĭn-hĭb'ĭn) n. A peptide that acts to inhibit follicle-stimulating hormonal secretion from the pituitary gland.

in-hib-it (ĭn-hĭb'ĭt) v. tr. in-hib-it-ed, in-hib-it-ing, in-hib-its. 1. To hold back; restrain. See Synonyms at restrain. 2. To prohibit; forbid. 3. Psychology. To suppress or restrain (behavior, an impulse, or a desire) consciously or unconsciously. 4. a. Chemistry. To prevent or decrease the rate of (a reaction). b. Biology. To decrease, limit, or block the action or function of (an enzyme or organ, for example). [Middle English inhibitēn, to forbid, from Latin inhibēre, inhibit-, to restrain, forbid : in-, in; see IN-² + habēre, to hold; see ghabh- in Appendix.] —in-hib'it-a-ble adj. —in-hib'i-tive, in-hib'i-to'ry (-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) adj.

in-hib-it-er (ĭn-hĭb'ĭ-tər) n. Variant of inhibitor.

in-hi-bi-tion (ĭn'hə-bĭsh'ən, ĭn'ə-) n. 1. The act of inhibiting or the state of being inhibited. 2. Something that restrains, blocks, or suppresses. 3. Psychology. Conscious or unconscious restraint of a behavioral process, a desire, or an impulse. 4. a. Chemistry. The condition in which or the process by which a reaction is inhibited. b. Biology. The condition in which or the process by which an enzyme, for example, is inhibited.

in-hib-i-tor also in-hib-it-er (ĭn-hĭb'ĭ-tər) n. One that inhibits, as a substance that retards or stops a chemical reaction.

in-hold-ing (ĭn'hōl'dĭng) n. A privately owned parcel of land within the boundaries of a federal preserve, especially within a national park or national seashore. —in'hold'er n.

in-home (ĭn'hōm') adj. Operating in or provided at the home of the customer or patient: in-home shopping services; an in-home nursing program.

in·ho·mo·ge·ne·i·ty (in-hō'mə-jə-nē'ī-tē, -nā'-, hōm'ə-) n. pl.

in·ho·mo·ge·ne·i·ties. 1. Lack of homogeneity. 2. Something that is not homogeneous or uniform.

in·hos·pi·ta·ble (in-hōs'pī-tə-bəl, in'hō-spīt'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Displaying no hospitality; unfriendly. 2. Unfavorable to life or growth; hostile: the barren, inhospitable desert. —in·hos'pi·ta·ble·ness n. —in·hos'pi·ta·bly adv.

in·hos·pi·tal·i·ty (in'hōs-pī-tāl'ī-tē) n. Lack of hospitality or friendliness.

in·house (in'hous') adj. Conducted within, coming from, or being within an organization or group: an in-house computer system; in-house counsel; an in-house newsletter. —in'house' adv.

in·hu·man (in-hyōō'mən) adj. 1. a. Lacking kindness, pity, or compassion; cruel. See Synonyms at cruel. b. Deficient in emotional warmth; cold. 2. Not suited for human needs: an inhuman environment. 3. Not of ordinary human form; monstrous. —in·hu'man·ly adv. —in·hu'man·ness n.

in·hu·mane (in'hyōō-mān') adj. Lacking pity or compassion.

—in'hu·mane'ly adv.

in·hu·man·i·ty (in'hyōō-mān'ī-tē) n. pl. in·hu·man·i·ties. 1. Lack of pity or compassion. 2. An inhuman or cruel act.

in·hume (in-hyōōm') v. tr. in·humed, in·hum·ing, in·humes. To place in a grave; bury. [French inhumér, from Old French, from Latin inhumāre : in-, in; see IN⁻² + humus, earth; see dhghem- in Appendix.] —in'hu·ma'tion n.

—in·hum'er n.

in·im·i·cal (i-nīm'ī-kəl) adj. 1. Injurious or harmful in effect; adverse: habits inimical to good health. 2. Unfriendly; hostile: a cold, inimical voice. [Late Latin inimīcālis, from Latin inimīcus, enemy. See ENEMY.] —in·im'ī·cal·ly adv.

in·im·i·ta·ble (i-nīm'ī-tə-bəl) adj. Defying imitation; matchless. [Middle English, from Latin inimitābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + imitābilis, imitable (from imitārī, to imitate).] —in·im'ī·ta·bil'ī·ty, in·im'ī·ta·ble·ness n.

—in·im'ī·ta·bly adv.

in·i·on (in'ē-ən) n. The most prominent projecting point of the occipital bone at the base of the skull. [Greek, occipital bone, from is, in-, sinew, fiber. See wei- in Appendix.]

in·iq·ui·tous (i-nīk'wī-təs) adj. Characterized by iniquity; wicked.

—in·iq'ui·tous·ly adv. —in·iq'ui·tous·ness n.

in·iq·ui·ty (i-nīk'wī-tē) n. pl. in·iq·ui·ties. 1. Gross immorality or injustice; wickedness. 2. A grossly immoral act; a sin. [Middle English iniquite, from Old French, from Latin inīquitās, from inīquus, unjust, harmful : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + aequus, equal.]

in·i·tial (i-nīsh'əl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or occurring at the beginning; first: took the initial step toward reconciliation. 2. Designating the first letter or letters of a word. — n. 1. a. The first letter of a proper name. b. initials. The first letter of each word of a person's complete name considered as a unit: stationery monogrammed with her initials. 2. The first letter of a word. 3. A large, often highly decorated letter set at the beginning of a chapter, verse, or paragraph. — v. tr. in·i·tialed also in·i·tialled, in·i·tial·ing also in·i·tial·ling, in·i·tials also in·i·tials. To mark or sign with initials, especially for purposes of authorization or approval. [Latin initialis, from initium, beginning. See ei- in Appendix.]

—in·i·tial·ly adv. —in·i·tial·ness n.

in·i·tial·ize (ĭ-nĭsh'ə-lĭz') v. tr. in·i·tial·ized, in·i·tial·iz·ing, in·i·tial·iz·es.

Computer Science. To set to a starting position or value. —in·i·tial·iz·a'tion (-shə-lĭ-zā'shən) n. —in·i·tial·iz'er n.

initial rhyme (ĭ-nĭsh'əl rĭm) n. See beginning rhyme (n., sense 1).

initial teaching alphabet (ĭ-nĭsh'əl tē'chĭng əl'fə-bĕt') n. Abbr. ITA,

I.T.A. An alphabet with 44 symbols, each of which represents a single sound that is used to teach beginning reading of English.

in·i·ti·ate (ĭ-nĭsh'ē-āt') v. tr. in·i·ti·at·ed, in·i·ti·at·ing, in·i·ti·ates. 1. To set going by taking the first step; begin: initiated trade with developing nations. See Synonyms at begin. 2. To introduce to a new field, interest, skill, or activity.

3. To admit into membership, as with ceremonies or ritual. — adj. (-ĭt)

1. Initiated or admitted, as to membership or a position of authority.

2. a. Instructed in esoteric knowledge. b. Introduced to something new. — n.

(-ĭt) 1. One who is being or has been initiated. 2. One who has been introduced to or has attained knowledge in a particular field. [Latin initiāre, initiāt-, from initium, beginning. See ei- in Appendix.] —in·i·ti·a'tor n.

in·i·ti·a·tion (ĭ-nĭsh'ē-ā'shən) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of initiating.

b. The process of being initiated. c. The condition of being initiated. 2. A ceremony, ritual, test, or period of instruction with which a new member is admitted to an organization or office or to knowledge. 3. The condition of being knowledgeable.

in·i·tia·tive (ĭ-nĭsh'ə-tĭv) n. 1. The power or ability to begin or to follow through energetically with a plan or task; enterprise and determination. 2. A beginning or introductory step; an opening move: took the initiative in trying to solve the problem. 3. a. The power or right to introduce a new legislative measure. b. The right and procedure by which citizens can propose a law by petition and ensure its submission to the electorate. — adj. 1. Of or relating to initiation. 2. Used to initiate; initiatory. —idiom. on (one's) own initiative.

Without prompting or direction from others; on one's own. —in·i·tia·tive·ly adv.

in·i·ti·a·to·ry (ĭ-nĭsh'ē-ə-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) adj. 1. Introductory; initial. 2. Tending or used to initiate.

inj. abbr. Injection.

in-ject (in-jĕkt') v. tr. in-ject-ed, in-ject-ing, in-jects. 1. To force or drive (a fluid) into something: inject fuel into an engine cylinder; inject air into a liquid mixture. 2. a. Medicine. To introduce (a drug or vaccine, for example) into a body part. b. To treat by means of injection: injected the patient with digitalis. 3. To introduce into conversation or consideration: tried to inject a note of humor into the negotiations. 4. To place into an orbit, a trajectory, or a stream. [Latin inicere, iniect-, to throw in : in-, in; see IN-² + iacere, to throw; see yē- in Appendix.] —in-jec'tor n.

in-ject-a-ble (in-jĕk'tə-bəl) adj. That can be injected. Used of a drug. — n. A drug or medicine that can be injected.

in-jec-tant (in-jĕk'tənt) n. A substance injected, as into the skin.

in-jec-tion (in-jĕk'shən) n. Abbr. inj. 1. The act of injecting. 2. Something that is injected, especially a dose of liquid medicine injected into the body.

in-joke (in'jōk') n. Informal. A joke originated or appreciated by the members of a particular group.

in-ju-di-cious (in'jō-dīsh'əs) adj. Lacking or showing a lack of judgment or discretion; unwise. —in'ju-di'cious-ly adv. —in'ju-di'cious-ness n.

in-junc-tion (in-jŭngk'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of enjoining; a command, a directive, or an order. 2. Law. A court order prohibiting a party from a specific course of action. [Middle English injuncion, from Late Latin iniūnctiō, iniūnctiōn-, from Latin iniūnctus, past participle of iniungere, to enjoin : in-, in; see IN-² + iungere, to join; see yeug- in Appendix.] —in-junc'tive adj.

in-jure (in'jər) v. tr. in-jured, in-jur-ing, in-jures. 1. To cause physical harm to; hurt. 2. To cause damage to; impair. 3. To cause distress to; wound: injured their feelings. 4. To commit an injustice or offense against; wrong. [Middle English injuren, to wrong, dishonor, from Old French injurier, from Latin iniūriārī, from iniūria, a wrong. See INJURY.] —in'jur-er n.

SYNONYMS: injure, harm, hurt, damage, impair, mar, spoil. These verbs mean to affect detrimentally. Injure can refer to acts that have an adverse effect on health, appearance, prospects, or well-being: She was badly injured in an accident. Malicious gossip could injure his chances of success. It can also mean to treat another unjustly or wrongfully: "Those that are not favored will think themselves injured" (Samuel Johnson). Harm and hurt refer principally to what causes pain, distress, diminution, or loss: Gypsy moths harm foliage. Failure to pay his bills has harmed his credit. A hailstorm hurt the apple crop. My feelings are hurt. Damage usually implies injury that decreases value, usefulness, desirability, or effectiveness: A falling tree damaged the roof. The scandal seriously damaged the senator's reputation. Impair refers to what diminishes, as in quality: The patient's intelligence has been impaired by a brain injury. To mar is to impair by or as if by disfiguring: Faulty intonation marred the performance. To spoil is to impair and ultimately destroy the value, excellence, or strength of: Worrying about business spoiled our evening.

in·ju·ri·ous (in-jōōr'ē-əs) adj. 1. Causing or tending to cause injury; harmful: eating habits that are injurious to one's health. 2. Slanderous; libelous: made injurious statements about his rival. —in·ju'ri·ous·ly adv. —in·ju'ri·ous·ness n.

in·ju·ry (in'jə-rē) n. pl. in·ju·ries. 1. Damage or harm done to or suffered by a person or thing: escaped from the accident without injury; a scandal that did considerable injury to the campaign. 2. A particular form of hurt, damage, or loss: a leg injury. 3. Law. Violation of the rights of another party for which legal redress is available. See Synonyms at injustice. 4. Obsolete. An insult. [Middle English injurie, from Anglo-Norman, from Latin iniūria, a wrong, injustice, from feminine of iniūrius, unjust : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + iūs, iūr-, law; see yewes- in Appendix.]

in·jus·tice (in-jūs'tis) n. 1. Violation of another's rights or of what is right; lack of justice. 2. A specific unjust act; a wrong. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin iniūstitia, from iniūstus, unjust : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + iūstus, just; see JUST¹.]

SYNONYMS: injustice, injury, wrong, grievance. These nouns denote acts or conditions that cause people to suffer hardship or loss undeservedly. An injustice is a violation of a person's rights; the term can also refer to unfair treatment of another or others: "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere" (Martin Luther King, Jr.). An injury is an injustice for which legal redress is available: "Private wrongs... are an infringement or privation of the private or civil rights belonging to individuals... and are thereupon frequently termed civil injuries" (William Blackstone). Wrong in a legal sense refers to what violates the rights of an individual or adversely affects the public welfare; in a more general sense, however, the word is similar in meaning to but more emphatic than injustice: "The age of chivalry is never past, so long as there is a wrong left unredressed on earth" (Charles Kingsley). A grievance is an act or a condition that is regarded by those involved as a wrong that affords cause for complaint: A committee of inmates presented a list of their grievances to the prison warden.

ink (ɪŋk) n. 1. A pigmented liquid or paste used especially for writing or printing. 2. A dark liquid ejected for protection by most cephalopods, including the octopus and squid. — v. tr. inked, ink·ing, inks. 1. To mark, coat, or stain with ink. 2. Informal. To append one's signature to (a contract, for example). [Middle English inke, from Old French enque, from Late Latin encaustum, purple ink, from Greek enkauston, painted in encaustic, from enkaiein, to paint in encaustic, burn in. See ENCAUSTIC.] —ink'er n. —ink'i·ness n. —ink'y adj.

- ink-ber-ry (ɪŋk'běr'ē) n. 1. A shrub (Ilex glabra) of eastern North America, having black, berrylike fruit. 2. The fruit of an inkberry.
- ink-blot (ɪŋk'blöt') n. 1. A blotted pattern of spilled ink. 2. A pattern resembling an inkblot that is used in inkblot tests, such as the Rorschach test.
- inkblot test (ɪŋk'blöt' tĕst) n. Psychology. A projective test in which a subject's interpretation of inkblots is analyzed.
- ink-horn (ɪŋk'hôrn') n. A small container made of horn or a similar material, formerly used to hold ink for writing. — adj. Affectedly or ostentatiously learned; pedantic: inkhorn words.
- in-kind (ɪn'kīnd') adj. 1. Given in goods, commodities, or services rather than money: cash and in-kind benefits. 2. Returning something equivalent to that received: required to make a 30 percent in-kind contribution.
- in-kle (ɪŋk'kəl) n. 1. A colored linen tape woven on a simple, narrow loom and used for trimmings. 2. The yarn or thread used in making this tape. [Origin unknown.]
- in-king (ɪŋ'klɪŋ) n. 1. A slight hint or indication. 2. A slight understanding or vague idea or notion. [Probably alteration of Middle English (a) ningkiling, (a) hint, suggestion, possibly alteration of nikking, from nikken, to mark a text for correction, from nik, notch, tally, perhaps from variant of Old French niche, niche. See NICHE.]

WORD HISTORY: One of the more fascinating journeys in the histories of words is the one that links nest and inkling. We begin this journey with the Indo-European root nizdo-, which by way of Germanic nist-* will give us nest but also leads to Latin nīdus, “nest.” From Latin nīdus may come Old French (and modern French) niche, meaning “niche.” It is possible that in Old French a variant form existed that was borrowed into Middle English as nik, meaning “a notch, tally.” This word seems related to the Middle English word nikken, which may mean “to mark a text for correction,” and nikking, “a hint, slight indication,” or possibly “a whisper, mention.” The word nikking appears only once, in a Middle English text composed around 1400, as does the word ningkiling, found in another copy of the same text. It is possible that ningkiling is from nikking. Furthermore, it is probable that people divided a ninkling incorrectly and got an inkling, just as they did with a napron, getting an apron. If all this has indeed happened, inkling has come a long way from the nest.

- ink sac (ɪŋk sāk) n. An ink-containing organ located near the rectum in most cephalopods, including the octopus, squid, and cuttlefish.
- ink-stand (ɪŋk'stānd') n. 1. A tray or rack for pens and bottles of ink. 2. See inkwell.

Ink-ster (ɪŋk'stər) A city of southeast Michigan, a residential suburb of Detroit. Population, 30,772.

ink-well (ɪŋk'wɛl') n. A small reservoir for ink. Also called inkstand inky cap (ɪŋg'kē kăp) n. Any of various mushrooms of the genus Coprinus, having gills that dissolve into a dark liquid after maturation of the spores.

in-lace (ɪn-lās') v. Variant of enlace.

in-laid (ɪn'lād') v. Past tense and past participle of inlay. — adj. 1. Set into a surface in a decorative pattern: a mahogany dresser with an inlaid teak design.

2. Decorated with a pattern set into a surface: inlaid antique furniture.

in-land (ɪn'lænd) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or located in the interior part of a country or region. 2. Chiefly British. Operating or applying within the borders of a country or region; domestic: inland tariffs. — adv. In, toward, or into the interior of a country or region. — n. (-lənd', -lənd) The interior of a country or region. — in/land'er n.

In-land Empire (ɪn'lænd ɛm'pīr', -lənd') A region of the northwest United States between the Cascade Range and the Rocky Mountains, comprising eastern Washington, eastern Oregon, northern Idaho, and western Montana. Farming, lumbering, livestock raising, and mining are important to the area.

Inland Passage (ɪn'lænd pās'ɪj) See Inside Passage.

Inland Sea (ɪn'lænd sē) An arm of the Pacific Ocean in southern Japan between Honshu, Shikoku, and Kyushu. Linked to the Sea of Japan by a narrow channel, the sea is famous for its scenic beauty.

in-law (ɪn'lô') n. A relative by marriage. [Back-formation from such compounds as mother-in-law.]

in-law rental (ɪn'lô' rɛn'tl) n. See accessory apartment.

in-lay (ɪn'lā', ɪn-lā') v. tr. in-laid (-ləd'), in-lay-ing, in-lays. 1. a. To set (pieces of wood or ivory, for example) into a surface, usually at the same level, to form a design. b. To decorate by setting in such designs. 2. To insert (a photograph, for example) within a mat in a book. — n. 1. a. Contrasting material set into a surface in pieces to form a design. b. A design, pattern, or decoration made by inlaying. 2. Dentistry. A solid filling, as of gold or porcelain, fitted to a cavity in a tooth and cemented into place. — in-lay'er n.

in-let (ɪn'lɛt', -līt) n. 1. a. A recess, such as a bay or cove, along a coast. b. A stream or bay leading inland, as from the ocean; an estuary. c. A narrow passage of water, as between two islands. d. A drainage passage, as to a culvert. 2. An opening providing a means of entrance or intake.

in-li-er (ɪn'lī'ər) n. An area or a formation of older rocks completely surrounded by younger layers. [IN¹ + (OUT)LIER.]

in lo-co pa-ren-tis (ɪn lō'kō pə-rɛn'tɪs) adv. In the position or place of a parent. [Latin in locō parentis: in, in + locō, ablative of locus, place + parentis, genitive of parēns, parent.]

in·ly (ɪn'lē) adv. 1. In an inward manner; inwardly. 2. With thorough knowledge or understanding.

in·ly·ing (ɪn'lī'ɪŋ) adj. Located farther in: navigated the river and its inlying tributaries.

in·mate (ɪn'māt') n. A resident of a dwelling that houses a number of occupants, especially a person confined to an institution, such as a prison or hospital.

in me·di·as res (ɪn mē'dē-əs rās') adv. In or into the middle of a sequence of events, as in a literary narrative. [Latin in mediās rēs : in, into + mediās, accusative pl. feminine of medius, in the middle of + rēs, accusative pl. of rēs, thing.]

in me·mo·ri·am (ɪn' mə-mô'rē-əm, -môr'-) prep. In memory of; as a memorial to. Used especially in epitaphs. [From Latin in memoriam, to the memory (of) : in, in, into + memoriam, accusative of memoria, memory.]

in·mi·grant (ɪn'mī'grənt) n. One that in-migrates.

in·mi·grate (ɪn'mī'grāt) v. intr. in·mi·grat·ed, in·mi·grat·ing, in·mi·grates. To move into a different region of the same country or territory.

—in'·mi·gra'tion n.

in·most (ɪn'mōst') adj. Farthest within; innermost.

inn (ɪn) n. 1. A public lodging house serving food and drink to travelers; a hotel. 2. A tavern or restaurant. 3. Chiefly British. Formerly, a residence hall for students, especially law students, in London. [Middle English, from Old English. See en in Appendix.]

Inn (ɪn) A river of eastern Switzerland, western Austria, and southeast Germany flowing about 515 km (320 mi) to the Danube River. Its lower course forms part of the German-Austrian border.

in·nards (ɪn'ərdz) pl.n. Informal. 1. Internal bodily organs; viscera. 2. The inner parts, as of a machine. [Alteration of inwards, pl. of INWARD.]

in·nate (ɪ-nāt', ɪn'āt') adj. 1. Possessed at birth; inborn. 2. Possessed as an essential characteristic; inherent. 3. Of or produced by the mind rather than learned through experience: an innate knowledge of right and wrong. [Middle English innat, from Latin innātus, past participle of innāscī, to be born in : in-, in; see IN-² + nāscī, to be born; see genə- in Appendix.] —in·nate/ly adv.

—in·nate/ness n.

SYNONYMS: innate, inborn, inbred, congenital, hereditary. These adjectives mean existing in a person or thing from birth or origin. Innate, inborn, and inbred are often used interchangeably. Inborn, however, is strongest in implying that something has been present since birth: inborn intelligence; an inborn sense of the appropriate. What is inbred has either existed from birth or been ingrained through earliest training or associations: an inbred love of music; inbred superiority. Something that is innate seems essential to the nature, character, or constitution: innate honesty; innate common sense. Congenital is applied principally to characteristics, especially defects, acquired during fetal development: a congenital disease. Hereditary refers to what is transmitted by biological heredity (a hereditary heart anomaly) or by tradition: “that ignorance and superstitiousness hereditary to all sailors” (Herman Melville).

in·ner (ɪn'ər) adj. 1. Located or occurring farther inside: an inner room; an inner layer of warm clothing. 2. Less apparent; deeper: the inner meaning of a poem. 3. Of or relating to the mind or spirit: “Beethoven’s manuscript looks like a bloody record of a tremendous inner battle” (Leonard Bernstein). 4. More exclusive, influential, or important: the inner circles of government. [Middle English, from Old English innera. See en in Appendix.] —in'ner n. —in'ner·ly adv., adj. —in'ner·ness n.

inner city (ɪn'ər sɪt'ē) n. The usually older, central part of a city, especially when characterized by crowded neighborhoods in which low-income, often minority groups predominate. —in'ner·cit'y (ɪn'ər-sɪ'tē) adj.

in·ner·di·rect·ed (ɪn'ər-dɪ-rɛk'tɪd, -dɪ-) adj. Guided in thought and behavior by one’s own set of values rather than societal standards or norms.

inner ear (ɪn'ər ɪr) n. The portion of the ear located within the temporal bone that is involved in both hearing and balance and includes the semicircular canals, vestibule, and cochlea. Also called internal ear, labyrinth.

In·ner Heb·ri·des (ɪn'ər hɛb'rɪ-dɛz') See Hebrides.

Inner Light (ɪn'ər lɪt) n. In Quaker doctrine, a divine presence believed to be an enlightening and guiding force in the human soul.

Inner Mon·go·li·a (ɪn'ər mɔŋg-gō'lē-ə, -gōl'yə, mɔn-) See Nei Monggol.

in·ner·most (ɪn'ər-mōst') adj. 1. Situated or occurring farthest within: the innermost chamber. 2. Most intimate: one’s innermost feelings. — n. The part situated farthest in.

inner planet (ɪn'ər plən'ɪt) n. Any of the four planets, Mercury, Venus, Earth, and Mars, whose orbits are closest to the sun.

inner product (ɪn'ər prɔd'əkt) n. Mathematics. See scalar product.

in·ner·sole (ɪn'ər-sōl') n. See insole.

in·ner·spring (ɪn'ər-sprɪŋ') adj. Having numerous coil springs enclosed by a padded cover: an innerspring mattress.

inner tube (ɪn'ər tōb) n. A flexible, airtight hollow ring, usually made of rubber, that is inserted into the casing of a pneumatic tire for holding compressed air.

in·ner·vate (ɪ-nûr'vāt', ɪn'ər-) v. tr. in·ner·vat·ed, in·ner·vat·ing, in·ner·vates. 1. To supply (an organ or a body part) with nerves. 2. To stimulate (a nerve, muscle, or body part) to action. —in'ner·va'tion n.

—in'ner·va'tion·al (-vā'shə-nəl) adj.

in·nerve (ɪ-nûrv') v. tr. in·nerved, in·nerv·ing, in·nerves. To give nervous energy to; stimulate.

in-ner-wear (ɪn'ər-wâr') n. Clothing, such as lingerie, designed to be worn next to the skin.

In-ness (ɪn'ɪs), George. 1825-1894. American landscape painter whose principal works include Rainbow after a Storm (1869) and The Afterglow (1878).

in-ning (ɪn'ɪŋ) n. 1. a. Baseball. One of nine divisions or periods of a regulation game, in which each team has a turn at bat as limited by three outs.

b. innings. (used with a sing. verb). Sports. The division or period of a cricket game during which one team is at bat. 2. Often innings. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). An opportunity to act or speak out; a chance for accomplishment. 3. The reclamation of flooded or marshy land. [Middle English innynge, a getting in, from Old English innung, gerund of innian, to put in, from in, in. See IN¹.]

inn-keep-er (ɪn'kē'pər) n. One that owns or manages an inn or hotel.

in-no-cence (ɪn'ə-səns) n. 1. The state, quality, or virtue of being innocent, as:

a. Freedom from sin, moral wrong, or guilt through lack of knowledge of evil.

b. Guiltlessness of a specific legal crime or offense. c. Freedom from guile, cunning, or deceit; simplicity or artlessness. d. Lack of worldliness or sophistication; naiveté. e. Lack of knowledge or understanding; ignorance. f. Freedom from harmfulness; inoffensiveness.

2. One that is innocent. 3. Botany. See blue-eyed Mary.

in-no-cen-cy (ɪn'ə-sən-sē) n. pl. in-no-cen-cies. 1. Innocence. 2. An innocent quality or action.

in-no-cent (ɪn'ə-sənt) adj. 1. Uncorrupted by evil, malice, or wrongdoing; sinless: an innocent child.

2. a. Not guilty of a specific crime or offense; legally blameless: was innocent of all charges. b. Within, allowed by, or sanctioned by the law; lawful. 3. a. Not dangerous or harmful; innocuous: an innocent prank.

b. Candid; straightforward: a child's innocent stare. 4. a. Not experienced or worldly; naive. b. Betraying or suggesting no deception or guile; artless.

5. a. Not exposed to or familiar with something specified; ignorant: American tourists wholly innocent of French. b. Unaware: She remained innocent of the complications she had caused. 6. Lacking, deprived, or devoid of something: a novel innocent of literary merit.

— n. 1. A person, especially a child, who is free of evil or sin. 2. A simple, guileless, inexperienced, or unsophisticated person. 3. A very young child. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin innocēns, innocent-: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + nocēns, present participle of nocēre, to harm; see nek⁻¹ in Appendix.] — in/no-cent-ly adv.

In-no-cent III (ɪn'ə-sənt), Originally Lotario di Segni. 1161-1216. Pope (1198-1216) whose reign was marked by the Fourth Crusade and papal intervention in European politics.

in-noc-u-ous (ɪ-nŏk'yŏō-əs) adj. 1. Having no adverse effect; harmless.

2. Not likely to offend or provoke to strong emotion; insipid. [From Latin innocuus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + nocuus, harmful (from nocēre, to harm); see nek⁻¹ in Appendix.] —in·noc'u·ous·ly adv. —in·noc'u·ous·ness n.

in·nom·i·nate (ĭ-nŏm'ə-nĭt) adj. 1. Having no name. 2. Anonymous. [Late Latin innŏminātus : Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin nŏminātus, past participle of nŏmināre, to name; see NOMINATE.]

innominate artery (ĭ-nŏm'ə-nĭt ār'tə-rē) n. An artery that arises from the arch of the aorta and divides into the right subclavian and right carotid arteries. Also called brachiocephalic artery, brachiocephalic trunk.

innominate bone (ĭ-nŏm'ə-nĭt bŏn) n. See hipbone.

innominate vein (ĭ-nŏm'ə-nĭt vān) n. Either of a pair of veins in the neck, each formed by the union of the internal jugular and subclavian veins, that join to form the superior vena cava. Also called brachiocephalic vein in·no·vate (ĭn'ə-vāt') v. in·no·vat·ed, in·no·vat·ing, in·no·vates. — v. tr. To begin or introduce (something new) for or as if for the first time. — v. intr. To begin or introduce something new. [French innover, from Old French, from Latin innovāre, innovāt-, to renew : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + novāre, to make new (from novus, new); see newo- in Appendix.] —in'no·va'tor n.

—in'no·va·to'ry (-və-tŏr'ē, -tŏr'ē) adj.

in·no·va·tion (ĭn'ə-vā'shən) n. 1. The act of introducing something new. 2. Something newly introduced. —in'no·va'tion·al adj.

in·no·va·tive (ĭn'ə-vā'tĭv) adj. Marked by or given to innovations. —in'no·va'tive·ness n.

Inns·bruck (ĭnz'brŏök', ĭns'-) A city of southwest Austria west-southwest of Salzburg. Established as a fortified town c. 1180, it is an industrial, commercial, and transportation center famed as a summer and winter resort. The Winter Olympics were held here in 1964 and 1976. Population, 117,287.

Inns of Court (ĭnz ũv kŏrt) pl.n. Law. 1. The four legal societies in England founded about the beginning of the 14th century and having the exclusive right to confer the title of barrister on law students. 2. The buildings housing the Inns of Court.

in·nu·en·do (ĭn'yŏŏ-ĕn'dŏ) n. pl. in·nu·en·does. 1. An indirect or subtle, usually derogatory implication in expression; an insinuation. 2. Law. a. A plaintiff's interpretation in a libel suit of allegedly libelous or slanderous material. b. A parenthetical explanation of a word or charge in a legal document. [From Latin innuendŏ, by hinting, ablative of innuendum gerund of innuere, to nod to : in-, to, toward; see IN⁻² + -nuere, to nod.]

In·nu·it (ĭn'yŏŏ-ĭt) n. Variant of Inuit.

in·nu·mer·a·ble (ĭ-nŏŏ'mər-ə-bəl, ĭ-nyŏŏ'-) adj. Too numerous to be counted; numberless. See Synonyms at incalculable. [Middle English, from Latin innumerābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + numerābilis, countable; see NUMERABLE.]

—in·nu'mer·a·ble·ness n. —in·nu'mer·a·bly adv.

in·nu·mer·ate (ĭ-nōō'mər-ĭt, ĭ-nyōō'-) adj. Unfamiliar with mathematical concepts and methods. — n. A person who is unfamiliar with mathematical concepts and methods. — in·nu·mer·a·cy n.

in·nu·mer·ous (ĭ-nōō'mər-əs) adj. Innumerable. [From Latin innumerus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + numerus, number; see NUMBER.]

in·nu·tri·tion (ĭn'noō-trĭsh'ən, -nyōō-) n. Poor nourishment; lack of good nutrition. — in·nu·tri·tious adj.

in·ob·ser·vance (ĭn'əb-zûr'vəns) n. 1. Lack of heed or attention; disregard. 2. Nonobservance, as of a law or custom. — in·ob·ser·vant adj.

in·ob·tru·sive (ĭn'əb-trōō'sĭv) adj. Not noticeable; unobtrusive.

in·oc·u·la·ble (ĭ-nōk'yə-lə-bəl) adj. 1. Susceptible to a disease transmitted by inoculation. 2. That can be used in an inoculation. 3. Transmissible by inoculation. — in·oc·u·la·bil·i·ty n.

in·oc·u·lant (ĭ-nōk'yə-lənt) n. See inoculum.

in·oc·u·late (ĭ-nōk'yə-lāt') v. tr. in·oc·u·lat·ed, in·oc·u·lat·ing, in·oc·u·lates. 1. To introduce a serum, a vaccine, or an antigenic substance into (the body of a person or an animal), especially to produce or boost immunity to a specific disease. 2. To communicate a disease to (a living organism) by transferring its causative agent into the organism. 3. To implant microorganisms or infectious material into (a culture medium). 4. To safeguard as if by inoculation; protect. 5. To introduce an idea or attitude into the mind of. [Middle English inoculaten, to graft a scion, from Latin inoculāre, inoculāt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + oculus, eye, bud; see ok^{w-} in Appendix.] — in·oc·u·la'tive adj. — in·oc·u·la'tor n.

in·oc·u·la·tion (ĭ-nōk'yə-lā'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of inoculating, especially the introduction of an antigenic substance or vaccine into the body to produce immunity to a specific disease. 2. Informal. A preemptive advertising tactic in which one party attempts to foresee and neutralize potentially damaging criticism from another party by being the first to confront troublesome issues.

in·oc·u·lum (ĭ-nōk'yə-ləm) n. pl. in·oc·u·la (-lə) or in·oc·u·lums. The material used in an inoculation. Also called inoculant [New Latin, from Latin inoculāre, to graft a scion. See INOCULATE.]

in·o·dor·ous (ĭn-ō'dər-əs) adj. Having no odor.

in·of·fen·sive (ĭn'ə-fĕn'sĭv) adj. 1. Giving no offense; unobjectionable. 2. Causing no harm; harmless. — in·of·fen'sive·ly adv. — in·of·fen'sive·ness n.

in·of·fi·cious (ĭn'ə-fĭsh'əs) adj. Law. Contrary to natural affection or moral duty. Used of a will in which the testator disinherits the rightful heirs with insufficient reason. [Latin inofficiōsus, undutiful : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + officiōsus, dutiful; see OFFICIOUS.]

I·n·ö·nü (in'ə-nōō', ĩ-nœ-nü') , Ismet. 1884-1973. Turkish army officer and politician who served as president (1938-1950) and kept Turkey neutral during World War II.

in·op·er·a·ble (in-öp'ər-ə-bəl, -öp'rə-) adj. 1. Not functioning; inoperative. 2. Unsuitable for a surgical procedure: an inoperable tumor. —in·op'er·a·bly adv.

in·op·er·a·tive (in-öp'ər-ə-tiv, -öp'rə-) adj. 1. Not working or functioning. 2. No longer in force, countermanded: declared the previous instructions inoperative. —in·op'er·a·tive·ness n.

in·o·per·cu·late (in'ō-pûr'kyə-līt) adj. Biology. Lacking an operculum. —in'o·per'cu·late n.

in·op·por·tune (in-öp'ər-tōōn', -tyōōn') adj. Inappropriate or ill-timed; not opportune. —in·op'por·tune'ly adv. —in·op'por·tune'ness n.

in·or·di·nate (in-ôr'dn-īt) adj. 1. Exceeding reasonable limits; immoderate. See Synonyms at excessive. 2. Not regulated; disorderly. [Middle English inordinat, from Latin inōrdinātus, disordered : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + ōrdinātus, past participle of ōrdināre, to set in order (from ōrdō, ōrdin-, order); see ar- in Appendix.] —in·or'di·na·cy, in·or'di·nate·ness n. —in·or'di·nate·ly adv.

in·or·gan·ic (in'ôr-găn'ik) adj. Abbr. inorg. 1. a. Involving neither organic life nor the products of organic life. b. Not composed of organic matter. 2. Chemistry. Of or relating to compounds not containing hydrocarbon groups. 3. Not arising in normal growth; artificial. 4. Lacking system or structure. —in'or·gan'i·cal·ly adv.

in·os·cu·late (in-ōs'kyə-lāt') v. in·os·cu·lat·ed, in·os·cu·lat·ing, in·os·cu·lates. — v. tr. 1. To unite (blood vessels, nerve fibers, or ducts) by small openings. 2. To make continuous; blend. — v. intr. 1. To open into one another. 2. To unite so as to be continuous; blend. [IN⁻² + Latin ōsculāre, ōsculāt-, to provide with an opening (from ōsculum, diminutive of ōs, mouth); see ōs- in Appendix.] —in·os'cu·la'tion n.

in·o·si·tol (ĩ-nō'sĩ-tōl', -tōl', ĩ-nō'-) n. Any of nine isomeric alcohols, C₆H₁₂O₆·2H₂O, especially one found in plant and animal tissue and classified as a member of the vitamin B complex. [Greek inos, genitive of is, sinew; see wei- in Appendix + -IT(E)² + -OL¹.]

in·o·tro·pic (ē'nə-tröp'pik, -tröp'ik, ĩ'nə-) adj. Affecting the contraction of muscle, especially heart muscle: an inotropic drug. [Greek is, in-, tendon, sinew; see wei- in Appendix + -TROPIC.]

INP abbr. International News Photo.

in·pa·tient (in'pā'shənt) n. A patient who is admitted to a hospital or clinic for treatment that requires at least one overnight stay. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: an inpatient procedure; an inpatient facility.

in per-so-nam (in' pər-sō'nəm) adv. & adj. Law. Against a person rather than against property. Used of an action or a judgment. [Late Latin : Latin in, onto, against + Latin persōnam, accusative of persōna, person.]

in pet-to (in pət'ō) adv. & adj. Roman Catholic Church. In secret or private. Used of appointments of cardinals by the pope undisclosed in consistory. [Italian : in, in + petto, breast.]

in-phase (in'fāz') adj. Having the same electrical phase.

in pos-se (in pös'ē) adv. & adj. In potential but not in actuality. [Medieval Latin : Latin in, in + Latin posse, to be able.]

in pro-pri-a per-so-na (in prō'prē-ə pər-sō'nə) adv. Law. In one's own person, especially without representation by an attorney. [Medieval Latin in propriā persōnā : Latin in, in + Latin propriā, ablative of proprius, one's own + Latin persōnā, ablative of persōna, person.]

in-put (in'pūōt') n. 1. Something put into a system or expended in its operation to achieve output or a result, especially: a. Energy, work, or power used to drive a machine. b. Current, electromotive force, or power supplied to an electric circuit, network, or device. c. Computer Science. Information put into a communications system for transmission or into a computer system for processing.

d. Computer Science. A position, terminal, or station at which input enters a system. e. Any of the items, including materials, equipment, and funds, required for production. 2. a. The act of putting in; infusion: a steady input of fuel.

b. An amount put in. 3. Usage Problem. a. Contribution of information or a comment or viewpoint: a discussion with input from all members of the group.

b. Information in general. — v. tr. in-put-ted or in-put, in-put-ting, in-puts. Computer Science. To enter (data or a program) into a computer.

USAGE NOTE: The noun input has been used as a technical term for about a century in fields such as physics and electrical engineering, but its recent popularity grows out of its use in computer science, where it refers to data or signals entered into a system for processing or transmission. In general discourse input is now widely used to refer to the transmission of information and opinion, as in The report questioned whether a President thus shielded had access to a sufficiently varied input to have a realistic picture of the nation or The nominee herself had no input on housing policy. In this last sentence the meaning of the term is uncertain: it may mean either that the nominee provided no opinions to the policymakers or that she received no information about housing policy. This vagueness in the nontechnical use of input may be one reason that some critics have objected to it (including, in an earlier survey, a majority of the Usage Panel). Though the usage is well established, care should be taken not to use the word merely as a way of pretending to a scientific precision unwarranted by the facts of the case.

inq. abbr. Inquiry.

in-quest (ɪn'kwɛst') n. 1. Law. a. A judicial inquiry into a matter usually held before a jury, especially an inquiry into the cause of a death. b. A jury making such an inquiry. c. The finding based on such an inquiry. 2. An investigation or inquiry. See Synonyms at inquiry. [Middle English enqueste, from Old French, from Vulgar Latin inquæsīta*, thing inquired into, alteration of Latin inquīsīta, feminine past participle of inquīrere, to inquire into. See INQUIRE.]

in-qui-e-tude (ɪn-kwī'ī-tōd', -tyōd') n. A state of restlessness or uneasiness; disquietude. [Middle English, disturbance, from Late Latin inquiētūdō, restlessness, from Latin inquiētus, restless : in-, not; see IN-¹ + quiētus, quiet; see QUIET.]

in-qui-line (ɪn'kwə-līn', -līn, ɪŋg'-) n. An animal that characteristically lives commensally in the nest, burrow, or dwelling place of an animal of another species. — adj. Being or living as an inquiline. [Latin inquilīnus, lodger, tenant : in-, in; see IN-² + colere, to inhabit; see k^wel-¹ in Appendix.] — in'qui-lin-ism (-lə-nīz'əm), in'qui-lin'i-ty (-līn'ī-tē) n. — in'qui-lin'ous (-lī'nəs) adj.

in-quire (ɪn-kwīr') also en-quire (ɛn-) v. in-quired, in-quir-ing, in-quires. — v. intr. 1. To seek information by asking a question: inquired about prices. 2. To make an inquiry or investigation: inquire into the extent of the corruption. — v. tr. 1. To ask about. 2. To ask: “I am free to inquire what a work of art means to me” (Bernard Berenson). See Synonyms at ask. — phrasal verb. inquire after. To ask about the health or condition of. [Middle English enquiren, from Old French enquerre, from Vulgar Latin inquaerere*, alteration of Latin inquīrere : in-, into; see IN-² + quaerere, to seek.] — in-quir'er n. — in-quir'ing-ly adv.

in-quir-y (ɪn-kwīr'ē, ɪn'kwīr'ē, ɪn'kwə-rē, ɪŋg'-) also en-quir-y (ɛn-kwīr'ē, ɛn'kwə-rē) n. pl. in-quir-ies. Abbr. inq. 1. The act of inquiring. 2. A question; a query. 3. A close examination of a matter in a search for information or truth.

SYNONYMS: inquiry, inquest, inquisition, investigation, probe, research. The central meaning shared by these nouns is “a quest for knowledge, data, or truth”: filed an inquiry about the lost shipment; holding an inquest to determine whether the dead man had been murdered; refused to cooperate with the inquisition into her political activities; a criminal investigation; a probe into alleged police corruption; scientific research.

in-qui-si-tion (ɪn'kwī-zīsh'ən, ɪŋg'-) n. 1. The act of inquiring into a matter; an investigation. See Synonyms at inquiry. 2. Law. a. An inquest. b. The verdict of a judicial inquiry. 3. a. Inquisition. A tribunal formerly held in the Roman Catholic Church and directed at the suppression of heresy. b. An investigation that violates the privacy or rights of individuals. c. A rigorous, harsh interrogation. [Middle English inquisicioun, from Old French inquisicion, from Latin inquīsitiō, inquīsitiōn-, from inquīsitus, past participle of inquīrere, to inquire. See INQUIRE.] —in'qui-si'tion-al adj.

in·quis·i·tive (in-kwīz'ī-tīv) adj. 1. Unduly curious and inquiring. See Synonyms at curious. 2. Inclined to investigate; eager for knowledge. [Middle English inquisitif, from Old French, from Late Latin inquīsītīvus, from Latin inquīsītus, past participle of inquīrere, to inquire. See INQUIRE.]

—in·quis'i-tive-ly adv. —in·quis'i-tive-ness n.

in·quis·i·tor (in-kwīz'ī-tər) n. One who inquires or makes an inquisition, especially a questioner who is excessively rigorous or harsh. [Middle English inquisitor, from Latin inquīsītor, from inquīsītus, past participle of inquīrere, to inquire into. See INQUIRE.]

in·quis·i·to·ri·al (in-kwīz'ī-tôr'ē-əl, -tôr'-) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or having the function of an inquisitor. 2. Law. a. Relating to a trial in which one party acts as both prosecutor and judge. b. Relating to a criminal proceeding conducted in secrecy. —in·quis'i-to'ri-al-ly adv.

in re (in rā', rē') prep. Law. In the matter or case of; in regard to. [Latin in rē : in, in + rē, ablative of rēs, thing, matter.]

in rem (in rēm') adv. & adj. Law. Against a thing, such as property, status, or a right, rather than against a person. Used of an action or a judgment. [Late Latin : Latin in, against + Latin rem, accusative of rēs, thing, matter.]

in-res-i-dence (in-rēz'ī-dəns) adj. Associated in an official, specified position with an organization such as a university or college. Often used in combination: artist-in-residence.

I.N.R.I. abbr. Latin. Iesus Nazarenus Rex Iudaeorum (Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews).

in·ro (in'rō) n. pl. inro. A small, usually ornamented box that is hung from the waist sash of a Japanese kimono and has compartments for holding small objects such as cosmetics, perfumes, or medicines. [Japanese.]

in·road (in'rōd') n. 1. A hostile invasion; a raid. 2. An advance, especially at another's expense; an encroachment. Often used in the plural: Foreign products have made inroads into the American economy. [IN¹ + ROAD, riding, raid (obsolete).]

in·rush (in'rūsh') n. A sudden rushing in; an influx.

INS abbr. 1. Immigration and Naturalization Service. 2. International News Service.

ins. abbr. 1. Inches. 2. Inspector. 3. Insulation. 4. Insurance.

in·sal·i·vate (in-sāl'ə-vāt') v. tr. in-sal-i-vat-ed, in-sal-i-vat-ing, in-sal-i-vates. To mix (food) with saliva in chewing. —in-sal'i-va'tion n.

in·sa·lu·bri·ous (in'sə-lōō'brē-əs) adj. Not promoting health; unwholesome: an insalubrious environment. —in'sa-lu'bri-ous-ly adv. —in'sa-lu'bri-ty n.

ins and outs (ɪnz ənd ʌuts) pl.n. 1. The intricate details of a situation, decision, or process. 2. The windings of a road or path.

in-sane (ɪn-sān/) adj. 1. a. Of, exhibiting, or afflicted with insanity.

b. Characteristic of or associated with persons afflicted with insanity: an insane laugh; insane babbling. c. Intended for use by such persons: an insane asylum.

2. Immoderate; wild: insane jealousy. 3. Very foolish; absurd: took insane risks behind the wheel. [Latin īnsānus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + sānus, sane, healthy.]

—in-sane/ly adv. —in-sane/ness n.

in-san-i-tar-y (ɪn-sān'ī-tēr'ē) adj. So unclean as to be a likely cause of disease: insanitary conditions in the restaurant.

in-san-i-ty (ɪn-sān'ī-tē) n. pl. in-san-i-ties. 1. Persistent mental disorder or derangement. 2. Law. a. Unsoundness of mind sufficient in the judgment of a civil court to render a person unfit to maintain a contractual or other legal relationship or to warrant commitment to a mental health facility. b. In most criminal jurisdictions, a degree of mental malfunctioning sufficient to relieve the accused of legal responsibility for the act committed. 3. a. Extreme foolishness; folly. b. Something that is extremely foolish.

SYNONYMS: insanity, lunacy, madness, mania, dementia. These nouns denote conditions of serious mental disability. Insanity is a grave, often prolonged condition of mental disorder that prevents a person from being held legally responsible for his or her actions: was judged not guilty for reasons of insanity. Lunacy often denotes derangement relieved intermittently by periods of clear-mindedness: tried to jump out of the fortieth-floor window in a moment of utter lunacy. Madness, a more general term, often stresses the violent aspect of mental illness: delusions that progressed to a form of madness. Mania refers principally to the excited phase of manic-depressive psychosis: prescribed drugs to control the patient's periods of mania. Dementia implies mental deterioration brought on by organic brain disorder: underwent progressive stages of dementia.

in-sa-tia-ble (ɪn-sā'shə-bəl, -shē-ə-) adj. Impossible to satiate or satisfy: an insatiable appetite; an insatiable hunger for knowledge. [Middle English insaciabile, from Old French, from Latin īnsatiābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + satiāre, to fill; see SATIATE.] —in-sa'tia-bil'i-ty, in-sa'tia-ble-ness n. —in-sa'tia-bly adv.

in-sa-ti-ate (ɪn-sā'shē-īt) adj. Insatiable. [Latin īnsatiātus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + satiātus, past participle of satiāre, to satisfy; see SATIATE.] —in-sa'ti-ate-ly adv. —in-sa'ti-ate-ness n.

in-scape (ɪn'skāp') n. The essential, distinctive, and revelatory quality of a thing: "Here is the inscape, the epiphany, the moment of truth. That stubborn spot has become an image of the agony of human life and death" (Madison Bell).

in·scribe (in-skrīb') v. tr. in·scribed, in·scrib·ing, in·scribes. 1. a. To write, print, carve, or engrave (words or letters) on or in a surface. b. To mark or engrave (a surface) with words or letters. 2. To enter (a name) on a list or in a register. 3. a. To sign one's name or write a brief message in or on (a gift book or photograph, for example). b. To dedicate to someone. 4. Mathematics. To draw (one figure) within another figure so that every vertex of the enclosed figure touches the outer figure. [Latin in-scribere : in-, in, on; see IN-² + scribere, to write; see skribh- in Appendix.] —in·scrib'er n.

in·scrip·tion (in-skrīp'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of inscribing. 2. Something, such as the wording on a coin, medal, monument, or seal, that is inscribed. 3. An enrollment or a registration of names. 4. a. A short, signed message in a book or on a photograph given as a gift. b. The usually informal dedication of a book or an artistic work. [Middle English inscripcioun, statement giving the author or title of a book, from Latin in-scriptiō, in-scriptiōn-, from in-scriptus, past participle of in-scribere, to inscribe. See INSCRIBE.] —in·scrip'tion·al, in·scrip'tive adj. —in·scrip'tive·ly adv.

in·scru·ta·ble (in-skrōō'tə-bəl) adj. Difficult to fathom or understand; impenetrable. See Synonyms at mysterious. [Middle English, from Old French, from Late Latin in-scrūtābilis : in-, not; see IN-¹ + scrūtārī, to scrutinize; see SCRUTINY.] —in·scru'ta·bil'i·ty, in·scru'ta·ble·ness n. —in·scru'ta·bly adv.

in·seam (in'sēm') n. 1. The inside seam of a pant leg. 2. The length or measurement of such a seam.

in·sect (in'sēkt') n. 1. a. Any of numerous usually small arthropod animals of the class Insecta, having an adult stage characterized by three pairs of legs and a body segmented into head, thorax, and abdomen and usually having two pairs of wings. Insects include the flies, crickets, mosquitoes, beetles, butterflies, and bees. b. Any of various similar arthropod animals, such as spiders, centipedes, or ticks. 2. An insignificant or contemptible person. [Latin insectum, from neuter past participle of insecāre, to cut up (translation of Greek entomon, segmented, cut up, insect); see ENTOMO- : in-, in; see IN-² + secāre, to cut; see sek- in Appendix.] —in'sect' adj. —in'sec·ti·val (in'sēk-tī'vəl) adj.

in·sec·tar·y (in'sēk'tə-rē, in-sēk'-) or in·sec·tar·i·um (in'sēk-târ'ē-əm) n. pl. in·sec·tar·ies or in·sec·tar·i·a (-târ'ē-ə). A place for keeping, breeding, or observing living insects.

in·sec·ti·cide (in-sēk'tī-sīd') n. A chemical substance used to kill insects. —in·sec'ti·cid'al (-sīd'l) adj. —in·sec'ti·cid'al·ly adv.

in·sec·ti·vore (in-sēk'tə-vōr', -vōr') n. 1. Any of various small, principally nocturnal mammals of the order Insectivora, characteristically feeding chiefly on insects and including the shrews, moles, and hedgehogs. 2. An organism that feeds mainly on insects. [New Latin Insectivora, order name : Latin insectum, insect; see INSECT + Latin -vora, neuter pl. of -vorus, -vorous.]

in·sec·tiv·o·rous (in'sĕk-tiv'ər-əs) adj. 1. Feeding on insects. 2. Botany.

Capable of trapping and absorbing insects, as the pitcher plant.

in·se·cure (in'si-kyōōr') adj. 1. Not sure or certain; doubtful: unemployed and facing an insecure future. 2. Inadequately guarded or protected; unsafe: A shortage of military police made the air base insecure. 3. Not firm or fixed; unsteady: an insecure foothold. 4. a. Lacking emotional stability; not well-adjusted: an insecure relationship. b. Lacking self-confidence; plagued by anxiety: had always felt insecure at parties. —in'se·cure/ly adv. —in'se·cure/ness n.

—in'se·cu'ri·ty (-kyōōr'ī-tē) n.

in·sem·i·nate (in-sĕm'ə-nāt') v. tr. in·sem·i·nat·ed, in·sem·i·nat·ing, in·sem·i·nates. 1. To introduce or inject semen into the reproductive tract of (a female). 2. To sow seed in. [Latin īnsēmināre, īnsēmināt-, to implant, impregnate : in-, in; see IN⁻² + sēmināre, to plant (from sēmen, sēmin-, seed); see SEMEN.]

—in·sem'i·na'tion n. —in·sem'i·na'tor n.

in·sen·sate (in-sĕn'sāt', -sīt) adj. 1. a. Lacking sensation or awareness; inanimate. b. Unconscious. 2. Lacking sensibility; unfeeling: "a predatory, insensate society in which innocence and decency can prove fatal" (Peter S. Prescott).

3. a. Lacking sense or the power to reason. b. Foolish; witless. [Latin īnsēnsātus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + sēnsus, understanding, reason; see SENSE.]

—in·sen'sate/ly adv. —in·sen'sate/ness n.

in·sen·si·ble (in-sĕn'sə-bəl) adj. 1. a. Imperceptible; inappreciable: an insensible change in temperature. b. Very small or gradual: insensible movement.

2. a. Having lost consciousness, especially temporarily; unconscious: lay insensible where he had fallen. b. Not invested with sensation; inanimate: insensible clay.

c. Devoid of physical sensation or the power to react, as to pain or cold; numb.

3. a. Unaware; unmindful: I am not insensible of your concern. b. Not emotionally responsive; indifferent: insensible to criticism. 4. Lacking meaning; unintelligible. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin īnsēnsibilis, imperceivable : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + sēnsibilis, perceptible; see SENSIBLE.] —in·sen'si·bil'i·ty, in·sen'si·ble·ness n. —in·sen'si·bly adv.

in·sen·si·tive (in-sĕn'sī-tiv) adj. 1. Not physically sensitive; numb.

2. a. Lacking in sensitivity to the feelings or circumstances of others; unfeeling.

b. Lacking in responsiveness: insensitive to the needs of the customers.

—in·sen'si·tive/ly adv. —in·sen'si·tiv'i·ty, in·sen'si·tive·ness n.

in·sen·tient (in-sĕn'shənt) adj. Devoid of sensation or consciousness; inanimate. —in·sen'tience n.

in·sep·a·ra·ble (in-sĕp'ər-ə-bəl, -sĕp'rə-) adj. 1. Impossible to separate or part: inseparable pieces of rock. 2. Very closely associated; constant: inseparable companions. —in·sep'a·ra·bil'i·ty, in·sep'a·ra·ble·ness n.

—in·sep'a·ra·ble n. —in·sep'a·ra·bly adv.

in-sert (ĭn-sûrt') v. tr. in-sert-ed, in-sert-ing, in-serts. 1. To put or set into, between, or among: inserted the key in the lock. See Synonyms at introduce.
2. To put or introduce into the body of something; interpolate: insert an illustration into a text. 3. To place into an orbit, a trajectory, or a stream. — n. (ĭn'sûrt') Something inserted or intended for insertion, as a picture or chart into written material. [Latin ĭnserere, ĭnser- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + serere, to join; see ser⁻² in Appendix.] —in-sert'er n.

in-ser-tion (ĭn-sûr'shən) n. 1. The act or process of inserting. 2. Something inserted, as an ornamental strip of lace or embroidery inserted between pieces of fabric. 3. Anatomy. The point or mode of attachment of a skeletal muscle to the bone or other body part that it moves. 4. Genetics. The addition, as by mutation, of one or more nucleotides to a chromosome. —in-ser'tion-al adj.

in-serv-ice (ĭn'sûr'vĭs) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or being a full-time employee: in-service teachers. 2. Taking place or continuing while one is a full-time employee: in-service training workshops.

in-ses-so-ri-al (ĭn'sĕ-sôr'ĕ-əl, -sôr'-) adj. Perching or adapted for perching: insessorial claws. [From New Latin Īnssesores, the perching birds, from Latin ĭnsessus, past participle of ĭnsidĕre, to sit upon. See INSIDIOUS.] in-set (ĭn'sĕt', ĭn-sĕt') v. tr. in-set, in-set-ting, in-sets. 1. To set in; insert.

2. To furnish with an inset. — n. (ĭn'sĕt') 1. Something set in, as: a. A small map or illustration set within a larger one. b. A leaf or group of pages inserted into a publication. c. A piece of material set into a garment as decoration or trim.
2. a. An inflow, as of water. b. A channel.

in-shore (ĭn'shôr', -shôr') adv. & adj. 1. Close to a shore. 2. Toward or coming toward a shore.

in-shrine (ĭn-shrĭn') v. Variant of enshrine.

in-side (ĭn-sĭd', ĭn'sĭd') n. 1. a. An inner or interior part. b. Inward character, perceptions, or feelings: felt good on the inside about volunteering to help. 2. An inner side or surface. 3. The part away from the edge; the middle part.
4. insides. Informal. a. The inner organs; entrails. b. The inner parts or workings: the insides of a TV set. 5. Slang. Confidential or secret information. — adj. 1. Inner; interior. 2. Relating to, known to, or coming from an exclusive group: inside information; an inside joke. 3. Baseball. Passing on the side of home plate nearer the batter. Used of a pitch. — adv. 1. Into or in the interior; within. 2. On the inner side. 3. Slang. In prison. — prep. 1. Within: We'll be there inside an hour. 2. a. On the inner side or part of: inside the package. b. Into the interior of: going inside the house. —idioms. inside of. Usage Problem. Within: inside of an hour. inside out. 2. With the inner surface turned out; reversed: wore the sweatshirt inside out. 3. Informal. As completely as possible; thoroughly: knew the city inside out. on the inside. In a position of confidence or influence.

USAGE NOTE: The construction inside of has sometimes been criticized as redundant or colloquial. But inside of is well established in formal writing, particularly in reference to periods of time: They usually return the manuscript inside of (or inside) a month.

inside job (ɪn-sīd' jɒb) n. Slang. A crime perpetrated by, or with the help of, a person working for or trusted by the victim.

In-side Passage (ɪn'sīd' pās'ij) also In-land Passage (ɪn'lænd) A natural protected waterway extending about 1,529 km (950 mi) from Puget Sound to Skagway, Alaska. It threads through the Alexander Archipelago and is known for its snow-capped mountains, waterfalls, and glaciers.

in-sid-er (ɪn-sī'dər) n. 1. An accepted member of a group. 2. One who has special knowledge or access to confidential information.

inside track (ɪn-sīd' træk) n. 1. Informal. An advantageous position, as in a competition. 2. Sports. The path next to the inner rail in a curved racetrack.

in-sid-i-ous (ɪn-sīd'ē-əs) adj. 1. Working or spreading harmfully in a subtle or stealthy manner: insidious rumors; an insidious disease. 2. Intended to entrap; treacherous: insidious misinformation. 3. Beguiling but harmful; alluring: insidious pleasures. [From Latin īnsidiōsus, from īnsidiae, ambush, from īnsidēre, to sit upon, lie in wait for : in-, in, on; see IN-² + sedēre, to sit; see sed- in Appendix.]

—in-sid'i-ous-ly adv. —in-sid'i-ous-ness n.

in-sight (ɪn'sīt') n. 1. The capacity to discern the true nature of a situation; penetration. 2. The act or outcome of grasping the inward or hidden nature of things or of perceiving in an intuitive manner.

in-sight-ful (ɪn'sīt'fəl, ɪn-sīt'-) adj. Showing or having insight; perceptive: "The major contribution of this new biography... is its insightful discussion of the Christian dimension of Dostoyevsky's life and art" (Maria Carlson). —in'sight'-ful-ly adv. —in-sight'ful-ness n.

in-sig-ni-a (ɪn-sīg'nē-ə) also in-sig-ne (-nē) n. pl. insignia or in-sig-ni-as.

1. A badge of office, rank, membership, or nationality; an emblem. 2. A distinguishing sign. [Latin īnsignia, pl. of īnsigne, badge of office, mark from neuter of īnsignis, distinguished, marked : in-, in; see IN-² + signum, sign; see sek^{w-1} in Appendix.]

USAGE NOTE: Insignia in Latin is the plural form of insigne, but it has long been used in English as both a singular and a plural form: The insignia was visible on the wingtip. There are five insignia on various parts of the plane. From the singular use of insignia comes the plural insignias, which is also common in reputable writing. The Latin singular insigne is rare and may strike some readers as pedantic.

in·sig·nif·i·cance (in'sig-nif'i-kəns) n. The quality or state of being insignificant.

in·sig·nif·i·can·cy (in'sig-nif'i-kən-sē) n. pl. in·sig·nif·i·can·cies.

1. Insignificance. 2. One that is insignificant.

in·sig·nif·i·cant (in'sig-nif'i-kənt) adj. 1. Not significant, especially:

a. Lacking in importance; trivial. b. Lacking power, position, or value; worthy of little regard. c. Small in size or amount. 2. Having little or no meaning.

—in'sig·nif'i·cant·ly adv.

in·sin·cere (in'sin-sīr') adj. Not sincere; hypocritical. —in'sin·cere'ly adv.

—in'sin·cer'i·ty (-sēr'i-tē) n.

in·sin·u·ate (in-sin'yōō-āt') v. in·sin·u·at·ed, in·sin·u·at·ing, in·sin·u·ates.

— v. tr. 1. To introduce or otherwise convey (a thought, for example) gradually and insidiously. See Synonyms at suggest. 2. To introduce or insert (oneself) by subtle and artful means. — v. intr. To make insinuations. [Latin īnsinuāre, īnsinuāt- : in-, in; see IN-² + sinuāre, to curve (from sinus, curve).]

—in·sin'u·a'tive adj. —in·sin'u·a'tor n. —in·sin'u·a'tor'y (-yōō-ə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj.

in·sin·u·at·ing (in-sin'yōō-ā'tīng) adj. 1. Provoking gradual doubt or suspicion; suggestive: insinuating remarks. 2. Artfully contrived to gain favor or confidence; ingratiating. —in·sin'u·at'ing·ly adv.

in·sin·u·a·tion (in-sin'yōō-ā'shən) n. 1. The act, process, or practice of insinuating. 2. Something insinuated, especially an artfully indirect, often derogatory suggestion.

in·sip·id (in-sīp'īd) adj. 1. Lacking flavor or zest; not tasty. 2. Lacking excitement, stimulation, or interest; dull. [French insipide, from Late Latin īnsipidus : Latin in-, not; see IN-¹ + Latin sapidus, savory (from sapere, to taste); see sep- in Appendix.] —in'si·pid'i·ty (in'sī-pīd'i-tē), in·sip'id·ness n. —in·sip'id·ly adv.

in·sip·i·ence (in-sīp'ē-əns) n. Archaic. Lack of wisdom. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin īnsipientia, from īnsipiēns, insipient-, not wise : in-, not; see IN-¹ + sapiēns, wise; see SAPIENT.]

in·sist (in-sīst') v. in·sist·ed, in·sist·ing, in·sists. — v. intr. To be firm in a demand or course; refuse to yield: insisted on giving me a second helping. — v. tr. To assert or demand (something) vehemently and persistently: We insist that you accept these gifts. [Latin īnsistere, to persist : in-, on; see IN-² + sistere, to stand; see stā- in Appendix.] —in·sis'tence, in·sis'ten·cy n. —in·sist'er n. —in·sist'ing·ly adv.

in·sis·tent (in-sīs'tənt) adj. 1. Firm in asserting a demand or an opinion; unyielding. 2. Demanding notice: insistent hunger. 3. Repetitive and persistent: the jay's insistent cry. —in·sis'tent·ly adv.

in si-tu (ɪn sɪ'tōō, sē'-) adv. & adj. In the original position. [Latin in situ : in, in + sitū, ablative of situs, place.]

in-snare (ɪn-snâr') v. Variant of ensnare.

in-so-bri-e-ty (ɪn'sə-brī'ī-tē) n. Lack of sobriety; intemperance, especially in drinking.

in-so-cia-ble (ɪn-sō'shə-bəl) adj. Not sociable. —in-so'cia-bil'i-ty n.
—in-so'cia-bly adv.

in-so-far (ɪn'sō-fâr') adv. To such an extent.

insofar as (ɪn'sō-fâr' äz) conj. To the extent that.

insol. abbr. Insoluble.

in-so-late (ɪn'sō-lāt', ɪn-sō'-) v. tr. in-so-lat-ed, in-so-lat-ing, in-so-lates.

To expose to sunlight. [Latin īnsōlāre, īnsōlāt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + sōl, sun; see sāwel- in Appendix.]

in-so-la-tion (ɪn'sō-lā'shən) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of exposing to sunlight. b. Therapeutic exposure to sunlight. 2. See sunstroke. 3. a. The solar radiation striking Earth or another planet. b. The rate of delivery of solar radiation per unit of horizontal surface.

in-sole (ɪn'sōl') n. 1. The inner sole of a shoe or boot. 2. An extra strip of material put inside a shoe for comfort or protection. Also called innersole in-so-lence (ɪn'sə-ləns) n. 1. The quality or condition of being insolent. 2. An instance of insolent behavior, treatment, or speech.

in-so-lent (ɪn'sə-lənt) adj. 1. Presumptuous and insulting in manner or speech; arrogant. 2. Audaciously rude or disrespectful; impertinent. [Middle English, from Latin īnsolēns, īnsolent-, immoderate, arrogant : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + solēns, present participle of solēre, to be accustomed.] —in'so-lent n. —in'so-lent-ly adv.

in-sol-u-ble (ɪn-sōl'yə-bəl) adj. 1. Abbr. insol. That cannot be dissolved: insoluble matter. 2. Difficult or impossible to solve or explain; unsolvable: insoluble riddles. [Middle English insolible, from Latin īnsolūbilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + solvere, to loosen; see SOLUBLE.] —in-sol'u-bil'i-ty, in-sol'u-ble-ness n.
—in-sol'u-ble n. —in-sol'u-bly adv.

in-solv-a-ble (ɪn-sōl'və-bəl) adj. Impossible to solve; having no solution: a seemingly insolvable problem. —in-solv'a-bil'i-ty n. —in-solv'a-bly adv.

in-sol-ven-cy (ɪn-sōl'vən-sē) n. pl. in-sol-ven-cies. 1. The condition of being insolvent. 2. An instance of being insolvent.

in-sol-vent (ɪn-sōl'vənt) adj. 1. a. Unable to meet debts or discharge liabilities; bankrupt. b. Insufficient to meet all debts, as an estate or a fund. 2. Of or relating to bankrupt persons or entities. — n. A bankrupt.

in-som-ni-a (ɪn-sōm'nē-ə) n. Chronic inability to fall asleep or remain asleep for an adequate length of time. [Latin, from īnsomnis, sleepless : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + somnus, sleep; see swep- in Appendix.]

in·som·ni·ac (in-söm'nē-äk') n. One who suffers from insomnia. — adj.

Having or causing insomnia.

in·so·much as (in'sō-müch' äz) conj. 1. To such extent or degree as.

2. Inasmuch as; since.

insomuch that (in'sō-müch' thät) conj. With the result that; so.

in·sou·ci·ance (in-sōō'sē-əns, äN'sōō-syänS') n. Blithe lack of concern; nonchalance.

in·sou·ci·ant (in-sōō'sē-ənt, äN'sōō-syän') adj. Marked by blithe unconcern; nonchalant. [French : in-, not (from Old French); see IN⁻¹ + souciant, present participle of soucier, to trouble (from Old French, from Vulgar Latin sollicitāre*, alteration of Latin sollicitāre, to vex); see SOLICIT.] —in·sou·ci·ant·ly adv.

in·soul (in-sōl') v. Variant of ensoul.

insp. abbr. 1. Inspected. 2. Inspector.

in·spect (in-spëkt') v. tr. in·spect·ed, in·spect·ing, in·spect·s. 1. To examine carefully and critically, especially for flaws. 2. To review or examine officially: The commander inspected the troops. [From Latin īnspicere, īnspic- : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + specere, to look at; see spek- in Appendix.] —in·spec'tive adj.

in·spec·tion (in-spëk'shən) n. 1. The act of inspecting. 2. Official examination or review, as of barracks or troops. —in·spec'tion·al adj.

in·spec·tor (in-spëk'tər) n. Abbr. ins., insp. 1. One who is appointed or employed to inspect something. 2. A police officer ranking next below superintendent. —in·spec'to·ral, in'spec'to'ri·al (-tôr'-ē-əl, -tōr'-) adj.
—in·spec'tor·ship' n.

in·spec·tor·ate (in-spëk'tər-īt) n. 1. The office or duties of an inspector. 2. A staff of inspectors. 3. An inspector's district.

inspector general (in-spëk'tər jën'ər-əl) n. pl. inspectors general. Abbr. IG, I.G. An officer with general investigative powers within a civil, military, or other organization.

in·sphere (in-sfîr') v. Variant of ensphere.

in·spi·ra·tion (in'spə-rā'shən) n. 1. a. Stimulation of the mind or emotions to a high level of feeling or activity. b. The condition of being so stimulated. 2. An agency, such as a person or work of art, that moves the intellect or emotions or prompts action or invention. 3. Something, such as a sudden creative act or idea, that is inspired. 4. The quality of inspiring or exalting: a painting full of inspiration. 5. Theology. Divine guidance or influence exerted directly on the mind and soul of humankind. 6. The act of drawing in, especially the inhalation of air into the lungs.

in·spi·ra·tion·al (in'spə-rā'shə-nəl) adj. 1. Of or relating to inspiration. 2. Providing or intended to convey inspiration. 3. Resulting from inspiration. —in'spi·ra'tion·al·ly adv.

in·spi·ra·tor (in'spə-rā'tər) n. A device, such as a respirator or an inhaler, by which a gas, vapor, or air is drawn in. [Latin īnspīrāre, to breathe into; see INSPIRE + -ATOR.]

in·spir·a·to·ry (in-spīr'ə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj. Of, relating to, or used for the drawing in of air.

in·spire (in-spīr') v. in·spired, in·spir·ing, in·spires. — v. tr. 1. To affect, guide, or arouse by divine influence. 2. To fill with enlivening or exalting emotion: hymns that inspire the congregation; an artist who was inspired by Impressionism. 3. a. To stimulate to action; motivate: a sales force that was inspired by the prospect of a bonus. b. To affect or touch: The falling leaves inspired her with sadness. 4. To draw forth; elicit or arouse: a teacher who inspired admiration and respect. 5. To be the cause or source of; bring about: an invention that inspired many imitations. 6. To draw in (air) by inhaling. 7. Archaic. a. To breathe on. b. To breathe life into. — v. intr. 1. To stimulate energies, ideals, or reverence: a leader who inspires by example. 2. To inhale. [Middle English enspiren, from Old French enspirer, from Latin īnspīrāre: in-, into; see IN-² + spīrāre, to breathe.] —in·spir'er n.

in·spired (in-spīrd') adj. Of such surpassing brilliance or excellence as to suggest divine inspiration: an inspired musician; an inspired performance.

—in·spir'ed·ly (-spī'rīd-lē, -spīrd'lē) adv.

in·spir·ing (in-spīr'ing) adj. Tending to arouse or exalt: an inspiring eulogy. —in·spir'ing·ly adv.

in·spir·it (in-spīr'it) v. tr. in·spir·it·ed, in·spir·it·ing, in·spir·its. To instill courage or life into; animate. See Synonyms at encourage. —in·spir'it·ing·ly adv.

in·spis·sate (in-spīs'āt', in'spī-sāt') v. intr. tr. in·spis·sat·ed, in·spis·sat·ing, in·spis·sates. To undergo thickening or cause to thicken, as by boiling or evaporation; condense. [From Late Latin īnspissāre, īnspissāt-, to thicken : Latin in-, causative pref.; see IN-² + Latin spissus, thick.] —in'spis·sa'tion n.

—in·spis'sa'tor n.

inst. abbr. 1. Instant. 2. Or Inst. Institute; institution. 3. Institutional.

in·sta·bil·i·ty (in'stə-bīl'ī-tē) n. pl. in·sta·bil·i·ties. 1. Lack of physical stability; unsteadiness. 2. The quality or condition of being erratic or undependable: emotional instability; political instability.

in·stall also in·stal (in-stōl') v. tr. in·stalled, in·stall·ing, in·stalls also in·stals. 1. To set in position and connect or adjust for use: installed the new furnace. 2. To induct into an office, a rank, or a position: a ceremony to install the new governor. 3. To settle in an indicated place or condition; establish: installed myself in the spare room. [Middle English installen, to place in office, from Old French installer, from Medieval Latin installāre: in-, in (from Latin); see IN-² + stallum, stall, place; see stel- in Appendix.] —in·stall'er n.

in-stal-la-tion (in'stə-lā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of installing. b. The state of being installed. Also called *installment*² 2. A system of machinery or other apparatus set up for use. 3. A permanent military base.

in-stall-ment¹ also in-stal-ment (in-stôl'mənt) n. 1. One of a number of successive payments in settlement of a debt. 2. a. A portion of something, such as a publication, issued at intervals. b. A chapter or part of a literary work presented serially. [Alteration of obsolete estallment, from Anglo-Norman, from Old French estaler, to place, fix, from estal, place, of Germanic origin. See stel- in Appendix.]

in-stall-ment² also in-stal-ment (in-stôl'mənt) n. See installation (n., sense 1).

installment plan (in-stôl'mənt plān) n. A credit system by which payment for merchandise is made in installments over a fixed period of time.

in-stance (in'stəns) n. 1. a. An example that is cited to prove or invalidate a contention or illustrate a point. See Synonyms at example. b. A case or an occurrence: In all such instances, let conscience be your guide. 2. Law. A legal proceeding or process; a suit. 3. A step in a process or series of events: You should apply in the first instance to the personnel manager. 4. a. A suggestion or request: called at the instance of his attorney. b. Archaic. Urgent solicitation. 5. Obsolete. An impelling motive. — v. tr. in-stanced, in-stanc-ing, in-stanc-es. 1. To offer as an example; cite. 2. To demonstrate or show by an example; exemplify. — idiom. for instance. As an example; for example. [Middle English instaunce, from Old French instance, request, instant, and from Medieval Latin instantia, example both from Latin, presence, from instāns, instant-, present. See INSTANT.]

in-stan-cy (in'stən-sē) n. pl. in-stan-cies. 1. The quality or condition of being insistent; urgency. 2. Immediacy of occurrence; instantaneousness.

in-stant (in'stənt) n. Abbr. inst. 1. An almost imperceptible space of time. See Synonyms at moment. 2. A particular time: Tell me the instant they arrive. 3. The current month: your letter of the 15th instant. 4. A food or beverage designed for quick preparation. — adj. Abbr. inst. 1. Occurring at once; immediate: instant gratification. 2. Imperative; urgent: an instant need. 3. Now under consideration; present. 4. a. Commercially prepared or processed for quick and easy final preparation: an instant cake mix. b. Readily soluble in water: instant coffee; instant powdered milk. c. Appearing, done, or taking place with or as if with maximum quickness and ease: "She had the gift of instant intimacy" (Sylvia Jukes Morris). — adv. At once; instantly. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin instāns, instant-, present, present participle of instāre, to approach : in-, on; see IN-² + stāre, to stand; see stā- in Appendix.] — in'stant-ness n.

in-stan-ta-ne-ous (in'stən-tā'nē-əs) adj. 1. Occurring or completed without perceptible delay: Relief was instantaneous. 2. Done or made as quickly or directly as possible: an instantaneous reply to my letter. 3. Present or occurring at a specific instant: instantaneous velocity; instantaneous pressure. [From Medieval Latin īstantāneus, from Latin īstāns, īstant-, present. See INSTANT.]

—in·stan'ta·ne'i·ty (ĭn-stān'tə-nē'ĭ-tē, ĭn'stən) n. —in'stan·ta'ne-ous-ly adv. —in'stan·ta'ne-ous-ness n.

in·stan·ter (ĭn-stān'tər) adv. Without delay; instantly. [Medieval Latin, from Latin, urgently, from īstāns, īstant-, present. See INSTANT.]

in·stant·ly (ĭn'stənt-lē) adv. 1. At once. 2. With insistence; urgently. — conj. Chiefly British. As soon as.

instant replay (ĭn'stənt rē-plā') n. 1. a. The recording and immediate playback of part of a live television broadcast, as of a sports play. b. The part so recorded and replayed. 2. Informal. Something repeated directly or soon after its original occurrence.

in·star¹ (ĭn-stär') v. tr. in·starred, in·star·ring, in·stars. To stud with or as if with stars.

in·star² (ĭn'stär') n. A stage of an insect or other arthropod between molts. [New Latin, from Latin, image, form.]

in·state (ĭn-stāt') v. tr. in·stat·ed, in·stat·ing, in·states. To establish in office; install.

in·stau·ra·tion (ĭn'stô-rā'shən) n. 1. Renovation; restoration. 2. The institution or establishment of something. [Latin īnstaŭrātiō, īnstaŭrātiōn-, from īnstaŭrātus, past participle of īnstaŭrāre, to renew. See stā- in Appendix.]

in·stead (ĭn-stēd') adv. 1. In the place of something previously mentioned; as a substitute or an equivalent: Having planned to drive, we walked instead. 2. In preference; as an alternative: yearned instead for a home and family. [Middle English in sted of, in place of : in, in; see IN¹ + stede, place; see STEAD + of, of; see OF.]

instead of (ĭn-stēd' ŭv) prep. In place of; rather than: ordered chicken instead of fish.

in·step (ĭn'stēp') n. 1. The arched middle part of the human foot between the toes and the ankle. 2. The part of a shoe or stocking covering the instep. [Middle English.]

in·sti·gate (ĭn'stī-gāt') v. tr. in·sti·gat·ed, in·sti·gat·ing, in·sti·gates. 1. To urge on; goad. 2. To stir up; foment. See Synonyms at incite. [Latin īnstīgāre, īnstīgāt-. See steig- in Appendix.] —in'sti-ga'tion n. —in'sti-ga'tive adj. —in'sti-ga'tor n.

in·still also in·stil (ĭn-stīl') v. tr. in·stilled, in·still·ing, in·stills also in·stils.

1. To introduce by gradual, persistent efforts; implant: "Morality... may be instilled into their minds" (Thomas Jefferson). 2. To pour in (medicine, for example) drop by drop. [Middle English instillen, from Latin īnstīllāre : in-, into;

see IN⁻² + stīllāre, to drip, drop (from stīlla, drop).] —in'stil-la'tion (in'stə-lā'shən) n. —in-still'er n. —in-still'ment n.

in-stinct (in'stɪŋkt') n. 1. An inborn pattern of behavior that is characteristic of a species and is often a response to specific environmental stimuli: the spawning instinct in salmon; altruistic instincts in social animals. 2. A powerful motivation or impulse. 3. An innate capability or aptitude: an instinct for tact and diplomacy. — adj. (in-s'tɪŋkt') 1. Deeply filled or imbued: words instinct with love. 2. Obsolete. Impelled from within. [Middle English, from Latin īnstinctus, impulse, from past participle of īnstinguere, to incite : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + stinguere, to prick; see steig- in Appendix.]

in-stinc-tive (in-s'tɪŋkt'ɪv) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or prompted by instinct. 2. Arising from impulse; spontaneous and unthinking: an instinctive mistrust of bureaucrats. —in-stinc'tive-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: instinctive, instinctual, intuitive, visceral. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “derived from or prompted by a natural tendency or impulse”: an instinctive fear of snakes; instinctual behavior; an intuitive perception; visceral revulsion. See also Synonyms at spontaneous in-stinc-tu-al (in-s'tɪŋkt'chō-əl) adj. Of, relating to, or derived from instinct. See Synonyms at instinctive. —in-stinc'tu-al-ly adv.

in-sti-tute (in'stī-tōot', -tyōot') v. tr. in-sti-tut-ed, in-sti-tut-ing, in-sti-tutes. 1. a. To establish, organize, and set in operation. b. To initiate; begin. See Synonyms at found¹. 2. To establish or invest in an office or a position. — n. 1. a. Something instituted, especially an authoritative rule or precedent. b. institutes. A digest of the principles or rudiments of a particular subject, especially a legal abstract. 2. Abbr. inst., Inst. An organization founded to promote a cause: a cancer research institute. 3. Abbr. I, Inst. a. An educational institution, especially one for the instruction of technical subjects. b. The building or buildings housing such an institution. 4. A usually short, intensive workshop or seminar on a specific subject. [Middle English instituten, from Latin īnstituere, īnstitūt-, to establish : in-, in; see IN⁻² + statuere, to set up (from stāre, to stand); see stā- in Appendix.] —in'sti-tut'er, in'sti-tu'tor n.

in-sti-tu-tion (in'stī-tōō'shən, -tyōō'-) n. 1. The act of instituting. 2. a. A custom, practice, relationship, or behavioral pattern of importance in the life of a community or society: the institutions of marriage and the family. b. Informal. One long associated with a specified place, position, or function. 3. Abbr. inst., Inst. a. An established organization or foundation, especially one dedicated to education, public service, or culture. b. The building or buildings housing such an organization. c. A place for the care of persons who are destitute, disabled, or mentally ill.

in·sti·tu·tion·al (in'stī-tōō'shə-nəl, -tyōō'-) adj. 1. Of or relating to an institution or institutions. 2. Organized as or forming an institution: institutional religion. 3. Characteristic or suggestive of an institution, especially in being uniform, dull, or unimaginative: institutional furniture; a pale institutional green. 4. Of or relating to the principles or institutes of a subject such as law.
—in'sti·tu'tion-al-ly adv.

in·sti·tu·tion·al·ism (in'stī-tōō'shə-nə-līz'əm, -tyōō'-) n. 1. Adherence to or belief in established forms, especially belief in organized religion. 2. Use of public institutions for the care of people who are physically or mentally disabled, criminally delinquent, or incapable of independent living. —in'sti·tu'tion-al-ist n.

in·sti·tu·tion·al·ize (in'stī-tōō'shə-nə-līz', -tyōō'-) v. tr.

in·sti·tu·tion·al·ized, in·sti·tu·tion·al·iz·ing, in·sti·tu·tion·al·iz·es. 1. a. To make into, treat as, or give the character of an institution to. b. To make part of a structured and usually well-established system: a society that has institutionalized injustice. 2. To place (a person) in the care of an institution. —in'sti·tu'tion-al-i-za'tion (-shə-nə-lī-zā'shən) n.

instr. abbr. 1. Instruction. 2. Instructor. 3. Instrument.

in·stroke (in'strōk') n. An inward stroke, especially a piston stroke moving away from the crankshaft.

in·struct (in-strūkt') v. in·struct·ed, in·struct·ing, in·structs. — v. tr.

1. To provide with knowledge, especially in a methodical way. See Synonyms at teach. 2. To give orders to; direct. See Synonyms at command. — v. intr. To serve as an instructor. [Middle English instruēten, from Latin instruere, instrūct-, to prepare, instruct : in-, on; see IN-² + struere, to build; see ster-² in Appendix.]

in·struc·tion (in-strūk'shən) n. Abbr. instr. 1. The act, practice, or profession of instructing. 2. a. Imparted knowledge. b. An imparted or acquired item of knowledge; a lesson. 3. Computer Science. A machine code telling a computer to perform a particular operation. 4. a. Often instructions. An authoritative direction to be obeyed; an order: had instructions to be home by midnight. b. instructions. Detailed directions on procedure: read the instructions for assembly. —in·struc'tion-al adj.

in·struc·tive (in-strūk'tiv) adj. Conveying knowledge or information; enlightening. —in·struc'tive-ly adv. —in·struc'tive-ness n.

in·struc·tor (in-strūk'tər) n. Abbr. instr. 1. One who instructs; a teacher. 2. A college or university teacher who ranks below an assistant professor.
—in·struc'tor-ship' n.

in·stru·ment (in'strə-mənt) n. Abbr. instr. 1. A means by which something is done; an agency. 2. One used by another to accomplish a purpose; a dupe. 3. An implement used to facilitate work. See Synonyms at tool. 4. A device for recording, measuring, or controlling, especially such a device functioning as part of a control system. 5. Music. A device for playing or producing music: a percussion instrument; a keyboard instrument. 6. A legal document. — v. tr.

in·stru·ment·ed, in·stru·ment·ing, in·stru·ments (-mənt'). 1. To provide or equip with instruments. 2. Music. To compose or arrange for performance.

3. To address a legal document to. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin īnstrūmentum, tool, implement, from īnstruere, to prepare. See INSTRUCT.] in·stru·men·tal (in'strə-mənt'l) adj. 1. Serving as a means or an agency; implemental: was instrumental in solving the crime. 2. Of, relating to, or accomplished with an instrument or a tool. 3. Music. Performed on or written for an instrument. 4. Grammar. Of or designating a case used typically to express means, agency, or accompaniment. 5. Of or relating to instrumentalism. — n.

1. a. Grammar. The instrumental case. b. A word in the instrumental case.

2. Music. A composition for one or more instruments, usually without vocal accompaniment. — in'stru·men'tal·ly adv.

in·stru·men·tal·ism (in'strə-mənt'l-iz'əm) n. A pragmatic theory that ideas are instruments that function as guides of action, their validity being determined by the success of the action.

in·stru·men·tal·ist (in'-strə-mənt'l-ist) n. 1. Music. One who plays an instrument. 2. An advocate or a student of instrumentalism. — adj. Of, relating to, or advocating instrumentalism.

in·stru·men·tal·i·ty (in'strə-mənt-tāl'i-tē) n. pl. in·stru·men·tal·i·ties.

1. The state or quality of being instrumental. 2. A means; an agency. 3. A subsidiary branch, as of a government, by means of which functions or policies are carried out.

in·stru·men·ta·tion (in'strə-mənt-tā'shən) n. 1. The application or use of instruments. 2. Music. a. The study and practice of arranging music for instruments. b. The arrangement or orchestration resulting from such practice. c. A list of instruments used in an orchestration. 3. a. The study, development, and manufacture of instruments, as for scientific or industrial use. b. Instruments for a specific purpose. 4. Instrumentality.

instrument board (in'strə-mənt bōrd) n. See instrument panel.

instrument flying (in'strə-mənt flī'ŋ) n. Aircraft navigation by reference to instruments only.

instrument landing (in'strə-mənt län'dŋ) n. An aircraft landing made by means of instruments and ground-based radio equipment only.

instrument panel (in'strə-mənt pän'əl) n. A mounted array of instruments used to operate a machine, especially the dashboard of an automotive vehicle, an aircraft, or a motorboat. Also called instrument board in·sub·or·di·nate (in'sə-bôr'dn-īt) adj. Not submissive to authority: has a history of insubordinate behavior. — in'sub·or'di·nate n. — in'- sub·or'di·nate·ly adv. — in'sub·or'di·na'tion n.

SYNONYMS: insubordinate, rebellious, mutinous, factious, seditious. These adjectives mean in opposition to and usually in defiance of established authority. Insubordinate implies failure or refusal to recognize or submit to the authority of a superior: To be insubordinate is to invite dismissal from a corporation. Rebellious implies open defiance of authority or resistance to control: Rebellious students stubbornly demanded that the CIA be prevented from recruiting on campus. Mutinous pertains to revolt against constituted authority, especially that of a naval or military command: “The men became mutinous and insubordinate” (Walter Besant). Factious implies the promotion or existence of divisiveness, dissension, or disunity within a group or an organization: “The army has been embroiled in a standoff battle against a [hornets’] nest of factious groups, including opium warlords” (Time). Seditious applies principally to the treasonous stirring up of resistance or rebellion against a government: Thomas Paine’s pamphlet Common Sense must have seemed seditious to colonial Tories.

in·sub·stan·tial (in'səb-stān'shəl) adj. 1. Lacking substance or reality. See Synonyms at immaterial. 2. a. Not firm or solid; flimsy. b. Delicate; fine.
—in'sub-stan'ti-al/i·ty (-shē-ăl'ī-tē) n.

in·suf·fer·a·ble (in-sūf'ər-ə-bəl, -sūf'rə-) adj. Difficult or impossible to endure; intolerable. —in-suf'fer-a·ble-ness n. —in-suf'fer-a·bly adv.

in·suf·fi·ci·en·cy (in'sə-fish'ən-sē) n. pl. in-suf-fi-ci-en-cies. 1. The quality or state of being insufficient, especially: a. Moral or mental incompetence. b. Inadequate supply: an insufficiency of funds. c. Inability of a bodily part or an organ to function normally: cardiac insufficiency. 2. A failing; an inadequacy: pointed out the insufficiencies in my report.

in·suf·fi·cient (in'sə-fish'ənt) adj. Not sufficient; inadequate. —in'-suf-fi·cient·ly adv.

in·suf·fla·te (in'sə-flāt', in-sūf'lāt') v. tr. in-suf-flat-ed, in-suf-flat-ing, in-suf-flates. 1. To blow or breathe into or on. 2. Medicine. To treat medically by blowing a powder, gas, or vapor into a bodily cavity. [Latin insufflāre, insufflāt- : in-, into; see IN⁻² + sufflāre, to inflate; see SOUFFLÉ.] —in'suf-fla'tor n.

in·suf·fla·tion (in'sə-flā'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of insufflating. 2. Ecclesiastical. A ritual act of breathing on baptismal water or on the one being baptized.

in·su·lant (in'sə-lənt, ins'yə-) n. A material used for insulation; an insulator.

in·su·lar (in'sə-lər, ins'yə-) adj. 1. a. Of, relating to, or constituting an island. b. Living or located on an island. 2. a. Suggestive of the isolated life of an island: “He is an exceedingly insular man, so deeply private as to seem inaccessible to the scrutiny of a novelist” (Leonard Michaels). b. Circumscribed and detached in outlook and experience; narrow or provincial. 3. Anatomy. Of or relating to isolated tissue or an island of tissue. [French insulaire, from Late Latin īnsulāris, from Latin īnsula, island.] —in'su-lar-ism, in'su-lar'i-ty (-lār'ī-tē) n.

—in'su-lar-ly adv.

in-su-late (in'sə-lāt', ĩns'yə-) v. tr. in-su-lat-ed, in-su-lat-ing, in-su-lates.

1. To cause to be in a detached or isolated position. See Synonyms at isolate.

2. To prevent the passage of heat, electricity, or sound into or out of, especially by surrounding with a nonconducting material. [Latin īnsula, island + -ATE¹.]

in-su-la-tion (in'sə-lā'shən, ĩns'yə-) n. Abbr. ins. 1. The act of insulating or the state of being insulated. 2. A material or substance used in insulating: sound-proof cork insulation; a layer of trapped air that serves as insulation.

in-su-la-tive (in'sə-lā'tiv, ĩns'yə-) adj. Serving to insulate or keep safe: the insulative value of an animal's fur; insulative packing materials.

in-su-la-tor (in'sə-lā'tər, ĩns'yə-) n. 1. A material that insulates, especially a nonconductor of sound, heat, or electricity. 2. A device that insulates.

in-su-lin (in'sə-lĭn) n. 1. A polypeptide hormone secreted by the islets of Langerhans and functioning in the regulation of the metabolism of carbohydrates and fats, especially the conversion of glucose to glycogen, which lowers the blood glucose level. 2. Any of various pharmaceutical preparations containing this hormone that are derived from the pancreas of certain animals or produced through genetic engineering and are used in the medical treatment and management of diabetes mellitus (type I). [New Latin īnsula, island (of Langerhans) (from Latin, island) + -IN.]

in-su-lin-de-pend-ent diabetes (in'sə-lĭn-dĭ-pĕn'dənt dī'ə-bē'tis) n. See diabetes mellitus (n., sense 1).

insulin pump (in'sə-lĭn pŭmp) n. A portable device for people with diabetes that injects insulin at programmed intervals in order to regulate blood sugar levels.

insulin shock (in'sə-lĭn shŏk) n. Acute hypoglycemia usually resulting from an overdose of insulin and characterized by sweating, trembling, dizziness, and, if left untreated, convulsions and coma.

in-sult (in-sŭlt') v. in-sult-ed, in-sult-ing, in-sults. — v. tr. 1. a. To treat with gross insensitivity, insolence, or contemptuous rudeness. See Synonyms at offend. b. To affront or demean: an absurd speech that insulted the intelligence of the audience. 2. Obsolete. To make an attack on. — v. intr. Archaic. 1. To behave arrogantly. 2. To give offense; offend: a speech that was intended to insult. — n. (in'sŭlt') 1. An offensive action or remark. 2. Medicine. A bodily injury, irritation, or trauma. [French insulter, from Old French, to assault, from Latin īnsultāre, to leap at, insult, frequentative of īnsilĭre, to leap upon : in-, on; see IN-² + salĭre, to leap; see sel- in Appendix.] —in-sult'er n. —in-sult'ing-ly adv.

in·su·per·a·ble (in-sōō'pär-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to overcome; insurmountable: insuperable odds. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin īnsuperābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + superābilis, superable; see SUPERABLE.]

—in·su'per·a·bil'i·ty, in·su'per·a·ble·ness n. —in·su'per·a·bly adv.

in·sup·port·a·ble (in'sə-pōr'tə-bəl, -pōr'-) adj. 1. Not endurable; intolerable: insupportable mental anguish. 2. Lacking grounds or defense; unjustifiable: an insupportable claim. —in'sup·port'a·ble·ness n. —in'sup·port'a·bly adv.

in·sup·press·i·ble (in'sə-prēs'ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to suppress or control; irrepressible. —in'sup·press'i·bly adv.

in·sur·ance (in-shōōr'əns) n. Abbr. ins. 1. a. The act, business, or system of insuring. b. The state of being insured. c. A means of being insured.

2. a. Coverage by a contract binding a party to indemnify another against specified loss in return for premiums paid. b. The sum or rate for which such a contract insures something. c. The periodic premium paid for this coverage. 3. A protective measure: biking helmets that provide insurance against an accident. — adj. Sports. Of, relating to, or being a score that increases a team's lead enough to prevent the opposing team from tying the game with one more score: an insurance run.

in·sure (in-shōōr') v. in·sured, in·sur·ing, in·sures. — v. tr. 1. To cover with insurance. 2. To make sure, certain, or secure. See Usage Note at assure. — v. intr. To buy or sell insurance. [Middle English ensuren, to assure, from Old French enseurer, possibly variant of assurer. See ASSURE.] —in·sur'a·bil'i·ty n. —in·sur'a·ble adj.

in·sured (in-shōōrd') n. pl. insured or in·sureds. 1. The party who stands to benefit from an insurance policy. 2. The party insured. Also called assured in·sur·er (in-shōōr'ər) n. One that insures, especially an insurance underwriter.

in·sur·gence (in-sûr'jəns) n. The action or an instance of rebellion; an insurrection.

in·sur·gen·cy (in-sûr'jən-sē) n. pl. in·sur·gen·cies. 1. The quality or circumstance of being rebellious. 2. An instance of rebellion; an insurgency.

in·sur·gent (in-sûr'jənt) adj. Rising in revolt against civil authority or a government in power; rebellious. — n. 1. One that revolts against civil authority. 2. A member of a political party who rebels against its leadership. [Latin īnsurgēns, īnsurgent- present participle of īnsurgere, to rise up : in-, intensive pref.; see IN⁻² + surgere, to rise; see SURGE.] —in·sur'gent·ly adv.

in·sur·mount·a·ble (in'sər-moun'tə-bəl) adj. Impossible to surmount; insuperable: insurmountable difficulties. —in'sur·mount'a·bil'i·ty, in'sur·mount'a·ble·ness n. —in'sur·mount'a·bly adv.

in·sur·rec·tion (in'sə-rĕk'shən) n. The act or an instance of open revolt against civil authority or a constituted government. See Synonyms at rebellion.

[Middle English, from Old French, from Late Latin īnsurrēctiō, īnsurrēctiōn-, from Latin īnsurrēctus, past participle of īnsurgere, to rise up. See INSURGENT.]

—in'sur-rec'tion-al adj. —in'sur-rec'tion-ar'y (-shə-nēr'ē) adj., n. —in'-sur-rec'tion-ism n. —in'sur-rec'tion-ist n.

in-sus-cep-ti-ble (in'sə-sĕp'tə-bəl) adj. Not susceptible: insusceptible to bribery. —in-sus-cep'ti-bil'i-ty n. —in'sus-cep'ti-bly adv.

int. abbr. 1. Intelligence. 2. Intercept. 3. Interest. 4. Interim. 5. Interior. 6. Grammar. Interjection. 7. Intermediate. 8. Internal. 9. International.

10. Intersection. 11. Interval. 12. Interview. 13. Grammar. Intransitive.

in-tact (in-tăkt') adj. 1. Remaining sound, entire, or uninjured; not impaired in any way. 2. Having all physical parts, especially: a. Having the hymen unbroken. b. Not castrated. [Middle English, from Latin intāctus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + tāctus, past participle of tangere, to touch; see tag- in Appendix.] —in-tact'ly adv. —in-tact'ness n.

in-ta-glio (in-tāl'yō, -tāl'-) n. pl. inta-glios. 1. a. A figure or design carved into or beneath the surface of hard metal or stone. b. The art or process of carving a design in this manner. 2. A gemstone carved in intaglio. 3. Printing done with a plate bearing an image in intaglio. 4. A die incised so as to produce a design in relief. [Italian, from intagliare, to engrave: in-, in (from Latin); see IN⁻² + tagliare, to cut (from Vulgar Latin talliāre*); see TAILOR.]

in-take (in'tāk') n. 1. An opening by which a fluid is admitted into a container or conduit. 2. a. The act of taking in. b. The quantity taken in. c. Something, especially energy, taken in.

in-tan-gi-ble (in-tăn'jə-bəl) adj. 1. Incapable of being perceived by the senses. 2. Incapable of being realized or defined. — n. Something intangible, especially an asset that cannot be perceived by the senses. Often used in the plural: intangibles such as goodwill and dedication. —in-tan'gi-bil'i-ty, in-tan'gi-ble-ness n. —in-tan'gi-bly adv.

in-tar-si-a (in-tār'sē-ə) n. 1. A decorative inlaid pattern in a surface, especially a mosaic worked in wood. 2. The art or practice of making such a pattern. [German, from Italian intarsio, from intarsiare, to inlay: in-, in (from Latin); see EN⁻¹ + tarsia, inlaid mosaic work (from Arabic tarṣī').]

in-te-ger (in'ti-jər) n. Mathematics. 1. A member of the set of positive whole numbers (1, 2, 3,...), negative whole numbers (-1, -2, -3,...), and zero (0). 2. A complete unit or entity. [From Latin, whole, complete. See tag- in Appendix.]

in-te-gra-ble (in'ti-grə-bəl) adj. Mathematics. Capable of undergoing integration or of being integrated. —in'te-gra-bil'i-ty n.

in-te-gral (in'ti-grəl, in-tĕg'rəl) adj. 1. Essential or necessary for completeness; constituent: The kitchen is an integral part of a house. 2. Possessing everything essential; entire. 3. (in'ti-grəl) Mathematics. a. Expressed or expressible as or in terms of integers. b. Expressed as or involving integrals. — n. 1. A complete unit; a whole. 2. (in'tī-grəl) Mathematics. a. A definite integral. b. An indefinite integral. [Middle English, from Old French, from Medieval Latin integrālis, making up a whole, from Latin integer, complete. See INTEGRER.] —in'te-gral'i-ty (-gräl'ī-tē) n. —in'te-gral-ly adv.

integral calculus (in'tī-grəl käl'kyə-ləs) n. Mathematics. The study of integration and its use in finding volumes, areas, and solutions of differential equations.

integral domain (in'tī-grəl dō-mān') n. Mathematics. A commutative ring with unity having no proper divisors of zero, that is, where the product of non-zero elements cannot be zero.

in-te-grand (in'tī-gränd') n. Mathematics. A function or an equation to be integrated. [From Latin integrandus, gerundive of integrāre, to integrate. See INTEGRATE.]

in-te-grant (in'tī-grənt) adj. Constituting part of a whole; integral.

in-te-grate (in'tī-grāt') v. in-te-grat-ed, in-te-grat-ing, in-te-grates. — v. tr. 1. To make into a whole by bringing all parts together; unify. 2. a. To join with something else; unite. b. To make part of a larger unit: integrated the new procedures into the work routine. 3. To open to people of all races or ethnic groups without restriction; desegregate. 4. Mathematics. a. To calculate the integral of. b. To perform integration on. 5. Psychology. To bring about the integration of (personality traits). — v. intr. To become integrated or undergo integration. [From Middle English, intact, from Latin integrātus, past participle of integrāre, to make whole, from integer, complete. See tag- in Appendix.] —in'te-gra'tive adj.

in-te-grat-ed circuit (in'tī-grā'tīd sūr'kīt) n. Abbr. IC A tiny slice or chip of material on which is etched or imprinted a complex of electronic components and their interconnections. —integrated circuitry n.

in-te-gra-tion (in'tī-grā'shən) n. 1. a. The act or process of integrating. b. The state of becoming integrated. 2. The bringing of people of different racial or ethnic groups into unrestricted and equal association, as in society or an organization; desegregation. 3. Psychology. The organization of the psychological or social traits and tendencies of a personality into a harmonious whole. 4. Mathematics. The process of finding the equation or function of which a given quantity or function is the derivative.

in-te-gra-tion-ist (in'tī-grā'shə-nīst) n. One who advocates or works for social integration. —in'te-gra'tion-ist adj.

in-te-gra-tor (in'tī-grā'tər) n. 1. One that integrates. 2. An instrument for mechanically calculating definite integrals.

in-teg-ri-ty (in-tēg'rī-tē) n. 1. Steadfast adherence to a strict moral or ethical code. See Synonyms at honesty. 2. The state of being unimpaired; soundness. 3. The quality or condition of being whole or undivided; completeness. [Middle in·teg·u·ment (ĭn-tĕg'yōō-mənt) n. 1. A natural outer covering or coat, such as the skin of an animal or the membrane enclosing an organ. 2. Botany. The envelope of an ovule. [Latin integumentum, from integere, to cover : in-, on; see IN-² + tegere, to cover; see (s)teg- in Appendix.] —in·teg'·u·men'ta·ry (-mĕn'tə-rĕ, -mĕn'trĕ) adj.

English integrite, from Old French, from Latin integritās, soundness, from integer, whole, complete. See tag- in Appendix.]

in·tel·lect (ĭn'tl-ĕkt') n. 1. a. The ability to learn and reason; the capacity for knowledge and understanding. b. The ability to think abstractly or profoundly. See Synonyms at mind. 2. A person of great intellectual ability. [Middle English, from Old French intellecte, from Latin intellĕctus, perception, from past participle of intellegere, to perceive. See INTELLIGENT.]

in·tel·lec·tion (ĭn'tl-ĕk'shən) n. 1. The act or process of using the intellect; thinking or reasoning. 2. A thought or an idea. [Middle English intelleccioun, understanding, from Latin intellĕctiō, intellĕctiōn-, synecdoche, from intellĕctus, intellect. See INTELLECT.]

in·tel·lec·tive (ĭn'tl-ĕk'tiv) adj. Of, relating to, or generated by the intellect. —in'tel·lec'tive·ly adv.

in·tel·lec·tron·ics (ĭn'tl-ĕk-trŏn'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb). The use of electronic devices to extend human intellect. [Blend of INTELLECT, and ELECTRONICS.]

in·tel·lec·tu·al (ĭn'tl-ĕk'chōō-əl) adj. 1. a. Of or relating to the intellect. b. Rational rather than emotional. 2. Appealing to or engaging the intellect: an intellectual book; an intellectual problem. 3. a. Having or showing intellect, especially to a high degree. See Synonyms at intelligent. b. Given to exercise of the intellect; inclined toward abstract thinking about aesthetic or philosophical subjects. — n. An intellectual person. [Middle English, from Old French intellectuel, from Late Latin intellĕctuālis, from Latin intellĕctus, intellect. See INTELLECT.] —in'tel·lec'tu·al'i·ty (-āl'ī-tĕ) n. —in'tel·lec'tu·al·ly adv. —in'tel·lec'tu·al·ness n.

in·tel·lec·tu·al·ism (ĭn'tl-ĕk'chōō-ə-lĭz'əm) n. 1. Exercise or application of the intellect. 2. Devotion to exercise or development of the intellect. —in'tel·lec'tu·al·ist n. —in'tel·lec'tu·al·is'tic adj.

in·tel·lec·tu·al·i·za·tion (ĭn'tl-ĕk'chōō-ə-lĭ-zā'shən) n. Psychology. 1. The act or process of intellectualizing. 2. An unconscious means of protecting oneself from the emotional stress and anxiety associated with confronting painful personal fears or problems by excessive reasoning.

in·tel·lec·tu·al·ize (ĭn'tl-ĕk'chōō-ə-lĭz') v. tr. in·tel·lec·tu·al·ized, in·tel·lec·tu·al·iz·ing, in·tel·lec·tu·al·iz·es. 1. To furnish a rational structure or meaning for. 2. To avoid psychological insight into (an emotional problem) by performing an intellectual analysis. —in'tel·lec'tu·al·iz'er n.

in-tel-li-gence (ĭn-tĕl'ə-jəns) n. Abbr. int., I 1. a. The capacity to acquire and apply knowledge. b. The faculty of thought and reason. c. Superior powers of mind. See Synonyms at mind. 2. a. Theology. An intelligent, incorporeal being, especially an angel. b. Intelligence. Christian Science. The primal, eternal quality of God. 3. Information; news. See Synonyms at news. 4. a. Secret information, especially about an actual or potential enemy. b. An agency, a staff, or an office employed in gathering such information. c. Espionage agents, organizations, and activities considered as a group: “Intelligence is nothing if not an institutionalized black market in perishable commodities” (John le Carré).

intelligence quotient (ĭn-tĕl'ə-jəns kwŏ'shənt) n. Abbr. IQ, I.Q. The ratio of tested mental age to chronological age, usually expressed as a quotient multiplied by 100.

in-tel-li-genc-er (ĭn-tĕl'ə-jən-sər, -jĕn'-) n. 1. One who conveys news or information. 2. A secret agent, an informer, or a spy.

intelligence test (ĭn-tĕl'ə-jəns tĕst) n. A standardized test used to establish an intelligence level rating by measuring a subject's ability to form concepts, solve problems, acquire information, reason, and perform other intellectual operations.

in-tel-li-gent (ĭn-tĕl'ə-jənt) adj. 1. Having intelligence. 2. Having a high degree of intelligence; mentally acute. 3. Showing sound judgment and rationality: an intelligent decision; an intelligent solution to the budget problem.

4. Appealing to the intellect; intellectual: a film with witty and intelligent dialogue. 5. Computer Science. Having certain data storage and processing capabilities: an intelligent terminal; intelligent peripherals. [Latin intelligĕns, intelligent-present participle of intellegere, intelligere, to perceive : inter-, inter- + legere, to choose; see leg- in Appendix.] —in-tel'li-gen'tial (-jĕn'shəl) adj.

—in-tel'li-gent-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: intelligent, bright, brilliant, knowing, quick-witted, smart, intellectual. These adjectives mean having or showing mental keenness. Intelligent usually implies the ability to cope with demands arising from novel situations and new problems and to use the power of reasoning and inference effectively: The most intelligent students do additional reading to supplement the material in the textbook. Bright implies quickness or ease in learning: Some children are brighter in one subject than in another. Brilliant suggests unusually impressive mental acuteness: “The dullard's envy of brilliant men is always assuaged by the suspicion that they will come to a bad end” (Max Beerbohm). Knowing implies the possession of knowledge, information, or understanding: Knowing furniture collectors bought American antiques before the prices soared. Quick-witted suggests mental alertness and prompt response: We were successful not because we were quick-witted but because we persevered. Smart refers to quick intelligence and often a ready capability for taking care of one's own interests: The smartest lawyers avoid the appearance of manipulating juries. Intellectual stresses the working of the intellect and especially implies the capacity to grasp difficult or abstract concepts: The scholar's interest in the intellectual and analytical aspect of music didn't prevent her from enjoying concerts.

in·tel·li·gent·si·a (in-těł'ə-jěnt'sē-ə, -gěnt'-) n. The intellectual elite of a society. [Russian intelligentsiya, from Latin intelligentia, intelligence, from intelligēns, intelligent-, intelligent. See INTELLIGENT.]

in·tel·li·gi·ble (in-těł'i-jə-bəl) adj. 1. Capable of being understood: an intelligible set of directions. 2. Capable of being apprehended by the intellect alone. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin intellegibilis, intelligibilis, from intellegere, to perceive. See INTELLIGENT.] —in·tel'li·gi·bil'i·ty, in·tel/li·gi·ble·ness n. —in·tel/li·gi·bly adv.

in·tem·per·ance (in-těm'pər-əns, -prəns) n. 1. Lack of temperance, as in the indulgence of an appetite or a passion. 2. Excessive use of alcoholic beverages.

in·tem·per·ate (in-těm'pər-īt, -prīt) adj. Not temperate or moderate; excessive, especially in the use of alcoholic beverages. —in·tem/per·ate·ly adv.

—in·tem/per·ate·ness n.

in·tend (in-těnd') v. in·tend·ed, in·tend·ing, in·tends. — v. tr. 1. To have in mind; plan: We intend to go. They intend going. You intended that she go.

2. a. To design for a specific purpose. b. To have in mind for a particular use.

3. To signify or mean. — v. intr. To have a design or purpose in mind. [Middle English entenden, from Old French entendre, from Latin intendere: in-, toward; see IN⁻² + tendere, to stretch; see ten- in Appendix.]

in·ten·dance (in-těn'dəns) n. 1. The function of an intendant; management. 2. An administrative office or district.

in·ten·dan·cy (in-těn'dən-sē) n. pl. in·ten·dan·cies. 1. The position or function of an intendant. 2. Intendants considered as a group. 3. The district supervised by an intendant, as in Latin America.

in·ten·dant (in-těn'dənt) n. 1. An administrative official serving a French, Spanish, or Portuguese monarch. 2. A district administrator in some countries of Latin America. [French, from Old French, administrator, from Latin intendēns, intendent- present participle of intendere, to intend. See INTEND.]

in·tend·ed (in-těn'dīd) adj. 1. Deliberate; intentional: "The only option is whether these will be purposeful, intended policies or whether they will be... concealed ones" (Daniel Patrick Moynihan). 2. Prospective; future: an intended trip abroad next month. — n. Informal. A person who is engaged to be married: our daughter and her intended. —in·tend'ed·ly adv.

in·tend·ing (in-těn'dīng) adj. Purposing to become or be; prospective: intending lawyers; an intending contributor.

in·tend·ment (ĭn-tĕnd'mənt) n. The true meaning or intention of something, especially of a law.

in·ten·er·ate (ĭn-tĕn'ə-rāt') v. tr. in·ten·er·at·ed, in·ten·er·at·ing, in·ten·er·ates. To make tender; soften. [IN⁻² + Latin tener, tender; see TENDER¹ + -ATE¹.] —in·ten'er·a'tion n.

in·tense (ĭn-tĕns') adj. in·tens·er, in·tens·est. 1. Possessing or displaying a distinctive feature to an extreme degree: the intense sun of the tropics. 2. Extreme in degree, strength, or size: intense heat. 3. Involving or showing strain or extreme effort: intense concentration. 4. a. Deeply felt; profound: intense emotion. b. Tending to feel deeply: an intense writer. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin intēsus, stretched, intent, from past participle of intendere, to stretch, intend. See INTEND.] —in·tense'ly adv. —in·tense'ness n.

SYNONYMS: intense, fierce, vehement, violent. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “of an extreme kind”: intense emotions; fierce loyalty; vehement dislike; violent rage.

USAGE NOTE: The meanings of intense and intensive overlap considerably, but the two are often subtly distinct. When used to describe human feeling or activity, intense often suggests a strength or concentration that arises from inner dispositions and is particularly appropriate when used to describe emotional states: intense pleasure, dislike, loyalty, and so forth. Intensive is more frequently applied when the strength or concentration of an activity is imposed from without: intensive bombing, training, marketing. Thus a reference to Mark's intense study of German suggests that Mark himself was responsible for the concentrated activity, whereas Mark's intensive study of German suggests that the program in which Mark was studying was designed to cover a great deal of material in a brief period.

in·ten·si·fi·er (ĭn-tĕn'sə-fī'ər) n. Grammar. See intensive.

in·ten·si·fy (ĭn-tĕn'sə-fī') v. in·ten·si·fied, in·ten·si·fy·ing, in·ten·si·fies.

— v. tr. 1. To make intense or more intense: The press has intensified its scrutiny of the candidate's background. 2. To increase the contrast of (a photographic image). — v. intr. To become intense or more intense: The search intensified as dusk approached. —in·ten'si·fi·ca'tion (-fī-kā'shən) n.

in·ten·sion (ĭn-tĕn'shən) n. 1. The state or quality of being intense; intensity. 2. The act of becoming intense or more intense; intensification. 3. Logic. The sum of the attributes contained in a term. [Latin intēnsiō, intēnsiōn-, from intēsus, stretched. See INTENSE.] —in·ten'sion·al adj.

in·ten·si·ty (ĭn-tĕn'sī-tē) n. pl. in·ten·si·ties. 1. Exceptionally great concentration, power, or force. 2. Physics. The amount or degree of strength of electricity, light, heat, or sound per unit area or volume. 3. Color. a. The strength of a color, especially the degree to which it lacks its complementary color. b. See saturation (n., sense 5).

in·ten·sive (in-tĕn'siv) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characterized by intensity: intensive training. See Usage Note at intense. 2. Grammar. Tending to emphasize or intensify: an intensive adverb. 3. Possessing or requiring to a high degree. Often used in combination: research-intensive; labor-intensive. 4. Relating to or being a method especially of land cultivation intended to increase the productivity of a fixed area by means of an increase in capital and labor. 5. Physics. Having the same value for any subdivision of a thermodynamic system: intensive pressure. — n. Grammar. A linguistic element, such as the adverb extremely or awfully, that provides force or emphasis. Also called intensifier —in·ten'sive·ly adv. —in·ten'sive·ness n.

intensive care (in-tĕn'siv kâr) n. Continuous and closely monitored health care that is provided to critically ill patients.

intensive care unit (in-tĕn'siv kâr yōō'nit) n. Abbr. ICU A specialized section of a hospital containing the equipment, medical and nursing staff, and monitoring devices necessary to provide intensive care.

in·tent (in-tĕnt') n. 1. Something that is intended; an aim or a purpose. See Synonyms at intention. 2. Law. The state of one's mind at the time one carries out an action. 3. Meaning; purport. — adj. 1. Firmly fixed; concentrated: an intent gaze. 2. Having the attention applied; engrossed: The students, intent upon their books, did not hear me enter the room. 3. Having the mind and will focused on a specific purpose: was intent on leaving within the hour; are intent upon being recognized. —idiom. for all intents and purposes (or to all intents and purposes). In every practical sense; practically: To all intents and purposes the case is closed. [Middle English entent, from Old French, from Medieval Latin intentus, from Latin, an extending, from intentus, attentive to, strained, from past participle of intendere, to direct attention. See INTEND.] —in·tent'ly adv. —in·tent'ness n.

in·ten·tion (in-tĕn'shən) n. 1. A course of action that one intends to follow. 2. a. An aim that guides action; an objective. b. intentions. Purpose with respect to marriage: honorable intentions. 3. Philosophy. A concept arising from directing the attention toward an object. 4. Medicine. The process by which or the manner in which a wound heals. 5. Archaic. Import; meaning. [Middle English entencioun, from Old French intention, from Latin intentiō, intentiōn-, from intentus, intent, from past participle of intendere, to direct attention. See INTEND.]

SYNONYMS: intention, intent, purpose, goal, end, aim, object, objective. These nouns refer to what one intends to do or achieve. Intention simply signifies a course of action that one proposes to follow: It is not my intention to argue with you. Intent more strongly implies deliberateness: The executor tried to comply with the intent of the testator. Purpose strengthens the idea of resolution or determination: “His purpose was to discover how long these guests intended to stay” (Joseph Conrad). Goal may suggest an idealistic or even a remote purpose: “Black Power... is a call for black people to begin to define their own goals” (Stokely Carmichael and Charles V. Hamilton). End suggests a long-range goal: It has been said that the end justifies the means. Aim stresses the direction one’s efforts take in pursuit of an end: The aim of every performing artist is to achieve perfection of execution. An object is an end that one tries to carry out: “The chief object of the English was to establish... a great empire on the Continent” (Macaulay). Objective often implies that the end or goal can be reached: “A major objective [of political liberalism] is the protection of the economic weak” (Wayne Morse).

in·ten·tion·al (ĭn-tĕnʹshə-nəl) adj. 1. Done deliberately; intended: an intentional slight. See Synonyms at voluntary. 2. Having to do with intention.

—in·tenʹtion·alʹi·ty (-nəlʹĭ-tē) n. —in·tenʹtion·al·ly adv.

intentional community (ĭn-tĕnʹshə-nəl kə-myōōʹnĭ-tē) n. A small, localized, often rural community of persons or families pursuing common interests or concentrating on certain basic values.

in·ter (ĭn-tŭrʹ) v. tr. in·terred, in·ter·ring, in·ters. To place in a grave or tomb; bury. [Middle English enteren, from Old French enterrer, from Medieval Latin interrāre : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin terra, earth; see ters- in Appendix.]

inter. abbr. Intermediate.

inter- pref. 1. Between; among: international. 2. In the midst of; within: intertropical. 3. Mutual; mutually: interrelate. 4. Reciprocal; reciprocally: intermingle. [Middle English entre-, inter-, from Old French entre-, from Latin inter-, from inter, between, among. See en in Appendix.]

in·ter·a·bang (ĭn-tĕrʹə-bāŋgʹ) n. Variant of interrobang.

in·ter·act (ĭnʹtər-ăktʹ) v. intr. in·ter·act·ed, in·ter·act·ing, in·ter·acts. To act on each other: “More than a dozen variable factors could interact, with their permutations running into the thousands” (Tom Clancy).

in·ter·ac·tion (ĭnʹtər-ăkʹshən) n. 1. a. The act or process of interacting. b. The state of undergoing interaction. 2. Physics. Any of four fundamental ways in which elementary particles and bodies can influence each other, classified as strong, weak, electromagnetic, and gravitational.

in·ter·ac·tive (ĭnʹtər-ăkʹtĭv) adj. 1. Acting or capable of acting on each other. 2. Computer Science. Of or relating to a two-way electronic or communications system in which response is direct and continual. 3. Of, relating to, or being a form of television entertainment in which the signal activates electronic apparatus in the viewer’s home or the viewer uses the apparatus to affect events on the screen, or both. —inʹter·acʹtive·ly adv.

interactive terminal (ɪn'tər-äk'tɪv tʊr'mə-nəl) n. Computer Science. A computer or data-processing terminal capable of providing a two-way communication with the system to which it is connected.

in-ter-a-gen-cy (ɪn'tər-ā'jən-sē) adj. Involving or representing two or more agencies, especially government agencies.

in-ter a-li-a (ɪn'tər ā'lē-ə, ä'lē-ə) adv. Among other things. [Latin : inter, among + alia, neuter accusative pl. of alius, other.]

inter a-li-os (ɪn-tʊr' ā'lē-ōs', ä'lē-ōs') adv. Among other persons. [Latin : inter, among + aliōs, masculine accusative pl. of alius.]

in-ter-a-tom-ic (ɪn'tər-ə-təm'ɪk) adj. Occurring, operating, or situated between atoms.

in-ter-bank (ɪn'tər-bāŋk') adj. Relating to, involving, or connecting two or more banks: interbank borrowing; an interbank network of automated teller machines.

in-ter-brain (ɪn'tər-brān') n. See diencephalon.

in-ter-breed (ɪn'tər-brēd') v. in-ter-bred (-brēd'), in-ter-breed-ing, in-ter-breeds. — v. intr. 1. To breed with another kind or species; hybridize. 2. To breed within a narrow range or with closely related types or individuals; inbreed. — v. tr. To cause to interbreed.

in-ter-ca-lar-y (ɪn-tʊr'kə-lər'ē, ɪn'tər-kəl'ə-rē) adj. 1. a. Inserted in the calendar to make the calendar year correspond to the solar year. Used of a day or month. b. Having such a day or month inserted. Used of a year. 2. Inserted between other elements or parts; interpolated. [Latin intercalārius, intercalāris, from intercalāre, to intercalate. See INTERCALATE.]

in-ter-ca-late (ɪn-tʊr'kə-lāt') v. tr. in-ter-ca-lat-ed, in-ter-ca-lat-ing, in-ter-ca-lates. 1. To insert (a day or month) in a calendar. 2. To insert, interpose, or interpolate. [Latin intercalāre, intercalāt- : inter-, inter- + calāre, to proclaim; see kelə-² in Appendix.] — in-ter/ca-la'tion n. — in-ter/ca-la'tive adj.

in-ter-cede (ɪn'tər-sēd') v. intr. in-ter-ced-ed, in-ter-ced-ing, in-ter-cedes. 1. To plead on another's behalf. 2. To act as mediator in a dispute. [Latin intercēdere, to intervene : inter-, inter- + cēdere, to go; see ked- in Appendix.]

— in'ter-ced'er n.

in-ter-cel-lu-lar (ɪn'tər-səl'yə-lər) adj. Biology. Located among or between cells: intercellular fluid.

in-ter-cept (ɪn'tər-sēpt') v. tr. in-ter-cept-ed, in-ter-cept-ing, in-ter-cepts. 1. a. To stop, deflect, or interrupt the progress or intended course of: intercepted me with a message as I was leaving. b. Sports. To take possession of by catching (an opponent's ball), especially in football. 2. Mathematics. To include or bound (a part of a space or curve) between two points or lines. 3. Archaic. To prevent. 4. Obsolete. To cut off from access or communication. — n. (ɪn'tər-sēpt') Abbr. int. 1. Mathematics. The distance from the origin to the point at which a line, curve, or surface intersects a coordinate axis. 2. a. The interception of a missile by another missile or an aircraft by another aircraft. b. Interception of a radio transmission. 3. An interceptor. [Middle English intercepten, from Latin intercipere, intercept- : inter-, inter- + capere, to seize; see kap- in Appendix.]

—in'ter-cep'tive adj.

in·ter·cept·er (ɪn'tər-sɛp'tər) n. Variant of interceptor.

in·ter·cep·tion (ɪn'tər-sɛp'shən) n. 1. The act of intercepting or the state of being intercepted. 2. Something, such as a missile, an aircraft, or a radio transmission, that is intercepted. 3. Sports. A pass that is intercepted, especially a forward pass in football.

in·ter·cep·tor also in·ter·cept·er (ɪn'tər-sɛp'tər) n. One that intercepts, specifically a fast-climbing, highly maneuverable fighter plane designed to intercept enemy aircraft or a guided missile designed to intercept enemy missiles and spacecraft.

in·ter·ces·sion (ɪn'tər-sɛsh'ən) n. 1. Entreaty in favor of another, especially a prayer or petition to God in behalf of another. 2. Mediation in a dispute. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin intercessiō, intercessiōn-, intervention, from intercessus, past participle of intercēdere, to intervene. See INTERCEDE.]

—in'ter-ces'sion·al adj. —in'ter-ces'sor (-sɛs'ər) n. —in'ter-ces'so·ry adj.

in·ter·change (ɪn'tər-čhānj') v. in·ter·changed, in·ter·chang·ing, in·ter·chang·es. — v. tr. 1. To switch each of (two things) into the place of the other. 2. To give and receive mutually; exchange. 3. To cause to succeed each other in a series or pattern; alternate: interchanged gold and silver beads in the bracelet. — v. intr. 1. To change places with each other. 2. To succeed each other; alternate. — n. (ɪn'tər-čhānj') 1. The act or process of interchanging. 2. A highway intersection designed to permit traffic to move freely from one road to another without crossing another line of traffic. [Middle English enterchaungen, from Old French entrechangier, to change : entre-, between (from Latin inter-); see INTER- + changier, to change; see CHANGE.] —in'ter·chang'er n.

in·ter·change·a·ble (ɪn'tər-čhānj'jə-bəl) adj. That can be interchanged: interchangeable items of clothing; interchangeable automotive parts.

—in'ter·change'a·bil'i·ty, in'ter·change'a·ble·ness n.

—in'ter·change'a·bly adv.

in·ter·cit·y (ɪn'tər-sɪt'ē) adj. Relating to, involving, or connecting two or more cities: intercity rivalry; an intercity bus.

in·ter·clav·i·cle (ɪn'tər-klāv'ī-kəl) n. A bone located in front of the sternum and between the clavicles in certain vertebrates, such as reptiles and amphibians. —in'ter·clav·ic'u·lar (-klə-vīk'yə-lər) adj.

in·ter·coast·al (ɪn'tər-kōs'təl) adj. Relating to, involving, or connecting two or more coastlines: intercoastal trade.

in·ter·col·le·giate (ɪn'tər-kə-lē'jīt, -jē-īt) adj. Involving or representing two or more colleges.

in·ter·co·lum·ni·a·tion (ɪn'tər-kə-lŭm'nē-ā'shən) n. 1. The open spaces between the columns in a colonnade. 2. The system by which the columns in a colonnade are spaced.

in·ter·com (ɪn'tər-kŏm') n. An electronic intercommunication system, as between two rooms. [Short for INTERCOMMUNICATION.]

in·ter·com·mu·nal (ɪn'tər-kə-myōō'nəl) adj. Existing or occurring between communities: intercommunal strife; intercommunal negotiations.

in·ter·com·mu·ni·cate (ɪn'tər-kə-myōō'nī-kāt') v. intr.

in·ter·com·mu·ni·cat·ed, in·ter·com·mu·ni·cat·ing, in·ter·com·mu·ni·cates. 1. To communicate with each other. 2. To be connected or adjoined, as rooms or passages. —in'ter·com·mu'ni·ca'tion n.

—in'ter·com·mu'ni·ca'tive (-kā'tiv, -kə-tiv) adj.

in·ter·com·mun·ion (ɪn'tər-kə-myōōn'yən) n. 1. Communion, relationship, or association between persons or groups. 2. The practice by which members of different Christian denominations can receive Communion at one another's Eucharistic services or at a common service.

in·ter·con·nect (ɪn'tər-kə-nĕkt') v. in·ter·con·nect·ed, in·ter·con·nect·ing, in·ter·con·nects. — v. intr. To be connected with each other: The two buildings interconnect. — v. tr. To connect reciprocally: tried to interconnect the two theories. —in'ter·con·nect'ed·ness n.

—in'ter·con·nect'i·ble, in'ter·con·nect'a·ble adj. —in'ter·con·nec'tion n.

in·ter·con·ti·nen·tal (ɪn'tər-kŏn'tə-nĕn'tl) adj. 1. Extending or taking place between or among continents: intercontinental exploration; intercontinental cooperation. 2. Having the capability of traveling from one continent to another: an intercontinental ballistic missile; an intercontinental airline.

in·ter·con·ver·sion (ɪn'tər-kən-vŭr'zhən, -shən) n. Mutual conversion.

—in'ter·con·vert' v. —in'ter·con·vert'i·bil'i·ty n. —in'ter·con·vert'i·ble adj.

in·ter·cool·er (ɪn'tər-kōō'lər) n. A device for cooling a fluid between successive heating stages. —in'ter·cool' v.

in·ter·cos·tal (ɪn'tər-kŏs'təl) adj. Located or occurring between the ribs. — n. A space, muscle, or part situated between the ribs. [New Latin intercostālis: INTER- + Latin costa, rib; see kost- in Appendix.]

in·ter·course (ɪn'tər-kŏrs', -kōrs') n. 1. Dealings or communications between persons or groups. 2. Sexual intercourse. [Middle English entercours, commercial dealings, from Old French entrecours, from Latin intercursus, a running between, interposition, from past participle of intercurrere, to mingle with : inter-, inter- + currere, to run; see kers- in Appendix.]

in·ter·crop (in'tər-krɒp') v. in·ter·cropped, in·ter·crop·ping, in·ter·crops.
— v. intr. To grow more than one crop in the same field, especially in alternating rows. — v. tr. To plant (a crop) in the same field with another. — in'tər·crop' n.

in·ter·cul·tur·al (in'tər-kŭl'chər-əl) adj. Of, relating to, involving, or representing different cultures: an intercultural marriage; intercultural exchange in the arts.

in·ter·cur·rent (in'tər-kŭr'ənt, -kŭr'-) adj. Pathology. Occurring at the same time as and usually altering the course of another disease. [Latin intercurrēns, intercurrent- present participle of intercurrere, to mingle with. See INTERCOURSE.]

in·ter·cut (in'tər-küt') v. tr. in·ter·cut, in·ter·cut·ting, in·ter·cuts. To insert or alternate (scenes or camera shots) in a film sequence to achieve dramatic contrast or follow two or more actions taking place simultaneously. — in'tər·cut' adj.

in·ter·de·nom·i·na·tion·al (in'tər-də-nŏm'ə-nā'shə-nəl) adj. Of or involving different religious denominations.

in·ter·den·tal (in'tər-dĕn'tl) adj. 1. Located or made for use between the teeth. 2. Linguistics. Pronounced with the tip of the tongue between the teeth, as (th) in that or (th) in thumb. — n. Linguistics. An interdental consonant.

in·ter·de·part·men·tal (in'tər-dĕ'pärt-mĕn'tl) adj. Involving or representing different departments, as of a business, an academic institution, or a government: “the petty interdepartmental squabbling that surrounds the making of... foreign policy” (Morton A. Reichel).

in·ter·de·pend·ent (in'tər-dĭ-pĕn'dənt) adj. Mutually dependent: “Today, the mission of one institution can be accomplished only by recognizing that it lives in an interdependent world with conflicts and overlapping interests” (Jacqueline Grennan Wexler). — in'tər·de·pend'ence, in'tər·de·pend'en·cy n.

in·ter·dict (in'tər-dĭkt') v. tr. in·ter·dict·ed, in·ter·dict·ing, in·ter·dicts.

1. To prohibit or place under an ecclesiastical or legal sanction. 2. To forbid or debar, especially authoritatively. See Synonyms at forbid. 3. a. To cut or destroy (a line of communication) by firepower so as to halt an enemy's advance. b. To confront and halt the activities, advance, or entry of: “the role of the FBI in interdicting spies attempting to pass US secrets to the Soviet Union” (Christian Science Monitor). — n. (in'tər-dĭkt') 1. Law. A prohibition by court order. 2. Roman Catholic Church. An ecclesiastical censure that excludes a person or district from participation in most sacraments and from Christian burial. [Alteration of Middle English enterditen, to place under a church ban, from Old French entredit, past participle of entredire, to forbid, from Latin interdicere, interdict- : inter-, inter- + dīcere, to say; see deik- in Appendix.] — in'tər·dic'tion n.

—in'ter-dic'tive, in'ter-dic'to-ry (-dīk'tə-rē) adj. —in'ter-dic'tive-ly adv.

—in'ter-dic'tor n.

in·ter·dis·ci·pli·nar·y (in'tər-dīs'ə-plə-nēr'ē) adj. Of, relating to, or involving two or more academic disciplines that are usually considered distinct.

in·ter·est (in'trĭst, -tər-ĭst, -trĕst') n. Abbr. i., int. 1. a. A state of curiosity or concern about or attention to something: an interest in sports. b. Something, such as a quality, a subject, or an activity, that evokes this mental state: counts the theater among his interests. 2. Often interests. Regard for one's own benefit or advantage; self-interest: It is in your best interest to cooperate. She kept her own interests in mind. 3. a. A right, claim, or legal share: an interest in the new company. b. Something in which such a right, claim, or share is held: has interests overseas. c. A person or group of persons holding such a right, claim, or share: a petroleum interest. 4. Involvement with or participation in something: She has an interest in the quality of her education. 5. a. A charge for a loan, usually a percentage of the amount loaned. b. An excess or a bonus beyond what is expected or due. 6. a. An interest group. b. The particular cause supported by an interest group. — v. tr. in·ter·est·ed, in·ter·est·ing, in·ter·ests. 1. To arouse the curiosity or hold the attention of: Your opinions interest me. 2. To cause to become involved or concerned with: tried to interest her in taking a walk.

3. Obsolete. To concern or affect. —idiom. in the interest of (or in the interests of). To the advantage of; for the sake of: thinking in the interest of the whole family; ate breakfast on the train in the interest of time. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin, it is of importance, 3rd person sing. present tense of interesse, to be between, take part in : inter-, inter- + esse, to be; see es- in Appendix.]

in·ter·est·ed (in'trĭ-stĭd, -tər-ĭ-stĭd, -tə-rĕs'tĭd) adj. 1. Having or showing curiosity, fascination, or concern: I'm interested to hear about your family.

2. Possessing a right, claim, or stake: an interested party in the estate. See Usage Note at disinterested. —in'ter·est·ed·ly adv. —in'ter·est·ed·ness n.

interest group (in'trĭst grōp) n. A group of persons working on behalf of or strongly supporting a particular cause, such as an item of legislation, an industry, or a special segment of society. —in'ter·est·group' (in'trĭst-grōp', -tər-ĭst, -trĕst-) adj.

in·ter·est·ing (in'trĭ-stĭng, -tər-ĭ-stĭng, -tə-rĕs'tĭng) adj. Arousing or holding the attention; absorbing. —in'ter·est·ing·ly adv.

in·ter·face (in'tər-fās') n. 1. A surface forming a common boundary between adjacent regions, bodies, substances, or phases. 2. A point at which independent systems or diverse groups interact: "the interface between crime and politics where much of our reality is to be found" (Jack Kroll). 3. Computer Science. The point of interaction or communication between a computer and any other entity, such as a printer or human operator. — v. in·ter·faced, in·ter·fac·ing, in·ter·fac·es in-ter-fac-ing (ɪn'tər-fā'sɪŋ) n. A piece of firm fabric or other material inserted and usually sewn between the layers of a garment to thicken or stiffen it.

(ɪn'tər-fās'). — v. tr. 1. To join by means of an interface. 2. To serve as an interface for. — v. intr. 1. To serve as an interface or become interfaced. 2. To interact or coordinate smoothly: “Theatergoers were lured out of their seats and interfaced with the scenery” (New York Times). — in'ter-fa'cial adj.

in-ter-faith (ɪn'tər-fāth') adj. Of, relating to, or involving persons of different religious faiths: an interfaith marriage; an interfaith forum.

in-ter-fas-cic-u-lar cambium (ɪn'tər-fə-sɪk'yə-lər kəm'bē-əm) n. Botany. The cambium arising between the vascular bundles.

in-ter-ferē (ɪn'tər-fîr') v. intr. in-ter-fered, in-ter-fer-ing, in-ter-feres.

1. To come between so as to be a hindrance or an obstacle: loud talking that interfered with the other patrons' conversations; assistance that only interfered.

2. Sports. To perform an act of interference. 3. To intervene or intrude in the affairs of others; meddle. 4. To strike one hoof against the opposite hoof or leg while moving. Used of a horse. 5. Physics & Electronics. To cause interference.

[Middle English enterferen, from Old French s'entreferer, to strike one another : entre-, between (from Latin inter-); see INTER- + ferir, to strike (from Latin ferire).] — in'ter-fer'er n. — in'ter-fer'ing-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: interfere, meddle, tamper. These verbs are compared as they mean to put oneself forward and intervene in the affairs of others when unasked to do so and often in an impudent or indiscreet manner. Interfere and meddle are sometimes interchangeable. Meddle, however, is the stronger in implying unwanted, unwarranted, or unnecessary intrusion: “wholly unacquainted with the world in which they are so fond of meddling” (Edmund Burke). It is somewhat weaker than interfere in implying action that seriously hampers, hinders, or frustrates: “It was his peculiar doctrine that a man has a perfect right to interfere by force with the slaveholder, in order to rescue the slave” (Henry David Thoreau). To tamper is to interfere by making unsought, unwelcome, often destructive changes or by trying to influence another in an improper way: “a large number of persons accused of... tampering with ballot boxes” (James Bryce). “He began another practice, to tamper with the justices” (John Strype).

in-ter-fer-ence (ɪn'tər-fîr'əns) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of hindering, obstructing, or impeding. b. Something that hinders, obstructs, or impedes. 2. a. Sports. Illegal obstruction or hindrance of the ball or of an opposing player, especially hindrance of a receiver in football. b. Football. The legal blocking of defensive tacklers to protect and make way for the ball carrier. 3. Physics. The variation of wave amplitude that occurs when waves of the same or nearly the same frequency come together. 4. Electronics. a. The inhibition or prevention of clear reception of broadcast signals. b. The distorted portion of a received signal.

—in'ter-fer-en'tial (-fə-rĕn'shəl) adj.

in-ter-fe-rom-e-ter (in'tər-fə-rōm'ī-tər) n. Any of several optical, acoustic, or radio frequency instruments that use interference phenomena between a reference wave and an experimental wave or between two parts of an experimental wave to determine wavelengths and wave velocities, measure very small distances and thicknesses, and measure indices of refraction. —in'ter-fer'o-met'ric (-fîr'ə-mĕt'rĭk) adj. —in'ter-fer'o-met'ri-cal-ly adv. —in'ter-fe-rom'e-try n.

in-ter-fer-on (in'tər-fîr'ŏn') n. Any of a group of glycoproteins produced by cells in response to infection by a virus that act to prevent viral replication and have the ability to induce resistance to viral antigens. [INTERFER(E) + -ON³.]

in-ter-fer-tile (in'tər-fîr'tl) adj. Capable of interbreeding.

—in'ter-fer-til'i-ty (-fîr-tĭl'ī-tĕ) n.

in-ter-fluve (in'tər-flōv') n. The region of higher land between two rivers that are in the same drainage system. [Back-formation from INTERFLUVIAL.]

—in'ter-flu'vi-al adj.

in-ter-ga-lac-tic (in'tər-gə-lăk'tĭk) adj. Being or occurring between galaxies: intergalactic space. —in'ter-ga-lac'ti-cal-ly adv.

in-ter-gen-er-a-tion-al (in'tər-jĕn'ə-rā'shə-nəl) adj. Being or occurring between generations: “These social-insurance programs are intergenerational and all Americans benefit from their success” (Claude D. Pepper).

in-ter-gla-cial (in'tər-glā'shəl) adj. Occurring between glacial epochs. — n. A comparatively short period of warmth during an overall period of glaciation.

in-ter-gov-ern-men-tal (in'tər-gŭv'ərn-mĕn'tl) adj. Being or occurring between two or more governments or divisions of a government.

—in'ter-gov'ern-men'tal-ly adv.

in-ter-grade (in'tər-grād') v. intr. in-ter-grad-ed, in-ter-grad-ing, in-ter-grades. To merge into each other in a series of stages, forms, or types.

— n. (in'tər-grād') A transitional stage, form, or type. —in'ter-gra-da'tion (-grā-dā'shən) n.

in-ter-group (in'tər-grōp') adj. Being or occurring between two or more social groups: intergroup relations; intergroup violence.

in-ter-im (in'tər-ĭm) n. Abbr. int. An interval of time between one event, process, or period and another. — adj. Belonging to, serving during, or taking place during an intermediate interval of time; temporary: an interim agreement. See Synonyms at temporary. [From Latin, in the meantime. See en in Appendix.]

in-ter-i-on-ic (in'tər-ī-ŏn'ĭk) adj. Chemistry & Physics. Located or occurring between ions.

in-te-ri-or (in-tîr'ē-ər) adj. Abbr. int. 1. Of, relating to, or located on the inside; inner. 2. Of or relating to one's mental or spiritual being: “She thinks she has no soul, no interior life, but the truth is that she has no access to it" (David Denby).

3. Situated away from a coast or border; inland. — n. Abbr. int. 1. The internal portion or area. 2. One's mental or spiritual life. 3. The inland part of a political or geographic entity. 4. The internal affairs of a country or nation. 5. A representation of the inside of a building or room, as in a photograph. [Ultimately Latin, comparative adj. of inter, between. See en in Appendix.] —in·te'ri-or'i-ty (-ôr'î-tē, -ôr'-) n. —in·te'ri-or-ly adv.

interior angle (ÿn-tîr'ē-ər äng'gəl) n. Mathematics. 1. Any of the four angles formed between two straight lines intersected by a third straight line. 2. The angle formed inside a polygon by two adjacent sides.

interior decoration (ÿn-tîr'ē-ər dĕk'ə-rā'shən) n. The planning and execution of the layout, decoration, and furnishing of an architectural interior. Also called interior design —interior decorator n.

in·te·ri·or·ize (ÿn-tîr'ē-ə-rîz') v. tr. in·te·ri·or·ized, in·te·ri·or·iz·ing, in·te·ri·or·iz·es. To cause (feelings, for example) to become an interior or internal part of one's mental or spiritual being; internalize: "In a number of earlier movies, [he] interiorized emotion so much that he became inexpressive" (Pauline Kael).

interior monologue (ÿn-tîr'ē-ər mŏn'ə-lŏg') n. A passage of writing presenting a character's inner thoughts and emotions in a direct, sometimes disjointed or fragmentary manner.

In·te·ri·or Salish (ÿn-tîr'ē-ər sāl'lish) n. A group of Salish-speaking Native American peoples inhabiting parts of British Columbia, northern Washington, northern Idaho, and western Montana. Also called Flathead in·ter·is·land (ÿn'tər-ī'lənd) adj. Relating to, involving, or connecting two or more islands: interisland competition; interisland ferries.

interj. abbr. Interjection.

in·ter·ject (ÿn'tər-jĕkt') v. tr. in·ter·ject·ed, in·ter·ject·ing, in·ter·jects. To insert between other elements; interpose. See Synonyms at introduce. [Latin interŭcere, interŭect- : inter-, inter- + iacere, to throw; see yĕ- in Appendix.] —in·ter·jec'tor n. —in'ter·jec'to·ry (-jĕk'tə-rĕ) adj.

in·ter·jec·tion (ÿn'tər-jĕk'shən) n. 1. A sudden, short utterance; an ejaculation. 2. Abbr. interj., int. A part of speech usually expressing emotion and capable of standing alone, such as Ugh! or Wow! —in'ter·jec'tion·al adj. —in'ter·jec'tion·al·ly adv.

in·ter·lace (ÿn'tər-lās') v. in·ter·laced, in·ter·lac·ing, in·ter·lac·es. — v. tr. 1. To connect by or as if by lacing together; interweave. 2. To intersperse; intermix: interlaced the testimony with half-truths. — v. intr. To intertwine: "As the earth thaws, numberless little streams are formed to overlap and interlace with one another" (Joyce Carol Oates). —in'ter·lace'ment n.

In·ter·la·ken (in'tər-lä'kən, in'tər-lä'-) A town of west-central Switzerland southeast of Bern. It is a popular resort in the Bernese Alps. Population, 4,852.

in·ter·lam·i·nate (in'tər-läm'ə-nāt') v. tr. in·ter·lam·i·nat·ed, in·ter·lam·i·nat·ing, in·ter·lam·i·nates. 1. To insert between layers. 2. To arrange in alternating layers. —in'tər·lam'i·na'tion n.

in·ter·lan·guage (in'tər-läng'gwij) n. 1. The type of language produced by nonnative speakers in the process of learning a second language or foreign language. 2. A lingua franca.

in·ter·lard (in'tər-lärd') v. tr. in·ter·lard·ed, in·ter·lard·ing, in·ter·lards. To insert something foreign into: interlarded the narrative with witty remarks. See Synonyms at introduce. [Middle English interlarden, to mix fat into, from Old French entrelarder: entre-, between (from Latin inter-); see INTER- + larder, to lard (from lard, lard); see LARD.]

in·ter·leaf (in'tər-lēf') n. pl. in·ter·leaves (-lēvz'). Printing. A blank leaf inserted between the regular pages of a book.

in·ter·leave (in'tər-lēv') v. tr. in·ter·leaved, in·ter·leav·ing, in·ter·leaves. Printing. To provide with interleaves or an interleaf.

in·ter·leu·kin-1 (in'tər-lōō'kīn-wūn') n. Abbr. IL-1 Any of a group of protein substances, released by macrophages and other cells, that induce the production of interleukin-2 by helper T cells and stimulate the inflammatory response.

[INTER- + Greek leukos, white; see LEUKO- + -IN-.]

in·ter·leu·kin-2 (in'tər-lōō'kīn-tōō') n. Abbr. IL-2 A lymphokine that is released by helper T cells in response to an antigen and interleukin-1 and stimulates the proliferation of helper T cells. It has been used experimentally to treat cancer.

in·ter·li·brar·y (in'tər-lī'brēr'ē) adj. Existing or occurring between or involving two or more libraries: an interlibrary loan; an interlibrary network.

in·ter·line¹ (in'tər-līn') v. tr. in·ter·lined, in·ter·lin·ing, in·ter·lines. To insert between printed or written lines. —in'tər·lin'e·a'tion (-līn'ē-ā'shən) n.

in·ter·line² (in'tər-līn') v. tr. in·ter·lined, in·ter·lin·ing, in·ter·lines. To fit (a garment) with an interlining.

in·ter·lin·e·ar (in'tər-līn'ē-ər) adj. Printing. 1. Inserted between the lines of a text. 2. Written or printed with different languages or versions in alternating lines.

In·ter·lin·gua (in'tər-līng'gwə) n. An artificial language developed between 1924 and 1951, based mainly on the Romance languages and intended as a medium of international communication among scientists. [INTER- + Latin lingua, language; see LINGUA.]

in·ter·lin·ing (in'tər-lī'nīng) n. An extra lining between the outer fabric and regular lining of a garment.

in-ter-link (ɪn'tər-lɪŋk') v. tr. in-ter-linked, in-ter-link-ing, in-ter-links. To link together or join (one) with another: The policies, though distinct, are inter-linked.

in-ter-lock (ɪn'tər-lɒk') v. in-ter-locked, in-ter-lock-ing, in-ter-locks. — v. tr. 1. To unite or join closely as by hooking or dovetailing. 2. To connect together (parts of a mechanism, for example) so that the motion or operation of individual parts affect each other. — v. intr. To become united or joined closely, as by hooking or dovetailing. — n. Computer Science. (ɪn'tər-lɒk') A device or an instruction that coordinates two or more processes and prevents one operation from interfering with another.

in-ter-lo-cu-tion (ɪn'tər-lō-kyōō'shən) n. Speech between two or more persons; conversation. [Latin interlocūtiō, interlocūtiōn-, from interlocūtus, past participle of interloquī, to interrupt : inter-, inter- + loquī, to speak; see talk^w- in Appendix.]

in-ter-loc-u-tor (ɪn'tər-lɒk'yə-tər) n. 1. Someone who takes part in a conversation, often formally or officially. 2. The performer in a minstrel show who is placed midway between the end men and engages in banter with them.

in-ter-loc-u-to-ry (ɪn'tər-lɒk'yə-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) adj. Law. Pronounced or decided during the course of an action or a suit and merely temporary or provisional in nature: an interlocutory decree.

in-ter-lo-per (ɪn'tər-lō'pər) n. 1. One that interferes with the affairs of others, often for selfish reasons; a meddler. 2. Archaic. a. One that trespasses on a trade monopoly, as by conducting unauthorized trade in an area designated to a chartered company. b. A ship or other vessel used in such trade. [INTER- + probably Middle Dutch loper, runner (from loopen, to run).] —in'ter-lope' v.

WORD HISTORY: The word interloper comes to us from the days when England was embarking on the course that would lead to the British Empire. Interloper, first recorded in connection with the Muscovy Company, which was the earliest major English trading company (chartered in 1555), was soon being used as well in regard to the East India Company (chartered in 1600). Since these companies were monopolies, independent traders called interlopers were not wanted. The term is probably partly derived from Dutch, the language of one of the great trade rivals of the English at that time. The inter- is simply a use of the prefix inter-, which English has borrowed from Latin, meaning “between, among.” The element -loper is probably related to the same element in landloper, “vagabond,” a word adopted from Dutch landlooper, with the same sense and composed of land, “land,” and loper, from lopen, “to run, leap.” The word interloper, first recorded around 1590, was too useful in a world of busybodies to be restricted to its original specialized sense and came to be used in the extended sense “busy-body” in the 17th century.

in·ter·lude (in'tər-lōd') n. 1. An intervening episode, feature, or period of time: “Kerensky has a place in history, of a brief interlude between despotisms” (William Safire). 2. a. A short farcical entertainment performed between the acts of a medieval mystery or morality play. b. A 16th-century genre of comedy derived from this. c. An entertainment between the acts of a play. 3. Music. A short piece inserted between the parts of a longer composition. [Middle English enterlude, a dramatic entertainment, from Old French entrelude, from Medieval Latin interlūdium: Latin inter-, inter- + Latin lūdus, play; see leid- in Appendix.]

in·ter·lu·nar (in'tər-lō'nər) adj. Of or relating to the four-day period between the old and new moon when the moon is not visible.

in·ter·mar·ry (in'tər-mär'ē) v. intr. in·ter·mar·ried, in·ter·mar·ry·ing, in·ter·mar·ries. 1. To marry a member of another group. 2. To be bound together by the marriages of members. 3. To marry within one's family, tribe, or clan. — in'ter·mar'riage (-mär'ij) n.

in·ter·med·dle (in'tər-měd'l) v. intr. in·ter·med·dled, in·ter·med·dling, in·ter·med·dles. To interfere in the affairs of others, often officiously; meddle. [Middle English entermedden, from Old French entremedler: entre-, between (from Latin inter-); see INTER- + medler, to mix; see MEDDLE.] — in'ter·med'dler n.

in·ter·me·di·ar·y (in'tər-mē'dē-ēr'ē) adj. 1. Existing or occurring between; intermediate. 2. Acting as a mediator or an agent between persons or things. — n. pl. in·ter·me·di·ar·ies. 1. One that acts as a mediator. 2. One that acts as an agent between persons or things; a means. 3. An intermediate state or stage. [Probably French intermédiaire, from Late Latin intermedius, intermediate. See INTERMEDIATE.]

in·ter·me·di·ate (in'tər-mē'dē-īt) adj. Abbr. inter., int. Lying or occurring between two extremes or in a middle position or state: an aircraft having an intermediate range; an intermediate school. — n. Abbr. inter., int. 1. One that is in a middle position or state. 2. An intermediary. 3. Chemistry. A substance formed as a necessary stage in the manufacture of a desired end product. 4. An automobile that is smaller than a full-sized model but larger than a compact. — v. intr. in·ter·me·di·at·ed, in·ter·me·di·at·ing, in·ter·me·di·ates (-āt'). 1. To act as an intermediary; mediate. 2. To intervene. [Middle English, from Medieval Latin intermediātus, from Latin intermedius: Latin inter-, inter- + Latin medius, middle; see medhyo- in Appendix.] — in'ter·me'di·a·cy n.

— in'ter·me'di·ate·ly adv. — in'ter·me'di·ate·ness n.

— in'ter·me'di·a'tion n. — in'ter·me'di·a'tor n.

in·ter·me·din (in'tər-mēd'n) n. See melanocyte-stimulating hormone.

[New Latin (pars) intermed(ia), middle part of the hypophysis from Latin, feminine of intermedius; see INTERMEDIATE + -IN.]

in·ter·ment (in-tūr'mənt) n. The act or ritual of interring or burying.

in·ter·mez·zo (in'tər-mět'sō, -mēd'zō) n. pl. in·ter·mez·zos or in·ter·mez·zi (-sē, -zē). 1. A brief entertainment between two acts of a play; an entr'acte. 2. Music. a. A short movement separating the major sections of a lengthy composition or work. b. An independent instrumental composition having the character of such a movement. [Italian, from Latin intermedius, intermediate. See INTERMEDIATE.]

in·ter·mi·na·ble (in-tūr'mə-nə-bəl) adj. 1. Being or seeming to be without an end; endless. See Synonyms at continual. 2. Tiresomely long; wearisome.

—in·ter'mi·na·bil'i·ty n. —in·ter'mi·na·bly adv.

in·ter·min·gle (in'tər-mīng'gəl) v. tr. intr. in·ter·min·gled, in·ter·min·gling, in·ter·min·gles. To mix or become mixed together.

in·ter·mis·sion (in'tər-mīsh'ən) n. 1. The act of intermitting or the state of being intermitted. 2. A respite or recess. 3. The period between the acts of a theatrical or musical performance. See Synonyms at pause. [Middle English intermissioun, from Old French intermission, from Latin intermissiō, intermissiōn-, from intermissus, past participle of intermittere, to interrupt. See INTERMIT.]

in·ter·mit (in'tər-mīt') v. intr. tr. in·ter·mit·ted, in·ter·mit·ting, in·ter·mits. To suspend or cause to suspend activity temporarily or periodically.

[Latin intermittere: inter-, inter- + mittere, to let go.] —in'ter·mit'ter n.

in·ter·mit·tent (in'tər-mīt'nt) adj. 1. Stopping and starting at intervals. See Synonyms at periodic. 2. Alternately containing and empty of water: an intermittent lake. —in'ter·mit'tence n. —in'ter·mit'tent·ly adv.

intermittent current (in'tər-mīt'nt kūr'ənt) n. A periodically interrupted unidirectional electric current.

in·ter·mix (in'tər-mīks') v. tr. intr. in·ter·mixed, in·ter·mix·ing, in·ter·mix·es. To mix or become mixed together. [Back-formation from intermixt (obsolete variant of INTERMIXED), from Latin intermīxtus, past participle of intermiscēre, to mix together: inter-, inter- + miscēre, to mix; see MIX.]

in·tern also in·terne (in'tūr'n') n. 1. An advanced student or a recent graduate undergoing supervised practical training. 2. One who is interned; an internee.

— v. in·terned, in·tern·ing, in·terns. — v. intr. To train or serve as an intern.

— v. tr. (also in-tūr'n') To confine, especially in wartime. — adj. (in-tūr'n') Archaic. Internal. [French interne, from Latin internus, internal. See INTERNAL.] —in'tern·ship n.

in·ter·nal (in-tūr'nəl) adj. Abbr. int. 1. Of, relating to, or located within the limits or surface; inner. 2. Residing in or dependent on essential nature; intrinsic: the internal contradictions of the theory. 3. Located, acting, or effective within the body. 4. Of or relating to mental or spiritual nature: “An internal sense of righteousness dwindles into an external concern for reputation” (A.R. Gurney, Jr.).

5. Of or relating to the domestic affairs of a nation, group, or business. [Middle English internall, from Old French internel, from Medieval Latin internālis, from Latin internus, from inter, within. See en in Appendix.] —in'ter-nal/i-ty (-nəl'ī-tē) n. —in-ter'nal-ly adv.

in-ter-nal-com-bus-tion engine (ĭn-tŭr'nəl-kəm-bŭs'chən ěn'jĭn) n.

Abbr. ICE An engine, such as an automotive gasoline piston engine or a diesel, in which fuel is burned within the engine proper rather than in an external furnace, as in a steam engine.

internal ear (ĭn-tŭr'nəl ĭr) n. See inner ear.

internal energy (ĭn-tŭr'nəl ěn'ər-jē) n. Symbol U The total kinetic and potential energy associated with the motions and relative positions of the molecules of an object, excluding the kinetic or potential energy of the object as a whole. An increase in internal energy results in a rise in temperature or a change in phase.

in-ter-nal-ize (ĭn-tŭr'nə-lĭz') v. tr. in-ter-nal-ized, in-ter-nal-iz-ing, in-ter-nal-iz-es. 1. To make internal, personal, or subjective: “Protean man internalizes the longing for immortality through an ongoing process of death and rebirth within himself” (Henry S. Resnik). 2. To take in and make an integral part of one's attitudes or beliefs: had internalized the cultural values of the Italians after three years of living in Rome. —in-ter'nal-i-za'tion (-nə-lĭ-zā'shən) n.

internal medicine (ĭn-tŭr'nəl měd'ī-sĭn) n. The branch of medicine that deals with the diagnosis and nonsurgical treatment of diseases affecting the internal organs of the body, especially in adults.

internal respiration (ĭn-tŭr'nəl rěs'pə-rā'shən) n. The metabolic process by which living cells absorb oxygen and release carbon dioxide.

internal rhyme (ĭn-tŭr'nəl rĭm) n. Rhyme that occurs within a line of verse, as in “the grains beyond age, the dark veins of her mother” (Dylan Thomas).

internal secretion (ĭn-tŭr'nəl sĭ-krě'shən) n. A secretion that is produced by an endocrine gland and discharged directly into the bloodstream; a hormone.

in-ter-na-tion-al (ĭn'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl) adj. Abbr. int., intl. 1. Of, relating to, or involving two or more nations: an international commission; international affairs.

2. Extending across or transcending national boundaries: international fame.

— n. also International Any of several socialist organizations of international scope formed during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. —in'ter-na- tion-al/i-ty (-shə-nəl'ī-tē) n. —in'ter-na'tion-al-ly adv.

international candle (ĭn'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl kăn'dl) n. Physics. See candle (n., sense 2a).

International Date Line (ĭn'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl dāt lĭn) n. An imaginary line through the Pacific Ocean roughly corresponding to 180° longitude, to the east of which, by international agreement, the calendar date is one day earlier than to the west.

in·ter·na·tion·al·ism (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nə-līz'əm) n. 1. The condition or quality of being international in character, principles, concern, or attitude. 2. A policy or practice of cooperation among nations, especially in politics and economic matters. —in'ter·na'tion·al·ist n.

in·ter·na·tion·al·ize (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nə-līz') v. tr. in·ter·na·tion·al·ized, in·ter·na·tion·al·iz·ing, in·ter·na·tion·al·iz·es. 1. To make international. 2. To put under international control. —in'ter·na'tion·al·i·za'tion (-nāsh'ə-nə-lī-zā'shən) n.

international law (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl lô) n. Law. A set of rules generally regarded and accepted as binding in relations between states and nations. Also called law of nations international Morse code (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl môrs kōd) n. See continental code.

International Phonetic Alphabet (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl fə-nět'ik əl'fə-bět') n. Abbr. IPA, I.P.A. A phonetic alphabet and diacritic modifiers sponsored by the International Phonetic Association to provide a uniform and universally understood system for transcribing the speech sounds of all languages.

international pitch (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl pīch) n. Music. A sound wave frequency of 440 cycles per second, assigned to the A above middle C. Also called concert pitch international relations (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl rī-lā'shənz) pl.n. 1. (used with a sing. verb). The branch of political science that is concerned with the foreign affairs of and relations among countries. 2. (used with a pl. verb). Foreign affairs; relations among countries.

International style or International Style (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl stīl) n. An influential modernist style in architecture that developed in Europe and the United States in the 1920's and 1930's, characterized chiefly by regular, unadorned geometric forms, open interiors, and the use of glass, steel, and reinforced concrete.

International System (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl sīs'təm) n. A complete, coherent system of units used for scientific work, in which the fundamental quantities are length, time, electric current, temperature, luminous intensity, and amount of substance.

international unit (in'tər-nāsh'ə-nəl yōō'nīt) n. Abbr. IU 1. The quantity of a biologically active substance, such as a hormone or vitamin, required to produce a specific response. 2. A unit of potency for similarly active substances, based on this quantity and accepted as an international standard.

in·terne (in'tûrn', ĩn-tûrn') n., v. & adj. Variant of intern.

in·ter·nec·ine (in'tər-nēs'en', -in, -nē'sīn') adj. 1. Of or relating to struggle within a nation, an organization, or a group. 2. Mutually destructive; ruinous or fatal to both sides. 3. Characterized by bloodshed or carnage. [Latin internecivus, internecīnus, destructive, from internecāre, to slaughter : inter-, intensive pref.; see INTER- + nex, nec-, death; see nek¹ in Appendix.]

WORD HISTORY: In the first edition of the American Heritage Dictionary 91 percent of the Usage Panel approved the use of internecine relating to internal struggle within a nation or organization that did not necessarily imply fatal or destructive conflict. The objection that had been overcome for most of the Panel was that internecine should imply such destruction because it came from the Latin word internecīnus, a variant of internecivus, “fought to the death, murderous,” ultimately derived from necāre, “to kill.” Inter- in this compound is simply an intensive, supplying the notion of “all the way to” in the sense “fought to the death.” Internecine in English, first recorded in 1663, indeed meant “deadly, destructive,” but Samuel Johnson, inserting the word in his dictionary of 1755, thought that inter- meant “mutual” and so defined it as “endeavoring mutual destruction.” This definition set the word incorrectly on its present course, and when internecine was further extended simply to mean “relating to internal struggle,” the original error was compounded. However, the point is that the meaning of words can be changed by mistakes and that mistaken meanings adhere to words. Only an occasional etymologist points out that the emperor’s new clothes are patched.

in·tern·ee (in'tûr-nē') n. One who is interned or confined, especially in wartime.

In·ter·net (in'tər-nēt') n. Computer Science. A matrix of networks that connects computers around the world.

in·ter·neu·ron (in'tər-noör'ön', -nyöör'-) n. A nerve cell found entirely within the central nervous system that acts as a link between sensory neurons and motor neurons. —in'ter·neu'ro·nal (-noör'ə-nəl, -nyöör'-, -noö-rö'-, -nyöö-) adj.

in·ter·nist (in-tûr'nīst) n. A physician specializing in internal medicine.
[INTERN(AL MEDICINE) + -IST.]

in·tern·ment (in-tûrn'mənt) n. 1. The act of interning or confining, especially in wartime. 2. The state of being interned; confinement.

in·ter·node (in'tər-nōd') n. A section or part between two nodes, as of a nerve or stem. —in'ter·nod'al (-nōd'l) adj.

in·ter nos (in'tər nōs') adv. & adj. Between ourselves. [Latin : inter, among + nos, us.]

in·ter·nu·cle·ar (in'tər-nōö'klē-ər, -nyöö'-) adj. Chemistry & Physics. Located or occurring between nuclei.

in·ter·nun·cial (in'tər-nŭn'shəl, -sē-əl) adj. Linking two neurons in a neuronal pathway. [INTERNUNCI(O) + -AL¹.] —in'ter·nun'cial·ly adv.

in·ter·nun·ci·o (in'tər-nŭn'sē-ō', -nōŏn'-) n. pl. in·ter·nun·ci·os. 1. A Vatican diplomatic envoy or representative ranking just beneath a nuncio. 2. A messenger or an agent; a go-between. [Italian internunzio, from Latin internūntius, mediator : inter-, inter- + nūntius, messenger; see NUNCIO.]

in·ter·o·cep·tor (in'tər-ō-sĕp'tər) n. A specialized sensory nerve receptor that receives and responds to stimuli originating from within the body. [INTER(IOR) + (RE)CEPTOR.] —in'ter·o·cep'tive adj.

in·ter·of·fice (in'tər-ô'fīs, -ôf'is) adj. Transmitted or taking place between offices, especially those of a single organization: an interoffice memo; interoffice conferences.

interp. abbr. Interpreter.

in·ter·per·son·al (in'tər-pŭr'sə-nəl) adj. Relating to, occurring among, or involving several people. —in'ter·per'son·al·ly adv.

in·ter·phase (in'tər-fāz') n. The stage of a cell between two successive mitotic or meiotic divisions. —in'ter·phase' v.

in·ter·plan·e·tar·y (in'tər-plăn'i-tĕr'ē) adj. Existing or occurring between planets.

in·ter·play (in'tər-plā') n. Reciprocal action and reaction; interaction. — v. intr. in·ter·played, in·ter·play·ing, in·ter·plays. To act or react on each other; interact.

in·ter·plead (in'tər-plĕd') v. intr. in·ter·plead·ed, in·ter·plead·ing, in·ter·pleads. Law. To submit one's claim to the process of interpleader. [Middle English enterpleden, from Anglo-Norman enterpleder : enter-, between (from Latin inter-); see INTER- + pleder, to plead (variant of Old French plaidier); see PLEAD.]

in·ter·plead·er (in'tər-plĕ'dər) n. Law. A procedure to determine which of two parties making the same claim against a third party is the rightful claimant. [Anglo-Norman enterpleder, to interplead, interpleader. See INTERPLEAD.]

in·ter·po·late (in-tŭr'pə-lāt') v. in·ter·po·lat·ed, in·ter·po·lat·ing, in·ter·po·lates. — v. tr. 1. To insert or introduce between other elements or parts. 2. a. To insert (material) into a text. b. To insert into a conversation. See Synonyms at introduce. 3. To change or falsify (a text) by introducing new or incorrect material. 4. Mathematics. To estimate a value of (a function or series) between two known values. — v. intr. To make insertions or additions. [Latin interpolāre, interpolāt-, to touch up, refurbish, from interpolis, refurbished. See pel⁵ in Appendix.] —in·ter'po·la'tion n. —in·ter'po·la'tive adj. —in·ter'po·la'tor n.

in·ter·pose (in'tər-pōz') v. in·ter·posed, in·ter·pos·ing, in·ter·pos·es. — v. tr. 1. a. To insert or introduce between parts. b. To place (oneself) between.

2. To introduce or interject (a comment, for example) during discourse or a conversation. See Synonyms at introduce. 3. To exert (influence or authority) in order to interfere or intervene: interpose one's veto. — v. intr. 1. To come between. 2. To come between the parties in a dispute; intervene. 3. To insert a remark, a question, or an argument. [French, from Old French interposer, to intervene, alteration (influenced by poser, to put, place); see POSE¹, of Latin interpōnere, to put between : inter-, inter- + pōnere, to put; see apo- in Appendix.] —in'ter-pos'al n. —in'ter-pos'er n. —in'ter-po-si'tion (-pə-zīsh'ən) n.

in-ter-pret (in-tûr'prīt) v. in-ter-pret-ed, in-ter-pret-ing, in-ter-pret-s. — v. tr. 1. To explain the meaning of: interpreted the ambassador's remarks. See Synonyms at explain. 2. To conceive the significance of; construe: interpreted his smile to be an agreement; interpreted the open door as an invitation. 3. To present or conceptualize the meaning of by means of art or criticism. 4. To translate orally. — v. intr. 1. To offer an explanation. 2. To serve as an interpreter for speakers of different languages. [Middle English interpretēn, from Old French interprēter, from Latin interpretārī, from interpres, interpret-, negotiator, explainer. See per⁵ in Appendix.] —in-ter'pret-a-bil'i-ty, in-ter'pret-a-ble-ness n. —in-ter'pret-a-ble adj.

in-ter-pre-ta-tion (in-tûr'prī-tā'shən) n. 1. The act or process of interpreting. 2. A result of interpreting. a. An explanation or a conceptualization by a critic of a work of literature, painting, music, or other art form; an exegesis. b. A performer's distinctive personal version of a song, dance, piece of music, or role; a rendering. —in-ter'pre-ta-tion-al adj.

in-ter-pre-ta-tive (in-tûr'prī-tā'tiv) adj. Variant of interpretive. —in-ter'pre-ta'tive-ly adv.

in-ter-pret-er (in-tûr'prī-tər) n. Abbr. interp. 1. One who translates orally from one language into another. 2. One who gives or expounds an interpretation: "An actor is an interpreter of other men's words, often a soul which wishes to reveal itself to the world" (Alec Guinness). 3. Computer Science. A program that translates an instruction into a machine language and executes it before proceeding to the next instruction.

in-ter-pre-tive (in-tûr'prī-tiv) also in-ter-pre-ta-tive (-tā'tiv) adj. Relating to or marked by interpretation; explanatory. —in-ter'pre-tive-ly adv.

in-ter-pu-pil-lar-y (in'tər-pyōō'pə-lěr'ē) adj. Occurring between the pupils of the eyes: interpupillary distance.

in-ter-ra-cial (in'tər-rā'shəl) adj. Relating to, involving, or representing different races: interracial fellowship; an interracial neighborhood.

in-ter-re-gion-al (in'tər-rē'jə-nəl) adj. Relating to, involving, or connecting two or more regions: interregional migration; interregional banking.

in-ter-reg-num (in'tər-rēg'nəm) n. pl. in-ter-reg-nums or in-ter-reg-na (-nə). 1. The interval of time between the end of a sovereign's reign and the accession of a successor. 2. A period of temporary suspension of the usual functions of government or control. 3. A gap in continuity. [Latin : inter-, inter- + rēgnum, reign; see REIGN.] —in'ter-reg'nal (-nəl) adj.

in·ter·re·late (ɪn'tər-rĭ-lāt') v. tr. intr. in·ter·re·lat·ed, in·ter·re·lat·ing, in·ter·re·lates. To place in or come into mutual relationship.

—in'ter·re·lat'ed·ness n. —in'ter·re·la'tion·ship' n.

in·ter·ro·bang also in·ter·a·bang (ɪn-tĕr'ə-bāng') n. A punctuation mark used especially to end a simultaneous question and exclamation.

[INTERRO(GATION POINT) + BANG¹, exclamation point (printers' slang).]

interrog. abbr. Interrogative.

in·ter·ro·gate (ɪn-tĕr'ə-gāt') v. tr. in·ter·ro·gat·ed, in·ter·ro·gat·ing, in·ter·ro·gates. 1. To examine by questioning formally or officially. See Synonyms at ask. 2. Computer Science. To transmit a signal for setting off an appropriate response. [Middle English enterrogate, from Latin interrogāre, interrogāt- : inter-, in the presence of; see INTER- + rogāre, to ask; see reg- in Appendix.]

—in·ter'ro·ga'tion n. —in·ter'ro·ga'tion·al adj. —in·ter'ro·ga'tor n.

interrogation point (ɪn-tĕr'ə-gā'shən point) n. See question mark.

in·ter·rog·a·tive (ɪn'tə-rŏg'ə-tĭv) adj. Abbr. interrog. 1. Asking a question or being of the nature of a question: an interrogative raising of the eyebrows.

2. Of, relating to, or being an element or construction used to ask a question: an interrogative adverb; an interrogative particle. — n. 1. A word or form used to ask a question. 2. A sentence or an expression that asks a question.

—in'ter·rog'a·tive·ly adv.

in·ter·rog·a·to·ry (ɪn'tə-rŏg'ə-tŏr'ē, -tŏr'ē) adj. Asking a question; of the nature of a question; interrogative. — n. pl. in·ter·rog·a·to·ries. Law. A formal or written question, as to a witness, usually requiring an answer under oath.

—in'ter·rog'a·to·ri·ly adv.

in·ter·rupt (ɪn'tə-rŭpt') v. in·ter·rupt·ed, in·ter·rupt·ing, in·ter·rupts.

— v. tr. 1. To break the continuity or uniformity of: Rain interrupted our baseball game. 2. To hinder or stop the action or discourse of (someone) by breaking in on: The baby interrupted me while I was on the phone. — v. intr. To break in on an action or discourse. — n. Computer Science. 1. A signal to a computer that stops the execution of a running program so that another action can be performed. 2. A circuit that conveys a signal stopping the execution of a running program. [Middle English interrupten, from Old French interrupte, interrupted, from Latin interruptus, past participle of interrumpere, to break off : inter-, inter- + rumpere, to break; see reup- in Appendix.] —in'ter·rupt'i·ble adj.

—in'ter·rup'tion n. —in'ter·rup'tive adj.

in·ter·rupt·er (ɪn'tə-rŭp'tər) n. 1. One that interrupts: an inveterate interrupter of other people's conversations. 2. Electronics. A device that periodically and automatically opens and closes an electric circuit, producing pulses.

in·ter·scho·las·tic (in'tər-skə-lās'tīk) adj. Existing or conducted between or among schools. —in'ter·scho·las'ti·cal·ly adv.

in·ter·se (in'tər sē', sā') adv. & adj. Between or among themselves. [Latin : inter, between + sē, themselves.]

in·ter·sect (in'tər-sĕkt') v. in·ter·sect·ed, in·ter·sect·ing, in·ter·sects. — v. tr. 1. To cut across or through: The path intersects the park. 2. To form an intersection with; cross: The road intersects the highway a mile from here. — v. intr. 1. To cut across or overlap each other: circles intersecting on a graph. 2. To form an intersection; cross: These two fences intersect at the creek. [Latin intersecāre, intersect- : inter-, inter- + secāre, to cut; see sek- in Appendix.]

in·ter·sec·tion (in'tər-sĕk'shən) n. Abbr. int. 1. The act, process, or result of intersecting. 2. (also in'tər-sĕk'-) A place where things intersect, especially a place where two or more roads cross. 3. Mathematics. a. The point or locus of points where one line, surface, or solid crosses another. b. A set that contains elements shared by two or more given sets.

in·ter·ses·sion (in'tər-sĕsh'ən) n. The time between two academic sessions or semesters. —in'ter·ses'sion·al adj.

in·ter·sex (in'tər-sĕks') n. Biology. An intersexual individual.

in·ter·sex·u·al (in'tər-sĕk'shōō-əl) adj. 1. Existing or occurring between the sexes. 2. Biology. Having sexual characteristics intermediate between those of a typical male and a typical female. —in'ter·sex'u·al'i·ty (-ăl'ī-tē) n. —in'ter·sex'u·al·ly adv.

in·ter·space (in'tər-spās') v. tr. in·ter·spaced, in·ter·spac·ing, in·ter·spac·es. To make or occupy a space between. — n. (in'tər-spās') A space between two things; an interval. —in'ter·spa'tial (-spā'shəl) adj.

in·ter·spe·cif·ic (in'tər-spī-sīf'īk) adj. Arising or occurring between species.

in·ter·sp·erse (in'tər-spûrs') v. tr. in·ter·spersed, in·ter·spers·ing, in·ter·spers·es. 1. To distribute among other things at intervals: interspersed red and blue tiles on the walls; intersperse praise with constructive criticism. 2. To supply or diversify with things distributed at intervals: interspersed lamp fixtures on the large ceiling; a newspaper section that was interspersed with advertisements. [From Latin interspergere, interspers- : inter-, inter- + spargere, to scatter.]

—in'ter·spers'ed·ly (-spûr'sīd-lē) adv. —in'ter·spers'ion (-spûr'zhən, -shən) n.

in·ter·state (in'tər-stāt') adj. Involving, existing between, or connecting two or more states. — n. Abbr. I One of a system of highways extending between and connecting the major cities of the 48 contiguous United States.

in·ter·stel·lar (in'tər-stĕl'ər) adj. Between or among the stars: interstellar gases.

in·ter·stice (in-tûr'stīs) n. pl. in·ter·stic·es (-stī-sēz', -sīz). A space, especially a small or narrow one, between things or parts: "There is a gleam of luminous gold, where the sinking western sun has found a first direct interstice in the clouds” (John Fowles). [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin interstitium, from interstitus*, past participle of intersistere, to pause, make a break : inter-, inter- + sistere, to cause to stand, set up; see stā- in Appendix.]

in·ter·sti·tial (in'tər-stīsh'əl) adj. 1. Relating to, occurring in, or affecting interstices. 2. Anatomy. Relating to or situated in the small, narrow spaces between tissues or parts of an organ: interstitial cells; interstitial fluid.

—in'ter-sti'tial-ly adv.

in·ter·tex·ture (in'tər-tĕks'chər) n. 1. The act of interweaving or the state of being interwoven. 2. Something interwoven. [From Latin intertextus, past participle of intertexere, to interweave : inter, inter- + texere, to weave; see TEXT.] in·ter·tid·al (in'tər-tīd'l) adj. Of, relating to, or being the region between the high tide mark and the low tide mark. —in'ter-tid'al-ly adv.

in·ter·tri·bal (in'tər-trī'bəl) adj. Existing or occurring between tribes.

in·ter·trop·i·cal (in'tər-tröp'i-kəl) adj. 1. Between or within the tropics. 2. Of or relating to the tropics.

in·ter·twine (in'tər-twīn') v. tr. intr. in·ter·twined, in·ter·twin·ing, in·ter·twines. To join or become joined by twining together. —in'ter·twine/-ment n.

in·ter·twist (in'tər-twīst') v. tr. intr. in·ter·twist·ed, in·ter·twist·ing, in·ter·twists. To intertwine.

in·ter·ur·ban (in'tər-ûr'bən) adj. Relating to or connecting urban areas: an interurban railroad.

in·ter·val (in'tər-vəl) n. Abbr. int. 1. A space between two objects, points, or units. 2. The amount of time between two specified instants, events, or states. 3. Mathematics. A set of numbers consisting of all the numbers between a pair of given numbers. 4. Mathematics. A set of numbers consisting of all the numbers between a pair of given numbers and including the endpoints. Also called closed interval 5. Mathematics. A set of numbers consisting of all the numbers between a pair of given numbers but not including the endpoints. Also called open interval 6. Mathematics. A line segment representing all the numbers between a pair of given numbers and including one, both, or neither of the endpoints. 7. Chiefly British. An intermission, as between acts of a play. 8. Music. The difference in pitch between two tones. [Middle English intervalle, from Old French, from Latin intervallum : inter-, inter- + vallum, rampart.] —in'ter-val/ic, in'ter-val/lic (-vəl'ik) adj.

in·ter·vale (in'tər-vəl) n. New England. A tract of low-lying land, especially along a river. [Variant (influenced by VALE¹), of INTERVAL.]

REGIONAL NOTE: Intervale is among the distinctive New England terms mapped by Hans Kurath in the Linguistic Atlas of New England in the 1940's. However, by the time the Dictionary of American Regional English surveyed the New England states 20 years later, says Craig M. Carver, author of American Regional Dialects, only three of the dozens of New England informants used the word intervale to indicate a “tract of low-lying land, especially along a river.” The word was common in New England at one time because so many settlements were made along the rivers, where the land was more fertile and the towns were accessible by water.

in·ter·vene (ɪn'tər-vēn') v. intr. in·ter·vened, in·ter·ven·ing, in·ter·venes.

1. To come, appear, or lie between two things: You can't see the lake from there because the house intervenes. 2. To come or occur between two periods or points of time: A year intervened between the two dynasties. 3. To occur as an extraneous or unplanned circumstance: He would have his degree by now if his laziness hadn't intervened. 4. a. To come in or between so as to hinder or alter an action: intervened to prevent a fight. b. To interfere, usually through force or threat of force, in the affairs of another nation. 5. Law. To enter into a suit as a third party for one's own interests. [Latin intervenire : inter-, inter- + venire, to come; see g^wā- in Appendix.] —in'ter·ve'nor, in'ter·ven'er n. —in'ter·ven'tion (-vən'shən) n. —in'ter·ven'tion·al adj.

in·ter·ven·tion·ism (ɪn'tər-vən'shə-nīz'əm) n. The policy or practice of intervening in the affairs of another sovereign state. —in'ter·ven'tion·ist n.

in·ter·ver·te·bral (ɪn'tər-vûr'tə-brəl, -vûr-tē'-) adj. Located between vertebrae. —in'ter·ver'te·bral·ly adv.

intervertebral disk (ɪn'tər-vûr'tə-brəl dɪsk) n. A broad disk of fibrocartilage situated between adjacent vertebrae of the spinal column.

in·ter·view (ɪn'tər-vyoo') n. Abbr. int. 1. A formal meeting in person, especially one arranged for the assessment of the qualifications of an applicant.

2. a. A conversation, such as one conducted by a reporter, in which facts or statements are elicited from another. b. An account or a reproduction of such a conversation. 3. Informal. An interviewee: “I had been warned that [he] was a tough interview—that he doled out flip answers... to questions he was tired of being asked” (David Roberts). — v. in·ter·viewed, in·ter·view·ing, in·ter·views. — v. tr. To obtain an interview from. — v. intr. To have an interview: interviewed with a publishing company. [French entrevue, from Old French, from feminine past participle of entrevoir, to see : entre-, between (from Latin inter-); see INTER- + voir, to see (from Latin vidēre); see weid- in Appendix.] —in'ter·view'a·ble adj. —in'ter·view·ee' n. —in'ter·view'er n.

in·ter vi·vos (ɪn'tər vē'vōs', vī'-) adj. Law. Between living persons: an inter vivos trust. [Latin : inter, among + vivōs, pl. of vivus, a living being.] in·ter·vo·cal·ic (ɪn'tər-vō-kəl'ik) adj. Occurring between vowels.

in·ter·weave (ɪn'tər-wēv') v. in·ter·wove (-wōv'), in·ter·wo·ven (-wō'vən), inter·weav·ing, inter·weaves. — v. tr. 1. To weave together.

2. To blend together; intermix. — v. intr. To intertwine.

in·tes·tate (ɪn-tēs'tāt', -tīt) Law. adj. 1. Having made no legal will: an intestate parent. 2. Not disposed of by a legal will: intestate lands. — n. One who dies without a legal will. [Middle English, from Old French intestat, from Latin intestātus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + testātus, testate, from past participle of testāri, to make a will; see TESTAMENT.] — in·tes'ta·cy (-tə-sē) n.

in·tes·ti·nal (ɪn-tēs'tə-nəl) adj. Of, relating to, or constituting the intestine: the intestinal wall; intestinal bacteria. — in·tes'ti·nal·ly adv.

intestinal fortitude (ɪn-tēs'tə-nəl fôr'ti-tōōd') n. Courage; endurance.

in·tes·tine (ɪn-tēs'tīn) n. The portion of the alimentary canal extending from the stomach to the anus and, in human beings and other mammals, consisting of two segments, the small intestine and the large intestine. Often used in the plural. — adj. Internal; civil: the intestine affairs of the nation. [Middle English, from Old French intestin, from Latin intestīna, intestines, from neuter pl. of intestīnus, internal, from intus, within. See en in Appendix.]

in·thrall (ɪn-thrôl') v. Variant of enthrall.

in·throne (ɪn-thrôn') v. Variant of enthrone.

in·ti (ɪn'tē) n. A former unit of currency in Peru. [American Spanish, from Quechua, sun.]

in·ti·ma (ɪn'tə-mə) *n. pl. in·ti·mae (-mē') or in·ti·mas. Anatomy. The innermost membrane of an organ or a part, especially the inner lining of a lymphatic vessel, an artery, or a vein. [Latin, from feminine of intimus, innermost. See en in Appendix.] — in'ti·mal *adj.

in·ti·ma·cy (ɪn'tə-mə-sē) n. pl. in·ti·ma·cies. 1. The condition of being intimate. 2. An instance of being intimate.

in·ti·mae (ɪn'tə-mē') n. Anatomy. A plural of intima.

in·ti·mate¹ (ɪn'tə-mīt) adj. 1. Marked by close acquaintance, association, or familiarity. See Synonyms at familiar. 2. Relating to or indicative of one's deepest nature: intimate prayers. 3. Essential; innermost: the intimate structure of matter. 4. Marked by informality and privacy: an intimate nightclub. 5. Very personal; private: an intimate letter. 6. Of or involved in a sexual relationship. — n. A close friend or confidant. [Latin intimātus, past participle of intimāre, to make familiar with. See *INTIMATE*².] — in'ti·mate·ly adv. — in'ti·mate·ness n.

in·ti·mate² (ɪn'tə-māt') v. tr. in·ti·mat·ed, in·ti·mat·ing, in·ti·mates. 1. To make known subtly and indirectly; hint. See Synonyms at suggest. 2. To announce; proclaim. [Latin intimāre, intimāt-, to make known, from intimus, innermost. See en in Appendix.] — in'ti·mat'er n. — in'ti·ma'tion n.

in-time (än-tēm') adj. Intimate; private: an intime dining corner. [French, from Old French, from Latin intimus, innermost. See INTIMATE².]

in-tim-i-date (in-tīm'ī-dāt') v. tr. in-tim-i-dat-ed, in-tim-i-dat-ing, in-tim-i-dates. 1. To make timid; fill with fear. 2. To coerce or inhibit by or as if by threats. [Medieval Latin intimidāre, intimidāt- : Latin in-, in, into; see IN⁻² + Medieval Latin timidāre, to be timorous, to frighten (from Latin timidus, timid); see TIMID.] —in-tim'i-dat'ing-ly adv. —in-tim'i-da'tion n. —in-tim'i-da'-tor n.

SYNONYMS: intimidate, browbeat, bulldoze, cow, bully, bludgeon. These verbs all mean to frighten into submission, compliance, or acquiescence. Intimidate implies the presence or operation of a fear-inspiring force that compels one to or keeps one from action: felt intimidated by his opponent's power and prestige. "It [atomic energy] may intimidate the human race into bringing order into its international affairs, which, without the pressure of fear, it would not do" (Albert Einstein). Browbeat suggests the persistent application of highhanded, disdainful, or imperious tactics: refused to be browbeaten and insulted; browbeating a witness. Bulldoze connotes the leveling of all spirit of opposition, as through the use of threats: couldn't be bulldozed into hiring a less than acceptable candidate for the job. Cow implies treatment that brings about an abject state of timorousness and often demoralization: submissive children can be cowed by a look of disapproval. To bully is to intimidate through blustering, domineering, or threatening behavior: The strikers were bullied into dropping their demands. Bludgeon suggests the use of grossly aggressive or combative methods: had to be bludgeoned into fulfilling his responsibilities. See also Synonyms at threaten in-tinction (in-tīngk'shən) n. Ecclesiastical. The administration of the Eucharist by dipping the host into the wine and thus offering both simultaneously to the communicant. [Late Latin intīnctiō, intīnctiōn-, a dipping in, from Latin intinctus, past participle of intingere, to dip in : in-, in; see IN⁻² + tingere, to moisten.]

in-tine (in'tēn') n. The innermost wall of a spore or pollen grain. Also called endosporium [German, from Latin intus, within. See en in Appendix.]

in-tit-ule (in-tīch'ool) v. tr. in-tit-uled, in-tit-ul-ing, in-tit-ules. Chiefly British. To give a designation or title to (a legislative act, for example). [Middle English entitelen, intitulen, from Old French intituler, from Late Latin intitulāre : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Late Latin titulāre, to entitle (from Latin titulus, title).]

intl. abbr. International.

in-to (in'tōō) prep. 1. To the inside or interior of: went into the house. 2. a. To the activity or occupation of: recent college graduates who go into banking. b. To the condition, state, or form of: dishes breaking into pieces; changed into a butter- fly. c. So as to be in or be included in: parties entering into an agreement; wrote a new character into the play. d. Informal. Interested in or involved with: They are into vegetarianism. 3. To a point within the limits of a period of time or extent of space: well into the week. 4. In the direction of; toward: looked into the distance; pointed into the sky. 5. Against: crashed into a tree. 6. As a divisor of: The number 3 goes into 9 three times.

in·tol·er·a·ble (in-tŏl'ər-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to tolerate or endure; unbearable: intolerable agony. —in·tol'er·a·bil'i·ty, in·tol'er·a·ble·ness n.
—in·tol'er·a·bly adv.

in·tol·er·ance (in-tŏl'ər-əns) n. 1. The quality or condition of being intolerant; lack of tolerance. 2. Medicine. Extreme sensitivity or allergy to a drug, food, or other substance: lactose intolerance.

in·tol·er·ant (in-tŏl'ər-ənt) adj. Not tolerant, especially: a. Unwilling to tolerate differences in opinions or beliefs, especially religious beliefs. b. Unable or unwilling to endure or support: intolerant of interruptions. —in·tol'er·ant·ly adv.

in·to·nate (in'tə-nāt') v. tr. in·to·nat·ed, in·to·nat·ing, in·to·nates. 1. To intone. 2. To utter with a particular tone of voice: pleas that were intoned with desperation. [Medieval Latin intonāre, intonāt-. See INTONE.]

in·to·na·tion (in'tə-nā'shən, -tō-) n. 1. a. The act of intoning or chanting. b. An intoned utterance. 2. A manner of producing or uttering tones, especially with regard to accuracy of pitch. 3. Linguistics. The use of changing pitch to convey syntactic information: a questioning intonation. 4. A use of pitch characteristic of a speaker or dialect: "He could hear authority, the old parish intonation coming back into his voice" (Graham Greene). 5. Music. The opening phrase of a plainsong composition sung as a solo part. —in'to·na'tion·al adj.

in·tone (in-tŏn') v. in·toned, in·ton·ing, in·tones. — v. tr. 1. To recite in a singing tone. 2. To utter in a monotone. — v. intr. 1. To speak with a singing tone or with a particular intonation. 2. Music. To sing a plainsong intonation. [Middle English entonen, from Old French entoner, from Medieval Latin intonāre: Latin in-, in; see IN-² + Latin tonus, tone; see TONE.] —in·tone'ment n. —in·ton'er n.

in to·to (in tō'tō) adv. Totally; altogether: recommendations that were adopted in toto. [Latin : in, in + tōtō, ablative of tōtus, all.]

in·tox·i·cant (in-tŏk'si-kənt) n. An agent that intoxicates, especially an alcoholic beverage. —in·tox'i·cant adj.

in·tox·i·cate (in-tŏk'si-kāt') v. in·tox·i·cat·ed, in·tox·i·cat·ing, in·tox·i·cates. — v. tr. 1. To stupefy or excite, as by the action of a chemical substance such as alcohol. 2. To stimulate or excite: "a man whom life intoxicates, who has no need of wine" (Anaïs Nin). 3. To poison. — v. intr. To cause stupefaction, stimulation, or excitement by or as if by use of a chemical substance:

“The notion of Holy War is showing that it has not yet lost all its power to intoxicate and to inflame” (Conor Cruise O’Brien). [Middle English, to poison, from Medieval Latin intoxicāre, intoxicāt-: Latin in-, in; see IN-² + Late Latin toxicāre, to smear with poison (from Latin toxicum, poison); see TOXIC.]

—in-tox'i-cat'ing-ly adv. —in-tox'i-ca'tion n. —in-tox'i-ca'tive adj.
—in-tox'i-ca'tor n.

intr. abbr. Abbr. Grammar Intransitive.

intra- pref. Within: intraocular. [Late Latin intrā-, from Latin intrā. See en in Appendix.]

in-tra-ar-te-ri-al (in'trə-är-tîr'ē-əl) adj. Within arteries or an artery: an intra-arterial injection. —in'tra-ar-te'ri-al-ly adv.

in-tra-a-tom-ic (in'trə-ə-tōm'ik) adj. Within an atom.

in-tra-car-di-ac (in'trə-kär'dē-äk') adj. Within the heart.

in-tra-cel-lu-lar (in'trə-sěl'yə-lər) adj. Occurring or situated within a cell or cells: intracellular fluid. —in'tra-cel'lu-lar-ly adv.

In-tra-coas-tal Waterway (in'trə-kōs'təl wō'tər-wā') A system of artificial and natural channels and canals along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts of the eastern and southeast United States. It includes the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway and the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway and affords sheltered passage for commercial and pleasure craft.

in-tra-cer-e-bral (in'trə-sə-rē'brəl, -sēr'ə-) adj. Occurring or situated within the cerebrum: an intracerebral hemorrhage. —in'tra-cer-e'bral-ly adv.

in-tra-cra-ni-al (in'trə-krā'nē-əl) adj. Occurring or situated within the cranium. —in'tra-cra'ni-al-ly adv.

in-trac-ta-ble (in-träk'tə-bəl) adj. 1. Difficult to manage or govern; stubborn. See Synonyms at unruly. 2. Difficult to mold or manipulate: intractable materials. 3. Difficult to alleviate, remedy, or cure: intractable pain.

—in-trac'ta-bil'i-ty, in-trac'ta-ble-ness n. —in-trac'ta-bly adv.

in-tra-cu-ta-ne-ous (in'trə-kyōō-tā'nē-əs) adj. Within the skin; intradermal. —in'tra-cu-ta'ne-ous-ly adv.

in-tra-day (in'trə-dā') adj. Occurring within a single day.

in-tra-der-mal (in'trə-dûr'məl) adj. Within or between the layers of the skin: an intradermal injection. —in'tra-der'mal-ly adv.

intradermal test (in'trə-dûr'məl tĕst) n. A test for hypersensitivity or allergy in which a small amount of the suspected allergen is injected into the skin.

in-tra-dos (in'trə-dōs', -dō', in-trā'dōs', -dōs') n. pl. in-tra-dos (-dōz') or in-tra-dos-es (-dōs'ĭz). Architecture. The inner curve of an arch. [French: intra-, within (from Late Latin intrā-); see INTRA- + dos, back (from Old French, from Latin dorsum).]

in-tra-ga-lac-tic (in'trə-gə-läk'tik) adj. Occurring or situated within the space of a galaxy.

in·tra·lin·gual (ɪn'trə-ling'gwəl) adj. Of or relating to a single language.

in·tra·mo·lec·u·lar (ɪn'trə-mə-lɛk'yə-lər) adj. Within a molecule.

—in'tra·mo·lec'u·lar·ly adv.

in·tra·mu·ral (ɪn'trə-myŭər'əl) adj. 1. Existing or carried on within the bounds of an institution, especially a school: intramural athletics. 2. Anatomy. Occurring or situated within the wall of a cavity or an organ.

—in'tra·mu'ral·ly adv.

in·tra·mus·cu·lar (ɪn'trə-mʌs'kyə-lər) adj. Within a muscle: an intramuscular injection. —in'tra·mus'cu·lar·ly adv.

in·tra·na·sal (ɪn'trə-nā'zəl) adj. Within the nose. —in'tra·na'sal·ly adv.

in·tran·si·gent also in·tran·si·geant (ɪn-trən'sə-jənt, -zə-) adj. Refusing to moderate a position, especially an extreme position; uncompromising. [French intransigent, from Spanish intransigente : in-, not (from Latin); see IN-¹ + transigente, present participle of transigir, to compromise (from Latin trānsigere, to come to an agreement : trāns-, trans- + agere, to drive); see ag- in Appendix.]

—in·tran'si·gence, in·tran'si·gen·cy n. —in·tran'si·gent n.

—in·tran'si·gent·ly adv.

in·tran·si·tive (ɪn-trən'si-tɪv, -zɪ-) Grammar. adj. Abbr. intr., int., i. Designating a verb or verb construction that does not require or cannot take a direct object, as run or sleep. — n. An intransitive verb. —in·tran'si·tive·ly adv.

—in·tran'si·tive·ness n.

in·tra·nu·cle·ar (ɪn'trə-nŭo'klē-ər, -nyŭo'-) adj. Situated or occurring within the nucleus of an atom or a cell.

in·tra·oc·u·lar (ɪn'trə-ŏk'yə-lər) adj. Situated or occurring within the eyeball: intraocular pressure.

in·tra·per·son·al (ɪn'trə-pûr'sə-nəl) adj. Existing or occurring within the individual self or mind. —in'tra·per'son·al·ly adv.

in·tra·pre·neur (ɪn'trə-prə-nûr') n. A person within a large corporation who takes direct responsibility for turning an idea into a profitable finished product through assertive risk-taking and innovation. [intra(corporate) + (ENTRE)PRE-NEUR.] —in'tra·pre·neur'i·al adj. —in'tra·pre·neur'i·al·ism n.

—in'tra·pre·neur'i·al·ly adv.

WORD HISTORY: The word entrepreneur is more than 150 years old, having come into English from French in 1828. But it is not until very recently that we find its intracorporate counterpart, intrapreneur, meaning “a person within a large corporation who takes direct responsibility for turning an idea into a profitable finished product through assertive risk-taking and innovation.” This coinage is generally attributed to management consultant Gifford Pinchot, author of the 1985 book entitled Intrapreneuring; others insist its true originator was Norman Macrae, deputy editor of the Economist, although Macrae himself denies it.

Still, whatever its exact source, in the scant number of years since its inception the term intrapreneur has gained currency very quickly. It has also given rise to various derivatives, such as the aforementioned gerund intrapreneuring, the noun intrapreneurship (as in a September 30, 1985, interview with Stephen Jobs in Newsweek: “The Macintosh team was what is commonly known as intrapreneurship—only a few years before the term was coined—a group of people going in essence back to the garage, but in a large company”), the adjective intrapreneurial, and another noun, intrapreneurialism (“what has become known as intrapreneurialism, where people within the corporation acquire more adventurous small business outlooks,” by Ian Hamilton-Fazy in “An Uneasy Co-existence,” Financial Times, October 23, 1984). Broad use of a word and the development of numerous derivatives are strong signals predicting staying power within the language. Intrapreneur and its spinoffs are of particular interest to etymologists and lexicographers because they illustrate the constant changes inherent in a living language.

in·tra·psy·chic (in'trə-sī'kik) adj. Existing or taking place within the mind or psyche: intrapsychic conflict. —in'tra·psy'chi·cal·ly adv.

in·tra·spe·cif·ic (in'trə-spī-sif'ik) also in·tra·spe·cies (-spē'shēz, -sēz) adj. Arising or occurring within a species: intraspecific competition.

in·tra·state (in'trə-stāt') adj. Relating to or existing within the boundaries of a state.

in·tra·u·ter·ine (in'trə-yōō'tər-īn, -tə-rīn') adj. Occurring or situated within the uterus.

intrauterine device (in'trə-yōō'tər-īn dī-vīs') n. Abbr. IUD A birth control device, such as a plastic or metallic loop, ring, or spiral, that is inserted into the uterus to prevent implantation.

in·tra·va·sa·tion (in-trāv'ə-sā'shən) n. Pathology. Entry of foreign matter into a blood vessel. [INTRA- + (EXTRA)VASATION.]

in·tra·vas·cu·lar (in'trə-vās'kyə-lər) adj. Within blood vessels or a blood vessel. —in'tra·vas'cu·lar·ly adv.

in·tra·ve·nous (in'trə-vē'nəs) adj. Abbr. IV Within or administered into a vein. — n. A drug, nutrient solution, or other substance administered into a vein. —in'tra·ve'nous·ly adv.

in·tra·vi·tal (in'trə-vīt'l) adj. Occurring in or performed on a living organism: intravital staining techniques. —in'tra·vi'tal·ly adv.

in·treat (in-trēt') v. Variant of entreat.

in·trench (in-trēnch') v. Variant of entrench.

in·trep·id (in-trēp'id) adj. Resolutely courageous; fearless. See Synonyms at brave. [Latin intrepidus: in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + trepidus, alarmed.]

—in'tre·pid'i·ty (-trə-pīd'ī-tē), in·trep'id·ness n. —in·trep'id·ly adv.

in·tri·ca·cy (in'trĭ-kə-sē) n. pl. in·tri·ca·cies. 1. The condition or quality of being intricate; complexity. 2. Something intricate: the intricacies of a census form.

in·tri·cate (in'trĭ-kĭt) adj. 1. Having many complexly arranged elements; elaborate. See Synonyms at elaborate. 2. Solvable or comprehensible only with painstaking effort. See Synonyms at complex. [Middle English, from Latin intrīcātus, past participle of intrīcāre, to entangle, perplex : in-, in; see IN-² + trī-cae, perplexities, wiles.] —in'tri·cate·ly adv. —in'tri·cate·ness n.

in·trigue (in'trēg', ĩn-trēg') n. 1. a. A secret or underhand scheme; a plot. b. The practice of or involvement in such schemes. See Synonyms at conspiracy. 2. A clandestine love affair. — v. in·trigued, in·triguing, in·trigues (in'trēg'). — v. intr. To engage in secret or underhand schemes; plot. — v. tr. 1. To effect by secret scheming or plotting. 2. To arouse the interest or curiosity of: Hibernation has long intrigued biologists. [Probably from French intriguer, to plot, from Italian intrigare, to plot, from Latin intrīcāre, to entangle. See INTRICATE.] —in·trigu'er n. —in'trigu'ing·ly adv.

USAGE NOTE: The introduction of the verb intrigue to mean “to arouse the interest or curiosity of” was initially resisted by writers on usage as an unneeded French substitute for available English words such as interest, fascinate, or puzzle, but it now appears to be well established. Seventy-eight percent of the Usage Panel accepts it in the sentence The special-quota idea intrigues some legislators, who have asked a Washington think tank to evaluate it, whereas only 52 percent accepted it in a 1968 survey.

in·trin·sic (in-trĭn'zĭk, -sĭk) adj. 1. Of or relating to the essential nature of a thing; inherent. 2. Anatomy. Situated within or belonging solely to the organ or body part on which it acts. Used of certain nerves and muscles. [Middle English intrinsique, inner, from Old French intrinseque, from Late Latin intrīnsecus, inward, from Latin, inwardly. See en in Appendix.] —in·trin'si·cal·ly adv.

intrinsic factor (in-trĭn'zĭk fāk'tər) n. A substance that is secreted by the gastric mucous membrane and is essential for the absorption of vitamin B₁₂ in the intestines.

in·tro (in'trō') n. pl. in·tros. Informal. An introduction.

intro. abbr. Introductory.

intro- pref. 1. In; into: introjection. 2. Inward: introvert. [Latin, from intrō, to the inside. See en in Appendix.]

in·tro·duce (in'trə-dōōs', -dyōōs') v. tr. in·tro·duced, in·tro·duc·ing, in·tro·duc·es. 1. a. To present (someone) by name to another in order to establish an acquaintance. b. To present (a performer, for example) to the public for the first time. 2. To bring forward (a plan, for example) for consideration. 3. To provide (someone) with a beginning knowledge or first experience of something: introduced me to weightlifting. 4. a. To bring in and establish in a new place or environment: exotic plants that had been introduced from the jungle. b. To bring into currency, use, or practice; originate: introduced the new product in several test markets; introduced the tango into their circle of friends. 5. To put inside or into; insert or inject. 6. To open or begin; preface: introduced the slide show with an orienting talk. [Middle English introducen, to bring into, from Latin intrōdūcere : intrō-, within; see en in Appendix + dūcere, to lead; see deuk- in Appendix.]

—in'tro-duc'er n. —in'tro-duc'i-ble adj.

SYNONYMS: introduce, insert, interject, interlard, interpolate, interpose. The central meaning shared by these verbs is “to put or set a person or thing into, between, or among others”: introduce suspense into a novel; insert a letter into an envelope; interject a comment into a conversation; interlarded her thesis with Latin expressions; interpolated a transitional passage into the text; interposed himself between the scrapping boys. See also Synonyms at broach¹ in-tro-duc-tion (in'trə-dŭk'shən) n. 1. The act or process of introducing or the state of being introduced. 2. A means, such as a personal letter, of presenting one person to another. 3. Something recently introduced; an innovation: “He loathed a fork; it is a modern introduction which has still scarcely reached common people” (D.H. Lawrence). 4. Something spoken, written, or otherwise presented in beginning or introducing something, especially: a. A preface, as to a book. b. Music. A short preliminary movement in a larger work. c. A basic introductory text or course of study. [Middle English introduccioun, from Old French introduction, from Latin intrōductiō, intrōductiōn-, from intrōductus, past participle of intrōdūcere, to bring in. See INTRODUCE.]

in-tro-duc-to-ry (in'trə-dŭk'tə-rē) adj. Abbr. intro. 1. Of, relating to, or constituting an introduction. 2. Serving to introduce. See Synonyms at preliminary. —in'tro-duc'to-ri-ly adv.

in-tro-gres-sion (in'trə-grəsh'ən) n. Infiltration of the genes of one species into the gene pool of another through repeated backcrossing of an interspecific hybrid with one of its parents. [From Latin intrōgressus, past participle of intrō-gredī, to step in : intrō-, intro- + gradī, to step; see INGRESS.] —in'tro-gres'sive (-grəs'iv) adj.

in-tro-it also In-tro-it (in'trō'it, -troit', in-trō'it) n. 1. A hymn or psalm sung when the ministers enter at the opening of a service, especially in the Anglican Church. 2. Roman Catholic Church. The beginning of the Mass, usually consisting of a psalm verse, an antiphon, and the Gloria Patri. [Middle English, introit of the Mass, from Old French introite, from Medieval Latin introitus, sung passage at entrance of celebrant, from Latin introitus, entrance, from past participle of introīre, to enter : intrō-, in; see en in Appendix + īre, to go; see ei- in Appendix.]

in-tro-ject (ɪn'trə-jekt') v. tr. Psychiatry. To incorporate (characteristics of a person or an object) into one's own psyche unconsciously. [Back-formation from INTROJECTION, from German Introjektion : Latin intrō-, intro- + Latin -iectiō, -iectiōn-, throwing (from iactus, past participle of iacere, to throw); see INJECT.]

—in'tro-jec'tion n.

in-tro-mis-sion (ɪn'trə-mɪʃ'ən) n. The act or process of intromitting; introduction or admission. [Medieval Latin intrōmissiō, intrōmissiōn-, usurpation, from Latin intrōmissus, past participle of intrōmittere, to intromit. See INTROMIT.]

—in'tro-mis'sive (-mɪs'ɪv) adj.

in-tro-mit (ɪn'trə-mɪt') v. tr. in-tro-mit-ted, in-tro-mit-ting, in-tro-mits. To cause or permit to enter; introduce or admit. [Middle English intromitten, to deal illegally with others, from Latin intrōmittere, to send in, let into : intrō-, in; see en in Appendix + mittere, to send.] —in'tro-mit'tent adj. —in'tro-mit'ter n.

in-tron (ɪn'trɒn) n. A segment of a gene situated between exons that does not function in coding for protein synthesis. [intragenic, occurring within a gene (INTRA- + GENIC) + -ON¹.]

in-trorse (ɪn'trɔrs') adj. Botany. Facing inward; turned toward the axis. Used especially of anthers. [Latin intrōrsus, contraction of intrōversus, inwards : intrō-, to the inside; see en in Appendix + versus, past participle of vertere, to turn; see wer-² in Appendix.]

in-tro-spect (ɪn'trə-spɛkt', ɪn'trə-spɛkt') v. intr. in-tro-spect-ed, in-tro-spect-ing, in-tro-spects. To engage in introspection. [Latin intrōspicere, intrōspect-, to look into : intrō-, within; see en in Appendix + specere, to look at; see spek- in Appendix.] —in'tro-spec'tive adj. —in'tro-spec'tive-ly adv. —in'tro-spec'tive-ness n.

in-tro-spec-tion (ɪn'trə-spɛk'shən) n. Contemplation of one's own thoughts, feelings, and sensations; self-examination. —in'tro-spec'tion-al adj.

in-tro-ver-sion (ɪn'trə-vûr'zhən, -shən) n. 1. The act or process of introverting or the condition of being introverted. 2. Psychology. The direction of or tendency to direct one's thoughts and feelings toward oneself. —in'tro-ver'sive (-vûr'siv) adj.

in-tro-vert (ɪn'trə-vûrt', ɪn'trə-vûrt') v. tr. in-tro-vert-ed, in-tro-vert-ing, in-tro-verts. 1. To turn or direct inward. 2. Psychology. To concentrate (one's interests) upon oneself. 3. Medicine. To turn (a tubular organ or part) inward upon itself. — n. (ɪn'trə-vûrt') 1. Psychology. One whose thoughts and feelings are directed toward oneself. 2. Medicine. An anatomical structure that is capable of being introverted. [INTRO- + Latin vertere, to turn; see wer-² in Appendix.]

in-trude (ɪn-trōd') v. in-trud-ed, in-trud-ing, in-trudes. — v. tr. 1. To put or force in inappropriately, especially without invitation, fitness, or permission: intruded opinion into a factual report. 2. Geology. To thrust (molten rock) into preexisting rock. — v. intr. To come in rudely or inappropriately; enter as an improper or unwanted element: “The flute would be intruding here like a delicate lady at a club smoker” (Leonard Bernstein). [Middle English intruden, from Latin intrūdere, intrūs-, to thrust in : in-, in; see IN⁻² + trūdere, to thrust; see treud- in Appendix.] —in-trud'er n.

SYNONYMS: intrude, obtrude. These verbs mean to force oneself or something upon another or others without consent or approval. Intrude implies thrusting or coming in without permission, warrant, or welcome; it often suggests violation of another's privacy: You had no right to intrude your opinions on the rest of us. You look busy—I hope I'm not intruding. To obtrude is to push forward, as into consideration or sight: “He wouldn't obtrude his assistance, if it were declined” (John Lothrop Motley). “The remembrance that our poor captain was lying dead in the cabin was constantly obtruding” (Frederick Marryat).

in-tru-sion (in-trōō'zhən) n. 1. The act of intruding or the condition of being intruded on. 2. An inappropriate or unwelcome addition. 3. Law. Illegal entry upon or appropriation of the property of another. 4. Geology. a. The forcing of molten rock into an earlier formation. b. The rock mass produced by an intrusive process.

in-tru-sive (in-trōō'siv, -zīv) adj. 1. Intruding or tending to intrude. 2. Geology. Of or relating to igneous rock that is forced while molten into cracks or between other layers of rock. 3. Linguistics. Epenthetic. —in-tru'sive-ly adv. —in-tru'sive-ness n.

in-trust (in-trüst') v. Variant of entrust.

in-tu-bate (in'tōō-bāt', -tyōō-) v. tr. in-tu-bat-ed, in-tu-bat-ing, in-tu-bates. Medicine. To insert a tube into (a hollow organ or body passage). —in'tu-ba'tion n. —in'tu-ba'tion-al adj. —in'tu-ba'tion-al-ly adv.

in-tu-it (in-tōō'īt, -tyōō'-) v. tr. in-tu-it-ed, in-tu-it-ing, in-tu-its. Usage Problem. To know intuitively. [Back-formation from INTUITION.]

USAGE NOTE: The verb intuit is well established in reputable writing, but some critics have objected to it. Only 34 percent of the Usage Panel accepts it in the sentence Claude often intuit my feelings about things long before I am really aware of them myself. This lack of acceptance is often attributed to the verb's status as a back-formation from intuition, but in fact the verb has existed as long as other back-formations, such as diagnose and donate, that are now wholly acceptable. The source of the objections most likely lies in the fact that the verb is often used in reference to more trivial sorts of insight than would be permitted by a full appreciation of the traditional meaning of intuition. In this connection, a somewhat greater percentage of the Panel, 46 percent, does accept intuit in the sentence Mathematicians sometimes intuit the truth of a theorem long before they are able to prove it. See Usage Note at enthuse.

in·tu·i·tion (in'tōō-īsh'ən, -tyōō-) n. 1. a. The act or faculty of knowing or sensing without the use of rational processes; immediate cognition. See Synonyms at reason. b. Knowledge gained by the use of this faculty; a perceptive insight. 2. A sense of something not evident or deducible; an impression. [Middle English intuicioun, insight, from Late Latin intuitiō, intuitiōn-, a looking at, from Latin intuitus, a look, from past participle of intuērī, to look at, contemplate : in-, on; see IN-² + tuērī, to look at.] —in'tu·i'tion·al adj. —in'tu·i'tion·al·ly adv.

in·tu·i·tion·ism (in'tōō-īsh'ə-nīz'əm, -tyōō-) n. Philosophy. 1. The theory that truth or certain truths are known by intuition rather than reason. 2. The theory that external objects of perception are immediately known to be real by intuition. 3. The theory that ethical principles are known to be valid and universal through intuition. —in'tu·i'tion·ist n.

in·tu·i·tive (in'tōō'ī-tīv, -tyōō'-) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or arising from intuition. 2. Known or perceived through intuition. See Synonyms at instinctive. 3. Possessing or demonstrating intuition. —in'tu·i'tive·ly adv.
—in'tu·i'tive·ness n.

in·tu·mesce (in'tōō-mēs', -tyōō-) v. intr. in·tu·mesced, in·tu·mesce·ing, in·tu·mesce·es. 1. To swell or expand; enlarge. 2. To bubble up, especially from the effect of heating. [Latin intumēscere : in-, intensive pref.; see IN-² + tumēscere, to begin to swell, inchoative of tumēre, to swell; see teuə- in Appendix.]

in·tu·mes·cence (in'tōō-mēs'əns, -tyōō-) n. 1. The act or process of swelling or the condition of being swollen. 2. A swollen organ or body part.
—in'tu·mes'cent adj.

in·tus·sus·cept (in'tə-sə-səpt') v. tr. in·tus·sus·cept·ed, in·tus·sus·cept·ing, in·tus·sus·cept·s. To take within, as in telescoping one part of the intestine into another; invaginate. [Probably back-formation from INTUSSUSCEPTION.] —in'tus·sus·cep'tive adj.

in·tus·sus·cep·tion (in'tə-sə-səp'shən) n. 1. Medicine. Invagination, especially an infolding of one part of the intestine into another. 2. Biology. Assimilation of new substances into the existing components of living tissue. [Medieval Latin intussusceptiō, intussusceptiōn-, a taking in, admission, from intussusceptus, past participle of intussuscipere, to take in : Latin intus, within; see en in Appendix + Latin suscipere, to take up (sub, sub- + capere, to take); see kap- in Appendix.]

in·twine (in-twīn') v. Variant of entwine.

in·twist (in-twīst') v. Variant of entwist.

In·u·it also In·nu·it (in'yōō-īt) n. pl. Inuit or In·u·its also Innuit or In·nu·its.

1. A member of any of the Eskimo peoples of North America and especially of Arctic Canada and Greenland. 2. Any or all of the Eskimo languages of the Inuit. [Eastern Eskimo, people.]

in·u·lase (in'yə-lās') n. An enzyme that catalyzes the conversion of inulin to fructose. [INUL(IN) + -ASE.]

in·u·lin (in'yə-līn) n. A polysaccharide with the general formula $(C_6H_{10}O_5)_n$ that is found in the roots of various composite plants and yields fructose when hydrolyzed. [New Latin Inula, plant genus (from Latin inula, elecampane, from Greek helenion); see wel-2 in Appendix + -IN.]

in·unc·tion (in-ŭngk'shən) n. 1. The process of applying and rubbing in an ointment. 2. The act of anointing, as in a religious ceremony. [Middle English, anointing, from Latin inūctiō, inūctiōn-, from inūctus, past participle of inungere, to anoint : in-, on; see IN-² + ungere, to smear.]

in·un·date (in'ŭn-dāt', in'ən-) v. tr. in·un·dat·ed, in·un·dat·ing, in·un·dates. 1. To cover with water, especially floodwaters. 2. To overwhelm as if with a flood; swamp: The theater was inundated with requests for tickets. [Latin inundāre, inundāt- : in-, in; see IN-² + undāre, to surge (from unda, wave); see wed-1 in Appendix.] —in'·un·da'tion n. —in'·un·da'tor n.

—in·un'da-to'ry (-də-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) adj.

in·ure also en·ure (in-yōōr') v. tr. in·ured, in·ur·ing, in·ures. To habituate to something undesirable, especially by prolonged subjection; accustom: “Though the food became no more palatable, he soon became sufficiently inured to it” (John Barth). [Middle English, back-formation from enured, customary, from in ure : in, in; see IN¹ + ure, use (from Old French euvre, uevre, work, from Latin opera, activity associated with work); see op- in Appendix.] —in·ure'ment n.

in·urn (in-ŭrn') v. tr. in·urned, in·urn·ing, in·urns. 1. To put in an urn: inurned the ashes of the deceased. 2. To bury or entomb; inter.

in u·ter·o (in yōō'tə-rō) adv. & adj. In the uterus. [New Latin in uterō : Latin in, in + Latin uterō, ablative of uterus, uterus.]

in·u·tile (in-yōōt'l, -yōō'tīl') adj. Lacking in utility or serviceability; not useful. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin inūtilis : in-, not; see IN-¹ + ūtilis, useful; see UTILE.] —in·u'tile·ly adv. —in'·u·til'i·ty (in'yōō-tīl'i-tē) n.

I·nu·vik (ī-nōō'vīk) A region of northwest Northwest Territories, Canada. It is crossed by the Mackenzie River.

inv. abbr. 1. Invented; inventor. 2. Invention. 3. Invoice.

in vac·u·o (in vāk'yōō-ō') adv. 1. In a vacuum. 2. In isolation; without reference to related evidence. [New Latin in vacuō : Latin in, in + Latin vacuō, ablative of vacuus, empty.]

in·vade (in-vād') v. in·vad·ed, in·vad·ing, in·vades. — v. tr. 1. To enter by force in order to conquer or pillage. 2. To encroach or intrude on; violate: “The principal of the trusts could not be invaded without trustee approval” (Barbara Goldsmith). 3. To overrun as if by invading; infest: “About 1917 the shipworm invaded the harbor of San Francisco” (Rachel Carson). 4. To enter and permeate, especially harmfully. — v. intr. To make an invasion: “The X-rays showed that the cancer, which had invaded deeply into the chest cavity, was retreating” (Zach Rosen). [Middle English, from Old French invader, from Latin invādere : in-, in; see IN⁻² + vādere, to go.] — in-vad'er n.

in-vag-i-nate (in-vāj'ə-nāt') v. in-vag-i-nat-ed, in-vag-i-nat-ing, in-vag-i-nates. — v. tr. intr. 1. To enclose or become enclosed in or as if in a sheath. 2. To turn or become turned inward. 3. To infold or become infolded so as to form a hollow space within a previously solid structure, as in the formation of a gastrula from a blastula. [Medieval Latin invāgīnāre, invāgīnāt- : Latin in-, in; see IN⁻² + Latin vāgīna, sheath.]

in-vag-i-na-tion (in-vāj'ə-nā'shən) n. 1. The act or process of invaginating or the condition of being invaginated. 2. An invaginated organ or part. 3. Embryology. The infolding of a portion of the outer layer of a blastula in the formation of a gastrula.

in-val-id¹ (in'və-līd) n. One who is incapacitated by a chronic illness or disability. — adj. 1. Incapacitated by illness or injury. 2. Of, relating to, or intended for invalids. — v. tr. in-val-id-ed, in-val-id-ing, in-val-ids. 1. To incapacitate physically. 2. Chiefly British. To release or exempt from duty because of ill health: “I was not quite sick enough to be invalidated out, even though I was of no more use” (Mary Lee Settle). [From *INVALID*² (influenced by French invalidé, sickly, infirm, from Latin invalidus).]

in-val-id² (in-vāl'īd) adj. 1. Not legally or factually valid; null: an invalid license. 2. Falsely based or reasoned; faulty: an invalid argument. [Latin invalidus, weak : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + validus, strong (from valēre, to be strong); see val- in Appendix.] — in-val-id'i-ty (-və-līd'ī-tē) n. — in-val'id-ly adv.

in-val-i-date (in-vāl'ī-dāt') v. tr. in-val-i-dat-ed, in-val-i-dat-ing, in-val-i-dates. To make invalid; nullify. — in-val'i-da'tion n. — in-val'i-da'tor n.

in-val-id-ism (in'və-lī-dīz'əm) n. The condition of being chronically ill or disabled.

in-val-u-a-ble (in-vāl'yoo-ə-bəl) adj. Of inestimable value; priceless: invaluable paintings; invaluable help. See Synonyms at costly. — in-val'u-a-ble-ness n. — in-val'u-a-bly adv.

in-var-i-a-ble (in-vâr'ē-ə-bəl) adj. Not changing or subject to change; constant. — in-var'i-a-bil'i-ty, in-var'i-a-ble-ness n. — in-var'i-a-bly adv.

in-var-i-ant (in-vâr'ē-ənt) adj. 1. Not varying; constant. 2. Mathematics. Unaffected by a designated operation, as a transformation of coordinates. — n. An invariant quantity, function, configuration, or system. — in-var'i-ance n.

in·va·sion (ĭn-vā'zhən) n. 1. The act of invading, especially the entrance of an armed force into a territory to conquer. 2. A large-scale onset of something injurious or harmful, such as a disease. 3. An intrusion or encroachment. [Middle English invasioun, from Old French invasion, from Late Latin invāsīō, invāsīōn-, from invāsus, past participle of invādere, to invade. See INVADE.]

in·va·sive (ĭn-vā'sīv) adj. 1. Of, engaging in, or given to armed aggression: an invasive military force. 2. Marked by the tendency to spread, especially into healthy tissue: an invasive carcinoma. 3. Of or relating to a medical procedure in which a part of the body is entered, as by puncture or incision. 4. Tending to intrude or encroach, as upon privacy. [Middle English, from Old French invasif, from Medieval Latin invāsīvus, from Latin invāsus, past participle of invādere, to invade. See INVADE.] —in·va'sive·ly adv. —in·va'sive·ness n.

in·vec·tive (ĭn-vĕk'tīv) n. 1. Denunciatory or abusive language; vituperation. 2. Denunciatory or abusive expression or discourse. — adj. Of, relating to, or characterized by denunciatory or abusive language. [From Middle English invectif, denunciatory, from Old French, from Late Latin invectīvus, reproachful, abusive, from Latin invectus, past participle of invehī, to inveigh against. See INVEIGH.] —in·vec'tive·ly adv. —in·vec'tive·ness n.

in·veigh (ĭn-vā') v. intr. in·veighed, in·veigh·ing, in·veighs. To give vent to angry disapproval; protest vehemently. [Latin invehī, to attack with words, inveigh against, passive of invehere, to carry in : in-, in; see IN-² + vehere, to carry; see wegh- in Appendix.] —in·veigh'er n.

in·vei·gle (ĭn-vā'gəl, -vĕl'-) v. tr. in·vei·gled, in·vei·gling, in·vei·gles. 1. To win over by coaxing, flattery, or artful talk. See Synonyms at lure. 2. To obtain by cajolery: inveigle a free pass to the screening of the new film. [Middle English envegle, alteration of Old French aveugler, to blind, from aveugle, blind, from Vulgar Latin aboculus* : Latin ab-, away from; see AB-¹ + Latin oculus, eye; see ok^w- in Appendix.] —in·vei'gle·ment n. —in·vei'gler n.

in·vent (ĭn-vĕnt') v. tr. in·vent·ed, in·vent·ing, in·vents. 1. To produce or contrive (something previously unknown) by the use of ingenuity or imagination. 2. To make up; fabricate: invent a likely excuse. [Latin invenīre, invent-, to find : in-, on, upon; see IN-² + venīre, to come; see g^wā- in Appendix.] —in·vent'i·ble adj. —in·ven'tor n.

in·ven·tion (ĭn-vĕn'shən) n. Abbr. inv. 1. The act or process of inventing: used a technique of her own invention. 2. A new device, method, or process developed from study and experimentation: the phonograph, an invention attributed to Thomas Edison. 3. A mental fabrication, especially a falsehood. 4. Skill in inventing; inventiveness: "the invention and sweep of the staging" (John Simon). 5. Music. A short composition developing a single theme contrapuntally. 6. A discovery; a finding. [Middle English invenioun, scheme, plan, from Old French invention, a finding out, from Latin inventiō, inventiōn-, inventiveness, from inventus, past participle of invenīre, to find. See INVENT.] —in-ven'tion-al adj.

in-ven-tive (ĭn-vĕn'tĭv) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characterized by invention. 2. Adept or skillful at inventing; creative. —in-ven'tive-ly adv. —in-ven'tive-ness n.

in-ven-to-ry (ĭn'vĕn-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) n. pl. in-ven-to-ries. 1. a. A detailed, itemized list, report, or record of things in one's possession, especially a periodic survey of all goods and materials in stock. b. The process of making such a list, report, or record. c. The items listed in such a report or record. d. The quantity of goods and materials on hand; stock. 2. An evaluation or a survey, as of abilities, assets, or resources. — v. tr. in-ven-to-ried, in-ven-to-ry-ing, in-ven-to-ries. 1. To make an itemized report or record of. 2. To include in an itemized report or record. [Middle English inventorie, from Medieval Latin inventōrium, alteration of Late Latin inventārium, from Latin inventus, past participle of invenīre, to find. See INVENT.] —in'ven-to'ri-al adj. —in'ven-to'ri-al-ly adv.

in-ve-rac-i-ty (ĭn'və-rās'ĭ-tē) n. pl. in-ve-rac-i-ties. 1. Lack of veracity; untruthfulness. 2. An untruth; a falsehood.

In-ver Grove Heights (ĭn'vər grōv hīts) A city of southeast Minnesota, a residential suburb of St. Paul. Population, 22,477.

in-ver-ness also In-ver-ness (ĭn'vər-nĕs') n. 1. A long, loose overcoat with a detachable cape having a round collar. 2. The cape of such an overcoat. [After Inverness.]

In-ver-ness (ĭn'vər-nĕs') A burgh of northern Scotland on the Moray Firth at the terminus of the Caledonian Canal. Thought to have been a Pict stronghold, it was chartered c. 1200. Population, 39,700.

in-verse (ĭn-vûrs', ĭn'vûrs') adj. 1. Reversed in order, nature, or effect. 2. Mathematics. Of or relating to an inverse or an inverse function. 3. Archaic. Turned upside down; inverted. — n. (ĭn'vûrs', ĭn-vûrs') 1. Something that is opposite, as in sequence or character; the reverse. 2. Mathematics. One of a pair of elements in a set whose result under the operation of the set is the identity element, especially: a. The reciprocal of a designated quantity. Also called multiplicative inverse b. The negative of a designated quantity. Also called additive inverse [Middle English, from Latin inversus, past participle of invertere, to invert. See INVERT.] —in-verse-ly adv.

inverse function (ĭn-vûrs' fŭngk'shən) n. Mathematics. A function that replaces another function's independent variable with a value of its dependent value.

in-ver-sion (ĭn-vûr'zhən, -shən) n. 1. a. The act of inverting. b. The state of being inverted. 2. An interchange of position of adjacent objects in a sequence, especially: a. A change in normal word order, such as the placement of a verb before its subject. b. Music. A rearrangement or result of the rearrangement of tones in which upper and lower voices are transposed, as in counterpoint, or in which each interval in a single melody is applied in the opposite direction.

3. Psychology. a. The taking on of the gender role of the opposite sex. b. Used as a term for homosexuality. 4. Chemistry. Conversion of a substance in which the direction of optical rotation is reversed, from the dextrorotatory to the levorotatory or from the levorotatory to the dextrorotatory form. 5. Meteorology. An atmospheric condition in which the air temperature rises with increasing altitude, holding surface air down and preventing dispersion of pollutants. 6. Genetics. A chromosomal defect in which a segment of the chromosome breaks off and reattaches in the reverse direction. [Latin inversio, *inversio*n-, from inversus, past participle of invertere, to invert. See INVERT.]

in·vert (ĭn-vûrt') v. in·vert·ed, in·vert·ing, in·verts. — v. tr. 1. To turn inside out or upside down: invert an hourglass. 2. To reverse the position, order, or condition of: invert the subject and predicate of a sentence. 3. To subject to inversion. See Synonyms at reverse. — v. intr. To be subjected to inversion. — n. (ĭn'vûrt') 1. Something inverted. 2. Psychology. a. One who takes on the gender role of the opposite sex. b. Used as a term for a homosexual person. [Latin invertere: in-, in; see IN-² + vertere, to turn; see wer-² in Appendix.] — in·vert'·i·ble adj.

in·ver·tase (ĭn-vûrt'tās', ĭn'vər-tās', -tāz') n. An enzyme that catalyzes the hydrolysis of sucrose into glucose and fructose. Also called saccharase, sucrase.

in·ver·te·brate (ĭn-vûrt'tə-brīt, -brāt') adj. 1. Lacking a backbone or spinal column; not vertebrate. 2. Of or relating to invertebrates: invertebrate zoology. — n. An animal, such as an insect or a mollusk, that lacks a backbone or spinal column.

in·vert·ed comma (ĭn-vûrt'tĭd kŏm'ə) n. Chiefly British. A quotation mark.

inverted mordent (ĭn-vûrt'tĭd mŏr'dnt) n. Music. See pralltriller.

in·vert·er (ĭn-vûrt'tər) n. 1. One that inverts or produces inversion. 2. A device used to convert direct current into alternating current.

invert sugar (ĭn-vûrt' shŏŏg'ər) n. A mixture of equal parts of glucose and fructose resulting from the hydrolysis of sucrose. It is found naturally in fruits and honey and produced artificially for use in the food industry.

in·vest (ĭn-vĕst') v. in·vest·ed, in·vest·ing, in·vests. — v. tr. 1. To commit (money or capital) in order to gain a financial return: invested their savings in stocks and bonds. 2. a. To spend or devote for future advantage or benefit: invested much time and energy in getting a good education. b. To devote morally or psychologically, as to a purpose; commit: “Men of our generation are invested in what they do, women in what we are” (Shana Alexander). 3. To endow with authority or power. 4. To install in office with ceremony: invest a new emperor. 5. To endow with an enveloping or pervasive quality: “A charm invests a face/Imperfectly beheld" (Emily Dickinson). 6. To clothe; adorn. 7. To cover completely; envelop. 8. To surround with troops or ships; besiege. See Synonyms at besiege. — v. intr. To make investments or an investment: invest in real estate. [From Italian investire, and from French investir both from Latin investīre, to clothe, surround : in-, in; see IN⁻² + vestīre, to clothe (from vestis, clothes); see wes⁻² in Appendix.] — in-vest/a-ble adj. — in-ves/tor n.

in-ves-ti-gate (ĭn-vēs'tī-gāt') v. in-ves-ti-gat-ed, in-ves-ti-gat-ing, in-ves-ti-gates. — v. tr. To observe or inquire into in detail; examine systematically. — v. intr. To make a detailed inquiry or systematic examination. [Latin investīgāre, investigāt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + vestīgāre, to track (from vestigium, footprint).] — in-ves'ti-ga-ble (-gə-bəl) adj. — in-ves'ti-ga-to'ry (-gə-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) adj.

in-ves-ti-ga-tion (ĭn-vēs'tī-gā'shən) n. 1. The act or process of investigating. 2. A detailed inquiry or systematic examination. See Synonyms at inquiry. — in-ves'ti-ga'tion-al adj.

in-ves-ti-ga-tive (ĭn-vēs'tī-gā'tiv) adj. 1. Of or relating to investigation: investigative methods. 2. Characterized by or engaged in investigation; specializing in uncovering and reporting hidden information: investigative journalism.

in-ves-ti-ga-tor (ĭn-vēs'tī-gā'tər) n. One, especially a detective, who investigates. — in-ves'ti-ga-to'ri-al (-gə-tôr'ē-əl, -tôr'-) adj.

in-ves-ti-ture (ĭn-vēs'tə-čhōōr', -chər) n. 1. The act or formal ceremony of conferring the authority and symbols of a high office. 2. An adornment or a cover. [Middle English, from Medieval Latin investītūra, from Latin investīre, to clothe. See INVEST.] in-vest-ment (ĭn-věst'mənt) n. 1. The act of investing. 2. An amount invested. 3. Property or another possession acquired for future financial return or benefit. 4. A commitment, as of time or support. 5. A military siege. 6. Archaic. a. A garment; a vestment. b. An outer covering or layer. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: investment analysis; investment dollars.

in-vet-er-ate (ĭn-vět'ər-īt) adj. 1. Firmly and long established; deep-rooted: inveterate preferences. 2. Persisting in an ingrained habit; habitual: an inveterate liar. See Synonyms at chronic. [Middle English, from Latin inveterātus, past participle of inveterārī, to grow old, endure : in-, causative pref.; see IN⁻² + vetus, veter-, old; see wet⁻² in Appendix.] — in-vet'er-a-cy (-ər-ə-sē), in-vet'er-ate-ness n. — in-vet'er-ate-ly adv.

in-vi-a-ble (ĭn-vī'ə-bəl) adj. Unable to survive or develop normally: an inviable newborn calf. — in-vi-a-bil/i-ty n.

in-vid-i-ous (ĭn-vīd'ē-əs) adj. 1. Tending to rouse ill will, animosity, or resentment: invidious accusations. 2. Containing or implying a slight; discriminatory:

invidious distinctions. 3. Envious. [From Latin invidiōsus, envious, hostile, from invidia, envy. See ENVY.] —in-vid/i-ous-ly adv. —in-vid/i-ous-ness n.

in-vig-or-ate (ĭn-vĭg'ə-rāt') v. tr. in-vig-or-at-ed, in-vig-or-at-ing, in-vig-or-ates. To impart vigor, strength, or vitality to; animate: "A few whiffs of the raw, strong scent of phlox invigorated her" (D.H. Lawrence). [Possibly obsolete invigor (from French envigorer, from Old French envigourer : en-, in-; see in⁻² + vigour, vigor); see VIGOR + -ATE¹.] —in-vig/or-at/ing-ly adv.

—in-vig/or-a'tion n. —in-vig/or-a'tor n.

in-vin-ci-ble (ĭn-vĭn'sə-bəl) adj. Incapable of being overcome or defeated; unconquerable. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin invincibilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + vincibilis, conquerable; see VINCIBLE.] —in-vin'ci-bil/i-ty, in-vin'ci-ble-ness n. —in-vin'ci-bly adv.

in-vi-o-la-ble (ĭn-vī'ə-lə-bəl) adj. 1. Secure from violation or profanation: an inviolable reliquary deep beneath the altar. 2. Impregnable to assault or trespass; invincible: fortifications that made the frontier inviolable. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin inviolābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + violāre, to violate; see VIO-LATE.] —in-vi'o-la-bil/i-ty, in-vi'o-la-ble-ness n. —in-vi'o-la-bly adv.

in-vi-o-late (ĭn-vī'ə-līt) adj. Not violated or profaned; intact: "The great inviolate place had an ancient permanence which the sea cannot claim" (Thomas Hardy). [Middle English, from Latin inviolātus : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + violātus, past participle of violāre, to violate; see VIOLATE.] —in-vi'o-la-cy (-lə-sē), in-vi'o-late-ness n. —in-vi'o-late-ly adv.

in-vis-cid (ĭn-vĭs'ĭd) adj. 1. Having no viscosity. 2. Chemistry & Physics. Of or relating to a fluid with no viscosity.

in-vis-i-ble (ĭn-vĭz'ə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to see; not visible: invisible writing. 2. Not accessible to view; hidden: mountain peaks invisible in the fog. 3. Not easily noticed or detected; inconspicuous: "The poor are politically invisible" (Michael Harrington). 4. Not published in financial statements: an invisible asset. — n. One that is invisible. —in-vis'i-bil/i-ty, in-vis/i-ble-ness n. —in-vis/i-bly adv.

invisible ink (ĭn-vĭz'ə-bəl ĭngk) n. Ink that is colorless and invisible until treated by a chemical, heat, or special light. Also called sympathetic ink in-vi-ta-tion (ĭn'vĭ-tā'shən) n. 1. The act of inviting. 2. A spoken or written request for someone's presence or participation. 3. An allurements, enticement, or attraction. 4. Chiefly Southern U.S. See altar call.

in-vi-ta-tion-al (ĭn'vĭ-tā'shə-nəl) adj. Restricted to invited participants: an invitational golf tournament. — n. An event, especially a sports tournament, restricted to invited participants.

in-vi-ta-to-ry (ĭn-vī'tə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) n. in-vi-ta-to-ries. pl. A psalm or other piece sung as an invitation to prayer in church services. — adj. Constituting or containing an invitation. [Middle English invitatorie, from Medieval Latin invītātōrium, from Late Latin invītātōrius, inviting, from Latin invītātus, past participle of invītāre, to invite.]

in-vite (ĭn-vīt') v. tr. in-vit-ed, in-vit-ing, in-vites. 1. To ask for the presence or participation of: invite friends to dinner; invite writers to a conference. 2. To request formally: invited us to be seated. 3. To welcome; encourage: invite questions from the audience. 4. To tend to bring on; provoke: "Divisions at home would invite dangers from abroad" (John Jay). 5. To entice; tempt. — n. (ĭn'vīt') Informal. An invitation. [French inviter, from Old French, from Latin invītāre.] in-vi-tee (ĭn'vī-tē') n. One that is invited.

in-vit-ing (ĭn-vī'ting) adj. Attractive; tempting: an inviting dessert.

—in-vit'ing-ly adv.

in vi-tro (ĭn vē'trō) adv. & adj. In an artificial environment outside the living organism: an egg fertilized in vitro; in vitro fertilization. [New Latin in vitro: Latin in, in + Latin vitro, ablative of vitrum, glass.]

in vi-vo (ĭn vē'vō) adv. & adj. Within a living organism: metabolic studies conducted in vivo; in vivo techniques. [New Latin in vivo: Latin in, in + Latin vivō, ablative of vīvus, living, a living body.]

in-vo-cate (ĭn'və-kāt') v. tr. in-vo-cat-ed, in-vo-cat-ing, in-vo-cates.

Archaic. To invoke. [Latin invocāre, invocāt-, to invoke. See INVOKE.]

in-vo-ca-tion (ĭn'və-kā'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of invoking, especially an appeal to a higher power for assistance. 2. A prayer or other formula used in invoking, as at the opening of a religious service. 3. a. The act of conjuring up a spirit by incantation. b. An incantation used in conjuring. [Middle English invocacion, from Old French, from Latin invocātiō, invocātiōn-, from invocātus, past participle of invocāre, to invoke. See INVOKE.] —in'vo-ca'tion-al adj.

in-voc-a-to-ry (ĭn-vŏk'ə-tŏr'ē, -tŏr'ē) adj. Of or having the nature of an invocation.

in-voice (ĭn'vois') n. Abbr. inv. 1. A detailed list of goods shipped or services rendered, with an account of all costs; an itemized bill. 2. The goods or services itemized in an invoice. — v. tr. in-voiced, in-voic-ing, in-voic-es. 1. To make an invoice of (goods or services). 2. To send an invoice to; bill. [Alteration of obsolete invoyes, pl. of invoy, invoice, from French envoi, a sending, shipment, from envoyer, to send. See ENVOY¹.]

in-voke (ĭn-vŏk') v. tr. in-voked, in-vok-ing, in-vokes. 1. To call on (a higher power) for assistance, support, or inspiration: "Stretching out her hands she had the air of a Greek woman who invoked a deity" (Ford Madox Ford). 2. To appeal to or cite in support or justification. 3. To call for earnestly; solicit: invoked the help of a passing motorist. 4. To summon with incantations; conjure. 5. To resort to; use or apply: "Shamelessly, he invokes coincidence to achieve ironic effect" (Newsweek). See Synonyms at enforce. [Middle English envoken, from Old French invoquer, from Latin invocāre: in-, in; see IN-² + vocāre, to call; see wek^w- in Appendix.] —in-vok'er n.

in-vol-u-cel (ĭn-vŏl'yə-sĕl') n. Botany. A secondary involucre, as at the base of an umbel within a compound umbel. [New Latin involūcellum, diminutive of involūcrum, involucre. See INVOLUCRUM.]

in-vo-lu-cra (ĭn'və-lŏŏ'krə) n. Plural of involucrum.

in-vo-lu-cre (ĭn'və-lŏŏ'kər) n. A series of bracts beneath or around a flower or flower cluster. [French, from Latin involūcrum, wrapper, envelope. See INVOLUCRUM.] —in'vo-lu'cral (-krəl), in'vo-lu'crate (-krīt, -krāt') adj. in-vo-lu-crum (ĭn'və-lŏŏ'krəm) n. pl. in-vo-lu-cra (-krə). An enveloping sheath or envelope. [New Latin, from Latin, wrapper, envelope, from involvere, to enwrap. See INVOLVE.] in-vol-un-tar-y (ĭn-vŏl'ən-tĕr'ē) adj. 1. Acting or done without or against one's will: an involuntary participant in what turned out to be an argument.

2. Not subject to control of the volition: gave an involuntary start. See Synonyms at spontaneous. —in-vol'un-tar'i-ly (-tār'ə-lē) adv. —in-vol'un-tar'i-ness n.

in-vo-lute (ĭn'və-lŏŏt') adj. 1. Intricate; complex. 2. Botany. a. Having the margins rolled inward. b. Having whorls that obscure the axis or other volutions, as the shell of a cowrie. — v. intr. in-vo-lut-ed, in-vo-lut-ing, in-vo-lutes.

1. To curl inward. 2. To return to a normal or former condition. — n. The curve traced by a point on a taut, inextensible string as it unwinds from another curve. [Latin involutus, past participle of involvere, to enwrap. See INVOLVE.]

—in'vo-lute'ly adv.

in-vo-lu-tion (ĭn'və-lŏŏ'shən) n. 1. a. The act of involving. b. The state of being involved. 2. Intricacy; complexity. 3. Something, such as a long grammatical construction, that is intricate or complex. 4. Mathematics. The multiplying of a quantity by itself a specified number of times; the raising to a power.

5. Embryology. The ingrowth and curling inward of a group of cells, as in the formation of a gastrula from a blastula. 6. Medicine. a. A decrease in size of an organ, as of the uterus following childbirth. b. A progressive decline or degeneration of normal physiological functioning occurring as a result of the aging process. [Latin involutiō, involutiōn-, from involutus, past participle of involvere, to enwrap. See INVOLVE.] —in'vo-lu'tion-al adj.

in-volve (ĭn-vŏlv') v. tr. in-volved, in-volv-ing, in-volves. 1. To contain as a part; include. 2. To have as a necessary feature or consequence; entail: was told that the job would involve travel. See Synonyms at include. 3. To engage as a participant; embroil: involved the bystanders in his dispute with the police. 4. a. To connect closely and often incriminatingly; implicate: evidence that involved the governor in the scandal. b. To influence or affect: The matter is serious because it involves your reputation. 5. To occupy or engage the interest of: a story that completely involved me for the rest of the evening. 6. To make complex or intricate; complicate. 7. To wrap; envelop: a castle that was involved in mist. 8. Archaic. To wind or coil about. [Middle English involveren, from Latin involvere, to enwrap : in-, in-; see IN⁻² + volvere, to roll, turn; see wel⁻² in Appendix.] —in-volve'ment n. —in-volv'er n.

in-volved (in-vōlvd') adj. 1. Complicated; intricate: the involved procedure of getting a license. See Synonyms at complex. 2. Curled inward; coiled or involute. 3. Confused; tangled. 4. Connected by participation or association: involved in a conspiracy. 5. a. Emotionally committed: He joined their organization but never really got involved. b. Having a sexual relationship: They see a lot of each other but aren't involved. —in-volv'ed-ly (-vōlv'vid-lē) adv.

in-vul-ner-a-ble (in-vūl'nēr-ə-bəl) adj. 1. Immune to attack; impregnable. 2. Impossible to damage, injure, or wound. [French invulnérable, from Old French, from Latin invulnerābilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + vulnerāre, to wound (from vulnus, vulner-, wound); see VULNERABLE.] —in-vul'ner-a-bil'i-ty, in-vul'ner-a-ble-ness n. —in-vul'ner-a-bly adv.

in-ward (in'wərd) adj. 1. Located inside; inner. 2. Directed or moving toward the interior: an inward flow. 3. Of, relating to, or existing in the thoughts or mind: inward doubts. 4. Intimate; familiar: is inward with the right people. — adv. 1. Toward the inside, center, or interior. 2. Toward the mind or the self: thoughts turned inward. — n. 1. An inner or a central part. 2. An inner essence or spirit. 3. inwards. Entrails; innards. [Middle English, from Old English inweard. See wer⁻² in Appendix.] —in'wards adv.

in-ward-ly (in'wərd-lē) adv. 1. On or in the inside; within: a window opening flared inwardly. 2. Privately; to oneself: "kept his lips closed with the expression of a man inwardly laughing" (T.S. Stripling).

in-ward-ness (in'wərd-nīs) n. 1. Intimacy; familiarity. 2. Preoccupation with one's own thoughts or feelings; introspection.

in-weave (in-wēv') v. tr. in-wove (-wōv'), in-wo-ven (-wō'vən), in-weav-ing, in-weaves. To weave into a fabric or design.

in-wind (in-wīnd') v. Variant of enwind.

in-wove (ī-wōv') v. Past tense of inweave.

in-wo-ven (in-wō'vən) v. Past participle of inweave.

in-wrap (in-rāp') v. Variant of enwrap.

in-wreathe (in-rēth') v. Variant of enwreathe.

in-wrought (in-rōt', in'rōt') adj. 1. Worked or woven in: an inwrought design. 2. Having a decorative pattern worked or woven in.

I-o (ī'ō, ē'ō) n. 1. Greek Mythology. A maiden who was loved by Zeus and transformed by Hera into a heifer. 2. One of the four brightest satellites of Jupiter and the ninth in distance from the planet. It was first sighted by Galileo. [Latin Iō, from Greek.]

I/O abbr. Input/output.

IOC abbr. International Olympic Committee.

iod- pref. Variant of iodo-.

i·o·date (ī'ə-dāt') v. tr. i·o·dat·ed, i·o·dat·ing, i·o·dates. To combine, impregnate, or treat with iodine. — n. (-dāt', -dīt) A salt of iodic acid.
—i'·o·da'tion n.

i·od·ic acid (ī-ōd'ik əs'īd) n. A colorless or white crystalline powder, HIO_3 , used as an astringent and a disinfectant. [French iodique, from iode, iodine. See IODINE.]

i·o·dide (ī'ə-dīd') n. A compound of iodine with a more electropositive element or group.

i·o·dine (ī'ə-dīn', -dīn, -dēn') n. Symbol I 1. A lustrous, grayish-black, corrosive, poisonous halogen element having radioactive isotopes, especially I 131, used as a medical tracer and in thyroid disease diagnosis and therapy. Iodine compounds are used as germicides, antiseptics, and dyes. Atomic number 53; atomic weight 126.9044; melting point 113.5°C ; boiling point 184.35°C ; specific gravity (solid, at 20°C) 4.93; valence 1, 3, 5, 7. 2. A liquid containing iodine dissolved in ethyl alcohol, used as an antiseptic for wounds. [French iode, iodine (from Greek ioeidēs, violet-colored : ion, violet + -oeidēs, -oid) + *-INE*².]

i·o·dize (ī'ə-dīz') v. tr. i·o·dized, i·o·diz·ing, i·o·diz·es. To treat or combine with iodine or an iodide: iodize salt. —i'·o·di·za'tion (-dī-zā'shən) n.

iodo- or iod- pref. Iodine: iodoform. [From French iode, iodine. See IODINE.]

i·o·do·form (ī-ō'də-fōrm', ī-ōd'ə-) n. A yellowish crystalline iodine compound, CHI_3 , used as an antiseptic. [IODO- + FORM(YL).]

i·o·do·phor (ī-ō'də-fōr') n. A substance consisting of iodine and a solubilizing agent that releases free iodine when in solution. [IODO- + -PHOR(E).]

i·o·dop·sin (ī'ə-dōp'sīn) n. A violet, light-sensitive pigment found in the retinal cones of the eye.

i·o moth (ī'ō mōth, ē'ō) n. A large, yellowish North American moth (Automeris io) having a prominent eyelike spot on each hind wing. [After IO, who was tormented by gadflies sent by Hera as a punishment (from the stinging spines of its larvae).]

i·on (ī'ən, ī'ōn') n. An atom or a group of atoms that has acquired a net electric charge by gaining or losing one or more electrons. [Greek ion, something that goes, neuter present participle of ienai, to go. See ei- in Appendix.]

Ion. abbr. Ionic.

-ion suff. 1. a. Action or process: completion. b. Result of an action or process: indention. 2. State or condition: dehydration. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin -iō, -iōn-, n. suff..]

I·o·na (ī-ō'nə) An island of western Scotland in the southern Inner Hebrides. An early center of Celtic Christianity, the island is a popular tourist site.

ion engine (ī'ən ěn'jĭn) n. A rocket engine that develops thrust by expelling ions rather than gaseous combustion products. Also called ion rocket Io·nes·co (ē'ə-nĕs'kō, yə-), Eugène. 1912-1994. Romanian-born French dramatist whose plays The Bald Soprano (1956) and Rhinoceros (1959) are classics of the Theater of the Absurd.

ion exchange (ī'ən ĩks-chānj') n. A reversible chemical reaction between an insoluble solid and a solution during which ions may be interchanged, used in water softening and in the separation of radioactive isotopes.

I·o·ni·a (ī-ō'nĕ-ə) An ancient region of western Asia Minor along the coast of the Aegean Sea. Greek settlers established colonies here before 1000 B.C. The seaports of Ionia flourished from c. 8th century B.C. until the Turkish conquest of the 15th century A.D.

I·o·ni·an (ī-ō'nĕ-ən) n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Ionia. 2. One of a Hellenic people of Mycenaean origin that inhabited Attica, the Peloponnesus along the Saronic Gulf, Euboea, the Cyclades, and Ionia. —I·o·ni·an adj.

Ionian Islands (ī-ō'nĕ-ən ĩ'lāndz) A chain of islands of western Greece in the Ionian Sea. Colonized by the ancient Greeks, the islands subsequently came under the rule of Rome, Byzantium, Venice, France, Russia, and Great Britain before being ceded to Greece in 1864.

Ionian Sea (ī-ō'nĕ-ən sē) An arm of the Mediterranean Sea between western Greece and southern Italy. It is linked with the Adriatic Sea by the Strait of Otranto.

i·o·n·ic (ī-ōn'ĭk) adj. Of, containing, or involving ions.

I·o·n·ic (ī-ōn'ĭk) adj. 1. Of or relating to Ionia or the Ionians. 2. Architecture. Of or belonging to the Ionic order. — n. Abbr. Ion. The ancient Greek dialect of Ionia.

ionic bond (ī-ōn'ĭk bönd) n. A chemical bond between two ions with opposite charges, characteristic of salts. Also called electrovalent bond Ionic order (ī-ōn'ĭk ôr'dər) n. Architecture. An order of classical Greek architecture characterized by two opposed volutes in the capital.

ionic propulsion (ī-ōn'ĭk prə-pŭl'shən) n. Propulsion by the reactive thrust of a high-speed beam of similarly charged ions ejected by an ion engine. Also called ion propulsion

i·o·n·i·za·tion (ī'ə-nĭ-zā'shən) n. 1. The formation of or separation into ions by heat, electrical discharge, radiation, or chemical reaction. 2. The state of being ionized.

ionization chamber (ī'ə-nĭ-zā'shən chām'bər) n. A gas-filled enclosure containing positive and negative electrodes that measures the amount of radiation passing through the enclosure according to the degree of ionization caused by the radiation.

ionization potential (ī'ə-nī-zā'shən pə-těn'shəl) n. The energy required to remove completely an electron from its atom.

i·on·ize (ī'ə-nīz') v. tr. intr. i·on·ized, i·on·iz·ing, i·on·iz·es. To convert or be converted totally or partially into ions. —i'·on·iz'er n.

i·on·iz·ing radiation (ī'ə-nī'zīng rā'dē-ā'shən) n. High-energy radiation capable of producing ionization in substances through which it passes. It includes energetic charged particles, such as alpha and beta rays; nonparticulate radiation, such as x-rays; and neutrons.

ion microscope (ī'ən mī'krə-skōp') n. A field-ion microscope.

i·o·none (ī'ə-nōn') n. A colorless to yellowish liquid, C₁₃H₂₀O, having a strong odor of violets and used in perfumes. [Formerly a trademark.]

i·on·o·phore (ī-ōn'ə-fôr, -fôr') n. Any of a group of organic compounds that facilitate the transport of ions across the cell membrane.

i·on·o·sphere (ī-ōn'ə-sfīr') n. A region of the earth's atmosphere where ionization caused by incoming solar radiation affects the transmission of radio waves. It extends from a height of 50 kilometers (30 miles) to 400 kilometers (250 miles) above the surface. —i·on'o·spher'ic (-sfīr'ik, -sfēr'-) adj.

ion propulsion (ī'ən prə-pūl'shən) n. See ionic propulsion.

ion rocket (ī'ən rōk'it) n. 1. A rocket using ionic propulsion. 2. See ion engine.

ion trap (ī'ən trāp) n. A device, such as a magnet, used to prevent ions in an electron beam from striking other apparatus.

IOOF abbr. Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

i·o·ta (ī-ō'tə) n. 1. The ninth letter of the Greek alphabet. 2. A very small amount; a bit: not an iota of truth to that tale. [Latin iōta, from Greek, of Phoenician origin; akin to Hebrew yôd, yod.]

i·o·ta·cism (ī-ō'tə-sīz'əm) n. The conversion of other vowel sounds in Greek, such as eta or upsilon, to the sound of iota. [Late Latin iōtacismus, from Greek iōtakismos, from iōta, iota. See IOTA.]

IOU (ī'ō-yōō') n. pl. IOU's or IOUs. A promise to pay a debt, especially a signed paper stating the specific amount owed and often bearing the letters IOU. [From the pronunciation of I owe you.]

-ious suff. Having; having the qualities of; full of: bilious. [Middle English, partly from Latin -ius, and partly from Old French -ieus, -ieux, -ieux from Latin -iōsus.]

I·o·wa¹ (ī'ə-wə) n. pl. Iowa or I·o·was. 1. a. A Native American people formerly inhabiting parts of Iowa and southwest Minnesota, with present-day descendants in Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma. b. A member of this people.

2. The Siouan language of the Iowa. [From French ayoés, ultimately from Dakota ayúxba.] —I'ō-wa adj.

I·o·wa² (ī'ə-wə) Abbr. IA, Ia. A state of the north-central United States. It was admitted as the 29th state in 1846. Part of the Louisiana Purchase of 1803, Iowa was organized as a separate territory in 1838. The Mound Builders lived in the area in prehistoric times. Des Moines is the capital and the largest city. Population, 2,787,424. —I'ō-wan adj. & n.

Iowa City (ī'ə-wə sīt'ē) A city of eastern Iowa on the Iowa River south-south-east of Cedar Rapids. It is the seat of the University of Iowa (established 1847). Population, 59,738.

Iowa River (ī'ə-wə rīv'ər) A river rising in northern Iowa and flowing about 529 km (329 mi) southeast to the Mississippi River in the southeast part of the state.

IPA abbr. 1. Also I.P.A.. International Phonetic Alphabet. 2. International Phonetic Association. 3. Isopropyl alcohol.

I·pa·tieff (ī-pä'tyĭf), Vladimir Nikolaevich. 1867-1952. Russian-born American chemist who developed a process for producing high-octane gasoline.

ip·e·cac (ip'ĭ-kāk') also ip·e·cac·u·an·ha (ip'ĭ-kāk'yōō-än'ə) n. 1. a. A low-growing tropical American shrub (Cephaelis ipecacuanha) having roots and rhizomes that yield emetine. b. The dried roots and rhizomes of this shrub. 2. A medicinal preparation made from the dried roots and rhizomes of this shrub that is used to induce vomiting, particularly in cases of poisoning and drug overdose. [Short for Portuguese ipecacuanha, from Tupi ipekaaguéne : ipeh, low + kaâ, leaves + guéne, vomit.]

Iph·i·ge·ni·a (if'ə-jə-nī'ə, -nē'ə) n. Greek Mythology. The daughter of Clytemnestra and Agamemnon, who was offered as a sacrifice by Agamemnon but rescued by Artemis. She later became a priestess.

ipm abbr. Inches per minute.

I·poh (ē'pō) A city of western Malaysia north-northwest of Kuala Lumpur. It is a commercial center in a tin-mining area. Population, 300,325.

i·pro·ni·a·zid (ī'prə-nī'ə-zĭd) n. A compound, C₉H₁₃N₃O, used as an antidepressant and formerly used to treat tuberculosis. [I(SO)PRO(PYL ALCOHOL) + NI(COTINE) + AZ- + -ID.]

ips or i.p.s. abbr. Inches per second.

ip·se dix·it (ip'sē dĭk'sĭt) n. An unsupported assertion, usually by a person of standing; a dictum. [Latin ipse dixit, he himself said (it) : ipse, he himself + dixit, third person sing. perfect tense of dĭcere, to say.]

ip·si·lat·er·al (ip'sə-lăt'ər-əl) adj. Located on or affecting the same side of the body. [Alteration of Latin ipse, self + LATERAL.] —ip'si·lat'er·al·ly adv.

ip·sis·si·ma ver·ba (ĭp-sĭs'ə-mə vŭr'bə) pl.n. The very words. [New Latin : Latin ipsissima, the very, neuter pl. superlative of ipse, self + Latin verba, pl. of verbum, word.]

ip·so fac·to (ĭp'sō fāk'tō) adv. By the fact itself; by that very fact: An alien, ipso facto, has no right to a U.S. passport. [New Latin ipsō factō : Latin ipsō, ablative of ipse, itself + Latin factō, ablative of factum, fact.]

ipso ju·re (ĭp'sō jōōr'ē) adv. Law. By the law itself. [New Latin ipsō iūre : Latin ipsō, ablative of ipse, itself + Latin iūre, ablative of iūs, law.]

Ips·wich (ĭp'swĭch') A borough of eastern England near the North Sea north-east of London. It was a commercial and pottery-making center from the 7th to the 12th century and was later (16th century) important in the woolen trade. Population, 118,900.

IQ or I.Q. abbr. Intelligence quotient.

i.q. abbr. Latin. Idem quod (the same as).

I·qui·que (ĭ-kē'kē) A city of northwest Chile on the Pacific Ocean south of the Peruvian border. Founded in the 16th century, it was ceded to Chile by Peru in 1883. Population, 110,153.

I·qui·tos (ĭ-kē'tōs, ē-kē'tōs) A city of northeast Peru on the Amazon River northeast of Lima. It grew after a boom in wild rubber in the early 20th century. Population, 178,738.

Ir The symbol for the element iridium.

IR abbr. 1. Information retrieval. 2. Infrared.

Ir. abbr. Irish.

ir⁻¹ pref. Variant of in⁻¹.

ir⁻² pref. Variant of in⁻².

IRA abbr. 1. Individual Retirement Account. 2. Individual Retirement Arrangement. 3. Also I.R.A.. Irish Republican Army.

I·rā·kli·on (ĭ-rā'klē-ôn') also Can·di·a (kăn'dē-ə) A city of southern Greece on the northern coast of Crete. It was founded by Saracens in the ninth century and passed to the Byzantines, Venetians, and Ottoman Turks before becoming part of Crete in 1913. Population, 102,398.

I·ran (ĭ-răn', ĭ-răn', ĭ-răn') Formerly Per·sia (pŭr'zhə, -shə). A country of southwest Asia. First inhabited c. 4000 B.C., the region was overrun (c. 2000) by Aryans, who later split into two groups, the Medes and the Persians. The Persian Empire was founded c. 550 B.C. by Cyrus the Great and dominated the surrounding area until the time of Alexander the Great. In World War II Russia and Great Britain occupied the country and installed Mohammed Reza Pahlevi as shah (1941). He was overthrown (1979) by a revolution led by the Ayatollah Khomeini. The name of the country was officially changed to Iran in 1935. Tehran is the capital and the largest city. Population, 40,777,000.

I·ra·ni·an (ĭ-rā' nē-ən, ĭ-rā' -, ĭ-rā' -) adj. Of or relating to Iran or its people, language, or culture. — n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Iran. 2. A branch of the Indo-European language family that includes Persian, Kurdish, Pashto, and other languages of Iran, Afghanistan, and western Pakistan.

I·ra·pua·to (ĭr'ə-pwä'tō, ē'rä-) A city of central Mexico east of Guadalajara. It is the commercial center of a mining and agricultural area. Population, 170,138.

I·raq (ĭ-rāk', ĭ-rāk') A country of southwest Asia. Site of a number of flourishing ancient Mesopotamian civilizations, Iraq fell to the Arabs (7th century) and later to the Ottoman Turks (16th century). It was established as an independent kingdom in 1921 and became a republic after the assassination (1958) of Faisal II. Baghdad is the capital and largest city. Population, 15,584,987.

I·ra·qi (ĭ-rāk'ē, ĭ-rä'kē) adj. Of or relating to Iraq or its people, language, or culture. — n. pl. I·ra·qis. 1. A native or inhabitant of Iraq. 2. The modern dialect of Arabic spoken in Iraq.

i·ras·ci·ble (ĭ-räs'ə-bəl, ĭ-räs' -) adj. 1. Prone to outbursts of temper; easily angered. 2. Characterized by or resulting from anger. [Middle English, from Old French, from Late Latin irāscibilis, from Latin irāscī, to be angry, from īra, anger. See eis- in Appendix.] — i·ras'ci·bil'i·ty, i·ras'ci·ble·ness n. — i·ras'ci·bly adv.

i·rate (ĭ-rāt', ĭ'rāt') adj. 1. Extremely angry; enraged. See Synonyms at angry. 2. Characterized or occasioned by anger: an irate phone call. [Latin irātus, past participle of irāscī, to be angry, from īra, anger. See eis- in Appendix.] — i·rate'ly adv. — i·rate'ness n.

Ir·bil (ĭr'bĭl) also Er·bil (ĭr'bĭl, ěr' -) A city of northern Iraq north of Baghdad. Built on the site of ancient Arbela, it is a trade center. Population, 333,903.

IRBM abbr. Intermediate-range ballistic missile.

ire (ĭr) n. Anger; wrath. See Synonyms at anger. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin īra. See eis- in Appendix.]

Ire. abbr. Ireland.

Ire·dell (ĭr'dĕl'), James. 1751-1799. American jurist who served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1790-1799).

ire·ful (ĭr'fəl) adj. Full of ire; wrathful. See Synonyms at angry. — ire'ful·ly adv.

Ire·land¹ (ĭr'lənd) An island in the northern Atlantic Ocean west of Great Britain. The island was invaded by Celts c. 500 B.C. and converted to Christianity by Saint Patrick in the fifth century A.D. It joined Great Britain in 1801 but after the Easter Rebellion (1916) and a civil war (1919-1921) the island was split into the independent Irish Free State (now Ireland) and Northern Ireland, which is still allied with Great Britain.

Ire·land² (ĭr'lənd) Formerly I·rish Free State (ĭ'rĭsh) also Eir·e (ĕr'ə, ĕr'ē, ĭ'rē). Abbr. Ire. A country occupying most of the island of Ireland. Established as the Irish Free State in 1922, Ireland officially became the sovereign state of Eire in 1937. The Republic of Ireland was proclaimed on Easter Monday (April 18), 1949. Dublin is the capital and the largest city. Population, 3,443,405.

Ireland, Northern. See Northern Ireland.

i-ren·ic (ī-rĕn'ĭk, ī-rĕ'nĭk) also i-ren·i-cal (-ĭ-kəl, -nĭ-kəl) adj. Promoting peace; conciliatory. [Greek eirēnikos, from eirēnē, peace.] —i-ren'i-cal-ly adv.

Ire·ton (ĭr'tn), Henry. 1611-1651. English Parliamentary general during the Civil War (1642-1651). Ireton helped bring Charles I to trial and was a signer of his death warrant.

irid. abbr. Iridescent.

irid- pref. Variant of irido-.

ir-i-da-ceous (ĭr'ĭ-dā'shəs) adj. Of or belonging to the iris family. [From New Latin Īridācea, iris family, from Īris, Īrid-, type genus, from Latin īris, iris. See IRIS.]

ir-i-dec-to-my (ĭr'ĭ-dĕk'tə-mĕ, ĭ'rĭ-) n. pl. ir-i-dec-to-mies. Surgical removal of part of the iris of the eye.

i-ri-des (ĭ'rĭ-dĕz', ĭr'ĭ-) n. A plural of iris.

ir-i-des-cence (ĭr'ĭ-dĕs'əns) n. The quality or state of being iridescent.

ir-i-des-cent (ĭr'ĭ-dĕs'ənt) adj. Abbr. irid. 1. Producing a display of lustrous, rainbowlike colors: an iridescent oil slick; iridescent plumage. 2. Brilliant, lustrous, or colorful in effect or appearance: “The prelude was as iridescent as a prism in a morning room” (Carson McCullers). —ir'i-des-cent-ly adv.

i-rid-ic (ĭ-rĭd'ĭk, ĭ-rĭd'-) adj. Of or relating to the iris of the eye.

i-rid-i-um (ĭ-rĭd'ĭ-əm) n. Symbol Ir A very hard and brittle, exceptionally corrosion-resistant, whitish-yellow metallic element occurring in platinum ores and used principally to harden platinum and in high-temperature materials, electrical contacts, and wear-resistant bearings. Atomic number 77; atomic weight 192.2; melting point 2,410°C; boiling point 4,130°C; specific gravity 22.42 (at 17°C); valence 3, 4. [Latin īris, īrid-, rainbow (from the colors produced by dissolving it in hydrochloric acid); see IRIDO- + -IUM.]

irido- or irid- pref. 1. Rainbow: iridescent. 2. Iris of the eye: iridectomy.

3. Iridium: iridosmine. [Latin īris, īrid-, rainbow, from Greek iris. See wei- in Appendix.]

ir-i-dol-o-gy (ĭr'ĭ-dŏl'ə-jĕ, ĭ'rĭ-) n. The study of the iris of the eye, especially as associated with disease. —ir'i-dol'o-gist n.

ir-i-dos-mine (ĭr'ĭ-dŏz'mĕn) n. See osmiridium. [IRID(O)- + OSM(IUM) + -INE².]

i-ris (ĭ'rĭs) n. pl. i-ri-ses or i-ri-des (ĭ'rĭ-dĕz', ĭr'ĭ-). 1. The pigmented, round, contractile membrane of the eye, suspended between the cornea and lens and perforated by the pupil. It regulates the amount of light entering the eye. 2. Any of numerous plants of the genus Iris, having narrow sword-shaped leaves and showy, variously colored flowers. 3. A rainbow or rainbowlike display of colors. [Middle English, rainbow, from Latin īris, īrid-, from Greek, rainbow, iris of the eye. See wei- in Appendix.]

I·ris (ī'ris) n. Greek Mythology. The goddess of the rainbow and messenger of the gods. [Latin Īris, from Greek. See wei- in Appendix.]

iris diaphragm (ī'ris dī'ə-frām') n. A circular device with a variable diameter, commonly used on cameras to regulate the amount of light admitted to a lens.

I·rish (ī'rish) adj. Abbr. Ir. Of or relating to Ireland or its people, language, or culture. — n. Abbr. Ir. 1. The people of Ireland. 2. a. See Irish Gaelic. b. See Irish English. 3. Informal. Fieriness of temper or passion; high spirit. [Middle English, from Old English Īras, the Irish. See peiə- in Appendix.]

Irish bull (ī'rish bōōl) n. A statement containing an incongruity or a logical absurdity, usually unbeknown to the speaker. "With a pistol in each hand and a sword in the other" is an Irish bull.

Irish coffee (ī'rish kô'fē) n. A beverage of sweetened hot coffee and Irish whiskey, topped with whipped cream.

Irish elk (ī'rish ělk) n. A large extinct European deer of the genus Megaceros of the Pliocene Epoch and the Pleistocene Epoch, having very large palmate antlers.

Irish English (ī'rish ینگ'glīsh) n. English as spoken by the Irish. Also called Anglo-Irish, Hiberno-English, Irish.

Irish Free State (ī'rish frē stāt) See Ireland².

Irish Gaelic (ī'rish gā'līk) n. The Goidelic language of Ireland. Also called Erse, Irish.

I·rish·ism (ī'rish-iz'əm) n. An Irish idiom or custom.

I·rish·man (ī'rish-mən) n. A man of Irish birth or ancestry.

Irish moss (ī'rish mōs) n. An edible North Atlantic seaweed (Chondrus crispus) that yields a mucilaginous substance used medicinally and in preparing jellies. Also called carrageen

I·rish·ry (ī'rish-rē) n. pl. I·rish·ries. 1. The Irish people, especially those of Celtic descent. 2. a. Irish character. b. An Irish trait, custom, or locution; an Irishism.

Irish Sea (ī'rish sē) An arm of the northern Atlantic Ocean between Ireland and Great Britain.

Irish setter (ī'rish sēt'ər) n. Any of a breed of setters having a silky reddish-brown coat.

Irish stew (ī'rish stōō) n. A stew of meat and vegetables.

Irish terrier (ī'rish tēr'ē-ər) n. Any of a breed of terriers having a wiry reddish-brown coat.

Irish whiskey (ī'rish hwīs'kē) n. Whiskey made by the distillation of barley.

Irish wolfhound (ī'rīsh wōōlf'hound') n. Any of an ancient breed of large powerful dogs having a rough, shaggy coat.

Irish-woman (ī'rīsh-wōōm'ən) n. A woman of Irish birth or ancestry.

i-ri-tis (ī-rī'tīs) n. Inflammation of the iris of the eye. [IR(IS) + -ITIS.] —i-rit'ic (ī-rīt'ik) adj.

irk (ûrk) v. tr. irked, irk-ing, irks. To be irritating, wearisome, or vexing to. See Synonyms at annoy. [Middle English irken, to weary, possibly from Old Norse yrkja, to work, make verses, harangue. See werg- in Appendix.]

irk-some (ûrk'səm) adj. Causing annoyance, weariness, or vexation; tedious: irksome restrictions. See Synonyms at boring. —irk'some-ly adv. —irk'-some-ness n.

Ir-kutsk (îr-kōōtsk') A city of south-central Russia near the southern end of Lake Baikal. It is an industrial center and a major stop on the Trans-Siberian Railroad. Population, 597,000.

IRO abbr. International Refugee Organization.

iron (ī'ərn) n. 1. Symbol Fe A silvery-white, lustrous, malleable, ductile, magnetic or magnetizable, metallic element occurring abundantly in combined forms, notably in hematite, limonite, magnetite, and taconite, and used alloyed in a wide range of important structural materials. Atomic number 26; atomic weight 55.847; melting point 1,535°C; boiling point 2,750°C; specific gravity 7.874 (at 20°C); valence 2, 3, 4, 6. 2. An implement made of iron alloy or similar metal, especially a bar heated for use in branding, curling hair, or cauterizing. 3. Great hardness or strength; firmness: a will of iron. 4. Sports. A golf club with a metal head, numbered from one to nine in order of increasing loft. 5. A metal appliance with a handle and a weighted flat bottom, used when heated to press wrinkles from fabric. 6. A harpoon. 7. irons. Fetters; shackles. 8. A tonic, pill, or other medication containing iron and taken as a dietary supplement. — adj.

1. Made of or containing iron: iron bars; an iron alloy. 2. Very hard and strong: an iron fist. 3. Hardy; robust: an iron constitution. 4. Inflexible; unyielding: iron resolve. — v. i-roned, i-ron-ing, i-rons. — v. tr. 1. a. To press and smooth with a heated iron: iron clothes. b. To remove (creases) by pressing. 2. To put into irons; fetter. 3. To fit or clad with iron. — v. intr. To iron clothes.

—phrasal verb. iron out. To settle through discussion or compromise; work out. —idiom. iron in the fire. An undertaking or project in progress: has many irons in the fire this year. [Middle English iren, from Old English īren. See eis- in Appendix.]

Iron Age (ī'ərn āj) n. The period in human cultural development succeeding the Bronze Age, characterized by the introduction of iron metallurgy and in Europe beginning around the eighth century B.C.

iron blue (ī'ərn blōō) n. Any of various light-resistant and heat-resistant, semi-transparent blue pigments of powerful tinctorial strength, used chiefly in perma-ment industrial finishes, printing inks, and artists' colors. Also called Prussian blue

i·ron·bound (ī'ərn-bound') adj. 1. Bound with iron. 2. Rigid and unyielding: an ironbound moral code. 3. Bound with rocks and cliffs: ironbound coasts.

i·ron·clad (ī'ərn-klād') adj. 1. Sheathed with iron plates for protection. 2. Rigid; fixed: an ironclad rule. — n. Nautical. A 19th-century warship having sides armored with metal plates.

iron curtain (ī'ərn kûr'tn) n. 1. Often Iron Curtain. The military, political, and ideological barrier established between the Soviet bloc and western Europe after World War II. 2. A barrier that prevents free exchange of ideas and information: "That department and the editorial department are separated by an almost impenetrable iron curtain" (Brendan Gill).

I·ron·de·quoit (ī-rŏn'dī-kwoit', -kwŏt') A town of western New York west of Rochester. It was settled in 1791. Population, 52,322.

Iron Gate (ī'ərn gāt) A narrow gorge of the Danube River on the border of Yugoslavia and Romania. Created by a gap between the Carpathian and Balkan mountains, the gorge is bypassed by a ship canal (opened in 1896) to allow navigation by large river craft.

iron gray (ī'ərn grā) n. Color. A dark gray with a slightly greenish tinge.

iron hand (ī'ərn händ) n. Rigorous or despotic control: ruled the nation with an iron hand. — i'ron·hand'ed (ī'ərn-händ'did) adj. — i'ron·hand'ed-ness n.

iron horse (ī'ərn hôrs) n. Informal. A railroad locomotive.

i·ron·ic (ī-rŏn'ik) also i·ron·i·cal (ī-rŏn'ī-kəl) adj. 1. Characterized by or constituting irony. 2. Given to the use of irony. See Synonyms at sarcastic.

3. Poignantly contrary to what was expected or intended: madness, an ironic fate for such a clear thinker. — i·ron'ic·ly adv. — i·ron'ic·ness n.

USAGE NOTE: The words ironic, irony, and ironically are sometimes used of events and circumstances that might better be described as simply "coincidental" or "improbable," in that they suggest no particular lessons about human vanity or folly. Thus 78 percent of the Usage Panel rejects the use of ironically in the sentence In 1969 Susie moved from Ithaca to California where she met her husband-to-be, who, ironically, also came from upstate New York (though some Panelists noted that this particular usage might be acceptable if Susie had in fact moved to California in order to find a husband, in which case the story could be taken as exemplifying the folly of supposing that we can know what fate has in store for us). By contrast, 73 percent accepted the sentence Ironically, even as the government was fulminating against American policy, American jeans and videocassettes were the hottest items in the stalls of the market, where the incongruity can be seen as an example of human inconsistency.

- i·ron·ing (ī'ər-nĭng) n. 1. The act or process of pressing clothes with a heated iron. 2. The clothing pressed or to be pressed with a heated iron.
- ironing board (ī'ər-nĭng bôrd) n. A long, narrow padded board, often with collapsible supporting legs, used as a working surface for ironing.
- i·ro·nist (ī'rə-nĭst) n. A notable user of irony, especially a writer.
- iron lung (ī'ərn lŭng) n. An airtight metal tank that encloses all of the body except the head and forces the lungs to inhale and exhale through regulated changes in air pressure.
- iron maiden (ī'ərn mād'n) n. A medieval instrument of torture consisting of an iron frame in the form of a person in which the victim was enclosed and impaled on interior spikes.
- i·ron·mon·ger (ī'ərn-mŭng'gær, -mŏng'-) n. Chiefly British. A hardware merchant.
- i·ron·mon·ger·y (ī'ərn-mŭng'gə-rē, -mŏng'-) n. pl. i·ron·mon·ger·ies. Chiefly British. 1. Ironware. 2. The shop or business of an ironmonger.
- iron oxide (ī'ərn ɔk'sīd') n. Any of various oxides of iron, such as ferric oxide or ferrous oxide.
- iron pyrites (ī'ərn pī-rī'tēz) n. See pyrite.
- i·ron·smith (ī'ərn-smĭth') n. One that makes iron articles; a blacksmith.
- i·ron·stone (ī'ərn-stŏn') n. 1. A hard white pottery. 2. A rock containing enough iron to permit commercial extraction; an iron ore.
- i·ron·ware (ī'ərn-wâr') n. Iron utensils and other products made of iron.
- i·ron·weed (ī'ərn-wēd') n. Any of various plants of the genus Vernonia, having alternate leaves and clusters of purplish flower heads.
- i·ron·wood (ī'ərn-wŏod') n. 1. Any of numerous trees, such as the hornbeam and the hop hornbeam, that have very hard wood. 2. The wood of any of these trees.
- i·ron·work (ī'ərn-wûrk') n. Work in iron, such as gratings and rails.
- i·ron·work·er (ī'ərn-wûr'kær) n. 1. A construction worker who builds steel structures. 2. One who is employed in an ironworks. 3. One who makes iron articles.
- i·ron·works (ī'ərn-wûrks') pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). A building or an establishment where iron is smelted or where heavy iron products are made.
- i·ro·ny (ī'rə-nē, ī'ər-) n. pl. i·ro·nies. 1. a. The use of words to express something different from and often opposite to their literal meaning. b. An expression or utterance marked by a deliberate contrast between apparent and intended meaning. c. A literary style employing such contrasts for humorous or rhetorical effect. See Synonyms at wit¹. 2. a. Incongruity between what might be expected and what actually occurs: "Hyde noted the irony of Ireland's copying the nation she most hated” (Richard Kain). b. An occurrence, a result, or a circumstance notable for such incongruity. See Usage Note at ironic. 3. Dramatic irony. 4. Socratic irony. [French ironie, from Old French, from Latin īrōnīa, from Greek eirōneia, feigned ignorance, from eirōn, dissembler, probably from eirein, to say. See wer-⁵ in Appendix.]

Ir-o-quoi-an (îr'ə-kwoi'ən) n. 1. A family of North American Indian languages of the eastern part of Canada and the United States that includes Cayuga, Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, Seneca, Tuscarora, Cherokee, Erie, Huron, and Wyandot. 2. A member of an Iroquoian-speaking people. — adj. Of or constituting the Iroquoian language family.

Ir-o-quois (îr'ə-kwoi') *n. pl. Iroquois (-kwoi', -kwoiz'). 1. a. A Native American confederacy inhabiting New York State and originally composed of the Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, Cayuga, and Seneca peoples, known as the Five Nations. After 1722 the confederacy was joined by the Tuscaroras to form the Six Nations. Also called Iroquois League. b. A member of this confederacy or of any of its peoples. 2. Any or all of the languages of the Iroquois. [Origin unknown.] — Ir'o-quois' *adj.

ir-ra-di-ant (î-rā'dē-ənt) adj. Sending forth radiant light. [Latin irradiāns, irradiant- present participle of irradiāre, to shine forth. See IRRADIATE.] — ir-ra'di-ance, ir-ra'di-an-cy n.

ir-ra-di-ate (î-rā'dē-āt') v. ir-ra-di-at-ed, ir-ra-di-at-ing, ir-ra-di-ates. — v. tr. 1. a. To expose to radiation. b. To treat with radiation: irradiate farm produce so as to destroy bacteria. 2. To shed light on; illuminate. 3. To manifest in a manner suggesting the emission of light; radiate: irradiate goodness. — v. intr. Archaic. 1. To send forth rays; radiate. 2. To become radiant. [Latin irradiāre, irradiāt-, to illuminate : in-, on; see IN-² + radiāre, to shine; see RADIATE.] — ir-ra'di-a'tive adj. — ir-ra'di-a'tor n.

ir-ra-di-a-tion (î-rā'dē-ā'shən) n. 1. The act of exposing to radiation or the condition of being so exposed. 2. Therapy or treatment by exposure to radiation.

ir-rad-i-ca-ble (î-rād'î-kə-bəl) adj. Impossible to uproot or destroy; ineradicable: irradicable weeds; irradicable prejudices. [Medieval Latin irradīcābilis: Latin in-, not; see IN-¹ + Latin rādīx, rādīc-, root; see ERADICATE.] — ir-rad'î-ca-bly adv.

ir-ra-tion-al (î-rāsh'ə-nəl) adj. 1. a. Not endowed with reason. b. Affected by loss of usual or normal mental clarity; incoherent, as from shock. c. Marked by a lack of accord with reason or sound judgment: an irrational dislike. See Synonyms at meaningless. See Synonyms at unreasonable. 2. a. Being a syllable in Greek and Latin prosody whose length does not fit the metric pattern. b. Being a metric foot containing such a syllable. 3. Mathematics. Of or relating to an irrational number. — ir-ra'tion-al-ly adv. — ir-ra'tion-al-ness n.

ir-ra-tion-al-ism (ĩ-răsh'ə-nə-liz'əm) n. 1. Irrational thought, expression, or behavior; irrationality. 2. Belief in feeling, instinct, or other nonrational forces rather than reason.

ir-ra-tion-al-i-ty (ĩ-răsh'ə-năl'ĩ-tē) n. pl. ir-ra-tion-al-i-ties. 1. The state or quality of being irrational. 2. An irrational idea, expression, or act.

irrational number (ĩ-răsh'ə-nəl nŭm'bər) n. Mathematics. Any real number that cannot be expressed as an integer or as a ratio between two integers.

Ir-ra-wad-dy (ĩr'ə-wŏd'ē, -wŏ'dē) A river of Burma flowing about 1,609 km (1,000 mi) southward to the Bay of Bengal and the Andaman Sea. It is the chief river of the country.

ir-re-claim-a-ble (ĩr'ĩ-klā'mə-bəl) adj. Impossible to reclaim; being such that reclamation is precluded: irreclaimable wasteland. —ir're-claim'a-bil'i-ty, ir're-claim'a-ble-ness n. —ir're-claim'a-bly adv.

ir-rec-on-cil-a-ble (ĩ-rĕk'ən-sī'lə-bəl, ĩ-rĕk'ən-sī'-) adj. Impossible to reconcile: irreconcilable differences. — n. 1. A person, especially a member of a group, who will not compromise, adjust, or submit. 2. One of two or more conflicting ideas or beliefs that cannot be brought into harmony.

—ir-rec'on-cil'a-bil'i-ty n. —ir-rec'on-cil'a-bly adv.

ir-re-cov-er-a-ble (ĩr'ĩ-kŭv'ər-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to recover; irreparable: irrecoverable losses. —ir're-cov'er-a-ble-ness n. —ir're-cov'er-a-bly adv.

ir-re-cu-sa-ble (ĩr'ĩ-kyŏŏ'zə-bəl) adj. Not subject to challenge or objection: an irrecusable premise. [French irrécusable, from Late Latin irrecūsābilis: Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + recūsābilis, deserving of rejection (from Latin recūsāre, to refuse); see RECUSE.] —ir're-cu'sa-bly adv.

ir-re-deem-a-ble (ĩr'ĩ-dē'mə-bəl) adj. 1. That cannot be bought back or paid off: an irredeemable annuity. 2. Not convertible into coin. 3. Impossible to remedy: irredeemable losses. 4. Impossible to redeem or reform: an irredeemable evil. —ir're-deem'a-bly adv.

ir-re-den-tist (ĩr'ĩ-dĕn'tĭst) n. One who advocates the recovery of territory culturally or historically related to one's nation but now subject to a foreign government. [Italian irredentista, from (Italia) irredenta, unredeemed (Italy), Italian-speaking areas subject to other countries, feminine of irredento: in-, not (from Latin in-); see IN⁻¹ + redento, redeemed (from Latin redemptus, past participle of redimere, to redeem); see REDEEM.] —ir're-den'tism n. —ir're-den'tist adj.

ir-re-duc-i-ble (ĩr'ĩ-dŏŏ'sə-bəl, -dyŏŏ'-) adj. Impossible to reduce to a desired, simpler, or smaller form or amount: irreducible burdens. —ir're-duc'i-bil'i-ty, ir're-duc'i-ble-ness n. —ir're-duc'i-bly adv.

ir-ref-ra-ga-ble (ĩ-rĕf'rə-gə-bəl) adj. Impossible to refute or controvert; indisputable: irrefragable evidence. [Late Latin irrefrāgābilis: Latin in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + Latin refrāgārī, to oppose, resist; see bhreg- in Appendix.]

—ir-ref'ra-ga-bil'i-ty n. —ir-ref'ra-ga-bly adv.

ir-re-fran-gi-ble (ir'ī-frān'jə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to break; indestructible: irrefragible cooking ware. 2. Physics. That cannot be refracted.

—ir're-fran'gi-bly adv.

ir-ref-u-ta-ble (ī-rĕf'yə-tə-bəl, ir'ī-fyōō'-) adj. Impossible to refute or disprove; incontrovertible: irrefutable arguments; irrefutable evidence of guilt.

—ir-ref'u-ta-bil'i-ty n. —ir-ref'u-ta-bly adv.

irreg. abbr. Irregular.

ir-re-gard-less (ir'ī-gārd'līs) adv. Non-Standard. Regardless. [Perhaps from IR(RESPECTIVE) + REGARDLESS.]

USAGE NOTE: The label Non-Standard does only approximate justice to the status of irregardless. More precisely, it is a form that many people mistakenly believe to be a correct usage in formal style but that in fact has no legitimate antecedents in either standard or nonstandard varieties. (The word was likely coined from a blend of irrespective and regardless.) Perhaps this is why critics have sometimes insisted that there is “no such word” as irregardless, a charge they would not think of leveling at a bona fide nonstandard word such as ain't, which has an ancient genealogy.

ir-reg-u-lar (ī-rĕg'yə-lər) adj. Abbr. irreg. 1. Contrary to rule, accepted order, or general practice: irregular hiring practices. 2. Not conforming to legality, moral law, or social convention: an irregular marriage. 3. Not straight, uniform, or symmetrical: irregular facial features. 4. Of uneven rate, occurrence, or duration: an irregular heartbeat. 5. Deviating from a type; atypical. 6. Botany. Having differing floral parts, as of a zygomorphic or asymmetrical flower. 7. Falling below the manufacturer's standard or usual specifications; imperfect.

8. Grammar. Departing from the usual pattern of inflection, derivation, or word formation, as the present forms of the verb be or the plural noun children. 9. Not belonging to a permanent, organized military force: irregular troops. — n.

1. One, such as an item of merchandise, that is irregular. 2. A soldier, such as a guerrilla, who is not a member of a regular military force. —ir-reg'u-lar-ly adv.

ir-reg-u-lar-i-ty (ī-rĕg'yə-lār'ī-tē) n. pl. ir-reg-u-lar-i-ties. 1. The quality or state of being irregular. 2. Something irregular: found the firm's books riddled with irregularities. 3. Constipation.

ir-rel-a-tive (ī-rĕl'ə-tīv) adj. 1. Having no correlative relationship; unconnected. 2. Irrelevant. —ir-rel'a-tive-ly adv.

ir-rel-e-vance (ī-rĕl'ə-vəns) n. 1. The quality or state of being unrelated to the matter at hand. 2. Something unrelated to the matter at hand.

ir-rel-e-van-cy (ī-rĕl'ə-vən-sē) n. pl. ir-rel-e-van-cies. Irrelevance.

ir-rel-e-vant (ī-rĕl'ə-vənt) adj. Unrelated to the matter at hand.

—ir-rel'e-vant-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: irrelevant, extraneous, immaterial, impertinent. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “not pertinent to the subject under consideration”: an irrelevant comment; a question extraneous to the discussion; an objection that is immaterial after the fact; mentioned several impertinent facts before finally coming to the point.

ANTONYM: relevant ir·re·lig·ion (ir'ī-lĭj'ən) n. Hostility or indifference to religion.

ir·re·lig·ious (ir'ī-lĭj'əs) adj. Hostile or indifferent to religion; ungodly.

—ir'·re·lig'ious·ly adv. —ir'·re·lig'ious·ness n.

ir·re·me·a·ble (ī-rē'mē-ə-bəl) adj. Archaic. Affording no possibility of return.

[Latin irremeabilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + remeāre, to return (re-, re- + meāre, to go); see mei⁻¹ in Appendix.]

ir·re·me·di·a·ble (ir'ī-mē'dē-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to remedy, correct, or repair; incurable or irreparable: irremediable errors in judgment.

—ir'·re·me'di·a·bly adv.

ir·re·mis·si·ble (ir'ī-mĭs'ə-bəl) adj. Not remissible; unpardonable: irremissible sins. —ir'·re·mis'si·bil'i·ty n. —ir'·re·mis'si·bly adv.

ir·re·mov·a·ble (ir'ī-mōō'və-bəl) adj. Impossible to remove: irremovable boulders; irremovable obstacles. —ir'·re·mov'a·bil'i·ty n. —ir'·re·mov'a·bly adv.

ir·rep·a·ra·ble (ī-rĕp'ər-ə-bəl) adj. Impossible to repair, rectify, or amend: irreparable harm; irreparable damages. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin irreparabilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + reparabilis, reparable; see REPARABLE.]

—ir·rep'a·ra·bil'i·ty, ir·rep'a·ra·ble·ness n. —ir·rep'a·ra·bly adv.

ir·re·peal·a·ble (ir'ī-pē'lə-bəl) adj. Impossible to repeal: irrepealable laws.

ir·re·place·a·ble (ir'ī-plā'sə-bəl) adj. Impossible to replace: irreplaceable antiques. —ir'·re·place'a·bil'i·ty, ir'·re·place'a·ble·ness n.

—ir'·re·place'a·bly adv.

ir·re·press·i·ble (ir'ī-prĕs'ə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to control or restrain: irrepressible laughter. —ir'·re·press'i·bil'i·ty, ir'·re·press'i·ble·ness n. —ir'·re·press'i·bly adv.

ir·re·proach·a·ble (ir'ī-prō'chə-bəl) adj. Perfect or blameless in every respect; faultless: irreproachable conduct. —ir'·re·proach'a·bil'i·ty, ir'·re·proach'a·ble·ness n. —ir'·re·proach'a·bly adv.

ir·re·sis·ti·ble (ir'ī-zĭs'tə-bəl) adj. 1. Impossible to resist: an irresistible impulse to sneeze. 2. Having an overpowering appeal: irresistible beauty.

—ir'·re·sis'ti·bil'i·ty, ir'·re·sis'ti·ble·ness n. —ir'·re·sis'ti·bly adv.

ir·re·sol·u·ble (ir'ī-zōl'yə-bəl) adj. Impossible to resolve: irresoluble conflicts. [Latin irresolubilis : in-, not; see IN⁻¹ + resolvere, resolūt-, to untie; see RESOLVE.]

ir-res·o·lute (ī-rĕz'ə-lōōt') adj. 1. Unsure of how to act or proceed; undecided. 2. Lacking in resolution; indecisive. —ir-res'o·lute'ly adv. —ir-res'o·lute'-ness, ir-res'o·lu'tion n.

ir-re·solv·a·ble (īr'ī-zōl'və-bəl) adj. 1. Irresoluble. 2. Impossible to separate into component parts; irreducible.

ir-re·spec·tive (īr'ī-spĕk'tiv) adj. Archaic. Characterized by disregard; heedless. —ir're·spec'tive-ly adv.

irrespective of (īr'ī-spĕk'tiv ūv) prep. Without consideration of; regardless of.

ir-res·pi·ra·ble (ī-rĕs'pər-ə-bəl, īr'ī-spīr'-) adj. Not fit for breathing; not respirable.

ir-re·spon·si·ble (īr'ī-spōn'sə-bəl) adj. 1. Marked by a lack of responsibility: irresponsible accusations. 2. Lacking a sense of responsibility; unreliable or untrustworthy. 3. Law. Not mentally or financially fit to assume responsibility. 4. Not liable to be called to account by a higher authority. — n. 1. One who has no sense of responsibility. 2. Law. One who is mentally or financially unfit to assume responsibility for one's actions. 3. One who is unlikely to be called to account by a higher authority. —ir're·spon'si·bil'i·ty, ir're·spon'si·ble·ness n. —ir're·spon'si·bly adv.

ir-re·spon·sive (īr'ī-spōn'siv) adj. 1. Not responsive, as to treatment or stimuli. 2. Not responding or answering readily. —ir're·spon'sive-ly adv. —ir're·spon'sive·ness n.

ir-re·triev·a·ble (īr'ī-trĕv'ə-bəl) adj. Difficult or impossible to retrieve or recover: When the diamond fell into the lake, it was virtually irretrievable. —ir're·triev'a·ble·ness, ir're·triev'a·bil'i·ty n. —ir're·triev'a·bly adv.

ir-rev·er·ence (ī-rĕv'ər-əns) n. 1. Lack of reverence or due respect. 2. A disrespectful act or remark.

ir-rev·er·ent (ī-rĕv'ər-ənt) adj. 1. Lacking or exhibiting a lack of reverence; disrespectful. 2. Critical of what is generally accepted or respected; satirical: irreverent humor. —ir-rev'er·ent-ly adv.

ir-re·vers·i·ble (īr'ī-vûr'sə-bəl) adj. Impossible to reverse: an irreversible momentum toward open revolution. —ir're·vers'i·bil'i·ty, ir're·vers'i·ble·ness n. —ir're·vers'i·bly adv.

ir-rev·o·ca·ble (ī-rĕv'ə-kə-bəl) adj. Impossible to retract or revoke: an irrevocable decision. —ir-rev'o·ca·bil'i·ty, ir-rev'o·ca·ble·ness n. —ir-rev'o·ca·bly adv.

ir-ri·ga·ble (īr'ī-gə-bəl) adj. That can be irrigated: irrigable desert.

ir-ri·gate (īr'ī-gāt') v. ir-ri·gat·ed, ir-ri·gat·ing, ir-ri·gates. — v. tr. 1. To supply (dry land) with water by means of ditches, pipes, or streams; water artificially. 2. To wash out (a body cavity or wound) with water or a medicated fluid. 3. To make fertile or vital as if by watering. — v. intr. To supply land with water artificially. [Latin irrigāre, irrigāt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + rigāre, to water.]

—ir'ri-ga'tion n. —ir'ri-ga'tion-al adj. —ir'ri-ga'tor n.

ir-ri-ta-bil-i-ty (ir'ī-tə-bīl'ī-tē) n. pl. ir-ri-ta-bil-i-ties. 1. The quality or state of being irritable; testiness or petulance. 2. Pathology. Abnormal or excessive sensitivity of a body organ or part to a stimulus. 3. Physiology. The capacity to respond to stimuli.

ir-ri-ta-ble (ir'ī-tə-bəl) adj. 1. Easily irritated or annoyed. 2. Pathology. Abnormally sensitive to a stimulus. 3. Physiology. Capable of responding to stimuli. [French irritable, from Latin irritābilis, from irritāre, to irritate.]

—ir'ri-ta-ble-ness n. —ir'ri-ta-bly adv.

ir-ri-tant (ir'ī-tənt) adj. Causing irritation, especially physical irritation. — n. A source of irritation: tobacco smoke, a common eye irritant. [French, from Latin irritāns, irritant- present participle of irritāre, to irritate.]

ir-ri-tate (ir'ī-tāt') v. ir-ri-tat-ed, ir-ri-tat-ing, ir-ri-tates. — v. tr. 1. To rouse to impatience or anger; annoy: a loud bossy voice that irritates listeners. See Synonyms at annoy. 2. To chafe or inflame. — v. intr. To be a cause of impatience or anger. [Latin irritāre, irritāt-.] —ir'ri-tat'ing-ly adv. —ir'ri-ta'tor n.

ir-ri-ta-tion (ir'ī-tā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of irritating. b. The condition of being irritated; vexation: honked the horn with irritation at the delay. 2. A source of irritation. 3. Pathology. A condition of inflammation, soreness, or irritability of a bodily organ or part.

ir-ri-ta-tive (ir'ī-tā'tiv) adj. Involving irritation.

ir-ro-ta-tion-al (ir'ō-tā'shə-nəl) adj. Not rotating or involving rotation.

ir-rupt (ī-rūpt') v. intr. ir-rupt-ed, ir-rupt-ing, ir-rupts. 1. To break or burst in. 2. Ecology. To increase rapidly and irregularly in number: In the absence of predators, the island's rodent population irrupted. [Latin irrupere, irrupt- : in-, in; see IN⁻² + rumpere, to break; see reup- in Appendix.] —ir-rup'tion n.

ir-rup-tive (ī-rūp'tiv) adj. 1. Irrupting or tending to irrupt. 2. Geology. Intrusive.

IRS abbr. Internal Revenue Service.

Ir-tysh or Ir-tish (ir'tīsh') A river of northwest China, eastern Kazakhstan, and central Russia flowing about 4,264 km (2,650 mi) generally northwest to the Ob River. It is navigable for much of its course.

I-rún (ē-rōon') A city of northern Spain near the Bay of Biscay and the French border. It is a commercial and industrial center. Population, 54,877.

Ir-vine 1. (ûr'vīn) A burgh of southwest Scotland on the estuary of the Irvine River southwest of Glasgow. It is an industrial center. Population, 54,600. 2. (ûr'vīn') A city of southern California southeast of Santa Ana. A branch of the University of California (opened 1965) is here. Population, 110,330.

Ir-ving (ûr'vīng) A town of northeast Texas, an industrial suburb of Dallas. Population, 155,037.

Ir-ving (ûr'vîng), Sir Henry. 1838-1905. British Shakespearean actor whose productions, particularly those at London's Lyceum Theatre, won him the first knighthood awarded to a member of his profession (1895).

Ir-ving (ûr'vîng), John. Born 1942. American writer. His darkly humorous novels include The World According to Garp (1978) and The Cider House Rules (1985).

Ir-ving (ûr'vîng), Washington. 1783-1859. American writer remembered for the stories "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," contained in The Sketch Book (1819-1820).

Ir-ving-ton (ûr'vîng-tən) A town of northeast New Jersey, a residential and industrial suburb of Newark. It was settled in 1692 as Camptown and renamed in 1852 in honor of Washington Irving. Population, 59,774.

Ir-win (ûr'wîn), William Henry. Known as "Will." 1873-1948. American journalist and writer noted for his critiques of the press, including Propaganda and the News (1936).

is (iz) v. Third person singular present indicative of be. [Middle English, from Old English. See es- in Appendix.]

is. or Is. abbr. Island.

Is. abbr. Bible. Isaiah.

is- pref. Variant of iso-.

Isa. abbr. Bible. Isaiah.

I-saac (i'zæk) In the Old Testament, the son of Abraham who was offered as a sacrifice to God. The sacrifice was prevented at the last moment by divine intervention.

I-saacs (i'zæks), Sir Isaac Alfred. 1855-1948. Australian jurist and politician who served as chief justice (1930-1931) and governor-general (1931-1936).

Is-a-bel-a Island (iz'ə-bəl'ə i'lənd) The largest of the Galápagos Islands of Ecuador, in the Pacific Ocean on the equator.

Is-a-bel-la I (iz'ə-bəl'ə), Known as "Isabella the Catholic." 1451-1504. Queen of Castile (1474-1504). Her marriage in 1469 to Ferdinand V of Castile and León (later Ferdinand II of Aragon) marked the beginning of a unified Spanish state. Isabella sponsored the voyages of Christopher Columbus.

I-sa-iah (i-zā'ə, i-zī'ə) n. Bible. 1. A Hebrew prophet of the eighth century B.C.
2. Abbr. Isa., Is. A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

i-sal-lo-bar (i-sāl'ə-bär') n. A line on a weather map connecting places having equal changes in atmospheric pressure within a given period of time. [IS(O)- + ALLO- + Greek baros, weight; see g^werə-¹ in Appendix.]

-isation suff. Variant of -ization.

ISBN abbr. International Standard Book Number.

is-che-mi-a (i-skē'mē-ə) n. A decrease in the blood supply to a bodily organ, tissue, or part caused by constriction or obstruction of the blood vessels. [New is-chi-a (is'kē-ə) n. Plural of ischium.

Latin ischaemia, from Greek iskhaimos, a stopping of the blood : iskhein, to keep back; see segh- in Appendix + haima, blood.] —i-sche'mic adj.

Is-chi-a (is'kē-ə, ē'skyä) An island of southern Italy in the Tyrrhenian Sea at the entrance to the Bay of Naples. Known as “the Emerald Isle,” it is a tourist center and health resort noted for its warm mineral springs.

is-chi-um (is'kē-əm) n. pl. is-chi-a (-kē-ə). The lowest of the three major bones that constitute each half of the pelvis. [Latin, hip joint, from Greek iskhion.] —is'chi-al (-əl) adj.

-ise suff. Variant of -ize.

I-se Bay (ē'sā bā, ē'sē') An arm of the Pacific Ocean on the south-central coast of Honshu, Japan. The city of Ise, near the entrance to the bay, has several ancient Shinto shrines built in a distinctive archaic style of architecture. Population, 105,455.

Ise-lin (iz'lin) A community of east-central New Jersey northwest of Perth Amboy. Population, 16,141.

is-en-tropic (i'sən-trō'pik, -tröp'ik) adj. Without change in entropy; at constant entropy. [IS(O)- + ENTROP(Y) + -IC.] —is'en-tro'pi-cal-ly adv.

I-sère (ē-zâr') A river, about 290 km (180 mi) long, of southeast France rising in the Graian Alps near the Italian border and flowing west and southwest to the Rhone River.

I-ser-lohn (ē'zər-lōn', ē'zər-lōn') A city of west-central Germany northeast of Cologne. Founded in the 13th century, it is a manufacturing center. Population, 89,951.

I-seult (i-sōolt') also I-sol-de (i-sōl'də, i-zōl'-) n. In Arthurian legend, an Irish princess who married the king of Cornwall and had a love affair with his knight Tristan.

Is-fa-han (is'fə-hän') or Es-fa-han (ēs'-) A city of central Iran south of Tehran. An ancient town and capital of Persia from 1598 to 1722, it was long noted for its fine carpets and silver filigree. Today it has textile and steel mills. Population, 927,000.

-ish suff. 1. Of, relating to, or being: Swedish. 2. a. Characteristic of: girlish. b. Having the usually undesirable qualities of: childish. 3. Approximately; somewhat: greenish. 4. Tending toward; preoccupied with: selfish. [Middle English, from Old English -isc.]

Ish-er-wood (ish'ər-wōd'), Christopher William Bradshaw. 1904-1986. British-born American writer best known for his portrayals of Berlin in the early 1930's in works such as Goodbye to Berlin (1939), which became the basis for the musical Cabaret (1966).

I-shi-i (ē'shē-ē), Viscount Kikujiro. 1866-1945. Japanese diplomat who guided Japan's expansion and increasing cooperation with the West from 1907 to 1927.

I-shi-ka-ri Bay (ish'ī-kār'ē bā) An inlet of the Sea of Japan on the western coast of Hokkaido, Japan. The Ishikari River, about 443 km (275 mi) long, flows generally southwest from the mountainous interior of the island into the bay.

I-shim (ī-shīm') A river, about 1,818 km (1,130 mi) long, rising in the steppe region of Kazakhstan and flowing generally northwest then northeast to the Irtysh River in south-central Russia.

Ish·ma·el¹ (ish'mē-əl, -mā-) In the Old Testament, the son of Abraham who was cast out after the birth of Isaac. He is traditionally considered to be the forebear of the Arabs.

Ish·ma·el² (ish'mē-əl, -mā-) n. An outcast.

Ish·ma·el·ite (ish'mē-ə-līt', -mā-) n. 1. A descendant of Ishmael. 2. An outcast. —Ish'ma·el·it'ism n.

Ish·tar (ish'tār') n. Mythology. The ancient Assyrian and Babylonian goddess of love, fertility, and war.

Is·i·dore of Se·ville (iz'ī-dôr' ùv sə-vīl', -dôr'; sə-vīl'), Saint. 560?-636. Spanish scholar and ecclesiastic. He wrote the encyclopedia Etymologiae, an important reference work throughout the Middle Ages.

i·sin·glass (ī'zən-glās', ī'zīng-) n. 1. A transparent, almost pure gelatin prepared from the air bladder of the sturgeon and certain other fishes and used as an adhesive and a clarifying agent. 2. Mica in thin, transparent sheets. [By folk etymology (influenced by GLASS), from obsolete Dutch huizenblas, from Middle Dutch huusblase: huus, sturgeon + blase, bladder; see bhlē- in Appendix.]

I·sis¹ (ī'sīs) n. Mythology. An ancient Egyptian goddess of fertility, the sister and wife of Osiris.

I·sis² (ī'sīs) The upper Thames River in south-central England in the vicinity of Oxford. The name is used locally and in literature.

Is·kar (is'kər) See Iskūr.

Is·ken·de·run (is-kən'də-roōn', -kən'dě-roōn') Formerly Al·ex·an·dret·ta (āl'ig-zān-drēt'ə). A city of southern Turkey on an inlet of the eastern Mediterranean Sea. Founded by Alexander the Great to celebrate his victory over the Persians in 333 B.C., it is Turkey's chief port on the Mediterranean. Population, 124,824.

Is·kūr also Is·kar (is'kər) A river of western Bulgaria rising in the Rhodope Mountains and flowing about 402 km (250 mi) generally north and northeast to the Danube River.

isl. abbr. Island.

Is·lam (is-lām', iz-, is'lām', iz'-) n. 1. A monotheistic religion characterized by the acceptance of the doctrine of submission to God and Mohammed as the chief and last prophet of God. 2. a. The people or nations that practice Islam; the Muslim world. b. The civilization based on Islam. [Arabic 'islām, submission, from 'aslama, to surrender, resign oneself, from Syriac 'aşlem.] —Is·lam'ic adj.

Is·lam·a·bad (is-lä'mə-bäd', iz-läm'ə-bäd') The capital of Pakistan, in the northeast part of the country northeast of Rawalpindi. Construction began on the city in 1960, and it replaced Karachi as the capital in 1967. Population, 201,000.

Is·lam·ism (is'lə-mīz'əm, iz'-) n. Offensive. The religious faith, principles, or cause of Islam. —Is·lam'ist (-lä'mīst) n.

Is·lam·ize (is'lə-mīz', iz'-) v. tr. Is·lam·ized, Is·lam·iz·ing, Is·lam·iz·es.

1. To convert to Islam. 2. To cause to conform to Islamic law or precepts.

—Is'lam·i·za'tion (-lə-mī-zā'shən) n.

is·land (i'lænd) n. 1. Abbr. is., i., Is., I., isl. A land mass, especially one smaller than a continent, entirely surrounded by water. 2. Something resembling an island, especially in being isolated or surrounded: a counter forming an island in the middle of the kitchen; islands of people living on the empty prairie. 3. The superstructure, as of an aircraft carrier. 4. Anatomy. A cluster of cells differing in structure or function from the cells constituting the surrounding tissue. — v. tr. is·land·ed, is·land·ing, is·lands. To make into or as if into an island; insulate: a secluded mansion, islanded by shrubbery and fences. [Alteration (influenced by ISLE), of Middle English ilond, from Old English īegland : īg, īeg; see ak^w-ā- in Appendix + land, land; see lendh- in Appendix.]

is·land·er (i'lən-dər) n. An inhabitant of an island.

is·lands of Lang·er·hans (i'lændz ūf lāng'ər-hāns') pl.n. See islets of Langerhans.

Is·la Vis·ta (i'lə vīs'tə) A community of southern California on the Pacific Ocean west of Santa Barbara. Population, 20,395.

Is·lay (i'lā, i'lə) An island of the southern Inner Hebrides of western Scotland. Farming, fishing, and distilling are important to its economy.

isle (īl) n. Abbr. i., I. An island, especially a small one. [Middle English ile, from Old French isle, from Latin insula.]

Isle au Haut (i'lə-hō' hō, ē'lə-) An island of south-central Maine at the entrance to Penobscot Bay.

Isle of (īl ūv) For names of actual isles, see the specific element of the name; for example, Wight, Isle of.

Isle Roy·ale (īl roi'əl) An island of northern Michigan in Lake Superior near the coast of Ontario. French fur traders named the island in 1671. Native Americans mined the island's copper for centuries before ceding the island to the United States in 1843. It is now a tourist center.

is·let (i'līt) n. A very small island: rocky islets off the coast.

islets of Lang·er·hans (lāng'ər-hāns' ūv lāng'ər-hāns') pl.n. Irregular clusters of endocrine cells scattered throughout the tissue of the pancreas that secrete insulin and glucagon. Also called islands of Langerhans [After Paul Langerhans (1847-1888), German pathologist.]

ism (iz'əm) n. Informal. A distinctive doctrine, system, or theory: "Formalism, by being an 'ism,' kills form by hugging it to death" (Peter Viereck). [From -ISM.]

-ism suff. 1. Action, process; practice: terrorism. 2. Characteristic behavior or quality: heroism. 3. a. State; condition; quality: pauperism. b. State or condition resulting from an excess of something specified: strychninism.

4. Distinctive or characteristic trait: Latinism. 5. a. Doctrine; theory; system of principles: pacifism. b. An attitude of prejudice against a given group: racism. [Middle English -isme, from Old French, from Latin -ismus, from Greek -ismos, n. suff...]

Is·ma·i·li (is'mä-ē'lē) also Is·ma·i·li·an (-ē'lē-ən) n. A member of a branch of Shiism that follows a living imam and is noted for esoteric philosophy. [Arabic Isma'īlīy, after Isma'īl (died 760), son of the sixth imam, Jafar (700?-765).]

Is·ma·i·li·a (iz'mā-ə-lē'ə, is'-) A city of northeast Egypt on the Suez Canal. It was founded in 1863 by Ferdinand de Lesseps as a base of operations during the building of the canal. Population, 191,700.

Is·ma·i·li·an (is'mä-ē'lē-ən) n. Variant of Ismaili.

Is·ma·il Pa·sha (is-mä'el pä'shə), 1830-1895. Egyptian viceroy (1863-1879). The Suez Canal was completed during his reign (1869).

is·n't (iz'ənt) Is not.

iso- or is- pref. 1. Equal; uniform: isobar. 2. Isomeric: isopropyl. [Greek, from isos, equal.]

i·so·ag·glu·ti·na·tion (i'sō-ə-glōōt'n-ā'shən) n. The agglutination of the red blood cells of an individual by antibodies in the serum of another individual of the same species.

i·so·ag·glu·ti·nin (i'sō-ə-glōōt'n-ĭn) n. An isoantibody normally present in the serum of an individual that causes the agglutination of the red blood cells of another individual of the same species.

i·so·ag·glu·tin·o·gen (i'sō-äg'loō-tĭn'ə-jən) n. An isoantigen that on exposure to its corresponding isoantibody causes agglutination of the red blood cells to which it is attached. [ISOAGGLUTIN(IN) + -GEN.]

i·so·an·ti·bod·y (i'sō-än'tĭ-tē-bōd'ē) n. pl. i·so·an·ti·bod·ies. An antibody produced by or derived from the same species as the antigen with which it reacts. Also called alloantibody

i·so·an·ti·gen (i'sō-än'tĭ-jən) n. A protein or other antigenic substance present in only some members of a species and therefore able to stimulate antibody production in those members that lack it. Also called alloantigen

—i·so·an·ti·gen·ic (-jĕn'ĭk) adj. —i·so·an·ti·ge·nic·i·ty (-jə-nĭs'ĭ-tē) n.

i·so·bar (i'sə-bär') n. 1. A line on a weather map connecting points of equal atmospheric pressure. Also called isopiestic 2. Any of two or more kinds of atoms having the same atomic mass but different atomic numbers. [ISO- + Greek baros, weight; see g^werə⁻¹ in Appendix.] —i·so·bar·ic (-bär'ĭk, -bär'-) adj.

- i-so-car-box-a-zid (ī'sō-kār-bōk'sə-zīd) n. A compound, C₁₂H₁₃N₃O₂, used as an antidepressant. [Contraction and alteration of isoxazolylcarbonyl, one of its components + (HYDR)AZ(INE) + -ID.]
- i-so-chro-mat-ic (ī'sə-krō-măt'īk) adj. 1. Having the same color or wavelength. Used of light. 2. Orthochromatic.
- i-soch-ro-nal (ī-sōk'rə-nəl) or i-soch-ro-nous (-nəs) adj. 1. Equal in duration. 2. Characterized by or occurring at equal intervals of time. [From New Latin isochronus, from Greek isokhronos : iso-, iso- + khronos, time.] —i-soch-ro-nal-ly adv. —i-soch'ro-nism n.
- i-soch-ro-nize (ī-sōk'rə-nīz') v. tr. i-soch-ro-nized, i-soch-ro-niz-ing, i-soch-ro-niz-es. To make isochronal.
- i-soch-ro-nous (ī-sōk'rə-nəs) adj. Variant of isochronal. —i-soch-ro-nous-ly adv.
- i-soch-ro-ous (ī-sōk'rō-əs) adj. Having the same color throughout. [Greek isokhroos : iso-, iso- + khros, flesh, color.]
- i-so-cli-nal (ī'sə-klī'nəl) or i-so-clin-ic (-klīn'īk) adj. Having the same magnetic inclination or dip. — n. See isoclinic line. —i'so-cli'nal-ly adv.
- i-so-cline (ī'sə-klīn') n. Geology. An anticline or a syncline so tightly folded that the rock beds of the two sides are nearly parallel.
- i-so-clin-ic (ī'sə-klīn'īk) adj. & n. Variant of isoclinic. —i'so-clin'i-cal-ly adv.
- isoclinic line (ī'sə-klīn'īk līn) n. A line on a map connecting points of equal magnetic dip. Also called isoclinal
- I-soc-ra-tes (ī-sōk'rə-tēz'), 436-338 B.C. Athenian orator and rhetorician whose letters and pamphlets are a valuable source of ancient Greek political thought.
- i-so-di-a-met-ric (ī'sō-dī'ə-mět'rik) adj. Having equal diameters or axes.
- i-so-di-mor-phism (ī'sō-dī-mōr'fīz'əm) n. Isomorphism between crystalline forms of two dimorphic substances.
- i-so-dy-nam-ic (ī'sō-dī-năm'īk) adj. 1. Having equal force or strength. 2. Connecting points of equal magnetic intensity.
- i-so-e-lec-tric (ī'sō-ī-lĕk'trīk) adj. Having equal electric potential.
- i-so-e-lec-tron-ic (ī'sō-ī-lĕk-trōn'īk, -ē'lĕk-) adj. Having equal numbers of electrons or the same electronic configuration.
- i-so-en-zyme (ī'sō-ĕn'zīm') n. Any of the chemically distinct forms of an enzyme that perform the same biochemical function. —i'so-en-zy'mic adj.
- i-so-ga-mete (ī'sō-găm'ēt', -gə-mĕt') n. A gamete that has the same size and structure as the one with which it unites. —i'so-ga-met'ic (-gə-mĕt'īk) adj.
- i-sog-a-my (ī-sōg'ə-mē) n. pl. i-sog-a-mies. Reproduction by the fusion or conjugation of isogametes, as in certain algae and fungi. —i-sog'a-mous adj.
- i-sog-e-nous (ī-sōj'ə-nəs) adj. Having the same or similar origin, as organs or parts derived from the same embryonic tissue. —i-sog'e-ny n.

i-so-gloss (ī'sə-glōs', -glōs') n. A geographic boundary line delimiting the area in which a given linguistic feature occurs. [ISO- + Greek glōssa, language, tongue.]
—i'so-gloss'al adj.

i-so-gon (ī'sə-gŏn') n. A polygon whose angles are equal.

i-so-gon-ic (ī'sə-gŏn'ik) also i-sog-o-nal (ī-sŏg'ə-nəl) adj. Having equal angles.

isogonic line (ī'sə-gŏn'ik līn) n. A line on a map connecting points of equal magnetic declination.

i-so-graft (ī'sə-grāft) n. A graft of tissue that is obtained from a donor genetically identical to the recipient.

i-so-gram (ī'sə-grām') n. See isoline.

i-so-hel (ī'sŏ-hĕl') n. A line drawn on a map connecting points that receive equal amounts of sunlight. [ISO- + Greek hēlios, sun; see sāwel- in Appendix.]

i-so-hy-et (ī'sŏ-hī'ĭt) n. A line drawn on a map connecting points that receive equal amounts of rainfall. [ISO- + Greek huetos, rain; see seuə-² in Appendix.]

i-so-ki-net-ic exercise (ī'sŏ-kī-nĕt'ik ĕk'sər-sīz', -kī-) n. Exercise performed with a specialized apparatus that provides variable resistance to a movement, so that no matter how much effort is exerted, the movement takes place at a constant speed. Such exercise is used to test and improve muscular strength and endurance, especially after injury.

i-so-la-ble (ī'sə-lə-bəl) also i-so-lat-a-ble (-lā'tə-bəl) adj. Possible to isolate: isolable viruses.

i-so-late (ī'sə-lāt') v. tr. i-so-lat-ed, i-so-lat-ing, i-so-lates. 1. To set apart or cut off from others. 2. To place in quarantine. 3. Chemistry. To separate (a substance) out of a combined mixture. 4. To render free of external influence; insulate. 5. Microbiology. To separate (a pure strain) from a mixed bacterial or fungal culture. — adj. (-līt, -lāt') Solitary; alone. — n. Microbiology. A bacterial or fungal strain that has been isolated. [Back-formation from ISOLATED.]

—i'so-la'tor n.

SYNONYMS: isolate, insulate, seclude, segregate, sequester. The central meaning shared by these verbs is “to separate from others”: a mountain village that is isolated from all other communities; trying to insulate herself from the chaos surrounding her; a famous actor who was secluded from public scrutiny; characteristics that segregate leaders from followers; sequestering a jury during its deliberations.

i-so-lat-ed (ī'sə-lā'tīd) adj. Separated from others; solitary or singular: Reporters in the field observed isolated instances of rebellion. [From French isolé, from Italian isolato, from Latin īnsulātus, made into an island, from Latin īnsula, island.]

i·so·la·tion (ī'sə-lā'shən) n. 1. The act of isolating. 2. The quality or condition of being isolated. See Synonyms at solitude.

i·so·la·tion·ism (ī'sə-lā'shə-nīz'əm) n. A national policy of abstaining from political or economic relations with other countries. —i'so·la'tion·ist n.

I·sol·de (ī-sōl'də, ī-zōl'-) n. Variant of Iseult.

i·so·lec·i·thal (ī'sə-lēs'ə-thəl) adj. Embryology. Having the yolk evenly distributed throughout the egg. [ISO- + LECITH(IN) + -AL¹.]

i·so·leu·cine (ī'sə-lōō'sēn') n. An essential amino acid, C₆H₁₃NO₂, that is isomeric with leucine.

i·so·line (ī'sə-līn') n. A line on a map, chart, or graph connecting points of equal value. Also called isogram i·so·mag·net·ic (ī'sō-măg-nēt'ik) adj. Of, relating to, or being lines connecting points of equal magnetic force.

i·so·mer (ī'sə-mər) n. 1. Chemistry. Any of two or more substances that are composed of the same elements in the same proportions but differ in properties because of differences in the arrangement of atoms. 2. Physics. Any of two or more nuclei with the same mass number and atomic number that have different radioactive properties and can exist in any of several energy states for a measurable period of time. —i'so·mer'ic (-mēr'ik) adj.

i·som·er·ase (ī-sōm'ə-rās') n. One of a group of enzymes that catalyzes the conversion of one isomer into another.

i·som·er·ism (ī-sōm'ə-rīz'əm) n. 1. The phenomenon of the existence of isomers. 2. The complex of chemical and physical phenomena characteristic of or attributable to isomers. 3. The state or condition of being an isomer.

i·som·er·ize (ī-sōm'ə-rīz') v. i·som·er·ized, i·som·er·iz·ing, i·som·er·iz·es. — v. tr. To cause to change into an isomeric form. — v. intr. To become changed into an isomeric form. —i·som'er·i·za'tion (-ər-ī-zā'shən) n.

i·som·er·ous (ī-sōm'ər-əs) adj. 1. Having an equal number of parts, as organs or markings. 2. Having or designating floral whorls with equal numbers of parts: the isomerous flower of the tulip.

i·so·met·ric (ī'sə-mēt'rīk) also i·so·met·ri·cal (-rī-kəl) adj. 1. Of or exhibiting equality in dimensions or measurements. 2. Of or being a crystal system of three equal axes lying at right angles to each other. 3. Physiology. Of or involving muscular contraction against resistance in which the length of the muscle remains the same. — n. A line connecting isometric points. [From Greek isometros, of equal measure : iso-, iso- + metron, measure; see mē-² in Appendix.]

i·so·met·rics (ī'sə-mēt'rīks) n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). Exercise or a system of exercises in which isometric muscular contraction is used to strengthen and tone muscles, performed by the exertion of effort against resistance, usually of a stationary object.

i·so·me·tro·pi·a (ī'sō-mī-trō'pē-ə) n. Equality of refraction in both eyes.

[Greek isometros, isometric + -ΟΡΙΑ.]

i·som·e·try (ī-sōm'ī-trē) n. 1. Equality of measure. 2. Equality of elevation above sea level.

i·so·morph (ī'sə-môrf') n. An object, an organism, or a substance exhibiting isomorphism.

i·so·mor·phic (ī'sə-môrf'fīk) adj. 1. Biology. Having a similar structure or appearance but being of different ancestry. 2. Related by an isomorphism.

i·so·mor·phism (ī'sə-môrf'fīz'əm) n. 1. Biology. Similarity in form, as in organisms of different ancestry. 2. Mathematics. A one-to-one correspondence between the elements of two sets such that the result of an operation on elements of one set corresponds to the result of the analogous operation on their images in the other set. 3. A close similarity in the crystalline structure of two or more substances of similar chemical composition. — i·so·mor'phous adj.

i·so·ni·a·zid (ī'sə-nī'ə-zīd) n. A crystalline antibacterial compound, $C_6H_7N_3O$, used in the treatment of tuberculosis. [isoni(cotinic acid), isomer of nicotinic acid (ISO- + NICOTINIC ACID) + (hydr)azid(e) (HYDR(O)- + AZ(O)- + -IDE).]

i·so·oc·tane (ī'sō-ōk'tān') n. A highly flammable liquid, $(CH_3)_2CHCH_2C(CH_3)_3$, used to determine the octane ratings of fuels.

i·so·pi·es·tic (ī'sō-pī-ēs'tīk, -pē-) adj. Marked by or indicating equal pressure; isobaric. — n. See isobar (n., sense 1). [ISO- + Greek piestos, able to be compressed (from piezein, to press tight); see sed- in Appendix + -IC.]

i·so·pod (ī'sə-pōd') n. Any of numerous crustaceans of the order Isopoda, characterized by a flattened body bearing seven pairs of legs and including the sow bugs and gribbles. — adj. Of or belonging to the order Isopoda. [From New Latin Isopoda, order name : ISO- + New Latin -poda, -pod.]

i·so·prene (ī'sə-prēn') n. A colorless volatile liquid, C_5H_8 , used chiefly to make synthetic rubber. [ISO- + PR(OPYL)ENE.]

i·so·pro·pyl alcohol (ī'sə-prō'pəl əl'kə-hōl') n. Abbr. IPA A clear, colorless, flammable, mobile liquid, $(CH_3)_2CHOH$, used in antifreeze compounds, in lotions and cosmetics, and as a solvent for gums, shellac, and essential oils.

i·sos·ce·les (ī-sōs'ə-lēz') adj. Mathematics. Having two equal sides: an isosceles triangle. [Late Latin isoscelēs, from Greek isoskelēs : iso-, iso- + skelos, leg.]

i·so·seis·mic (ī'sə-sīz'mīk) also i·so·seis·mal (-məl) adj. Of, relating to, or exhibiting equal intensity of earthquake shock.

i·sos·mot·ic (ī'sōz-mōt'īk, -sōs-) adj. Of or exhibiting equal osmotic pressure.

i·so·spin (ī'sə-spīn') n. Abbr. I A quantum number related to the number of charge states of a baryon or meson. [ISO(TOPIC) + SPIN.]

i·sos·ta·sy (ī-sōs'tə-sē) n. Equilibrium in the earth's crust such that the forces tending to elevate land masses balance the forces tending to depress land masses. [ISO- + Greek stasis, a standstill; see stā- in Appendix + -Y².]

i·so·therm (ī'sə-thûrm') n. A line drawn on a weather map or chart linking all points of equal or constant temperature. [From French isotherme, having the same temperature : Greek iso-, iso- + Greek thermē, heat; see -THERM.] i·so·ther·mal (ī'sə-thûr'məl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or indicating equal or constant temperatures. 2. Of or designating changes of pressure and volume at constant temperature. 3. Of or relating to an isotherm. — n. An isotherm.

i·so·tone (ī'sə-tōn') n. One of two or more atoms whose nuclei have the same number of neutrons but different numbers of protons. [Alteration of ISOTOPE (with n for neutron replacing p for proton).]

i·so·ton·ic (ī'sə-tōn'ik) adj. 1. Of equal tension. 2. Isosmotic. 3. Having the same concentration of solutes as the blood: an isotonic saline solution.

4. Physiology. Of or involving muscular contraction in which the muscle remains under relatively constant tension while its length changes. [ISO- + Greek tonos, tension; see TONE + -IC.] — i·so·ton'ic·al·ly adv. — i·so·to·nic'ity (-tə-nīs'ī-tē) n.

isotonic exercise (ī'sə-tōn'ik ěk'sər-sīz') n. Exercise in which isotonic muscular contraction is used to strengthen muscles and improve joint mobility.

i·so·tope (ī'sə-tōp') n. One of two or more atoms having the same atomic number but different mass numbers. [ISO- + Greek topos, place (so called because the isotopes of a chemical element occupy the same position in the periodic table of elements).] — i·so·top'ic (-tōp'ik) adj. — i·so·top'ic·al·ly adv.

isotopic spin (ī'sə-tōp'ik spīn) n. An isospin.

i·so·tre·tin·o·in (ī'sō-trī-tīn'ō-īn, -tīn'oin) n. A chemical compound, C₂₀H₂₈O₂, used in the treatment of severe forms of acne. [ISO- + tretinoin, name for retinoic acid.]

i·so·tro·pic (ī'sə-trō'pik, -trōp'ik) adj. Identical in all directions; invariant with respect to direction. — i·sot'ro·py (ī-sōt'rə-pē), i·sot'ro·pism (-pīz'əm) n.

i·so·zyme (ī'sə-zīm') n. An isoenzyme. [ISO- + (EN)ZYME.] — i·so·zy'mic adj.

Isr. abbr. Israel; Israeli.

Is·ra·el¹ (īz'rē-əl) n. 1. Bible. a. In the Old Testament, Jacob. b. The descendants of Jacob. 2. Judaism. The Hebrew people, past, present, and future, regarded as the chosen people of God by virtue of the covenant of Jacob. [Middle English, from Old English, from Latin, from Greek Israēl, from Hebrew yisrā'ēl.]

Is·ra·el² (īz'rē-əl) 1. An ancient kingdom of Palestine founded by Saul c. 1025 B.C. After 933 it split into the Northern Kingdom, or kingdom of Israel, and the kingdom of Judah to the south. Israel was overthrown by the Assyrians in 721. 2. Abbr. Isr. A country of southwest Asia on the eastern Mediterranean Sea. It was created in 1948 on recommendation of the United Nations. Discord with its Arab neighbors has led to a number of wars, notably in 1956-1957 and 1967. Israel has occupied the Gaza Strip and the West Bank (the area west of the Jordan River) since 1967. Jerusalem is the capital and Tel Aviv-Jaffa the largest city. Population, 4,141,400.

Is-rae·li (ĩz-rā'lē) adj. Abbr. Isr. Of or relating to modern-day Israel or its people. — n. pl. Is-rae·lis. A native or inhabitant of modern-day Israel.

Is-ra-el·ite (ĩz'rē-ə-līt') n. 1. A native or inhabitant of the ancient Northern Kingdom of Israel. 2. A descendant of Jacob; a Jew. 3. A member of a people regarded as the chosen people of God. — adj. also Is-ra-el·it·ic (ĩz'rē-ə-līt'ik). Of or relating to Israel, the Israelites, or their culture.

Is-sa·char (ĩs'ə-kär') In the Old Testament, a son of Jacob and Leah and the forebear of one of the tribes of Israel.

is·sei (ēs'sā') n. pl. issei or is·seis. A Japanese immigrant, especially one to the United States. [Japanese : is, first + sei, generation.]

ISSN abbr. International Standard Serial Number.

is·su·a·ble (ĩsh'ō-ə-bəl) adj. 1. Authorized for issue or to be issued: issuable currency; issuable securities. 2. Open to debate or litigation: issuable matters of probate. 3. That can be accrued: a corporation's issuable profits.

is·su·ance (ĩsh'ō-əns) n. 1. The act of issuing. 2. An issue.

is·su·ant (ĩsh'ō-ənt) adj. 1. Heraldry. Designating an animal with only the upper part depicted. 2. Archaic. Emerging.

is·sue (ĩsh'ō) n. 1. a. The act or an instance of flowing, passing, or giving out. b. The act of circulating, distributing, or publishing by an office or official group: government issue of new bonds. 2. Something produced, published, or offered, as: a. An item or set of items, as stamps or coins, made available at one time by an office or bureau. b. A single copy of a periodical: the March issue of the magazine. c. A distinct set of copies of an edition of a book distinguished from others of that edition by variations in the printed matter. d. A final result or conclusion, as a solution to a problem. e. Proceeds from estates or fines. f. Something proceeding from a specified source: suspicious that were the issue of a deranged mind. 3. Offspring; progeny: died without issue. 4. a. A point or matter of discussion, debate, or dispute: legal and moral issues. b. A matter of public concern: refused to address the economic issues. c. The essential point; crux: the issue of how to provide adequate child care. d. A culminating point leading to a decision: bring a case to an issue. 5. A place of egress; an outlet: a lake with no issue to the sea. 6. Pathology. a. A discharge, as of blood or pus. b. A lesion, a wound, or an ulcer producing such a discharge. 7. Archaic. Termination; close. — v. is·sued, is·su·ing, is·sues. — v. intr. 1. To go or come out. See Synonyms at appear. 2. To accrue as proceeds or profit: Little money issued from the stocks. 3. To be born or be descended. 4. To be circulated or published. 5. To spring or proceed from a source. See Synonyms at stem¹. 6. To terminate or result. — v. tr. 1. To cause to flow out; emit. 2. To circulate or distribute in an official capacity: issued uniforms to the players. 3. To publish: issued periodic statements. —idi- oms. at issue. 1. In question; in dispute: “Many people fail to grasp what is really at issue here” (Gail Sheehy). 2. At variance; in disagreement. join issue. 3. To enter into controversy. 4. Law. To submit an issue for decision. take issue. To take an opposing point of view; disagree. [Middle English, from Old French eis-sue, issue, from Vulgar Latin exūta*, alteration of Latin exita, feminine past participle of exīre, to go out : ex-, ex- + īre, to go; see ei- in Appendix.] —is/su-er n. —is/sue-less adj.

Is-sus (is'əs) An ancient town of southeast Asia Minor near modern-day Iskenderun, Turkey. Alexander the Great defeated Darius III of Persia here in 333 B.C.

Is-syk-Kul (is'ik-kool', ē-si'kool') A lake of northeast Kirghiz in the Tien Shan near the northwest Chinese border.

IST abbr. Insulin shock therapy.

-ist suff. 1. a. One that performs a specified action: lobbyist. b. One that produces, makes, operates, plays, or is connected with a specified thing: novelist. 2. A specialist in a specified art, science, or skill: biologist. 3. An adherent or advocate of a specified doctrine, theory, or school of thought: anarchist. 4. One that is characterized by a specified trait or quality: romanticist. [Middle English -iste, from Old French, from Latin -istēs, -ista, from Greek -istēs, agent n. suff.]

Is-tan-bul (is'tän-bool', -tän-, ĩ-stän'boöl) Formerly Con-stan-ti-no-ple (kön'stän-tə-nō'pəl). The largest city of Turkey, in the northwest part of the country on both sides of the Bosphorus at its entrance into the Sea of Marmara. Founded c. 660 B.C. as Byzantium, it was renamed Constantinople in A.D. 330 by Constantine the Great, who made it the capital of the Eastern Roman, or Byzantine, Empire. The city was sacked by Crusaders in 1204 and taken by the Turks in 1453. Istanbul was chosen as the official name in 1930. Population, 2,772,708.

isth. abbr. Isthmus.

isth-mi (is'mī') n. A plural of isthmus.

isth-mi-an (is'mē-ən) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or forming an isthmus. 2. Of or relating to the Isthmus of Corinth, especially with regard to the biennial Pan-Hellenic games held there in antiquity.

isth-mus (is'məs) n. pl. isth-mus-es or isth-mi (-mī'). Abbr. isth. 1. A narrow strip of land connecting two larger masses of land. 2. Anatomy. a. A narrow strip of tissue joining two larger organs or parts of an organ. b. A narrow passage connecting two larger cavities. [Latin, from Greek isthmos.]

is-tle also ix-tle (is'lē, ĩst'-) n. See pita² (n., sense 1). [American Spanish ixtle, from Nahuatl ixtli, fibrous stem.]

Is-tri-a (is'trē-ə) A peninsula projecting into the northeast Adriatic Sea. The original Istrian inhabitants were overthrown by the Romans in the second century A.D. Istria was subsequently occupied by Austria, Venice, and Italy. All but the area surrounding Trieste was awarded to Yugoslavia in 1946, and the peninsula is now administered by Slovenia in the north and Croatia in the south. —Is'tri-an

adj. & n.

ISV abbr. International Scientific Vocabulary.

it (ɪt) pron. 1. Used to refer to that one previously mentioned. Used of a nonhuman entity; an animate being whose sex is unspecified, unknown, or irrelevant; a group of objects or individuals; or an abstraction: polished the table until it shone; couldn't find out who it was; opened the meeting by calling it to order. 2. Used as the subject of an impersonal verb: It is snowing. 3. a. Used as an anticipatory subject or object: Is it certain that they will win? b. Used as an anticipatory subject to emphasize a term that is not itself a subject: It was on Friday that all the snow fell. 4. Used to refer to a general condition or state of affairs: She couldn't stand it. 5. Informal. Used to refer to something that is the best, the most desirable, or without equal: He thinks he's it. That steak was really it! — n. 1. Games. A player, as in tag, who attempts to find or catch the other players. 2. An animal that has been neutered: The cat is an it. [Middle English, from Old English hit. See ko- in Appendix.]

It. abbr. Italian; Italy.

ITA or I.T.A. abbr. Initial teaching alphabet.

I-ta-bu-na (ē'tə-bōō'nə) A city of eastern Brazil south-southeast of Salvador. It is a cacao-producing center. Population, 130,163.

it-a-col-u-mite (it'ə-kōl'yə-mīt') n. A variety of sandstone that is flexible when cut into thin slabs. [After Itacolumi (Itacolomi), a mountain of east-central Brazil.]

I-ta-güí (ē'tä-gwē') A city of northwest-central Colombia, a manufacturing suburb of Medellín. Population, 133,444.

ital. abbr. 1. Italic. 2. Italics.

Ital. abbr. Italian.

I-tal-ian (i-täl'yən) adj. Abbr. It., Ital. Of or relating to Italy or its people, language, or culture. — n. 1. a. A native or inhabitant of Italy. b. A person of Italian descent. 2. The Romance language of the Italians and an official language of Switzerland. 3. Midland U.S. See submarine (n., sense 2). See Regional note at submarine. [Middle English, from Latin Italiānus, from Italia, Italy.]

I-tal-ian-ate (i-täl'yən-nāt', -nīt) adj. Italian in character: Italianate buildings.

Italian East Af-ri-ca (i-täl'yən ēst äf'rī-kə) A former federation of Italian-held territories in eastern Africa, including Eritrea, Ethiopia, and part of present-day Somalia. It was formed in 1936 and lasted until the British World War II invasion of 1941.

I-tal-ian-ism (i-täl'yən-nīz'əm) n. 1. An Italian idiom or custom. 2. A quality characteristic of Italy or its people.

I-tal·ian·ize (ĩ-tăl'yə-nīz') v. I-tal·ian·ized, I-tal·ian·iz·ing, I-tal·ian·iz·es.

— v. tr. To give an Italian aspect to. — v. intr. To adopt Italian speech, manners, or customs. — I-tal'ian·i·za'tion (-yə-nĩ-zā'shən) n.

Italian sandwich (ĩ-tăl'yən sänd'wĭch) n. Chiefly Maine. See submarine (n., sense 2).

Italian So·ma·li·land (ĩ-tăl'yən sō-mä'lē-länd', sə-) A former Italian colony of eastern Africa. It became part of Italian East Africa in 1936 and was invaded by British troops in 1941.

Italian sonnet (ĩ-tăl'yən sŏn'it) n. See Petrarchan sonnet.

I-tal·ic (ĩ-tăl'ik, ĩ-tăl'-) adj. 1. Of or relating to ancient Italy or its peoples or cultures. 2. Of or relating to Italic. 3. italic. Abbr. ital. Of or being a style of printing type patterned on a Renaissance script with the letters slanting to the right: This sentence is printed in italic type. — n. 1. A branch of the Indo-European language family that includes Latin, Faliscan, Oscan, Umbrian, and other languages or dialects. 2. Often italics. Abbr. ital. Italic print or typeface. [Latin Italicus, from Greek Italikos, from Italia, Italy, from Latin.]

I-tal·i·cism (ĩ-tăl'i-sĭz'əm) n. An Italianism, especially a word or an idiom borrowed from or suggestive of the Italian language.

i-tal·i·cize (ĩ-tăl'i-sĭz', ĩ-tăl'-) v. tr. i-tal·i·cized, i-tal·i·ciz·ing, i-tal·i·ciz·es.

1. To print in italic type. 2. To underscore (written matter) with a single line to indicate italics. 3. To emphasize: “italicizing the upper extremity of the pitch spectrum with flute or piccolo” (Arthur Berger). — i-tal'i·ci·za'tion (-sĭ-zā'shən) n.

I-tal·o·phile (ĩ-tăl'ə-fĭl') n. An admirer of Italy or of its people, language, or culture. — I-tal'o·phil'i·a (-fĭl'ē-ə) n.

I-tal·o·phobe (ĩ-tăl'əfŏb') n. One who fears or dislikes Italy or its people or culture. — I-tal'o·pho'bi·a (-fŏ'bē-ə) n.

It·a·ly (it'l-ē) 1. A peninsula of southern Europe projecting into the Mediterranean Sea between the Tyrrhenian and Adriatic seas. 2. Abbr. It. A country of southern Europe comprising the peninsula of Italy, Sardinia, Sicily, and several smaller islands. It was settled by Ligurian peoples and later by Etruscans (before 800 B.C.), who were supplanted by the Latin Romans by 270 B.C. After the fall of the empire (A.D. 476), Italy was ruled by various barbarian tribes, local families, and popes. The country was finally unified under Victor Emmanuel II in 1870. Rome is the capital and the largest city. Population, 56,243,935.

I-tas·ca (ĩ-tăs'kə) A lake of northwest Minnesota. It was identified in 1832 as the source of the Mississippi River.

itch (ĭch) n. 1. An irritating skin sensation causing a desire to scratch. 2. Any of various skin disorders, such as scabies, marked by intense irritation and itching. 3. A restless desire or craving for something: an itch to travel. — v. itched, itch·ing, itch·es. — v. intr. 1. a. To feel, have, or produce an itch. b. To have a desire to scratch. 2. To have a persistent, restless craving. — v. tr. 1. To cause to itch. 2. To scratch (an itch). [Middle English yicche, from Old English gicce, from giccan, to itch.]

itch mite (ič mīt) n. A parasitic mite (Sarcoptes scabiei) that burrows into the skin and causes scabies.

itch·y (ič'ē) adj. itch·i·er, itch·i·est. 1. Having or causing an itching sensation. 2. Restless or nervous. — itch/i·ness n.

it'd (it'əd) 1. It would. 2. It had.

-ite¹ suff. 1. Native or resident of: New Jerseyite. 2. a. Descendant of: Levite. b. Adherent or follower of: Luddite. 3. A part of an organ, body, or bodily part: somite. 4. a. Rock; mineral: graphite. b. Fossil: trilobite. 5. a. Product: metabolite. b. A commercial product: ebonite. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin -ītēs, -īta, from Greek -itēs.]

-ite² suff. A salt or ester of an acid named with an adjective ending in -ous: sulfite. [Alteration of -ATE².]

i·tem (i'təm) n. 1. A single article or unit in a collection, an enumeration, or a series. 2. A clause of a document, such as a bill or charter. 3. An entry in an account. 4. a. A bit of information; a detail. b. A short piece in a newspaper or magazine. — adv. Also; likewise. Used to introduce each article in an enumeration or a list. — v. tr. i·temed, i·tem·ing, i·tems. Archaic. To compute. [From Middle English, also, moreover, from Latin. See i- in Appendix.]

SYNONYMS: item, detail, particular. The central meaning shared by these nouns is “an individual, often specialized element of a whole”: a shopping list with numerous items; discussed all the details of their trip; furnished the particulars of the accident.

WORD HISTORY: The word item seems to us to be very much a noun, whether it refers to an article in a collection or a bit of information. But it began its life in English (first recorded before 1398) as an adverb meaning “moreover, also, in addition.” Item was typically used in front of each object listed in an inventory, as we might put also. This use in English simply reflects a meaning of the word in Latin. However, it is easy to see how item could be taken to stand for the thing that it preceded, and so we get, for example, the sense “an article included in an enumeration.” The first such usages are found in the 16th century, while the sense “a bit of information” is not found until the 19th century. In the 20th century we added a computer sense, a further addition to item.

i·tem·ize (i'tə-mīz') v. i·tem·ized, i·tem·iz·ing, i·tem·iz·es. — v. tr. To set down item by item; list. — v. intr. To list deductions from taxable income on a tax return: This benefit is available only to taxpayers who itemize. — i'tem·i·za'tion (i'tə-mī-zā'shən) n. — i'tem·iz'er n.

item veto (i'təm vē'tō) n. Authority, as of a state governor, to reject provisions of a bill individually. Also called selective veto it·er·ance (it'ər-əns) n. Iteration.

it·er·ant (it'ər-ənt) adj. Marked by iteration; repeating.

it·er·ate (it'ə-rāt') v. tr. it·er·at·ed, it·er·at·ing, it·er·ates. To say or perform again; repeat. See Synonyms at repeat. [Latin iterāre, iterāt-, from iterum, again. See i- in Appendix.]

it·er·a·tion (it'ə-rā'shən) n. 1. The act or an instance of iterating; repetition.

2. Mathematics. A computational procedure in which the desired result is approached through a repeated cycle of operations, each of which more closely approximates the desired result. 3. Computer Science. The process of repeating a set of instructions a specified number of times or until a specific result is achieved.

it·er·a·tive (it'ə-rā'tiv, -ər-ə-tiv) adj. 1. Characterized by or involving repetition, recurrence, reiteration, or repetitiousness. 2. Grammar. Frequentative.

Ith·a·ca (ith'ə-kə) 1. A city of southwest-central New York on Cayuga Lake south-southwest of Syracuse. It is the seat of Cornell University (chartered 1865). Population, 29,541. 2. See Itháki.

I·thá·ki (ē-thä'kē) also Ith·a·ca (ith'ə-kə) An island of western Greece in the Ionian Islands. According to tradition, it was the home of Odysseus, the hero of Homer's Odyssey.

ith·y·phal·lic (ith'ə-fäl'ik) adj. 1. Of or relating to the phallus carried in the ancient festival of Bacchus. 2. Having the penis erect. Used of graphic and sculptural representations. 3. Lascivious; salacious. [Late Latin ithyphallicus, from Greek ithuphallikos, from ithuphallos, erect phallus : ithus, straight + phallos, phallus; see bhel-² in Appendix.]

i·tin·er·an·cy (i-tin'ər-ən-sē, ĭ-tin'-) also i·tin·er·a·cy (-ə-sē) n. pl.

i·tin·er·an·cies. A state or system of itinerating, especially in the role or office of public speaker, minister, or judge.

i·tin·er·ant (i-tin'ər-ənt, ĭ-tin'-) adj. Traveling from place to place, especially to perform work or a duty: an itinerant judge; itinerant labor. — n. One who travels from place to place. [Late Latin itinerāns, itinerant- present participle of itinerārī, to travel, from Latin iter, itiner-, journey. See ei- in Appendix.]

i·tin·er·ar·y (i-tin'ə-rēr'ē, ĭ-tin'-) n. pl. i·tin·er·ar·ies. 1. A route or proposed route of a journey. 2. An account or a record of a journey. 3. A guidebook for travelers. — adj. 1. Of or relating to a journey or route. 2. Traveling from place to place; itinerant. [Middle English itinerarie, from Late Latin itinerārium, account of a journey, from neuter of itinerārius, of traveling, from Latin iter, itiner-, journey. See ei- in Appendix.]

i·tin·er·ate (ī-tĭn'ə-rāt', ĭ-tĭn'-) v. intr. i·tin·er·at·ed, i·tin·er·at·ing, i·tin·er·ates. To travel from place to place. [Late Latin itinerārī, itinerāt-, from Latin iter, itiner-, journey. See ITINERARY.] —i·tin'er·a'tion n.

-itis suff. 1. Inflammation or disease of: laryngitis. 2. Excessive preoccupation with, indulgence in, reliance on, or possession of the qualities of: televisionitis. [Greek, n. suff.] it'll (ĭt'1) 1. It will. 2. It shall.

I·to (ē'tō'), Prince Hirobumi. 1841-1909. Japanese politician who helped draft the constitution of 1889 and served as prime minister (1885-1888, 1892-1896, 1898, and 1900-1901).

ITO abbr. International Trade Organization.

its (ĭts) adj. The possessive form of it. Used as a modifier before a noun: The airline canceled its early flight to New York. [Alteration of it's: IT + -'s.]

USAGE NOTE: Its, the possessive form of the pronoun it, is never written with an apostrophe. The contraction it's (for it is or it has) is always written with an apostrophe.

it's (ĭts) 1. It is. 2. It has. See Usage Note at its.

it·self (ĭt-sĕlf') pron. 1. That one identical with it: a. Used reflexively as the direct or indirect object of a verb or the object of a preposition: The cat scratched itself. b. Used for emphasis: The trouble is in the machine itself. c. Used in an absolute construction: Itself no great poem, it still reveals talent. 2. Its normal or healthy condition or state: The car is acting itself again since we changed the oil.

I·tsu·ku·shi·ma (ĭt'sōō-kōō'shĭ-mə) An island of southwest Japan in the Inland Sea southwest of Hiroshima. It is noted for its ancient Shinto shrine and scenic beauty.

it·ty·bit·ty (ĭt'ē-bit'ē) also it·sy·bit·sy (ĭt'sē-bit'sē) adj. Informal. Very small. [Probably alteration of little bit.]

It·u·rae·a (ĭch'ə-rē'ə) An ancient country of northeast Palestine. The area was first inhabited by Arabians and later passed to Judea and Rome. —It'·u·rae'an adj. & n.

I·tur·bi (ĭ-tŭr'bē, ĭ-tōör', ē-tōör'vĕ), José. 1895-1980. Spanish-born pianist and conductor known for his classical interpretations of Spanish music. He was conductor of the Rochester (New York) Philharmonic Orchestra (1936-1944).

I·tur·bi·de (ē'tōör-bē'dā, ē-tōör'vĕ-thĕ), Agustín de. 1783-1824. Mexican revolutionary leader who established Mexican independence from Spain (1821) and served as emperor of Mexico from 1822 to 1823, when he was overthrown by a liberal counterrevolution.

-ity suff. State; quality: abnormality. [Middle English -itie, from Old French -ite, from Latin -itās, variant of -tās, -ty.]

IU abbr. International unit.

IUD abbr. Intrauterine device.

-ium suff. Chemical element or group: californium. [Alteration of -um, neuter suff.]

IV abbr. 1. Intravenous. 2. Intravenously.

I·van III Va·sil·ie·vich (ī'vən, ē-vän'; və-sil'yə-vich'), Known as "Ivan the Great." 1440-1505. Grand duke of Muscovy (1462-1505). His victories against the Tartars laid the foundations for eventual Russian unity.

I·van IV Va·sil·ie·vich (ī'vən, ē-vän'; və-sil'yə-vich'), Known as "Ivan the Terrible." 1530-1584. The first czar of Russia (1547-1584). He conducted unsuccessful wars against Sweden and Livonia and terrorized the Russian aristocracy.

I·va·no·Fran·kovsk (ī-vä'nō-fräng-kôfsk', ē-vä'nə-frün-) A city of southwest Ukraine southwest of Kiev. Chartered in 1662 as Stanislov, it passed to Austria in 1772 and to Poland in 1919. The city was incorporated into the Ukraine in 1939. Population, 210,000.

I·va·no·vo (ī-vä'nə-və) A city of west-central Russia northeast of Moscow. It has long been a textile-producing center. Population, 474,000.

-ive suff. Performing or tending toward a specified action: demonstrative. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin -ivus, adj. suff.]

I've (īv) I have.

Ives (īvz), Charles Edward. 1874-1954. American composer whose works anticipated those of later 20th-century musicians in their abandonment of conventional tonality. His Third Symphony (1904-1911) won a Pulitzer Prize.

Ives (īvz), Frederick Eugene. 1856-1937. American inventor who developed the halftone printing process and did pioneering work in color photography.

Ives (īvz), James Merritt. 1824-1895. American lithographer who with his partner Nathaniel Currier produced more than 7,000 popular prints depicting scenes from American life.

i·vied (ī'vĕd) adj. Overgrown or cloaked with ivy: "Harvard's ivied edifices" (Joseph P. Kahn).

I·vi·za (ē-bĕ'sə, ē-vĕ'thā) See Ibiza.

i·vo·ry (ī'və-rĕ, īv'rĕ) n. pl. i·vo·ries. 1. a. A hard, smooth, yellowish-white substance composed primarily of dentin that forms the tusks of the elephant. b. A similar substance forming the tusks or teeth of certain other mammals, such as the walrus. 2. A tusk, especially an elephant's tusk. 3. An article made of ivory. 4. A substance resembling ivory. 5. Color. A pale or grayish yellow to yellowish white. 6. Often ivories. a. Music. Piano keys. b. Games. Dice. c. Slang. The teeth. — adj. 1. Composed or constructed of ivory. 2. Color. Of a pale or grayish yellow to yellowish white. [Middle English ivorie, from Old French ivoire, ivurie, from Latin eboreus, of ivory, from ebur, ebor-, ivory, from Coptic ebou, elephant, from Egyptian 'bw.]

i·vo·ry·bill (ī'və-rē-bīl', īv'rē-) n. See ivory-billed woodpecker.

i·vo·ry-billed woodpecker (ī'və-rē-bīld' wōōd'pĕk'ər, īv'rē-) n. A large, nearly extinct woodpecker (Campephilus principalis) of the southern United States and Cuba, having black plumage, white wing patches, an ivory-colored bill, and a bright red crest in the male. Also called ivorybill ivory black (ī'və-rē blāk) n. A black pigment prepared from charred ivory.

I·vo·ry Coast (ī'və-rē kōst, īv'rē) A country of western Africa on the Gulf of Guinea. A former French colony, it became independent in 1960. Abidjan is the current capital and the largest city. Yamoussoukro was designated the new capital in 1983. Population, 7,920,000. —I·vo'ri-an (ī-vôr'ē-ən, ī-vōr'-), I·voir'i-an (ē-vwār'ē-ən) adj. & n.

ivory nut (ī'və-rē nūt) n. The seed of the ivory palm, having bony endosperm that is used as a substitute for true ivory.

i·vor·y·nut palm (ī'və-rē-nūt' pām, īv'rē-) n. An ivory palm.

ivory palm (ī'və-rē pām) n. A stemless, unarmed dioecious palm (Phytelephas macrocarpa) native to Brazil and Peru and having hard seeds that yield an ivory-like substance.

ivory tower (ī'və-rē tou'ər) n. A place or an attitude of retreat, especially preoccupation with lofty, remote, or intellectual considerations rather than practical everyday life. [Translation of French tour d'ivoire : tour, tower + d', of + ivoire, ivory.]

I·vry-sur-Seine (ē-vrē'sōōr-sān', -sūr-sĕn') A city of north-central France, a suburb of Paris on the Seine River. Population, 55,699.

i·vy (ī'vĕ) n. pl. i·vies. Any of several woody, climbing or trailing evergreen plants of the genus Hedera native to the Old World, especially H. helix, having palmately lobed leaves, root-bearing young stems, and small green flowers grouped in umbels. [Middle English ivi, from Old English īfig.]

I·vy League (ī'vĕ lĕg) n. An association of eight universities and colleges in the northeast United States, comprising Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Princeton, the University of Pennsylvania, and Yale. — adj. Of or resembling the traditions of the Ivy League. [So called because of the ivy that covers the older college buildings.] —Ivy Leaguer n.

IW abbr. 1. Index word. 2. Isotopic weight.

i.w. abbr. Inside width.

I·wa·ki (ī-wā'kĕ) A city of eastern Honshu, Japan, on the Pacific Ocean north-northeast of Tokyo. It is a port and an industrial center. Population, 350,566.

i·wis also y·wis (ī-wīs') adv. Archaic. Certainly; assuredly. [Middle English, from Old English gewis, certain. See weid- in Appendix.]

I·wo (ē'wō) A city of southwest Nigeria east-northeast of Ibadan. It was the capital of a Yoruba kingdom from the 17th to the 19th century. Population, 255,100.

I·wo Ji·ma (ē'wə jē'mə, ē'wō) The largest of the Volcano Islands of Japan in the northwest Pacific Ocean east of Taiwan. The island was the scene of severe fighting during World War II.

IWW abbr. Industrial Workers of the World.

Ix·elles (ēk-sěl') A city of central Belgium, an industrial suburb of Brussels. Population, 76,146.

Ix·i·on (ik-sī'ən, ik'sē-ōn') n. Greek Mythology. A king of Thessaly whom Zeus punished for his temerity in seeking Hera's love by having him bound to a perpetually revolving wheel in Hades.

ix·tle (is'lē, ist'-) n. Variant of istle.

I·yar also Iy·yar (ē-yār', ē'yār') n. The eighth month of the year in the Jewish calendar. See Table at calendar. [Hebrew 'iyār.]

I·zal·co (i-zāl'kō, ē-sāl'-) An active volcano, about 2,388 m (7,828 ft) high and still increasing in height, of western El Salvador. It is sometimes called "the Lighthouse of the Pacific."

iz·ar (i-zār') n. A long cotton outer garment, usually white, traditionally worn by Muslim women. [Arabic 'izār, 'izr, veil, covering, izar.]

Iz·ard (iz'ərd), Ralph. 1742-1804. American Revolutionary leader who served as a U.S. senator from South Carolina (1789-1795).

-ization or -isation suff. Action, process, or result of doing or making: colonization. [-IZ(E) + -ATION.]

-ize or -ise suff. 1. a. To cause to be or to become: dramatize. b. To cause to conform to or resemble: Hellenize. c. To treat as: idolize. 2. a. To treat or affect with: anesthetize. b. To subject to: tyrannize. 3. To treat according to or practice the method of: pasteurize. 4. To become; become like: materialize. 5. To perform, engage in, or produce: botanize. [Middle English -isen, from Old French -iser, from Late Latin -izāre, from Greek -izein, v. suff..]

USAGE NOTE: The suffix -ize is a productive means of turning nouns or adjectives into verbs, as in well-established forms such as formalize, criticize, jeopardize, and hospitalize. But the semantic versatility of the suffix can cause ambiguity, since the nature of the activity denoted by a verb formed in this way often depends on the context. Thus computerize may mean "to furnish with computers," as in The entire office has been computerized, or "to enter on a computer," as in The records are not yet computerized. And the sentence Earthquake relief requirements must be prioritized may mean that all relief requirements must be assigned a high priority or that the relative priority among requirements must be determined. The meanings of verbs such as these may be obscure to people who lack the relevant background information and will naturally tend to regard them as jargon. This is one reason that so many words formed with -ize met with critical resistance when they were first introduced, among them being Americanize, nationalize, and jeop- ardize, all of which are now acceptable. Although some recent words of this type are unobjectionable, for example, computerize, institutionalize, and radicalize, many others are associated with bureaucratic and corporate jargon, for example, accessorize, incentivize, prioritize, privatize, and in particular finalize, which despite its wide usage was judged unacceptable by 71 percent of the Usage Panel. Coinages of this sort should be used with caution until they have passed the tests of manifest utility and acceptance by reputable writers. See Usage Note at finalize. See Usage Note at prioritize.

I·zhevsk (ē-zhěfsk', ē-zhĭfsk') Formerly U·sti·nov (ōō-stĭn'ôf). A city of west-central Russia northeast of Kazan. Its ironworks date to 1760. Population, 611,000.

Iz·mir (ĭz-mîr') Formerly Smyr·na (smûr'nə). A city of western Turkey on the Gulf of Izmir, an inlet of the Aegean Sea. Settled during the Bronze Age, Izmir is now a major port and an industrial center. Population, 757,854.

- j¹ or J (jā) n. pl. j's or J's. 1. The tenth letter of the modern English alphabet. 2. Any of the speech sounds represented by the letter j. 3. The tenth in a series. 4. Something shaped like the letter J.
- j² or J Electricity. The symbol for current density (n., sense 1).
- j³ or J abbr. Joule.
- J abbr. Games. Jack.
- J. abbr. 1. Japanese. 2. Or j.. Journal. 3. Or j.. Law. Judge. 4. Or j.. Law. Justice.
- JA abbr. 1. Joint account. 2. Also J.A.. Law. Judge advocate.
- jab (jāb) v. jabbed, jab-bing, jabs. — v. tr. 1. To poke or thrust abruptly, especially with something sharp. 2. To stab or pierce. 3. To thrust into or against with a rough, abrupt movement: “He laughed and jabbed his spectacles back on his nose” (John Barth). 4. To punch with short blows. — v. intr. 1. To make an abrupt poking or thrusting motion. 2. To deliver a quick punch. — n. 1. A quick stab or blow. 2. Sports. A short straight punch in boxing. [Variant of JOB².]
- Jab-al-pur (jüb'äl-pōōr') also Jub-bul-pore (-pôr', -pōr') A city of central India south-southeast of Delhi. It is a manufacturing center and rail junction. Population, 614,162.
- jab-ber (jāb'ēr) v. jab-bered, jab-ber-ing, jab-bers. — v. intr. To talk rapidly, unintelligibly, or idly. — v. tr. To utter rapidly or unintelligibly. — n. Rapid or babbling talk. [Middle English javeren, of imitative origin.]
—jab'ber-er n.
- jab-ber-wock-y (jāb'ēr-wōk'ē) n. Nonsensical speech or writing. [From “Jabberwocky”, a poem by Lewis Carroll.]
- Ja-bir (jā'bār, jā'bîr) See Geber.
- jab-i-ru (jāb'ə-rōō') n. A large tropical American stork (Jabiru mycteria) having white plumage with a pink band at the neck and a naked head. [Portuguese, and American Spanish jabirú.]
- jab-o-ran-di (jāb'ə-rān-dē', -rān'dē) n. pl. jab-o-ran-dis. 1. Either of two tropical American shrubs (Pilocarpus jaborandi or P. microphyllus) whose dried leaves yield the medicinal alkaloid pilocarpine. 2. The dried leaves of these plants. [Portuguese, and American Spanish.]
- ja-bot (zhā-bō', jāb'ō) n. An ornamental cascade of ruffles or frills down the front of a shirt, blouse, or dress. [French, crop of a bird, jabot; akin to Old French dialectal gave, throat, gullet, from Romance gab-*, perhaps of Celtic origin.]
- ja-cal (hā-kāl') n. pl. ja-ca-les (-kā'lās) or ja-cals. A thatch-roofed hut made of wattle and daub found in Mexico and the southwest United States. [American Spanish, from Nahuatl xacalli: xamitl, adobe + calli, house.]

jac·a·mar (jăk'ə-mär') n. Any of various tropical American birds of the family Galbulidae, having iridescent plumage and a long bill. [French, possibly of Tupian origin.]

ja·ça·na (zhă'sə-nă') also ja·ca·na (-kə-nă') n. Any of several tropical water birds of the family Jacanidae, having long toes adapted for walking on floating vegetation. Also called lily-trotter [Portuguese jaçaná.] jac·a·ran·da (jăk'ə-răn'də) n. 1. Any of several tropical American trees or shrubs of the genus Jacaranda, having pinnately compound, opposite leaves and panicles of pale purple flowers with funnel-shaped corollas. 2. The wood of this tree or a wood similar to it. [Portuguese, and American Spanish.]

Ja·ca·re·í (zhă'kă-rĭ-ē') A city of southeast Brazil, a textile-manufacturing suburb of São Paulo. Population, 104,241.

ja·cynth (jă'sĭnth, jăs'ĭnth) n. See hyacinth (n., sense 1a). [Middle English jacinte, from Old French jacinte, or from Medieval Latin jacintus both from Latin hyacinthus. See HYACINTH.]

jack (jăk) n. 1. Often Jack. Informal. A man; a fellow. 2. a. One who does odd or heavy jobs; a laborer. b. One who works in a specified manual trade. Often used in combination: a lumberjack; a steeplejack. c. Jack. A sailor; a tar. 3. Abbr. J Games. A playing card showing the figure of a servant or soldier and ranking below a queen. Also called knave 4. Games. a. jacks. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). A game played with a set of small six-pointed metal pieces and a small ball, the object being to pick up the pieces in various combinations. b. One of the metal pieces so used. 5. Sports. A pin used in some games of bowling. 6. a. A usually portable device for raising heavy objects by means of force applied with a lever, screw, or hydraulic press. b. A wooden wedge for cleaving rock.

7. Nautical. a. A support or brace, especially the iron crosstree on a topgallant masthead. b. A small flag flown at the bow of a ship, usually to indicate nationality. 8. The male of certain animals, especially the ass. 9. Any of several food and game fishes of the family Carangidae, found in tropical and temperate seas.

10. A jackrabbit. 11. A socket that accepts a plug at one end and attaches to electric circuitry at the other. 12. Slang. Money. 13. Applejack. — v. jacked, jack-ing, jacks. — v. tr. 1. To hunt or fish for with a jacklight: hunters illegally jacking deer. 2. a. To hoist with a jack: jacked the rear of the car to replace the tire.

b. To raise (something) to a higher level, as in cost: "Foreign producers jacked up the price on some steels by over 100%" (Forbes). — v. intr. To hunt or fish for quarry by using a jacklight. — phrasal verb. jack off. Vulgar Slang. To masturbate. [From the name Jack, from Middle English Jakke, possibly from Old French Jacques, from Latin Iacōbus, from Greek Iakōb, from Hebrew Ya'qôb.]

— jack'er n.

jack·al (jăk'əl, -ôl') n. 1. Any of several doglike mammals of the genus Canis of Africa and southern Asia that are mainly foragers feeding on plants, small animals, and occasionally carrion. 2. a. An accomplice or a lackey who aids in the commission of base or disreputable acts. b. One who performs menial tasks for another. [Turkish chakāl, from Persian shaghāl, from Middle Indic shagāl, from Sanskrit śrgālah.]

jack·a·napes (jăk'ə-nāps') n. 1. A conceited or impudent person. 2. A mischievous child. 3. Archaic. A monkey or an ape. [From Middle English Jack Napis, nickname of William de la Pole, Fourth Earl and First Duke of Suffolk (1396-1450).]

jack·ass (jăk'ăs') n. 1. A male ass or donkey. 2. A foolish or stupid person; a blockhead: “You’ve acted like an irrational jackass and it’s time you stopped” (Margaret Truman).

jackass rig (jăk'ăs' rĭg) n. Nautical. A nonstandard combination of square rig and fore-and-aft rig on a sailing ship that has two or more masts. Also called hermaphrodite rig jack bean (jăk bĕn) n. A tropical American annual plant (Canavalia ensiformis) having clusters of purple flowers and long pods with edible seeds.

jack·boot also jack·boot (jăk'bōōt') n. 1. A stout military boot that extends above the knee. 2. A person who uses bullying tactics, especially to force compliance. 3. The spirit sustaining and motivating a militaristic, highly aggressive, or totalitarian regime or system.

jack·boot·ed also jack·boot·ed (jăk'bōō'tĭd) adj. 1. Wearing jackboots. 2. Cruelly and violently oppressive: “a revival of the aggressive, jack-booted militarism of the Thirties and Forties” (Saturday Review).

jack·daw (jăk'dô') n. A Eurasian crow (Corvus monedula).

jack·et (jăk'ĭt) n. 1. A short coat usually extending to the hips. 2. An outer covering or casing, especially: a. The skin of a potato. b. The dust jacket of a book. c. An insulation covering for a steam pipe, wire, boiler, or similar part. d. A paper or thin cardboard envelope for a phonograph record. e. An open envelope or folder for filing papers. f. Computer Science. The plastic or cardboard container that holds a floppy disk. g. The outer metal shell or case of a bullet. — v. tr. jack·et·ed, jack·et·ing, jack·ets. To supply or cover with a jacket. [Middle English jaket, from Old French jaquet, diminutive of jaque, short jacket, tunic, from jacques, nickname for French peasants (from the name Jacques); see JACK, or from Catalan (from Arabic šakk, mailcoat, breastplate).] —jack'et·ed adj.

Jack Frost (jăk frōst) n. Frost or cold weather personified.

jack·fruit (jăk'frōōt') n. 1. A tropical Asian tree (Artocarpus heterophyllus) having large edible fruits, unisexual flowers, and fine-grained durable wood. 2. The fruit of this tree. [Portuguese jaca (from Malayalam cakkai) + FRUIT.]

jack·ham·mer (jăk'hăm'ər) n. A hand-held machine for drilling rock and breaking up pavement, operated by compressed air. —jack'ham'mer v.

jack-in-the-box (jăk'ĭn-thə-bŏks') n. pl. jack-in-the-box-es or jacks-in-the-box (jăks' -). A toy consisting of a clownlike puppet that springs out of a box when the lid is activated.

jack-in-the-pul-pit (jăk'ĭn-thə-pŏŏl'pĭt, -pŭl' -) n. pl. jack-in-the-pulpits. An eastern North American tuberous herb (Arisaema triphyllum) having a striped, leaflike spathe with a bent blade and three-lobed leaves. Also called Indian turnip jack-knife (jăk'nĭf') n. 1. A large clasp knife. 2. Sports. A dive executed by jumping headfirst, bending the body at the waist, and, with the legs straight, touching the feet with the hands before straightening out to enter the water hands first. — v. jack-knifed, jack-knif-ing, jack-knifes. — v. tr. 1. To fold or double (something or oneself) like a jackknife. 2. To cut or stab with a jackknife. — v. intr. 1. To bend or fold up like a jackknife: A truck that had jackknifed was blocking the road. 2. To form a 90° angle.

jack-leg (jăk'lĕg') n. A strikebreaker. [Perhaps JACK + (BLACK)LEG.]

jack-light (jăk'lĭt') n. A light used as a lure in night hunting or fishing. — v. intr. jack-light-ed, jack-light-ing, jack-lights. To hunt or fish with a jacklight.

jack mackerel or jack-mack-er-el (jăk'măk'ər-əl, -măk'rəl) n. A common food and game fish (Trachurus symmetricus) of Pacific coastal waters. Also called saurel jack-of-all-trades (jăk'əv-ŏl'trădz') n. pl. jacks-of-all-trades (jăks' -). A person who can do many different kinds of work.

jack-o'-lan-tern (jăk'ə-lăn'tərn) n. pl. jack-o'-lanterns. 1. A lantern made from a hollowed pumpkin with a carved face, usually displayed on Halloween.

2. A phosphorescent light over marshy ground; ignis fatuus.

jack pine (jăk pĭn) n. An evergreen tree (Pinus banksiana) of northern North America, having soft wood and short, twisted needles grouped in fascicles of two. Also called scrub pine jack-plane (jăk'plān') n. A bench plane for rough surfacing, usually slightly over one foot in length.

jack-pot (jăk'pŏt') n. 1. Games. a. The accumulated stakes in a kind of poker that requires one to hold a pair of jacks or better in order to open the betting. b. A cumulative pool in competitions and various other games. 2. A top prize or reward.

jack-rab-bit (jăk' răb'ĭt) n. or jack rabbit Any of several large, long-eared, long-legged hares of the genus Lepus. — v. intr. jack-rab-bit-ed, jack-rab-bit-ing, jack-rab-bits. To move or begin to move rapidly or suddenly: "A rear tire blew out and the car jackrabbited out of control" (Sonny Kleinfeld). — adj. Moving or beginning to move in a sudden, rapid manner: won the race with a jackrabbit start. [JACK(ASS) (from its long ears) + RABBIT.]

jack-screw (jăk'skrŏŏ') n. A jack operated by a screw. Also called screw jack jack-shaft (jæk'shäft') n. A short shaft that transmits motion from a motor to a machine, especially in an automobile.

jacks-in-the-box (jæks'ɪn-thə-bɒks') n. A plural of jack-in-the-box.

jack-snipe (jæk'snɪp') n. pl. jacksnipe or jack-snipes. 1. An Old World wading bird (Limnocyptes minima) having brownish plumage and a long bill. 2. Any of several similar New World wading birds.

jacks-of-all-trades (jæks'ɔv-əl'trædz') n. Plural of jack-of-all-trades.

Jack-son (jæk'sən) 1. A city of south-central Michigan on the Grand River south of Lansing. It is an industrial and commercial center. Population, 37,446. 2. The capital and largest city of Mississippi, in the west-central part of the state. Originally a small trading post, it was chosen as capital in 1821 and named in honor of Andrew Jackson. Population, 196,637. 3. A city of western Tennessee northeast of Memphis. Settled in 1819, it is a processing and educational center. Population, 48,949.

Jack-son (jæk'sən), Andrew. Known as "Old Hickory." 1767-1845. The seventh President of the United States (1829-1837), who as a general in the War of 1812 defeated the British at New Orleans (1815). As president he opposed the Bank of America, objected to the right of individual states to nullify disagreeable federal laws, and increased the presidential powers.

Jack-son (jæk'sən), Helen (Maria Fiske) Hunt. 1830-1885. American writer known for Ramona (1884), a romantic novel concerning the injustices suffered by Native Americans.

Jack-son (jæk'sən), Howell Edmunds. 1832-1895. American jurist who served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1893-1895).

Jack-son (jæk'sən), Jesse Louis. Born 1941. American civil rights leader and politician. A Baptist minister, he directed national antidiscrimination efforts (1966-1977) and sought the 1984 and 1988 Democratic presidential nominations. His concern for the oppressed and his dramatic oratory have attracted a large grassroots constituency, called the Rainbow Coalition.

Jack-son (jæk'sən), Mahalia. 1911-1972. American singer whose powerful performances and recordings, such as "Move on up a Little Higher" (1945), did much to popularize gospel music among general audiences.

Jack-son (jæk'sən), Robert Houghwout. 1892-1954. American jurist who served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1941-1954) and was the U.S. prosecutor at the Nuremburg tribunal (1945-1946).

Jack-son (jæk'sən), Thomas Jonathan. Known as "Stonewall." 1824-1863. American Confederate general who commanded troops at both battles of Bull Run (1861 and 1862) and directed the Shenandoah Valley campaign (1862). He was accidentally killed by his own troops at Chancellorsville (1863).

Jackson Hole (jăk'sən hōl) A fertile valley of northwest Wyoming in the Rocky Mountains east of the Teton Range. It was named after a fur trapper, David Jackson, who stayed in the region during the winter of 1828-1829.

Jack-so-ni-an (jăk-sō'nē-ən) adj. Of or relating to Andrew Jackson, his concepts of popular government, or his presidency. —Jack-so'ni-an n.
—Jack-so'ni-an-ism n.

Jack-son-ville (jăk'sən-vīl') 1. A city of central Arkansas northeast of Little Rock. A U.S. Air Force base is nearby. Population, 29,101. 2. A city of northeast Florida on the St. Johns River near the Atlantic Ocean and the Georgia border. Settled in 1816, it is a major port and manufacturing center and the largest city in Florida. Population, 672,971. 3. A city of west-central Illinois west of Springfield. Laid out in 1825, it has varied industries. Population, 19,324. 4. A city of eastern North Carolina near the Atlantic Ocean north-northeast of Wilmington. Camp Lejune, a U.S. Marine Corps training base, is nearby. Population, 30,013.

Jacksonville Beach (jăk'sən-vīl' bēch) A city of northeast Florida, a mainly residential suburb of Jacksonville on the Atlantic Ocean. Population, 17,839.

jack-stay (jăk'stā') n. Nautical. 1. A stay for racing or cruising vessels used to steady the mast against the strain of the gaff. 2. A rope, rod, or batten along the upper side of a yard, gaff, or boom to which a sail is fastened. 3. A rope or rod running vertically on the forward side of the mast on which the yard moves.

jack-stone (jăk'stōn') n. Games. 1. jackstones. (used with a sing. verb). The game of jacks. 2. One of the pieces used in playing jacks.

jack-straw (jăk'strō') n. Games. 1. jackstraws. (used with a sing. verb). A game played with a pile of straws or thin sticks, with the players attempting in turn to remove a single stick without disturbing the others. 2. One of the straws or sticks used in this game.

jack-tar also Jack-tar (jăk'tār') n. A sailor.

Ja-cob (jă'kəb) In the Old Testament, the son of Isaac and grandson of Abraham. His 12 sons became the progenitors of the 12 tribes of Israel.

Ja-cob (zhă-kōb'), François. Born 1920. French geneticist. He shared a 1965 Nobel Prize for the study of regulatory activity in body cells.

Jac-o-be-an (jăk'ə-bē'ən) adj. Of or having to do with the reign of James I of England or his times. — n. A prominent figure during this period. [From New Latin Jacobaeus, from Latin Iacōbus, James, Jacob. See JACK.]

Ja-co-bi (jə-kō'bē), Abraham. 1830-1919. German-born American physician who established a children's clinic in New York (1860) and is considered the founder of American pediatrics. His wife, Mary Corinna Putnam Jacobi (1842-1906), also a physician, helped expand medical education opportunities for women.

Jac-o-bin (jăk'ə-bīn) n. 1. A radical or extreme leftist. 2. A radical republican during the French Revolution. 3. A Dominican friar. [French, after the Jacobin friars, in whose convent the Jacobins first met.] —Jac'o-bin'ic, Jac'o-bin'i-cal adj. —Jac'o-bin-ism n. —Jac'o-bin-ize' (-bī-nīz') v.

Jac'o-bite (jăk'ə-bīt') n. A supporter of James II of England or of the Stuart pretenders after 1688. [From New Latin Jacobus, James, from Latin Iacobus. See JACK.] —Jac'o-bit'i-cal (-bīt'ī-kəl) adj. —Jac'o-bit-ism (-bī-tīz'əm) n.

Ja-cobs (jā'kəbz), Aletta. 1854-1929. Dutch physician who opened the world's first birth control clinic in Amsterdam in 1882. Jacobs was also instrumental in gaining voting rights for Dutch women in 1919.

Ja-cobs (jā'kəbz), Jane. Born 1916. American writer whose works, including The Death and Life of Great American Cities (1961) and The Economy of Cities (1969), challenge traditional theories and methods of urban planning.

Ja-cob's ladder (jā'kəbz lăd'ər) n. 1. Nautical. A rope or chain ladder with rigid rungs. 2. Any of various plants of the genus Polemonium, especially P. caeruleum, having blue flowers and alternate, pinnately compound leaves with numerous leaflets. [From the ladder seen by the biblical patriarch Jacob in a dream (Genesis 28:12).]

jac-o-net (jăk'ə-nět') n. A lightweight cotton cloth resembling lawn used for clothing and bandages. [From Urdu jagannāthī, after Jagannath (Puri), a town of eastern India.]

jac-quard also Jac-quard (jăk'ărd', jə-kărd') n. 1. A fabric with an intricately woven pattern. 2. A special loom or the method employed in the weaving of a figured fabric. [After Joseph Marie JACQUARD.] —jac'quard' adj.

Jac-quard (jăk'ărd', jə-kărd', zhă-kăr'), Joseph Marie. 1752-1834. French inventor of the jacquard loom (1801), the first automatic loom able to weave complex patterns.

Jac-que-rie (zhă-krē') n. 1. The uprising of the French peasants against the nobility in 1358. 2. jacquerie. A peasant revolt, especially a very bloody one. [French, from Old French jacquerie, peasantry, from jacques, peasant. See JACKET.]

jac-ti-ta-tion (jăk'tī-tā'shən) n. 1. A false boasting or claim, especially one detrimental to the interests of another. 2. Pathology. Extreme restlessness or tossing in bed, as can occur with some forms of acute disease. [Medieval Latin iactitātiō, iactitātiōn-, false declaration, from Latin iactitātus, past participle of iactitāre, to utter frequentative of iactāre, to boast frequentative of iacere, to throw. See yē- in Appendix.]

Ja-cuz-zi (jə-kōō'zē, jă-) A trademark used for a whirlpool bath or a device that swirls water in a bath.

jade¹ (jād) n. Either of two distinct minerals, nephrite and jadeite, that are generally pale green or white and are used mainly as gemstones or in carving. [French (le) jade, (the) jade, alteration of (l')ejade, from Spanish (pedra de) ijada, flank (stone) (from the belief that it cured renal colic), from Vulgar Latin īliāta*, from Latin īlia, pl. of īlium, flank.] —jade adj.

jade² (jād) v. jad-ed, jad-ing, jades. — v. tr. To wear out, as by overuse or overindulgence. See Synonyms at tire¹. — v. intr. To become weary or spiritless. — n. 1. A broken-down or useless horse; a nag. 2. A woman regarded as disreputable or shrewish. [Middle English iade; akin to Swedish dialectal jälða, mare, possibly of Finno-Ugric origin.]

jad-ed (jā'dēd) adj. 1. Worn out; wearied: "My father's words had left me jaded and depressed" (William Styron). 2. Dulled by surfeit; sated: "the sickeningly sweet life of the amoral, jaded, bored upper classes" (John Simon). 3. Cynically or pretentiously callous. —jad'ed-ly adv. —jad'ed-ness n.

jade-ite (jā'dīt') n. A rare, usually emerald to light green but sometimes white, auburn, buff, or violet mineral, NaAlSi₂O₆, used as a gem and for ornamental carvings. It is the tougher and more highly valued form of jade.

jae-ger (yā'gər) n. 1. (also jā'gər) Any of several Arctic and Boreal sea birds of the genus Stercorarius that harass smaller birds and snatch the food they drop. Also called skua 2. A huntsman or hunting attendant. [German Jäger, hunter, jaeger, from Middle High German jeger, from Old High German jagāri, from jagōn, to hunt.]

Ja-én (hä-ēn') A city of southern Spain north-northwest of Granada. It is a distribution center in a lead-mining region. Pop. 102,262.

Jaf-fa (jā'fə, yāf'ə) A former city of west-central Israel on the Mediterranean Sea. An ancient Phoenician city, it was taken by the Israelites in the 6th century A.D. and later fell to the Arabs (636), Crusaders (12th century), and Ottoman Turks (16th century). Jaffa was inhabited mainly by Arabs until the state of Israel was proclaimed in 1948. Since 1950 the city has been part of Tel Aviv-Jaffa.

Jaff-na (jāf'nə) A city of extreme northern Sri Lanka on Palk Strait. It was the center of an ancient Tamil culture until the Portuguese conquest of 1617. Population, 118,215.

jag¹ (jäg) n. 1. A sharp projection; a barb. 2. a. A hanging flap along the edge of a garment. b. A slash or slit in a garment exposing material of a different color. — v. tr. jagged, jag-ging, jags. 1. To cut jags in; notch. 2. To cut unevenly. 3. Scots. To jab sharply; prick. [Middle English jagge.] —jag'ger n. —jag'less adj.

jag² (jäg) n. 1. Slang. a. A bout of drinking or drug use. b. A period of overindulgence in an activity; a spree: a shopping jag; a crying jag. See Synonyms at binge. 2. A small load or portion. [Origin unknown.]

J.A.G. also JAG abbr. Law. Judge advocate general.

Jag-a-tai (jäg'ə-tī') or Chag-a-tai (chäg'-), Died 1242. Mongol ruler who succeeded his father, Genghis Khan.

jag-ged (jäg'íd) adj. 1. Marked by irregular projections and indentations on the edge or surface. See Synonyms at rough. 2. Having a rough or harsh quality: “not a stutter exactly but a jagged sound, as if the words were being broken-off from some other, stronger current of words deep inside” (Anne Tyler). —jag'ged-ly adv. —jag'ged-ness n.

jag-ger-y (jäg'ə-rē) n. Unrefined sugar made from palm sap. [Portuguese dialectal jagara, ultimately from Dravidian carucarai, to be rough.]

jag-gy (jäg'ē) adj. jag-gi-er, jag-gi-est. Having jags; jagged or serrated.

jag-uar (jäg'wär', jäg'yōō-är') n. A large feline mammal (Panthera onca) of Central and South America, closely related to the leopard and having a tawny coat spotted with black rosettes. [Spanish, and Portuguese from Guarani jaguá, yaguar, dog.]

jag-ua-run-di also jag-ua-ron-di (jäg'wə-rün'dē) n. pl. jag-ua-run-dis. A long-tailed, grayish-brown wildcat (Felis yagouaroundi) of tropical America. [Spanish, and Portuguese from Guarani jaguarundi, yaguarundi, variant of jaguá, yaguar, dog.]

Ja-han-gir (jə-hän'gîr), Called “Conqueror of the World.” 1569-1627. Mogul emperor (1605-1627) who succeeded his father, Akbar, and continued his expansionist policies.

Jah-veh (yə'vā, vē) or Jah-weh (-wā, -wě) n. Variants of Yahweh.

jai a-lai (hī' lī', hī' ə-lī', hī' ə-lī') n. Sports. An extremely fast court game in which players use a long hand-shaped basket strapped to the wrist to propel the ball against a wall. [Spanish, from Basque : jai, festival + alai, joyous.]

jail (jāl) n. 1. A place for the confinement of persons in lawful detention; a prison. 2. Detention in a jail. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: a jail population; jail conditions. — v. tr. jailed, jail-ing, jails. To detain in custody; imprison. [From Middle English jaiole (from Old French), and from Middle English gaiol, gaol (from Old North French gaiole) both from Vulgar Latin gaviola*, from Latin caveola*, diminutive of cavea, cage, hollow.]

jail-bait (jāl'bāt') n. Slang. A person below the age of consent with whom sexual intercourse can constitute statutory rape.

jail-bird (jāl'bûrd') n. Informal. A prisoner or an ex-convict.

jail-break (jāl'brāk') n. An escape from jail.

jail-er also jail-or (jāl'lər) n. One whose responsibility is keeping a jail.

jail-house (jāl'hous') n. A place for incarcerating prisoners; a jail.

jailhouse lawyer (jāl'hous' lô'yər) n. Slang. A prison inmate who is usually self-taught in the law and offers legal consultation within a prison or corrections system.

jail-or (jāl'lər) n. Variant of jailer.

Jain (jīn) also Jai-na (jī'nə) n. A believer or follower of Jainism. [Hindi jaina, from Sanskrit jaina-, relating to the saints, from jinaḥ, saint, victor, from jayati, he conquers.]

Jain-ism (jī'nīz'əm) n. An ascetic religion of India, founded in the sixth century B.C., that teaches the immortality and transmigration of the soul and denies the existence of a perfect or supreme being.

Jai-pur (jī'pūr') A city of northwest India south-southwest of Delhi. The center of a former state established in the 12th century, Jaipur was founded in 1728 and is noted for its walls and fortifications and the pink color of many of its houses. Population, 977,165.

Ja-kar-ta or Dja-kar-ta (jə-kār'tə) Formerly Ba-ta-vi-a (bə-tā'vē-ə). The capital and largest city of Indonesia, on the northeast coast of Java. Founded c. 1619 by the Dutch, it became an important center of the Dutch East India Company and was renamed Jakarta after Indonesia became independent in 1949. Population, 6,503,449.

jake (jāk) adj. Slang. Suitable or satisfactory; fine. [Origin unknown.]

jakes (jāks) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). Chiefly British. A latrine; a privy. [Perhaps from French Jacques, James, Jack. See JACK.]

Ja-kob-Creutz-feldt disease (yā'kôp-kroits'fēlt dī-zēz') n. See Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease.

jal-ap (jäl'əp, jäl'əp) n. 1. A twining, eastern Mexican vine (Exogonium purga) having tuberous roots that are dried, powdered, and used medicinally as a cathartic. 2. Any of several similar or related plants. 3. The dried tuberous roots of these plants. [French, from American Spanish jalapa, short for (purga de) Jalapa, (purgative of) Jalapa, after Jalapa.]

Ja-la-pa (hə-lä'pə, hə-lä'pä) also Jalapa En-ri-quez (ĕn-rē'kĕs) A city of east-central Mexico east of Mexico City. Built on the site of a pre-Columbian city, Jalapa was captured by Cortés in 1519. It is now an agricultural trade center and a mountain resort. Population, 204,594.

ja-la-pe-ño (hä'lə-pān'yō) n. pl. ja-la-pe-ños. A cultivar of the tropical pepper (Capsicum annuum) having a very pungent green or red fruit used in cooking. [American Spanish (chile) jalapeño, (chile of) Jalapa, after Jalapa.]

ja-lop-y (jə-löp'yē) n. pl. ja-lop-ies. Informal. An old, dilapidated motor vehicle, especially an automobile. [Origin unknown.]

jal-ou-sie (jäl'ə-sē) n. A blind or shutter having adjustable horizontal slats for regulating the passage of air and light. [French, from jalousie, jealousy, from Old French gelosie, from gelos, jealous. See JEALOUS.]

jam¹ (jäm) v. jammed, jam-ming, jams. — v. tr. 1. To drive or wedge forcibly into a tight position: jammed the cork in the bottle. 2. To activate or apply suddenly: jam the brakes on. 3. To cause (moving parts, for example) to lock into an unworkable position: jammed the typewriter keys. 4. a. To pack (items, for example) to excess; cram: jammed my clothes into the suitcase. b. To fill (something) to excess: a suitcase that had been jammed with clothes. 5. To block, congest, or clog: a drain that was jammed by debris. 6. To crush or bruise: jam a finger. 7. Electronics. To interfere with or prevent the clear reception of (broadcast signals) by electronic means. — v. intr. 1. To become wedged or stuck. 2. To become inoperable: a typewriter keyboard that had jammed. 3. To force one's way into or through a limited space. 4. Music. To play improvisations. — n. 1. The act of jamming or the condition of being jammed. 2. A crush or congestion of people or things in a limited space: a traffic jam. 3. A trying situation; a predicament. See Synonyms at predicament. [Origin unknown.]

—jam'ma·ble adj. —jam'mer n.

jam² (jäm) n. A preserve made from whole fruit boiled to a pulp with sugar. [Possibly from JAM¹.] —jam'my adj.

Ja·mai·ca (jə-mā'kə) Abbr. Jam. An island country in the Caribbean Sea south of Cuba. Discovered by Columbus in 1494, the island was settled in 1509 by the Spanish, captured by the British in 1655, and formally ceded to Great Britain in 1670. The country became independent in 1962. Kingston is the capital and the largest city. Population, 2,190,357. —Ja·mai'can adj. & n.

jamb also jambe (jäm) n. 1. One of a pair of vertical posts or pieces that together form the sides of a door, window frame, or fireplace, for example. 2. A projecting mass or columnar part. [Middle English jambe, from Old French, leg, jamb, from Late Latin gamba, horse's hock, leg. See GAMBOL.]

jam·ba·lay·a (jüm'bə-lī'ə) n. A Creole dish consisting of rice that has been cooked with shrimp, oysters, ham, or chicken and seasoned with spices and herbs. [Louisiana French, from Provençal jambalaia.]

jambe (jäm) n. Variant of jamb.

jam·beau (jäm'bō) n. pl. jam·beaux (-bōz). A piece of armor for the leg below the knee. [Middle English, probably from Old North French jambeau*, from Old French jambe, leg. See JAMB.]

jam·bo·ree (jäm'bə-rē') n. 1. A noisy celebration. 2. A large assembly, often international, especially of Boy Scouts or Girl Scouts. 3. A mass gathering or assembly, as of a political party or association. [Origin unknown.]

James (jāmz) n. Abbr. Jm. Bible. A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

James¹ (jāmz), Saint Known as "the Great." Died A.D. 44. One of the 12 Apostles. The son of Zebedee and brother of John, he preached in Spain and was martyred on his return to Judea.

James² (jāmz), Saint Known as "the Less." Died c. A.D. 62. Traditionally regarded as the brother of Jesus, the author of the Epistle of James in the New Testament, and the first bishop of Jerusalem.

James³ (jāmz), Saint. fl. first century A.D. One of the 12 Apostles.

James I (jāmz), 1566-1625. King of England (1603-1625) and of Scotland as James VI (1567-1625). The son of Mary Queen of Scots, he succeeded the heirless Elizabeth I as the first Stuart king of England. His belief in the divine right of kings and his attempts to keep peace with Spain created resentment in Parliament that led to the English Civil War. He sponsored the King James Bible.

James II (jāmz), 1633-1701. King of England, Scotland, and Ireland (1685-1688). The last Stuart king to rule both England and Scotland, he was overthrown by his son-in-law William of Orange.

James (jāmz), Henry. 1843-1916. American writer and critic whose works generally concern the confrontation of American and European culture. A pioneer in psychologically realistic fiction, he wrote numerous novels, such as The Bostonians (1886) and The Golden Bowl (1904).

James (jāmz), Jesse. 1847-1882. American outlaw. After fighting in the Civil War as a Confederate guerrilla, he led a group of armed brigands that for 15 years robbed banks and trains in the West. He was murdered by a member of his own gang.

James (jāmz), William. 1842-1910. American psychologist and philosopher. A founder of pragmatism and the psychological movement of functionalism, he developed an approach to intellectual issues that greatly influenced American thought. His works include The Will to Believe (1897) and The Varieties of Religious Experience (1902).

James Bay (jāmz bā) The southern arm of Hudson Bay, in Northwest Territories, Canada, between northeast Ontario and western Quebec. It was first sighted by Henry Hudson in 1610 but named for the English captain Thomas James (1593?-1635?), who explored much of the bay in 1631.

Jamesian (jām'zē-ən) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of William James, his philosophy, or his teachings. 2. Of, relating to, or characteristic of Henry James or his writings.

Jame-son (jām'sən), Sir Leander Starr. 1853-1917. South African physician and colonial administrator whose unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the Boer government of Transvaal (1895) led to the political fall of Cecil Rhodes.

James River (jāmz rīv'ər) 1. A river rising in central North Dakota and flowing about 1,142 km (710 mi) generally south across South Dakota to the Missouri River. 2. A river, about 547 km (340 mi) long, rising in central Virginia and flowing eastward to Chesapeake Bay. The river is navigable to Richmond for large craft.

James-town (jāmz'toun') 1. The capital of St. Helena in the southern Atlantic Ocean. Population, 1,516. 2. A city of western New York on Chautauqua Lake near the Pennsylvania border. It is the trade center of a farming and grape-producing region. Population, 34,681. 3. A city of southeast-central North Dakota on the James River east of Bismarck. Settled in 1872 when Fort Seward was established nearby, it is an agricultural market center. Population, 15,571. 4. A former village of southeast Virginia, the first permanent English settlement in America. It was founded in May 1607 and named for the reigning monarch, James I. The “Starving Time” of 1609 to 1610 nearly wiped out the colony, and only the timely arrival of Baron De La Warr with supplies convinced the survivors to remain. Jamestown became the capital of Virginia after 1619 but was almost entirely destroyed during Bacon’s Rebellion (1676) and further declined after the removal of the capital to Williamsburg (1698-1700).

Ja-mi-son (jā’mī-sən), Judith. Born 1944. American dancer and choreographer. Noted for her commanding presence and the intensity of her dancing, Jamison became director of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater in 1989.

jam-mies (jām’ēz) pl.n. Informal. Pajamas. [By shortening and alteration.]

Jam-mu (jūm’oō) A city of northern India near the Pakistan border south of Srinagar. Formerly the seat of a Rajput dynasty, it was later captured by the Sikhs. Population, 206,135.

Jammu and Kash-mir (jūm’oō ənd kăsh’mîr’, kăsh-mîr’) A former princely state of northern India and Pakistan. Part of the Mogul Empire after 1587, it was annexed by British India in 1846 and partitioned between India and Pakistan after fierce fighting (1947-1949).

Jam-na-gar (jām-nŭg’ər) A city of western India on the Gulf of Kutch southwest of Ahmadabad. Founded in 1540, it is a port city noted for its silk, embroidery, and marble. Population, 277,615.

jam-pack (jām’păk’) v. tr. jam--packed, jam--pack-ing, jam--packs. Informal. To crowd to capacity: a road that was jam-packed with vehicles.

jam session (jām sĕsh’ən) n. 1. Music. An impromptu gathering of musicians to play improvisations. 2. Informal. An impromptu discussion.

Jam-shed-pur (jām’shĕd-pōōr’) A city of eastern India west-northwest of Calcutta. It developed as a steel-producing center after 1911. Population, 438,385.

jam-up (jām’ŭp’) n. A congested situation; a jam.

Jan. abbr. January.

Ja-ná-ček (yā’nă-chĕk’), Leoš. 1854-1928. Czechoslovakian composer whose works, such as the operas Jenůfa (1904) and Katya Kabanová (1921), draw themes from his nation’s folk music.

Jane Doe (jān’ dō’) n. 1. Used as a name in legal proceedings to designate a fictitious or unidentified woman or girl. 2. An average, undistinguished woman.

Janes-ville (jānz’vîl’) A city of southern Wisconsin north of Beloit. It is an industrial and commercial center. Population, 52,133.

jan-gle (jäng’gəl) v. jan-gled, jan-gling, jan-gles. — v. intr. To make a harsh, metallic sound: The spurs jangled noisily. — v. tr. 1. To cause to make a harsh, discordant sound. 2. To grate on or jar (the nerves). — n. A harsh, metallic sound. [Middle English janglen, to chatter, from Old French jangler, probably of Germanic origin.] —jan'gler n.

jan-is-sar-y (jăn'ī-sēr'ē) also jan-i-zar-y (-zēr'ē) n. pl. jan-is-sar-ies. 1. A member of a group of elite, highly loyal supporters. 2. A soldier in an elite Turkish guard organized in the 14th century and abolished in 1826. [French janissaire, from Old French jehanicere, from Old Italian giannizero, from Ottoman Turkish yanī cheri, new army : yanī, new + cheri, special troops (from Middle Persian chērīh, bravery, victory, from chēr, brave, victorious, from Avestan chairya-, vigorous, brave).]

jan-i-tor (jăn'ī-tər) n. 1. One who attends to the maintenance or cleaning of a building. 2. A doorman. [Latin iānitor, doorkeeper, from iānuā, door, from iānus, archway. See ei- in Appendix.] —jan'i-to'ri-al (-tôr'ē-əl, -tôr'-) adj.

WORD HISTORY: A holiday for janitors ought to take place in January, for both words are linked. In Latin iānus was the word for “archway, gateway, or covered passage” and also for the god of gates, doorways, and beginnings in general. As many schoolchildren know, our month January—a month of beginnings—is named for the god. Latin iānitor, the source of our word janitor and ultimately also from iānus, meant “doorkeeper or gatekeeper.” Probably because iānitor was common in Latin records and documents, it was adopted into English, first being recorded in the sense “doorkeeper” around 1567 in a Scots text. In an early quotation Saint Peter is called “the Janitor of heaven.” The term can still mean “doorkeeper,” but in Scots usage janitor also referred to a minor school official. Apparently this position at times involved maintenance duties and doorkeeping, and the maintenance duties took over the more exalted tasks, giving us the position of janitor as we know it today.

jan-i-zar-y (jăn'ī-zēr'ē) n. Variant of janissary.

Jan May-en Island (yăn mī'ən ī'lənd) An island of Norway in the Greenland Sea between northern Norway and Greenland. Discovered by Henry Hudson in 1607, it was annexed by Norway in 1929.

Jan-sen (jăn'sən, yăn'-), Cornelis. 1585-1638. Dutch theologian whose teachings were deemed heretical by Pope Urban VIII (1642) and influenced Jean Racine and Blaise Pascal.

Jan-sen-ism (jăn'sə-nīz'əm) n. The theological principles of Cornelis Jansen, which emphasize predestination, deny free will, and maintain that human nature is incapable of good and were condemned as heretical by the Roman Catholic Church. —Jan'sen-ist n. —Jan'sen-is'tic adj.

Jan-u-ar-y (jăn'yōō-ēr'ē) n. pl. Jan-u-ar-ies. Abbr. Jan., Jan The first month of the year in the Gregorian calendar. See Table at calendar. [Middle English Januarie, Jenever, from Old North French Jenever, from Latin Iānuārius (mēnsis), (month) of Janus, from Iānus, Janus. See ei- in Appendix.]

Ja·nus (jā'nəs) n. Roman Mythology. 1. The god of gates and doorways, depicted with two faces looking in opposite directions. 2. The satellite of Saturn that is fourth in distance from the planet. [Latin Iānus. See ei- in Appendix.]

Ja·nus-faced (jā'nəs-fāst') adj. Hypocritical.

Jap (jǎp) n. Offensive Slang. Used as a disparaging term for a Japanese.

ja·pan (jə-pǎn') n. 1. A black enamel or lacquer used to produce a durable glossy finish. 2. An object decorated with this substance. — v. tr. ja·panned, ja·pan-ning, ja·pans. 1. To decorate with a black enamel or lacquer. 2. To coat with a glossy finish. [After Japan.]

Ja·pan (jə-pǎn') A country of Asia on an archipelago off the northeast coast of the mainland. Traditionally settled c. 660 B.C., Japan's written history began in the 5th century A.D. During the feudal period (12th-19th century) real power was held by the shoguns, local warriors whose dominance was finally ended by the restoration of the emperor Mutsuhito in 1868. At about the same time the country was opened to Western trade and industrial technology. Expansionist policies led to Japan's participation in World War II, which ended after atomic bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki (August 1945). Today the country is highly industrialized and noted for its advanced technology. Tokyo is the capital and the largest city. Population, 121,047,196.

Japan, Sea of. An enclosed arm of the western Pacific Ocean between Japan and the Asian mainland. It is connected with the East China Sea, the Pacific Ocean, and the Sea of Okhotsk by several straits.

Japan clover (jə-pǎn' klō'vər) n. An annual plant (Lespedeza striata) native to China and Japan, having compound leaves with many leaflets and small pink axillary flowers. Cultivated as a forage plant and for soil improvement, it is widely naturalized in the southeast United States. Also called Japanese clover

Japan Current (jə-pǎn' kûr'ənt) n. A warm ocean current flowing northeast from the Philippine Sea past southeast Japan to the North Pacific. Also called Kuroshio Current Jap·a·nese (jǎp'ə-nēz', -nēs') adj. Of or relating to Japan or its people, language, or culture. — n. pl. Japanese. 1. a. A native or inhabitant of Japan. b. A person of Japanese ancestry. 2. Abbr. J. The language of the Japanese, written in kana mixed with Chinese characters.

Japanese andromeda (jǎp'ə-nēz' ăn-drōm'ī-də) n. An ornamental shrub (Pieris japonica) native to Japan and having small, early-blooming white flowers.

Japanese beetle (jǎp'ə-nēz' bēt'l) n. A metallic-green and brown beetle (Popillia japonica) native to eastern Asia, the larvae and adults of which feed on and damage various crop plants in North America.

Japanese cedar (jăp'ə-nēz' sē'dər) n. An eastern Asian coniferous evergreen tree (Cryptomeria japonica) having curved, spirally arranged leaves and cultivated as an ornamental and timber tree. Also called cryptomeria Japanese clover (jăp'ə-nēz' klō'vər) n. See Japan clover.

Japanese iris (jăp'ə-nēz' ī'rīs) n. A Japanese ornamental plant (Iris kaempferi) widely grown for its numerous cultivars, which have large, variously colored, showy flowers.

Japanese ivy (jăp'ə-nēz' ī'vē) n. See Boston ivy.

Japanese maple (jăp'ə-nēz' mā'pəl) n. An eastern Asian shrub or small tree (Acer palmatum) widely cultivated for its decorative, deeply and palmately lobed, often reddish foliage.

Japanese persimmon (jăp'ə-nēz' pər-sīm'ən) n. See kaki.

Japanese quail (jăp'ə-nēz' kwāl) n. See coturnix.

Japanese quince (jăp'ə-nēz' kwīns) n. A Chinese ornamental shrub (Chaenomeles speciosa) having spiny branches, sharply serrate leaves, and red or white flowers.

Japanese radish (jăp'ə-nēz' răd'īsh) n. See daikon.

Japanese river fever (jăp'ə-nēz' rīv'ər fē'vər) n. See scrub typhus.

Japanese spurge (jăp'ə-nēz' spûrj) n. See pachysandra.

Jap-a-nize (jăp'ə-nīz') v. tr. intr. Jap-a-nized, Jap-a-niz-ing, Jap-a-niz-es.

To make or become Japanese in form, idiom, style, or character.

—Jap'a-ni-za'tion (-nī-zā'shən) n.

Japan Trench (jə-păn' trēnch) A depression in the floor of the northern Pacific Ocean off northeast Japan. It extends from the Bonin to the Kuril islands and reaches depths of more than 9,000 m (30,000 ft).

Japan wax (jə-păn' wăks) n. A pale yellow solid wax obtained from the berries of certain plant species of the genus Rhus and used in wax matches, soaps, and food packaging and as a substitute for beeswax.

jape (jāp) v. japed, jap-ing, japes. — v. intr. To joke or quip. — v. tr. To make sport of. — n. A joke or quip. [Middle English japen, probably from Old French japer, to yap, chatter, nag, of imitative origin.] —jap'er n. —jap'er-y n.

Ja-pheth (jā'fīth', jāf'īth) In the Old Testament, a son of Noah and the brother of Shem and Ham.

Ja-phet-ic (jə-ſīt'īk) adj. 1. Of or relating to Japheth or his descendants. 2. Of or relating to a discredited linguistic grouping that attempted to associate Basque, Etruscan, and sometimes Sumerian and Elamite with the Caucasian languages.

Jap-lish (jăp'līsh) n. 1. Japanese characterized by numerous borrowings from English. 2. English affected by Japanese pronunciation, vocabulary, or syntax.

[JAP(ANESE) + (ENG)LISH.]

ja·pon·i·ca (jə-pŏn'ī-kə) n. An ornamental shrub (Chaenomeles japonica) that is native to Japan and cultivated for its red flowers. [New Latin, species name, from Japonia, Japan.]

Jap·o·nism (jəp'ə-nīz'əm) n. Something characteristically Japanese. [French japonisme, from Japon, Japan.]

Ja·pu·rá (zhä'poo-rä') A river rising in the Andes of southwest Colombia and flowing about 2,816 km (1,750 mi) southeast across northwest Brazil to the Amazon River.

Jaques-Dal·croze (zhäk'däl-krōz'), Émile. 1865-1950. Swiss composer and educator who developed eurythmics.

jar¹ (jär) n. 1. A cylindrical glass or earthenware vessel with a wide mouth and usually no handles. 2. The amount that a jar can hold. 3. Chiefly British. A glass of beer. — v. tr. jarred, jar·ring, jars. To put into a jar. [Middle English jarre, a liquid measure, from Old French (from Provençal jarra), and from Medieval Latin jarra both from Arabic jarrah, earthen jar.] —jar'ful' n.

jar² (jär) v. jarred, jar·ring, jars. — v. intr. 1. To make or utter a harsh sound. 2. To be disturbing or irritating; grate: The incessant talking jarred on my nerves. 3. To shake or shiver from impact. 4. To clash or conflict: "We ourselves... often jar with the landscape" (Isak Dinesen). — v. tr. 1. To bump or cause to move or shake from impact. 2. To startle or unsettle; shock. — n. 1. A jolt; a shock. See Synonyms at collision. 2. Harsh or grating sound; discord. [Perhaps of imitative origin.] —jar'ring·ly adv.

jar·di·nière (jär'dn-îr', zhär'dn-yâr') n. 1. A large decorative stand or pot for plants or flowers. 2. Diced, cooked vegetables served as a garnish with meat. [French, from feminine of jardinier, gardener, from Old French, from jardin, garden. See GARDEN.]

jar·gon (jär'gən) n. 1. Nonsensical, incoherent, or meaningless talk. 2. A hybrid language or dialect; a pidgin. 3. The specialized or technical language of a trade, profession, or similar group. See Synonyms at dialect. — v. intr.

jar·goned, jar·gon·ing, jar·gons. To speak in or use jargon. [Middle English jargoun, from Old French jargon, probably of imitative origin.] —jar'gon·ist, jar'gon·eer' n. —jar'gon·is'tic adj.

jar·gon·ize (jär'gə-nīz') v. jar·gon·ized, jar·gon·iz·ing, jar·gon·iz·es. — v. tr. To translate into jargon. — v. intr. To talk or write jargon.

jar·head (jär'hĕd') n. Slang. A U.S. Marine. [Perhaps from the shape of the hat the Marines once wore.]

jarl (yärI) n. A great medieval Scandinavian chieftain or nobleman. [Old Norse.]

Jarls·berg (yärIz'bûrg') A trademark used for a mild, pale-yellow, hard Norwegian cheese with large holes.

jar·rah (jār'ə) n. An Australian tree (Eucalyptus marginata) widely grown for its hard red-brown wood. [Nyungar (Aboriginal language of southwest Australia) jarily.]

Jar·rell (jə-rĕl'), Randall. 1914-1965. American poet whose works, published in collections such as Little Friend, Little Friend (1945), concern war, loneliness, and art.

jas·mine (jäs'mĭn) also jes·sa·mine (jĕs'ə-mĭn) n. 1. a. Any of several vines or shrubs of the genus Jasminum, native chiefly to Asia and having usually compound leaves and white or yellow flowers. Some of the fragrant species are used in making perfume. b. The perfume obtained from these plants. 2. See Carolina jasmine. 3. Any of several plants or shrubs having fragrant flowers.

4. Color. A light to brilliant yellow. [French jasmin, from Old French jassemin, from Arabic yasmĭn, from Persian yasmĭn, yāsman.]

Ja·son (jā'sən) n. Greek Mythology. The husband of Medea and leader of the Argonauts who went in quest of the Golden Fleece.

jas·per (jäs'pər) n. An opaque cryptocrystalline variety of quartz that may be red, yellow, or brown. [Middle English jaspre, from Anglo-Norman, from Latin iaspis, iaspid-, from Greek iaspis, from Persian yašm, from Arabic yašb, from Hebrew yāšpē, from Akkadian ašpū.]

Jas·pers (yäs'pərs), Karl Theodor. 1883-1969. German psychiatrist and philosopher. A founder of modern existentialism, he was concerned with human reactions to extreme situations. His works include Man and the Modern World (1931) and The Future of Mankind (1957).

jasper ware or jas·per·ware (jäs'pər-wâr') n. A fine white stoneware originally produced by Josiah Wedgwood, often colored by metallic oxides with raised designs remaining white.

Jat (jät) n. A member of a peasant caste residing in the Punjab and other areas of northern India and Pakistan, comprising Muslim, Hindu, and Sikh groups. [Hindi jāt.]

ja·to (jā'tō) n. pl. ja·tos. 1. An aircraft takeoff aided by an auxiliary jet or rocket. 2. An auxiliary jet-producing unit providing additional thrust for a takeoff. [j(et-)a(ssisted) t(ake)o(ff).]

jaun·dice (jôn'dĭs, jän'-) n. Yellowish discoloration of the whites of the eyes, skin, and mucous membranes caused by deposition of bile salts in these tissues. It occurs as a symptom of various diseases, such as hepatitis, that affect the processing of bile. Also called icterus — v. tr. jaun-diced, jaun-dic-ing, jaun-dic-es.

1. To affect with jaundice. 2. To affect with envy, jealousy, prejudice, or hostility. See Synonyms at bias. [Middle English jaundis, jaunis, from Old French jaunice, yellowness, jaundice, from jaune, jalne, yellow, from Latin galbinus, yellowish.]

jaun-diced (jôn'dĭst, jän'-) adj. 1. Affected with jaundice. 2. Yellow or yellowish. 3. Affected by or exhibiting envy, prejudice, or hostility.

jaunt (jônt, jânt) n. A short trip or excursion, usually for pleasure; an outing.
— v. intr. jaunt-ed, jaun-ting, jaunts. To make a short journey. [Origin unknown.]

jaun-ty (jôn'tē, jän'-) adj. jaun-ti-er, jaun-ti-est. 1. Having a buoyant or self-confident air; brisk. 2. Crisp and dapper in appearance; natty. 3. Archaic.
a. Stylish. b. Genteel. [French gentil, nice, from Old French, noble. See GENTLE.]
—jaun'ti-ly adv. —jaun'ti-ness n.

Jau-rès (zhô-rēs'), Jean. 1859-1914. French journalist and leader of the French Socialist Party before World War I. In 1914 he argued for arbitration rather than armed conflict between the Triple Entente and the Triple Alliance. Jaurès was assassinated by a fanatical nationalist.

Jav. abbr. Javanese.

ja-va (jäv'ə, jä'və) n. Informal. Brewed coffee. [After Java.]

Ja-va (jä'və, jäv'ə) An island of Indonesia separated from Borneo by the Java Sea, an arm of the western Pacific Ocean. Center of an early Hindu-Javanese civilization, Java was converted to Islam before the arrival of the Europeans (mainly the Dutch) in the late 16th century.

Java man (jäv'ə măn) n. Pithecanthropus.

Jav-a-nese (jäv'ə-nēz', -nēs', jä'və-) adj. Abbr. Jav. Of or relating to Java or its people, language, or culture. — n. pl. Javanese. Abbr. Jav. 1. A native or inhabitant of Java, especially a member of the Javanese-speaking majority population. 2. The Austronesian language of the principal ethnic group of Java. [Java + -nese (as in Japanese).]

Ja-va-rí (zhä'və-rē') A river rising in eastern Peru and flowing about 965 km (600 mi) northeast along the Peru-Brazil border to the Amazon River.

Java sparrow (jäv'ə spär'ō) n. A small grayish bird (Padda oryzivora) native to tropical Asia and often kept as a cage bird.

jave-lin (jäv'līn, jäv'ə-) n. 1. A light spear thrown with the hand and used as a weapon. 2. Sports. a. A metal or metal-tipped spear, about 2.5 meters (84 feet) in length, used in contests of distance throwing. b. The athletic field event in which a javelin is thrown. [Middle English, from Old French javeline, diminutive of javelot, of Celtic origin.]

ja-ve-li-na (hä'və-lē'nə) n. See collared peccary. [Alteration of Spanish jabalina, feminine of jabalí, jabalín, wild boar, from Arabic (hinzīr) jabalī, mountain (swine), from jabal, mountain.]

Ja-velle water also Ja-vel water (zhə-vēl' wô'tər) n. An aqueous solution of potassium or sodium hypochlorite, used as a disinfectant and bleaching agent. [Translation of French eau de Javel, after Javel, a former town of north-central France, now a section of Paris.]

jaw (jô) n. 1. a. Either of two bony or cartilaginous structures that in most vertebrates form the framework of the mouth and hold the teeth. b. The mandible or maxilla or the part of the face covering these bones. 2. Either of two opposed hinged parts in a mechanical device. 3. jaws. The walls of a pass, canyon, or cavern. 4. jaws. A dangerous situation or confrontation: the jaws of death.

5. Slang. a. Impudent argument or back talk: Don't give me any jaw. b. A conversation or chat. — v. intr. jawed, jaw-ing, jaws. Slang. 1. To talk vociferously; jabber. 2. To talk; converse. [Middle English jawe, jowe, perhaps from Old French joue, cheek.] — jaw'less adj.

jaw·bone (jô'bôn') n. A bone of the jaw, especially the bone of the lower jaw. — v. jaw-boned, jaw-bon-ing, jaw-bones. Slang. — v. tr. To try to influence or pressure through strong persuasion, especially to urge to comply voluntarily. — v. intr. To urge voluntary compliance with official wishes or guidelines. — jaw'bon'er n. — jaw'bon'ing n.

jaw·break·er (jô'brā'kər) n. 1. A very hard candy. 2. Slang. A word that is difficult to pronounce. 3. A machine that crushes rock or ore. — jaw'break'ing adj. — jaw'break'ing-ly adv.

jawless fish (jô'līs fīsh) n. Any of several eellike marine and freshwater fishes lacking a jaw and paired appendages that constitute the subphylum Agnatha. The only present-day jawless fish are the hagfish and lampreys.

Jaws of Life (jôz ūv līf) A trademark used for a pneumatic tool consisting of a pincerlike metal device that is inserted into the body of a severely damaged vehicle and opened to provide access to people trapped inside. This trademark sometimes occurs in print in lowercase: "Firefighters used the jaws of life to remove [the operator and the passenger]" (Boston Globe).

jay¹ (jā) n. The letter j.

jay² (jā) n. 1. Any of various often crested birds of the genera Garrulus, Cyanocitta, Aphelocoma, and related genera within the family Corvidae, often having a loud, harsh call. Also called jaybird 2. An over talkative person; a chatterbox. [Middle English jai, from Old French, from Late Latin gāius, gāia, perhaps from Latin Gāius, personal name.]

Jay (jā), John. 1745-1829. American diplomat and jurist who served in both Continental Congresses and helped negotiate peace with Great Britain (1782-1783). He was the first chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1789-1795) and negotiated a second agreement with Great Britain, Jay's Treaty (1794-1795).

jay·bird (jā'bûrd') n. See jay² (n., sense 1).

Jay·cee (jā'sē') n. A member of a junior chamber of commerce. [Pronunciation of the initial letters in Junior Chamber (of Commerce).]

jay·hawk·er (jā'hô'kər) n. 1. One of the free-soil guerrillas in Kansas and Missouri during the border disputes of 1854 to 1859. 2. A Unionist guerrilla.

3. Jayhawker. Informal. A native or resident of Kansas. [From jayhawk, a fictitious bird.]

jay·vee (jā'vē') n. Sports. 1. Junior varsity. 2. A member of a junior varsity.

[Pronunciation of the initial letters in J(UNIOR) V(ARSITY).] —jay'vee' adj.

jay·walk (jā'wôk') v. intr. jay-walked, jay-walk-ing, jay-walks. To cross a street illegally or in a reckless manner. [From JAY², inexperienced person.]

—jay'walk'er n.

jazz (jăz) n. 1. Music. a. A style of music, native to America, characterized by a strong but flexible rhythmic understructure with solo and ensemble improvisations on basic tunes and chord patterns and, more recently, a highly sophisticated harmonic idiom. b. Big band dance music. 2. Slang. a. Animation; enthusiasm.

b. Nonsense. c. Miscellaneous, unspecified things: brought the food and all the jazz to go with it. — v. jazzed, jazz-ing, jazz-es. — v. tr. 1. Music. To play in a jazz style. 2. Slang. To exaggerate or lie to: Don't jazz me. — v. intr. Slang.

To exaggerate or lie. —phrasal verb. jazz up. Slang. To make more interesting; enliven: jazzed up the living area with beaded curtains. [Origin unknown.]

—jazz'er n. —jazz'ish adj.

jazz·fu·sion (jăz-fyōō'zhən) n. Music. See jazz-rock.

jazz·man (jăz'măn', -mən) n. A jazz musician or composer.

jazz-rock (jăz'rök') n. Music. Music that blends jazz elements and the heavy repetitive rhythms of rock. Also called jazz-fusion jazz·y (jăz'ē) adj. jazz-i·er, jazz-i·est. 1. Resembling jazz in form or nature; rhythmical. 2. Slang. Showy; flashy: a jazzy car. —jazz'i·ly adv. —jazz'i·ness n.

Jb. abbr. Bible. Job.

J-bar (jā'bär') n. Sports. A J-shaped bar, suspended from a moving system of overhead cables, by which a skier is towed uphill.

J.C.D. abbr. Latin. Juris Canonici Doctor (Doctor of Canon Law).

JCL n. pl. JCLs. Computer Science. The common language of a computer operating system, used to tell the computer what to do. [J(OB) C(ONTROL) L(ANGUAGE).]

J.C.S. or JCS abbr. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

jct. abbr. Junction.

JD abbr. 1. Or J.D. Juris doctor. 2. Justice Department. 3. Also J.D. Juvenile delinquent.

Jdt. abbr. Bible. Judith.

jeal·ous (jēl'əs) adj. 1. Fearful or wary of being supplanted; apprehensive of losing affection or position. 2. a. Resentful or bitter in rivalry; envious: jealous of the success of others. b. Inclined to suspect rivalry. 3. Having to do with or arising from feelings of envy, apprehension, or bitterness: jealous thoughts.

4. Vigilant in guarding something: We are jealous of our good name. 5. Intolerant of disloyalty or infidelity; autocratic: a jealous God. [Middle English jelous, from Old French gelos, jealous, zealous, from Vulgar Latin zēlōsus*, from Late Latin zēlus, zeal. See ZEAL.] —jeal'ous·ly adv. —jeal'ous·ness n.

SYNONYMS: jealous, covetous, envious. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “resentfully or painfully desirous of another’s advantages”: jealous of her friend’s success; covetous of his neighbor’s possessions; envious of their art collection.

jeal·ous·y (jĕl’ə-sē) n. pl. jeal·ous·ies. 1. A jealous attitude or disposition.
2. Close vigilance.

jean (jĕn) n. 1. A heavy, strong, twilled cotton, used in making uniforms and work clothes. 2. jeans. Pants made of jean, denim, or another durable fabric. [Short for obsolete jene (fustian), Genoan (fustian), from Middle English jene, gene, from Old French Genes, Genoa.]

Jeanne d’Arc (zhän dărk’) See Joan of Arc.

Jeans (jĕnz), Sir James Hopwood. 1877-1946. British astronomer, physicist, and mathematician noted for his work on the kinetic theory of gases and his investigations into the relationships between mathematical concepts and the natural world.

Je·bel Mu·sa also Ge·bel Mu·sa (jĕb’əl mōō’sə, -sə) A mountain, 851 m (2,790 ft) high, of northern Morocco on the Strait of Gibraltar. With Gibraltar it forms the so-called Pillars of Hercules.

Jebel Toub·kal (jĕb’əl tōōb-kăl’) A mountain, 4,167.8 m (13,665 ft) high, of central Morocco in the Atlas Mountains. It is the highest peak in the range.

jee (jē) interj. Variant of gee³.

jeep (jĕp) n. A small, durable, general-purpose motor vehicle with four-wheel drive and a quarter-ton capacity, used by the U.S. Army during and after World War II. [Probably pronunciation of the letters GP, designation for this vehicle in the manufacturer’s parts numbering system : G(overnment) + P, designator for 80-inch wheelbase reconnaissance car.]

Jeep (jĕp) A trademark used for a civilian motor vehicle.

jeep·ney (jĕp’nē) n. pl. jeep·neys. A jitney bus used in the Philippines for public transportation. [JEEP + (JIT)NEY.]

jeer (jĭr) v. jeered, jeer·ing, jeers. — v. intr. To speak or shout derisively; mock. — v. tr. To abuse vocally; taunt: jeered the speaker off the stage. — n. A scoffing or taunting remark or shout. [Origin unknown.] — jeer’er n.
— jeer’ing·ly adv.

jeez (jĕz) interj. Used to express surprise or annoyance. [Alteration of JESUS.]

Jef·fers (jĕf’ərz), (John) Robinson. 1887-1962. American poet many of whose works are set in California. His collections include Tamar and Other Poems (1924).

Jef·fer·son (jĕf’ər-sən) An unincorporated community of southeastern Louisiana on the Mississippi River west of New Orleans. Population, 15,550.

Jef·fer·son (jěf'ər-sən), Joseph. 1829-1905. American actor noted for the title role in the stage adaptation of Washington Irving's story "Rip Van Winkle."

Jefferson, Mount. A peak, 3,201.6 m (10,497 ft) high, in the Cascade Range of northwest Oregon southeast of Portland.

Jef·fer·son (jěf'ər-sən), Thomas. 1743-1826. The third President of the United States (1801-1809). A member of the second Continental Congress, he drafted the Declaration of Independence (1776). His presidency was marked by the purchase of the Louisiana Territory from France (1803) and the Tripolitan War (1801-1805). A political philosopher, educator, and architect, Jefferson designed his own estate, Monticello, and buildings for the University of Virginia.

Jefferson City (jěf'ər-sən sīt'ē) The capital of Missouri, in the central part of the state on the Missouri River. It was chosen as the capital when Missouri was admitted to the Union in 1821. Population, 35,481.

Jef·fer·so·ni·an (jěf'ər-sō'nē-ən) adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of Thomas Jefferson or his political attitudes and theories. — n. A follower of Thomas Jefferson or a proponent of his politics. — Jef·fer·so·ni·an·ism n.

Jefferson River (jěf'ər-sən rīv'ər) A river, about 402 km (250 mi) long, of southwest Montana. It is a headwater of the Missouri River.

Jef·fer·son·town (jěf'ər-sən-toun') A city of north-central Kentucky, a mainly residential suburb of Louisville. Population, 15,795.

Jef·fer·son·ville (jěf'ər-sən-vīl') A city of southern Indiana on the Ohio River opposite Louisville, Kentucky. It was founded in 1802 on the site of a frontier fort. Population, 21,220.

Jef·frey (jěf'rē), Francis Lord Jeffrey. 1773-1850. Scottish literary critic and jurist who cofounded (1802) and edited (1803-1829) the Edinburgh Review and was known for his harsh criticism of romanticism.

Jef·fries (jef'rēz), John. 1745-1819. American physician and aeronaut who made the first crossing of the English Channel by balloon (1785).

je·had (jī-hād') n. Variant of jihad.

Je·hosh·a·phat (jə-hōsh'ə-fāt', -hōs'-), Ninth century B.C. King of Judah who formed an alliance with the kingdom of Israel.

Je·ho·vah (jī-hō'və) n. God, especially in Christian translations of the Old Testament. [Alteration of Hebrew Yahweh, Yahweh.]

Je·ho·vah's Witness (jī-hō'vəz wīt'nīs) n. A member of a religious denomination founded in the United States during the late 19th century in which active evangelism is practiced, the imminent approach of the millennium is preached, and war and organized governmental authority in matters of conscience are strongly opposed.

Je·hu (jē'hyō), Ninth century B.C. Israeli king who, according to the Old Testament, slew Ahab, Jezebel, and the prophets of Baal. He is proverbially known for his swift chariot driving.

je·ju·na (jə-jōō'nə) n. Plural of jejunum.

je·june (jə-jōōn') adj. 1. Not interesting; dull: “and there pour forth jejune words and useless empty phrases” (Anthony Trollope). 2. Lacking maturity; childish: surprised by their jejune responses to our problems. 3. Lacking in nutrition: a jejune diet. [From Latin iēiūnus, meager, dry, fasting.] —je·june'ly adv.
—je·june'ness n.

je·ju·num (jə-jōō'nəm) n. pl. je·ju·na (-nə). The section of the small intestine between the duodenum and the ileum. [Middle English, from Medieval Latin iēiūnum (intestīnum), fasting (intestine) (so called because in dissection it was always found empty), neuter of Latin iēiūnus.]

Je·kyll and Hyde (jĕk'əl ənd hīd, jĕ'kəl; hīd') n. Informal. One who has a dual personality that alternates between phases of good and evil behavior. [After The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde by Robert Louis Stevenson.]

Je·le·nia Gó·ra (yā-lĕn'γə gōōr'ə, yĕ-lĕ'nyā gōō'rä) A city of southwest Poland west-southwest of Poznań. Chartered in 1312, it passed to Prussia in 1741 and was assigned to Poland by the Potsdam Conference of 1945. Population, 90,400.

jell (jĕl) v. jelled, jell-ing, jells. — v. intr. 1. To become firm or gelatinous; congeal. See Synonyms at coagulate. 2. To take shape or fall into place; crystallize: A plan of action finally jelled in my mind. — v. tr. 1. To cause to become firm or gelatinous. 2. To cause to take shape; make clear and definite; crystallize. [Probably back-formation from JELLY.]

jel·la·ba (jə-lä'bə) n. Variant of djellaba.

Jel·li·coe (jĕl'ī-kō'), John Rushworth First Earl Jellicoe. 1859-1935. British naval officer who commanded the fleet that fought the Germans at Jutland (1916). He later served as governor-general of New Zealand (1920-1924).

jel·lied (jĕl'ĕd) adj. 1. Chilled or otherwise congealed into jelly. 2. Coated with jelly. 3. Prepared or cooked in or with jelly.

jel·li·fy (jĕl'ə-fī') v. intr. tr. jel·li·fied, jel·li·fy-ing, jel·li·fies. To become or make into jelly.

Jell-O (jĕl'ō) A trademark used for a gelatin dessert. This trademark often occurs in print without a hyphen and in figurative contexts: “For many, cooking became a matter of opening cans, heating frozen dinners and making Jello molds” (Chicago Tribune). “But you can't protect some dummies from themselves. So if they want to turn their heads into Jello, that's their lookout” (Mike Royko). “[His nerves] surely must have felt like Jell-O in a high wind” (Washington Post).

jel·ly (jĕl'ĕ) n. pl. jel·lies. a. A soft, semisolid food substance with a resilient consistency, made by the setting of a liquid containing pectin or gelatin or by the addition of gelatin to a liquid, especially such a substance made of fruit juice containing pectin boiled with sugar. b. Something, such as a petroleum ointment, having the consistency of a soft, semisolid food substance. — v. jel·lied, jel·ly·ing, jel·lies. — v. tr. To cause to have the consistency of jelly. — v. intr. To acquire the consistency of jelly. See Synonyms at coagulate. [Middle English gelee, from Old French, from Vulgar Latin gelāta*, from Latin, feminine past participle of gelāre, to freeze. See gel- in Appendix.]

jel·ly·bean (jĕl'ē-bĕn') n. A small ovoid candy with a hardened sugar coating over a chewy center.

jel·ly·fish (jĕl'ē-fĭsh') n. pl. jellyfish or jel·ly·fish·es. 1. a. Any of numerous usually free-swimming marine coelenterates of the class Scyphozoa, characteristically having a gelatinous, tentacled, often bell-shaped medusoid stage as the dominant phase of its life cycle. b. Any of various similar or related coelenterates.

2. Informal. One who lacks force of character; a weakling.

jel·ly·roll (jĕl'ē-rōl') n. A thin sheet of sponge cake layered with jelly and then rolled up.

jem·my (jĕm'ē) n. & v. Chiefly British. Variant of jimmy.

Je·na (yā'nə) A city of central Germany southwest of Leipzig. Napoleon I decisively defeated the Prussians here on October 14, 1806. Population, 106,555.

je ne sais quoi (zhə' nə sā kwä', sə) n. A quality or an attribute that is difficult to describe or express: "Fishing has lacked a certain je ne sais quoi in terms of its public image, as all activities must that involve beer, worms and one-size-fits-all gimme caps" (Charles Leerhsen). [French : je, I + ne, not + sais, first person present indicative of savoir, to know + quoi, what.]

Jen·ghis Khan or Jen·ghiz Khan (jĕn'gĭz kăn', -gĭs, jĕng'-) See Genghis Khan.

Jen·i·son (jĕn'ĭ-sən) A community of west-central Michigan, a suburb of Grand Rapids. Population, 17,882.

Jen·ner (jĕn'ər), Edward. 1749-1823. British physician and vaccination pioneer. He found that smallpox could be prevented by inoculation with the substance from cowpox lesions.

jen·net also gen·et (jĕn'ĭt) n. A small Spanish saddle horse. [Middle English genet, from Old French, from Catalan ginet, from Arabic zinēti, from colloquial Arabic Zenetī, a Berber tribe famed for horsemanship.]

Jen·ney (jĕn'ē), William Le Baron. 1832-1907. American inventor and architect who designed the Home Insurance Company Building in Chicago (1884-1885), which, with its skeletal construction, is often considered the first skyscraper.

Jen·nings (jĕn'ĭngz) A city of eastern Missouri, a residential suburb of St. Louis. Population, 15,905.

jen·ny (jĕn'ē) n. pl. jen·nies. 1. The female of certain animals, especially the donkey and the wren. 2. A spinning jenny. [From the name Jenny.]

Jen-sen (yĕn'sən), Johannes Hans Daniel. 1907-1973. German physicist. He shared a 1963 Nobel Prize for research on the structure of the atom and its nucleus.

Jen-sen (yĕn'sən, jĕn'-), Johannes Vilhelm. 1873-1950. Danish writer of modernistic novels, poetry, and essays, often infused with Darwinian theories. His works include Himmerland Tales (1898-1910) and the epic poem The Long Journey (1908-1922). He won the 1944 Nobel Prize for literature.

jeop·ard·ize (jĕp'ər-dīz') v. tr. jeop·ard·ized, jeop·ard·iz·ing, jeop·ard·izes. To expose to loss or injury; imperil. See Synonyms at endanger.

jeop·ard·y (jĕp'ər-dē) n. pl. jeop·ard·ies. 1. Risk of loss or injury; peril or danger. 2. Law. A defendant's risk or danger of conviction when put on trial. [Middle English juperti, from Old French jeu parti, even game, uncertainty : jeu, game (from Latin iocus, joke, game); see yek- in Appendix + parti, past participle of partir, to divide (from Latin partīre, from pars, part-, part); see PART.]

Je·qui·tin·hon·ha (zhə-kĕt'n-yōn'yə, zhĭ-kwĕ'tĭ-nyō'nyä) A river, about 805 km (500 mi) long, of eastern Brazil flowing northeast and east to the Atlantic Ocean.

Jer. abbr. Bible. Jeremiah.

jer·bo·a (jĕr-bō'ə) n. Any of various small, nocturnal, leaping rodents of the family Dipodidae of Asia and northern Africa, having long hind legs and a long, tufted tail. [Medieval Latin jerbōa, from Arabic jarbū', flesh of the loins.]

jer·e·mi·ad (jĕr'ə-mī'əd) n. A literary work or speech expressing a bitter lament or a righteous prophecy of doom. [French Jérémide, after Jérémié, Jeremiah, author of The Lamentations, from Late Latin Ieremiās, from Hebrew Yirmeyāhū.]

Jer·e·mi·ah (jĕr'ə-mī'ə) n. Bible. 1. A Hebrew prophet of the seventh and sixth centuries B.C. 2. Abbr. Jer., Jr A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible. [Hebrew Yirmeyāhū.]

Je·rez (hĕ-rĕs', -rĕth') also Jerez de la Fron·te·ra (də lä frŭn-tĕr'ə, thĕ lä frŏn-tĕ'rä) A city of southwest Spain northeast of Cádiz. It was held by the Moors from 711 to 1264. Population, 138,700.

Jer·i·cho (jĕr'i-kō') An ancient city of Palestine near the northwest shore of the Dead Sea. A stronghold commanding the valley of the lower Jordan River, it was, according to the Old Testament, captured and destroyed by Joshua.

Je·ri·tza (yĕr'it-sə, yĕ'rĕ-tsä'), Maria. 1887-1982. Austrian-born operatic soprano particularly acclaimed for the title role in Tosca.

jerk¹ (jŭrk) v. jerked, jerk·ing, jerks. — v. tr. 1. To give a sudden quick thrust, push, pull, or twist to. 2. To throw or toss with a quick abrupt motion. 3. To utter abruptly or sharply: jerked out the answer. 4. To make and serve (ice-cream sodas, for example) at a soda fountain. — v. intr. 1. To move in sudden abrupt motions; jolt: The train jerked ahead. 2. To make spasmodic motions: My legs jerked from fatigue. — n. 1. A sudden abrupt motion, such as a yank or twist. 2. A jolting or lurching motion. 3. Physiology. A sudden reflexive or spasmodic muscular movement. 4. jerks. Involuntary convulsive twitching often resulting from excitement. Often used with the. 5. Slang. A dull, stupid, or fatuous person. 6. Sports. A lift in which the weight is heaved overhead from shoulder height with a quick motion. —phrasal verb. jerk off. Vulgar Slang. To masturbate. [Origin unknown.] —jerk'er n. —jerk'ing-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: jerk, snap, twitch, wrench, yank. The central meaning shared by these verbs is “to move with a sudden short, quick motion”: jerked the rope and broke it; a lock snapping shut; her mouth twitching with suppressed amusement; wrenched the stick out of his hand; yanked the door open.

jerk² (jûrk) v. tr. jerked, jerk-ing, jerks. To cut (meat) into long strips and dry in the sun or cure by exposing to smoke. [Back-formation from JERKY².]

jerk³ (jûrk) adj. Being or relating to a method of barbecuing meat that has been seasoned and wrapped in leaves of the allspice tree: jerk chicken; jerk pork. [From JERKY².]

jer-kin (jûr'kîn) n. 1. A close-fitting, hip-length, collarless jacket having no sleeves but often extended shoulders, belted and worn over a doublet by men especially in the 16th century. 2. A short, close-fitting, often sleeveless coat or jacket, usually of leather. [Origin unknown.]

jerk-wa-ter (jûrk'wô'tər, -wôt'ər) adj. Informal. 1. Remote, small, and insignificant: a jerkwater town. 2. Contemptibly trivial: jerkwater notions. [From jerkwater, a branch-line train, so called because its small boiler had to be refilled often, requiring train crews to “jerk” or draw water from streams.]

jerk-y¹ (jûr'kē) adj. jerk-i-er, jerk-i-est. 1. Characterized by jerks or jerking: a jerky train ride. 2. Slang. Foolish; silly: jerky ideas about saving money.

—jerk'i-ly adv. —jerk'i-ness n.

jerk-y² (jûr'kē) n. Meat cured by jerking. Also called charqui [Alteration of CHARQUI.]

Jer-ne (yër'nə), Niels K. Born 1911. Danish immunologist. He shared a 1984 Nobel Prize for pioneering immunology research.

jer-o-bo-am (jër'ə-bō'əm) n. A wine bottle holding 5 of a gallon (3.03 liters). [After Jeroboam I (died c. 901 B.C.), king of northern Israel.]

Je-rome (jə-rōm'), Saint Originally Sophronius Eusebius Hieronymus. 340?-420?. Latin scholar who produced the Vulgate, the first authentic Latin translation of the Bible from Hebrew.

Jer-ry (jër'ē) n. pl. Jer-ries. Chiefly British. A German, especially a German soldier. [Alteration of GERMAN.]

jer-ry-build (jĕr'ē-bīld') v. tr. jer-ry-built (-bīlt'), jer-ry-build-ing, jer-ry-builds. To build shoddily, flimsily, and cheaply. [From dialectal jerry, defective, perhaps from the name Jerry.] —jer'ry-build'er n.

jer-ry can (jĕr'ē kăñ) n. A flat-sided can for storing or transporting liquids, especially gasoline, having a capacity of 5 gallons (19 liters). [From JERRY.]

jer-sey (jûr'zē) n. pl. jer-seys. 1. a. A soft, plain-knitted fabric used for clothing. b. A garment made of this fabric. 2. A close-fitting knitted pullover shirt, jacket, or sweater. 3. Often Jersey. Any of a breed of fawn-colored dairy cattle developed on the island of Jersey and producing milk that is rich in butterfat. [After Jersey.]

Jersey The largest of the Channel Islands in the English Channel. It was annexed by the Normans in 933, and French influence has persisted since autonomy was granted in 1204.

Jersey barrier (jûr'zē bǎr'ē-ər) n. A protective concrete barrier used as a highway divider and a means of preventing access to a prohibited area. [From the fact that they were first used on the New Jersey Turnpike.]

Jersey City (jûr'zē sīt'ē) A city of northeast New Jersey on the Hudson River opposite Lower Manhattan. Settled before 1650 by the Dutch, it came under English control in 1664 and is today a port of entry and major distribution center. Population, 228,537.

Je·ru·sa·lem (jə-rōō'sə-ləm, -zə-) The capital of Israel, in the east-central part of the country in the West Bank. Of immense religious and historical importance, the city was occupied as far back as the fourth millennium B.C. and became the capital of King David c. 1000 B.C. Destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar in the sixth century B.C., it was later ruled by Greeks, Romans, Persians, Arabs, Crusaders, and Turks and by Great Britain under a League of Nations mandate. Israeli forces took control of the city in 1967. Jerusalem is considered a holy city to Jews, Muslims, and Christians. Population, 446,500.

Jerusalem artichoke (jə-rōō'sə-ləm ăr'tī-chōk') n. 1. A North American sunflower (Helianthus tuberosus) having yellow, rayed flower heads and edible tubers. 2. The tuber of this plant, eaten as a vegetable. Also called girasol [By folk etymology from obsolete Italian girasole, sunflower. See GIRASOL.]

Jerusalem cherry (jə-rōō'sə-ləm chĕr'ē) n. An Old World ornamental shrub (Solanum pseudocapsicum) having inedible scarlet or yellow fruit and grown as a houseplant.

Jerusalem oak (jə-rōō'sə-ləm ōk) n. A sticky Old World weed (Chenopodium botrys) naturalized in North America and having lobed leaves and an odor suggestive of turpentine.

Jerusalem thorn (jə-rōō'sə-ləm thōrn) n. A spiny tropical American tree (Parkinsonia aculeata) having clusters of yellow flowers, green branches, and bipinnately compound leaves.

Jes-per-sen (jɛs'pər-sən), (Jens) Otto (Harry). 1860-1943. Danish philologist noted for his contributions to phonetics and the teaching of languages. In 1928 he developed an international language called Novial.

jess (jɛs) n. A short strap fastened around the leg of a hawk or other bird used in falconry, to which a leash may be fastened. — v. tr. jessed, jess-ing, jess-es. To put jesses or a jess on (a hawk, for example). [Middle English ges, from Old French, pl. of jet, something thrown, from Vulgar Latin iectus*, alteration of Latin iactus, past participle of iacere, to throw. See yē- in Appendix.]

jes-sa-mine (jɛs'ə-mɪn) n. Variant of jasmine.

Jes-se (jɛs'ɛ) In the Old Testament, King David's father and the progenitor of the line of Jesus.

jest (jɛst) n. 1. A playful or amusing act; a prank. See Synonyms at joke. 2. A frolicsome or frivolous mood: spoken in jest. 3. An object of ridicule; a laughing-stock. 4. A witty remark. — v. jest-ed, jest-ing, jests. — v. intr. 1. To act or speak playfully. 2. To make witty remarks. 3. To utter scoffs; gibe. — v. tr. To make fun of; ridicule. [Middle English geste, tale, from Old French, from Latin gesta, deeds, from neuter pl. past participle of gerere, to perform.] —jest'ing-ly adv.

jest-er (jɛs'tər) n. 1. One given to jesting. 2. A fool or buffoon at medieval courts.

Jes-u-it (jɛzh'ō-ɪt, jɛz'ō-, -yō-) n. 1. Roman Catholic Church. A member of the Society of Jesus, an order founded by Saint Ignatius of Loyola in 1534. 2. Often jesuit. One given to subtle casuistry. [French Jésuite, from Jésus, Jesus, from Late Latin Iēsus. See JESUS.] —Jes'u-it'i-cal adj. —Jes'u-it'i-cal-ly adv.

Jes-u-it's bark (jɛzh'ō-ɪts bɑrk, jɛz'ō-, -yō-) n. See cinchona (n., sense 2). [So called because it was first known to Europeans through Jesuit missions in Peru.]

Je-sus (jɛ'zəs) n. 1. A teacher and prophet who lived in the first century of this era and whose life and teachings form the basis of Christianity. Christians believe Jesus to be Son of God and the Christ. 2. Christian Science. "The highest human corporeal concept of the divine idea" (Mary Baker Eddy). [Middle English, from Late Latin Iēsus, from Greek Iēsous, from Hebrew Yēšûā', from Yēhōšûā', Joshua.]

Jesus freak (jɛ'zəs frɛk) n. Slang. A member of a movement among young Christians adapting traditional evangelicalism to pop culture.

jet¹ (jɛt) n. 1. A dense black coal that takes a high polish and is used for jewelry. 2. Color. A deep black. — adj. 1. Made of or resembling a dense, black, highly polished coal. 2. Black as coal: jet hair. [Middle English, from Anglo-Norman geet, from Latin gagātēs, from Greek gagatēs, after Gagās, a town of Lycia.]

jet² (jɛt) n. 1. a. A high-velocity fluid stream forced under pressure out of a small-diameter opening or nozzle. b. An outlet, such as a nozzle, used for emitting such a stream. c. Something emitted in or as if in a high-velocity fluid stream: “such myriad and such vivid jets of images” (Henry Roth). 2. a. A jet-propelled vehicle, especially a jet-propelled aircraft. b. A jet engine. — v. jet-ted, jet-ting, jets. — v. intr. 1. To travel by jet aircraft: jetted from Houston to Los Angeles. 2. To move very quickly. — v. tr. To propel outward or squirt, as under pressure: “Any man might... hang around... jetting tobacco juice” (Ross Lockridge, Jr.). [French, from Old French, from jeter, to spout forth, throw, from Vulgar Latin iectāre*, alteration of Latin iactāre, frequentative of iacere, to throw. See yē- in Appendix.] —jet'ful' n.

jet-a-va-tor (jět'ə-vā'tər) n. A control surface that may be moved into the propulsion stream of a rocket in order to change the direction of thrust. [JET² + (ELE)VATOR.] jet boat (jět bōt) n. Nautical. A boat propelled by a powerful jet of water created by a specially designed engine.

je-té (zhə-tā') n. A leap in ballet in which one leg is extended forward and the other backward. [French, from past participle of jeter, to throw, from Old French. See JET².]

jet engine (jět ěn'jĭn) n. 1. An engine that develops thrust by ejecting a jet, especially a jet of gaseous combustion products. 2. An engine that obtains the oxygen needed from the atmosphere, used especially to propel aircraft and distinguished from rocket engines having self-contained fuel-oxidizer systems.

jet-fight-er or jet fighter (jět'fī'tər) n. A jet-propelled fighter aircraft.

jet-foil (jět'foil') n. Nautical. A passenger-carrying hydrofoil that is propelled by a jet engine. [JET² + (HYDRO)FOIL.]

jet lag also jet-lag (jět'lāg') n. A temporary disruption of bodily rhythms caused by high-speed travel across several time zones typically in a jet aircraft. —jet'-lagged' adj.

jet-lin-er (jět'li'nər) n. A large passenger jet airplane.

jet-pack (jět'pāk') n. A backpack that is maneuvered by jets and permits an astronaut to move about alone in space away from a spacecraft.

jet-port (jět'pōrt', -pōrt') n. An airport equipped for jet aircraft.

jet-pro-pelled (jět'prə-pēld') adj. Driven by jet propulsion.

jet propulsion (jět prə-pŭl'shən) n. Propulsion derived from the rearward expulsion of matter in a jet stream, especially propulsion by jet engines.

jet-sam (jět'səm) n. 1. Cargo or equipment thrown overboard to lighten a ship in distress. 2. Discarded cargo or equipment found washed ashore. See Usage Note at flotsam. 3. Discarded odds and ends. [From earlier jetson, alteration of Middle English jetteson, a throwing overboard. See JETTISON.]

jet set (jět sět) n. An international social set made up of wealthy people who travel from one fashionable place to another. —jet'-set' (jět'sět'), jet'-set-ting (-sět'ing) adj. —jet setter n.

Jet Ski (jět skē) A trademark used for a jet-propelled recreational watercraft for one or two persons. This trademark often appears in print in lowercase: “The second rider aimed the nose of his jet ski through the wave like a football fullback diving for the goal line” (Newsday). It also has given rise to a number of derived forms, among them being jet skier: “He’ll probably become a professional jet skier next spring” (Los Angeles Times).

jet stream (jět strēm) n. 1. A high-speed, meandering wind current, generally moving from a westerly direction at speeds often exceeding 400 kilometers (250 miles) per hour at altitudes of 15 to 25 kilometers (10 to 15 miles). 2. A high-speed stream; a jet.

jet-ti-son (jět’i-sən, -zən) v. tr. jet-ti-soned, jet-ti-son-ing, jet-ti-sons. 1. To cast overboard or off: a ship jettisoning wastes; a pilot jettisoning aircraft fuel.

2. Informal. To discard (something) as unwanted or burdensome: jettisoned the whole marketing plan. — n. 1. The act of discarding or casting overboard.

2. Jetsam. [From Middle English jetteson, a throwing overboard of goods to lighten ship, from Anglo-Norman getteson, from Vulgar Latin iectātiō*, iectātiōn-, from iectātus*, past participle of iectāre*, to throw. See JET².]

jet-ty¹ (jět’ē) n. pl. jet-ties. 1. A structure, such as a pier, that projects into a body of water to influence the current or tide or to protect a harbor or shoreline from storms or erosion. 2. A wharf. [Middle English getti, jettie, from Old French jetee, from feminine past participle of jeter, to project, throw. See JET².]

jet-ty² (jět’ē) adj. 1. Resembling jet, as in texture. 2. Of the color jet; black: jetty tresses. — jet’ti-ness n.

Jet-way (jět’wā’) A trademark used for a telescoping corridor that extends from an airport terminal to an aircraft, for the boarding and disembarkation of passengers. This trademark often occurs in print in lowercase: “At least 15... jetways were damaged as well” (Aviation Week & Space Technology). “It would invest more than $100 million in the terminal, expanding and adding jetways” (New York Times). “It has all the amenities—Jetways, spacious terminal areas, etc.” (Air Transport World).

jeu-nesse do-rée (zhœ-nēs’ dô-rā’) n. Fashionable and wealthy young people. [French : jeunesse, youth + dorée, gilded.]

Jev-ons (jěv’ənz), William Stanley. 1835-1882. British economist and logician who codeveloped the marginal utility theory (published 1886), which explains the value of goods and services in terms of the subjective valuation of consumers.

Jew (jōō) n. 1. An adherent of Judaism as a religion or culture. 2. A member of the widely dispersed people originally descended from the ancient Hebrews and sharing an ethnic heritage based on Judaism. 3. A native or inhabitant of the ancient kingdom of Judah. [Middle English Jeu, from Old French giu, from Latin Iūdaeus, from Greek Ioudaios, from Aramaic yēhūdāy, from Hebrew yēhūdî, after yēhūdâ, Judah, son of Jacob and Leah.]

USAGE NOTE: It is widely recognized that the attributive use of the noun Jew, in phrases such as Jew lawyer or Jew ethics, is both offensive and vulgar. In such contexts Jewish is the only acceptable possibility. But some people have become so wary of this construction that they have overgeneralized the anathema to any use of the noun, a practice that carries risks of its own. In a sentence such as There are now several Jews on the council, which is unexceptionable, the substitution of a circumlocution like Jewish people or persons of Jewish background may unwittingly suggest an unwarranted and hence suspect delicacy.

jew·el (jōō'əl) n. 1. a. A precious stone; a gem. b. A small natural or artificial gem used as a bearing in a watch. 2. A costly ornament of precious metal or gems. 3. One that is treasured or esteemed. — v. tr. jew·eled or jew·elled, jew·el·ing or jew·el·ling, jew·els or jew·els. 1. To adorn with jewels. 2. To fit with jewels. [Middle English juel, from Anglo-Norman, perhaps from Vulgar Latin iocāle*, from neuter of ·iocālis, of play, from Latin iocus, joke. See yek- in Appendix.] jew·el·er also jew·el·ler (jōō'əl-lər) n. Abbr. jwlr. One that makes, repairs, or deals in jewelry.

jew·el·fish (jōō'əl-fish') n. pl. jewelfish or jew·el·fish·es. A small, brilliantly colored freshwater fish (Hemichromis bimaculatus) of tropical Africa, popular in home aquariums.

jew·el·ler (jōō'əl-lər) n. Variant of jeweler.

jew·el·ry (jōō'əl-rē) n. Ornaments, such as bracelets, necklaces, or rings, made of precious metals set with gems or imitation gems.

jew·el·weed (jōō'əl-wēd') n. Any of several plants of the genus Impatiens having yellowish, spurred flowers and seedpods that dehisce into five valves when mature. Also called balsam, touch-me-not.

Jew·ess (jōō'is) n. Offensive. A Jewish woman or girl.

USAGE NOTE: Like the feminine forms of other ethnic terms, such as Negress, the word Jewess has come to be widely regarded as offensive, since it seems to imply that the conjunction of Jewishness and female sex is sufficient to establish a distinct racial or social category. Where reference to gender is relevant, the phrase Jewish woman can be used: As a Jewish woman, Rosa Luxemburg was doubly sensitive to the discrimination that underlay social attitudes in late 19th-century Europe. See Usage Note at Negress.

Jew·ett (jōō'īt), Sarah Orne. 1849-1909. American writer noted for novels and stories concerning her native Maine. The Country of the Pointed Firs (1896) is considered her finest work.

jew·fish (jōō'fīsh') n. pl. jewfish or jew·fish·es. Any of several large, spotted, olive-brown marine fishes of the family Serranidae, especially the grouper Epinephelus itajara of tropical Atlantic and eastern Pacific waters.

Jew·ish (jōō'īsh) adj. Of or relating to the Jews or their culture or religion. See Usage Note at Jew. —Jew'ish·ly adv. —Jew'ish·ness n.

Jewish calendar (jōō'īsh käl'ən-dər) n. The lunisolar calendar used to mark the events of the Jewish year, dating the creation of the world at 3761 B.C. See Table at calendar.

Jew·ry (jōō'rē) n. 1. The Jewish people. 2. A section of a medieval city inhabited by Jews; a ghetto.

jew's·harp also jews'·harp (jōōz'härp') n. Music. A small instrument consisting of a lyre-shaped metal frame that is held between the teeth and a projecting steel tongue that is plucked to produce a soft, twanging sound.

Jex·Blake (jēks'blāk'), Sophia. 1840-1912. British physician. After successfully lobbying for legislation permitting women to practice medicine (1876), she became the first licensed woman physician in Great Britain (1877).

jez·e·bel (jēz'ə-bēl', -bəl) n. A woman who is regarded as evil and scheming.

Jez·e·bel (jēz'ə-bēl'), fl. ninth century B.C. Phoenician princess and queen of Israel as the wife of Ahab. According to the Old Testament, she encouraged idolatry and was ultimately killed by Jehu.

jg abbr. Junior grade.

Jg. abbr. Bible. Judges.

Jhan·si (jän'sē) A city of north-central India south-southeast of Delhi. The city grew around a walled Mogul fort built in 1613. Population, 246,172.

Jhe·lum (jä'ləm) A river, about 772 km (480 mi) long, of northern India and northeast Pakistan. It is the westernmost of the five rivers of the Punjab.

JHVH or JHWH (yōōd'hä'vāv'hä', yä'wā, yä'wě) n. Variants of YHWH.

Jia·ling also Chia·ling (jyä'līng') or Kia·ling (kyä'-, jyä'-) A river, about 965 km (600 mi) long, of central China flowing east and south to the Chang Jiang (Yangtze River) at Chongqing.

Jia·mu·si (jyä'moō'sē', -mü'-) also Chia·mus·su (-moō'sōō') or Kia·mu·sze (kyä'mōō'sōō') A city of extreme northeast China east-northeast of Harbin. It is an industrial center and a river port. Population, 350,000.

Jiang·su (jyäng'sōō', -sü') also Kiang·su (kyäng'-) A province of eastern China bordering on the Yellow Sea. Densely populated and highly industrialized, it became a separate province in the 18th century. Nanjing is the capital. Population, 62,130,000.

Jiang-xi (jyäng'shē') also Kiang-si (kyäng'-'-) A province of southeast China. In early times it served as a corridor for north-south migration and communications. Nanchang is the capital. Population, 34,600,000.

jiao (jyou) also chiao (chyou) n. pl. jiao also chiao. A unit of currency in China. See Table at currency. [Chinese jiǎo, one tenth of a dollar.]

Jiao-zuo (jyou'dzwō') also Tsiao-tso (-jō') A city of east-central China north-northwest of Zhengzhou. It is a coal-mining center. Population, 350,000.

jib¹ (jīb) n. 1. Nautical. A triangular sail stretching from the foretopmast head to the jib boom and in small craft to the bowsprit or the bow. 2. a. The arm of a mechanical crane. b. The boom of a derrick. [Origin unknown.]

jib² (jīb) v. intr. jibbed, jib-bing, jibs. To stop short and turn restively from side to side; balk. [Origin unknown.] — jib/ber n.

ji-ba-ro (hē'vä-rō') n. pl. ji-ba-ros. 1. A rural inhabitant of Puerto Rico.

2. Music. The country music of Puerto Rico. [American Spanish jíbaro, possibly from Taino siba, stone.]

jib boom (jīb bōm) n. Nautical. A spar forming a continuation of the bowsprit.

jibe¹ also gybe (jīb) Nautical. v. jibed also gybed, jib-ing also gyb-ing, jibes also gybes. — v. intr. To shift a fore-and-aft sail from one side of a vessel to the other while sailing before the wind so as to sail on the opposite tack. — v. tr. To cause (a sail) to jibe. — n. The act of jibing. [Alteration (perhaps influenced by JIB¹), of gybe, from obsolete Dutch gijben.]

jibe² (jīb) v. intr. jibed, jib-ing, jibes. Informal. To be in accord; agree: Your figures jibe with mine. [Origin unknown.]

jibe³ (jīb) v. & n. Variant of gibe.

ji-ca-ma (hē'kə-mə, hīk'ə-) n. A crisp, sweet turnip-shaped root vegetable used raw in salads and as crudités or cooked in stews. [American Spanish jícama, from Nahuatl xīcamatl.]

Ji-ca-ril-la (hē'kə-rē'yə, -rēl'yə) n. pl. Jicarilla or Ji-ca-ril-las. 1. An Apache tribe formerly inhabiting southeast Colorado and northern New Mexico and ranging eastward to the Great Plains, with a present-day population in northern New Mexico. 2. A member of this tribe. [American Spanish (Apaches de la) Jicarilla, (Apaches of the) Jicarilla, probably diminutive of jícara, chocolate-cup (from the shape of a local hill), perhaps from Nahuatl xicalli, gourd, drinking vessel.]

Jid-da (jīd'ə) A city of west-central Saudi Arabia on the Red Sea. Ruled by the Turks until 1916, Jidda has long been used as a port by Muslim pilgrims making the journey to Mecca. Population, 1,300,000.

jiff (jīf) n. Informal. A jiffy.

jif-fy (jīf'ē) n. pl. jif-fies. Informal. A short space of time; a moment. See Synonyms at moment. [Origin unknown.]

jig (jɪɡ) n. 1. a. Any of various lively dances in triple time. b. The music for such a dance. Also called gigue 2. A joke or trick. 3. A typically metal fishing lure with one or more hooks, usually deployed with a jiggling motion on or near the bottom. 4. An apparatus for cleaning or separating crushed ore by agitation in water. 5. A device for guiding a tool or for holding machine work in place. — v. jigged, jig-ging, jigs. — v. intr. 1. To dance or play a jig. 2. To move or bob up and down jerkily and rapidly. 3. To operate a jig. — v. tr. 1. To bob or jerk (something) up and down or to and fro. 2. To machine (an object) with the aid of a jig. 3. To separate or clean (ore) by shaking a jig. [Origin unknown.]

jig-ger¹ (jɪɡ'ər) n. 1. A person who jigs or operates a jig. 2. a. A small measure for liquor, usually holding 12 ounces. b. This amount of liquor. 3. A device, such as a drill, that operates with a jerking or jolting motion. 4. Nautical. a. A light all-purpose tackle. b. A small sail set in the stern of a yawl or similar boat. c. A boat having such a sail. d. A jigger mast. 5. Informal. An article or a device, the name of which eludes one.

jig-ger² (jɪɡ'ər) n. 1. See chigger (n., sense 1). 2. See chigoe (n., sense 1). [Variant of CHIGGER.]

jigger mast (jɪɡ'ər məst) n. Nautical. 1. The short after mast from which the jigger sail is set on a ketch or yawl. 2. The fourth mast aft on a four-masted ship. In this sense, also called mizzenmast jig-ger-y-pok-er-y (jɪɡ'ə-rē-pō'kə-rē) n. Underhand scheming or behavior; trickery: “By some legal—or perhaps illegal—jiggery-pokery, he could declare the election void” (John Hughes). [Alteration of joukery-pawkery: from Scots jouk, to dodge (probably from DUCK²) + Scots pawk, trick.]

jig-gle (jɪɡ'əl) v. jig-gled, jig-gling, jig-gles. — v. intr. To move or rock lightly up and down or to and fro in an unsteady, jerky manner. — v. tr. To cause to jiggle. — n. A jiggling motion. [Frequentative of JIG.] — jig'gly adj.

jig-saw (jɪɡ'sô') n. A usually power-driven saw with a narrow vertical blade, used to cut sharp curves.

jigsaw puzzle (jɪɡ'sô' püz'əl) n. Games. A puzzle consisting of a mass of irregularly shaped pieces of cardboard, plastic, or wood that form a picture when fitted together. Also called picture puzzle ji-had also je-had (jɪ-häd') n. 1. A Muslim holy war or spiritual struggle against infidels. 2. A crusade or struggle: “The war against smoking is turning into a jihad against people who smoke” (Fortune). [Arabic jihād.]

Ji-lin also Chi-lin (jē'lɪn') or Ki-rin (kē'rɪn') 1. A province of northeast China bordering on North Korea. Extensive timberlands have long been important to the province's economy. Changchun is the capital. Population, 22,980,000. 2. A city of northeast China east of Changchun. Founded in 1673, it is now a commercial and industrial center. Population, 882,700.

jill (jɪl) n. Variant of gill⁴.

jil·lion (jɪl'yən) n. An indeterminately huge number. [On the model of MILLION, BILLION, etc.] — jil'·lion·aire' (jɪl'yə-nâr') n. — jil'·lionth adj. & n.

jilt (jɪlt) v. tr. jilt·ed, jilt·ing, jilts. To deceive or drop (a lover) suddenly or callously. — n. One who discards a lover. [Possibly from obsolete jilt, harlot, alteration of gillot, diminutive of gille, woman, girl, from Middle English. See GILL⁴.]

Jim Crow or jim crow (jɪm'krō') Slang. n. The systematic practice of discriminating against and suppressing Black people. — adj. 1. Upholding or practicing discrimination against and suppression of Black people: Jim Crow laws; a Jim Crow town. 2. Reserved or set aside for a racial or ethnic group that is to be discriminated against: "I told them I wouldn't take a Jim Crow job" (Ralph Bunche). [From obsolete Jim Crow, derogatory name for a Black person, ultimately from the title of a 19th-century minstrel song, from CROW¹.] — Jim'·Crow'ism (jɪm'krō'ɪz'əm) n.

jim·dan·dy (jɪm'dän'dē) n. pl. jim·dan·dies. Informal. One that is very pleasing or excellent of its kind. [Jim (nickname for James) + DANDY.] — jim'·dan'dy adj.

Ji·mé·nez (hē-mě'nēs, -nēth), Juan Ramón. 1881-1958. Spanish poet who introduced modernism to Spanish verse. Platero y Yo (1914) is his most popular work. He won the 1956 Nobel Prize for literature.

Jiménez de Cis·ne·ros (hē-mě'nēs də sēs-ně'rôs, thě thēs-), Francisco. 1436-1517. Spanish prelate and political leader. The confessor of Isabella I, he imposed conversion to Christianity on the Moors of Granada, leading to an uprising (1499-1500), and was appointed grand inquisitor (1507). He founded the university of Alcalá de Henares (1508).

jim·jams (jɪm'jämz') pl.n. Slang. 1. The jitters. 2. Delirium tremens. [Expressive of the trembling associated with delirium tremens.]

jim·mies (jɪm'ēz) pl.n. Small particles of chocolate or flavored candy sprinkled on ice cream as a topping. [Origin unknown.]

jim·my (jɪm'ē) n. pl. jim·mies. A short crowbar with curved ends. — v. tr. jim·mied, jim·my·ing, jim·mies. To pry (something) open with or as if with a jimmy: jimmy a door. [Probably from the name Jimmy, nickname for James.]

jim·son·weed (jɪm'sən-wēd') n. A coarse, poisonous plant (Datura stramonium) having large, trumpet-shaped white or purplish flowers and prickly capsules. Also called stramonium [Alteration of Jamestown weed, after Jamestown, Virginia.]

Jin also Chin (jɪn) The name of four Chinese dynasties, including Western Jin (A.D. 265-316), Eastern Jin (317-420), Later Jin (936-946), and Jin (1115-1234).

Ji-nan also Tsi-nan (jē'nän') A city of eastern China on the Huang He (Yellow River) south of Tianjin. Opened to foreign commerce in 1904, it is the capital of Shandong province. Population, 1,430,000.

Jing-de-zhen (jǐng'də'jœn') also King-teh-chen (kǐng'tə'chœn') A city of southeast China southwest of Shanghai. Established in the sixth century A.D., it has an important pottery industry. Population, 400,000.

jin-gle (jǐng'gəl) v. jin-gled, jin-gling, jin-gles. — v. intr. 1. To make a tinkling or ringing metallic sound. 2. To have the catchy sound of a simple, repetitious rhyme or doggerel. — v. tr. To cause to make a tinkling or ringing metallic sound. — n. 1. The sound produced by or as if by bits of metal striking together. 2. A piece of light singsong verse or rhyme. 3. A catchy, often musical advertising slogan. [Middle English ginglen, of imitative origin.] — jin'gly adj.

jingle shell (jǐng'gəl shĕl) n. The thin, translucent, rounded, yellowish or grayish shell of any of several marine bivalve mollusks of the genus Anomia.

jin-go (jǐng'gō) n. pl. jin-goes. One who vociferously supports one's country, especially one who supports a belligerent foreign policy; a chauvinistic patriot. — adj. 1. Of or relating to a chauvinistic patriot. 2. Characterized by chauvinistic patriotism. — interj. Used for emphasis or to express surprise: By jingo, I'm leaving here in spite of the blizzard. [From the phrase by jingo, used in the refrain of a bellicose 19th-century English music-hall song, from alteration of JESUS.] — jin'go-ish adj.

jin-go-ism (jǐng'gō-ĭz'əm) n. Extreme nationalism characterized especially by a belligerent foreign policy; chauvinistic patriotism. — jin'go-ist n.

— jin'go-is'tic adj. — jin'go-is'ti-cal-ly adv.

jink (jǐngk) v. jinked, jink-ing, jinks. — v. intr. To make a quick, evasive turn: "He jinked every five seconds, and now brought his tank left again" (Tom Clancy). — v. tr. To cause (a vehicle or an aircraft, for example) to make a quick, evasive turn. — n. 1. A quick, evasive turn. 2. jinks. Rambunctious play; frolic. [Origin unknown.]

Jin-men (jǐn'mœn') See Quemoy.

jinn (jǐn) n. Plural of jinni.

Jin-nah (jǐn'ə), Mohammed Ali. 1876-1948. Founder and first governor-general (1947-1948) of Pakistan. When India's independence from Britain was imminent, he feared the Muslim minority would be oppressed by the Hindus and insisted on a Muslim homeland, founded in 1947 as Pakistan.

jin-ni or jin-nee also djin-ni or djin-ny (jǐn'ē, jǐ-nē') n. pl. jinn also djinn (jǐn). In Muslim legend, a spirit capable of assuming human or animal form and exercising supernatural influence over people. [Arabic jinnī.]

jin-rik-sha or jin-rick-sha also jin-riki-sha (jǐn-rĭk'shō') n. A small, two-wheeled carriage drawn by one or two persons; a ricksha. [Japanese jinrikisha : jin, person + riki, strength + sha, vehicle.]

jinx (jǐngks) Informal. n. 1. A person or thing that is believed to bring bad luck. 2. A condition or period of bad luck that appears to have been caused by a specific person or thing. — v. tr. jinxed, jinx-ing, jinx-es. To bring bad luck to. [Possibly from jynx, wryneck (from its use in witchcraft), from Latin inyx, from Greek iunx, perhaps from iuzein, to call, cry.]

Jin-zhou also Chin-chow (jǐn'jō') A city of northern China east-northeast of Beijing. It is a commercial center. Population, 584,800.

ji-pi-ja-pa (hē'pē-hä'pə) n. A stemless palmlike plant (Carludovica palmata) of Central and South America, having long-stalked, fanlike leaves that are used to make Panama hats. [American Spanish, after Jipijapa, a city of western Ecuador.]

jit-ney (jīt'nē) n. pl. jit-neys. 1. A small motor vehicle, such as a bus or van, that transports passengers on a route for a small fare. 2. Archaic. A nickel. [Origin unknown.]

jit-ter (jīt'ər) v. intr. jit-tered, jit-ter-ing, jit-ters. To be nervous or uneasy; fidget. — n. 1. A jittering movement; a tic. 2. jitters. A fit of nervousness. Often used with the. [Perhaps alteration of CHITTER.]

jit-ter-bug (jīt'ər-büg') n. 1. A strenuous dance performed to quick-tempo swing or jazz music and consisting of various two-step patterns embellished with twirls and sometimes acrobatic maneuvers. 2. One who performs this dance. — v. intr. jit-ter-bugged, jit-ter-bug-ging, jit-ter-bugs. To perform this dance. [From jitterbug, heavy drinker who suffers from the jitters, from JITTER.]

jit-ter-y (jīt'ə-rē) adj. jit-ter-i-er, jit-ter-i-est. 1. Having or feeling nervous unease: a jittery vigil in the dark. 2. Marked by jittering movements: a jittery ride over rough terrain. — jit'ter-i-ness n.

jiu-jit-su (jōō-jīt'sōō) n. Variant of jujitsu.

Ji-va-ro (hē'və-rō') n. pl. Jivaro or Ji-va-ros. 1. A member of a South American Indian people of eastern Ecuador and northeast Peru. 2. The language of this people.

jive (jīv) n. 1. Music. a. Jazz or swing music. b. The jargon of jazz musicians and enthusiasts. 2. Slang. Deceptive, nonsensical, or glib talk: “the sexist, locker-room jive of men boasting and bonding” (Trip Gabriel). — v. jived, jiv-ing, jives. — v. intr. 1. Music. To play or dance to jive music. 2. Slang. a. To talk nonsense; kid. b. To talk or chat: “You just jive in one big group, putting each other on, trying to top the last line” (Time). — v. tr. Slang. To cajole or mislead. — adj. Slang. Misleading; phony. [Origin unknown.] — jiv'er n. — jiv'ey, jiv'y adj.

Ji-xi (jē'shē') also Ki-si (kē'sē', -shē') A city of northeast China near the Soviet border east of Harbin. Population, 626,300.

JJ abbr. 1. Bible. Judges. 2. Law. Judges; justices.

Jl. abbr. Bible. Joel.

Jm. abbr. Bible. James.

Jn. abbr. Bible. John.

jnr. abbr. Junior.

jnt. abbr. Joint.

Jo·a·chim (yō'ä-KHĭm, yō-ä'-), Joseph. 1831-1907. Hungarian violinist and composer acclaimed for interpretations of Bach, Beethoven, and Mozart. His compositions include violin concertos and an overture to Hamlet.

Joan of Arc (jōn ūf ärk), Saint French name Jeanne d'Arc (zhän därk') Known as "the Maid of Orléans" and "La Pucelle." 1412?-1431. French military leader and heroine. Inspired and directed by religious visions, she organized the French resistance that forced the English to end their siege of Orléans (1429). The same year she led an army of 12,000 to Rheims and had the dauphin crowned Charles VII. Captured and sold to the English by the Burgundians (1430), she was later tried for heresy and sorcery and was burned at the stake in Rouen. She was canonized in 1920.

João Pes·so·a (zhwoun' pə-sō'ə) A city of northeast Brazil near the Atlantic Ocean north of Recife. Founded in 1585, it has excellent examples of colonial architecture. Population, 290,247.

job¹ (jōb) n. 1. A regular activity performed in exchange for payment, especially as one's trade, occupation, or profession. 2. A position in which one is employed. 3. a. A task that must be done: Washing the windows is not my job. b. A specified duty or responsibility. See Synonyms at task. 4. a. A specific piece of work to be done for a set fee: an expensive repair job. b. The object to be worked on. c. Something resulting from or produced by work. 5. Computer Science. A program application that may consist of several steps but is performed as a single logical unit. 6. Informal. A difficult or strenuous task: It was a real job to convince them to drop the charges. 7. Informal. A bad or unsatisfactory piece of work: The stylist did a real job on my hair. 8. Informal. A state of affairs: Their marriage was a bad job right from the start. It's a good job that we left early to avoid the traffic. 9. Informal. A criminal act, especially a robbery: a bank job. — v. jobbed, job·bing, jobs. — v. intr. 1. To work at odd jobs. 2. To work by the piece. 3. To act as a jobber. — v. tr. 1. To purchase (merchandise) from manufacturers and sell it to retailers. 2. To arrange for (contracted work) to be done in portions by others; subcontract. 3. To transact (official business) dishonestly for private profit. — idiom. on the job. Paying close attention; on the alert. [Perhaps from obsolete jobbe, piece, alteration of Middle English gobbe, lump. See GOB¹.]

job² (jōb) Archaic. v. tr. intr. jobbed, job·bing, jobs. To jab or make a jab. — n. A jab. [Middle English jobben.]

Job (jōb) n. Bible. 1. In the Old Testament, an upright man whose faith in God survived the test of repeated calamities. 2. Abbr. Jb. A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible. [Hebrew 'îyōb.]

job action (jɒb ʌk'shən) n. A temporary action, such as a strike or slowdown, by workers to make demands or protest a company or managerial decision.

job-ber (jɒb'ər) n. 1. One that buys merchandise from manufacturers and sells it to retailers. 2. One that works by the piece or at odd jobs. 3. Chiefly British. A middleman in the exchange of stocks and securities among brokers.

job-ber-y (jɒb'ə-rē) n. Corruption among public officials. [From JOB¹.]

job control language (jɒb kən-trəl' lɒŋ'gwɪj) n. Computer Science. JCL.

job-holder (jɒb'hɔl'dər) n. One who has a regular job.

job-hop (jɒb'hɒp') v. intr. job--hopped, job--hop-ping, job--hops. Informal. To change jobs frequently. —job/-hop/per n.

job-hop-ping (jɒb'hɒp'ɪŋ) n. Informal. The practice of changing jobs frequently, especially as a means of quick financial gain or career advancement.

job-hunt (jɒb'hʌnt') v. intr. job--hunt-ed, job--hunt-ing, job--hunts. To look actively for suitable employment. —job hunter n.

job-less (jɒb'lis) adj. 1. Having no job. 2. Of or relating to those who have no jobs. — n. (used with a pl. verb). Unemployed people considered as a group. Used with the. —job/less-ness n.

job lot (jɒb lɒt) n. 1. Miscellaneous merchandise sold in one lot. 2. A collection of cheap items.

job printer (jɒb prɪn'tər) n. A printer that does miscellaneous work such as circulars and cards.

Job's comforter (jɒbz kʌm'fər-tər) n. One who is discouraging or saddening while seemingly offering sympathy or comfort. [After JOB, whose friends pretended to comfort but actually found fault with him.]

job seeker also job-seek-er (jɒb'sē'kər) n. One who seeks employment.

job-shar-ing (jɒb'shâr'ɪŋ) n. A practice whereby the responsibility for one job is shared between two or more alternating part-time workers.

—job/shar'er n.

Job's tears (jɒbz târz) pl.n. 1. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). A tropical Asian grass (Coix lacryma-jobi) having white, beadlike grains. 2. (used with a pl. verb). The grains of this plant, eaten or often used as ornamental beads.

job stick (jɒb stɪk) n. Printing. See composing stick.

Jo-cas-ta (jō-kās'tə) n. Greek Mythology. A queen of Thebes who unknowingly married her own son, Oedipus.

jock¹ (jɒk) n. 1. Sports. A jockey. 2. A disc jockey. [Short for JOCKEY.]

jock² (jɒk) n. 1. An athletic supporter. 2. Sports. An athlete, especially in college. 3. Slang. One characterized by excessive concern for machismo. [Short for JOCKSTRAP.]

jock-ey (jɒk'ē) n. pl. jock-eyes. 1. Sports. One who rides horses in races, especially as a profession. 2. Slang. One who operates a specified vehicle, machine, or device: a bus jockey; a computer jockey; a jet jockey. — v. jock-eyed, jock·ey·ing, jock·eys. — v. tr. 1. Sports. To ride (a horse) as jockey. 2. To direct or maneuver by cleverness or skill: jockeyed the car into a tight space. 3. To trick; cheat. — v. intr. 1. Sports. To ride a horse in a race. 2. To maneuver for a certain position or advantage: jockeying for a promotion. 3. To employ trickery. [Diminutive of Scots Jock, variant of Jack, nickname for John.]

Jock·ey (jɒk'ē) A trademark used for underwear, especially men's briefs.

jock itch (jɒk'ɪtʃ) n. See tinea cruris.

jock·strap also jock strap (jɒk'strəp') n. An athletic supporter. [jock, male genitals + STRAP.]

jo·cose (jō-kōs') adj. 1. Given to joking; merry. 2. Characterized by joking; humorous. [Latin iocōsus, from iocus, joke. See yek- in Appendix.] —jo·cose'ly adv. —jo·cose'ness, jo·cos'i·ty (-kōs'ī-tē) n.

joc·u·lar (jɒk'yə-lər) adj. 1. Characterized by joking. 2. Given to joking. [Latin ioculāris, droll, from ioculus, diminutive of iocus, joke. See yek- in Appendix.] —joc'u·lar'i·ty (-lār'ī-tē) n. —joc'u·lar·ly adv.

joc·und (jɒk'ənd, jɒ'kənd) adj. Sprightly and lighthearted in disposition, character, or quality. See Synonyms at jolly. [Middle English, from Old French jocond, from Latin iūcundus, iōcundus, from iuvāre, to delight.] —jo·cun'di·ty (jō-kūn'dī-tē) n. —joc'und·ly adv.

Jodh·pur (jɒd'pər, jɒd'pɔr') A city of western India southwest of Delhi. Center of a former principality founded in the 13th century, it is an important wool market. Population, 506,345.

jodh·purs (jɒd'pərz) pl.n. Wide-hipped riding pants of heavy cloth, fitting tightly from knee to ankle. [After Jodhpur.]

Jo·el (jō'əl) n. Bible. 1. A Hebrew prophet of the sixth century B.C. 2. Abbr. Jl. A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

joe·pye weed (jō'pī wēd) n. Any of several tall North American plants of the genus Eupatorium, having whorled leaves and terminal clusters of small pinkish or purplish flower heads. [Origin unknown.]

jo·ey (jō'ē) n. pl. jo·eys. Australian. A young animal, especially a baby kangaroo. [Origin unknown.]

Jof·fre (zhôf'rə), Joseph Jacques Césaire. 1852-1931. French field marshal who commanded the Allied armies in France during World War I.

jog¹ (jɒg) v. jogged, jog·ging, jogs. — v. tr. 1. To move by shoving, bumping, or jerking; jar: a rough wagon ride that jogged the passengers. 2. To give a push or shake to; nudge: jogged her dozing companion with her elbow. 3. To rouse or stimulate as if by nudging: an old photo that might jog your memory. 4. To cause (a horse) to move at a leisurely pace. — v. intr. 1. To move with a jolting rhythm: The pack jogged against his back as he ran. 2. a. To run or ride at a steady slow trot: jogged out to their positions on the playing field. b. Sports. To run in such a way for sport or exercise. 3. a. To go or travel at a slow or leisurely pace:

The old car jogged along until it reached the hill. b. To proceed in a leisurely manner: “while his life was thus jogging easily along” (Duff Cooper). — n. 1. A slight push or shake; a nudge. 2. A jogging movement or rhythm. 3. A slow steady trot. [Perhaps alteration of Middle English shoggen, to shake, move with a jerk, perhaps alteration of shokken, to move rapidly, from Middle Low German schocken, to shake.] — jog’ger n.

jog² (jög) n. 1. A protruding or receding part in a surface or line. 2. An abrupt change in direction: a jog in the road. — v. intr. jogged, jog-ging, jogs. To turn sharply; veer: Here the boundary jogs south. [Variant of JAG¹.]

jog-gle¹ (jög’əl) v. jog-gled, jog-gling, jog-gles. — v. tr. To shake or jar slightly. — v. intr. To move with a shaking or lightly jolting motion. — n. A shaking or lightly jolting motion. [Perhaps frequentative of JOG¹.]

jog-gle² (jög’əl) n. 1. A joint between two pieces of building material formed by a notch and a fitted projection. 2. The notch or the projecting piece used in such a joint. — v. tr. jog-gled, jog-gling, jog-gles. To join or attach by means of a joggle. [Perhaps from JOG².]

Jog-ja-kar-ta (jög’yə-kär’tə, jök’jä-) also Yog-ya-kar-ta (yög’yə-, jök’jä-) or Djok-ja-kar-ta (jök’yə-) A city of southern Java, Indonesia, east-southeast of Jakarta. Founded in 1749, it is a major cultural center known for its dance and drama festivals. Population, 398,727.

jog trot (jög tröt) n. 1. A slow, steady trot, as of a horse. 2. A regular, humdrum way of living or of doing.

Jo-han-nes-burg (jō-hän’is-bûrg’, -hä’nīs-) The largest city of South Africa, in the northeast part of the country northwest of Durban. Founded in 1886 after the discovery of gold nearby, it is a major industrial center. Population, 703,980.

john (jön) n. Slang. 1. A toilet. 2. A man who is a prostitute’s customer. [From the name John.]

John¹ (jön), Known as John Lackland. 1167?-1216. King of England (1199-1216). The youngest son of Henry II, he schemed against his father and his brother Richard I. During his reign, the English lost most of their possessions in France. The nobility rose against John and forced him to sign the Magna Carta (June 15, 1215), a cornerstone of English freedom.

John² (jön) n. Abbr. Jn. Bible. A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

John (jön), Saint Known as “the Evangelist” or “the Divine.” fl. first century A.D. One of the 12 Apostles and the brother of James the Great. He is traditionally considered the author of the fourth Gospel, three epistles, and the Book of Revelation.

John I (jön), Known as “John the Great.” 1357-1433. King of Portugal (1385-1433). He led a rebellion against the Portuguese regency in 1384 and was crowned the following year. His efforts ensured Portugal’s independence.

John II (jön), Known as “John the Good.” 1319-1364. French king (1350-1364). Captured by the English at Poitiers (1356), he was released to raise his own ransom. When he was unable to do so, he returned to England, where he died in captivity.

John III So-bies-ki (jön; sō-byēs'kē), 1629-1696. King of Poland (1674-1696) who was a leader in the military expulsion of the Turks from Christian Europe. He formed an alliance with the pope, the Holy Roman emperor, and the rulers of Vienna (1684).

John XXIII (jön), Originally Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli. 1881-1963. Pope (1958-1963) who convoked the Second Vatican Council (1962), the first general council of the Church in almost a century, and worked for world peace and Christian unity.

John (jön), Augustus Edwin. 1878-1961. British painter whose portraits, as of George Bernard Shaw (1914) and Thomas Hardy (1923), offer unflattering characterizations.

John Bar-ley-corn (jön bär'lē-kôrn') n. A personification of alcoholic liquor.

john-boat (jön'bōt') n. Nautical. A small flat-bottomed boat with square ends, paddled or poled on shallow waterways. [Probably from the name John.]

John Bull (jön bööl) n. 1. A personification of England or the English. 2. A typical Englishman. [After John Bull, a character in Law Is a Bottomless Pit by John Arbuthnot.]

John Day (jön dā) A river, about 452 km (281 mi) long, of northern Oregon flowing west and north to the Columbia River.

John Doe (jön' dō') n. 1. Used as a name in legal proceedings to designate a fictitious or unidentified man or boy. 2. An average, undistinguished man.

John Dory (jön dôr'ē) n. Either of two North Atlantic fish (Zeus faber or Z. ocellata) having a laterally compressed body and long spines on the dorsal fin. [The name John + DORY².]

Joh-ne's disease (yō'nəz dī-zēz') n. A chronic disease of domestic animals, especially cattle and sheep, caused by the bacterium Mycobacterium paratuberculosis and characterized by persistent diarrhea, gradual loss of weight, and general weakness. [After Heinrich Albert Johne (1839-1910), German physician.]

John Han-cock (jön hăn'kōk') n. Informal. A person's signature. [After John HANCOCK (from the prominence of his signature on the Declaration of Independence).]

john-ny (jön'ē) n. pl. john-nies. A loose short-sleeved gown opening in the back, worn by patients undergoing medical treatment or examination. [From the name Johnny, nickname for John.]

John-ny Ap-ple-seed (jön'ē äp'əl-sēd') See John Chapman.

john-ny-cake also jon-ny-cake (jön'ē-kāk') n. New England. Cornmeal bread usually shaped into a flat cake and baked or fried on a griddle. Regional. Also called ashcake^{Regional.}, battercake^{Regional.}, corn cake^{Regional.}, cornpone^{Regional.}, hoecake^{Regional.}, journey cake^{Regional.}, mush bread^{Regional.}, pone^{Regional.}, Shawnee cake. [Perhaps by folk etymology from jonakin.]

REGIONAL NOTE: When the Native Americans showed the Pilgrims how to cook with maize, they must have taught them to make johnnycake, a dense cornmeal bread whose thick batter is shaped into a flat cake and baked or fried on a griddle. Johnnycake, also spelled jonnycake and also called journey cake and Shawnee cake, is still considered a New England specialty, especially in Rhode Island, where it is celebrated by the Society for the Propagation of Johnny Cakes. The Usquepaugh, Rhode Island, Johnnycake Festival features johnnycakes made of white Indian corn called flint corn. Outside New England johnnycake is most popular in the South and South Midland states, where it is known as ashcake, battercake, corn cake, cornpone, hoecake, or mush bread. The color of the cornmeal, the consistency of the batter, the size of the cake, and the cooking method can vary from region to region. For example, an ashcake, according to a Georgia informant, is “made by wrapping cornbread batter in cabbage leaves and burying it gently at the back of the fireplace” (Dudley Clendinen).

John·ny·come·late·ly (jŏn'ē-kŭm-lāt'lē) n. pl. John·ny·come·late·lies or John·nies·come·late·ly (jŏn'ēz-). Informal. A newcomer or latecomer, especially a recent adherent to a cause or fashion.

John·ny·jump·up (jŏn'ē-jŭmp'ŭp') n. pl. Johnny·jump·ups. Any of various plants of the genus Viola, especially a California violet (V. pedunculata) or a European pansy (V. tricolor), having ovate leaves and variously colored flowers. [From its quick growth.]

John·ny·on·the·spot (jŏn'ē-ŏn'thə-spŏt', -ŏn'-) n. Informal. A person who is available and ready to act when needed.

Johnny Reb (jŏn'ē rēb) n. Informal. A Confederate soldier.

John of Aus·tri·a (jŏn ŭf ŏs'trē-ə), Known as Don John. 1547-1578. Spanish general who commanded the fleet that defeated the Turks at the Battle of Lepanto in the Gulf of Corinth (1571) and captured Tunis (1573).

John of Da·mas·cus (jŏn ŭf də-mäs'kəs), Saint. 675?-749?. Greek theologian who wrote influential treatises on the veneration of sacred icons and the synthesis of Greek and Latin theology.

John of Gaunt (jŏn ŭf gŏnt, gänt), Duke of Lancaster. 1340-1399. English soldier. The fourth son of Edward III, he ruled England during his father's last years and in the beginning of Richard II's reign.

John of Lan·cas·ter (jŏn ŭf lăng'kə-stər, lăn'-), Duke of Bedford. 1389-1435. English noble who was regent of England and France (1422-1435) during the early reign of Henry VI.

John of Salis-bur-y (jɒn ʊf sɔlz'bɜr'ē, -brē), 1115?-1180. English bishop and scholar who wrote biographies of Becket and Anselm and treatises on diplomacy, logic, and Aristotelian philosophy.

John o'Groat's (jɒn ə-grōts') A location on the northeast coast of Scotland, traditionally considered the northernmost point of Great Britain.

John Paul I (jɒn' pɔl', pɔl'), Originally Albino Luciani. 1912-1978. Pope (1978). The first pope to assume a double name, he reigned for only 34 days.

John Paul II (jɒn' pɔl', pɔl'), Originally Karol Wojtyła. Born 1920. Pope (since 1978). The first Polish-born pope and the first non-Italian pope in 450 years, he has traveled extensively in support of human rights and conservative dogma.

Johns (jɒnz), Jasper. Born 1930. American artist and pioneer of pop art whose works place everyday objects within artistic contexts.

John-son (jɒn'sən), Andrew. 1808-1875. The 17th President of the United States (1865-1869). Elected Vice President (1864), he succeeded the assassinated Abraham Lincoln as President. His administration was marked by reconstruction policies in the South and the purchase of Alaska (1867). An attempt to unseat Secretary of War Edwin Stanton led to Johnson's impeachment on purely political charges brought by Republican senators (1868). Johnson was acquitted by one vote.

John-son (jɒn'sən), Claudia Alta Taylor. Known as "Lady Bird." Born 1912. First Lady of the United States (1963-1969) as the wife of President Lyndon Johnson. She directed a nationwide beautification project.

John-son (jɒn'sən), Eastman. 1824-1906. American painter known for his genre scenes, such as Old Kentucky Home, and portraits of notable contemporaries.

John-son (jɔ̃n'sɔ̃n), Eyvind. 1900-1976. Swedish writer whose works, notably four semiautobiographical novels collectively titled Novels of Olaf (1934-1937), concern his impoverished youth and sociopolitical issues. He shared the 1974 Nobel Prize for literature.

John-son (jɒn'sən), Howard Deering. 1896?-1972. American restaurateur who founded the Howard Johnson chain of restaurants and motels (1929).

John-son (jɒn'sən), James Weldon. 1871-1938. American writer and educator who was a founder and secretary (1916-1930) of the NAACP. His books include The Autobiography of an Ex-Colored Man (1912).

John-son (jɒn'sən), John Arthur. Known as "Jack." 1878-1946. American prizefighter. He was the first Black world heavyweight champion (1908-1915).

John-son (jɒn'sən), John Harold. Born 1918. American publisher who founded a number of magazines, including Ebony (1945).

John-son (jɒn'sən), Lyndon Baines. 1908-1973. The 36th President of the United States (1963-1969), who succeeded to the office after John F. Kennedy was assassinated. He won the 1964 election but faced increasing criticism over the mounting U.S. involvement in Vietnam and did not stand for reelection in 1968.

John·son (jɒn'sən), Osa Helen Leighty. 1894-1953. American explorer and filmmaker. With her husband, Martin Johnson (1884-1937), she explored the South Seas and Africa. Their films include Jungle Adventures (1921) and Wonders of the Congo (1931).

John·son (jɒn'sən), Philip Cortelyou. Born 1906. American architect who designed the New York State Theater at Lincoln Center (1964) and the American Telephone and Telegraph Headquarters Building (1978), both in New York City.

John·son (jɒn'sən), Reverdy. 1796-1876. American lawyer, politician, and diplomat. As a lawyer he is remembered for representing the defense in the Dred Scott case (1856-1857). He also served as U.S. senator for Maryland (1845-1849 and 1863-1868) and minister to Great Britain (1868-1869).

John·son (jɒn'sən), Richard Mentor. 1780-1850. Vice President of the United States (1837-1841) under Martin Van Buren.

John·son (jɒn'sən), Samuel. Known as "Dr. Johnson." 1709-1784. British writer and lexicographer. The leading literary figure in the second half of the 18th century, he wrote Dictionary of the English Language (1755) and Lives of the Poets (1779-1781).

John·son (jɒn'sən), Thomas. 1732-1819. American politician and jurist. He was the first governor of Maryland (1777-1779) and served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1792-1793).

John·son (jɒn'sən), William. 1771-1834. American jurist who served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1804-1834).

John·son (jɒn'sən), Sir William. 1715-1774. British-born American pioneer and public official. In the French and Indian Wars he defeated the French at Lake George (1755) and captured Niagara (1759).

Johnson City (jɒn'sən sɪt'ē) 1. A village of south-central New York east of Binghamton. It has tanneries and other industries. Population, 16,890. 2. A city of northeast Tennessee east-northeast of Knoxville. Settled in the 1760's, it is a railroad junction and manufacturing center. Population, 49,381.

Johnson grass (jɒn'sən græs) n. A coarse perennial Mediterranean grass (Sorghum halepense) cultivated for forage but often a troublesome weed. Also called Egyptian millet [After William Johnson (died 1859), American agriculturalist.]

John·so·ni·an (jɒn-sō'nē-ən) adj. Of, resembling, or relating to Samuel Johnson or his writings. — n. An admirer or a student of Samuel Johnson or his work.

Johnson noise (jɒn'sən noiz) n. See thermal noise. [After John Bertrand Johnson (1887-1970), Swedish-born American physicist.]

John·ston (jɒn'stən) A town of north-central Rhode Island, a manufacturing suburb of Providence. Population, 24,907.

John·ston (jɒn'stən), Albert Sidney. 1803-1862. American Confederate general in the Civil War. He was defeated by Ulysses S. Grant at Shiloh (1862).

John·ston (jɒn'stən), Annie Fellows. 1863-1931. American writer whose works include the popular Little Colonel series (1896-1907).

John·ston (jɒn'stən), Henrietta Deering. Died c. 1728. Irish-born American painter. Her portraits are among the earliest done in pastels.

John·ston (jɒn'stən), Joseph Eggleston. 1807-1891. American Confederate general in the Civil War who surrendered to William Tecumseh Sherman in 1865.

Johns·town (jɒnz'toun') A city of southwest Pennsylvania east of Pittsburgh. A devastating flood on May 31, 1889, killed more than 2,000 people and destroyed much of the town. Population, 28,134.

John the Bap·tist (jɒn' θə bəp'tɪst), Saint. First century B.C. Jewish prophet who in the New Testament baptized and prepared the way for Jesus. He was executed by Herod Antipas at the behest of Salome.

Jo·hor Ba·ha·ru (jə-hôr' bə-hä'rōō, jə-hōr') also Jo·hore Bah·ru (bä'rōō) A city of Malaysia on the southern tip of the Malay Peninsula opposite Singapore Island. The city is connected with Singapore by a causeway across the narrow Johore Strait. Population, 249,880.

joie de vi·vre (zhwä' də vē'vrə) n. Hearty or carefree enjoyment of life. [French : joie, joy + de, of + vivre, to live, living.]

join (join) v. joined, join·ing, joins. — v. tr. 1. To put or bring together so as to make continuous or form a unit: join two boards with nails; joined hands in a circle. 2. To put or bring into close association or relationship: were joined by marriage; join forces. 3. To connect (points), as with a straight line. 4. To meet and merge with: where the creek joins the river. 5. To become a part or member of: join a club. 6. To come into the company of: joined the group in the waiting room. 7. To participate with in an act or activity: The committee joins me in welcoming you. 8. To adjoin. 9. To engage in; enter into: Opposing armies joined battle on the plain. — v. intr. 1. To come together so as to form a connection: where the two bones join. 2. To act together; form an alliance: The two factions joined to oppose the measure. 3. To become a member of a group. 4. To take part; participate: joined in the search. — n. A joint; a junction. [Middle English joinen, from Old French joindre, joign-, join-, from Latin iungere. See yeug- in Appendix.]

SYNONYMS: join, combine, unite, link, connect, relate, associate. These verbs mean to fasten or affix or become fastened or affixed. Join applies to the physical contact, connection, or union of at least two separate things and to the coming together of persons, as into a group: The children joined hands. Join the panels of fabric at the selvages. "Join the union, girls, and together say Equal Pay for Equal Work" (Susan B. Anthony). Combine suggests the mixing or merging of components, often for a specific or shared purpose: The cook combined whipped cream, sugar, and vanilla to make a topping for the compote. “When bad men combine, the good must associate” (Edmund Burke). Unite stresses the coherence or oneness of the persons or things joined: Can strips of plastic be united with epoxy? The attack on their country united squabbling political factions in a common purpose. Link and connect imply a firm attachment in which individual components nevertheless retain their identities: linked poverty and unemployment to the social unrest besetting the city. The chief of police is in no way connected with the scandal. Relate refers to connection of persons through marriage or kinship (Though they have the same surname, the two are not even distantly related) or of things through logical association (The two events seem to be related). Associate usually implies a relationship of persons as partners or allies: His daughter is associated with him in the family business. It can also refer to a relationship of things that are similar or complementary or that have a connection in one’s thoughts: I can forgive his bluntness because it is associated with a basic kindness of spirit.

join·der (join’dər) n. 1. The act of joining. 2. Law. a. A joining of causes of action or defense in a suit. b. A joining of parties in a suit. c. Formal acceptance of an issue offered. [From French joindre, to join, from Old French. See JOIN.]

join·er (joi’nər) n. 1. A carpenter, especially a cabinetmaker. 2. Informal. A person given to joining groups, organizations, or causes.

join·er·y (joi’nə-rē) n. 1. The art or craft of a joiner; cabinetmaking. 2. Work done by a joiner; fine woodwork.

joint (joint) n. Abbr. jnt., jt. 1. a. A place or part at which two or more things are joined. b. A way in which two or more things are joined: a mortise-and-tenon joint; flexible joints. 2. Anatomy. a. A point of articulation between two or more bones, especially such a connection that allows motion. b. A point in the exoskeleton of an invertebrate at which movable parts join, as along the leg of an arthropod. 3. Botany. An articulation on a fruit or stem, such as the node of a grass stem. 4. Geology. A fracture or crack in a rock mass along which no appreciable movement has occurred. 5. A large cut of meat for roasting. 6. Slang. a. A cheap or disreputable gathering place: “The tavern is... just a joint with Formica tables, a vinyl floor, lights over the mirrors” (Scott Turow). b. A building or dwelling. c. A prison. Often used with the. 7. Slang. A marijuana cigarette. 8. Vulgar Slang. A penis. — adj. Abbr. jnt., jt. 1. Shared by or common to two or more: our joint presence; a joint income-tax return. 2. Sharing with another or others: a joint tenant. 3. Formed or characterized by cooperation or united action: joint military maneuvers. 4. Involving both houses of a legislature: a joint session of Congress. 5. Law. Regarded as one legal body; united in identity of interest or liability. 6. Mathematics. Involving two or more variables. — v. tr. joint·ed, joint·ing, joints. 1. To combine or attach with a joint or joints: securely jointed the sides of the drawer. 2. To provide or construct with joints: joint a boom on a crane. 3. To separate (meat) at the joints. —idiom. out of joint. 1. Dislocated, as a bone. 2. Informal. a. Not harmonious; inconsistent. b. Out of order; inauspicious or unsatisfactory. c. In bad spirits or humor; out of sorts. [Middle English, from Old French, from past participle of joindre, to join. See JOIN.]

Joint Chiefs of Staff (joint chĕfs ūv stăf) n. Abbr. J.C.S., JCS The principal military advisory group to the President of the United States, composed of the chiefs of the Army, Navy, and Air Force and the commandant of the Marine Corps.

joint·er (join'tər) n. 1. A machine or tool used in making joints. 2. A tool used to cut grooves indicating the joints in cement. 3. A triangular attachment to a plow used in covering trash or refuse.

joint·ly (joint'lē) adv. In common; together.

joint probability (joint prŏb'ə-bĭl'ī-tē) n. The probability that two or more specific outcomes will occur in an event.

joint resolution (joint rĕz'ə-lōō'shən) n. A resolution passed by both houses of a bicameral legislature and eligible to become a law if signed by the chief executive or passed over the chief executive's veto.

joint stock (joint stŏk) n. Stock or capital funds of a company held jointly or in common by its owners.

joint-stock company (joint'stŏk' kŭm'pə-nē) n. A business whose capital is held in transferable shares of stock by its joint owners.

joint·ture (join'chər) n. 1. Law. a. An arrangement by which a man sets aside property to be used for the support of his wife after his death. b. The property so designated. 2. The act of joining or the state of being joined. [Middle English, from Anglo-Norman, from Latin iunctūra, joint. See JUNCTURE.]

joint venture (joint vĕn'chər) n. A partnership or conglomerate, formed often to share risk or expertise: a joint venture between the film companies to produce TV shows.

joint·worm (joint'wŭrm') n. The larva of certain wasps of the family Eurytomidae, especially of Harmolita tritici, that infest grains and cause hard swellings near the first joint of the stems.

Join·vi·le also Join·vil·le (zhŏiN-vē'lē) A city of southern Brazil north-northeast of Pôrto Alegre. Founded c. 1850 by German immigrants, it is an important industrial center. Population, 216,986.

Join·ville (zhwăN-vĕl'), Jean de. 1224?-1317. French chronicler who wrote Histoire de Saint Louis (1309), the principal source on the life of Louis IX.

joist (joist) n. Any of the parallel horizontal beams set from wall to wall to support the boards of a floor or ceiling. — v. tr. joist·ed, joist·ing, joists. To construct with such parallel horizontal beams. [Middle English giste, joiste, from Old French giste, from feminine past participle of gesir, to lie, lie down, from Latin iacēre. See yē- in Appendix.]

jo·jo·ba (hə-hō'bə, hō-) n. A dioecious shrub (Simmondsia chinensis) of the southwest United States and northern Mexico, having opposite, leathery leaves and edible seeds that contain a valuable oil. [American Spanish.]

Jó·kai (yô'koi'), Maurus or Mór. 1825-1904. Hungarian writer of romantic fiction. His works include Black Diamonds (1870) and A Modern Midas (1873).

joke (jōk) n. 1. Something said or done to evoke laughter or amusement, especially an amusing story with a punch line. 2. A mischievous trick; a prank. 3. An amusing or ludicrous incident or situation. 4. Informal. a. Something not to be taken seriously; a triviality: The accident was no joke. b. An object of amusement or laughter; a laughingstock: His preference for loud ties was the joke of the office. — v. joked, jok-ing, jokes. — v. intr. 1. To tell or play jokes; jest. 2. To speak in fun; be facetious. — v. tr. To make fun of; tease. [Latin iocus. See yek- in Appendix.] — jok'ing-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: joke, jest, witticism, quip, sally, crack, wisecrack, gag. These nouns refer to something that is said or done in order to evoke laughter or amusement. Joke especially denotes an amusing story with a punch line at the end: told jokes at the beginning of the show. Jest suggests frolicsome humor: All jests aside, we're in big trouble. A witticism is a witty, usually cleverly phrased remark: a speech that was full of witticisms. A quip is a clever, pointed, often sarcastic remark: a President who responded to the tough questions with quips. Sally denotes a sudden quick witticism: In a sally at the end of the debate the candidate elicited much laughter from the audience. Crack and wisecrack refer less formally to flippant or sarcastic retorts: He made a crack about my driving ability. Don't give me any more wisecracks. Gag is principally applicable to a broadly comic remark or to comic by-play in a theatrical routine: one of the most memorable gags in the history of vaudeville.

WORD HISTORY: It is hard to imagine the English language without the word joke, but joke is only first recorded in 1670. Since joke was originally considered a slang or informal usage, it was not suitable to all contexts. The change in status of joke from then to now provides us with an excellent example of how usage changes. Joke has a decent enough heritage at any rate, coming from Latin iocus, “jest, sport, laughingstock, trifle.” Iocus in turn can be traced back to the Indo-European root yek-, meaning “to speak,” from which also comes the Umbrian word iuka, “prayers,” and the Welsh word iaith, “speech.”

jok·er (jō'kər) n. 1. a. One who tells or plays jokes. b. An insolent person who seeks to make a show of cleverness. c. Informal. A person, especially an annoying or inept one: Some joker is blocking my driveway. 2. Games. A playing card, usually printed with a picture of a jester, used in certain games as the highest-ranking card or as a wild card. 3. A minor clause in a document such as a legislative bill that voids or changes its original or intended purpose. 4. An unforeseen but important difficulty, fact, or circumstance. 5. A deceptive means of getting the better of someone.

joke-ster (jōk'stər) n. One who tells or plays jokes; a joker.

jok-ey also jok-y (jō'kē) adj. jok-i-er, jok-i-est. Characterized by joking or jokes, especially stale or clumsy jokes: jokey bumper stickers. —jok'i-ly adv. —jok'i-ness n.

Jo-li-et (jō'lē-ēt', jō'lē-ēt') A city of northeast Illinois southwest of Chicago. It is an industrial center and a river port. Population, 76,836.

Jo-li-et (jō'lē-ēt', jō'lē-ēt', zhō-lyā'), Louis. See Louis Jolliet.

Jo-li-ette (zhō'lē-ēt') A city of southern Quebec, Canada, north of Montreal. It was founded in 1841 by descendants of the explorer Louis Jolliet. Population, 16,987.

Jo-li-ot-Cu-rie (zhō-lyō' kyōōr'ē, -kyōō-rē', -kü-), Irène. 1897-1956. French physicist. She shared a 1935 Nobel Prize with her husband, Frédéric Joliot-Curie (1900-1958), for synthesizing new radioactive elements.

Jol-li-et also Jo-li-et (jō'lē-ēt', jō'lē-ēt', zhō-lyā'), Louis. 1645-1700. French-Canadian explorer of the upper Mississippi Valley who with Jacques Marquette sighted the Mississippi River on June 17, 1673, and descended it to the mouth of the Arkansas River.

jol-li-fi-ca-tion (jōl'ə-fī-kā'shən) n. Festivity; revelry.

jol-li-ty (jōl'i-tē) n. pl. jol-li-ties. Convivial merriment or celebration. See Synonyms at mirth.

jol-ly (jōl'ē) adj. jol-li-er, jol-li-est. 1. Full of good humor and high spirits.

2. Exhibiting or occasioning happiness or mirth; cheerful: a jolly tune. 3. Greatly pleasing; enjoyable: had a jolly time. — adv. Chiefly British. To a great extent or degree; extremely. — v. jol-lied, jol-ly-ing, jol-lies. — v. tr. To keep amused or diverted for one's own purposes; humor. — v. intr. To amuse oneself with humorous or teasing banter. — n. pl. jol-lies. 1. Chiefly British. A good or festive time. 2. jollies. Slang. Amusement; kicks: However you get your jollies is fine with me. [Middle English joli, from Old French, perhaps of Scandinavian origin.] —jol/li-ly adv. —jol/li-ness n.

SYNONYMS: jolly, jovial, merry, blithe, jocund. These adjectives mean feeling, showing, or marked by good humor and high spirits. Jolly and jovial are especially associated with hearty, convivial good cheer: A jolly crowd attended the reunion. Her grandfather is a jovial, ruddy-faced old gentleman. Merry suggests gaiety, animation, and love of fun: a peal of merry laughter. Blithe implies buoyancy and freedom from care: "His spirit was blithe and its fire unquenchable" (John Morley). Jocund suggests sprightly lightheartedness: "A poet could not but be gay, / In such a jocund company” (William Wordsworth).

jol·ly·boat (jɒl'ē-bōt') n. Nautical. A medium-sized ship's boat used for rough work and minor tasks. [Origin unknown.]

Jol·ly Rog·er (jɒl'ē rɔj'ər) n. A black flag bearing the emblematic white skull and crossbones of a pirate ship. [Origin unknown.]

Jol·son (jɒl'sən), Al. 1886-1950. American entertainer who starred in The Jazz Singer (1927), the first major film with synchronized sound.

jolt (jɒlt) v. jolt·ed, jolt·ing, jolts. — v. tr. 1. To move or dislodge with a sudden, hard blow; strike heavily or jarringly: jolted his opponent with a heavy punch; an impact that jolted the mailbox loose. 2. To cause to move jerkily: stops and starts that jolted the passengers. 3. To put into a specified condition by or as if by a blow: “Now and then he jolted a nodding reader awake by inserting a witty paragraph” (Walter Blair). 4. To make suddenly active or effective: The remark jolted my memory. 5. To disturb suddenly and severely; stun: She was jolted by the betrayal of her trusted friend. — v. intr. To proceed in an irregular, bumpy, or jerky fashion. — n. 1. A sudden jarring or jerking, as from a heavy blow or an abrupt movement. See Synonyms at collision. 2. a. A sudden, strong feeling of surprise or disappointment; a shock. b. The cause of such a feeling: The news came as a jolt. 3. A brief strong portion: a jolt of electricity; a jolt of whiskey. [Origin unknown.] —jolt'er n. —jolt'i·ly adv. —jolt'i·ness n. —jolt'y adj.

Jo·ma·da (jə-mä'dä) n. Variant of Jumada.

Jo·nah (jō'nə) n. 1. Bible. a. In the Old Testament, a prophet who was swallowed by a great fish and disgorged unharmed three days later. b. Abbr. Jon., Jon A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible. 2. One thought to bring bad luck.

Jon·a·than¹ (jɒn'ə-thən) In the Old Testament, the eldest son of King Saul of Israel and friend of David.

Jon·a·than² (jɒn'ə-thən) n. A variety of red, late-ripening apple. [After Jonathan Hasbrouck (died 1846), American jurist and gardener.]

jones (jɒnz) n. Slang. 1. Heroin. 2. An addiction, especially to heroin. [Perhaps from the name Jones.]

Jones (jɒnz), Howard Mumford. 1892-1980. American educator and writer. His many books on American society include O Strange New World, which won a Pulitzer Prize in 1965.

Jones (jɒnz), Inigo. 1573-1652. English architect who brought the Palladian classical style to England. He designed the Queen's House in Greenwich and the Banqueting Hall in Whitehall, London.

Jones (jɒnz), John Luther. Known as “Casey.” 1864-1900. American locomotive engineer who died trying to stop his train from crashing into another train. A friend wrote “The Ballad of Casey Jones,” a popular song about his heroic death.

Jones (jōnz), John Paul. 1747-1792. Scottish-born American naval officer. In the American Revolution he raided the British coast and destroyed two warships (1779).

Jones (jōnz), LeRoi. See Imamu Amiri Baraka.

Jones (jōnz), Mary Harris. Known as “Mother Jones.” 1830-1930. Irish-born American labor leader and union organizer. She helped found (1905) the Industrial Workers of the World.

Jones (jōnz), Robert Tyre. Known as “Bobby.” 1902-1971. American golfer who won (1930) the Grand Slam of golf, the amateur and open championships in the United States and Great Britain.

Jones (jōnz), Rufus Matthew. 1863-1948. American Quaker philosopher who helped found (1917) the American Friends Service Committee.

Jones-bor-o (jōnz' bûr'ō, -bûr'ə, -bûr'ō) A city of northeast Arkansas north-east of Little Rock. It is the seat of Arkansas State University (founded 1909). Population, 46,535.

jon-gleur (zhôn-glœr') n. A wandering minstrel, poet, or entertainer in medieval England and France. [French, from Old French, variant of jogleor, from Latin ioculātor, jester, from ioculārī, to jest. See JUGGLE.]

Jön-kö-ping (yœn' chœ' pīng) A city of southern Sweden southwest of Stockholm. Chartered in 1284, it was burned by its citizens in 1612 to prevent the Danes from sacking it. Population, 107,031.

jon-ny-cake (jōn' ē-kāk') n. New England. Variant of johnnycake.

Jon-quièrè (zhōn-kyër') A city of southern Quebec, Canada, on the Saguenay River north of Quebec City. Pulp and paper mills are important to its economy. Population, 60,354.

jon-quil (jōng' kwəl, jōn'-) n. A widely cultivated ornamental plant (Narcissus jonquilla) native chiefly to southern Europe, having long, narrow leaves and short-tubed, fragrant yellow flowers. [Spanish junquilla, from the name Junquello, diminutive of junco, reed, from Latin iuncus.]

Jon-son (jōn' sən), Benjamin. Known as “Ben.” 1572-1637. English actor and writer. Among his major plays are Every Man in His Humour (1598) and Volpone (1606).

joo-al (zhō-äl') n. Chiefly Canadian & Chiefly Maine. Variant of joual.

Jop-lin (jöp' līn) A city of southwest Missouri near the Kansas border west of Springfield. It was founded in 1839. Population, 40,961.

Jop-lin (jöp' līn), Scott. 1868-1917. American pianist and composer known for his ragtime works, including “Maple Leaf Rag” (1899).

Jor-dan (jôr' dn) Formerly Trans-jor-dan (trăns'-, trănz'-). A country of southwest Asia in northwest Arabia. Inhabited since biblical times, the area was held by the Turks from 1516 until World War I. The country became the British mandate of Transjordan in 1923 and gained independence in 1946. Its territory west of the Jordan River was occupied by Israeli forces in the Six-Day War of 1967. Amman is the capital and the largest city. Population, 2,595,100.

—Jor·da'ni-an (jôr-dā'nē-ən) adj. & n.

Jor·dan (jôr'dn), Barbara Charline. 1936-1996. American politician. An eloquent spokesperson for the rights of poor people and minority groups, she served as a U.S. representative for Texas (1973-1979).

Jor·dan (jôr'dn), David Starr. 1851-1931. American biologist and first president (1891-1913) of Stanford University.

Jor·dan almond (jôr'dn ä'mənd) n. 1. A large variety of almond from Málaga, Spain, used widely in confections. 2. An almond covered with a hard, colored, and flavored sugar coating. [By folk etymology from Middle English jardin almaund: Old French jardin, garden; see JARDINIÈRE + almande, almond; see ALMOND.]

Jor·dan curve (jôr'dn kûrv) n. Mathematics. See simple closed curve.

[After Camille Jordan (1838-1922), French mathematician.]

Jor·dan curve theorem (jôr'dn kûrv thē'ər-əm) n. Mathematics. The theorem that states that every simple closed curve divides a plane into two parts and acts as the common boundary between them.

Jor·dan River (jôr'dn rîv'ər) A river of southwest Asia rising in Syria and flowing about 322 km (200 mi) south through the Sea of Galilee to the northern end of the Dead Sea.

jo·rum (jôr'əm, jôr'-) n. 1. A large drinking bowl. 2. The amount that such a bowl contains. [Perhaps after Joram, who brought vessels of silver, gold, and brass to King David (II Samuel 8:10).]

Jos abbr. Bible. Joshua.

jo·seph (jō'zəf, -səf) n. A long riding coat with a small cape, worn by women in the 18th century. [After JOSEPH¹, who left an outer garment in the hands of Potiphar's wife when he fled her attempt to seduce him (Genesis 39:12).]

Jo·seph¹ (jō'zəf, -səf) In the Old Testament, the older son of Jacob and Rachel and the forebear of one of the tribes of Israel.

Jo·seph² (jō'zəf, -səf), Known as "Chief Joseph." 1840?-1904. Nez Percé leader who conducted a skillful but unsuccessful retreat from U.S. forces (1877).

Jo·seph (jō'zəf, -səf), Saint. fl. first century A.D. In the New Testament, the husband of Mary, mother of Jesus.

Jo·seph II (jō'zəf, -səf), 1741-1790. Holy Roman emperor (1765-1790) and king of Bohemia and Hungary (1780-1790). He instituted a number of social reforms aimed at curbing hereditary privileges.

Jo·se·phine (jō'zə-fēn', -sə-) See Josephine de Beauharnais.

Joseph of Ar·i·ma·the·a (jō'zəf ūv ār'ə-mə-thē'ə), fl. first century A.D. In the New Testament, the disciple who buried the body of Jesus.

Jo-seph-son (jō'zəf-sən, -səf-), Brian David. Born 1940. British physicist. He shared a 1973 Nobel Prize for theoretical advances in the field of solid-state electronics.

Josephson effect (jō'zəf-sən ĭ-fěkt') n. The radiative effect associated with the passage of electron pairs across an insulating barrier separating two superconductors. [After Brian David JOSEPHSON.]

Josephson junction (jō'zəf-sən jüŋgk'shən) n. An insulating barrier separating two superconducting materials and producing the Josephson effect.

Jo-se-phas (jō-sē'fəs), Flavius. A.D. 37-100?. Jewish general and historian who took part in the Jewish revolt against the Romans. His History of the Jewish War is the major source of information about the siege of Masada (72-73).

josh (jōsh) v. joshed, josh-ing, josh-es. — v. tr. To tease (someone) good-humoredly. — v. intr. To make or exchange good-humored jokes; banter. See Synonyms at banter. — n. A teasing or joking remark. [Origin unknown.] — josh'er n. — josh'ing-ly adv.

Josh-u-a (jōsh'ōō-ə) n. Bible. 1. In the Old Testament, a Hebrew leader who succeeded Moses as leader of Israel. 2. Abbr. Josh., Jos A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

Joshua tree (jōsh'ōō-ə trē) n. A treelike plant (Yucca brevifolia) of the southwest United States, having sword-shaped leaves and greenish-white flowers grouped in large panicles. [Probably after JOSHUA, from the resemblance of the tree's greatly extended branches to Joshua's outstretched arm as he pointed with his spear to the city of Ai (Joshua 8:18).]

Jo-si-ah (jō-sī'ə, -zī'ə), Died 609? B.C. King of Judah (640?-609?) who attempted to destroy all forms of idolatry.

joss (jōs) n. A Chinese cult image or idol. [Pidgin English, from Javanese deyos, from Portuguese deos, god, from Latin deus. See deiw- in Appendix.]

joss house (jōs hous) n. A Chinese temple or shrine.

joss stick (jōs stīk) n. A stick of incense of the kind burned before a Chinese image, idol, or shrine.

jos-tle (jōs'təl) v. jos-tled, jos-tling, jos-tles. — v. intr. 1. To come in rough contact while moving; push and shove: jostled against the others on the crowded platform. 2. To make one's way by pushing or elbowing: jostled through the guests to the bar. 3. To vie for an advantage or a position. 4. To be in close proximity. 5. To pick or try to pick pockets. — v. tr. 1. To come into rough contact with while moving: messengers who jostle pedestrians on the sidewalk. 2. To force by pushing or elbowing: jostled my way through the mob. 3. To vie with for an advantage or a position. 4. To be in close proximity with: "Books written in all languages... jostle each other on the shelf" (Virginia Woolf). 5. To pick or try to pick the pocket of. — n. 1. A rough shove or push. 2. The condition of being crowded together. [Middle English justilen, to have sexual relations with, frequentative of justen, to joust, from Old French juster. See JOUST.] — jos'tler n. jot (jöt) n. The smallest bit; iota. — v. tr. jot-ted, jot-ting, jots. To write down briefly or hastily: jot down an address. [Middle English jote, from Latin iōta, iota, from Greek, iota. See IOTA.]

jot-ting (jöt'ing) n. A brief note or memorandum.

jou-al also joo-al (zhō-äl') n. Chiefly Canadian & Chiefly Maine. A dialect of Canadian French characterized by nonstandard pronunciations and grammar and by English vocabulary and syntax. [Canadian French dialectal, variant of French cheval. See CHEVALET.]

REGIONAL NOTE: London has Cockney; Liverpool has Scouse. Certain dialects often become so famous and distinctive that they acquire names. Such is the case with the Canadian French dialect known in Quebec and in Maine as joual or jooal. The name, derived from a regional dialect pronunciation of the word cheval, “horse,” is applied to the rural French patois of Quebec. Canadian opinions differ as to whether joual is a “language” of its own or merely a regional French characterized by nonstandard grammar and heavy borrowing from English words and word order.

Jou-haux (zhō-ō'), Léon. 1879-1954. French politician and labor leader. He won the 1951 Nobel Peace Prize for his international efforts on behalf of workers and unions.

joule (jōol, joul) n. Abbr. j, J 1. The International System unit of electrical, mechanical, and thermal energy. 2. a. A unit of electrical energy equal to the work done when a current of 1 ampere is passed through a resistance of 1 ohm for 1 second. b. A unit of energy equal to the work done when a force of 1 newton acts through a distance of 1 meter. See Table at measurement. [After James Prescott JOULE.]

Joule (jōol, joul), James Prescott. 1818-1889. British physicist who established the mechanical theory of heat and discovered the first law of thermodynamics.

jounce (jouns) v. intr. tr. jounced, jounc-ing, jounc-es. To move or cause to move with bumps and jolts; bounce. — n. A rough, jolting movement; a jolt. [Middle English jouncen.]

jour. abbr. 1. Journal; journalist. 2. Journeyman.

jour-nal (jūr'nəl) n. Abbr. jour., J., j. 1. a. A personal record of occurrences, experiences, and reflections kept on a regular basis; a diary. b. An official record of daily proceedings, as of a legislative body. c. Nautical. A ship's log. 2. Accounting. a. A daybook. b. A book of original entry in a double-entry system, listing all transactions and indicating the accounts to which they belong.

3. A newspaper. 4. A periodical presenting articles on a particular subject: a medical journal. 5. The part of a machine shaft or axle supported by a bearing. [Middle English, breviary, from Old French, daily, breviary, from Late Latin diurnālis, daily. See DIURNAL.]

journal box (jûr'nəl bōks) n. A housing in a machine enclosing a journal and its bearings.

jour·nal·ese (jûr'nə-lēz', -lēs') n. The style of writing often held to be characteristic of newspapers and magazines, distinguished by clichés, sensationalism, and triteness of thought.

jour·nal·ism (jûr'nə-līz'əm) n. 1. The collecting, writing, editing, and presentation of news or news articles in newspapers and magazines and in radio and television broadcasts. 2. Material written for publication in a newspaper or magazine or for broadcast. 3. The style of writing characteristic of material in newspapers and magazines, consisting of direct presentation of facts or occurrences with little attempt at analysis or interpretation. 4. Newspapers and magazines. 5. An academic course training students in journalism. 6. Written material of current interest or wide popular appeal.

jour·nal·ist (jûr'nə-līst) n. 1. Abbr. jour. One whose occupation is journalism. 2. One who keeps a journal.

jour·nal·is·tic (jûr'nə-līs'tīk) adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of journalism or journalists. — jour'nal-is'ti-cal·ly adv.

jour·nal·ize (jûr'nə-līz') v. jour·nal·ized, jour·nal·iz·ing, jour·nal·iz·es. — v. tr. To record in a journal. — v. intr. To keep a personal or financial journal. — jour'nal·iz'er n.

jour·ney (jûr'nē) n. pl. jour·neys. 1. a. The act of traveling from one place to another; a trip. b. A distance to be traveled or the time required for a trip: a 2,000-mile journey to the Pacific; the three-day journey home. 2. A process or course likened to traveling; a passage: the journey of life. — v. jour·neyed, jour·ney·ing, jour·neys. — v. intr. To make a journey; travel. — v. tr. To travel over or through. [Middle English journei, day, day's travel, journey, from Old French journee, from Vulgar Latin diurnāta*, from Late Latin diurnum, day, from neuter of Latin diurnus, of a day, from diēs, day. See DIARY.] — jour'ney·er n.

journey cake (jûr'nē kāk) n. New England. See johnnycake. See Regional note at johnnycake. [Perhaps by folk etymology from jonakin. See JOHNNY-CAKE.]

jour·ney·man (jûr'nē-mən) n. 1. Abbr. jour. One who has fully served an apprenticeship in a trade or craft and is a qualified worker in another's employ. 2. An experienced and competent but undistinguished worker. [Middle English journeiman: journei, a day's work; see JOURNEY + man, man; see MAN.]

jour·ney·work (jûr'nē-wûrk') n. The work of a journeyman.

joust (joust, jüst, jōöst) also just (jüst) n. 1. a. A combat between two mounted knights or men-at-arms using lances; a tilting match. b. jousts. A series of tilting matches; a tournament. 2. A personal competition or combat suggestive of combat with lances: a politician who relishes a joust with reporters. — v. intr. joust-ed also just-ed, joust-ing also just-ing, jousts also justs. 1. To engage in mounted combat with lances; tilt. 2. To engage in a personal combat or competition. [Middle English, from Old French juste, from juster, to joust, from Vulgar Latin iuxtāre*, to be next to, from Latin iuxtā, close by. See yeug- in Appendix.] —joust'er n.

Jove (jōv) n. Roman Mythology. See Jupiter (n., sense 1). —idiom. by Jove. Used as a mild oath to express surprise or emphasis. [Middle English, from Old Latin Iovis, or from Latin Iov- stem of Iuppiter. See deiw- in Appendix.]

jo-vi-al (jō'vē-əl) adj. Marked by hearty conviviality and good cheer: a jovial host. See Synonyms at jolly. [French, probably from Italian giovale, from Old Italian, of Jupiter (regarded as the source of happiness), from Late Latin Ioviālis, from Latin Iovis, Jupiter. See deiw- in Appendix.] —jo'vi-al'i-ty (-äl'ī-tē) n. —jo'vi-al-ly adv.

Jo-vi-an¹ (jō'vē-ən), A.D. 331?-364. Emperor of Rome (363-364). He made peace with the Persians by giving up all Roman territories beyond the Tigris River.

Jo-vi-an² (jō'vē-ən) adj. 1. Roman Mythology. Of, relating to, or resembling Jupiter. 2. Of, relating to, or resembling the planet Jupiter.

Jovian planet (jō'vē-ən plän'īt) n. One of the four major planets, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune, which have very large masses and are farther from the sun than the terrestrial planets.

Jow-ett (jou'īt), Benjamin. 1817-1893. British classical scholar known for his translations of Plato and Aristotle.

jowl¹ (jou) n. 1. The jaw, especially the lower jaw. 2. The cheek. [Middle English chavel, chaule, jaule (influenced by joue, jaw, or jol, head), from Old English ceaf.]

jowl² (jou) n. 1. The flesh under the lower jaw, especially when plump or flaccid. 2. A fleshy part similar to a jowl, such as the dewlap of a cow or the wattle of a fowl. [Alteration of Middle English cholle (influenced by Middle English joue, jaw, or jol, head).]

jowl-y (jou'lē) adj. jowl-i-er, jowl-i-est. Having heavy or sagging jowls. —jowl'i-ness n.

joy (joi) n. 1. a. Intense and especially ecstatic or exultant happiness. See Synonyms at pleasure. b. The expression or manifestation of such feeling. 2. A source or an object of pleasure or satisfaction: their only child, their pride and joy. — v. joyed, joy-ing, joys. — v. intr. To take great pleasure; rejoice. — v. tr. Archaic. 1. To fill with ecstatic happiness, pleasure, or satisfaction. 2. To enjoy.

[Middle English joie, from Old French, from Latin gaudia, pl. of gaudium, joy, from gaudēre, to rejoice. See gāu- in Appendix.]

Joyce (jois), James. 1882-1941. Irish writer whose literary innovations have had a profound influence on modern fiction. His works include Ulysses (1922) and Finnegans Wake (1939). —Joyc'e-an (joi'sē-ən) adj.

joy·ful (joi'fəl) adj. Feeling, causing, or indicating joy. See Synonyms at glad¹. —joy'ful-ly adv. —joy'ful-ness n.

joy-less (joi'lis) adj. Cheerless; dismal. —joy'less-ly adv. —joy'less-ness n.

joy-ous (joi'əs) adj. Feeling or causing joy; joyful. See Synonyms at glad¹. —joy'ous-ly adv. —joy'ous-ness n.

joy-pop (joi'pöp') v. intr. joy-popped, joy-pop-ping, joy-pops. Slang. To use narcotic drugs, especially heroin, occasionally without becoming addicted. —joy'pop'per n.

joy ride (joi rīd) n. Slang. 1. A ride taken for fun and often for the thrills provided by reckless driving. 2. A hazardous, reckless, often costly venture. —joy rider n.

joy-stick (joi'stik') n. Slang. 1. The control stick of an aircraft. 2. A manual control or cursor device, as one attached to a computer.

J.P. or JP abbr. Law. Justice of the peace.

J particle (jā' pär'tī-kəl) n. A neutral meson having an unusually large mass (about 6,060 times the mass of an electron) and a long lifetime (about 10^{-20} second). Also called psi particle jr. or Jr. abbr. Junior.

Jr abbr. Bible. Jeremiah.

JRC abbr. Junior Red Cross.

J.S.D. abbr. Latin. Juris Scientiae Doctor (Doctor of Juristic Science).

jt. abbr. Joint.

Juan Car·los (wän kär'ləs, -lôs, hwän), Born 1938. Spanish king (since 1975) who acceded to the throne on the death of Francisco Franco and helped restore parliamentary democracy.

Juan de Fu·ca (wän də fōō'kə, fyōō'-), Strait of. A strait between northwest Washington State and Vancouver Island, British Columbia, Canada, linking Puget Sound and the Strait of Georgia with the Pacific Ocean. Discovered by an English captain in 1787, it was named for a Spanish sailor who reputedly had discovered it in 1592.

Juan Fer·nán·dez Islands (wän fər-nän'dəs ī'ləndz, fěr-nän'dēs) An island group belonging to Chile, in the southeast Pacific Ocean west of Valparaiso, Chile. Alexander Selkirk, a Scottish sailor and the inspiration for Defoe's Robinson Crusoe, lived on one of the islands from 1704 to 1709.

Juá·rez (wär'ěz, hwä'rēs) See Ciudad Juárez.

Juá·rez (wār'ěz, hwä'rēs), Benito Pablo. 1806-1872. Mexican politician who took part in the overthrow of Santa Anna and served as president from 1858 to 1872.

Jua·zei·ro do Nor·te (zhwä-zä'rōō dōō nôr'tī) A city of northeast Brazil south of Fortaleza. It is the center of a fertile agricultural region. Population, 125,191.

ju·ba (jōō'bə) n. A group dance, probably of West African origin, characterized by complex rhythmic clapping and body movements and practiced on plantations in the southern United States during the 18th and 19th centuries. [Origin unknown.]

Ju·ba (jōō'bə, -bə) A river of southern Ethiopia and southern Somalia flowing about 1,609 km (1,000 mi) to the Indian Ocean.

Ju·bal (jōō'bəl) In the Old Testament, a descendant of Cain who is said to have invented musical instruments.

Jub·bul·pore (jüb'əl-pôr', -pōr') See Jabalpur.

ju·bi·lant (jōō'bə-lənt) adj. 1. Exultingly joyful. 2. Expressing joy. [Latin iūbilāns, iūbilant- present participle of iūbilāre, to raise a shout of joy.]

—ju'bi·lance n. —ju'bi·lant·ly adv.

ju·bi·late (jōō'bə-lāt') v. intr. ju·bi·lat·ed, ju·bi·lat·ing, ju·bi·lates. To rejoice; exult. [Latin iūbilāre, iūbilāt-, to raise a shout of joy.]

Ju·bi·la·te (yōō'bə-lä'tā, -tē, jōō'-) n. 1. a. The 100th Psalm in the King James Bible and in most modern Catholic versions or the 99th in the Vulgate. b. A musical setting of the Jubilate. 2. The third Sunday after Easter. 3. A song or an outburst of joy and triumph. [Middle English, from Latin iūbilātē, second person pl. imperative of iūbilāre, to raise a shout of joy, the first word of the psalm.] ju·bi·la·tion (jōō'bə-lā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of rejoicing. b. The condition or feeling of being jubilant. 2. A celebration or other expression of joy.

ju·bi·lee (jōō'bə-lē', jōō'bə-lē') n. 1. a. A specially celebrated anniversary, especially a 50th anniversary. b. The celebration of such an anniversary. 2. A season or an occasion of joyful celebration. 3. Jubilation; rejoicing. 4. Often Jubilee. Bible. In the Hebrew Scriptures, a year of rest to be observed by the Israelites every 50th year, during which slaves were to be set free, alienated property restored to the former owners, and the lands left untilled. 5. Often Jubilee.

Roman Catholic Church. A year during which plenary indulgence may be obtained by the performance of certain pious acts. [Middle English jubile, from Old French, from Late Latin iūbilaeus, the Jewish year of jubilee, alteration (influenced by iūbilāre, to raise a shout of joy), of Greek iōbēlaios, from iōbēlos, from Hebrew yōbēl.]

Jú·car (hōō'kär) A river, about 483 km (300 mi) long, flowing from eastern Spain to the Mediterranean Sea south of Valencia.

Ju·dae·a (jōō-dē'ə, -dā'ə) See Judea.

Ju-dah¹ (jōō'də) In the Old Testament, a son of Jacob and Leah and the forebear of one of the tribes of Israel.

Ju-dah² (jōō'də) An ancient kingdom of southern Palestine between the Mediterranean and the Dead Sea. It lasted from the division of Palestine in 931 B.C. until the destruction of Jerusalem in 586.

Ju-da-ic (jōō-dā'ik) also Ju-da-i-cal (-ĭ-kəl) adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of Jews or Judaism: Judaic traditions. [Latin Iūdaicus, from Greek Ioudaikos, from Greek Ioudaios, Jew. See JEW.] —Ju-da'i-cal-ly adv.

Ju-da-ism (jōō'dē-iz'əm) n. 1. The monotheistic religion of the Jews, tracing its origins to Abraham and having its spiritual and ethical principles embodied chiefly in the Bible and the Talmud. 2. Conformity to the traditional ceremonies and rites of the Jewish religion. 3. The cultural, religious, and social practices and beliefs of the Jews. 4. The Jews considered as a people or community. [Middle English Judaisme, from Old French Judaisme, from Late Latin Iūdāismus, from Greek Ioudaismos, from Ioudaios, Jew. See JEW.]

Ju-da-ize (jōō'dē-iz') v. Ju-da-ized, Ju-da-iz-ing, Ju-da-iz-es. — v. tr. To bring into conformity with Judaism. — v. intr. To adopt Jewish customs and beliefs. —Ju'da-i-za'tion (-ĭ-zā'shən) n. —Ju'da-i'zer n.

Ju-das (jōō'dəs) n. 1. One who betrays another under the guise of friendship. 2. judas. A one-way peephole in a door. [Middle English, from Late Latin Iūdas, Judas Iscariot, from Greek Ioudas, from Hebrew yēhūdā, Judah.]

Judas Is-car-i-ot (jōō'dəs ĭ-skär'ē-ət), Died c. A.D. 30. One of the 12 Apostles and the betrayer of Jesus.

Judas tree (jōō'dəs trē) n. See redbud. [From the belief that Judas Iscariot hanged himself on such a tree.]

jud-der (jüd'ər) v. intr. jud-dered, jud-der-ing, jud-ders. To shake rapidly or spasmodically; vibrate conspicuously: "Edith would watch her wrestling with words, her thin little body juddering with the effort to unlock them" (Anita Brookner). — n. A rapid or spasmodic shaking. [Perhaps J(ERK)¹ + (SH)UDDER.]

Jude (jōōd) n. Bible. A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

Jude (jōōd), Saint. fl. first century A.D. One of the 12 Apostles. He is invoked in prayer when a situation seems hopeless.

Ju-de-a also Ju-dae-a (jōō-dē'ə, -dā'ə) An ancient region of southern Palestine comprising present-day southern Israel and southwest Jordan. In the time of Jesus it was a kingdom ruled by the Herods and part of the Roman province of Syria. —Ju-de'an adj. & n.

Ju-de-o-Span-ish (jōō-dā'ō-spān'ish) n. See Ladino (n., sense 1). [From Latin Iūdaeus, Jewish, from Greek Ioudaios. See JUDAIC.]

Judg. abbr. Bible. Judges.

judge (jūj) v. judged, judg-ing, judg-es. — v. tr. 1. To form an opinion or estimation of after careful consideration: judge heights; judging character.

2. a. Law. To hear and decide on in a court of law; try: judge a case. b. Obsolete. To pass sentence on; condemn. c. To act as one appointed to decide the winners of: judge an essay contest. 3. To determine or declare after consideration or deliberation. 4. Informal. To have as an opinion or assumption; suppose: I judge you're right. 5. Bible. To govern; rule. Used of an ancient Israelite leader. — v. intr. 1. To form an opinion or evaluation. 2. To act or decide as a judge. — n. 1. One who judges, especially: a. One who makes estimates as to worth, quality, or fitness: a good judge of used cars; a poor judge of character. b. Abbr. J., j. Law. A public official who hears and decides cases brought before a court of law. c. Law. A bankruptcy referee. d. One appointed to decide the winners of a contest or competition. 2. Bible. a. A leader of the Israelites during a period of about 400 years between the death of Joshua and the accession of Saul. b. Judges. (used with a sing. verb). Abbr. Judg., Jg., JJ A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible. [Middle English jugen, from Anglo-Norman juger, from Latin iūdicāre, from iūdex, iūdic-, judge. See deik- in Appendix.]

SYNONYMS: judge, arbitrator, arbiter, referee, umpire. These nouns denote persons who make decisions that determine points at issue. A judge is one capable of making rational, dispassionate, and wise decisions: The members of the jury are the sole judges of what the truth is in this case. An arbitrator works to settle controversies and is either appointed or derives authority from the consent of the disputants, who choose him or her or approve the selection: The mayor appointed an experienced arbitrator to mediate between the sides and resolve the transit strike. An arbiter is one who may or may not have official status but whose opinion or judgment is recognized as being unassailable or binding: a critic who considers himself the supreme arbiter of literary taste. Less often arbiter is used interchangeably with arbitrator. A referee is an attorney appointed by a court to make a determination of a case or to investigate and report on it (a bankruptcy case handled by a referee), and an umpire is a person appointed to settle an issue that arbitrators are unable to resolve (umpires studying complex tax cases). In sports referee and umpire refer to officials who enforce the rules and settle points at issue.

judge advocate (jūj äd'və-kāt') n. pl. judge advocates. Abbr. JA, J.A.

Law. 1. A commissioned officer in the U.S. Army, Air Force, or Navy assigned to the Judge Advocate General's Corps. 2. A staff officer serving as legal adviser to a commander. 3. An officer acting as prosecutor at a court-martial.

judge advocate general (jūj äd'və-kāt' jën'ər-əl) n. pl. judge advocates general or judge advocate generals. Abbr. J.A.G., JAG The chief legal officer of a branch of the U.S. armed forces.

judge·ment (jūj'mənt) n. Variant of judgment.

judge·ship (jūj'shīp') n. Law. The office or jurisdiction of a judge.

judg·mat·ic (jŭj-măt'ĭk) also judg·mat·i·cal (-ĭ-kəl) adj. Judicious. [Perhaps JUDG(MENT) + (DOG)MATIC.] —judg·mat'·i·cal·ly adv.

judg·ment also judge·ment (jŭj'mənt) n. 1. The act or process of judging; the formation of an opinion after consideration or deliberation. 2. a. The mental ability to perceive and distinguish relationships; discernment: Fatigue may affect a pilot's judgment of distances. b. The capacity to form an opinion by distinguishing and evaluating: His judgment of fine music is impeccable. c. The capacity to assess situations or circumstances and draw sound conclusions; good sense: She showed good judgment in saving her money. See Synonyms at reason. 3. An opinion or estimate formed after consideration or deliberation, especially a formal or authoritative decision: awaited the judgment of the umpire. 4. Law. a. A determination of a court of law; a judicial decision. b. A court act creating or affirming an obligation, such as a debt. c. A writ in witness of such an act. 5. An assertion of something believed. 6. A misfortune believed to be sent by God as punishment for sin. 7. Judgment. In traditional Christian eschatology, God's determination of which human beings shall be sent to heaven and which condemned to hell. [Middle English jugement, from Old French, from jugier, to judge, from Latin iūdicāre. See JUDGE.]

judg·men·tal (jŭj-měnt'əl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or dependent on judgment: a judgmental error. 2. Inclined to make judgments, especially moral or personal ones: a marriage counselor who tries not to be judgmental. —judg·men'tal·ly adv.

Judgment Day (jŭj'mənt dā) n. 1. In traditional Christian eschatology, the day at the end of the world when God judges all human beings, sending the saved to heaven and the damned to hell. Also called Day of Judgment. 2. judgment day. A day of reckoning or final judgment.

ju·di·ca·ble (jōō'dĭ-kə-bəl) adj. 1. That can be judged: judicable issues. 2. Liable to be judged: judicable actions and complaints. [Late Latin iūdicābilis, from Latin iūdicāre, to judge. See JUDGE.]

ju·di·ca·tor (jōō'dĭ-kā'tər) n. One that acts as judge. [Late Latin iūdicātor, from Latin iūdicāre, to judge. See JUDGE.]

ju·di·ca·to·ry (jōō'dĭ-kə-tōr'ē, -tōr'ē) Law. n. pl. ju·di·ca·to·ries. A law court or system of law courts; a judiciary. — adj. Of or relating to the administration of justice. [Late Latin iūdicātōrium, from neuter of iūdicātōrius, judicial, from Latin iūdicāre, to judge. See JUDGE.]

ju·di·ca·ture (jōō'dĭ-kə-chōōr') n. Law. 1. Administration of justice. 2. The position, function, or authority of a judge. 3. The jurisdiction of a law court or judge. 4. A court or system of courts of law. [Medieval Latin iūdicātūra, from feminine future participle of Latin iūdicāre, to judge. See JUDGE.]

ju·di·cial (jōō-dĭsh'əl) adj. 1. Law. a. Of, relating to, or proper to courts of law or to the administration of justice: the judicial system. b. Decreed by or proceeding from a court of justice: a judicial decision. c. Belonging or appropriate to the office of a judge: in judicial robes. 2. Characterized by or expressing judgment: the judicial function of a literary critic. 3. Theology. Proceeding from a divine judgment. [Middle English, from Anglo-Norman, from Latin iūdicālis, from iūdicium, judgment, from iūdex, iūdic-, judge. See deik- in Appendix.] —ju·di·cial·ly adv.

judicial separation (jōō-dīsh'əl səp'ə-rā'shən) n. Law. See legal separation.

ju·di·ci·ar·y (jōō-dīsh'ē-ēr'ē, -dīsh'ə-rē) n. pl. ju·di·ci·ar·ies. Law. 1. The judicial branch of government. 2. a. A system of courts of law for the administration of justice. b. The judges of these courts. [Probably from Latin iūdicārius, of the courts, from iūdicium, judgment, from iūdex, iūdic-, judge. See JUDGE.]

ju·di·ci·ous (jōō-dīsh'əs) adj. Having or exhibiting sound judgment; prudent. [From French judicieux, from Latin iūdicium, judgment, from iūdex, iūdic-, judge. See JUDGE.] —ju·di·ci·ous·ly adv. —ju·di·ci·ous·ness n.

Ju·dith (jōō'dīth) n. Bible. 1. In the Old Testament, a Jewish heroine who rescued her people by slaying an Assyrian general. 2. Abbr. Jdt. A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

Judith River (jōō'dīth rīv'ər) A river, about 200 km (124 mi) long, flowing from central Montana northward to the Missouri River.

ju·do (jōō'dō) n. A sport and method of physical training similar to wrestling, developed in Japan in the late 19th century and using principles of balance and leverage adapted from jujitsu. [Japanese jūdō: jū, soft + dō, way.] —ju·do·ist n.

Jud·son (jūd'sən), Adoniram. 1788-1850. American Baptist missionary who helped establish the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (1810).

Jud·son (jūd'sən), Edward Zane Carroll. Pen name Ned Buntline. 1823-1886. American writer who is remembered for his dime novels and his magazine Ned Buntline's Own.

jug (jŭg) n. 1. a. A large, often rounded vessel of earthenware, glass, or metal with a small mouth, a handle, and usually a stopper or cap. b. The amount that a jug can hold. 2. A small pitcher. 3. Slang. A jail. — v. tr. jugged, jug·ging, jugs. 1. To stew (a hare, for example) in an earthenware jug or jar. 2. Slang. To put into jail. [Middle English jugge.]

ju·ga (jōō'gə) n. A plural of jugum.

ju·gate (jōō'gāt', -gīt) adj. Joined in or forming pairs or a pair. [Latin iugātus, past participle of iugāre, to join, from Latin iugum, yoke. See yeug- in Appendix.]

jug band (jŭg bānd) n. Music. A group that uses unconventional or improvised instruments, such as jugs, kazoos, and washboards.

jug-ger-naut (jüg'ər-nôt') n. 1. Something, such as a belief or an institution, that elicits blind and destructive devotion or to which people are ruthlessly sacrificed. 2. An overwhelming, advancing force that crushes or seems to crush everything in its path: “It doesn’t assume that people need necessarily remain passive when confronted by what appears to be the juggernaut of history” (Christopher Lehmann-Haupt). 3. Juggernaut. Used as a title for the Hindu deity Krishna. [Hindi jagannāth, title of Krishna, from Sanskrit jaganāthaḥ, lord of the world : jagat, moving, the world (from jigāti, he goes); see g^wā- in Appendix + nāthaḥ, lord. Senses 1 and 2, from the fact that worshipers have thrown themselves under the wheels of a huge car or wagon on which the idol of Krishna was drawn in an annual procession at Puri in east-central India.]

jug-gle (jüg'əl) v. jug-gled, jug-gling, jug-gles. — v. tr. 1. To keep (two or more objects) in the air at one time by alternately tossing and catching them.

2. To have difficulty holding; balance insecurely: juggled the ball but finally caught it; shook hands while juggling a cookie and a teacup. 3. To keep (more than two activities, for example) in motion or progress at one time: managed to juggle a full-time job and homemaking. 4. To manipulate in order to deceive: juggle figures in a ledger. — v. intr. 1. To juggle objects or perform other tricks of manual dexterity. 2. To make rapid motions or manipulations: juggled with the controls on the television to improve the picture. 3. To use trickery; practice deception. —

n. 1. The act of juggling. 2. Trickery for a dishonest end. [Middle English jogelen, to entertain by performing tricks, from Old French jogler, from Latin ioculārī, to jest, from ioculus, diminutive of iocus, joke. See yek- in Appendix.]

jug-gler (jüg'lər) n. 1. One that juggles objects or performs other tricks of manual dexterity. 2. One that uses tricks, deception, or fraud.

jug-gler-y (jüg'lə-rē) n. pl. jug-gler-ies. 1. The skill or performance of a juggler. 2. Trickery; deception.

jug-u-lar (jüg'yə-lər) adj. Anatomy. Of, relating to, or located in the region of the neck or throat. — n. 1. Anatomy. A jugular vein. 2. The most vital part: a strategic attack aimed at the enemy’s jugular. [Late Latin iugulāris (vēna), jugular (vein), from Latin iugulum, collarbone, diminutive of iugum, yoke. See yeug- in Appendix.]

jugular vein (jüg'yə-lər vān) n. Anatomy. Any of several large veins of the neck that drain blood from the head.

ju-gum (jōō'gəm) n. pl. ju-ga (-gə) or ju-gums. A yokelike structure in certain insects that joins the forewings to the hind wings, keeping them together during flight. [Latin iugum, yoke. See yeug- in Appendix.]

jug wine (jüg wīn) n. Inexpensive table wine sold in large bottles.

juice (jōōs) n. 1. a. A fluid naturally contained in plant or animal tissue: fruit juice; meat braised in its own juices. b. A bodily secretion: digestive juices. c. The liquid contained in something that is chiefly solid. 2. A substance or quality that imparts identity and vitality; essence. 3. Slang. Vigorous life; vitality. 4. Slang. Political power or influence; clout. 5. Slang. a. Electric current. b. Fuel for an engine. 6. Slang. Funds; money. 7. Slang. Alcoholic drink; liquor. 8. Slang. Racy or scandalous gossip. — v. tr. juiced, juic-ing, juic-es. To extract the juice from. — v. intr. Slang. To drink alcoholic beverages excessively. —phrasal verb. juice up. Slang. To give energy, spirit, or interest to. [Middle English jus, from Old French, from Latin iūs.] juiced (jōost) adj. Slang. Intoxicated; drunk.

juice-head (jōos'hēd') n. Slang. A heavy drinker; an alcoholic.

juicer (jōo'sər) n. 1. An appliance that is used to extract juice from fruits and vegetables. 2. Slang. One who drinks liquor or alcoholic beverages habitually or excessively.

juic-y (jōo'sē) adj. juic-i-er, juic-i-est. 1. Full of juice; succulent. 2. a. Richly interesting: a juicy mystery novel. b. Racy; titillating: a juicy bit of gossip.

3. Yielding profit; rewarding or gratifying: a juicy raise; a juicy part in a play.

—juic'i-ly adv. —juic'i-ness n.

Juiz de Fo-ra (zhwēzh' də fôr'ə) A city of southeast Brazil north of Rio de Janeiro. It is an industrial and commercial center. Population, 299,432.

ju-jit-su also ju-jut-su or jiu-jit-su or jiu-jut-su (jōo-jīt'sōo) n. An art of weaponless self-defense developed in China and Japan that uses throws, holds, and blows and derives added power from the attacker's own weight and strength. [Japanese jūjitsu : jū, soft + jitsu, arts.]

ju-ju (jōo'jōo) n. 1. An object used as a fetish, a charm, or an amulet in West Africa. 2. The supernatural power ascribed to such an object. [Hausa jūjū, fetish, evil spirit.] —ju'ju-ism n.

ju-jube (jōo'jōob') n. 1. a. Any of several Old World trees of the genus Ziziphus, especially Z. jujuba, having palmately veined leaves, spiny stipules, small yellowish flowers, and dark red fruit. b. The fleshy, edible drupe of this tree. Also called Chinese date 2. (also jōo'jōo-bē') A fruit-flavored, usually chewy candy or lozenge. [Middle English, jujube fruit, from Old French, from Medieval Latin jujuba, from Latin zizyphum, from Greek zizuphon.]

ju-jut-su (jōo-jīt'sōo) n. Variant of jujitsu.

Ju-juy (hōo-hwē') A city of northern Argentina north of San Miguel de Tecumán. It is a manufacturing and trade center. Population, 124,950.

juke¹ (jōok) Southeastern U.S. n. A roadside drinking establishment that offers inexpensive drinks, food, and music for dancing. — v. intr. juked, juk-ing, jukes. To dance, especially in a roadside drinking establishment or to the music of a jukebox. [Probably from Gullah juke, joog, disorderly, wicked, of West African origin; akin to Wolof dzug, to live wickedly Mandingo (Bambara) dzugu, wicked.]

REGIONAL NOTE: Gullah, the English-based Creole language spoken by Black people off the coast of Georgia and South Carolina, retains a number of words from the West African languages brought over by slaves. One such word is juke, “bad, wicked, disorderly,” the probable source of the English word juke. Used chiefly in the Southeastern states, juke (also appearing in the compound juke joint) means a roadside drinking establishment that offers cheap drinks, food, and music for dancing and often doubles as a brothel. “To juke” is to dance, particularly at a juke joint or to the music of a jukebox whose name, no longer regional and having lost the connotation of sleaziness, contains the same word.

juke² (jōōk) Football. v. tr. To deceive or outmaneuver (a defending opponent) by a feint; fake. — v. intr. To deceive or outmaneuver a defender by a feint. — n. A feint or fake. [Middle English jowken, to bend in a supple way.]

juke-box (jōōk'böks') n. A coin-operated phonograph, equipped with push buttons for the selection of records. See Regional note at juke¹. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: the jukebox industry; jukebox music; jukebox hits.

juke joint (jōōk joint) n. Informal. A bar, tavern, or roadhouse featuring music played on a jukebox. See Regional note at juke¹.

Jul. or Jul abbr. July.

ju-lep (jōō'līp) n. 1. A mint julep. 2. A sweet syrupy drink, especially one to which medicine can be added. [Middle English, a sugar syrup, from Old French, from Medieval Latin, from Arabic julāb, from Persian gulāb, rosewater : gul, rose (from Middle Persian vardā) + āb, water (from Middle Persian āp, from Old Persian).]

Jul·ian (jōōl'yən), A.D. 331?-363. Emperor of Rome (361-363) who attempted to restore the official dominance of paganism.

Ju·li·an·a (jōō'lē-än'ə), Born 1909. Queen of the Netherlands (1948-1980) who abdicated in favor of her daughter Beatrix.

Julian Alps (jōōl'yən älp) A range of the eastern Alps in Slovenia and north-east Italy. The heavily forested range rises to 2,864 m (9,390 ft).

Julian calendar (jōōl'yən käl'ən-dər) n. The solar calendar introduced by Julius Caesar in Rome in 46 B.C., having a year of 12 months and 365 days and a leap year of 366 days every fourth year. It was eventually replaced by the Gregorian calendar.

ju·li·enne (jōō'lē-än', zhü-lyän') n. Consommé or broth garnished with long, thin strips of vegetables. — adj. also ju·li·enned Cut into long, thin strips: julienne potatoes; julienned pork. [French, probably from the name Julienne.]

Ju-lius II (jōol'yəs), Originally Giuliano della Rovere. 1443-1513. Pope (1503-1513) who ordered the construction of Saint Peter's in Rome and commissioned Michelangelo to decorate the Sistine Chapel in the Vatican.

Jul-lun-dur (jül'ən-dər) A city of northwest India north-northwest of Delhi. It was the capital of an ancient kingdom of the same name and came under British jurisdiction in 1846. Population, 408,186.

Ju-ly (jōō-lī') n. Abbr. Jul., Jul The seventh month of the year in the Gregorian calendar. See Table at calendar. [Middle English Julie, from Old North French, from Latin Iūlius (); see deiw- in Appendix, after Julius CAESAR.]

Ju-ma-da (jōō-mä'dä) also Jo-ma-da (jə-) n. Either the fifth or the sixth month of the year in the Muslim calendar. See Table at calendar. [Arabic jumādā, from jamada, to freeze.]

jum-ble (jüm'bəl) v. jum-bled, jum-bling, jum-bles. — v. tr. 1. To mix in a confused way; throw together carelessly: jumble socks in a heap in the closet. 2. To muddle; confuse: The rapid-fire questioning jumbled the witness's thoughts. — v. intr. To be mixed in a confused way: dividers that keep the files from jumbling. — n. 1. A confused or disordered mass: a jumble of paper scraps in a drawer. 2. A disordered state; a muddle: financial accounts in a jumble. [Origin unknown.]

jum-bo (jüm'bō) n. pl. jum-bos. An unusually large person, animal, or thing. — adj. Unusually large: jumbo shrimp; a jumbo jet. [After Jumbo, a large elephant exhibited by P.T. Barnum, probably from slang, clumsy person.]

jum-buck (jüm'bük') n. Australian. A sheep. [Australian pidgin, perhaps of English origin.]

Jum-na (jüm'nə) A river of northern India rising in the Himalaya Mountains and flowing about 1,384 km (860 mi) generally southeast to the Ganges River at Allahabad.

jump (jümp) v. jumped, jump-ing, jumps. — v. intr. 1. a. To spring off the ground or other base by a muscular effort of the legs and feet. b. To move suddenly and in one motion: jumped out of bed. c. To move involuntarily, as in surprise: jumped when the phone rang. d. To parachute from an aircraft.

2. a. Informal. To move quickly; hustle: Jump when I give you an order. b. To take prompt advantage; respond quickly: jump at a bargain. 3. a. To enter eagerly into an activity; plunge: jumped into the race for the nomination. b. To begin or start. Often used with off: The project jumped off with great enthusiasm but interest flagged during the summer. 4. To form an opinion or a judgment hastily: jump to conclusions. 5. To make a sudden verbal attack; lash out: jumped at me for being late; jumped on her subordinates for their carelessness. 6. a. To undergo a sudden and pronounced increase: Prices jumped in October. b. To rise suddenly in position or rank: jumped over two others with more seniority. 7. To move discontinuously or change after a short period: jumps from one subject to another; jumped from one job to another. 8. a. To be displaced by a sudden jerk: The phonograph needle jumped. b. To be displaced vertically or laterally because of improper alignment: The film jumped during projection. 9. Computer Science. To move from one set of instructions in a program to another out of sequence. 10. Games. a. To move over an opponent's playing piece in a board game. b. To make a jump bid in bridge. 11. Slang. To be lively; bustle: a disco that really jumps. — v. tr. 1. To leap over or across: jump a fence. 2. To leap onto: jump a bus. 3. Slang. To spring upon in sudden attack; assault or ambush: Muggers jumped him in the park. 4. To move or start prematurely before: jumped the starting signal. 5. To cause to leap: jump a horse over a fence. 6. To cause to increase suddenly: Unexpected shortages jumped milk prices by several cents a quart. 7. To pass over; skip: The typewriter jumped a space. 8. To raise in rank or position; promote. 9. Games. a. To move a piece over (an opponent's piece) in a board game, often thereby capturing the opponent's piece. b. To raise (a partner's bid) in bridge by more than is necessary. 10. To jump-start (a motor vehicle). 11. To leave (a course), especially through mishap: The train jumped the rails. 12. Slang. a. To leave hastily; skip: jumped town a step ahead of the police. b. To leave (an organization, for example) suddenly or in violation of an agreement: jumped the team and signed with a rival club. 13. To seize or occupy illegally: jump a mining claim. 14. To forfeit (bail) by failing to appear in court. — n. 1. a. The act of jumping; a leap. b. The distance covered by a jump: a jump of seven feet. c. An obstacle or a span to be jumped. 2. A descent from an aircraft by parachute. 3. Sports. Any of several track-and-field events in which contestants jump. 4. Informal. An initial competitive advantage; a head start: got the jump on the other daily papers. 5. a. A sudden pronounced rise, as in price or salary. b. An impressive promotion. 6. A step or level: managed to stay a jump ahead of the others. 7. A sudden or major transition, as from one career or subject to another. 8. a. A short trip. b. One in a series of moves and stopovers, as with a circus or road show. 9. Games. A move in a board game over an opponent's piece. 10. Computer Science. A movement from one set of instructions to another. 11. a. An involuntary nervous movement; a start. b. jumps. A condition of nervousness. Often used with the. 12. A jump-start of a motor vehicle. — idiom. jump the gun. To start doing something too soon. [Middle English jumpen, to jump (sense uncertain).] jump ball (jŭmp bŏl) n. Basketball. A method of starting play or determining possession in which an official tosses the ball up between two opposing players who jump and try to tap the ball to a teammate.

jump bid (jŭmp bĭd) n. Games. A bridge bid at a higher level than that required to exceed the preceding bid.

jump cut (jŭmp kŭt) n. A cut to slightly later action in the course of a filmed scene, creating an effect of discontinuity or acceleration.

jump-er¹ (jüm'pər) n. 1. One that jumps. 2. A type of coasting sled.

3. Electricity. A short length of wire used temporarily to complete a circuit or to bypass a break in a circuit. 4. Basketball. See jump shot. 5. A saddle horse that has been trained to jump over obstacles.

jump-er² (jüm'pər) n. 1. A sleeveless dress worn over a blouse or sweater. 2. A loose, protective garment worn over other clothes. 3. Often jumpers. A child's garment consisting of straight-legged pants attached to a biblike bodice.

4. Chiefly British. A pullover sweater. [Probably from jump, short coat.]

jump-er cable (jüm'pər kā'bəl) n. See booster cable.

jump-ing bean (jüm'pĩng bēn) n. A seed, as of certain Mexican plants of the genera Sebastiania and Sapium, containing the larva of the moth Laspeyresia saltitans, whose movements cause the seed to jerk or roll.

jumping jack (jüm'pĩng jæk) n. 1. A toy figure with jointed limbs that can be made to dance by pulling an attached string. 2. Sports. A physical exercise performed by jumping to a position with the legs spread wide and the hands touching overhead and then returning to a position with the feet together and the arms at the sides.

jumping mouse (jüm'pĩng mous) n. Any of various small Eurasian and North American rodents of the family Zapodidae, having a very long tail and long hind legs.

jump-ing-off place (jüm'pĩng-ôf' plās, -ôf') n. 1. A beginning point for a journey or venture. 2. A very remote spot.

jump jet (jümp jět) n. A jet aircraft capable of vertical takeoffs and landings.

jump-mas-ter (jümp'mās'tər) n. One who supervises the jumping of parachutists from an aircraft.

jump-off (jümp'ôf', -ôf') n. 1. The commencement of a race or of a planned military attack. 2. A jumping contest at a horse show, especially a final or tie-breaking round.

jump rope (jümp rōp) n. A rope that is twirled and jumped over in children's games or in conditioning exercises.

jump seat (jümp sēt) n. 1. A small folding seat, as in an automobile between the front and rear seats. 2. A small rear seat in a sports car.

jump shooter (jümp shōō'tər) n. Basketball. A player who makes jump shots.

jump shot (jümp shōt) n. Basketball. A shot made by a player at the highest point of a jump. Also called *juniper*¹ jump-start (jümp'stärt') v. tr. jump--start-ed, jump--start-ing, jump--starts. 1. To start (the engine of a motor vehicle) by using a booster cable connected to the battery of another vehicle or by engaging the drive train while the vehicle is rolling downhill or being pushed. 2. Informal. To start or set in motion (an otherwise stalled or sluggish activity, system, or process): “struggled to jump-start his once front-running... presidential campaign” (Susan Feeney). — n.

1. The act, process, or an instance of starting a motor vehicle by using a booster cable or suddenly releasing the clutch while the vehicle is being pushed.

2. Informal. The act or an instance of starting or setting in motion a stalled or sluggish system or process.

jump suit (jŭmp sōōt) n. 1. A parachutist's uniform. 2. Also jump-suit (jŭmp'sōōt'). A one-piece garment consisting of a blouse or shirt with attached slacks or shorts.

jump-y (jŭm'pē) adj. jump-i-er, jump-i-est. 1. Characterized by fitful, jerky movements. 2. On edge; nervous. —jump'i-ness n.

jun. or Jun. abbr. Junior.

Jun. or Jun abbr. June.

junc. abbr. Junction.

jun-co (jŭng'kō) n. pl. jun-cos or jun-coes. Any of various small North American birds of the genus Junco, having predominantly gray plumage, a gray or black head, and white outer tail feathers. [Spanish, reed, from Latin iuncus.]

junction (jŭngk'shən) n. 1. The act or process of joining or the condition of being joined. 2. Abbr. jct., junc. A place where two things join or meet, especially a place where two roads or railway routes come together and one terminates. 3. A transition layer or boundary between two different materials or between physically different regions in a single material, especially: a. A connection between conductors or sections of a transmission line. b. The interface between two different semiconductor regions in a semiconductor device. c. A mechanical or alloyed contact between different metals or other materials, as in a thermocouple. [Latin iunctiō, iunctiōn-, from iunctus, past participle of iungere, to join. See yeug- in Appendix.] —junc'tion-al adj.

junction box (jŭngk'shən bōks) n. An enclosure within which electric circuits are connected.

Junc-tion City (jŭngk'shən sīt'ē) A city of northeast-central Kansas west of Topeka. It is the rail and trade center of an agricultural and dairy region. Population, 20,604.

junc-ture (jŭngk'chər) n. 1. The act of joining or the condition of being joined. 2. A place where two things are joined; a junction or joint. 3. A point in time, especially a critical point. See Synonyms at crisis. 4. The transition or mode of transition from one sound to another in speech. [Middle English, from Latin iunctūra, from iunctus, past participle of iungere, to join. See yeug- in Appendix.]

Jun-dia-í (zhōōn'dyā-ē') A city of southeast Brazil north-northwest of São Paulo. Established in the 17th century, it is an agricultural center and a railroad junction. Population, 221,888.

June (jōōn) n. Abbr. Jun., Jun The sixth month of the year in the Gregorian calendar. See Table at calendar. [Middle English, from Old English Junius, and from Old French juin both from Latin (mēnsis) Iūnius, (month) of June, from Iūnō, Juno.]

Ju-neau (jōō'nō') The capital of Alaska, in the Panhandle northeast of Sitka. It was settled by gold miners in 1880 and designated territorial capital in 1900 (effective 1906) and state capital in 1959. Population, 26,751.

June beetle (jōōn bēt'l) n. Any of various large North American scarabaeid beetles of the subfamily Melolonthinae, appearing in late spring and having larvae that are destructive to vegetation. Also called June bug, May beetle.

June-ber-ry (jōōn'bēr'ē) n. See shadbush.

June bug (jōōn būg) n. See June beetle.

Jung (yōōng), Carl Gustav. 1875-1961. Swiss psychiatrist who founded analytical psychology. Among his contributions to the understanding of the human mind are the concepts of extraversion and introversion and the notion of the collective unconscious. Jung's works include The Psychology of the Unconscious (1912) and Psychological Types (1921).

Jung-frau (yōōng'frou') A mountain, 4,160.8 m (13,642 ft) high, in the Bernese Alps of south-central Switzerland. It was first scaled in 1811.

Jung-i-an (yōōng'ē-ən) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of Jung or his theories of psychology. 2. Maintaining Jung's psychological theories, especially those that stress the contribution of racial and cultural inheritance to the psychology of an individual. —Jung'i-an n.

jun-gle (jüŋg'gəl) n. 1. Land densely overgrown with tropical vegetation. 2. A dense thicket or growth. 3. A dense, confused mass; a jumble. 4. Something made up of many confused elements; a bewildering complex or maze: sorting through the jungle of regulations. 5. A place or milieu characterized by intense, often ruthless competition or struggle for survival: the corporate jungle. 6. Slang. A place where hoboes camp. [Ultimately from Sanskrit jaṅgalam, desert, wasteland, uncultivated area, from jaṅgala-, desert, waste.] —jun'gly (-glē) adj.

WORD HISTORY: One might be surprised to learn that the word jungle is not African in origin nor does it come from a word that only meant “land densely overgrown with tropical vegetation and trees.” Jungle goes back to the Sanskrit word jaṅgalam, meaning “desert, wasteland,” and also “any kind of uncultivated area, such as heavily forested land.” The Sanskrit word jaṅgala- passed into various Indian languages and from one or more of these languages into English. In English jungle was used for land overgrown with vegetation, for the vegetation itself, and for such land outside India. The word was also extended figuratively in various ways. We have, for example, asphalt jungles, concrete jungles, blackboard jungles, academic jungles, corporate jungles, and, in a February 1972 issue of the Guardian, the government official who “lit up some lurid corners of the taxation jungle.”

jungle fever (jŭng'gəl fē'vər) n. 1. Malaria, especially a severe form occurring in the East Indies and other tropical regions. 2. Any of various diseases native to the tropics.

jungle fowl (jŭng'gəl foul) n. Any of several game birds of the genus Gallus of southeast Asia, especially G. gallus, considered to be the ancestor of the common domestic fowl.

jungle gym (jŭng'gəl jĭm) n. A structure of poles and bars for children to climb and play on. [Originally a trademark.]

Ju-ni-at-a (jōō'nē-ăt'ə) A river, about 241 km (150 mi) long, of south-central Pennsylvania flowing eastward to the Susquehanna River.

jun-ior (jōōn'yər) adj. 1. Abbr. jr., Jr., Jun., jun., jnr. Used to distinguish a son from his father when they have the same given name. 2. Intended for or including youthful persons: junior fashions; a junior sports league. 3. Lower in rank or shorter in length of tenure: a junior officer; the junior senator from Texas. 4. Of, for, or constituting students in the third year of a U.S. high school or college: the junior class; the junior prom. 5. Lesser in scale than the usual. — n. Abbr. jr., Jr., Jun., jun., jnr. 1. A person who is younger than another: a sister four years my junior. 2. A person lesser in rank or time of participation or service; subordinate. 3. A student in the third year of a U.S. high school or college. 4. A class of clothing sizes for girls and slender women. In this sense, also called junior miss [Middle English, from Latin, comparative of iuvenis, young. See yeu- in Appendix.]

junior college (jōōn'yər kōl'ij) n. An educational institution offering a two-year course that is generally the equivalent of the first two years of a four-year undergraduate course.

junior high school (jōōn'yər hī skōōl) n. A school in the U.S. system generally including the seventh, eighth, and sometimes ninth grades.

junior middleweight (jōōn'yər mīd'l-wāt') n. Sports. 1. A professional boxer weighing between 147 and 154 pounds (67-71 kilograms), heavier than a welterweight and lighter than a middleweight. 2. A contestant in various other sports in a similar weight class.

junior miss (jōōn'yər mīs) n. 1. A teenage girl. 2. See junior (n., sense 4).

junior varsity (jōōn'yər vār'sĭ-tē) n. Abbr. JV Sports. A high-school or college team that competes in interschool sports on the level below varsity.

ju-ni-per (jōō'nə-pər) n. Any of various evergreen trees or shrubs of the genus Juniperus, having needlelike or scalelike, often pointed leaves and aromatic, bluish-gray, berrylike, seed-bearing cones. [Middle English, from Latin iūniperus.]

juniper oil (jōō'nə-pər oil) n. An essential oil obtained from the seed-bearing cones of the common juniper, most commonly used for flavoring gin and liqueurs.

juniper tar (jōō'nə-pər tär) n. A tarry substance obtained from the wood of the European juniper Juniperus oxcedrus and used topically to treat various skin ailments. Also called cade oil junk¹ (jüŋk) n. 1. Discarded material, such as glass, rags, paper, or metal, that may be reused in some form. 2. Informal. a. Articles that are worn-out or fit to be discarded: broken furniture and other junk in the attic. b. Cheap or shoddy material. c. Something meaningless, fatuous, or unbelievable: nothing but junk in the annual report. 3. Slang. Heroin. 4. Hard salt beef for consumption on board a ship. — v. tr. junked, junk-ing, junks. To throw away or discard as useless; scrap. — adj. 1. Cheap, shoddy, or worthless: junk jewelry. 2. Having a superficial appeal or utility, but lacking substance: “the junk issues that have dominated this year’s election” (New Republic). [Middle English jonk, an old cable or rope.]

WORD HISTORY: The word junk is an example of the change in meaning known as generalization, and very aptly too, since the amount of junk in the world seems to be generalizing and proliferating rapidly. The Middle English word jonk, ancestor of junk, originally had a very specific meaning restricted to nautical terminology. First recorded in 1353, the word meant “an old cable or rope.” On a sailing ship it made little sense to throw away useful material since considerable time might pass before one could get new supplies. Old cable was used in a variety of ways, for example, to make fenders, that is, material hung over the side of the ship to protect it from scraping other ships or wharves. Junk came to refer to this old cable as well. The big leap in meaning taken by the word seems to have occurred when junk was applied to discarded but useful material in general. This extension may also have taken place in a nautical context, for the earliest, more generalized use of junk is found in the compound junk shop, referring to a store where old materials from ships were sold. Junk has gone on to mean useless waste as well.

junk² (jüŋk) n. Nautical. A Chinese flatbottomed ship with a high poop and battened sails. [Portuguese junco, or Dutch jonk both from Javanese djong.]

junk art (jüŋk ärt) n. Three-dimensional art made from junked materials, such as metal, glass, or wood.

junk bond (jüŋk bönd) n. A corporate bond having a high yield and high risk.

junker (jüŋg'kär) n. Slang. A car or truck that is old and in poor repair.

Jun-ker (yöōng'kär) n. A member of the Prussian landed aristocracy, a class formerly associated with political reaction and militarism. [German, from Middle High German junchërre, page, squire, from Old High German junchërro : junc, young; see yeu- in Appendix + hërro, lord; see HERR.] — Jun'ker-dom n.

Jun·kers (yōōng'kərz, -kərs), Hugo. 1859-1935. German aircraft engineer who designed the first successful all-metal airplane (1915) and helped establish early mail and passenger airlines.

jun·ket (jüŋg'kĭt) n. 1. A sweet food made from flavored milk and rennet. 2. A party, a banquet, or an outing. 3. A trip or tour, especially: a. One taken by an official at public expense. b. One taken by a person who is the guest of a business or an agency seeking favor or patronage. — v. jun·ket·ed, jun·ket·ing, jun·kets. — v. intr. 1. To hold a party or banquet. 2. To go on a junket. — v. tr. To fete at a party or banquet. [Middle English jonket, rush basket, a kind of food served on rushes, feast, perhaps from Old North French jonquette, rush basket (probably from jonc, rush), or from Medieval Latin iuncāta, rush basket both from Latin iuncus, rush.] — jun'ket·er n.

jun·ke·teer (jüŋg'kĭ-tēr') n. One who goes on a junket or junkets. — v. intr. jun·ke·teered, jun·ke·teer·ing, jun·ke·teers. To go on a junket, especially at the expense of a government or a favor-seeking business or agency.

junk food (jüŋgk fōōd) n. Any of various prepackaged snack foods high in calories but low in nutritional value.

junk·ie also junk·y (jüŋg'kē) n. pl. junk·ies. Slang. 1. A narcotics addict, especially one using heroin. 2. One who has an insatiable interest or devotion: a sports junkie.

junk mail (jüŋgk māl) n. Third-class mail, such as advertisements, mailed indiscriminately in large quantities.

junk·y¹ (jüŋg'kē) adj. junk·i·er, junk·i·est. 1. Of or related to junk; worthy of being discarded. 2. Meaningless, fatuous, or unbelievable: a junky novel.

junk·y² (jüŋg'kē) n. Variant of junkie.

junk·yard (jüŋgk'yärd') n. A yard or lot that is used to store junk, such as scrap metal or resalable car parts.

Ju·no (jōō'nō) n. Roman Mythology. The principal goddess of the Pantheon, the wife and sister of Jupiter and the patroness primarily of marriage and the well-being of women.

Ju·no·esque (jōō'nō-ēsk') adj. Having the stately bearing and imposing beauty of the goddess Juno.

jun·ta (hōōn'tə, jün'-) n. 1. A group of military officers ruling a country after seizing power. 2. A council or small legislative body in a government, especially in Central or South America. 3. A junto. [Spanish, and Portuguese, conference probably from Latin iuncta, feminine past participle of iungere, to join. See yeug- in Appendix.]

jun·to (jün'tō) n. pl. jun·tos. A small, usually secret group united for a common interest. [Alteration of JUNTA.]

Ju·pi·ter (jōō'pĭ-tər) n. 1. Roman Mythology. The supreme god, patron of the Roman state and brother and husband of Juno. Also called Jove 2. Astronomy.

The fifth planet from the sun, the largest and most massive in the solar system, having a sidereal period of revolution about the sun of 11.86 years at a mean distance of 777 million kilometers (483 million miles), a mean diameter of approximately 138,000 kilometers (86,000 miles), and a mass approximately 318 times that of Earth. [Latin Iūpiter. See deiw- in Appendix.]

ju·ral (jōōr'əl) adj. 1. Of or relating to law. 2. Of or relating to rights and obligations. [From Latin iūs, iūr-, law. See yewes- in Appendix.] —ju'ral·ly adv.

Ju·ra Mountains (jōōr'ə moun'tənz, zhü-rä') A range extending about 241 km (150 mi) along the French-Swiss border and rising to 1,723.9 m (5,652 ft). The area is a popular year-round resort region.

Ju·ras·sic (jōō-räs'ik) adj. Of, belonging to, or designating the time and deposits of the second period of the Mesozoic Era, characterized by the existence of dinosaurs and the appearance of the earliest mammals and birds. — n. The Jurassic Period. [French jurassique, after the Jura (Mountains).]

ju·rat (jōōr'ät') n. Law. A certification on an affidavit declaring when, where, and before whom it was sworn. [Middle English, informant under oath, member of a ruling body of a city, from Anglo-Norman, member of a ruling body of a city, from Medieval Latin iūrātus, juror, from past participle of Latin iūrāre, to swear. See JURY¹.]

ju·rid·i·cal (jōō-rid'i-kəl) also ju·rid·ic (-ik) adj. Law. Of or relating to the law and its administration. [From Latin iūridicus : iūs, iūr-, law; see yewes- in Appendix + dīcere, dic-, to say; see deik- in Appendix.] —ju·rid'i·cal·ly adv.

ju·ris·con·sult (jōōr'is-kōn'sült') n. Law. A person learned in law; a jurist. [Latin iūriscōnsultus : iūris, genitive of iūs, law; see yewes- in Appendix + cōnsultus, skilled, past participle of cōnsulere, to take counsel.]

ju·ris·dic·tion (jōōr'is-dik'shən) n. 1. Law. The right and power to interpret and apply the law: courts having jurisdiction in this district. 2. a. Authority or control: islands under U.S. jurisdiction; a bureau with jurisdiction over Native American affairs. b. The extent of authority or control: a family matter beyond the school's jurisdiction. 3. The territorial range of authority or control. [Middle English jurisdictioun, from Old French juridicion, from Latin iūrisdictiō, iūrisdictiōn- : iūris, genitive of iūs, law; see yewes- in Appendix + dictiō, dictiōn-, declaration (from dictus, past participle of dīcere, to say); see deik- in Appendix.] —ju'ris·dic'tion·al adj. —ju'ris·dic'tion·al·ly adv.

ju·ris·pru·dence (jōōr'is-prōōd'ns) n. Law. 1. The philosophy or science of law: “His jurisprudence—his vision of what the rule of law requires—is superficial and inadequate” (John Bayley). 2. A division or department of law. [Late Latin iūrisprudentia : Latin iūris, genitive of iūs, law; see yewes- in Appendix + Latin prudentia, knowledge (from prūdēns, prūdent-, knowing); see PRUDENT.]

—ju'ris·pru·den'tial (-prōō-dēn'shəl) adj. —ju'ris·pru·den'tial·ly adv.

ju-ris-pru-dent (jōor'is-prōod'nt) Law. adj. Versed in jurisprudence. — n.
See jurist.

ju-rist (jōor'ist) n. Law. One who has thorough knowledge and experience of law, especially an eminent judge, lawyer, or legal scholar. Also called jurisprudent [Middle English, from Old French juriste, from Medieval Latin iurista, from Latin iūs, iūr-, law. See yewes- in Appendix.]

ju-ris-tic (jōo-ris'tik) also ju-ris-ti-cal (-tī-kəl) adj. Law. 1. Of or relating to a jurist or to jurisprudence. 2. Of or relating to law or legality. —ju-ris'ti-cal-ly adv.

ju-ror (jōor'ər, -ôr') n. 1. Law. a. One who serves as a member of a jury. b. One who awaits or is called for service on a jury. 2. One who serves on a deliberative body analogous to a jury. [Middle English jurour, from Anglo-Norman, from Latin iūrātor, swearer, from iūrāre, to swear. See JURY¹.]

Ju-ru-á (zhōo'rōō-ä') A river of eastern Peru and northwest Brazil flowing about 1,931 km (1,200 mi) northeast to the Amazon River.

ju-ry¹ (jōor'ē) n. pl. ju-ries. 1. Law. A body of persons sworn to judge and give a verdict on a given matter, especially a body of persons summoned by law and sworn to hear and hand down a verdict upon a case presented in court. 2. A committee, usually of experts, that judges contestants or applicants, as in a competition or an exhibition; a panel of judges. — v. tr. ju-ried, ju-ry-ing, ju-ries. To judge or evaluate by a jury: jurying submitted samples for a crafts fair. [Middle English jure, from Anglo-Norman juree, from feminine past participle of jurere, to swear, from Latin iūrāre, from iūs, iūr-, law. See yewes- in Appendix.]

ju-ry² (jōor'ē) adj. Nautical. Intended or designed for temporary use; makeshift: a jury sail. [Ultimately from Old French ajuri, help, from Latin adiūtāre, to help. See AID.]

ju-ry-rig (jōor'ē-rīg') v. tr. ju-ry-rigged, ju-ry-rig-ging, ju-ry-rigs. To rig or assemble for temporary emergency use; improvise: The survivors of the shipwreck jury-rigged some fishing gear.

jus gen-ti-um (yōos gĕn'tē-əm, jŭs jĕn'shĕ-əm) n. Law. The law of nations; international law. [Latin iūs gentium: iūs, law + gentium, genitive pl. of gĕns, nation.]

Jusse-rand (zhŭs-rän'), Jean Jules. 1855-1932. French scholar and diplomat who served as minister to Washington, D.C. (1902-1925).

jus-sive (jŭs'iv) n. Grammar. A word, mood, or form used to express command. [From Latin iussus, past participle of iubĕre, to command.] —jus'sive adj.

just¹ (jŭst) adj. 1. Honorable and fair in one's dealings and actions: a just ruler. See Synonyms at fair¹. 2. Consistent with what is morally right; righteous: a just cause. 3. Properly due or merited: just deserts. 4. Law. Valid within the law; lawful: just claims. 5. Suitable or proper in nature; fitting: a just touch of solemnity. 6. Based on fact or sound reason; well-founded: a just appraisal. — adv. (jəst, jĭst; jŭst when stressed) 1. Precisely; exactly: just enough salt. 2. Only a moment ago: He just arrived. 3. By a narrow margin; barely: just missed being hit; just caught the bus before it pulled away. 4. At a little distance: just down the road. 5. Merely; only: just a scratch. 6. Simply; certainly: It's just beautiful!

7. Perhaps; possibly: I just may go. —idioms. just about. Almost; very nearly: This job is just about done. just now. Only a moment ago. just the same. Nevertheless. [Middle English juste, from Old French, from Latin iustus. See yewes- in Appendix.] —just/ly adv. —just/ness n.

just² (jŭst) n. & v. Variant of joust.

just-folks (jŭst'fōks') adj. Unpretentious and friendly: "the essence of this small-town state is a friendly, trusting, just-folks way of dealing with one another" (T.R. Reid).

jus-tice (jŭs'tis) n. 1. The quality of being just; fairness. 2. a. The principle of moral rightness; equity. b. Conformity to moral rightness in action or attitude; righteousness. 3. a. The upholding of what is just, especially fair treatment and due reward in accordance with honor, standards, or law. b. Law. The administration and procedure of law. 4. Conformity to truth, fact, or sound reason: The overcharged customer was angry, and with justice. 5. Abbr. J., j. Law. a. A judge. b. A justice of the peace. —idiom. do justice to. To treat adequately, fairly, or with full appreciation: The subject is so complex that I cannot do justice to it in a brief survey. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin iustitia, from iustus, just. See JUST¹.]

justice of the peace (jŭs'tis ūv thē pēs) n. pl. justices of the peace. Abbr. J.P., JP Law. A magistrate of the lowest level of certain state court systems, having authority to act upon minor offenses, commit cases to a higher court for trial, perform marriages, and administer oaths.

jus-ti-ci-a-ble (jŭ-stīsh'ə-bəl) adj. Law. 1. Appropriate for or subject to court trial: a justiciable charge. 2. That can be settled by law or a court of law: justiciable disputes. [Middle English, from Old French, from Medieval Latin iustitiābilis, from Medieval Latin iustitiāre, to try, from Latin iustitia, justice. See JUSTICE.] —jus-ti'cia-bil'i-ty n.

jus-ti-ci-ar-y (jŭ-stīsh'ē-ēr'ē) also jus-ti-ci-ar (-ē-ər) n. pl. jus-ti-ci-ar-ies also jus-ti-ci-ars. Law. A high judicial officer in medieval England. [Medieval Latin iustitiāria, from feminine of iustitiārius, of the administration of justice, from Latin iustitia, justice. See JUSTICE.]

jus-ti-fi-a-ble (jŭs'tə-fi'ə-bəl, jŭs'tə-fi'-) adj. Having sufficient grounds for justification; possible to justify: justifiable resentment. —jus'ti-fi'a-bil'i-ty, jus'ti-fi'a-ble-ness n. —jus'ti-fi'a-bly adv.

jus-ti-fi-ca-tion (jŭs'tə-fi-kā'shən) n. 1. a. The act of justifying. b. The condition or fact of being justified. 2. Something, such as a fact or circumstance, that justifies: considered misgovernment to be a justification for revolution. See Synonyms at apology.

jus-ti-fi-ca-tive (jüs'tə-fī-kā'tiv) also jus-tif-i-ca-to-ry (jü-stif'ī-kə-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) adj. Serving as justification.

jus-ti-fy (jüs'tə-fī') v. jus-ti-fied, jus-ti-fy-ing, jus-ti-fies. — v. tr. 1. To demonstrate or prove to be just, right, or valid: justified each budgetary expense as necessary; anger that is justified by the circumstances. 2. To declare free of blame; absolve. 3. Theology. To free (a human being) of the guilt and penalty attached to grievous sin. Used only of God. 4. Law. a. To demonstrate sufficient legal reason for (an action taken). b. To prove to be qualified as a bondsman. 5. Printing. To adjust the spacing within (lines in a document, for example), so that the lines end evenly at a straight margin. — v. intr. Printing. To be adjusted in spacing so as to end evenly at the margin. [Middle English justifien, from Old French justifier, from Late Latin iūstificāre, from Latin, to act justly toward : iūstus, just; see JUST¹ + -ficāre, -fy.]

SYNONYMS: justify, warrant. The central meaning shared by these verbs is “to be a proper or sufficient reason for”: an angry outburst justified by extreme provocation; drastic measures not warranted by the circumstances.

Jus-tin (jüs'tin), Saint. A.D. 100?-165. Greek theologian who founded a school of Christian philosophy at Rome and wrote the Apology and the Dialogue.

Jus-tin-i-an I (jü-stin'ē-ən), Known as “Justinian the Great.” A.D. 483-565. Byzantine emperor (527-565) who held the eastern frontier of his empire against the Persians and reconquered former Roman territories in Africa, Italy, and Spain.

jut (jüt) v. jut-ted, jut-ting, juts. — v. intr. To extend outward or upward beyond the limits of the main body; project: “He had a sharp crooked nose jutting out of a lean dancer’s face” (Graham Greene). — v. tr. To cause to jut. See Synonyms at bulge. — n. Something that protrudes; a projection. [Middle English jutten, from gete, iutei, jetty, projecting upper story, from Old French jetee. See JETTY¹.]

jute (jōot) n. 1. Either of two Asian plants (Corchorus capsularis or C. olitorius) yielding a fiber used for sacking and cordage. 2. The fiber obtained from these plants. [Bengali jhuto, from Sanskrit jūṭah, twisted hair, probably of Dravidian origin.]

Jute (jōot) n. A member of a Germanic people who invaded Britain in the fifth and sixth centuries A.D. and settled in the south and southeast and on the Isle of Wight. [From Middle English Jutes, the Jutes, from Medieval Latin Iutae.]

Jut-land (jüt'lænd) A peninsula of northern Europe comprising mainland Denmark and northern Germany. The name is usually applied only to the Danish section of the peninsula. The largest naval battle of World War I was fought by British and German fleets off the western coast of Jutland on May 31-June 1, 1916.

juv. abbr. Juvenile.

Ju·ve·nal (jōō'və-nəl), A.D. 60?-140?. Roman satirist whose works denounced the corruption and extravagance of the privileged classes in Rome.

ju·ve·nes·cent (jōō'və-nēs'ənt) adj. Becoming young or youthful. [Latin iuvenescēns, iuvenescēt- present participle of iuvenescere, to reach the age of youth, from iuvenis, young. See JUVENILE.] —ju've-nes'cence n.

ju·ve·nile (jōō'və-nīl', -nəl) adj. Abbr. juv. 1. Not fully grown or developed; young. 2. Of, relating to, characteristic of, intended for, or appropriate for children or young people: juvenile fashions. 3. Marked by immaturity; childish: juvenile behavior. See Synonyms at young. — n. Abbr. juv. 1. a. A young person; a child. b. A young animal that has not reached sexual maturity. 2. An actor who plays roles of children or young persons. 3. A children's book. [Latin iuvenīlis, from iuvenis, young. See yeu- in Appendix.] —ju've-nile'ly adv. —ju've-nile'ness n.

juvenile court (jōō'və-nīl' kōrt) n. Law. A court with jurisdiction over all cases involving children under a specified age, usually 18 years.

juvenile delinquency (jōō'və-nīl' dī-līng'kwən-sē) n. Antisocial or criminal behavior by children or adolescents.

juvenile delinquent (jōō'və-nīl' dī-līng'kwənt) n. Abbr. JD, J.D. A juvenile guilty of antisocial or criminal behavior.

juvenile diabetes (jōō'və-nīl' dī'ə-bē'tīs) n. Insulin-dependent diabetes mellitus.

juvenile hormone (jōō'və-nīl' hōr'mōn') n. A hormone in arthropod larvae that inhibits ecdysone, thereby preventing molting and the development of larvae into adults until its level drops.

ju·ve·nil·i·a (jōō'və-nīl'ē-ə, -nīl'yə) pl.n. Works, particularly written or artistic works, produced in an author's or artist's youth. [Latin iuvenīlia, neuter pl. of iuvenīlis, juvenile. See JUVENILE.]

ju·ve·nil·i·ty (jōō'və-nīl'ī-tē) n. pl. ju·ve·nil·i·ties. 1. The quality or condition of being juvenile; youthfulness. 2. a. Foolishly juvenile behavior or character; immaturity. b. An instance of juvenile behavior.

jux·ta·pose (jŭk'stə-pōz') v. tr. jux·ta·posed, jux·ta·pos·ing, jux·ta·pos·es. To place side by side, especially for comparison or contrast.

[French juxtaposer: Latin iuxtā, close by; see yeug- in Appendix + French poser, to place (from Old French); see POSE¹.]

jux·ta·po·si·tion (jŭk'stə-pə-zīsh'ən) n. The act or an instance of juxtaposing or the state of being juxtaposed. —jux'ta·po·si'tion·al adj.

JV abbr. Sports. Junior varsity.

jwlr. abbr. Jeweler.

Jy·väs·ky·lä (yōō'və-skōō'lə, yü'väs-kü'lä) A city of south-central Finland north-northeast of Helsinki. Chartered in 1837, it has a papermaking industry. Population, 64,834.

- k¹ or K (kā) n. pl. k's or K's. 1. The 11th letter of the modern English alphabet. 2. Any of the speech sounds represented by the letter k. 3. The 11th in a series. 4. Something shaped like the letter K.
- k² abbr. Karat.
- K¹ n. pl. K's. Slang. One thousand dollars. [K(ILO)-.]
- K² The symbol for the element potassium. [From kali, potassium, from Arabic qily, alkali, from qalā, to bake.]
- K³ abbr. 1. Kaon. 2. Kelvin (temperature scale). 3. Computer Science. Kilobyte. 4. Kindergarten. 5. Or k.. Games. King (chess). 6. Bible. Kings. 7. Or k.. Knight.
- K2 (kā'tōō') Also, Mount. God·win Aus·ten (gōd'wīn ô'stən). A peak in the Karakoram Range of northern India. At 8,616.3 m (28,250 ft), it is the second-highest mountain in the world. It was designated K2 in 1856 because it was the second Karakoram peak to be measured for height and was later (1888) named for Henry Haversham Godwin-Austen (1834-1923), a British soldier and surveyor.
- k. or K. abbr. 1. Kopeck. 2. Krona. 3. Krone.
- ka abbr. Cathode.
- Kaa·ba (kā'bə) n. A Muslim shrine in Mecca toward which the faithful turn to pray. [Arabic ka'bah, square building, from ka'b, cube.]
- Ka·a·hu·ma·nu (kā'ä-hōō-mä'nōō), Died 1832. Queen of the Hawaiian Islands as the wife of Kamehameha I and regent (1824-1832) during the minority of Kamehameha III (1813-1854). She adopted Christianity and initiated social reforms.
- kab (kăb) n. Variant of cab².
- kab·a·la or kab·ba·la (kăb'ə-lə, kə-bä'lə) n. Variants of cabala.
- ka·bob (kə-bōb') n. Variant of kebab.
- ka·bu·ki also Ka·bu·ki (kə-bōō'kē) n. A type of popular Japanese drama, evolved from the older No theater, in which elaborately costumed performers, nowadays men only, use stylized movements, dances, and songs in order to enact tragedies and comedies. [Japanese, art of singing and dancing : kabu, singing and dancing + ki, art, artist.]
- Ka·bul (kā'bōōl, kə-bōōl') The capital and largest city of Afghanistan, in the eastern part of the country near the border with Pakistan on the Kabul River, about 483 km (300 mi) long. Strategically located and more than 3,000 years old, the city became the capital of Afghanistan in the 1700's. Population, 913,164.
- Ka·byle (kə-bīl') n. pl. Kabyle or Ka·byles. 1. A member of a Berber people of northeast Algeria. 2. The Berber language of this people. [Arabic qabā'il, pl. of qabīlah, tribe.]
- ka·chi·na (kə-chē'nə) n. 1. Any of numerous deified ancestral spirits of the Pueblo peoples, believed to reside in the pueblo for part of each year. 2. A masked dancer believed to embody a particular spirit during a religious ceremony. 3. A carved doll in the costume of a particular spirit, usually presented as a gift to a child. [Hopi katsina, supernatural being, masked impersonator of a supernatural being.]

Ká·dar (kă'där), János. 1912-1989. Hungarian politician and first secretary-general of the Hungarian Communist Party (1956-1988). A member of the invading Soviet forces in the 1956 revolution, he twice served as prime minister (1956-1958 and 1961-1965).

Kad·da·fi (kə-dä'fē), Muammar al-. See Muammar al- Qaddafi.

Kad·dish (kă'dīsh) n. Judaism. A prayer that is recited in the daily synagogue services and by mourners after the death of a close relative. [Aramaic qaddīš.]

Ka·du·na (kə-dōō'nə) A city of northwest-central Nigeria northeast of Lagos. Founded by the British in 1913, the city has cotton mills. Population, 202,000.

Kael (kāl), Pauline. Born 1919. American movie critic. She began writing for the New Yorker in 1968.

Kae·song (kă'sông') A city of southern North Korea near the South Korean border. It is intersected by the 38th parallel and changed hands several times during the Korean War. Population, 240,000.

kaf·fee·klatsch (köff'ē-kläch', -kläch', kô'fē-) n. Variant of coffee klatch.

kaf·fir also kaf·ir (kăf'ər) n. A tropical African variety of sorghum (Sorghum bicolor) grown in dry regions and in the Great Plains for grain and forage. Also called kaffir corn Kaf·fir also Kaf·ir (kăf'ər) n. pl. Kaffir or Kaf·firs also Kafir or Kaf·irs.

1. Offensive. A Xhosa. 2. Offensive. Used especially in southern Africa as a disparaging term for a Black person. 3. Often Kafir. See Nuristani. 4. Also kaf·fir. Islam. An infidel. [Arabic kāfir, infidel, present participle of kafara, to deny, be skeptical.]

kaffir corn (kăf'ər kôrn) n. See kaffir.

kaf·fi·yeh (kă-fē'ə) n. A cloth headdress fastened by a band around the crown and usually worn by Arab men. [Arabic kaffiyah.]

kaf·ir (kăf'ər) n. Variant of kaffir.

Kaf·ir (kăf'ər) n. Variant of Kaffir. [Arabic kāfir, infidel.]

Kaf·i·ri (kăf'ə-rē, kə-fīr'ē) n. The Dardic language of the Nuristani.

Kaf·ka (kăf'kə, -kä), Franz. 1883-1924. Austrian writer whose stories, such as "The Metamorphosis" (1916), and novels, including The Trial (1925) and The Castle (1926), concern troubled individuals in a nightmarishly impersonal world.

Kaf·ka·esque (kăf'kə-ěsk') adj. 1. Of, relating to, or characteristic of Franz Kafka or his writings. 2. Characterized by surreal distortion and usually by a sense of impending danger: "Kafkaesque fantasies of the impassive interrogation, the false trial, the confiscated passport... haunt his innocence" (New Yorker).

kaf·tan (kăf'tän', -tən, kăf-tän') n. Variant of caftan.

Ka-fu-e (kə-fōō'ā) A river rising along the Zambia-Zaire border and meandering about 965 km (600 mi) through central Zambia to the Zambezi River.

Ka-go-shi-ma (kā'gô-shē'mə) A city of southern Kyushu, Japan, on Kagoshima Bay, an inlet of the East China Sea. Satsuma porcelain ware is produced in the city, which is also a major port. Population, 530,496.

Kah-lo (kā'lō), Frida. 1907-1954. Mexican artist known for her surrealist self-portraits depicting physical and psychic pain.

Kahn (kän), Louis Isadore. 1901-1974. Estonian-born American architect whose bold, monumental designs include the Yale University Art Gallery (1954).

Ka-ho-o-la-we (kā-hō'ō-lā'wē, -wā, -vā) An island of south-central Hawaii southwest of Maui. The low and unfertile island has been used as a prison and a military target range.

kai-ak (kī'āk') n. & v. Variant of kayak.

Kai-e-teur Falls (kī'ī-tōōr' fôlz) A waterfall, 250.7 m (822 ft) high, in the Potaro River of central Guyana.

Kai-feng (kī'füng') A city of east-central China south-southwest of Beijing. Founded in the third century B.C., it is a commercial, agricultural, and industrial center. Population, 450,000.

Kai-las (kī-läs') A peak, 6,718.2 m (22,027 ft) high, in the Himalaya Mountains of southwest China. It is the highest elevation of the Kailas Range and according to Hindu legend was the dwelling place of the god Shiva.

Kai-lu-a (kī-lōō'ə) A city of Hawaii, a suburb of Honolulu on the southeast coast of Oahu on Kailua Bay, an inlet of the Pacific Ocean. Population, 36,818.

Kail-yard School (kāl'yärd' skōōl) n. A group of Scottish writers, including J.M. Barrie, who made considerable use of Scots dialect in their sentimental and romantic works about Scottish life. [Scots kailyard, kitchen garden : kail, kale (from Middle English kal); see KALE + YARD².]

kai-nite (kī'nīt', kā'-) n. A white, gray, pink, or black mineral, MgSO₄·KCl·3H₂O, used as a fertilizer and a source of potassium compounds. [Greek kainos, new; see ken- in Appendix + -ITE¹.]

Kai-ser (kī'zər) n. 1. Any of the emperors of the Holy Roman Empire (962-1806), of Austria (1806-1918), or of Germany (1871-1918). 2. Used as the title for such a man. [German, from Middle High German keiser, from Old High German keisar, from Latin Caesar. See CAESAR.]

Kai-ser (kī'zər), Henry John. 1882-1967. American industrialist who oversaw the construction of major highways, bridges, and dams, including the Grand Coulee Dam (1942). His shipyards produced more than 1,400 vessels during World War II.

Kai-ser-in (kī'zər-ïn) n. 1. The wife of a Kaiser. 2. Used as the title for such a woman. [German, feminine of Kaiser, Kaiser. See KAISER.]

Kai-sers-lau-tern (kī'zərs-lou'tərn) A city of southwest Germany southwest of Frankfurt. First mentioned in 882, it was chartered in 1276. Population, 98,212.

ka-ka (kā'kə) n. A brownish-green New Zealand parrot (Nestor meridionalis). [Maori kākā.]

ka-ka-po (kā'kə-pō') n. pl. ka-ka-pos. A ground-dwelling New Zealand parrot (Strigops habroptilus) with greenish plumage. [Maori kākāpō : kākā, parrot; see KAKA + pō, night, period after death, early epoch.]

ka-ke-mo-no (kā'kə-mō'nō) n. pl. ka-ke-mo-nos. A vertical Japanese scroll painting. [Japanese : kake, hanging + mono, object.]

ka-ki (kā'kē) n. pl. ka-kis. 1. A Chinese tree (Diospyros kaki) having large, edible, orange to reddish fruit with orange flesh and an enlarged, persistent calyx. 2. The fruit of this tree. Also called Japanese persimmon [Japanese.]

Ka-ki-na-da (kā'kə-nā'də) A city of southeast India on the Bay of Bengal north-northeast of Madras. It is primarily an agricultural marketplace. Population, 226,409.

kak-is-toc-ra-cy (kāk'ī-stōk'rə-sē, kā'kī-) n. pl. kak-is-toc-ra-cies. Government by the least qualified or most unprincipled citizens. [Greek kakistos, worst, superlative of kakos, bad; see CACO- + -CRACY.]

Ka-ko-ga-wa (kā'kō-gä'wə) A city of southern Honshu, Japan, west of Kobe. It is an industrial center. Population, 227,312.

ka-la-a-zar (kā'lə-ə-zär') n. A chronic, often fatal disease occurring chiefly in Asia, caused by a protozoan parasite (Leishmania donovani) and characterized by irregular fever, enlargement of the spleen and liver, and emaciation. [Urdu kālā āzār : kālā, black (from Sanskrit kāla-, of Dravidian origin) + āzār, disease (from Persian, from Middle Persian, pain, torment).]

Ka-la-ha-ri Desert (kā'lə-här'ē dēz'ərt) An arid plateau region of southern Botswana, eastern Namibia, and western South Africa. It is studded with dry lake beds.

Ka-lakh (kā'lākH) See Calah.

Kal-a-ma-zoo (käl'ə-mə-zōo') A city of southwest Michigan south of Grand Rapids. First settled in 1829, it is a manufacturing center. Population, 80,277.

Kalb (kälb, kälp), Johann. Known as "Baron de Kalb." 1721-1780. German general in the American Revolution who wintered with George Washington at Valley Forge (1777-1778) and was mortally wounded at the Battle of Camden (1780).

kale (kāl) n. 1. An edible plant (Brassica oleracea var. acephala) in the mustard family, having spreading, crinkled leaves that do not form a compact head. Also called borecole, cole, colewort, collard. 2. Slang. Money. [Middle English col, kal. See COLE.]

ka-lei-do-scope (kə-lī'də-skōp') n. 1. A tube-shaped optical instrument that is rotated to produce a succession of symmetrical designs by means of mirrors reflecting the constantly changing patterns made by bits of colored glass at one end of the tube. 2. A constantly changing set of colors. 3. A series of changing phases or events: a kaleidoscope of illusions. [Greek kalos, beautiful + eidōs, form; see weid- in Appendix + -SCOPE.] —ka·lei'do·scop'ic (-sköp'ĭk), ka·lei'do·scop'i·cal adj. —ka·lei'do·scop'i·cal·ly adv.

kal·ends (käl'ændz, käl'lændz) n. Variant of calends.

Kal·gan (käl'gän') See Zhangjiakou.

Kal·goor·lie (käl-göör'lē) A town of southwest Australia east-northeast of Perth. Gold was discovered in the area in the late 1800's. Population, 10,100.

Ka·li·man·tan (käl'ə-män'tän', käl'lē-män'tän) The Indonesian part of the island of Borneo.

ka·lim·ba (kə-lĭm'bə) n. Music. An African instrument in the shape of a wooden box set with metal bars that are plucked with the fingers. [Bantu; akin to Bemba aka-limba (zanza): aka-, diminutive pref. + limba, xylophone, hand piano.]

Ka·li·nin (kə-lē'nĭn, kəl-yē'-) A city of west-central Russia on the Volga River northwest of Moscow. Settled around a fort established in the 12th century, it was a powerful principality in the 13th and 14th centuries and is today an industrial center and a major port. Population, 438,000.

Ka·li·nin (kə-lē'nĭn, kəl-yē'-), Mikhail Ivanovich. 1875-1946. Russian politician who participated in the revolution of 1917 and was head of state as chairman of the All-Union Central Executive Committee (1919-1938) and the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (1938-1946).

Ka·li·nin·grad (kə-lē'nĭn-gräd', -gräd', -lyĭ-nĭn-grät') Formerly Kö·nigs·berg (käl'nĭgz-bûrg', kœ'nĭkhs-bĕrk'). A city of extreme western Russia on the Baltic Sea near the Polish border. It was founded in 1255 by the Teutonic Knights and joined the Hanseatic League in 1340. As Königsberg it was an important Prussian city and the birthplace of Immanuel Kant (1724). Transferred to the U.S.S.R. in 1945, the city was renamed Kaliningrad in 1946. Population, 385,000.

Ka·lisz (käl'lĭsh) A city of central Poland west of Łódź. An ancient settlement dating possibly to the second century A.D., it passed to Prussia in 1793, Russia in 1815, and Poland in 1919. Population, 103,500.

Kal·li·thé·a (käl'ĭ-thā'ə, käl'lē-thā'ä) A city of east-central Greece, an industrial suburb of Athens. Population, 117,319.

Kal·mar (käl'mär', käl'-) A city of southeast Sweden on Kalmar Sound, an arm of the Baltic Sea between the Swedish mainland and Öland. An important trade center since the eighth century, the city was the site of the Union of Kalmar (1397), which joined Sweden, Denmark, and Norway into a single monarchy that lasted until 1523. Population, 30,300.

Kal-myk¹ (käl'mīk, käl-mīk') also Kal-muck or Kal-muk (käl'mūk, käl-mūk') n. pl. Kalmyk or Kal-myks also Kalmuck or Kal-mucks or Kalmuk or Kal-muks. 1. A member of a Buddhist Mongol people now located primarily in Kalmyk. 2. The Mongolian language of this people. [Russian Kalmyk, from Kazan Tatar.]

Kal-myk² (käl'mīk, käl-mīk') A region of southwest Russia on the Caspian Sea. Settled in the early 17th century by Kalmyk people from central China, it came under Russian control after 1646.

kal-pac (käl'pāk', käl-pāk') n. Variant of calpac.

kal-so-mine (käl'sə-mīn') n. & v. Variant of calcimine.

Ka-lu-ga (kə-lōō'gə) A city of west-central Russia southwest of Moscow. Dating to the 14th century, it is an industrial center and a river port. Population, 297,000.

Ka-ma¹ (kə'mə) n. Hinduism. The god of love. [Sanskrit kāmah, love, desire, Kama. See kā- in Appendix.]

Ka-ma² (kə'mə) A river of west-central Russia rising in the central Ural Mountains and flowing about 2,031 km (1,262 mi) to the Volga River. It is the chief tributary of the Volga.

Ka-ma-ku-ra (kə'mə-kōōr'ə) A city of southeast Honshu, Japan, on an arm of the Pacific Ocean south of Yokohama. Probably founded in the seventh century, it is a resort, residential suburb, and religious center. Population, 175,490.

ka-ma-la (kə'mə-lə, kām'ə-) n. 1. An Asian tree (Mallotus philippinensis) that bears a hairy, capsular fruit. 2. A vermifugal powder obtained from the capsules of this tree. [Sanskrit kamalam, lotus, pale red, probably of Dravidian origin.]

Ka-mar-ha-ti (kə'mär-hä'tē) A city of northeast India, an industrial suburb of Calcutta on the Hooghly River. Population, 234,951.

Ka-ma-su-tra (kə'mə-sōō'trə) n. A Sanskrit treatise setting forth rules for sensuous and sensual pleasure, love, and marriage in accordance with Hindu law. [Sanskrit kāmasūtram : kāmah, love; see kā- in Appendix + sūtram, manual, string; see syū- in Appendix.]

Kam-chat-ka (kām-chät'kə, -chät'-, kəm-chyät'-) A peninsula of eastern Russia between the Sea of Okhotsk and the Bering Sea. It was first explored in the 18th century.

kame (kām) n. A short ridge or mound of sand and gravel deposited during the melting of glacial ice. [Dialectal, a low ridge, from Middle English camb, comb, comb, from Old English. See gembh- in Appendix.]

Ka-me-ha-me-ha I (kə-mā'ə-mā'ə), Known as "Kamehameha the Great." 1758?-1819. King of the Hawaiian Islands (1795-1819) who conquered and united all the islands under his rule.

Ka-me-nev (kə'mə-nēf, -mī-nyīf), Lev Borisovich. 1883-1936. Russian Communist leader who ruled with Stalin and Zinoviev after the death of Lenin (1924) but was expelled as a Trotskyite (1927) and was later imprisoned (1934) and executed.

Ka·mer·lingh On·nes (kă'mər-līng ô'nəs), Heike. 1853-1926. Dutch physicist. He won a 1913 Nobel Prize for work leading to the production of liquid helium.

Ka·met (kŭm'ăt') A mountain, 7,761.3 m (25,447 ft) high, in the northwest Himalaya Mountains on the India-China border. It was first scaled in 1931.

ka·mi·ka·ze (kă'mī-kă'zē) n. 1. A Japanese pilot trained in World War II to make a suicidal crash attack, especially upon a ship. 2. An airplane loaded with explosives to be piloted in a suicide attack. 3. Slang. An extremely reckless person who seems to court death. — adj. 1. Of or relating to a suicidal air attack: a kamikaze mission. 2. Slang. So reckless in behavior or actions as to be suicidal: kamikaze hot rodders. [Japanese : kami, divine + kaze, wind (from legendary name of a typhoon that in 1281 saved Japan by destroying the Mongol navy).]

Kam·loops (kăm'lōōps') A city of southern British Columbia, Canada, northeast of Vancouver. It was founded in the early 1800's as a trading post and flourished after the discovery of gold in 1860. Population, 64,048.

Kam·pa·la (kăm-pă'lə) The capital and largest city of Uganda, in the southern part of the country on Lake Victoria. It grew around a fort established in 1890. Population, 458,503.

Kam·pu·che·a (kăm'pōō-chē'ə) See Cambodia.

ka·na (kă'nə) n. pl. kana or ka·nas. 1. Japanese syllabic writing. The characters are simplified kanji and are usually used with kanji primarily to write inflections, particles, and function words and to show the pronunciations of some kanji and of all foreign words. 2. Any of the characters used in this system. [Japanese, pseudo-characters, kana : ka, false (from Chinese jiǎ) + na, name (from Chinese míng).]

Ka·na·ka also ka·na·ka (kə-nă'kə, -năk'ə) n. 1. A Hawaiian of Polynesian descent. 2. A South Sea Islander, especially one brought to Australia as a laborer in the 19th and early 20th centuries. Often used disparagingly. [Hawaiian, human being, Kanaka.]

USAGE NOTE: Kanaka, which simply means “human being” in Hawaiian, is mostly found today in historical contexts and is not usually appropriate in ordinary discourse. As with many terms that refer to ethnic identity, Kanaka can suggest ethnic pride in some contexts while in others it may be taken as derogatory.

kan·a·my·cin (kăn'ə-mī'sīn) n. A water-soluble broad-spectrum antibiotic, C₁₈H₃₆O₁₁N₄, obtained from the soil bacterium Streptomyces kanamyceticus. [New Latin kanamyc(ēticus), specific epithet of a species of actinomycete (kana, of unknown meaning + mycēticus, fungus from -mycētēs); see -MYCETE + -IN.]

Ka·nan·ga (kə-näng'gə) A city of south-central Zaire east-southeast of Kinshasa. Founded in 1884, it is the trade center of an agricultural region. Population, 290,898.

Kan·a·rese (kän'ə-rēz', -rēs') n. pl. Kanarese. 1. A member of a Kannada-speaking people of southwest India. 2. See Kannada. [After Kanara, a historical region of southwest India.] —Kan'ar·ese' adj.

Ka·na·ta (kə-nä'tä) A city of eastern Ontario, Canada, a suburb of Ottawa on the Ottawa River. Population, 19,728.

Ka·na·za·wa (kä'nä-zä'wə) A city of western Honshu, Japan, on the Sea of Japan north of Nagoya. It was ruled by powerful daimios during the feudal period (16th-19th century). Population, 430,480.

Kan·chen·jun·ga (kүн'chən-jүng'gə, -jөөng'-, kän'-) A mountain, 8,603.4 m (28,208 ft) high, in the Himalaya Mountains on the India-Nepal border. It is the third-highest mountain in the world.

Kan·da·har also Qan·da·har (kүн'də-här', kän'-) A city of southeast Afghanistan near the Pakistan border southwest of Kabul. Perhaps founded by Alexander the Great in the fourth century B.C., the city has long been important for its strategic location on the trade routes of central Asia. Population, 178,409.

Kan·din·sky or Kan·din·ski (kän-dīn'skē, kən-dyīn'-), Wassily. 1866-1944. Russian abstract painter who considered form and color capable of expression. A founder of Blau Reiter, a German group of abstract expressionists, he also taught at the Bauhaus School (1922-1933).

Kan·dy (kän'dē) A city of central Sri Lanka east-northeast of Colombo. The last capital of the ancient kings of Ceylon, it is a resort and religious center. Population, 97,872.

Ka·ne·o·he (kä'nē-ō'hē, -nā-ō'hā) A city of Hawaii in eastern Oahu on Kaneohe Bay, an inlet of the Pacific Ocean. The city is a residential community. Population, 35,448.

kan·ga·roo (käng'gə-rōō') n. pl. kangaroo or kan·ga·roos. Any of various herbivorous marsupials of the family Macropodidae of Australia and adjacent islands, having short forelimbs, large hind limbs adapted for leaping, and a long, tapered tail. [Guugu Yimidhurr (Aboriginal language of northeast Australia) gaṇurru.]

kangaroo court (käng'gə-rōō' kôrt) n. 1. A mock court set up in violation of established legal procedure. 2. A court characterized by dishonesty or incompetence.

kangaroo rat (käng'gə-rōō' rät) n. Any of various long-tailed rodents of the genus Dipodomys of arid areas of western North America, with long hind legs adapted for jumping.

kangaroo vine (kǎng'gə-rōō'vīn) n. A climbing or trailing woody vine (Cissus antarctica) native to Australia, often grown as a houseplant for its glossy green foliage.

Kan·i·a·pis·kau (kǎn'ē-ə-pīs'kō, -kou) See Caniapiscou.

kan·ji (kǎn'jē) n. pl. kanji or kan·jis. 1. A Japanese system of writing based on borrowed or modified Chinese characters. 2. A character used in this system of writing. [Japanese : Chinese (Mandarin) hàn, Chinese + Chinese zì, characters.]

Kan·ka·kee (kǎng'kə-kē') A city of northeast Illinois on the Kankakee River south-southwest of Chicago. It is an industrial and shipping center. Population, 27,575.

Kankakee River (kǎng'kə-kē' rīv'ər) A river rising in northern Indiana and flowing 362 km (225 mi) southwest to join the Des Plaines River and form the Illinois River in northeast Illinois.

Kan·kan (kǎn-kǎn') A city of eastern Guinea on a tributary of the Niger River. It is the commercial center of a farming area. Population, 229,000.

Kan·na·da (kǎ'nə-də) n. The principal Dravidian language of Mysore, a region of southern India. Also called Kanarese Kan·nap·o·lis (kə-năp'ə-līs) An unincorporated community of south-central North Carolina north-northeast of Charlotte. It was founded c. 1905 as a planned company town by a manufacturer of household linens. Population, 29,696.

Ka·no (kǎ'nō) A city of north-central Nigeria northeast of Lagos. A powerful Hausa city-state, particularly in the 17th and 18th centuries, it was taken by the British in 1903. It is now the chief industrial city of northern Nigeria. Population, 475,000.

Kan·pur (kǎn'pūr) also Cawn·pore (kôn'pôr', -pôr') A city of northern India on the Ganges River southeast of Delhi. During the Indian Mutiny, a disgruntled pension-seeker slaughtered the entire British garrison, including women and children (July 1857). Population, 1,481,879.

Kan River (kǎn rīv'ər) See Gan Jiang.

Kans. abbr. Kansas.

Kan·sa (kǎn'zə, -sə) n. pl. Kansa or Kan·sas. 1. a. A Native American people formerly inhabiting eastern and central Kansas, with a present-day population in eastern Oklahoma. b. A member of this people. 2. The Siouan language of the Kansa. Also called Kaw Kan·san (kǎn'zən) adj. 1. Of or relating to Kansas or its residents. 2. Geology. Of or relating to the second glacial stage of the Pleistocene in North America.

— n. A native or resident of Kansas.

Kan·sas¹ (kǎn'zəz, -səz) n. A plural of Kansa.

Kan·sas² (kǎn'zəs) Abbr. KS, Kans. A state of the central United States. It was admitted as the 34th state in 1861. Organized as a territory by the Kansas-Nebraska Act of 1854, which provided it would be classified as a free or slave state on the basis of popular sovereignty, it became a virtual battleground, known as Bleeding Kansas, for free and slave factions (1854-1859). Kansas was finally admitted as a free state. Topeka is the capital and Wichita the largest city. Population, 2,485,600.

Kansas City (kǎn'zəz sīt'ē) 1. A city of northeast Kansas on the Missouri River adjacent to Kansas City, Missouri. It is an industrial center. Population, 149,767. 2. A city of western Missouri on the Missouri River west-northwest of St. Louis. Established as a fur-trading post in the 1820's, it is a commercial, industrial, and cultural center. Population, 435,146.

Kansas River (kǎn'zəz rīv'ər) Locally known as Kaw River (kô). A river formed by the confluence of the Republican and Smoky Hill rivers and flowing about 272 km (169 mi) eastward to the Missouri River at Kansas City.

Kan-su (kǎn'sōō', gǎn'-) See Gansu.

Kant (kǎnt, kǎnt), Immanuel. 1724-1804. German idealist philosopher who argued that reason is the means by which the phenomena of experience are translated into understanding. His classic works include Critique of Pure Reason (1781) and Critique of Practical Reason (1788), in which he put forward his system of ethics based on the categorical imperative. —Kant'i-an adj. & n.

Kan-tor (kǎn'tər), MacKinlay. 1904-1977. American writer of historical novels, including Andersonville (1955) and Valley Forge (1975).

Kan-to-ro-vich (kǎn'tə-rô'vich, kǎn-tô'rə-vyich), Leonid Vitalyevich. Born 1912. Russian economist. He shared a 1975 Nobel Prize for developing the theory of optimum allocation of resources.

Ka-nu-ri (kə-nōōr'ē) n. pl. Kanuri or Ka-nu-ris. 1. A member of a Muslim people in the Bornu region west of Lake Chad in northeast Nigeria. 2. The Nilo-Saharan language of this people.

kan-zu (kǎn'zōō) n. A long, usually white garment worn by men in Africa. [Swahili.]

Kao-hsiung (kou'shyōōng', gou'-) A city of southwest Taiwan on Formosa Strait. It was developed as a manufacturing center by the Japanese and is now the country's leading port. Population, 1,248,175.

ka-o-lin also ka-o-line (kā'ə-lĭn) n. A fine clay used in ceramics and refractories and as a filler or coating for paper and textiles. [French, from Chinese (Mandarin) gāo líng, an area of Jiangxi province.]

ka-o-lin-ite (kā'ə-lĭ-nīt') n. A mineral, $\text{Al}_2\text{Si}_2\text{O}_5(\text{OH})_4$, that is the principal constituent of kaolin. —ka'o-lin-it'ic (-lĭ-nīt'ik) adj.

ka-on (kā'ōn') n. Abbr. K An unstable meson produced either in an electrically charged form with a mass 966 times that of an electron or in a neutral form with a mass 974 times that of an electron as a result of a high-energy particle collision. Also called K-meson [ka, pronunciation of the letter k + -ON¹.]

Ka·pell·meis·ter (kə-pĕl'mī'stər, kă-) n. Music. The leader of a choir or an orchestra. [German : Kapell, choir (from Medieval Latin capella); see CHAPEL + Meister, master; see MEISTERSINGER.]

kaph (käf, kôf) n. The 11th letter of the Hebrew alphabet. [Hebrew kap, from kap, hand.]

Ka·pi·tsa (kä'pyĩ-tsə), Pyotr Leonidovich. 1894-1984. Russian physicist. He shared a 1978 Nobel Prize for his inventions and discoveries concerning low-temperature physics.

Kap·lan (kăp'lən), Mordecai Menahem. 1881-1983. American rabbi and educator who founded Reconstructionist Judaism.

ka·pok (kā'pök') n. A silky fiber obtained from the fruit of the silk-cotton tree and used for insulation and as padding in pillows, mattresses, and life preservers. [Malay.]

Ka·po·si's sarcoma (kə-pō'sēz sär-kō'mə, kăp'ə-) n. A cancer characterized by numerous bluish-red nodules on the skin, usually on the lower extremities, that is endemic to equatorial Africa and often occurs in a particularly virulent form in people with AIDS. [After Moritz Kaposi (1837-1902), Austrian dermatologist.]

kap·pa (kăp'ə) n. The tenth letter of the Greek alphabet. [Greek, of Phoenician origin; akin to Hebrew kap.]

Ka·pu·as (kä'pōō-äs') A river, about 1,142 km (710 mi) long, of western Kalimantan, Borneo, flowing westward to the South China Sea.

ka·put also ka·putt (kä-pōöt', -pōöt', kə-) adj. Informal. 1. Having been destroyed; wrecked. 2. Having been incapacitated. [German kaputt, from French capot, not having won a single trick at piquet.]

WORD HISTORY: The games people play can become deadly serious, as exemplified by the word kaput. Our word is an adoption of the German word kaputt, whose senses are similar to those of the English word. German in turn borrowed this word from the French gaming tables, where capot as an adjective meant “not having won a single trick at piquet.” Devastating as this might be to a piquet player, it would surprise kibitzers to see how widely the word’s range of meaning has been extended in German and English, in which it is first recorded in 1895. For example, one’s car can be kaput and so can oneself. As for the ultimate source of French capot we cannot be certain, but it seems to go back to a modern Provençal word, of which the first element is cap, “head.”

kar·a·bi·ner (kăr'ə-bē'nər) n. Variant of carabiner.

Ka·ra·chi (kə-rä'chē) A city of southern Pakistan on the Arabian Sea. Developed as a trading center in the early 18th century, it passed to the British in 1843 and was the capital of newly independent Pakistan from 1947 until 1959. Population, 4,776,000.

Ka·ra·gan·da (kär'ə-gən-dä', kə-rə-) A city of central Kazakhstan north-northeast of Tashkent. Founded in 1857 as a copper-mining settlement, it is now the center of a coal industry. Population, 617,000.

Ka·raj (kə-rāj') A city of northern Iran northwest of Tehran. It is an agricultural trade center with a chemicals industry. Population, 526,272.

Ka·ra·jan (kär'ə-yän'), Herbert von. 1908-1989. Austrian conductor. In 1955 he became conductor for life of the Berlin Philharmonic.

Ka·ra·ko·ram Range also Ka·ra·ko·rum Range (kär'ə-kôr'əm rānj, -kôr'-, kär'-) A mountain system of northern Pakistan and India and southwest China. An extension of the Hindu Kush, it rises to 8,616.3 m (28,250 ft) at K2, the second-highest mountain in the world.

Ka·ra·ko·rum (kär'ə-kôr'əm, -kôr'-, kär'-) A ruined ancient Mongol city in central Mongolia. Inhabited by Turkic tribes from the first century A.D., it became Genghis Khan's capital c. 1220 but was abandoned by Kublai Khan in 1267.

Karakorum Range (kär'ə-kôr'əm rānj) See Karakoram Range.

kar·a·kul also car·a·cul (kär'ə-kəl) n. 1. Any of a breed of Central Asian sheep having a wide tail and wool that is curled and glossy in the young but wiry and coarse in the adult. 2. Fur made from the pelt of a karakul lamb. Also called broadtail [After Kara Kul, a lake of eastern Tadzhikistan.]

Ka·ra Kum (kär'ə kōōm') A desert region of Turkmenistan between the Caspian Sea and the Amu Darya. A canal provides water for irrigated agriculture in the southern section.

Ka·ra·man·lis (kä'rə-män'līs, -rä-män'lēs), Konstantinos. Born 1907.

Greek politician who served as prime minister (1955-1963 and 1974-1980) and president (1980-1985).

kar·a·o·ke (kär'ē-ō'kē) n. 1. An audio-visual system that plays an accompaniment to a song performed by following the words on a video screen. 2. The performance of such music. [Japanese : kara, void, empty + okesutora, orchestra (from English ORCHESTRA).]

Kara Sea (kär'ə sē) A section of the Arctic Ocean between Novaya Zemlya and the Siberian mainland. Icebound much of the year, it is connected with the Barents Sea by Kara Strait.

kar·at also car·at (kär'ət) n. Abbr. k, kt. A unit of measure for the fineness of gold, equal to 24 part. Pure gold is 24 karat; gold that is 50 percent pure is 12 karat. [Variant of CARAT.]

ka·ra·te (kə-rä'tē) n. A Japanese art of self-defense in which sharp blows and kicks are administered to pressure-sensitive points on the body of an opponent. [Japanese : kara, empty + te, hand.] —ka·ra'te·ist n.

Kar·ba·la (kär'bə-lə) also Ker·be·la (kûr'-) A city of central Iraq south-southwest of Baghdad. It is a pilgrimage site for Shiite Muslims. Population, 184,574.

Ka·re·li·a (kə-rē'lē-ə, -rēl'yə, -ryě'lē-yə) A region of northeast Europe mainly in northwest Russia between the Gulf of Finland and the White Sea. First mentioned in the ninth century, the area later came under Swedish domination and was annexed by Russia in 1721.

Ka·re·li·an (kə-rē'lē-ən, -rēl'yən) adj. Of or relating to Karelia or its people, language, or culture. — n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Karelia. 2. The Finnic language spoken in Karelia.

Karelian Isthmus (kə-rē'lē-ən ɪs'məs) A land bridge of northwest Russia between Lake Ladoga and the Gulf of Finland.

Ka·ren (kə-rēn') n. pl. Karen or Ka·rens. 1. A member of a Thai people inhabiting southern and eastern Burma. 2. Any of the Tibeto-Burman languages of this people.

Kar·kheh (kər-kā', -KHā') A river, about 563 km (350 mi) long, of western Iran and southeast Iraq flowing southwest to marshlands bordering the Tigris River.

Karle (kärl), Jerome. Born 1948. American chemist. He shared a 1985 Nobel Prize for developing methods to determine the molecular structure of crystals.

Karl·feldt (kär'l'fēlt'), Erik Axel. 1864-1931. Swedish poet whose works, written in an archaic style, are based on Swedish custom and folklore. He refused the Nobel Prize for literature in 1918 but won it posthumously in 1931.

Karl·Marx·Stadt (kärl-märk'shtät') Formerly and officially (since April 1990) Chem·nitz (kēm'nīts). A city of east-central Germany southeast of Leipzig. Chartered in 1143, it prospered as a textile center after the late 17th century. The name was changed in 1953. Population, 318,917.

Kar·loff (kär'lôf', -lôf'), Boris. 1887-1969. British-born American actor noted for his portrayals of monsters and other evil characters in a number of horror films, including Frankenstein (1931) and The Mummy (1932).

Kar·lo·vy Va·ry (kär'lə-vē văr'ē) also Carls·bad or Karls·bad (kärlz'bäd', kärls'bät') A city of northwest Czech Republic west of Prague. Chartered in the 14th century, it has medicinal sulfur springs and has long been popular as a spa. Population, 58,541.

Karls·ru·he also Carls·ru·he (kärlz'rōō'ə, kärls'-) A city of southwest Germany on the Rhine River west-northwest of Stuttgart. Founded in 1715, it was badly damaged in World War II. The rebuilt city is an industrial, judicial, and cultural center. Population, 269,638.

Karl·stad (kär'l'städ') A city of southwest Sweden on Lake Vänern west of Stockholm. Chartered in 1584, it was destroyed by fire in 1865. The treaty ending the union of Norway and Sweden was signed here in 1905. Population, 74,324.

kar·ma (kär'mə) n. 1. Hinduism & Buddhism. The total effect of a person's actions and conduct during the successive phases of the person's existence, regarded as determining the person's destiny. 2. Fate; destiny. 3. Informal. A distinctive aura, atmosphere, or feeling: There's bad karma around the house today. [Sanskrit, deed, karma. See k^wer- in Appendix.] —kar'mic (-mĭk) adj.

Kár·mán (kär'män), Theodor von. 1881-1963. Hungarian-born American physicist and aeronautical engineer known for his application of basic sciences and mathematics to aeronautics.

Kar·nak (kär'näk') A village of east-central Egypt on the right bank of the Nile River on part of the site of ancient Thebes. Its pharaonic remains include the Great Temple of Amen and a massive structure begun by Amenhotep III.

Kar·ok (kə-rök') n. pl. Karok or Kar·oks. 1. a. A Native American people inhabiting northwest California, closely related in culture to the Yurok. b. A member of this people. 2. The Hokan language of the Karok.

ka·roo also kar·roo (kə-rōō') n. pl. ka·roos. An arid plateau of southern Africa. [Afrikaans, from Khoikhoïn (Nama) !garo-b, desert.]

Ka·roo (kə-rōō') See Karoo.

Kár·pa·thos (kär'pə-thōs', -pə-thōs') An island of southeast Greece in the Dodecanese Islands of the Aegean Sea between Crete and Rhodes. It was controlled at various times by Venice, Turkey, and Italy before passing to Greece in 1947.

Kar·rer (kär'ər), Paul. 1889-1971. Russian-born Swiss chemist. He shared a 1937 Nobel Prize for his research on carotenoids and flavins.

kar·roo (kə-rōō') n. Variant of karoo.

Kar·roo also Ka·roo (kə-rōō') A semiarid plateau region of southwest South Africa. It is divided into the North Karroo, along the Orange River; the Great, or Central, Karroo; and the Little Karroo, near the coast.

Kars (kärs) A city of northeast Turkey near the Armenian border. Capital of an Armenian principality in the 9th and 10th centuries, it was destroyed by Tamerlane c. 1386, rebuilt by Ottoman Turks in the 16th century, and ceded to Russia in 1878. It was returned to Turkey in 1921. Population, 58,799.

Kar·sa·vi·na (kär-sä'və-nə), Tamara. 1885-1978. Russian ballerina noted for her partnership (1909-1913) with Vaslav Nijinsky. She was a founder of London's Royal Academy of Dancing (1920).

Karsh (kärsh), Yousuf. Born 1908. Canadian photographer known for his dramatic, superbly composed portraits, such as that of Winston Churchill (1941).

karst (kärst) n. An area of irregular limestone in which erosion has produced fissures, sinkholes, underground streams, and caverns. [German, after the Karst, a limestone plateau near Trieste.] —karst'ic adj.

kart (kärt) n. Sports. A miniature car used in racing. [Probably from GoKart, a trademark.]

kart·ing (kär'tĭng) n. Sports. The racing of miniature cars.

Ka·run (kə-rōōn', kə-) A river of western Iran flowing about 724 km (450 mi) west and south into the Shatt al Arab on the Iraq border.

Kar·vi·ná (kär'vē-nä') A city of northeast Czech Republic east of Ostrava. It was held by Poland from 1938 to 1945. Population, 76,428.

karyo- or caryo- pref. 1. Cell nucleus: karyogamy. 2. Nut; kernel: caryopsis. [New Latin, from Greek karuo-, nut, from karuon. See kar- in Appendix.]

kar·y·og·a·my (kär'ē-ōg'ə-mē) n. pl. kar·y·og·a·mies. The coming together and fusing of cell nuclei, as in fertilization.

kar·y·o·ki·ne·sis (kär'ē-ō-kə-nē'sis) n. See mitosis (n., sense 1).

kar·y·o·lymph (kär'ē-ə-limf') n. The colorless, liquid component of the cell nucleus.

kar·y·o·plasm (kär'ē-ə-plāz'əm) n. See nucleoplasm.

kar·y·o·some (kär'ē-ə-sōm') n. An irregular aggregation of chromatin in the nucleus of a cell not undergoing mitosis. Also called net knot kar·y·o·type (kär'ē-ə-tīp') n. 1. The characterization of the chromosomal complement of an individual or a species, including number, form, and size of the chromosomes. 2. A photomicrograph of chromosomes arranged according to a standard classification. — v. tr. kar·y·o·typed, kar·y·o·typ·ing, kar·y·o·types. To classify and array (the chromosome complement of an organism or a species) according to the arrangement, number, size, shape, or other characteristics of the chromosomes. — kar·y·o·typ'ic (-tīp'ik), kar·y·o·typ'i·cal adj.

Ka·sai (kə-sīl') A river of northeast Angola and western Zaire flowing about 1,931 km (1,200 mi) into the Congo River on the Zaire-Congo border.

Kas·bah (kăz'bä', kăz'-) n. Variant of Casbah.

ka·sha (kă'shə) n. Buckwheat groats. [Russian, from Old Russian.]

ka·sher (kă'shər) adj. & v. Variant of kosher.

Ka·shi·wa (kă'shē-wä') A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, an industrial suburb of Tokyo. Population, 273,130.

Kash·mir also Cash·mere (kăsh'mîr', kăsh-mîr') A historical region of northwest India and northeast Pakistan. Conquered by Muslims in the 14th century, it was part of the Mogul empire after 1587 and became an independent kingdom in 1751. The British pacified the region in 1846 and installed a Hindu dynasty, which was overthrown by a Muslim revolt in 1947. Continued fighting in the area led to United Nations intervention (1949 and 1965) and the current partition of the region between India and Pakistan.

Kashmir goat (kăsh'mîr' gōt) n. Variant of Cashmere goat.

Kash·mir·i (kăsh-mîr'ē, kăzh-) n. pl. Kashmiri or Kash·mir·is. 1. A native or inhabitant of Kashmir. 2. A Dardic language of Jammu and Kashmir.

kash·rut also kash·ruth (kăsh'rəth, -rəs, kăsh-rōōt') n. 1. The state of being kosher. 2. The body of Jewish dietary law. [Hebrew kašrût, from kašër, fitting.]

Kas·kas·ki·a (kəs-käs'kē-ə) n. pl. Kaskask·ia or Kas·kas·ki·as. 1. A Native American people forming part of the Illinois confederacy. 2. A member of this people.

Kaskaskia River (kəs-käs'kē-ə rīv'ər) A river, about 483 km (300 mi) long, rising in east-central Illinois and flowing southwestward to the Mississippi River.

Kas·sel also Cas·sel (käs'əl, kä'səl) A city of central Germany south-southwest of Hanover. Chartered in 1198, it was a munitions center in World War II and was frequently bombed by the Allies. Population, 184,997.

Kast·ler (käst'lər), Alfred. 1902-1984. French physicist. He won a 1966 Nobel Prize for research on the interior energy of atoms.

Ka·su·gai (kä-sōō'gī) A city of central Honshu, Japan, an industrial suburb of Nagoya. Population, 256,991.

kat·a·bat·ic (kät'ə-bät'ik) adj. Of or relating to a cold flow of air traveling downward: a katabatic wind. [Greek katabatikos, pertaining to descent, from katabatos, descending : kata-, cata- + batos, going; see g^wā- in Appendix.]

Ka·tah·din (kə-täd'n), Mount. A mountain, 1,606.7 m (5,268 ft) high, of north-central Maine. It is the highest elevation in the state and the northern terminus of the Appalachian Trail.

ka·ta·ka·na (kä'tä-kä'nä) n. A relatively angular kana used for writing foreign words or official documents, such as telegrams. [Japanese : kata, one + kana, kana; see KANA.]

Ka·tan·ga (kə-täng'gə, -täng'-) See Shaba. —Kat'an·gese' (kät'äng-gēz', -gēs', -äng-) adj. & n.

Ka·tha·rev·u·sa (kä'thä-rēv'ōō-sä') n. The puristic, archaizing form of Modern Greek, which contains morphological and lexical features borrowed from Koine. [Modern Greek kathareuoussa, from Greek, feminine present participle of kathareuein, to be pure, from katharos, pure.]

Ka·thi·a·war (kä'tē-ə-wär') A peninsula of western India projecting into the Arabian Sea between the Gulfs of Kutch and Cambay.

Kath·man·du (kät'män-dōō', kät'män-) See Katmandu.

Kat·mai (kät'mī'), Mount. An active volcano, about 2,048 m (6,715 ft) high, in the Aleutian Range of southern Alaska at the eastern end of the Alaska Peninsula. It is located in a national monument that includes the Valley of the Ten Thousand Smokes.

Kat·man·du also Kath·man·du (kät'män-dōō', kät'män-) The capital and largest city of Nepal, in the central part of the country in the eastern Himalaya Mountains. It was founded c. 723 and was a Gurkha capital from 1768 until the late 18th century. Population, 235,160.

Ka·to·wi·ce (kä'tə-vēt'sə, -tō-vē'tsě) A city of southern Poland west-northwest of Cracow. Chartered in 1865, it is an important mining and industrial center. Population, 363,300.

Kat-te-gat (kät'ī-gät') A strait of the North Sea between southwest Sweden and eastern Jutland, Denmark. It connects with the North Sea through the Skagerrak.

ka-ty-did (kā'tē-dīd') n. Any of various green insects of the family Tettigoniidae related to the grasshoppers and the crickets, the male of which produces a shrill sound by rubbing together specialized organs on the forewings. [Imitative of its sound.]

Katz (käts), Sir Bernard. Born 1911. German-born British physiologist. He shared a 1970 Nobel Prize for the study of nerve impulse transmission.

katz-en-jam-mer (kät'sən-jäm'er) n. 1. A loud, discordant noise. 2. A hangover. 3. A state of depression or bewilderment. [German, hangover : Katzen, pl. of Katze, cat (from Middle High German katze, from Old High German kazza; akin to Old English catt); see CAT + Jammer, wailing (from Middle High German jāmer, from Old High German jāmar, misery).]

Kau-ai (kou'ī', kou-ī') An island of Hawaii northwest of Oahu. It was an independent royal domain when visited by Capt. James Cook in 1778 and became part of the kingdom of Hawaii in 1810.

Kauff-mann (kouf'män), Angelica. 1741-1807. Swiss-born artist known for her historical and allegorical paintings and her portraits of contemporaries. She was a founding member of the British Royal Academy of Arts (1769).

Kauf-man (kôf'mən), George Simon. 1889-1961. American playwright noted for his many collaborations, including Dinner at Eight (1932) with Edna Ferber and You Can't Take It with You (1936) with Moss Hart.

Kau-nas (kou'nəs, -näs) A city of central Lithuania on the Neman River northwest of Vilnius. Founded in the 11th century, it was a medieval trading post and a Lithuanian stronghold against the Teutonic Knights. Russia acquired the city in the third partition of Poland (1795). Population, 405,000.

Ka-un-da (kā-ōn'də), Kenneth David. 1924-1991. President of Zambia (1964-1991). He led Northern Rhodesia to full independence as Zambia (1964) and has been influential in the Organization of African Unity.

kau-ri (kou'rē) n. pl. kau-ris. 1. Any of several coniferous evergreen trees of the genus Agathis, especially A. australis of New Zealand, having broad leathery leaves. 2. The white, close-grained wood of one of these trees. 3. A resinous copal or a fossilized resin of these trees, used in varnishes and enamels. [Maori kawri.]

ka-va (kā'və) n. 1. A dioecious shrub (Piper methysticum) native to the Pacific islands, having cordate leaves and minute flowers clustered in solitary spikes.

2. The narcotic beverage made from the roots of this plant. [Tongan, acrid, kava.]

Ka-vál-la (kā-väl'ə, kā-vä'lä) A city of northeast Greece on an inlet of the Aegean Sea. Held by the Ottoman Turks from 1387 to 1913, it is a center for tobacco processing and shipping. Population, 56,375.

Kaw (kô) n. pl. Kaw or Kaws. See Kansa.

Ka-wa-ba-ta (kă'wə-bă'tə), Yasunari. 1899-1972. Japanese writer whose novels, including Thousand Cranes (1959), often concern alienated, lonely individuals in search of beauty and purity. He won the 1968 Nobel Prize for literature.

Ka-wa-goe (kə-wă'goi, -gô-ě) A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, northwest of Tokyo. Its manufactures include silk textiles. Population, 285,435.

Ka-wa-gu-chi (kă'wə-gōō'chē) A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, an industrial suburb of Tokyo. Population, 403,012.

Ka-war-tha Lakes (kə-wôr'thə lāks) A series of lakes in southeast Ontario, Canada, connected with Lake Simcoe by the Trent Canal system. The lakes are popular as a summer resort area.

Ka-wa-sa-ki (kă'wə-să'kē) A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, an industrial suburb of Tokyo on Tokyo Bay. Population, 1,088,611.

Kaw River (kô rĭv'ər) See Kansas River.

kay (kā) n. The letter k.

Kay (kā) n. In Arthurian legend, the foster brother and steward of King Arthur.

kay-ak also kai-ak (kī'āk') n. 1. A watertight Eskimo canoe consisting of a light wooden frame completely covered with skins except for a single or double opening in the center and propelled by a double-bladed paddle. 2. A lightweight canoe that is similar in construction. — v. kay-aked, kay-ak-ing, kay-aks. — v. intr. To go, travel, or race in a kayak. — v. tr. To go or travel on (a body of water) by kayak: kayaked rapids of the Colorado River. [Canadian, and Greenlandic Eskimo qajaq.] — kay'ak'er n.

Kay-beck-er (kā-bĕk'ər) n. Maine. A French-speaking Canadian lumberjack working in the United States. [From French québécois, Québécois. See QUÉBÉCOIS.]

Kaye (kā), Danny. 1913-1987. American entertainer known for his comedic roles in such motion pictures as Wonder Man (1944) and The Secret Life of Walter Mitty (1946).

kay-o (kā-ō', kā'ō') n. pl. kay-os. Sports. A knockout in boxing. — v. tr. kay-oed, kay-o-ing, kay-os. 1. Sports. To knock out. 2. Slang. To put out of commission. [Pronunciation of K.O., abbreviation of knock out.]

Kay-se-ri (kī'zə-rē', -sə-) A city of central Turkey southeast of Ankara. The modern city was founded in the fourth century A.D. Population, 281,320.

Ka-zakh also Ka-zak (kə-zăk', -zäk') n. pl. Kazakh or Ka-zakhs also Kazak or Ka-zaks. 1. A member of a pastoral Muslim people inhabiting Kazakhstan and parts of Xinjiang Uygur in China. 2. The Turkic language of this people. [Russian kazakh, from Kazakh qazaq, from Old Turkic qazhaq*, a profiteer, from qazqhanmaq, to acquire, from qazmaq, to dig out.]

Ka-zakh-stan (kə-zăk'stän', -zŭKH-stän') A region and republic south of Russia and northeast of the Caspian Sea. The original Turkic inhabitants were overrun by the Mongols in the 13th century and ruled by various khanates until the Russian conquest of 1730 to 1853. It became an autonomous republic of the U.S.S.R. in 1920 and was a constituent republic from 1936 to 1991. Alma-Ata is the capital. Population, 15,842,000.

Ka·zan (kə-zăn', -zăn') A city of west-central Russia on the Volga River east of Moscow. Founded in 1401, the modern city became the capital of a powerful Tatar khanate in 1455 but was conquered by Czar Ivan IV in 1552. In the 18th century it was an outpost of Russian colonization to the east. Population, 1,047,000.

Ka·zan (kə-zăn', -zăn'), Elia. Born 1909. Turkish-born American stage and film director whose credits include Tennessee Williams's A Streetcar Named Desire (1947) and the motion pictures On the Waterfront (1954) and East of Eden (1955).

Ka·zan·lük (kä'zăn-lük') or Ka·zan·lik (-lik') A city of central Bulgaria east of Sofia. The center of a region famed for its rose fields, it developed in the 17th century as a manufacturing center for attar of roses. Population, 62,000.

Ka·zan River (kə-zăn' rĭv'ər) A river, about 732 km (455 mi) long, of southeast Northwest Territories, Canada, flowing north-northeast through a series of lakes to Baker Lake.

Ka·zan·tza·kis (kä'zən-zä'kĭs, -zăn-dzä'kēs), Nikos. 1885-1957. Greek writer whose works, including the novel Zorba the Greek (1946) and the epic poem The Odyssey: A Modern Sequel (1938), often contrast the sensual and intellectual facets of human nature.

Kaz·bek (kăz-bĕk'), Mount. An extinct volcano, 5,042.3 m (16,532 ft) high, of northern Georgia in the central Caucasus. Towering above a nearby pass, it is the subject of many legends.

ka·zoo (kə-zōo') n. pl. ka·zoos. Music. A toy instrument with a membrane that produces a sound when a player hums or sings into the mouthpiece. [Perhaps imitative of its sound.]

Kaz·vin (kăz-vĕn') See Qazvin.

kb or Kb abbr. Kilobar.

KB abbr. 1. Computer Science. Kilobyte. 2. Games. King's bishop.

kc abbr. 1. Also kC. Kilocurie. 2. Kilocycle.

K.C. abbr. 1. King's Counsel. 2. Knight of Columbus.

kcal abbr. Kilocalorie.

kcl abbr. Kilocalorie.

KD abbr. 1. Kiln-dried. 2. Knocked down.

ke·a (kĕ'ə) n. A brownish-green mountain-dwelling New Zealand parrot (Nestor notabilis) that usually eats insects but sometimes feeds on carrion and rubbish. [Maori, perhaps imitative of its call.]

Ke·a·la·ke·ku·a Bay (kā-ä'lə-kə-kōo'ə bā) An inlet of the Pacific Ocean on the western coast of Hawaii Island. Capt. James Cook landed here (January 1779) during his second voyage to the islands and was killed (February 14) during a beach fight with the islanders.

Kean (kēn), Edmund. 1789?-1833. British actor known for his portrayals of Shakespeare's great tragic characters.

Kearney (kär'nē) A city of south-central Nebraska on the Platte River west-southwest of Grand Island. It is a trade and industrial center in an agricultural region. Population, 24,396.

Kearns (kûrnz) An unincorporated community of northern Utah, a mainly residential suburb of Salt Lake City. Population, 28,374.

Kearny (kär'nē) A town of northeast New Jersey on the Passaic River opposite Newark. It is a port and an industrial center. Population, 34,874.

Keaton (kēt'n), Buster. Stage name of Joseph Francis Keaton. 1895-1966. American actor who wrote, directed, and starred in silent film classics, such as The Navigator (1924) and The General (1926), in which he employed a deadpan expression and acrobatic artistry to great comedic effect.

Keats (kēts), John. 1795-1821. British poet considered among the greatest in English. His works, melodic and rich in classical imagery, include "The Eve of St. Agnes," "Ode on a Grecian Urn," and "To Autumn" (all 1819). —Keats'i-an adj.

kebab or kebob also ka-bob (kə-böb') n. Shish kebab.

Keble (kē'bəl), John. 1792-1866. British cleric and poet whose sermon "National Apostasy" (1833) initiated the Oxford Movement, an effort to reintroduce sacraments and doctrines that the Church of England had discarded or neglected since the Reformation.

kebob (kə-böb') n. Variant of kebab.

Kechua (kěch'wə, -wä') n. Variant of Quechua.

Kecske-mét (kěch'kě-māt') A city of central Hungary southeast of Budapest. Known since the fourth century A.D., it is a manufacturing center and transportation hub. Population, 81,300.

kedge (kěj) Nautical. n. A light anchor used for warping a vessel. — v.

kedged, kedging, kedges. — v. tr. To warp (a vessel) by means of a light anchor. — v. intr. To move by means of a light anchor. [From kedge, to warp a vessel, perhaps from Middle English caggen, to tie, perhaps of Scandinavian origin.]

kedger-ee (kěj'ə-rē', kěj'ə-rē') n. A dish consisting of flaked fish, boiled rice, and eggs. [Hindi khichrī, from Sanskrit khiccā.]

Ke-di-ri (kā-dīr'ē) A city of eastern Java, Indonesia, southwest of Surabaya. It has a sugar industry. Population, 221,830.

keek (kēk) Scots. v. intr. keeked, keeking, keeks. To peek; peep. — n. A look, especially a quick one; a peek. [Middle English kiken, keken, perhaps from Middle Dutch kiken.]

keel¹ (kēl) n. 1. Nautical. a. The principal structural member of a ship, running lengthwise along the center line from bow to stern, to which the frames are attached. b. A ship. 2. A structure, such as the breastbone of a bird, that resembles a ship's keel in function or shape. 3. The principal structural member of an aircraft, resembling a ship's keel in shape and function. 4. A pair of united petals in certain flowers, as those of the pea. — v. intr. tr. keeled, keel-ing, keels. Nautical. To capsize or cause to capsize. — phrasal verb. keel over. To collapse or fall into or as if into a faint. [Middle English kele, from Old Norse kjölr.]

keel² (kēl) n. 1. Nautical. a. A freight barge, especially one for carrying coal on the Tyne River in England. b. The load capacity of this barge. 2. A British unit of weight formerly used for coal, equal to about 21.2 long tons. [Middle English kele, from Middle Dutch kiel.]

keel³ (kēl) v. tr. keeled, keel-ing, keels. Chiefly British. To make cool. [Middle English kelen, from Old English cēlan, to cool. See gel- in Appendix.]

keel-boat (kēl' bōt') n. Nautical. A riverboat with a keel but without sails, used for carrying freight.

keel-haul (kēl'hōl') v. tr. keel-hauled, keel-haul-ing, keel-hauls.

1. Nautical. To discipline by dragging under the keel of a ship. 2. To rebuke harshly. [Alteration (influenced by KEEL¹, and HAUL), of Dutch kielhalen : kiel, keel of a ship (from Middle Dutch) + halen, to haul (from Middle Dutch); see kelə-² in Appendix.]

Keel-ing Islands (kē'līng ī'ləndz) See Cocos Islands.

keel-son (kēl'sən, kēl'-) also kel-son (kēl'-) n. Nautical. A timber or girder fastened above and parallel to the keel of a ship or boat for additional strength. [Alteration (influenced by KEEL¹), of Middle English kelswin, probably from Old Norse kjölsvīn* : kjölr, keel + svīn, swine, timber; see sū- in Appendix.]

Keel-lung (kē'lōōng') also Chi-lung (jē'-, chē'-) A city of northern Taiwan on the East China Sea. It is a port for the capital city of Taipei. Population, 349,686.

keen¹ (kēn) adj. keen-er, keen-est. 1. Having a fine, sharp cutting edge or point. 2. Having or marked by intellectual quickness and acuity. See Synonyms at sharp. 3. Acutely sensitive: a keen ear. 4. Sharp; vivid; strong: "His entire body hungered for keen sensation, something exciting" (Richard Wright).

5. Intense; piercing: a keen wind. 6. Pungent; acrid: A keen smell of skunk was left behind. 7. a. Ardent; enthusiastic: a keen chess player. b. Eagerly desirous: keen on going to Europe in the spring. See Synonyms at eager¹. 8. Slang. Great; splendid; fine: What a keen day! [Middle English kene, from Old English cēne, brave.] — keen/ly adv. — keen/ness n.

keen² (kēn) n. A loud, wailing lament for the dead. — v. intr. keened, keen-ing, keens. To wail in lamentation, especially for the dead. See Synonyms at cry. [From Irish Gaelic caoineadh, from caoninim, I lament, from Old Irish coínim.] — keen'er n.

Keene (kēn) A city of southwest New Hampshire west of Manchester. It was first settled in 1736. Population, 22,430.

Keene (kēn), Laura. 1826?-1873. British-born actress and the first major woman theatrical producer in the United States. She performed in Our American Cousin at Ford's Theater on the night of Abraham Lincoln's assassination (April 14, 1865).

keep (kēp) v. kept (kĕpt), keep-ing, keeps. — v. tr. 1. To retain possession of: kept the change; must keep your equanimity. 2. To have as a supply: keep a cord of wood in the shed. 3. To provide (a family, for example) with maintenance and support: "There's little to earn and many to keep" (Charles Kingsley). 4. To put customarily; store: Where do you keep your saw? 5. a. To supply with room and board for a charge: keep boarders. b. To raise: keep chickens. 6. To maintain for use or service: a city dweller who didn't keep a car. 7. To manage, tend, or have charge of: Keep the shop while I'm away. 8. To preserve (food). 9. To cause to continue in a state, condition, or course of action: attempted to keep the patient calm. 10. a. To maintain records in: keep a yearly diary. b. To enter (data) in a book: keep financial records. 11. a. To detain: was kept after school. b. To restrain: kept the child away from the hot stove; kept the crowd back with barriers. c. To prevent or deter: tried to keep the ice from melting. d. To refrain from divulging: keep a secret. e. To save; reserve: keep extra money for emergencies. 12. To maintain: keep late hours. 13. To adhere to; fulfill: keep one's word; keep a busy schedule. 14. To celebrate; observe. — v. intr. 1. To remain in a state or condition; stay: keep in line; keep quiet; kept well. 2. To continue to do: keep on talking; keep guessing. 3. To remain fresh or unspoiled: The dessert won't keep. — n. 1. Care; charge: The child is in my keep for the day. 2. The means by which one is supported: earn one's keep. 3. a. The stronghold of a castle. b. A jail. — phrasal verbs. keep at. To persevere in work or an action. keep down. To prevent from growing, accomplishing, or succeeding: keep down prices; keep the revolutionaries down. keep off. To stay away from. keep to. To adhere to: keep to the original purpose. keep up. 5. To maintain in good condition: kept up the property. 6. To persevere in; carry on: We asked her to stop talking, but she kept up. 7. To continue at the same level or pace. 8. To match one's competitors, colleagues, or neighbors in success or lifestyle: unsuccessfully tried to keep up with his associates. — idioms. for keeps. 1. For an indefinitely long period: gave the ring to me for keeps. 2. Seriously and permanently: We're separating for keeps. keep an eye out. To be watchful. keep company. To carry on a courtship: a couple who kept company but never married. keep (one's) chin up. To be stalwart, courageous, or optimistic in the face of difficulty. keep (one's) eyes open (or keep (one's) eyes peeled). To be on the lookout. keep (one's) nose clean. Informal. To stay out of trouble. keep pace. To stay even with others, as in a contest. keep (someone) company. To accompany or remain with.

keep time. 10. To indicate the correct time. 11. Music. To maintain the tempo or rhythm. keep to (oneself). 12. To shun the company of others: She kept to herself all morning. 13. To refrain from divulging: He kept the news to himself. [Middle English kepen, from Old English cēpan, to observe, seize.]

SYNONYMS: keep, retain, withhold, reserve. These verbs mean to have and maintain in one's possession or control. Keep is the most general: We received a tempting offer for the house but decided to keep it. I don't know which is more difficult—to earn money or to keep it. Retain means to continue to hold, especially in the face of possible loss: "The executor... is allowed to pay himself first, by retaining in his hands so much as his debt amounts to" (William Blackstone). Withhold implies reluctance or refusal to give, grant, or allow: The tenants withheld their rent until the landlord repaired the boiler. To reserve is to hold back for the future or for a special purpose: I will reserve my questions for the discussion period. The farmer reserved two acres for an orchard. See also Synonyms at livelihood observe keep·er (kē'pər) n. 1. One that keeps, especially: a. An attendant, a guard, or a warden. b. One that has the charge or care of something: a lion keeper; the keeper of the budget. 2. Football. A play made by the quarterback who keeps the ball after it is snapped and then runs with it. 3. Informal. One that is worth keeping, especially a fish large enough to be legally caught.

keep·ing (kē'pɪŋ) n. 1. The act of holding, guarding, or supporting. 2. Custody; care. See Synonyms at care. 3. Harmony; conformity: "A facade had been added, in perfect keeping with [the] original architecture" (Nancy Holmes).

keep·sake (kēp'sāk') n. Something given or kept; a memento.

kees·hond (kās'hônt', -hōnd') n. pl. kees·hon·den (-hôn'dən) or kees·honds. Any of a breed of dog originating in the Netherlands and having a thick grayish-black coat. [Dutch : probably the name Kees (nickname for Cornelis, Cornelius) + hond, dog (from Middle Dutch); see kwon- in Appendix.]

Kee·wa·tin (kē-wāt'n) A region of southeast Northwest Territories, Canada. It includes the eastern section of the mainland and various islands in Hudson Bay. The district was originally created as a much larger region in 1876.

kef (kěf, kēf, kāf) n. Variant of kif.

Ke·fal·li·ní·a (kě'fä-lē-nē'ä) See Cephalonia.

Ke·fau·ver (kē'fô'vər), (Carey) Estes. 1903-1963. American politician. A U.S. representative (1939-1949) and senator (1949-1963) from Tennessee, he directed a highly publicized investigation into organized crime (1950-1951).

ke·fir (kě-fîr') n. A creamy drink made of fermented cow's milk. [Russian, probably ultimately from Old Turkic köpür, (milk) froth, foam, from köpürmāk, to froth, foam.]

Kef-la-vík (kyěb'lə-věk', kěf'-) A town of southwest Iceland on the Atlantic Ocean west-southwest of Reykjavík. Its international airport was built by the U.S. military during World War II. Population, 6,907.

keg (kěg) n. 1. a. A small cask or barrel with a capacity of about 30 gallons (114 liters). b. Such a container and its contents. 2. A unit of weight used for nails, equal to 100 pounds (45.5 kilograms). — v. tr. kegged, keg-ging, kegs. To put or store in a small cask or barrel. [Middle English kag, from Old Norse kaggi.]

keg-ler (kěg'lər) n. Sports. A person who bowls; a bowler. [German, from kegeln, to bowl, from Kegel, bowling pin, from Middle High German kegel, from Old High German kegil, peg.]

keis-ter (kē'stər) n. Slang. 1. The buttocks. 2. The anus. [Origin unknown.]

Kei-tel (kīt'l), Wilhelm. 1882-1946. German general and chief of the supreme command of Nazi armed forces during World War II. He signed the unconditional surrender of Germany to Russia and the Allies (May 1945) and was executed as a war criminal.

Kei-zer (kī'zər) An unincorporated community of northwest Oregon, a mainly residential suburb of Salem. Population, 18,592.

Kek-ko-nen (kěk'ə-nən, -ô-ně'n'), Urho Kaleva. 1900-1986. Finnish politician who as prime minister (1950-1956) and president (1956-1981) pursued an international policy of neutrality.

Kel-ler (kěl'ər), Helen Adams. 1880-1968. American memoirist and lecturer. Blind and deaf since infancy, she learned to read, write, and speak from her teacher Anne Sullivan, was graduated from Radcliffe (1904), and lectured widely on behalf of sightless people. Her books include Out of the Dark (1913).

Kel-ley (kěl'ē), Florence. 1859-1932. American social worker whose investigations into Chicago factory conditions and child labor prompted legislative action against unsafe and unfair labor practices. She was a founder of the NAACP (1909).

Kel-logg (kěl'ôg', -ôg'), Frank Billings. 1856-1937. American public official who as U.S. secretary of state (1925-1929) cosponsored the Kellogg-Briand Pact (1928), ratified by 62 nations, that renounced war as an instrument of national policy. For this he won the 1929 Nobel Peace Prize.

Kel-logg (kěl'ôg', -ôg'), Will Keith. 1860-1951. American cereal manufacturer who developed a process for producing dry breakfast cereal and founded the Kellogg Company (1906).

Kel-ly (kěl'ē), Ellsworth. Born 1923. American abstract painter and sculptor whose works are characterized by flat color areas with sharply defined edges.

Kel-ly (kěl'ē), Emmett. 1898-1979. American circus clown who was famous as "Weary Willie," a sad-faced hobo with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus (1942-1956).

Kel-ly (kĕl'ē), Grace Patricia Princess Grace. 1929-1982. American actress whose motion pictures include High Noon (1952) and Country Girl (1954), for which she won an Academy Award. In 1956 she married Prince Rainier III of Monaco.

Kel-ly (kĕl'ē), Walter Crawford. Known as "Walt." 1913-1973. American cartoonist and illustrator who created the highly popular comic strip Pogo (1948).

kel-ly green (kĕl'ē grĕn) n. Color. A strong yellowish green. [From the name Kelly.] —kel'ly-green' (kĕl'ē-grĕn') adj.

ke-loid also che-loid (kĕ'loid') n. A red, raised formation of fibrous scar tissue caused by excessive tissue repair in response to trauma or surgical incision.

[French kéloïde: Greek khēlē, claw + -oïde, resembling (from Greek -oëidēs); see -OID.] —ke-loid'al (-loid'l) adj.

Ke-low-na (kə-lō'nə) A city of southern British Columbia, Canada, on Okanagan Lake east-northeast of Vancouver. It is a tourist resort and trade center for a farming and lumbering area. Population, 59,196.

kelp (kĕlp) n. 1. Any of various brown, often very large seaweeds of the order Laminariales. 2. The ash of these seaweeds, used as a source of potash and iodine. [Middle English culp.]

kel-pie¹ also kel-py (kĕl'pĕ) n. pl. kel-pies. A malevolent water spirit of Scottish legend, usually having the shape of a horse and rejoicing in or causing drownings. [Probably of Celtic origin; akin to Scottish Gaelic colpach, heifer.]

kel-pie² (kĕl'pĕ) n. Any of a breed of sheepdog originating in Australia. [From Kelpie, the name of an early specimen of the breed.]

kel-py (kĕl'pĕ) n. Variant of kelpie¹.

kel-son (kĕl'sən) n. Nautical. Variant of keelson.

Kelt (kĕlt) n. Variant of Celt.

Kelt-ic (kĕl'tĭk) n. & adj. Variant of Celtic.

kel-vin (kĕl'vĭn) n. Abbr. K A unit of absolute temperature equal to 1/273.16 of the absolute temperature of the triple point of water. This unit is equal to one Celsius degree. See Table at measurement. [After First Baron. KELVIN.]

Kel-vin (kĕl'vĭn), First Baron Title of William Thomson. 1824-1907. British physicist who developed the Kelvin scale of temperature (1848) and supervised the laying of a trans-Atlantic cable (1866).

Kelvin scale (kĕl'vĭn skāl) n. An absolute scale of temperature in which each degree equals one kelvin. Water freezes at 273.15 K and boils at 373.15 K.

Ke-mal At-a-türk (kə-mäl' ät'ə-türk', kĕ-mäl' ä-tä-türk'), Originally Mustafa Kemal. 1881-1938. Turkish national leader and founder of modern Turkey. In 1919 he organized the Turkish Nationalist Party and established a rival government to the Ottoman sultan. After a civil war he served as president of the Turkish Republic (1923-1938).

Kem·ble (kĕm'bal), John Philip. 1757-1823. British actor who managed the Drury Lane (1788-1803) and Covent Garden (1803-1817) theaters in London and was an acclaimed tragedian. His niece Frances Anne Kemble (1809-1893), known as "Fanny," was a celebrated Shakespearean actress in Great Britain and the United States.

Ke·me·ro·vo (kĕm'ə-rō'və, kyĕ'mər-ə-və) A city of south-central Russia east-northeast of Novosibirsk. It is an industrial center in a coal-mining region. Population, 507,000.

Ke·mi·jo·ki (kĕm'ē-yô'kē) A river, about 555 km (345 mi) long, of northern Finland flowing generally southwest to the Gulf of Bothnia.

Kem·pis (kĕm'pīs), Thomas à. See Thomas à Kempis.

kempt (kĕmpt) adj. Tidy; trim: a nicely kempt beard. [Back-formation from UNKEMPT.]

Kemp·ten (kĕmp'tən) A city of south-central Germany southwest of Munich. Of Celtic origin, it was a flourishing Roman colony and a free imperial city from 1289 to 1803. Population, 56,691.

ken (kĕn) n. 1. Perception; understanding: complex issues well beyond our ken. 2. a. Range of vision. b. View; sight. — v. kenned or kent (kĕnt), ken·ning, kens. Scots. — v. tr. 1. To know (a person or thing). 2. To recognize. — v. intr. To have knowledge or an understanding of. [From Middle English kennen (influenced by Old Norse kenna, to know), from Old English cenan, to declare. See gnō- in Appendix.]

Ken. abbr. Kentucky.

Ke·nai Peninsula (kĕ'nī' pə-nīn'syə-lə) A peninsula of south-central Alaska between Cook Inlet and the Gulf of Alaska.

Ken·dal green (kĕn'dl grĕn) n. 1. A coarse green woolen fabric similar to tweed. 2. The color of this fabric. [After Kendal, a municipal borough of northwest England.]

Ken·dall (kĕn'dl) A community of southeast Florida, a suburb of Miami. Population, 51,000.

Ken·dall (kĕn'dl), Edward Calvin. 1886-1972. American biochemist. He shared a 1950 Nobel Prize for discoveries concerning the hormones of the adrenal cortex.

Ken·dall (kĕn'dəl), Henry W. Born 1926. American physicist. He shared a 1990 Nobel Prize for research that confirmed the existence of quarks.

ken·do (kĕn'dō) n. The Japanese martial art of fencing with bamboo sticks. [Japanese.]

Ken·drew (kĕn'droō'), Sir John Cowdery. Born 1917. British biologist. He shared the 1962 Nobel Prize for chemistry for determining the molecular structure of blood components.

Ken-il-worth (kĕn'əl-wŭrth') An urban district of central England southeast of Birmingham. It is famous for the ruins of Kenilworth Castle, founded c. 1120 and celebrated in Sir Walter Scott's novel Kenilworth (1821). Queen Elizabeth I gave the castle to her favorite, Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester. Population, 19,315.

Kenilworth ivy (kĕn'əl-wŭrth' ĭ'vĕ) n. A European creeping herb (Cymbalaria muralis) with palmately lobed leaves and solitary, pale purple flowers. [After Kenilworth Castle, Kenilworth.]

Ken-more (kĕn'mŏr', -mŏr') A village of western New York on the Niagara River north of Buffalo. It is mainly residential. Population, 17,180.

Ken-nan (kĕn'ən), George Frost. Born 1904. American diplomat and historian who recommended the policy of containment toward Soviet aggression. He served as U.S. ambassador to the U.S.S.R. (1952) and Yugoslavia (1961-1963). His written works include American Diplomacy, 1900-1950 (1951).

Ken-ne-bec (kĕn'ə-bĕk') A river, about 257 km (160 mi) long, of west-central and southern Maine flowing generally south to the Atlantic Ocean.

Ken-ne-dy (kĕn'ĭ-dĕ), Anthony M. Born 1936. American jurist who was appointed an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court in 1988.

Kennedy, Cape. See Cape Canaveral.

Ken-ne-dy (kĕn'ĭ-dĕ), Edward Moore. Born 1932. American politician. A U.S. senator from Massachusetts (since 1962), he has sponsored national health insurance legislation and been a long-time leader of the Democratic Party.

Ken-ne-dy (kĕn'ĭ-dĕ), Jacqueline Lee Bouvier. Former name of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis. 1929-1994. First Lady of the United States (1961-1963) as the wife of President John F. Kennedy. She promoted the arts and supervised the redecoration of the White House. Since 1975 she has worked as an editor in New York.

Ken-ne-dy (kĕn'ĭ-dĕ), John Fitzgerald. 1917-1963. The 35th President of the United States (1961-1963). A U.S. representative (1947-1953) and senator (1953-1960) from Massachusetts, he became the youngest man elected to the presidency (1960). Kennedy approved the failed invasion of the Bay of Pigs (1961) and forced Khrushchev to remove Soviet missiles from Cuba (1962). He also established the Peace Corps (1961) and advocated civil rights reform. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas, Texas, on November 22, 1963.

Ken-ne-dy (kĕn'ĭ-dĕ), Joseph Patrick. 1888-1969. American banker and industrialist who served as ambassador to Great Britain (1937-1940). With his wife, Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy (1890-1995), he raised nine children, three of whom became prominent politicians.

Kennedy, Mount. A peak, 4,241 m (13,905 ft) high, in the St. Elias Mountains of Yukon Territory, Canada, near the Alaskan border. Discovered in 1935, it was named for President John F. Kennedy and climbed for the first time in 1965.

Ken-ne-dy (kĕn'ī-dē), Robert Francis. 1925-1968. American politician who served as U.S. attorney general (1961-1964) during the presidency of his brother John F. Kennedy. He was elected to the Senate (1964) and was campaigning for the presidency when he was assassinated in Los Angeles.

ken-nel¹ (kĕn'əl) n. 1. A shelter for a dog. 2. A pack of dogs, especially hounds. See Synonyms at flock¹. 3. An establishment where dogs are bred, trained, or boarded. 4. The lair of a wild animal, such as a fox. — v.

ken-neled or ken-nelled, ken-nel-ing or ken-nel-ling, ken-nels or ken-nels. — v. tr. To place or keep in or as if in a kennel. — v. intr. To take cover or lie in or as if in a kennel. [Middle English kenel, from Anglo-Norman kenil*, from Vulgar Latin canīle*, from Latin canis, dog. See kwon- in Appendix.]

ken-nel² (kĕn'əl) n. A gutter along a street. [Middle English cannel, from Old North French canel, channel, from Latin canālis. See CANAL.]

Ken-nel-ly (kĕn'ə-lē), Arthur Edwin. 1861-1939. American electrical engineer who concurrently with Oliver Heaviside predicted the existence of the ionosphere.

Ken-nel-ly-Heav-i-side layer (kĕn'ə-lē-hĕv'ē-sīd' lā'ər) n. See E layer. [After Arthur Edwin KENNELLY, and Oliver HEAVISIDE.]

Ken-ner (kĕn'ər) A city of southeast Louisiana, an industrial suburb of New Orleans on the Mississippi River. Population, 66,382.

Ken-ne-wick (kĕn'ə-wĭk') A city of southern Washington on the Columbia River west-northwest of Walla Walla. The Hanford Works, a nuclear plant built during World War II, is nearby. Population, 42,155.

ken-ning (kĕn'ɪŋ) n. A figurative, usually compound expression used in place of a name or noun, especially in Old English and Old Norse poetry; for example, storm of swords is a kenning for battle. [Old Norse, from kenna, to know, to name with a kenning. See gnō- in Appendix.]

Ken-ny (kĕn'ē), Elizabeth. 1880?-1952. Australian nurse who developed a simple treatment for the paralysis brought on by poliomyelitis.

ke-no (kē'nō) n. Games. A game of chance, similar to lotto, that uses balls rather than counters. [French quine, set of five winning numbers (from Latin quīnī, five each); see penk^we in Appendix + -o (as in LOTTO).]

Ke-no-sha (kə-nō'shə) A city of extreme southeast Wisconsin on Lake Michigan south of Milwaukee. Founded in 1835, it is an industrial center and a port of entry. Population, 80,352.

ke-no-sis (kī-nō'sis) n. Theology. The relinquishment of the form of God by Jesus in becoming man and suffering death. [Late Greek kenōsis, from Greek, an emptying, from kenoun, to empty, from kenos, empty.] —ke-not'ic (-nōt'ik) adj.

kent (kĕnt) v. Scots. A past tense and a past participle of ken.

Kent (kěnt) 1. A region and former kingdom of southeast England. Jutes settled in the area in the fifth century A.D., displacing the original inhabitants and establishing one of the seven kingdoms of the Anglo-Saxon Heptarchy. Converted to Christianity in 597, the people of Kent later became subject to the kingdoms of Mercia and Wessex. 2. A city of northeast Ohio east-northeast of Akron. Kent State University (founded 1910) is in the city and was the site of a 1970 demonstration against the Vietnam War in which four students were killed by members of the National Guard. Population, 28,835. 3. A city of west-central Washington south of Seattle. A newly urbanized community in a former farming region, it is a food-processing center with an aerospace industry. Population, 37,960.

Kent (kěnt), Corita. Known as “Sister Corita.” 1918-1986. American artist noted for her prints and for the “Love” postage stamp she designed (1985).

Kent (kěnt), James. 1763-1847. American jurist who as chief judge of the New York Supreme Court (1804-1823) revived the use of equity in the American legal system.

Kent (kěnt), Rockwell. 1882-1971. American artist noted for his stark woodcuts, which illustrated published accounts of his travels and special editions of classic literary works.

Kent-ish (kěnt'īsh) adj. Of or relating to Kent, England, or its inhabitants. — n. The dialect of English spoken in Kent.

kent-ledge (kěnt'lij) n. Nautical. Pig iron used as permanent ballast. [Origin unknown.]

Ken-tuck-y (kən-tŭk'ē) Abbr. KY, Ken., Ky. A state of the east-central United States. It was admitted as the 15th state in 1792. Daniel Boone's Transylvania Company made the first permanent settlement in the area in 1775. By the Treaty of Paris (1783) the territory became part of the United States. Frankfort is the capital and Louisville the largest city. Population, 3,698,969. — Ken-tuck'i-an adj. & n.

Kentucky bluegrass (kən-tŭk'ē blō'grās') n. A perennial rhizomatous grass (Poa pratensis) native to Eurasia and North Africa and naturalized throughout the United States. It is commonly cultivated for pasture and lawns.

Kentucky coffee tree (kən-tŭk'ē kô'fē trē) n. A deciduous North American tree (Gymnocladus dioica) having bipinnately compound leaves and flat, pulpy pods with large seeds formerly used as a coffee substitute.

Kentucky River (kən-tŭk'ē rĭv'ər) A river, about 417 km (259 mi) long, of north-central Kentucky flowing northwest to the Ohio River.

Kent-wood (kěnt'wōd') A city of western Michigan, a suburb of Grand Rapids. Population, 37,826.

Ken-ya (kěn'yə, kēn'-) A country of east-central Africa bordering on the Indian Ocean. Controlled by the British in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, Kenya became independent in 1963. Nairobi is the capital and the largest city. Population, 15,327,061. —Ken'yan adj. & n.

Kenya, Mount. An extinct volcano, 5,202.7 m (17,058 ft), in central Kenya. It is the second-highest peak in Africa.

Ken-yat-ta (kĕn-yä'tə), Jomo. 1893?-1978. Kenyan nationalist politician and first president of independent Kenya (1964-1978).

Ken-yon (kĕn'yən), Dorothy. 1888-1972. American jurist and reformer noted for her work on labor disputes and women's rights. She was a leading member of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women (1946-1950).

Ken-yon (kĕn'yən), Dame Kathleen Mary. 1906-1978. British archaeologist who led the expedition that is credited with determining the accurate date and location of the walls of Jericho.

Ke-ogh plan (kē'ō plān) n. A retirement plan for the self-employed and their employees. [After Eugene James Keogh (born 1907), former U.S. representative from New York.]

Ke-o-kuk (kē'ə-kŭk'), 1790?-1848?. American Sauk leader who aided the United States in the Black Hawk War (1832) and negotiated peace between his people and the Sioux (1837).

keph-a-lin (kĕf'ə-līn) n. Variant of cephalin.

ke-pi (kā'pē, kĕp'ē) n. pl. ke-pis. A French military cap with a flat, circular top and a visor. [French képi, from German dialectal Käppi, diminutive of German Kappe, cap, from Middle High German kappe, cloak, cap, from Old High German kappa, cloak, probably from Late Latin cappa, head covering.]

Kepler (kĕp'lər), Johannes. 1571-1630. German astronomer and mathematician. Considered the founder of modern astronomy, he formulated three laws to clarify the theory that the planets revolve around the sun.

kept (kĕpt) v. Past tense and past participle of keep.

kerat- pref. Variant of kerato-.

ker-a-tec-to-my (kĕr'ə-tĕk'tə-mē) n. pl. ker-a-tec-to-mies. Surgical removal of a part of the cornea.

ker-a-tin (kĕr'ə-tīn) n. A tough, insoluble protein substance that is the chief structural constituent of hair, nails, horns, and hoofs. [Greek keras, kerat-, horn; see ker-¹ in Appendix + -IN.] —ke-rat'i-nous (kə-rät'n-əs) adj.

ker-a-tin-ize (kĕr'ə-tə-nīz') v. ker-a-tin-ized, ker-a-tin-iz-ing, ker-a-tin-iz-es. — v. intr. To produce keratin or become like keratin. — v. tr.

To convert (something) into keratin. —ker'a-tin-i-za'tion (-tə-nī-zā'shən) n.

ker-a-ti-tis (kĕr'ə-tī'tīs) n. pl. ker-a-tit-i-des (-tīt'i-dēz'). Inflammation of the cornea.

kerato- or kerat- also cerato- or cerat- pref. 1. Horn; horny: keratosis.

2. Cornea: keratectomy. [Greek kerato-, horn, from keras, kerat-. See ker-¹ in Appendix.]

ker·a·to·sis (kĕr'ə-tō'sīs) n. pl. ker·a·to·ses (-sēz). Excessive growth of horny tissue of the skin. —ker'·a·tot'ic (-tōt'ik) adj.

ker·a·tot·o·my (kĕr'ə-tōt'ə-mē) n. pl. ker·a·tot·o·mies. Surgical incision of the cornea.

kerb (kûrb) n. Chiefly British. Variant of curb (n., sense 1).

Ker·be·la (kûr'bə-lə) See Karbala.

Kerch (kĕrch, kyĕrch) A city of southern Ukraine on Kerch Strait, a shallow waterway connecting the Black Sea with the Sea of Azov and bordered on the west by the Kerch Peninsula. The city was founded by Greek colonists in the sixth century B.C. and eventually passed to Russia after the first Russo-Turkish War (1768-1774). Population, 168,000.

ker·chief (kûr'chĭf, -chĕf') n. pl. ker·chiefs also ker·chieves (-chĭvz, -chĕvz).

1. A woman's square scarf, often worn as a head covering. 2. A handkerchief. [Middle English coverchef, curchef, from Anglo-Norman courchief (variant of Old French couvrechef), and from Old French couvrechef covrir, to cover (from Latin cooperĭre); see COVER + chef, head (from Latin caput); see kaput- in Appendix.]

Ke·ren·sky (kə-rĕn'skē, kĕr'ən-, kyĕr'yĭn-) , Aleksandr Feodorovich. 1881-1970. Russian revolutionary who was appointed the head of government (July 1917) after the abdication of Nicholas II but was overthrown by the Bolsheviks (October 1917) for his moderate policies.

Ker·e·san (kĕr'ĭ-sən) n. Any of a group of languages spoken by certain Pueblo peoples. —Ker'e·san adj.

kerf (kûrf) n. 1. A groove or notch made by a cutting tool, such as a saw or an ax. 2. The width of a groove made by a cutting tool. [Middle English, from Old English cyrf, a cutting. See gerbh- in Appendix.]

Ker·gue·len Islands (kûr'gə-lən ĭ'lændz, -lĕn') A French-administered island group in the southern Indian Ocean southeast of South Africa. The largest island, Kerguelen, was discovered by a French navigator in 1772 and is used mainly as a research station.

Kér·ki·ra (kĕr'kē-rä') See Corfu.

Ker·kra·de (kĕr'krä'də) A city of southeast Netherlands on the German border north of Aachen. Its coal-mining industry dates to the 12th century. Population, 53,231.

Ker·man (kər-män', kĕr-) A city of east-central Iran southeast of Tehran. It is famous for its carpets. Population, 239,000.

Ker·man·shah (kĕr-män'-shä', -shô') See Bakhtaran.

ker·mes (kûr'mēz) n. A red dyestuff once prepared from the dried bodies of various female scale insects of the genus Kermes. [French kermès, short for algermès, from Arabic al-qirmiz, probably from Sanskrit kṛmi-ja-, (red dye) produced by worms. See k^wṛmi- in Appendix.]

ker-mis also ker-mess or kir-mess (kûr'mīs) n. 1. An outdoor fair in the Low Countries. 2. A fund-raising fair or carnival. [Dutch kermis, from Middle Dutch kercmisse, mass on the anniversary of a church dedication, on which day was held a yearly fair : kerc, church (ultimately from Late Greek kuriakon, kurikon (dōma), (house) of the lord); see CHURCH + misse, mass (from Late Latin missa); see MASS.]

kern¹ also kerne (kûrn) n. 1. A medieval Scottish or Irish foot soldier. 2. A loutish person. [Middle English kerne, from Middle Irish ceithern, band of soldiers, from Old Irish.]

kern² (kûrn) Printing. n. The portion of a typeface that projects beyond the body or shank of a character. — v. tr. kerned, kern-ing, kerns. To provide (type) with a kern. [French carne, corner, from Old North French, from Latin cardō, cardin-, hinge.]

Kern (kûrn), Jerome David. 1885-1945. American composer of numerous musicals, including Show Boat (1927), and more than a thousand songs, such as “Ol’ Man River” and “Smoke Gets in Your Eyes.”

kerne (kûrn) n. Variant of kern¹.

ker-nel (kûr'nəl) n. 1. A grain or seed, as of a cereal grass, enclosed in a husk. 2. The inner, usually edible seed of a nut or fruit stone. 3. The most material and central part; the core: “that hard kernel of gaiety that never breaks” (Evelyn Waugh). [Middle English, from Old English cyrnel. See grə-no- in Appendix.] —ker'neled adj.

kern-ite (kûr'nīt') n. A colorless to white lustrous crystalline mineral, $\text{Na}_2\text{B}_4\text{O}_7 \cdot 4\text{H}_2\text{O}$, that is a major source of ore of boron. [After Kern, a county of southern California.]

Kern River (kûrn rĭv'ər) A river rising in the Sierra Nevada of eastern California and flowing about 249 km (155 mi) south and southwest to the southern San Joaquin Valley.

ker-o-gen (kĕr'ə-jən) n. A fossilized material in shale and other sedimentary rock that yields oil upon heating. [Greek kēros, wax + -GEN.]

ker-o-sene also ker-o-sine (kĕr'ə-sĕn', kă'r'-, kĕr'ə-sĕn', kă'r'-) n. A thin oil distilled from petroleum or shale oil, used as a fuel for heating and cooking, in lamps, and as a denaturant for alcohol. Also called coal oil, lamp oil. [Greek kēros, wax + -ENE.]

Ker-ou-ac (kĕr'ō-ăk'), Jack. 1922-1969. American writer and leading figure of the beat generation. His primarily autobiographical books include On the Road (1957) and Desolation Angels (1965).

Kerr-ville (kûr'vĭl', -vəl) A city of southwest Texas northwest of San Antonio. Settled in 1846, it is a health and vacation resort. Population, 17,384.

Ker-ry (kĕr'ē) n. pl. Ker-ries. One of a breed of small, black dairy cattle of Irish origin. [After Kerry, a county of southwest Ireland.]

Kerry blue terrier (kĕr'ē blōō tĕr'ē-ər) n. Any of a breed of terriers of Irish origin, having a dense, wavy bluish-gray coat. [After Kerry, a county of southwest Ireland.]

ker-sey (kûr'zē) n. pl. ker-seys. 1. A twilled woolen fabric, sometimes with a cotton warp, used for coats. 2. Often kerseys. A garment made of this fabric. 3. A woolen, often ribbed fabric formerly used for hose and trousers. [Middle English kersei, after Kersey, a village of southeast England.]

ker-sey-mere (kûr'zē-mîr') n. A fine woolen cloth with a fancy twill weave. [KERSEY + (CASSI)MERE.]

Ker-u-len (kĕr'ōō-lĕn) A river rising in northeast Mongolia and flowing about 1,263 km (785 mi) south then east to a lake in northeast China.

ke-ryg-ma (kə-rĭg'mə) n. Theology. The proclamation of religious truths, especially as taught in the Gospels. [Greek kērugma, preaching, proclamation, from kērux, kērug-, herald.]

Kes-sel-ring (kĕs'əl-rĭng), Albert. 1885-1960. German general who was active on virtually all European and North African fronts during World War II. Appointed commander in chief in the West (1945), he was later imprisoned for war crimes (1947-1952).

kes-trel (kĕs'trəl) n. Any of various small falcons belonging to the genus Falco that are distributed worldwide, especially the American kestrel and the European kestrel. [Probably from obsolete French cresserelle, from Old French cresserele, probably from cresselle, clacker, kestrel.]

ket- pref. Variant of keto-.

ketch (kĕch) n. Nautical. A two-masted fore-and-aft-rigged sailing vessel with a mizzenmast stepped aft of a taller mainmast but forward of the rudder. [Middle English cache, from cacchen, to catch. See CATCH.]

Ketch-i-kan (kĕch'ĭ-kăn') A city of southeast Alaska on an island in the Alexander Archipelago. A supply point for miners during the gold rush of the 1890's, it is now a major port and tourist center on the Inside Passage. Population, 7,198.

ketch-up (kĕch'əp, kăch'-) also catch-up (kăch'əp, kĕch'-) or cat-sup (kăt'səp, kăch'əp, kĕch'-) n. A condiment consisting of a thick, smooth-textured, spicy sauce usually made from tomatoes. [Probably Malay kēchap, fish sauce, possibly from Chinese (Cantonese) kē-tsiap.]

WORD HISTORY: The word ketchup exemplifies the types of modifications that can take place in the borrowing process, both in the borrowing of a word and in the borrowing of a substance. The source of our word ketchup may be the Malay word kēchap, possibly taken into Malay from the Cantonese dialect of Chinese. Kēchap, like our word, referred to a kind of sauce, but a sauce without tomatoes; rather, it contained fish brine, herbs, and spices. The sauce seems to have emigrated to Europe by way of sailors, where it was made with locally available ingredients such as the juice of mushrooms or walnuts. At some point, when the juice of tomatoes was first used, ketchup as we know it was born. However, it is important to realize that in the 18th and 19th centuries ketchup was a generic term for sauces whose only common ingredient was vinegar. The word is first recorded in English in 1690 in the form catchup, in 1711 in the form ketchup, and in 1730 in the form catsup. These three spelling variants of a foreign borrowing remain current.

ke-tene (kē'tēn') n. A pungent, toxic, colorless gas, C₂H₂O, used chiefly as an acetylation agent.

keto- or ket- pref. Ketone; ketone group: ketosis. [From KETONE.]

ke-to-gen-e-sis (kē'tō-jěn'ī-sis) n. The formation of ketone bodies, as occurs in diabetes. —ke'to-gen'ic adj.

ke-tone (kē'tōn') n. Any of a class of organic compounds having a carbonyl group linked to a carbon atom in each of two hydrocarbon radicals and having the general formula R(CO)R', where R may be the same as R'. [German Keton, short for Aketon, acetone : Latin acētum, vinegar; see ACETUM + -on, n. suff. (alteration of -en, from Greek -ēnē).] —ke-ton'ic (-tōn'ik) adj.

ketone body (kē'tōn' bōd'ē) n. A ketone-containing substance, such as acetoacetic acid, that is an intermediate product of fatty acid metabolism. Ketone bodies tend to accumulate in the blood and are excreted in the urine of individuals affected by starvation or uncontrolled diabetes mellitus. Also called acetone body ke-tose (kē'tōs') n. Any of various carbohydrates containing a ketone group.

ke-to-sis (kē-tō'sis) n. pl. ke-to-ses (-sēz). A pathological increase in the production of ketone bodies. —ke-tot'ic (-tōt'ik) adj.

ke-to-ste-roid (kē'tō-stīr'oid', -stēr'-) n. A steroid containing a ketone group.

Ket-ter-ing (kět'ər-īng) A city of southwest Ohio, an industrial suburb of Dayton. Population, 60,569.

Ket-ter-ing (kět'ər-īng), Charles Franklin. 1876-1958. American electrical engineer and manufacturer who developed the first electric cash register (1905) and numerous automotive improvements, such as an electric ignition system (1912).

ket-tle (kět'l) n. 1. A metal pot, usually with a lid, for boiling or stewing. 2. A teakettle. 3. Music. A kettledrum. 4. Geology. A depression left in a mass of glacial drift, formed by the melting of an isolated block of glacial ice. 5. A pothole. [Middle English ketel, from Old Norse ketill, and Old English cetel both from Latin catillus, diminutive of catinus, large bowl.]

Ket-tle River (kět'l rīv'ər) A river, about 257 km (160 mi) long, of southern British Columbia, Canada, and northeast Washington flowing generally southward to the Columbia River.

ket-tle-drum (kět'1-drüm') n. Music. A large copper or brass hemispherical drum with a parchment head that can be tuned by adjusting the tension.

kettle of fish (kět'1 üv fish) n. pl. kettles of fish. 1. A troublesomely awkward or embarrassing situation. 2. A matter to be reckoned with: Making money and keeping it are two quite different kettles of fish.

Keu-ka Lake (kyōō'kə lāk, kā-yōō'-) A lake of west-central New York, one of the Finger Lakes west of Seneca Lake. It is the center of a resort and wine-making region.

keV abbr. Kiloelectron unit.

kev-el (kěv'əl) n. Nautical. A sturdy belaying pin for the heavier cables of a ship. [Middle English kevil, from Old French keville, wooden peg, from Latin clāvicula, diminutive of clāvis, key.]

Kew (kyōō) A district of western Greater London in southeast England. The famed Royal Botanic Gardens were established in 1759 and presented to the nation in 1841.

Ke-wee-naw Peninsula (kē'wə-nô' pə-nĭn'syə-lə) A peninsula of north-west Michigan extending into Lake Superior and bordered on the south by Keweenaw Bay.

kew-pie (kyōō'pē) n. A small, fat-cheeked, wide-eyed doll with a curl of hair on top of the head. [Originally a trademark.]

key¹ (kē) n. pl. keys. 1. a. A notched and grooved, usually metal implement that is turned to open or close a lock. b. A similar device used for opening or winding: the key of a clock; a can that has a key attached. 2. A means of access, control, or possession. 3. a. A vital, crucial element. b. A set of answers to a test. c. A table, gloss, or cipher for decoding or interpreting. 4. A device, such as a wedge or pin, inserted to lock together mechanical or structural parts. 5. Architecture. The keystone in the crown of an arch. 6. a. A button or lever that is pressed with the finger to operate a machine. b. Music. A button or lever that is pressed with the finger to produce or modulate the sound of an instrument, such as a clarinet or piano. 7. Music. a. A tonal system consisting of seven tones in fixed relationship to a tonic, having a characteristic key signature and being since the Renaissance the structural foundation of the bulk of Western music; tonality. b. The principal tonality of a work: an etude in the key of E. 8. The pitch of a voice or other sound. 9. A characteristic tone or level of intensity, as of a speech or sales campaign. Often used in combination: high-key; low-key. 10. Botany. The key fruit. 11. An outline of the distinguishing characteristics of a group of organisms, used as a guide in taxonomic identification. 12. Basketball. An area at each end of the court between the base line and the foul line and including the jump-ball circle at the foul line: a jump shot from the top of the key. — adj. Of crucial importance; significant: key decisions; the key element of the thesis. — v. tr. keyed, key-ing, keys. 1. To lock with or as if with a key. 2. Architecture. To furnish (an arch) with a keystone. 3. Music. To regulate the pitch of. 4. To bring into harmony; adjust or adapt. 5. To supply an explanatory key for. 6. a. To operate (a device), as for typesetting by means of a keyboard. b. To enter (data) into a computer by means of a keyboard. 7. To identify (a biological specimen). —phrasal verb. key up. To make intense, excited, or nervous. —idioms. in key. In consonance with other factors. out of key. Not in consonance with other factors. [Middle English kai, kei, from Old English cæg.]

key² (kē) n. pl. keys. A low offshore island or reef, especially in the Gulf of Mexico; a cay. [Alteration (influenced by key, variant of QUAY), of Spanish cayo. See CAY.]

key³ (kē) n. pl. keys. Slang. A kilogram of marijuana, cocaine, or heroin. [Shortening and alteration of KILOGRAM.]

Key (kē), Francis Scott. 1779-1843. American lawyer and poet who wrote “Defense of Fort M’Henry” after witnessing the British attack on Fort McHenry at Baltimore on September 13-14, 1814. The poem was set to the music of an 18th-century tune called “To Anacreon in Heaven,” renamed “The Star-Spangled Banner,” and in 1931 was adopted by Congress as the national anthem.

key-board (kē'bôrd', -bôrd') n. 1. A set of keys, as on a computer terminal, word processor, typewriter, or piano. 2. Music. Any one of various instruments played by means of a set of pianolike keys, often connected to a synthesizer or an amplifier. — v. tr. key-board-ed, key-board-ing, key-boards. 1. Printing. To set (copy) by means of a keyed typesetting machine: keyboard a manuscript. 2. Music. To play (a composition) by means of an instrument having a set of pianolike keys. —key/board'er, key/board'ist n.

key-card (kē'kârd') n. A usually plastic card with a magnetically coded strip that is scanned in order to operate a mechanism such as a door or an automated teller machine.

key club (kē klüb) n. A private club featuring liquor and entertainment. [From the key to the premises given to each member.]

Keyes (kēz), Francis Parkinson. 1885-1970. American writer of highly popular novels, such as Dinner at Antoine's (1948), concerning wealthy, urbane characters.

key fruit (kē frōōt) n. Botany. See samara. [From the shape of its bunches.]

key-hole (kē'hōl') n. 1. The hole in a lock into which a key fits. 2. Basketball. The key.

Key Lar-go (kē lâr'gō) A narrow island off southern Florida. It is the largest of the Florida Keys.

key money (kē mŭn'ē) n. Payment made to a landlord as an inducement to assure a rental.

Keynes (kānz), John Maynard First Baron of Tilton. 1883-1946. British economist who proposed that high unemployment, being a result of insufficient consumer spending, could be relieved by government-sponsored programs. He also advocated deficit spending by governments to stimulate economic activity.

Keynes·i·an (kān'zē-ən) adj. Of or relating to the economic theories of John Maynard Keynes, especially those theories advocating government monetary and fiscal programs designed to increase employment and stimulate business activity. — n. A supporter of Keynes's economic theories. — Keynes'·i·an·ism n.

key·note (kē'nōt') n. 1. Music. The tonic of a musical key. 2. A prime underlying element or theme: "The keynote of the revolution settlement was personal freedom under the law" (G.M. Trevelyan). — v. tr. key·not·ed, key·not·ing, key·notes. 1. To give or set the keynote of. 2. Informal. To give a keynote address at: keynoted the press luncheon.

keynote address (kē'nōt' ə-drēs') n. An opening address, as at a political convention, that outlines the issues to be considered. Also called keynote speech key·not·er (kē'nō'tər) n. One who gives a keynote address.

keynote speech (kē'nōt' spēch) n. See keynote address.

key·pad (kē'pād') n. Computer Science. An input device, sometimes part of a standard typewriter keyboard, consisting of a separate grid of numerical and function keys arranged for efficient data entry.

key·punch (kē'pūnch') n. A keyboard machine that is used to punch holes in cards or tapes for data-processing systems. — v. intr. tr. key·punched, key·punch·ing, key·punch·es. To process on such a keyboard machine. — key'punch'er n.

key signature (kē sīg'nə-chər) n. Music. The group of sharps or flats placed to the right of the clef on a staff to identify the key.

key·stone (kē'stōn') n. 1. Architecture. The central wedge-shaped stone of an arch that locks its parts together. Also called headstone 2. The central supporting element of a whole.

key·stroke (kē'strōk') n. A stroke of a key, as on a word processor. — key'stroke' v.

key·way (kē'wā') n. 1. A slot for a key in the hub or shaft of a wheel. 2. The keyhole of a cylinder lock.

Key West (kē wěst) A city of extreme southern Florida on the island of Key West, the westernmost of the Florida Keys in the Gulf of Mexico. Fishing and tourism are important to its economy. Population, 24,832.

key·word also key word (kē'wûrd') n. 1. A word that serves as a key to a code or cipher. 2. A significant or descriptive word. 3. A word used as a reference point for finding other words or information.

kg abbr. Kilogram.

kG abbr. Kilogauss.

K.G. abbr. Knight of the Order of the Garter.

KGB or K.G.B. (kā'gē-bē') n. The intelligence and internal security agency of the Soviet Union. [Russian, from K(omitét) G(osudárstvennoï) B(ezopásnosti) : komitet, committee + gosudarstvennoï, genitive of gosudar'stvennyï, of the state + bezopasnosti, genitive of bezopasnost', security.]

kgf abbr. Kilogram force.

Kha·ba·rovsk (kā-bär'əfsk, KHə-) A city of southeast Russia on the Amur River near the Chinese border. Located on the site of a fort established in 1652, it prospered after the coming of the railroad in 1905. Population, 576,000.

Kha·cha·tu·ri·an (kā'chä-tōör'ē-ən, käch'ə-, KHə-chə-tōör-yän'), Aram Ilich. 1903-1978. Russian composer of Armenian parentage whose works include concertos for piano and violin, symphonies, and ballets, such as Gayane (1942).

Kha·da·fy (kā-dä'fē), Muammar al- See Muammar al-Qaddafi.

khak·i (kāk'ē, kā'kē) n. 1. Color. A light olive brown to moderate or light yellowish brown. 2. a. A sturdy cloth of this color. b. khakis. A uniform made of this cloth. [Urdu khākī, dusty, from Persian, from khāk, dust, from Middle Persian.] —khak'i adj.

Kha·lid (kā-lēd', KHä-), Full name Khalid ibn Abd al-Aziz Al Saud. 1913-1982. King of Saudi Arabia (1975-1982) who succeeded to the throne after the assassination of his half-brother King Faisal.

kha·lif (kā'lif, käl'if) n. Variant of caliph.

Khal·ki·dhi·kí (käl-kē'thē-kē', KHäl-) See Chalcidice.

Khal·kís (käl-kēs', KHäl-) See Chalcis.

kham·sin (kām-sēn') n. A generally southerly hot wind from the Sahara that blows across Egypt from late March to early May. [Arabic (rīḥ al-)hamsīn, (wind of the) 50 (days), khamsin, from hamsūn, 50.]

khan¹ (kän, kǎn) n. 1. A ruler, an official, or an important person in India and some central Asian countries. 2. A medieval ruler of a Mongol, Tartar, or Turkish tribe. [Middle English caan, from Old French can, from Turkish khān (from Old Turkic qaghan), and from Mongolian qā'an, ruler.]

khan² (kän, kǎn) n. A caravansary in certain Asian countries. [Arabic ḥān, inn, from Persian khān, house, from Middle Persian.]

khan·ate (kā'nāt', kǎn'āt') n. 1. The realm of a khan. 2. The position of a khan.

Khan·ba·lik (kän'bə-lēk') An ancient city of Mongol China on the site of modern Beijing. Rebuilt by Kublai Khan from 1264 to 1267 on the site of an earlier city, Khanbalik was called Cambaluc by Marco Polo, who described its magnificence in the account of his travels.

Khan·ka (käng'kə), Lake. A lake between southeast Russia and northeast China north of Vladivostock. Most of it lies within Russian territory.

kha·pra beetle (kǎ'prə bēt'/l, kǎ'prə) n. A beetle (Trogoderma granurium) accidentally introduced to several places in the United States that is an extremely destructive grain pest. [Hindi khaprā, from khapnā, to destroy.]

Khar·kov (kār'kôf', KHär'kəf) A city of northeast Ukraine east of Kiev. Founded in 1656, it was an important 17th-century frontier headquarters of Ukrainian Cossacks who were loyal to the Russian czars. Today it is a major industrial center and transportation hub. Population, 1,554,000.

Khar·toum also Khar·tum (kär-tōom') The capital and largest city of Sudan, in the east-central part of the country at the confluence of the Blue Nile and the White Nile. It was founded c. 1821 as an Egyptian army camp and was destroyed by Mahdists in 1885 after a long siege. Lord Kitchener retook the city in 1898 and oversaw its rebuilding. Population, 476,218.

Khas·ko·vo (käs'kə-və, KHäs'-) A city of southern Bulgaria east-southeast of Plovdiv. Tobacco growing and processing are important to its economy. Population, 91,000.

khat (kät) n. 1. An evergreen shrub (Catha edulis) native to tropical East Africa, having dark green opposite leaves that are chewed fresh for their stimulating effects. 2. A tealike beverage prepared from the leaves of this plant. [Arabic qatt.]

Kha·tan·ga (kə-täng'gə, -täng'-, KHä-tän'-) A river, about 1,150 km (715 mi) long, of north-central Russia flowing southeast then north to the Khatanga Gulf, an arm of the Laptev Sea.

Khay·yám (kī-yām', -ām'), Omar. See Omar Khayyám.

khe·dive (kə-dēv') n. One of several Turkish viceroys ruling Egypt from 1867 to 1914. [French khédive, from Turkish hidiv, from Persian khidēw, lord, from Middle Persian khwadāy, from Old Iranian khvadāta-. See s(w)e- in Appendix.]

Kher·son (kěr-sôn', KHYr-) A city of south-central Ukraine on the Dnieper River near the Black Sea east-northeast of Odessa. It was founded in 1778 as a naval base. Population, 346,000.

khi (kī) n. Variant of chi.

Khí·os (kē'ôs, KHē'-) See Chios.

Khír·bet Qum·ran (kîr'bět kōom-rän') See Qumran.

Khmel·nit·sky (kə-məl-nít'skē, KHmyíl-nyět'-) A city of west-central Ukraine west-southwest of Kiev. Founded in the 15th century, it became part of Russia in 1795. Population, 217,000.

Khmer (kmâr) n. pl. Khmer or Khmers. 1. A member of a people of Cambodia whose civilization reached its height from the 9th to the 15th centuries.

2. The Mon-Khmer language that is the official language of Cambodia.

—Khmer, Khmer'i·an adj.

Khmer Republic (kmâr rī-püb'lík) See Cambodia.

Khoi-khoïn (koi'koi'ïn) or Khoi-khoi (koi'koi) n. pl. Khoikhoin or Khoi-khoins or Khoikhoi or Khoi-khois. 1. A member of a pastoral people of Namibia and South Africa. 2. Any of the Khoisan languages of the Khoikhoin, including Nama. [Nama khoi-khoi-n, the Nama people : khoi-khoi, to speak Nama (from khoi-, human being) + -n, pl. common gender suff.]

Khoi-san (koi'sän') n. A family of languages of southern Africa, including those of the Khoikhoin and the San. [Nama khoi-khoi-n, the Nama people; see KHOIKHOIN + san, the San people; see SAN.]

Kho-meï-ni (kō-mā'nē, KHŌ-, KHŌ'mā-nē'), Ayatollah Ruholla. 1900-1989. Iranian Shiite leader and head of state (1979-1989). Arrested (1963) and exiled (1964) for his opposition to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's regime, he returned to Iran on the shah's downfall (1979) and established a new constitution giving himself supreme powers. His reign was marked by a return to strict observance of the Islamic code.

Kho-per (kə-pyôr', KHŌ-) A river, about 1,006 km (625 mi) long, of southwest Russia flowing generally south to the Don River.

Kho-ra-na (kō-rä'nə), Har Gobind. Born 1922. Indian-born American biochemist. He shared a 1968 Nobel Prize for the study of genetic codes.

khoun (kōom, kōom) n. A unit of currency in Mauritania. See Table at currency. [Native word in Mauritania.]

Khru-shchev (krōosh'chëf, -chôf, KHRŌ-shchyôf'), Nikita Sergejevich. 1894-1971. Soviet politician. A Stalin loyalist in the 1930's, he was appointed first secretary of the Communist Party in 1953. As Soviet premier (1958-1964) he denounced Stalin (1956), thwarted the Hungarian Revolution of 1956, and improved his country's image abroad. He was deposed (1964) for his failure to establish missiles in Cuba (1962) and improve the Soviet economy.

Khu-fu (kōō'fōō') See Cheops.

Khul-na (kōol'nə) A city of southwest Bangladesh near the Ganges River delta. It is a trade and processing center for a large swampy, forested region. Population, 623,184.

Khwa-riz-mi (kwär'iz-mē, KHwär'-), al-. Full name Muhammad ibn-Musa al-Khwarizmi. 780?-850?. Muslim mathematician whose works introduced Arabic numerals and algebraic concepts to Western mathematics. The word algorithm is derived from his name.

Khy-ber Pass (kī'bər päs) A narrow pass, about 53 km (33 mi) long, through mountains on the border between western Afghanistan and northern Pakistan. It has long been a strategic trade and invasion route. The highest point of the pass is about 1,068 m (3,500 ft).

KHz abbr. Kilohertz.

KIA (kā'ī-ā') n. pl. KIA's also KIAs. A member of the armed services who is reported killed during a combat mission. [killed i(n) a(ction).]

Kia-ling (kyä'ling', jyä'-) See Jialing.

Ki-a-mich-i (kī'ə-mīsh'ē) A river, about 161 km (100 mi) long, of southeast Oklahoma flowing southwest then southeast to the Red River on the Texas border.

Kia-mu-sze (kyä'mōō'sōō') See Jiamusi.

ki-ang (kē-äng') n. A large wild ass (Equus hemionus subsp. kiang) of the mountains of Asia. [Tibetan rkyan.]

Kiang-si (kyäng'shē') See Jiangxi.

Kiang-su (kyäng'sōō', -sü') See Jiangsu.

kiaugh (kyākH) n. Scots. Trouble; anxiety. [Probably from Scottish Gaelic cabhag.]

kib-ble¹ (kīb'əl) n. An iron bucket used in wells or mines for hoisting water, ore, or refuse to the surface. [Probably from German Kübel, pail, from Middle High German kübel, from Old High German -chublī (in miluhchublī, milk pail), from Vulgar Latin cupia*, from Latin cūpa, vat.]

kib-ble² (kīb'əl) v. tr. kib-bled, kib-bling, kib-bles. To crush or grind (grain, for example) coarsely. — n. Meal ground by this process and used in the form of pellets especially for pet food. [Origin unknown.]

kib-butz (kī-bōōts', -bōōts') n. pl. kib-but-zim (kīb'ōōt-sēm', -ōōt-). A collective farm or settlement in modern Israel. [Hebrew qibbûṣ, gathering, from qibbēṣ, to gather.]

kib-butz-nik (kī-bōōts'nik, -bōōts'-) n. A member of a kibbutz.

kibe (kīb) n. A chapped or inflamed area on the skin, especially on the heel, resulting from exposure to cold; an ulcerated chillblain. [Middle English kybe.]

Ki-bei (kē-bā') n. pl. Kibei or Ki-beis. A person born in the United States of Japanese immigrant parents and educated chiefly in Japan. [Japanese, to go home, return to America, Kibei.]

kib-itiz (kīb'īts) v. intr. kib-itized, kib-itiz-ing, kib-itiz-es. Informal. 1. To look on and offer unwanted, usually meddlesome advice to others. 2. To chat; converse. [Yiddish kibitsen, from German kiebitzen, from Kiebitz, pewit, kibitzer, from Middle High German gībitz, pewit, of imitative origin.] — kib'itz-er n.

kib-lah (kīb'lə) n. Islam. The direction facing the Kaaba, toward which Muslims look when praying. [Arabic qiblah.]

ki-bosh (kī'bōsh', kī-bōsh') n. Informal. A checking or restraining element: had to put the kibosh on a poorly conceived plan. [Origin unknown.]

kick (kīk) v. kicked, kick-ing, kicks. — v. intr. 1. To strike out with the foot or feet. 2. a. Sports. To score or gain ground by kicking a ball. b. Football. To punt. 3. To recoil: The high-powered rifle kicked upon being fired. 4. Informal. a. To express negative feelings vigorously; complain. b. To oppose by argument; protest. See Synonyms at object. — v. tr. 1. To strike with the foot. 2. To propel by striking with the foot. 3. To spring back against suddenly: The rifle kicked my shoulder when I fired it. 4. Sports. To score (a goal or point) by kicking a ball. — n. 1. a. A vigorous blow with the foot. b. Sports. The thrusting motion of the legs in swimming. 2. A jolting recoil: a rifle with a heavy kick. 3. Slang. A complaint; a protest. 4. Slang. Power; force: an old engine that still has lots of kick. 5. Slang. a. A feeling of pleasurable stimulation: got a kick out of the show. b. kicks. Fun: Let's go to the show just for kicks. 6. Slang. Temporary, often obsessive interest: I'm on a science fiction kick. 7. Slang. A sudden, striking surprise; a twist. 8. Sports. a. The act or an instance of kicking a ball. b. A kicked ball. c. The distance spanned by a kicked ball. —phrasal verbs. kick around. Informal. 1. To treat badly; abuse. 2. To move from place to place: “spent the next three years in Italy, kicking around the country on a motor scooter” (Charles E. Claffey). 3. To give consideration or thought to (an idea). kick back. 4. To recoil unexpectedly and violently. 5. Slang. To return (stolen items). 6. Slang. To pay a kickback. kick in. 7. Informal. To contribute (one's share): kicked in a few dollars for the office party. 8. Slang. To die. kick off. 9. Sports. To begin or resume play with a kickoff. 10. Informal. To begin; start: kicked off the promotional tour with a press conference for the author. 11. Slang. To die. kick out. Slang. To throw out; dismiss. kick over. To begin to fire: The engine finally kicked over. kick up. Informal. 14. To increase in amount or force; intensify: A sandstorm kicked up while we drove through the desert. 15. To stir up (trouble): kicked up a row. 16. To show signs of disorder: His ulcer has kicked up again. —idioms. kick the bucket. Slang. To die. kick the habit. Slang. To free oneself of an addiction, as to narcotics or cigarettes. kick up (one's) heels. Informal. To cast off one's inhibitions and have a good time. kick upstairs. Slang. To promote to a higher yet less desirable position. [Middle English kiken, perhaps of Scandinavian origin.]

Kick-a-poo (kɪk'ə-pōō') n. pl. Kickapoo or Kick-a-poos. 1. a. A Native American people formerly inhabiting southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois, with small present-day populations in Kansas, Oklahoma, and northern Mexico. b. A member of this people. 2. The Algonquian language of the Kickapoo.

Kickapoo River (kɪk'ə-pōō' rɪv'ər) A river, about 161 km (100 mi) long, of southwest Wisconsin flowing south-southwest to the Wisconsin River.

kick-back (kɪk'băk') n. 1. A sharp reaction; a repercussion. 2. Slang. A return of a percentage of a sum of money already received, typically as a result of pressure, coercion, or a secret agreement.

kick-boxing (kɪk'bɒk'sɪŋ) n. The martial art and sport of attack and defense, practiced in a boxing ring and combining many elements of karate and boxing. —kick'box-er n.

kick-er (kɪk'ər) n. 1. One that kicks: a soccer player who was an excellent kicker. 2. Informal. a. A sudden, surprising turn of events or ending; a twist. b. A tricky or concealed condition; a pitfall: “The kicker is that the relationship of guide and seeker gets all mixed up with a confusing male-female attachment” (Gail Sheehy).

3. A condition that imposes an automatic increase, as in a pension plan.

kick-off (kĭk'ôf', -ôf') n. 1. Sports. A place kick in football or soccer with which play is begun. 2. Informal. A beginning: the kickoff of a charity campaign.

kick plate (kĭk plăt) n. A protective sheet of metal attached to the bottom of a door.

kick-shaw (kĭk'shô') n. 1. Fancy food; a delicacy. 2. A trinket; a gewgaw. [By folk etymology from French quelque chose, something : quelque, some (quel, what from Latin quālis, of what kind; see quality + que, what, which, who from Vulgar Latin que*, from Latin quid, what); see QUIDDITY + chose, thing; see CHOSE².]

kick-stand (kĭk'stănd') n. A swiveling metal bar for holding a two-wheeled vehicle, such as a motorcycle, upright when not being ridden.

kick-y (kĭk'ē) adj. kick-i-er, kick-i-est. Slang. So unusual or unconventional in character or nature as to provide a thrill.

kid (kĭd) n. 1. a. A young goat. b. The young of a similar animal, such as an antelope. 2. a. The flesh of a young goat. b. Leather made from the skin of a young goat; kidskin. c. An article made from this leather. 3. Informal. a. A child. b. A young person. 4. Slang. Pal. Used as a term of familiar address, especially for a young person: Hi, kid! What's up? — adj. 1. Made of kid.

2. Informal. Younger than oneself: my kid brother. — v. kid-ded, kid-ding, kids. — v. tr. Informal. 1. To mock playfully; tease. See Synonyms at banter.

2. To deceive in fun; fool. — v. intr. 1. Informal. To engage in teasing or good-humored fooling. 2. To bear young. Used of a goat or an antelope. [Middle English kide, from Old Norse kidh.] — kid'der n. — kid'ding-ly adv.

Kid (kĭd), Thomas. See Thomas Kyd.

kid-com (kĭd'kôm') n. A television or video presentation for children, especially a cartoon. [KID + (SIT)COM.]

Kidd (kĭd), William. Known as “Captain Kidd.” 1645?-1701. British sea captain who turned to piracy after being hired to protect British ships in the Indian Ocean (1696). His cruelty and undiscovered buried treasure, although unsubstantiated, remain legendary.

Kid-der-min-ster¹ (kĭd'ər-mĭn'stər) A municipal borough of west-central England west-southwest of Birmingham. Carpets have been manufactured here since 1735. Population, 91,600.

Kid-der-min-ster² (kĭd'ər-mĭn'stər) n. An ingrain carpet originally made in Kidderminster.

kid-die or kid-dy (kĭd'ē) n. pl. kid-dies. Slang. A small child.

kid-do (kĭd'ō) n. pl. kid-dos. Slang. 1. a. A child. b. A young person. 2. Pal. Used as a term of familiar address: “I said to the girl, rather snootily: ‘I have a trade, kiddo. I’m a detective’” (Ross Macdonald).

Kid-dush (kĭd'əsh, kē-dōosh') n. Judaism. The traditional blessing and prayer recited over wine on the eve of the Sabbath or a festival. [Hebrew qiddûš, from qāddēš, to sanctify.]

kid-dy (kĭd'ē) n. Slang. Variant of kiddie.

kid-e-o (kĭd'ē-ō) n. Slang. Kidvid. [KID + (VID)EO.]

kid glove (kĭd glŭv) n. A glove made of fine, soft leather, especially kidskin. —idiom. with kid gloves. Tactfully and cautiously: had to handle the temperamental artist with kid gloves.

kid-nap (kĭd'năp') v. tr. kid-napped or kid-naped, kid-nap-ping or kid-nap-ing, kid-naps or kid-naps. To seize and detain unlawfully and usually for ransom. [Probably KID + nap, to snatch (perhaps variant of NAB, and or of Scandinavian origin).] —kid'nap' n. —kid'nap'per, kid'nap'er n.

WORD HISTORY: Kidnapper seems to have originated appropriately enough among those who perpetrate this crime. We know this because kid and napper, the two parts of the compound, were slang of the sort that criminals might use. Kid, which some still find slangy, was considered low slang when kidnapper was formed, and napper is obsolete slang for a thief, coming from the verb nap, “to seize a person or thing, steal.” Nap is possibly a variant of nab, which still has a slangy ring to it. In 1678, the year in which the word is first recorded, kidnappers plied their trade on behalf of plantations in colonies such as the ones in North America. The term later took on the broader sense that it has today. The verb kidnap is recorded later (1682) than the noun and so is possibly a back-formation, that is, people have assumed that a kidnapper kidnaps.

kid-ney (kĭd'nē) n. pl. kid-neys. 1. Anatomy. Either one of a pair of organs in the dorsal region of the vertebrate abdominal cavity, functioning to maintain proper water and electrolyte balance, regulate acid-base concentration, and filter the blood of metabolic wastes, which are then excreted as urine. 2. The kidney of certain animals, eaten as food. 3. An excretory organ of certain invertebrates. 4. Kind; sort. [Middle English kidenere, kidenei, perhaps from Old English cydenēora* : cyde*, belly + nēora*, kidney.] kidney bean (kĭd'nē bēn) n. 1. An annual plant (Phaseolus vulgaris) cultivated in many forms for its edible pods and seeds. 2. The pod or seed of this plant.

kidney stone (kĭd'nē stōn) n. A small hard mass in the kidney that forms from deposits chiefly of phosphates and urates.

kid-skin (kĭd'skĭn') n. Soft leather made from the skin of a young goat.

kid stuff (kĭd stŭf) n. Slang. 1. Something suitable only for children. 2. Something very easy or uncomplicated.

kid·vid (kĭd'vĭd') n. Slang. 1. Television programs for children. 2. Home videotapes for children. [KID + VID(EO).]

Kiel (kēl) A city of northern Germany on Kiel Bay, an arm of the Baltic Sea. Chartered in 1242, Kiel joined the Hanseatic League in 1284, passed to Denmark in 1773, and was annexed by Prussia in 1866. German sailors mutinied here in 1918, setting off a socialist revolution. Population, 245,751.

kiel·ba·sa (kĭl-bă'sə, kēl-) n. A spicy, smoked Polish sausage. [Polish kielbasa, from East and West Slavic kŭlbasa*, from East Turkic kül bassĭ, grilled cutlet, from Turkic kül bastĭ : kül, coals, ashes + bastĭ, pressed (meat) (from basmaq, to press).]

Kiel Canal also Nord-Ost-see Ka·nal (nôrt-ôst'zā kā-näl') An artificial waterway, 98.1 km (61 mi) long, of northern Germany connecting the North Sea with the Baltic Sea. Built (1887-1895) to facilitate movement of the German fleet, it was widened and deepened from 1905 to 1914.

Kiel·ce (kyĕl'tsĕ) A city of southeast-central Poland south of Warsaw. Founded in 1173, it was controlled by Austria (from 1795) and Russia (from 1815) before reverting to Poland in 1919. Population, 200,500.

Kier·ke·gaard (kĭr'kĭ-gărd', -gôr'), Søren Aaby. 1813-1855. Danish religious philosopher. A precursor of modern existentialism, he insisted on the need for individual decision and leaps of faith in the search for religious truth, thereby contradicting Protestant dogma and Hegelianism. His works include Either/Or and Fear and Trembling (both 1843).

kie·sel·guhr (kē'zəl-gōor') n. See diatomite. [German Kieselgur : Kiesel, pebble (from Middle High German kisel, from Old High German chisil) + Gur, Guhr, ferment, earthy deposit from water (from gären, to ferment, blend of Middle High German jĕsan, from Old High German, and Middle High German jern*, to cause to ferment from Old High German jerian); see yes- in Appendix.]

kie·ser·ite (kē'zə-rīt') n. A whitish to yellowish hydrous magnesium sulfate mineral, MgSO₄·H₂O, found in salt residues. [After Dietrich Georg Kieser (1779-1862), German physician.]

Kie·sing·er (kē'zĭng-ər, -sĭng-) Kurt Georg. 1904-1988. West German politician who served as chancellor (1966-1969) and pursued the pro-Western policies of Konrad Adenauer.

Ki·ev (kē'ĕf, -ĕv, kyĕ'yĭf) The capital of Ukraine, in the north-central part of the republic on the Dnieper River. It was the center of the first Russian state and an early seat of Russian Christianity. Its power declined after the 12th century, and it was annexed by Moscow in 1686. It is often known as "the Mother of Cities." Population, 2,448,000.

kif (kĭf, kĕf) also kef (kĕf, kĕf, kāf) n. 1. Smoking material, such as Indian hemp, used especially in the Maghreb. 2. The euphoria caused by smoking this material. [Arabic kayf, kef, pleasure, well-being.]

Ki-ga-li (kĩ-gä'lē, kē-) The capital and largest city of Rwanda, in the central part of the country east of Lake Kivu. Population, 156,700.

kike (kīk) n. Offensive Slang. Used as a disparaging term for a Jew. [Origin unknown.]

Ki-klá-dhes (kē-klä'thēs) See Cyclades.

Ki-kon-go (kē-kōng'gō) n. See Kongo (n., sense 2).

Ki-ku-yu (kĩ-kōō'yōō) also Gi-ku-yu (gĩ-kōō'yōō) n. pl. Kikuyu or Ki-ku-yus also Gikuyu or Gi-ku-yus. 1. A member of a people of central and southern Kenya. 2. The Bantu language of the Kikuyu.

Ki-lau-e-a (kē'lou-ā'ə) An active volcanic crater on the southeast slope of Mauna Loa in south-central Hawaii Island. It is one of the largest and most spectacular craters in the world.

kil-der-kin (kīl'dər-kīn) n. 1. A cask. 2. An obsolete English measure of capacity equal to about 18 gallons (68 liters). [Middle English, alteration of Middle Flemish kinderkin (variant of Middle Dutch kindekijn): quintel, quintlein, quintal (from Medieval Latin quintāle); see QUINTAL + -kijn, diminutive suff.]

ki-lim (kē-lēm', kīl'īm) n. A tapestry-woven Turkish rug or other textile with geometric designs in rich, brilliant colors. [Turkish, from Persian gilīm.]

Kil-i-man-ja-ro (kīl'ə-mən-jär'ō), Mount. The highest mountain in Africa, in northeast Tanzania near the Kenya border, rising in two snow-capped peaks to 5,898.7 m (19,340 ft). The higher of the two peaks was first climbed in 1889.

kill¹ (kīl) v. killed, kill-ing, kills. — v. tr. 1. a. To put to death. b. To deprive of life: The Black Death was a disease that killed millions. 2. To put an end to; extinguish. 3. a. To destroy a vitally essential quality in: Too much garlic killed the taste of the meat. b. To cause to cease operating; turn off: killed the motor. c. To tire out completely; exhaust: "The trip to work, and the boredom and nervousness of jobs, kills men" (Jimmy Breslin). 4. To pass (time) in aimless activity: killed a few hours before the flight by sightseeing. 5. To consume entirely; finish off: kill a bottle of brandy. 6. To cause extreme pain or discomfort to: My shoes are killing me. 7. To mark for deletion; rule out: killed the story. 8. To thwart passage of; veto: kill a congressional bill. 9. Informal. To overwhelm with hilarity, pleasure, or admiration: The outstanding finale killed the audience. 10. Sports. a. To hit (a ball) with great force. b. To hit (a ball) with such force as to make a return impossible, especially in a racquet game. — v. intr. 1. To cause death or extinction; be fatal. 2. To commit murder. — n. 1. The act of killing. 2. a. An animal killed, especially in hunting. b. A person killed or to be killed: "Infantrymen... had seen too many kills suddenly get up and run away or shoot at them as they approached" (Nelson DeMille). c. An enemy aircraft, vessel, or missile that has been attacked and destroyed. 3. Sports. A kill shot. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: kill range; kill probability. — phrasal verb. kill off. To destroy in such large numbers as to render extinct. — idiom. in at the kill (or in on the kill). Present at the moment of triumph. [Middle English killen, perhaps from Old English cyllan*. See g^welə- in Appendix.]

kill² (kīl) n. New York State. See creek (n., sense 1). See Regional note at oli-cook. See Regional note at run. [Dutch kil, from Middle Dutch kille.]

Kil-lar-ney (kī-lār'nē), Lakes of. Three small lakes of southwest Ireland near the market town of Killarney (population, 7,693). Studded with islands, the lakes are a popular tourist attraction noted for their scenic beauty.

kill-deer (kīl'dîr') n. pl. killdeer or kill-deers. A New World plover (Charadrius vociferus) that has a distinctive noisy cry and two black bands across its breast. [Probably imitative of its call.]

Kil-leen (kī-lēn') A city of central Texas southwest of Waco. Founded in 1882, it has some light industry. Population, 63,535.

kill-er (kīl'ər) n. 1. One that kills: a disease that was a killer of thousands; a killer of new ideas. 2. Slang. Something that is extremely difficult to deal with or withstand: an exam that was a real killer.

killer bee (kīl'ər bē) n. See Africanized bee.

killer cell (kīl'ər sēl) n. A large, differentiated T cell that attacks and lyses target cells bearing specific antigens. Also called cytotoxic T cell, killer T cell.

kill-er-sat (kīl'ər-săt') n. An artificial satellite intended to destroy enemy satellites, especially one that contains explosives to be detonated when the satellite is maneuvered into the target's orbit. Also called killer satellite killer T cell (kīl'ər tē sēl) n. See killer cell.

killer whale (kīl'ər hwāl) n. A black and white predatory whale (Orcinus orca) that feeds on large fish, squid, and sometimes dolphins and seals. Also called orca kil-lick also kil-lock (kīl'ik) n. Nautical. A small anchor, especially one made of a stone in a wooden frame. [Origin unknown.]

kil-lie (kīl'ē) n. A killifish.

kil-li-fish (kīl'ī-fīsh') n. pl. killifish or kil-li-fish-es. Any of numerous small fishes of the family Cyprinodontidae, including the guppy and mosquito fish, inhabiting chiefly fresh and brackish waters in warm regions. [Perhaps KILL² + FISH.]

kill-ing (kīl'ing) n. 1. Murder; homicide. 2. A kill; a quarry. 3. A sudden large profit: made a killing on the stock market. — adj. 1. Intended or apt to kill; fatal. 2. Thoroughly exhausting: a killing pace. 3. Informal. Hilarious. — kill'ing-ly adv.

kill-joy (kīl'joi') n. One who spoils the enthusiasm or fun of others.

kil-lock (kīl'ik) n. Nautical. Variant of killick.

kill shot (kīl shōt) n. Sports. A shot in various games, especially racquet games, that is so forcefully hit or perfectly placed that it cannot be returned.

Kil-mar-nock (kīl-mär'nək) A burgh of southwest Scotland south-southwest of Glasgow. It is an industrial town in a mining region and the site of a monument to Robert Burns, whose poems were first published here in 1786. Population, 51,800.

Kil·mer (kĭl'mər), (Alfred) Joyce. 1886-1918. American poet whose best known work is "Trees" (1913). He was killed on a French battlefield in World War I.

kiln (kĭln, kĭl) n. Any of various ovens for hardening, burning, or drying substances such as grain, meal, or clay, especially a brick-lined oven used to bake or fire ceramics. — v. tr. kilned, kiln·ing, kilns. To process in one of these ovens. [Middle English kilne, from Old English cyln, from Latin culīna, kitchen, stove. See pek^w- in Appendix.]

ki·lo (kē'lō) n. pl. ki·los. 1. A kilogram. 2. A kilometer.

kilo- pref. One thousand (10^3): kilowatt. [French, from Greek khilioi, thousand. See gheslo- in Appendix.]

kil·o·bit (kĭl'ə-bīt') n. Computer Science. 1. A unit of information equal to 1,024 (2^{10}) bits. 2. One thousand bits.

kil·o·byte (kĭl'ə-bīt') n. Abbr. K, KB Computer Science. 1. A unit of measurement of the memory capacity of a computer, equal to 1,024 (2^{10}) bytes. 2. One thousand bytes.

kil·o·cal·o·rie (kĭl'ə-kāl'ə-rē) n. Abbr. kcal See calorie (n., sense 3a).

kil·o·cu·rie (kĭl'ə-kyōōr-ē', -kyōō'rē) n. Abbr. kc, kC One thousand curies.

kil·o·cy·cle (kĭl'ə-sī'kəl) n. Abbr. kc Kilohertz.

kil·o·gauss (kĭl'ə-gous') n. Abbr. kG A unit of magnetic induction equal to 1,000 (10^3) gauss.

kil·o·gram (kĭl'ə-grām') n. Abbr. kg 1. The base unit of mass in the International System, equal to 1,000 grams (2.2046 pounds). See Table at measurement. 2. Kilogram force.

kilogram calorie (kĭl'ə-grām' kāl'ə-rē) n. See calorie (n., sense 3a).

kilogram force (kĭl'ə-grām' fōrs) n. Abbr. kgf A force equal to a kilogram weight or a one-kilogram mass times the acceleration of gravity.

kil·o·gram·me·ter (kĭl'ə-grām-mē'tər) n. A unit of energy and work in the meter-kilogram-second system, equal to the work performed by a one-kilogram force acting through a distance of one meter.

kil·o·hertz (kĭl'ə-hūrts') n. Abbr. kHz A unit of frequency equal to 1,000 hertz.

kil·o·meg·a·cy·cle (kĭl'ə-mēg'ə-sī'kəl) n. See gigahertz.

kil·o·me·ter (kĭ-lōm'ī-tər, kĭl'ə-mē'tər) n. Abbr. km A metric unit of length equal to 1,000 meters (0.62 mile). See Table at measurement. — kil·o·met'ric (kĭl'ə-mēt'rik) adj.

kil·o·oer·sted (kĭl'ō-ûr'stəd') n. One thousand oersteds.

kil·o·ton (kĭl'ə-tŭn') n. Abbr. kt 1. A unit of weight or capacity equal to 1,000 tons. 2. An explosive force equivalent to that of 1,000 metric tons of TNT.

kil·o·watt (kĭl'ə-wōt') n. Abbr. kW A unit of power equal to 1,000 watts.

kil-o-watt-hour (kĭl'ə-wŏt-our') n. Abbr. kWh, kW-hr A unit of electric power equal to the work done by one kilowatt acting for one hour.

kilt (kĭlt) n. 1. A knee-length skirt with deep pleats, usually of a tartan wool, worn as part of the dress for men in the Scottish Highlands. 2. A similar skirt worn by women, girls, and boys. — v. tr. kilt-ed, kilt-ing, kilts. To tuck up (something) around the body. [From kilt, to tuck up, from Middle English kilten, of Scandinavian origin.]

kil-ter (kĭl'tər) n. Good condition; proper form: “policy ‘adjustments’ designed to bring the... country’s economy back into kilter with the Western economic system” (Edward Zuckerman). [Origin unknown.]

Kim-ber-ley (kĭm'bər-lē) A city of central South Africa west-northwest of Bloemfontein. Founded in 1871 after the discovery of a rich trove of diamonds nearby, Kimberley also has some manufacturing industries. Population, 70,920.

kim-ber-lite (kĭm'bər-līt') n. A rock formation in South Africa containing peridotite, in which diamonds are formed. [After Kimberley.]
—kim'ber-lit'ic (-līt'ik) adj.

Kim-bun-du (kĭm-bŏon'dŏo) n. See Mbundu (n., sense 4).

Kim Il Sung (kĭm' ĭl' sŭng', sŏng') , Originally Kim Song Ju. 1912?-1994. Korean soldier and politician who led the Korean People’s Army against Japan (1932-1945) and has served as premier (1948-1972) and president (1972-1994) of North Korea.

ki-mo-no (kə-mŏ'nə, -nŏ) n. pl. ki-mo-nos. 1. A long, wide-sleeved Japanese robelike dress worn with an obi and often elaborately decorated. 2. A loose robe worn chiefly by women. [Japanese : ki, to wear + mono, object.]

kin (kĭn) n. 1. (used with a pl. verb). One’s relatives; family; kinfolk. 2. A kinsman or kinswoman. — adj. Related; akin. [Middle English, from Old English cyn. See genə- in Appendix.]

-kin or -kins suff. Little one: devilkin. [Middle English, probably from Middle Dutch -kijn, -kin.]

ki-na (kē'nə) n. pl. kina or ki-nas. A basic unit of currency in Papua New Guinea. See Table at currency. [Indigenous word in Papua New Guinea.]

ki-nase (kī'nās', -nāz', kĭn'ās', āz') n. Any of various enzymes that catalyze the transfer of a phosphate group from a donor, such as ADP or ATP, to an acceptor. [KIN(ETIC) + -ASE.]

kind¹ (kĭnd) adj. kind-er, kind-est. 1. Of a friendly, generous, or warm-hearted nature. 2. Showing sympathy or understanding; charitable: a kind word. 3. Humane; considerate: kind to animals. 4. Forbearing; tolerant: Our neighbor was very kind about the window we broke. 5. Generous; liberal: kind words of praise. 6. Agreeable; beneficial: a dry climate kind to asthmatics. [Middle English, natural, kind, from Old English gecynde, natural. See genə- in Appendix.]

SYNONYMS: kind, kindly, kindhearted, benign, benevolent. These adjectives apply to persons and their actions and mean having or showing a tender, considerate, and helping nature. Kind and kindly are the least specific: is kind to sick patients; thanked her for her kind letter; a kindly gentleman; kindly criticism. Kindhearted especially suggests an innately kind disposition: a generous and kindhearted teacher. Benign implies gentleness and mildness: a benign smile; benign intentions; a benign ruler of millions. Benevolent suggests charitableness and a desire to promote the welfare or happiness of others: has a benevolent nature; a benevolent contributor.

kind² (kīnd) n. 1. A group of individuals linked by traits held in common. 2. A particular variety; a sort: What kind of soap do you like best? See Synonyms at type. 3. Fundamental, underlying character as a determinant of the class to which a thing belongs; nature or essence. 4. A doubtful or borderline member of a given category: fashioned a kind of shelter; a kind of bluish color. 5. Archaic. Manner. —idioms. all kinds of. Informal. Plenty of; ample: We have all kinds of time to finish the job. in kind. 2. With produce or commodities rather than with money: pay in kind. 3. In the same manner or with an equivalent: returned the slight in kind. kind of. Informal. Rather; somewhat: I'm kind of hungry. [Middle English, from Old English gēcýnd, race, offspring, kind. See genə- in Appendix.]

USAGE NOTE: The use of the plural demonstratives these and those with kind and sort, as in these kind (or sort) of films, has been a traditional bugbear of American grammarians. By and large, British grammarians have been more tolerant, and the construction can be found in the works of British writers from Pope to Dickens to Churchill. Grammatically, the question boils down to whether kind and sort should be treated as head nouns (analogous to species or variety, for example) or whether they have become semantically weakened to the status of a sort of phrasal quantifier that functions like an adjective, analogous in some ways to bunch and number in expressions such as a bunch of friends, a number of reasons. If kind and sort are unambiguously nouns, one would expect to see only singular demonstratives and singular verbs accompanying them: This kind of films is popular (compare This species of spider is found only in the New World). If they are functioning as adjectives, however, the plural demonstrative and plural verb should be acceptable: These kind of films are popular. In fact, the kind of construction can be plausibly analyzed either way, which is doubtless why writers have mixed and matched the number of demonstratives and verbs in just about every possible combination. We find reputable precedent for this kind of films are, these kind of films are, this kind of films is, these kind of films is, and so on. There are only two reliable regularities: when the plural kinds is used, the demonstrative and the verb must also be plural: These (not this) kinds of films are (not is) popular. By the same token, when both kind and the noun following it are singular, the verb must be singular: This kind of film is (not are) popular. To this may be added a word of caution to American writers: despite the existence of ample literary precedent for these kind of films, the construction has been so thoroughly stigmatized by native grammarians that its use would have to be reckoned indiscreet, if not strictly incorrect.

kin·der·gar·ten (kĭn'dər-gär'tn, -dn) n. Abbr. K A program or class for four-year-old to six-year-old children that serves as an introduction to school. [German : Kinder, genitive pl. of Kind, child (from Middle High German kint, from Old High German kind); see genə- in Appendix + Garten, garden (from Middle High German garte, from Old High German garto); see gher¹ in Appendix.]

kin·der·gart·ner also kin·der·gar·ten·er (kĭn'dər-gärt'nər, -gärd'-) n. 1. A child who attends kindergarten. 2. A teacher in a kindergarten. [German Kindergärtner, from Kindergarten, kindergarten. See KINDERGARTEN.]

kind·heart·ed (kĭnd'här'tĭd) adj. Having or proceeding from a kind heart. See Synonyms at kind¹. —kind'heart'ed·ly adv. —kind'heart'ed·ness n.

kin·dle¹ (kĭn'dl) v. kin·dled, kin·dling, kin·dles. — v. tr. 1. a. To build or fuel (a fire). b. To set fire to; ignite. 2. To cause to glow; light up: The sunset kindled the skies. 3. To arouse (an emotion, for example): "No spark had yet kindled in him an intellectual passion" (George Eliot). — v. intr. 1. To catch fire; burst into flame. 2. To become bright; glow. 3. To become inflamed. 4. To be stirred up; rise. [Middle English kindelen (influenced by kindelen, to give birth to, cause); see KINDLE², probably from Old Norse kynda.] —kin'dler n.

kin·dle² (kĭn'dl) n. A brood or litter, especially of kittens. See Synonyms at flock¹. — v. intr. kin·dled, kin·dling, kin·dles. To give birth to young. Used especially of rabbits. [Middle English kindelen, from kindel, offspring, from Old English gecynd. See KIND².] kind·less (kĭnd'lĭs) adj. 1. Exhibiting or feeling no kindness or compassion; heartless: a kindless refusal of our pleas. 2. Obsolete. Inhuman.

kind·li·ness (kĭnd'lĭ-nĭs) n. 1. The quality or state of being kindly. 2. A kindly deed: Thank you for your many kindlinesses.

kin·dling (kĭnd'lĭng) n. Easily ignited material, such as dry sticks of wood, used to start a fire. Regional. Also called lightwood See Regional note at lightwood.

kindling point (kĭnd'lĭng point) n. See ignition point.

kind·ly (kĭnd'lĭ) adj. kind·li·er, kind·li·est. 1. Of a sympathetic, helpful, or benevolent nature: a kindly interest; a gentle, kindly soul. See Synonyms at kind¹. 2. Agreeable; pleasant: a kindly breeze. 3. a. Archaic. Within the law; lawful. b. Obsolete. Natural to its kind. — adv. 1. Out of kindness: She kindly over- looked their mistake. 2. In a kind manner: He spoke kindly to us. 3. Pleasantly; agreeably: The sun shone kindly. 4. In an accommodating manner: Would you kindly fill in your name and address? 5. Obsolete. In a way or course that is natural; fittingly.

kind·ness (kīnd'nīs) n. 1. The quality or state of being kind. 2. An instance of kind behavior: I will always remember your many kindnesses to me.

kin·dred (kīn'drīd) n. 1. A group of related persons, as a clan or tribe. 2. (used with a pl. verb). A person's relatives; kinfolk. — adj. 1. Of the same ancestry or family: kindred clans. 2. Having a similar or related origin, nature, or character: kindred emotions. [Middle English kinrede, kindrede, from Old English cynrēde: cyn, kin; see genə- in Appendix + -rēde (variant of rāeden, condition); see ar- in Appendix.] — kin'dred·ness n.

kine (kīn) n. Archaic. A plural of cow¹. [Middle English kyn, from Old English cȳna, genitive pl. of cū, cow. See cow¹.]

kin·e·mat·ics (kīn'ə-măt'iks) n. (used with a sing. verb). The branch of mechanics that studies the motion of a body or a system of bodies without consideration given to its mass or the forces acting on it. [From Greek kinēma, kinēmat-, motion, from kinein, to move. See kei⁻² in Appendix.] — kin'e-mat'ic, kin'e-mat'i-cal adj. — kin'e-mat'i-cal-ly adv.

kin·e·scope (kīn'ī-skōp', kī'nī-) n. 1. See picture tube. 2. A film of a transmitted television program. — v. tr. kin·e·scoped, kin·e·scop·ing, kin·e·scopes. To make a film of (a transmitted television program). [Originally a trademark.]

ki·ne·sics (kə-nē'sīks, -zīks, kī-) n. (used with a sing. verb). The study of nonlinguistic bodily movements, such as gestures and facial expressions, as a systematic mode of communication. [From Greek kinēsis, movement, from kinein, to move. See kei⁻² in Appendix.] — ki·ne'sic (-sīk, -zīk) adj.

ki·ne·si·ol·o·gy (kə-nē'sē-ōl'ə-jē, -zē-) n. The study of muscles, especially the mechanics of human motion. [Greek kinēsis, movement (from kinein, to move); see kei⁻² in Appendix + -LOGY.] — ki·ne'si·ol'o·gist n.

-kinesis suff. Motion: photokinesis. [From Greek kinēsis, movement, from kinein, to move. See kei⁻² in Appendix.]

kin·es·the·sia (kīn'īs-thē'zhə, kī'nīs-) n. The sense that detects bodily position, weight, or movement of the muscles, tendons, and joints. [Greek kinein, to move; see kei⁻² in Appendix + ESTHESIA.] — kin'es-thet'ic (-thēt'ik) adj. — kin'es-thet'i-cal-ly adv.

ki·net·ic (kī-nēt'ik, kī-) adj. Of, relating to, or produced by motion. [Greek kinētikos, from kinētos, moving, from kinein, to move. See kei⁻² in Appendix.] — ki·net'i-cal-ly adv.

kinetic art (kĭ-nĕt'ĭk ärt) n. An art form, such as an assemblage or a sculpture, made up of parts designed to be set in motion by an internal mechanism or an external stimulus, such as light or air. —kinetic artist n.

kinetic energy (kĭ-nĕt'ĭk ĕn'ər-jĕ) n. The energy possessed by a body because of its motion, equal to one half the mass of the body times the square of its speed.

ki-net-i-cism (kə-nĕt'ĭ-sĭz'əm, kĭ-) n. The theory or practice of kinetic art. —ki-net'i-cist n.

ki-net-ics (kĭ-nĕt'ĭks, kĭ-) n. (used with a sing. verb). 1. See dynamics (n., sense 1a). 2. The branch of chemistry that is concerned with the rates of change in the concentration of reactants in a chemical reaction.

kinetic theory (kĭ-nĕt'ĭk thĕ'ə-rĕ) n. A theory concerning the thermodynamic behavior of matter, especially the relationships among pressure, volume, and temperature in gases. It is based on the dependence of temperature on the kinetic energy of the rapidly moving particles of a substance. According to the theory, energy and momentum are conserved in all collisions between particles, and the average behavior of the particles can be deduced by statistical analysis.

ki-ne-tin (kĭ'nĕ-tĭn) n. A plant hormone that promotes cell division.

kineto- pref. Movement: kinetoplast. [Greek kinĕto-, from kinĕtos, moving, from kinein, to move. See KINETIC.]

ki-net-o-chore (kĭ-nĕt'ə-kô'r', -kôr', -nĕ'tə-, kĭ-) n. Biology. Either of two sub-microscopic attachment points for chromosomal microtubules, present on each centromere during the process of cell division. [KINETO- + Greek khōros, place; see -CHORE.]

ki-net-o-plast (kĭ-nĕt'ə-plăst', -nĕ'tə-, kĭ-) n. Microbiology. An independently replicating structure lying near the base of the flagellum in certain protozoans.

ki-net-o-some (kĭ-nĕt'ə-sôm', -nĕ'tə-, kĭ-) n. See basal body.

kin-folk (kĭn'fôk') also kins-folk (kĭnz'-) or kin-folks (kĭn'fôks') pl.n. Relatives; kindred.

king (kĭng) n. 1. Abbr. k., K. A male sovereign. 2. One that is supreme or pre-eminent in a particular group, category, or sphere. 3. King. a. The perfect, omniscient, omnipotent being; God. b. Jesus. 4. Games. a. A playing card bearing the figure of a king, ranking above a queen. b. Abbr. K, k. The principal chess piece, which can move one square in any direction and must be protected against checkmate. c. A piece in checkers that has been moved to the last row on the opponent's side of the board and been crowned, thus becoming free to move both forward and backward. 5. Kings. (used with a sing. verb). Abbr. K A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible. — adj. Principal or chief, as in size or importance. — v. tr. kinged, king-ing, kings. Games. To make (a piece in checkers) into a king; crown. [Middle English, from Old English cyning. See genə- in Appendix.]

- King (kɪŋ), Billie Jean Moffitt. Born 1943. American tennis player who won 20 titles at Wimbledon (6 singles, 10 women's doubles, and 4 mixed doubles) and 4 U.S. Open championships (1967, 1971, 1972, and 1974).
- King (kɪŋ), Coretta Scott. Born 1927. American civil rights leader noted for her work on behalf of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Martin Luther King, Jr., Memorial Foundation after the assassination of her husband, Martin Luther King, Jr. (1968).
- King (kɪŋ), Ernest Joseph. 1878-1956. American naval officer who served as chief of naval operations (1942-1945) during World War II.
- King (kɪŋ), Martin Luther, Jr. 1929-1968. American cleric whose eloquence and commitment to nonviolent tactics formed the foundation of the civil rights movement of the 1950's and 1960's. Among the many peaceful demonstrations he led was the 1963 March on Washington, at which he delivered his "I have a dream" speech. He won the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize, four years before he was assassinated in Memphis, Tennessee.
- King (kɪŋ), Richard. 1825-1885. American steamboat captain and rancher whose 600,000-acre ranch in Texas was the largest in the United States.
- King (kɪŋ), Rufus. 1755-1827. American politician and diplomat. A member of the Continental Congress (1784-1787) and the Constitutional Convention (1787), he served as ambassador to Great Britain (1796-1803 and 1825-1826).
- King (kɪŋ), William Lyon Mackenzie. 1874-1950. Canadian politician who three times served as prime minister (1921-1926, 1926-1930, and 1935-1948).
- King (kɪŋ), William Rufus de Vane. 1786-1853. Vice President of the United States (1853) under Franklin Pierce. He died in office.
- king-bird (kɪŋ'bɪrd') n. Any of various American flycatchers of the genus Tyrannus, especially T. tyrannus.
- king-bolt (kɪŋ'bɔlt') n. A vertical bolt that joins the body of a wagon or other vehicle to its front axle and usually acts as a pivot. Also called kingpin
- King Charles spaniel (kɪŋ ʧɑrlz spæn'yəl) n. Any of a variety of English toy spaniel with a curly, black and tan coat and long ears. [After King CHARLES II.]
- king cobra (kɪŋ kō'brə) n. A large venomous snake (Ophiophagus hannah) of southeast Asia and the Philippines that can grow to a length of 5.5 meters (18 feet). Also called hamadryad
- king crab (kɪŋ kræb) n. 1. A large crab (Paralithodes camtschatica) inhabiting the coastal waters of Alaska, Japan, and Siberia and valued commercially for its edible flesh. Also called Alaskan king crab 2. See horseshoe crab.
- king-craft (kɪŋ'kræft') n. The artful exercise of power by a king.
- king-cup (kɪŋ'kʌp') n. Chiefly British. 1. Any of several plants with yellow flowers. 2. The marsh marigold.

king-dom (kɪŋg'dəm) n. 1. A political or territorial unit ruled by a sovereign. 2. a. The eternal spiritual sovereignty of God or Christ. b. The realm of this sovereignty. 3. A realm or sphere in which one thing is dominant: the kingdom of the imagination. 4. One of the three main divisions (animal, vegetable, and mineral) into which natural organisms and objects are classified. 5. The highest taxonomic classification into which organisms are grouped, based on fundamental similarities and common ancestry. One widely accepted taxonomic system designates five such classifications: animals, plants, fungi, prokaryotes, and protocists. See Table at taxonomy. [Middle English, from Old English cyningdōm : cyning, king; see KING + -dōm, -dom.]

kingdom come (kɪŋg'dəm kʊm) n. Informal. 1. The next world: a bomb that could blow us to kingdom come. 2. The end of time: You can complain till kingdom come, but it won't help. [From the phrase thy kingdom come in the Lord's Prayer.]

king-fish (kɪŋg'fɪʃ') n. pl. kingfish or king-fish-es. 1. a. Any of several food and game fishes of the drum family, especially of the genus Menticirrhus, indigenous to warm Atlantic waters. b. Any of several similar or related fishes, indigenous to the Pacific Ocean. 2. Informal. A person in a position of uncontested authority or influence, especially a powerful political leader.

king-fish-er (kɪŋg'fɪʃ'ər) n. Any of various birds of the family Alcedinidae, characteristically having a crested head, a long stout beak, a short tail, and brilliant coloration.

King James Bible (kɪŋg dʒɑmz bɪ'bəl) n. Bible. An English translation of the Bible from Hebrew and Greek published in 1611 under the auspices of James I. Also called Authorized Version, King James Version.

king-let (kɪŋg'lɪt) n. 1. Any of several small, grayish North American birds of the genus Regulus, having a yellowish or reddish patch on the crown of the head. 2. A king ruling a kingdom considered small or unimportant.

king-ly (kɪŋg'lē) adj. king-li-er, king-li-est. 1. Having the status or rank of king. 2. Of, like, or befitting a king; majestic and regal. — adv. In a royal way; royally. — king/li-ness n.

king mackerel (kɪŋg mæk'ər-əl) n. A food and game fish (Scomberomorus cavalla) of warm Atlantic waters. Also called cavalla king-mak-er (kɪŋg'mā'kər) n. One who has the political power to influence the selection of a candidate for high public office. — king/mak'ing adj. & n.

king-of-arms (kɪŋg'əv-ärmz') n. pl. kings-of-arms (kɪŋgz'-). A high-ranking heraldic officer in Great Britain.

King of Prus-sia (kɪŋg ʊv prʊʃ'hə) A community of southeast Pennsylvania, a suburb of Philadelphia. Population, 18,200.

king-pin (kɪŋg'pɪn') n. 1. Sports. The foremost or central pin in an arrangement of bowling pins. Also called head pin 2. The most important person or element in an enterprise or a system. 3. See kingbolt.

king post (kɪŋ pōst) n. Architecture. A supporting post extending vertically from a crossbeam to the apex of a triangular truss.

king salmon (kɪŋ sām'ən) n. See Chinook salmon.

King's Bench (kɪŋz bɛnʃ) n. Law. A division of the British superior court system that hears criminal and civil cases. Used when the sovereign is a man.

King's Counsel (kɪŋz koun'səl) n. Abbr. K.C. Law. A barrister appointed as counsel to the British crown. Used when the sovereign is a man.

King's English (kɪŋz ɪŋ'ɡlɪʃ) n. English speech or usage that is considered standard or accepted; Received Standard English.

king-ship (kɪŋ'shɪp') n. 1. The position, power, or province of a king. 2. The domain ruled by a king; a kingdom. 3. The period or tenure of a king; a reign. 4. Used with his as a title for a king. 5. A monarchy.

kingside (kɪŋ'sɪd') n. Games. The side of the chessboard that is nearest to the king's opening position. —king'side' adv. & adj.

king-size (kɪŋ'sɪz') or king-sized (-sɪzd') adj. 1. Larger or longer than the usual or standard size: a king-size desk; king-size pretzels. 2. Very large in scope or intensity: a king-size headache. 3. a. Measuring about 76 inches by 80 inches (1.9 meters by 2.0 meters). Used of a bed. b. Being of a size that will fit such a bed: king-size fitted sheets.

Kings-ley (kɪŋz'lē), Charles. 1819-1875. British cleric and writer whose works include novels of social criticism, notably Alton Locke (1850), historical romances, such as Westward Ho! (1855), and a fairy tale, The Water Babies (1863).

King's Lynn (kɪŋz lɪn) A municipal borough of eastern England on the Ouse River near the Wash. Dating from Saxon times, it was formerly one of the chief ports in England. Population, 33,340.

king snake (kɪŋ snāk) n. Any of various nonvenomous constricting New World snakes of the genus Lampropeltis, having a black or brown body with white, yellow, or reddish markings and feeding principally on rodents.

kings-of-arms (kɪŋz'əv-ärmz') n. Plural of king-of-arms.

Kings Peak (kɪŋz pēk) A peak, 4,116.9 m (13,498 ft) high, of the Uinta Mountains in northeast Utah. It is the highest elevation in the range.

Kings-port (kɪŋz'pôrt', -pôrt') A city of northeast Tennessee near the Virginia border east-northeast of Knoxville. Its industries include printing and bookbinding. Population, 36,365.

Kings River (kɪŋz rɪv'ər) A river, about 201 km (125 mi) long, of central California rising in headstreams that flow through the gorges of Kings Canyon in the Sierra Nevada.

King-ston (kɪŋ'stən) 1. A city of southeast Ontario, Canada, on Lake Ontario near the head of the St. Lawrence River. The present city was founded by Loyalists in 1783 on the site of Fort Frontenac, a crucial defense point in the French and Indian Wars. It was the capital of Canada from 1841 to 1844. Population, 52,616.

- 2. The capital of Jamaica, in the southeast part of the island on the Caribbean Sea. It was founded c. 1692 and became the capital in 1872. Population, 586,930. 3. A city of southeast New York on the Hudson River north of Poughkeepsie. Permanently established in 1652, it was the capital of New York State until the British burned the town in October 1777. Population, 23,095. 4. A borough of north-east-central Pennsylvania on the Susquehanna River opposite Wilkes-Barre. It is mainly residential. Population, 15,681.

King-ston-up-on-Hull (kɪŋ'stən-ə-pɒn-hʊl', -pɒn-) See Hull (sense 2).

Kings-town (kɪŋz'toun') The capital of St. Vincent and the Grenadines in the West Indies, on the southwest coast of St. Vincent Island. A botanic garden, the oldest of its kind in the Western Hemisphere, was established here in 1763. Population, 18,378.

Kings-ville (kɪŋz'vɪl', -vəl) A city of southern Texas southwest of Corpus Christi. It is the headquarters for the enormous King Ranch. Population, 25,276.

Kings-wood (kɪŋz'wʊd') An urban district of southwest England, a mainly residential suburb of Bristol. Population, 84,200.

King-teh-chen (kɪŋ'tə'chɛn') See Jingdezhen.

King Wil-liam Island (kɪŋ wɪl'ɣəm ɪ'lænd) An island of central Northwest Territories, Canada, in the Arctic Ocean between Boothia Peninsula and Victoria Island. It was first explored in 1831.

king-wood (kɪŋ'wʊd') n. 1. A South American tree (Dalbergia cearensis) with hard, fine-textured, purplish-brown wood used in cabinetmaking. 2. The wood of this tree.

ki-nin (kɪ'nɪn) n. Any of various structurally related polypeptides, such as bradykinin, that act locally to induce vasodilation and contraction of smooth muscle. [Short for bradykinin : BRADY- + Greek kinein, to move; see kei² in Appendix + -IN.]

kink (kɪŋk) n. 1. A tight curl, twist, or bend in a length of thin material, as one caused by the tensing of a looped section of wire. 2. A painful muscle spasm, as in the neck or back; a crick. 3. A difficulty or flaw that is likely to impede operation, as in a plan or system. 4. A mental peculiarity; a quirk. 5. An unusual or eccentric idea. 6. Slang. Peculiarity or deviation in sexual behavior or taste. — v. intr. tr. kinked, kink-ing, kinks. To form or cause to form a kink or kinks. [Dutch, twist in a rope.]

Kin-kaid (kɪn-kād'), Thomas Cassin. 1888-1972. American admiral who commanded (1943-1945) the Allied naval forces in the South Pacific during World War II.

kink-a-jou (kɪŋ'kə-jō) n. An arboreal mammal (Potos flavus) of Central and South America, having brownish fur and a long, prehensile tail. Also called honey bear [French quincajou, wolverine, probably blend of Ojibwa gwiingwa'aage, and Montagnais (Cree) kuàkuàtsheu.]

kink·y (kɪŋgʹkē) adj. kink·i·er, kink·i·est. 1. Tightly twisted or curled: kinky hair. 2. Slang. Showing or appealing to bizarre or deviant tastes, especially of a sexual or erotic nature: “his appetite for kinky filmmaking, unmitigated by any artistry” (John Simon). —kinkʹi·ly adv. —kinkʹi·ness n.

kin·ni·kin·nick also kin·ni·kin·nic (kɪnʹi·kɪ·nɪkʹ) n. 1. A preparation made from dried leaves, bark, and sometimes tobacco and smoked especially by certain Native American peoples. 2. See bearberry. [Unami (Delaware language) kə̀ləkkə̀niikkən, literally, item for mixing in, kinnikinnick.]

ki·no (kēʹnō) n. pl. ki·nos. A reddish resin obtained from several Old World trees of the genera Eucalyptus, Pterocarpus, and Butea and from tropical American trees of the genera Coccoloba and Dipteryx. [New Latin, of West African origin; akin to Mandingo keno.]

Ki·no (kēʹnō), Eusebio Francisco. 1645?-1711. Italian-born Jesuit missionary who explored and mapped much of the American Southwest and Mexico.

-kins suff. Variant of -kin.

Kin·sey (kɪnʹzē), Alfred Charles. 1894-1956. American biologist noted for his studies of human sexuality, published as Sexual Behavior in the Human Male (1948) and Sexual Behavior in the Human Female (1953).

kins·folk (kɪnzʹfōkʹ) pl.n. Variant of kinfolk.

Kin·sha·sa (kɪn·shäʹsə) Formerly Le·o·pold·ville (lēʹə·pōld·vɪlʹ, lāʹ-). The capital and largest city of Zaire, in the western part of the country on the Congo River. Founded in 1881 by the explorer Henry M. Stanley, who named it after his patron, Leopold II of Belgium, it became capital of the Belgian Congo in 1926 and was the scene of the revolt (June 1960) that led to Zaire’s independence. In 1966 its name was changed to Kinshasa, after the name of an early village that occupied the site. Population, 2,653,558.

kin·ship (kɪnʹshɪpʹ) n. 1. Connection by blood, marriage, or adoption; family relationship. 2. Relationship by nature or character; affinity.

kins·man (kɪnzʹmən) n. 1. A relative who is a man. 2. A man sharing the same racial, cultural, or national background as another.

Kin·ston (kɪnʹstən) A city of east-central North Carolina southeast of Raleigh. It is a tobacco market. Population, 25,295.

kins·wom·an (kɪnzʹwōmʹən) n. 1. A relative who is a woman. 2. A woman sharing the same racial, cultural, or national background as another.

Kin·yar·wan·da (kɪnʹyär·wänʹdə) n. A Bantu language of Rwanda, closely related to Kirundi and an official language of Rwanda.

Ki·o·ga or Ky·o·ga (kē·ōʹgə), Lake. An irregularly shaped lake of central Uganda. The shallow lake is noted for its papyrus swamps.

ki·osk (kēʹōskʹ, kē·ōskʹ) n. 1. A small open gazebo or pavilion. 2. A small structure, often open on one or more sides, used as a newsstand or booth. 3. A cylindrical structure on which advertisements are posted. [French kiosque, from Turkish köşk, from Middle Persian gōshak, corner, from Avestan gaoshaka-*, diminutive of gaosha-, ear.]

WORD HISTORY: The lowly kiosk where one buys a newspaper or on which one posts advertisements is like a child in a fairy tale who though raised by humble parents is really the descendant of kings. The word kiosk was originally taken into English ultimately from Turkish, in which its source köshk meant “pavilion.” The open structures referred to by the Turkish word were used as pavilions and summerhouses in Turkey and Persia. The first recorded use of kiosk in English (1625) has reference to these Middle Eastern structures, which Europeans imitated in their own gardens and parks. In France and Belgium, where the Turkish word had also been borrowed, their word kiosque was applied to something lower on the scale, structures resembling these pavilions but used as places to sell newspapers or as bandstands. England borrowed this lowly structure from France and reborrowed the word, which is first recorded in 1865 with reference to a place where newspapers are sold.

Ki·o·wa (kī'ə-wô', -wä', -wā') n. pl. Kiowa or Ki-o-was. 1. a. A Native American people formerly inhabiting the southern Great Plains, with a present-day population in southwest Oklahoma. The Kiowa migrated onto the plains in the late 17th century from an earlier territory in western Montana. b. A member of this people. 2. The Tanoan language of the Kiowa.

Kiowa Apache (kī'ə-wô' ə-pāsh') n. pl. Kiowa Apache or Kiowa Apaches. 1. a. A Native American people of the southern Great Plains who formed an integral part of the Kiowa tribe and shared its culture and history although speaking an unrelated Athabaskan language. b. A member of this people. 2. The Athabaskan language of the Kiowa Apache.

kip¹ (kĭp) n. pl. kip. A basic unit of currency in Laos. See Table at currency. [Thai.]

kip² (kĭp) n. 1. The untanned hide of a small or young animal, such as a calf. 2. A set or bundle of such hides. [Middle English, bundle of animal hides, perhaps from Middle Dutch, or Middle Low German.]

kip³ (kĭp) Chiefly British. n. 1. A rooming house. 2. A place to sleep; a bed. 3. Sleep. — v. intr. kipped, kip-ping, kips. To sleep. [Perhaps from Danish kippe, cheap inn; akin to Old Norse -kippa, as in korn-kippa, seedcorn holder; akin to Low German kiffe, hovel.]

kip⁴ (kĭp) n. A unit of weight equal to 1,000 pounds (455 kilograms). [KI(LO)- + P(OUND)¹.]

Kip-ling (kĭp'ling), (Joseph) Rudyard. 1865-1936. British writer whose major works, including the short story “The Man Who Would Be King” (1889), a collection of children's stories, The Jungle Book (1894), and the novel Kim (1901), are set in British-occupied India. He won the 1907 Nobel Prize for literature.

kip-per (kɪp'ər) n. 1. A male salmon or sea trout during or shortly after the spawning season. 2. A herring or salmon that has been split, salted, and smoked. — v. tr. kip-pered, kip-per-ing, kip-pers. To prepare (fish) by splitting, salting, and smoking. [Middle English kipre, from Old English cypera, spawning male salmon, probably from cyperen, of copper, from coper, copper (because of the fish's color during the spawning season). See COPPER¹.]

kir also Kir (kîr) n. A drink consisting of dry white wine or champagne flavored with cassis. [After Canon Félix Kir (1876-1968), mayor of Dijon, France.]

Kir-by-Smith (kûr'bē-smîth'), Edmund. 1824-1893. American Confederate officer active in the Kentucky campaign (1862). He was the last Confederate commander to surrender (May 1865).

Kirch-hoff (kîr'kôf', kîrKH'hôf), Gustav Robert. 1824-1887. German physicist noted for his research in spectrum analysis, optics, and electricity.

Kirch-ner (kîrk'nər, kîrKH'-), Ernst Ludwig. 1880-1938. German expressionist artist whose woodcuts and paintings, such as The Street (1913), convey psychological tension and eroticism with sharply contrasting colors and angular forms.

Kir-ghiz¹ or Kir-giz (kîr-gēz') n. pl. Kirghiz or Kir-ghiz-es or Kirgiz or Kir-giz-es. 1. A member of a traditionally nomadic people living principally in Kirghiz. 2. The Turkic language of the Kirghiz.

Kir-ghiz² or Kir-giz (kîr-gēz', -gyēs') also Kir-ghiz-stan or Kir-giz-stan or Kyr-gyz-stan (-gē-stān', -gyē-) also Kir-ghi-zia or Kir-gi-zia (-gē'zhə, -zhē-ə, -gyē'zī-yə) A region and republic of west-central Asia bordering on northwest China. It was probably inhabited before the 13th century by a Turkic-speaking Mongolian people and was annexed by Russia in 1864. Part of a larger autonomous region of the U.S.S.R. after 1917, it was reorganized in 1926 and was constituent republic from 1936 to 1991. Bishkek is the capital. Population, 3,967,000.

Ki-ri-ba-ti (kēr'ə-bā'tē, kîr'ə-bās') An island country of the west-central Pacific Ocean near the equator. It includes the former Gilbert Islands, Ocean Island, and the Phoenix and Line islands. The country became independent from Great Britain in 1979. Bairiki, on Tarawa atoll, is the administrative center. Population, 56,213.

kir-i-ga-mi (kîr'î-gä'mē) n. The Japanese art of cutting and folding paper into ornamental objects or designs. [Japanese : kiri, to cut + kami, paper.]

Ki-rin (kē'rîn') See Jilin.

kirk (kûrk) n. 1. Scots. A church. 2. Kirk. Chiefly British. The Presbyterian Church of Scotland. Used with the. [Middle English, from Old Norse kirkja, from Old English cirice, church. See CHURCH.]

Kirk-land (kûrk'lænd) A city of west-central Washington on Lake Washington northeast of Seattle. It is a residential community with some light industry. Population, 40,052.

Kirk-pat-ric (kûrk-păt'rik), Mount. A mountain, 4,531.1 m (14,856 ft) high, of Antarctica near the edge of the Ross Ice Shelf.

Kirks-ville (kûrks'vîl') A city of northern Missouri northwest of Hannibal. It is a manufacturing center in a coal-mining area. Population, 17,152.

Kir-kuk (kîr-kōōk') A city of northeast Iraq southeast of Mosul. Built on the site of a settlement dating to 3000 B.C., it is an agricultural market in an oil-producing region. Population, 207,900.

Kirk-wall (kûrk'wôl', -wəl) A burgh of northern Scotland on Mainland Island in the central Orkney Islands. In early times it was important as a trading post on the northern route to Scandinavia. Population, 5,713.

Kirk-wood (kûrk'wōōd') A city of eastern Missouri, a commercial and residential suburb of St. Louis. Population, 27,291.

Kir-li-an photography (kîr'lē-ən fə-tōg'rə-fē) n. The process of photographing an object by exposing film in a dark room to ultraviolet light that results from electronic and ionic interactions caused by an electric field. The photograph shows a light, glowing band surrounding the outline of the object. [After S.D. and V.K. Kirlian, 20th-century Russian electricians.]

Kir-man (kîr-män', kər-) n. A Persian rug with a pastel background, a center medallion, and an ornately patterned border. [After Kerman.]

kir-mess (kûr'mîs) n. Variant of kermis.

Ki-rov (kē'rôf', kyē'-rəf) A city of west-central Russia east-northeast of Moscow. Founded c. 1174, it became the center of a medieval principality that was conquered by Ivan III in 1489. Population, 411,000.

Ki-rov (kē'rôf', kyē'-rəf), Sergei Mironovich. 1886-1934. Russian revolutionary who was a chief aid of Stalin. His assassination, possibly on Stalin's order, formed the pretext of a major purge of the Communist Party.

Ki-ro-va-bad (kî-rō'və-bäd', kyî'rə-və-bät') A city of western Azerbaijan southeast of Tbilisi. An important textile and wine center in medieval times, Kirovabad was annexed by Russia in 1804. Population, 261,000.

Ki-ro-vo-grad (kî-rō'və-gräd', kyî'rə-və-grät') A city of central Ukraine south-southeast of Kiev. It is primarily an agricultural trade center in the black-earth region of the southern Ukraine. Population, 263,000.

kirsch (kîrsh) n. A colorless brandy made from the fermented juice of cherries. [French, short for German Kirschwasser. See KIRSCHWASSER.]

kirsch-was-ser (kîrsh'və'sər) n. Kirsch. [German : Kirsch, cherry (from Middle High German kirse, from Old High German kirsa, from Vulgar Latin ceresia*); see CHERRY + Wasser, water (from Middle High German wasser, from Old High German wassar); see wed-1 in Appendix.]

kir-tle (kûr'tl) n. Archaic. 1. A man's knee-length tunic or coat. 2. A woman's dress or skirt. [Middle English kirtel, from Old English cyrtel, probably ultimately from Latin curtus, short. See sker¹ in Appendix.]

Ki-run-di (kē-rōon'dē) n. A Bantu language of Burundi, closely related to Kinyarwanda and an official language of Burundi.

Ki-san-ga-ni (kē'sän-gä'nē, kī-zäng'gä-nē) Formerly Stan-ley-ville (stän'lē-vīl'). A city of northern Zaire on the Congo River northeast of Kinshasa. It was founded in 1883 by the explorer Henry M. Stanley. Population, 282,650.

Kish (kīsh) An ancient city of Mesopotamia in the Euphrates River valley of present-day central Iraq. Its extensive ruins have yielded valuable archaeological evidence about Sumerian culture.

Ki-shi-nev (kīsh'ə-nĕf', -nôf', ky' shī-nyôf') The capital of Moldavia, in the southern part of the republic near the Romanian border northwest of Odessa. It was founded as a monastery center in the early 15th century. Population, 624,000.

kish-ke also kish-ka (kīsh'kə) n. See derma². [Yiddish, from Russian kishka, intestine. See (s)keu- in Appendix.]

Ki-si (kē'sē', -shē') See Jixi.

Kis-ka Island (kīs'kə ī'lənd) An island of southwest Alaska near the western end of the Aleutian Islands. It was held by the Japanese from June 1942 until August 15, 1943.

Kis-lev (kīs'ləv, kēs-lĕv') n. The third month of the year in the Jewish calendar. See Table at calendar. [Hebrew kislēw, from Akkadian kislīmu, kisliwu.]

kis-met (kīz'mĕt', -mīt') n. Fate; fortune. See Synonyms at fate. [Turkish, from Persian qismat, from Arabic qismah, lot, from qasama, to divide, allot.]

kiss (kīs) v. kissed, kiss-ing, kiss-es. — v. tr. 1. To touch or caress with the lips as an expression of affection, greeting, respect, or amorousness. 2. To touch lightly or gently: flowers that were kissed by dew. 3. To strike lightly; brush against: barely kissed the other car with the bumper. — v. intr. 1. To engage in mutual touching or caressing with the lips. 2. To come into light contact. — n. 1. A caress or touch with the lips. 2. A slight or gentle touch. 3. A small piece of candy, especially of chocolate. 4. A drop cookie made of egg whites and sugar.

—phrasal verb. kiss off. Slang. 1. To dismiss or reject. 2. To be forced to give up or regard as lost: He can kiss off that promotion. 3. To leave or disappear from notice: got bad press by telling the reporters to kiss off. —idioms. kiss ass. Vulgar Slang. To act submissively or obsequiously in order to gain favor. kiss good-bye. Informal. To be forced to regard as lost, ruined, or hopeless: She can kiss her vacation plans good-bye. [Middle English kissen, from Old English cyssan.]

—kiss'a-ble adj.

kiss and tell (kīs ənd tĕl) n. An article, a book, an interview, or a film containing confidential or embarrassing information based on firsthand knowledge: "a literature that combines the best of success with the best of kiss and tell" (Ellen Goodman).

kiss-and-tell (kɪs'ən-təl') adj. Informal. Revealing confidential or embarrassing information that is based on firsthand knowledge: "upset the CIA with a kiss-and-tell book" (Sharon Churcher).

kiss-er (kɪs'ər) n. 1. One that kisses: a politician known as an inveterate kisser of babies. 2. Slang. The mouth. 3. Slang. The face. See Synonyms at face.

Kis-sim-mee (kɪ-sɪm'ē) A city of central Florida south of Orlando. Shipbuilding and fruit packing are among its industries. Population, 30,050.

Kissimmee River (kɪ-sɪm'ē rɪv'ər) A river of central Florida flowing about 225 km (140 mi) south-southeast through Lake Kissimmee to Lake Okeechobee.

kiss-ing bug (kɪs'ɪŋ bʌg) n. See conenose.

kissing cousin (kɪs'ɪŋ kʊz'ɪn) n. 1. A distant relative known well enough to be kissed when greeted. 2. One of two or more things that are closely akin.

kissing disease (kɪs'ɪŋ dɪ-zēz') n. Informal. Infectious mononucleosis.

Kis-sin-ger (kɪs'ɪn-jər), Henry Alfred. Born 1923. German-born American diplomat who was national security adviser (1969-1975) and U.S. secretary of state (1973-1977) under Presidents Nixon and Ford. He shared the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize for helping negotiate the Vietnam cease-fire.

kiss of death (kɪs ÷v dəθ) n. Something that is ultimately ruinous, destructive, or fatal: "Divorce was once a political kiss of death" (Ellen Goodman). [From the kiss by which Judas betrayed Jesus (Mark 14:44-46).]

kiss-off (kɪs'ɒf', -ɔf') n. Slang. A dismissal, as from a job.

kiss of life (kɪs ÷v lɪf) n. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

kiss of peace (kɪs ÷v pēs) n. A ceremonial gesture, such as a kiss or handclasp, used as a sign of love and union in some Christian churches during celebration of the Eucharist.

kist (kɪst) n. Variant of cist².

Kist-na (kɪst'nə) or Krish-na (krɪʃh'-) A river of southern India rising in the Western Ghats and flowing about 1,287 km (800 mi) eastward to the Bay of Bengal.

Ki-swa-hi-li (kē'swā-hē'lē) n. See Swahili (n., sense 2).

kit¹ (kɪt) n. 1. a. A set of articles or implements used for a specific purpose: a survival kit; a shaving kit. b. A container for such a set. 2. A set of parts or materials to be assembled: a model airplane kit. 3. A packaged set of related materials: a sales kit. 4. a. A collection of clothing and other personal effects used for travel. b. A container, such as a bag, valise, or knapsack, for storing or holding such a collection. —idiom. the (whole) kit and caboodle. Informal. The entire collection or lot. [Middle English kitte, wooden tub, probably from Middle Dutch.]

kit² (kīt) n. 1. A kitten. 2. A young, often undersized fur-bearing animal.

[Short for KITTEN.]

kit³ (kīt) n. Music. A tiny, narrow violin used by dancing masters in the 17th and 18th centuries. [Origin unknown.]

Ki-ta-kyu-shu (kē-tā'kyōō-shōō) A city of northern Kyushu, Japan, on the channel connecting the Inland Sea with the Korea Strait. It is one of Japan's most important manufacturing centers. Population, 1,056,400.

kit bag (kīt bāg) n. A traveling bag, such as a knapsack.

Kit Car-son Mountain (kīt kār'sən kār'sən) A peak, 4,320.3 m (14,165 ft) high, in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of south-central Colorado.

kitch-en (kīch'ən) n. 1. A room or an area equipped for preparing and cooking food. 2. A style of cooking; cuisine: a restaurant with a fine French kitchen. 3. A staff that prepares, cooks, and serves food. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: kitchen appliances; kitchen help. [Middle English kichene, from Old English cycene, probably from Vulgar Latin cočina*, from Late Latin coquīna, from feminine of Latin coquīnus, of cooking, from coquus, cook, from coquere, to cook. See pek^w- in Appendix.]

kitchen cabinet (kīch'ən kăb'ə-nīt) n. A group of unofficial advisers to the head of a government. [From the story that President Andrew Jackson met with his unofficial cabinet in the White House kitchen.]

Kitch-e-ner (kīch'-nər, kīch'ə-nər) A city of southern Ontario, Canada, west-southwest of Toronto. Settled by Mennonites (1806) and by Germans who named it Berlin in 1825, it was renamed in honor of Lord Kitchener in 1916. Population, 139,734.

Kitch-e-ner (kīch'-nər, kīch'ə-nər), Horatio Herbert First Earl Kitchener of Khartoum and of Broome. 1850-1916. British soldier and colonial administrator who led Egyptian troops in the retaking of the Sudan (1898), brought the Boer War (1899-1902) to a conclusion, and served as secretary for war (1914-1916) during World War I.

kitch-en-ette (kīch'ə-nēt') n. A small kitchen.

kitchen garden (kīch'ən găr'dn) n. A garden in which vegetables, fruits, and herbs are grown for household consumption.

kitchen midden (kīch'ən mīd'n) n. 1. A mound of kitchen refuse.

2. Archaeology. A mound containing shells, animal bones, and other refuse that indicates the site of a human settlement.

kitchen police (kīch'ən pə-lēs') n. 1. Enlisted military personnel assigned to work in a kitchen. 2. Military duty assisting cooks.

kitch-en-ware (kīch'ən-wâr') n. Utensils, such as pots and pans, for use in a kitchen.

kite (kīt) n. 1. A light framework covered with cloth, plastic, or paper, designed to be flown in the wind at the end of a long string. 2. Nautical. Any of the light sails of a ship that are used only in a light wind. 3. Any of various predatory birds of the hawk family Accipitridae, having a long, often forked tail and long pointed wings. 4. a. A piece of negotiable paper representing a fictitious financial transaction and used temporarily to sustain credit or raise money. b. A bank check drawn on insufficient funds to take advantage of the time interval required for collection. c. A bank check that has been fraudulently altered to show a larger amount. — v. kit-ed, kit-ing, kites. — v. intr. 1. To fly like a kite; soar or glide. 2. To get money or credit with a kite. — v. tr. 1. To use (a bad check) to sustain credit or raise money. 2. To increase the amount of (a check) fraudulently. [Middle English, bird of prey, from Old English cȳta.]

kith and kin (kĭth' ən kĭn') pl.n. 1. One's acquaintances and relatives.

2. One's relatives. [Middle English kith, from Old English cȳth, kinsfolk, neighbors. See gnō- in Appendix.]

Ki-thi-ra (kē'thē-rä') See Cythera.

Ki-tik-me-ot (kĭ-tĭk'mē-öt') A region of central Northwest Territories, Canada, including a portion of the northern mainland and Victoria and King William islands.

kitsch (kĭch) n. 1. a. Art or artwork characterized by sentimental, often pretentious bad taste: "When money tries to buy beauty it tends to purchase a kind of courteous kitsch" (William H. Gass). b. The aesthetic or mentality in which such art is conceived or appreciated: "a movie that sets out to expose the kitsch of Hollywood fantasy" (Vincent Canby). 2. Culture or civilization in a degraded state of sentimentality and vulgarity. — adj. Relating to or characterized by kitsch. [German, probably of dialectal origin.] — kitsch/i-fy' v. — kitsch/y adj.

kit-ten (kĭt'n) n. A young cat. — v. intr. kit-tened, kit-ten-ing, kit-tens. To bear kittens. [Middle English kitoun, probably from Old North French caton*, diminutive of cat, cat, from Late Latin cattus.]

kit-ten-ish (kĭt'n-ĭsh) adj. Playfully coy and frisky. — kit'ten-ish-ly adv. — kit'ten-ish-ness n.

Kit-ter-y (kĭt'ə-rē) A town of extreme southwest Maine opposite Portsmouth, New Hampshire. The oldest town in Maine (settled c. 1623), it has long been a shipbuilding center. Population, 5,465.

kit-ti-wake (kĭt'ē-wāk') n. Either of two cliff-nesting gulls (Rissa tridactyla or R. brevirostris) of northern regions, having a rudimentary hind toe. [Perhaps imitative of its cry.]

kit-tle (kĭt'l) Scots. adj. Touchy; unpredictable. — v. tr. kit-tled, kit-tling, kit-tles. 1. To tickle; arouse. 2. To puzzle; perplex. [From Middle English kit-illen, to tickle, probably from Old English citelian*, or from Old Norse kitla, to tickle.]

Kit-tredge (kĭt'rĭj), George Lyman. 1860-1941. American scholar noted for his expertise on the works of Chaucer and Shakespeare.

kit-ty¹ (kĭt'ē) n. pl. kit-ties. 1. Games. A fund made up of a portion of each pot in a poker game. 2. A pool of money, especially one to which a number of people have contributed for a designated purpose. 3. See widow (n., sense 3). [Probably from KIT¹.]

kit-ty² (kĭt'ē) n. pl. kit-ties. A cat, especially a kitten. [Shortening and alteration of KITTEN.]

kit-ty-cornered (kĭt'ē-kôr'nərd) or kit-ty-corner (-kôr'nər) adj. & adv. Variants of cater-cornered.

Kit-ty Hawk (kĭt'ē hôk') A village of northeast North Carolina on a sandy peninsula between Albemarle Sound and the Atlantic Ocean. Nearby is Kill Devil Hill, the site of the Wright brothers' first two successful flights (December 17, 1903).

KIT-TY LIT-TER (kĭt'ē lit'ər) A trademark used for granulated clay placed in a box or pan to absorb the waste of a pet, especially a cat.

Ki-twe (kē'twā') A city of north-central Zambia near the Zaire border. It was founded in 1936 as a copper-mining center. Population, 207,500.

ki-va (kē'və) n. An underground or partly underground chamber in a Pueblo village, used by the men especially for ceremonies or councils. [Hopi kíva.]

Ki-vu (kē'vōō), Lake. A lake on the Zaire-Rwanda border north of Lake Tanganyika. It is situated at an altitude of 1,461 m (4,790 ft) and is Africa's highest lake.

ki-wi (kē'wē) n. pl. ki-wis. 1. Any of several flightless birds of the genus Apteryx native to New Zealand, having vestigial wings and a long, slender bill. Also called apteryx 2. a. A woody Chinese vine (Actinidia chinensis) having brown, fuzzy, edible fruit with a green, sweet pulp. b. The fruit of this plant. Also called Chinese gooseberry [Maori, perhaps of imitative origin.]

Ki-zil Ir-mak also Ki-zil-Ir-mak (kĭ-zil' îr-mäk') A river of north-central Turkey flowing about 1,150 km (715 mi) southwest, west, north, and then northeast to the Black Sea.

kj or kj abbr. Kilojoule.

KJV abbr. Bible. King James Version.

KKK or K.K.K. abbr. Ku Klux Klan.

KKt abbr. Games. King's knight.

kl abbr. Kiloliter.

Kla-gen-furt (klä'gən-föört') A city of southern Austria southwest of Graz. It was chartered in 1279 and is today a manufacturing center and noted ski resort. Population, 87,321.

Klai-pe-da (klī'pĭ-də, -pĕ-dä) Formerly Me-mel (mā'məl). A city of western Lithuania on the Baltic Sea. Founded as a fortress in 1252, it was an important trading town of the Hanseatic League and was later held by Sweden, Russia, Prussia, Lithuania, and Germany before its capture by Soviet forces in 1945. Population, 195,000.

Klam-ath (klām'əth) n. pl. Klamath or Klam-aths. 1. a. A Native American people inhabiting an area of the Cascade Range in south-central Oregon and northern California, with close cultural ties to the Modoc. b. A member of this people. 2. The Penutian language of the Klamath.

Klamath Falls (klām'əth fôlz) A city of southern Oregon near the California border east-southeast of Medford. It is a resort center in a lumber, livestock, and agriculture area. Population, 17,737.

Klamath River (klām'əth rĭv'ər) A river flowing about 423 km (263 mi) generally southwest from Upper Klamath Lake in southwest Oregon through northwest California to the Pacific Ocean.

Klan (klän) n. The Ku Klux Klan.

Klans-man (klänz'mən) n. A member of the Ku Klux Klan.

klav-ern (kläv'ərən) n. A local organizational unit of the Ku Klux Klan. [KL(AN) + (C)AVERN.]

Klax-on (kläk'sən) A trademark used for a loud electric horn.

Klee (klā), Paul. 1879-1940. Swiss artist who combined his expert use of line and color and his theories of abstract art to produce works of whimsy and innocence.

Kleen-ex (klē'něks') A trademark used for a soft facial tissue. This trademark sometimes occurs in print, capitalized or lowercased, with the general meaning "a facial tissue": "handed out police badges to a platoon of extras and later dispensed Kleenexes to the same extras dressed in funereal black" (Los Angeles Times). "Does somebody have a Kleenex? she asked" (New York Times). The trademark is also used in print in figurative extensions as an adjective: "It's an attitude that comes from looking at countries—and people—as 'dispensable,' the Kleenex school of foreign policy" (Mary McGrory).

Klein (klīn), Lawrence R. Born 1920. American economist. He won a 1980 Nobel Prize for developing models to forecast economic trends.

Klein bottle (klīn bōt'l) n. A one-sided topologic surface having no inside or outside, formed by inserting the small open end of a tapered tube through the side of the tube and making it contiguous with the larger open end. [After Felix Klein (1849-1925), German mathematician.]

Kleist (klīst), Heinrich von. 1777-1811. German writer whose novellas and dramas, including The Broken Pitcher (1811), concern characters torn between reason and emotion and between heroism and cowardice.

Klem-per-er (klēm'pər-ər), Otto. 1885-1973. German conductor noted for his interpretations of Beethoven, Mahler, and Richard Strauss.

klep-toc-ra-cy (klěp-tōk'rə-sē) n. pl. klep-toc-ra-cies. A government characterized by rampant greed and corruption. [Greek kleptein, to steal + -CRACY.]
—klep'to-crat'ic (-tə-krät'ĭk) adj.

klep-to-ma-ni-a (klĕp'tə-mā'nē-ə, -mān'yə) n. Psychiatry. An obsessive impulse to steal regardless of economic need, usually arising from an unconscious symbolic value associated with the stolen item. [Greek kleptein, to steal + -MANIA.] — klep'to-ma'ni-ac' (-nē-āk') n. — klep'to-ma-ni'a-cal (-mə-nī'ī-kəl) adj.

Kle-ve (klā'və) also Cleves (klēvz) A city of west-central Germany west-southwest of Münster. It was the seat of a historical duchy and passed subsequently to Brandenburg, Prussia, France, and Prussia again. Population, 44,223.

klez-mer (klĕz'mər) n. pl. klez-mo-rim (klĕz'mə-rēm'). Music. 1. A traditionally itinerant Jewish folk musician of eastern Europe performing in a small band, as at weddings. 2. The Jewish folk music played by small, traditionally itinerant bands. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: klezmer bands; klezmer repertory; klezmer music. [Yiddish, from Hebrew kēlê zemer, musical instruments.]

Klieg light (klĕg līt) n. A powerful carbon-arc lamp producing an intense light and used especially in making movies. [After John H. Kliegl (1869-1959) and his brother Anton T. Kliegl (1872-1927), German-born American lighting experts.]

Klimt (klīmt), Gustav. 1862-1918. Austrian painter whose works, executed in the art nouveau style, include The Three Ages of Woman (1905) and The Kiss (1908).

Kline (klīn), Franz Joseph. 1910-1962. American abstract expressionist painter many of whose works are characterized by bold, controlled black strokes on a white field.

klip-spring-er (klīp'sprīng'ər) n. A small, agile African antelope (Oreotragus oreotragus) having large ears. [Afrikaans : Dutch klip, cliff (from Middle Dutch klippe) + Dutch springer, jumper (from springen, to leap, from Middle Dutch).]

Klit-zing (klīt'sīng), Klaus von. Born 1943. German physicist. He won a 1985 Nobel Prize for developing a precise method of measuring electrical conductivity.

Klon-dike (klōn'dīk') A region of Yukon Territory, Canada, just east of Alaska and traversed by the Klondike River, about 145 km (90 mi) long. Gold was discovered here in August 1896, leading to the gold rush of 1897-1898 in which more than 25,000 people sought their fortune in the frozen north. Small quantities of gold are still mined in the area.

kloof (klōof) n. South African. A deep ravine. [Afrikaans, from Dutch, from Middle Dutch clove, cleft. See gleubh- in Appendix.]

Klop-stock (klöp'stök', klôp'shtôk'), Friedrich Gottlieb. 1724-1803. German poet whose unrhymed classically structured works, notably the epic The Messiah (1748-1773), influenced Goethe and the development of German literature.

kludge or kluge (klōōj) n. Slang. A system, especially a computer system, that is constituted of poorly matched elements or of elements originally intended for other applications. [Origin unknown.] —kludge v. —kludg'y adj.

WORD HISTORY: The word kludge is not “etymologist-friendly,” having many possible origins, none of which can be definitively established. This term, found frequently in the jargon of the engineering and computer professions, denotes a usually workable but makeshift system, modification, solution, or repair. Kludge has had a relatively short life (first recorded in 1962 although it is said to have been used as early as 1944 or 1945) for a word with so many possible origins. The proposed sources of the word, German klug, kluge, “intelligent, clever,” or a blend of klutz and nudge or klutz and refudge, do not contain all the necessary sounds to give us the word, correctly pronounced at least. The notions that kludge may have been coined by a computer technician or that it might be the last name of a designer of graphics hardware seem belied by the possibility that it is older than such origins would allow. It seems most likely that the word kludge originally was formed during the course of a specific situation in which such a device was called for. The makers of the word, if still alive, are no doubt unaware that etymologists need information so they can stop trying to “kludge” an etymology together.

Klug (klüg, klōōg), Aaron. Born 1926. South African-born British biochemist. He won a 1982 Nobel Prize for research on the structure of viruses and particles of proteins and nucleic acids.

klutz (klüts) n. Slang. 1. A clumsy person. 2. A person regarded as stupid. [Yiddish klots, from Middle High German kloz, block, lump.] —klutz'i-ness n. —klutz'y adj.

kly-stron (klī'strōn') n. An electron tube used to amplify or generate ultrahigh frequency by means of velocity modulation. [Greek kluzein, klus-, to wash + -TRON.]

km abbr. Kilometer.

K-me-son (kā'mēz'ōn, -mē'zōn, -mēs'ōn, -mē'sōn) n. See kaon.

kmpH abbr. Kilometers per hour.

kmps abbr. Kilometers per second.

KN abbr. Games. King's knight.

kn. abbr. Nautical. Knot.

knack (näk) n. 1. A clever, expedient way of doing something. 2. A specific talent for something, especially one difficult to explain or teach. See Synonyms at art¹. 3. Archaic. a. A cleverly designed device. b. A knickknack. [Middle English knakke, from Middle Dutch cnacken, to strike, crack, probably of imitative origin.]

knack·er (năk'ər) n. Chiefly British. 1. A person who buys worn-out or old live-stock and slaughters them to sell the meat or hides. 2. A person who buys dis-carded structures and dismantles them to sell the materials. [Probably of Scandinavian origin.] —knack'er·y (-ə-rē) n.

knack-wurst or knock-wurst (nők'wûrst', -wōōrst') n. A short, thick, highly seasoned sausage. [German : knacken, to crack (from Middle High Ger-man, of imitative origin) + Wurst, sausage; see WURST.]

knap (năp) v. tr. knapped, knap-ping, knaps. 1. To break or chip (stone) with sharp blows, as in shaping flint or obsidian into tools. 2. Chiefly British.
a. To strike sharply; rap. b. To snap at or bite. [Middle English knappen, proba-bly of imitative origin.] —knap'per n.

knap-sack (năp'săk') n. A bag made of sturdy material and furnished with shoulder straps, designed for carrying articles such as camping supplies on the back. [Probably Low German Knappsack : knappen, to bite (probably of imitative origin) + Sack, bag (from Middle Low German sak, from Old High German sac, from Late Latin saccus); see SACK¹.]

knap-weed (năp'wēd') n. Any of various thistles of the genus Centaurea, hav-ing variously colored flowers grouped in a head with a spiny involucre. [Middle English knopwed : knop, knob (from Old English cnop) + wed, weed; see WEED¹.]

knar also knaur (năr) n. A knot or burl on a tree or in wood. [Middle English knarre, probably from Old English cnear*, or from Middle Dutch and Middle Low German knorre.]

knave (nāv) n. 1. An unprincipled, crafty fellow. 2. a. A male servant. b. A man of humble birth. 3. Games. See jack (n., sense 3). [Middle English, from Old English cnafa, boy, male servant.] —knav'ish adj. —knav'ish-ly adv. —knav'ish-ness n.

knav·er·y (nāv'və-rē) n. pl. knav·er·ies. 1. Dishonest or crafty dealing. 2. An instance of trickery or mischief.

knawel (nôl) also knawe (nô) n. A low-growing, weedy Eurasian annual (Scleranthus annuus) having narrow leaves and inconspicuous green flowers. [German Knäuel, from Middle High German kliuwel, kniuwel, diminutive of kli-uwe, ball of yarn, from Old High German kliuwa.]

knead (nēd) v. tr. knead-ed, knead-ing, kneads. 1. To mix and work into a uniform mass, as by folding, pressing, and stretching with the hands: kneading dough. 2. To make or shape by or as if by folding, pressing, and stretching with the hands. 3. To squeeze, press, or roll with the hands, as in massaging: kneading a painful calf muscle. [Middle English kneden, from Old English cnedan.] —knead'er n.

knee (nē) n. 1. a. Anatomy. The joint between the thigh and the lower leg, formed by the articulation of the femur and the tibia and covered anteriorly by the patella. b. The region of the leg that encloses and supports this joint. 2. An analogous joint or part of a leg of a quadruped vertebrate. 3. Something resembling the human knee, such as a bent piece of pipe. 4. The part of a garment, as of trousers, that covers the knee. 5. An abrupt woody projection arising from the roots of some swamp-growing trees: cypress knees. — v. tr. kneed, knee-ing, knees. To strike with the knee. [Middle English, from Old English cnēo. See genu-¹ in Appendix.]

knee action (nē ăk'shən) n. An automotive front-wheel suspension that permits independent vertical motion of each wheel.

knee-board (nē'bôrd', -bôrd') n. 1. Sports. A short surfboard ridden in a kneeling position. 2. A clipboard used especially by pilots during flights for holding maps and checklists. — v. intr. knee-board-ed, knee-board-ing, knee-boards. Sports. To ride a short surfboard in a kneeling position.

knee breeches (nē brîch'îz) pl.n. Trousers extending down to or just below the knee.

knee-cap (nē'kăp') n. 1. See patella (n., sense 1a). 2. See kneepad. — v. tr. knee-capped, knee-cap-ping, knee-caps. To cripple by shooting in the legs, especially in the knees.

knee-deep (nē'dēp') adj. 1. Reaching as high as the knees: knee-deep floodwaters. 2. Submerged to the knees: was knee-deep in mud. 3. Deeply occupied or involved: is knee-deep in work.

knee-high (nē'hî') adj. Reaching up to the knees: a knee-high table. — n. (nē'hî') A sock or stocking that extends just below the knee.

knee-hole (nē'hôl') n. A space or an opening for the knees, as under a desk.

knee jerk (nē jûrk) n. A reflex contraction of the quadriceps muscle resulting in a sudden involuntary extension of the leg, produced by a sharp tap to the tendon below the patella; patellar reflex.

knee-jerk (nē'jûrk') adj. Slang. 1. Easily predictable; automatic: "quick, easy laughs and knee-jerk responses" (New York). 2. Reacting spontaneously in the expected manner: a knee-jerk cynic.

kneel (nēl) v. intr. knelt (nēlt) or kneeled, kneel-ing, kneels. To go down or rest on one or both knees. [Middle English knelen, from Old English cnēowlian. See genu-¹ in Appendix.]

kneel-er (nē'lăr) n. 1. One who kneels, as to pray. 2. Something, such as a stool, cushion, or board, on which to kneel.

knee-pad (nē'păd') n. A protective covering for the knee. Also called kneecap knee sock (nē sŏk) n. A sock that reaches just below the knee. Often used in the plural.

knell (nēl) v. knelled, knell-ing, knells. — v. intr. 1. To ring slowly and solemnly, especially for a funeral; toll. 2. To give forth a mournful or ominous sound. — v. tr. To signal, summon, or proclaim by tolling. — n. 1. The sound of a bell knelling; a toll. 2. A signal of disaster or destruction. [Middle English knellen, from Old English cnyllan.]

Kneller (nĕl'ər), Sir Godfrey. 1646?-1723. German-born English portrait painter whose subjects included English royalty, aristocrats, and scholars.

knelt (nĕlt) v. A past tense and a past participle of kneel.

Knesset (knĕs'ĕt') n. The unicameral parliament of Israel. [Modern Hebrew Knesset, from Hebrew (Mishnaic) kĕneset, assembly, from kānas, to assemble.]

knew (nōō, nyōō) v. Past tense of know.

Knickerbocker (nĭk'ər-bŏk'ər) n. 1. a. A descendant of the Dutch settlers of New York. b. A native or inhabitant of New York. 2. knickerbockers. Full breeches gathered and banded just below the knee; knickers. [After Diedrich Knickerbocker, fictitious author of History of New York by Washington Irving.]

knickers (nĭk'ərz) pl.n. 1. a. Long bloomers formerly worn as underwear by women and girls. b. Chiefly British. Panties. 2. Full breeches gathered and banded just below the knee. [Short for KNICKERBOCKERS.]

knick-knack also nick-nack (nĭk'năk') n. A small ornamental article; a trinket. [Reduplication of KNACK.]

knife (nĭf) n. pl. knives (nĭvz). 1. A cutting instrument consisting of a sharp blade attached to a handle. 2. A cutting edge; a blade. — v. knifed, knif-ing, knives. — v. tr. 1. To use a knife on, especially to stab; wound with a knife. 2. Informal. To betray or attempt to defeat by underhand means. — v. intr. To cut or slash a way through something with or as if with a knife: The boat knifed through the waves. — idiom. under the knife. Informal. Undergoing surgery. [Middle English knif, from Old English cniif, from Old Norse knifr.] — knif'er n.

knife-edge (nĭf'ĕj') n. 1. A sharp cutting edge. 2. A sharp, narrow edge or border: “saying lines that teeter on the knife-edge between literature and lunacy” (Vincent Canby). 3. A wedge of metal used as a low-friction fulcrum for a balancing beam or lever.

knife-point (nĭf'pɔɪnt') n. The sharp end of a knife. — idiom. at knife-point. Under threat of being stabbed or cut with a knife: was mugged at knife-point.

Knife River (nĭf rĭv'ər) A river, about 265 km (165 mi) long, of west-central North Dakota flowing east to the Missouri River.

knight (nĭt) n. 1. Abbr. Knt, kt. a. A medieval tenant giving military service as a mounted man-at-arms to a feudal landholder. b. Abbr. Knt, kt. A medieval gentleman-soldier, usually high-born, raised by a sovereign to privileged military status after training as a page and squire. c. Abbr. K, k. A man holding a nonhereditary title conferred by a sovereign in recognition of personal merit or service to the country. 2. Abbr. Knt., kt. A man belonging to an order or a brotherhood. 3. a. A defender, champion, or zealous upholder of a cause or principle. b. The devoted champion of a lady. 4. Abbr. Kt, N Games. A chess piece, usually in the shape of a horse's head, that can be moved two squares horizontally and one vertically or two squares vertically and one horizontally. — v. tr.

knight-ed, knight-ing, knights. To raise (a person) to knighthood. [Middle English, from Old English cniht.] —knight/ly adj., adv. —knight/li-ness n.

knight bachelor (nīt bäch'ə-lər) n. pl. knights bachelors or knight bachelors. An English knight of the lowest rank; a bachelor.

knight-errant (nīt'ēr'ənt) n. pl. knights-errant (nīts'-). 1. A knight, often portrayed in medieval romances, who wanders in search of adventures to prove his chivalry. 2. One given to adventurous or quixotic conduct. —knight'er/rant-ry (-ēr'ən-trē) n.

knight-head (nīt'hěd') n. Nautical. Either of two timbers rising from the keel of a sailing ship and supporting the inner end of the bowsprit. [From the fact that it was sometimes decorated with a carving of a man's head.]

knight-hood (nīt'hööd') n. 1. The rank, dignity, or vocation of a knight. 2. Behavior or qualities befitting a knight; chivalry. 3. Knights considered as a group.

Knight of Columbus (nīt ÷v kə-lŭm'bəs) n. pl. Knights of Columbus. Abbr. K of C, K.C. A member of a benevolent and fraternal society of Roman Catholic men founded in 1882.

Knight of Pythias (nīt ÷v pīth'ē-əs) n. pl. Knights of Pythias. Abbr. K of P A member of a secret, philanthropic fraternal order founded in 1864.

knights-errant (nīts'ēr'ənt) n. Plural of knight-errant.

Knights of the Round Table (nīts ÷v thə round tā'bəl) pl.n. In Arthurian legend, the knights of King Arthur's court.

Knight Templar (nīt tēm'plər) n. pl. Knights Templars or Knights Templar. 1. A member of an order of knights founded about 1118 to protect pilgrims in the Holy Land during the Second Crusade and suppressed in 1312. 2. A man belonging to a Masonic order in the United States.

knish (kə-nīsh') n. A piece of dough stuffed with potato, meat, or cheese and baked or fried. [Yiddish, from Ukrainian knysh, probably of Turkic origin.]

knit (nīt) v. knit or knit-ted, knit-ting, knits. — v. tr. 1. To make (a fabric or garment) by intertwining yarn or thread in a series of connected loops either by hand with knitting needles or on a machine. 2. To form (yarn or thread) into fabric by intertwining. 3. To join closely; unite securely. 4. To draw (the brows) together in wrinkles; furrow. — v. intr. 1. To make a fabric or garment by knitting. 2. To become securely joined or mended together closely, as a fractured bone. 3. To come together in wrinkles or furrows, as the brows. — n. 1. A fabric or garment made by knitting. 2. The way in which a fabric has been knit: a loose knit. [Middle English knitten, to tie in a knot, from Old English cnyttan.] —knit/ter n.

knit-ting (nĭt'ĭng) n. 1. The act or process of producing something knitted.

2. Material that has been knitted or is in the process of being knitted; knitted work.

knitting needle (nĭt'ĭng nĕd'l) n. A long, thin, pointed rod used in pairs to knit yarn into cloth.

knit-wear (nĭt'wâr') n. Knitted garments.

knives (nĭvz) n. Plural of knife.

knob (nŏb) n. 1. A rounded protuberance. 2. a. A rounded handle, as on a drawer or door. b. A rounded control switch or dial. 3. A prominent rounded hill or mountain. [Middle English knobbe.] —knobbed (nŏbd) adj.

—knob'by adj.

knob-ker-rie (nŏb'kĕr'ĕ) n. A short club with one knobbed end, used as a weapon by warriors of certain South African peoples. [Afrikaans knopkierie: knop, knob (from Middle Dutch cnoppe) + kieri, club (from Khoikhoi kirri, stick).]

knock (nŏk) v. knocked, knock-ing, knocks. — v. tr. 1. To strike with a hard blow. 2. To affect in a specified way by striking hard: knocked the attacker senseless. 3. To cause to collide: I knocked my head on a low beam. 4. To produce by hitting or striking: knocked a hole in the wall. 5. To instill with or as if with blows: We tried to knock some sense into his head. 6. Slang. To find fault with; criticize: Don't knock the food; it's free. — v. intr. 1. To strike a sharp, audible blow or series of blows, as on a door. 2. To collide with something: knocked into the table. 3. To make a pounding or clanking noise: The car engine is knocking.

— n. 1. An instance of striking or colliding; a blow. 2. The sound of a sharp tap on a hard surface; a rap. 3. A pounding or clanking noise made by an engine, often as a result of faulty fuel combustion. Also called ping. 4. Slang. A cutting, often petty criticism. —phrasal verbs. knock around (or knock about).

1. To be rough or brutal with; maltreat. 2. To wander from place to place: knocking around Europe. 3. Informal. To discuss or consider: met to knock around some ideas. knock back. Informal. To gulp (an alcoholic drink). knock down. 5. To bring to the ground with a blow; topple. 6. To disassemble into parts, as for storage or shipping. 7. To declare sold at an auction, as by striking a blow with a gavel. 8. Informal. To reduce, as in price: knocked all the radios down 20 percent.

9. Slang. To receive as wages; earn: knocks down $50 an hour. knock off.

10. Informal. a. To take a break or rest from; stop: knocked off work at noon.

b. To cease work: It's after five; let's knock off. 11. Informal. To complete, accomplish, or dispose of hastily or easily; finish: That author knocks off a book a year.

12. Informal. To get rid of; eliminate: knocked off 12 pounds in a month.

13. Slang. To kill or overcome. 14. Slang. To hold up or rob: knocked off a bank.

15. Informal. To copy or imitate, especially without permission: knocking off someone else's ideas. 16. Informal. a. To take a break or rest from; stop: knocked off work at noon. b. To cease work: It's after five; let's knock off. knock out.

17. To render unconscious. 18. Sports. To defeat (a boxing opponent) by a knockout. 19. To render useless or inoperative: The storm knocked out the telephones. 20. Informal. To exert or exhaust (oneself or another) to the utmost: knocked herself out to be ready on time. knock together. To make or assemble quickly or carelessly. knock up. 22. Slang. To make pregnant. 23. Chiefly British. To wake up or summon, as by knocking at the door. 24. Chiefly British. To wear out; exhaust.

—idioms. have it knocked. Slang. To be certain of success: "He knew he had it knocked after he saw a rough cut of Chinatown" (Time).

knock cold. To render unconscious; knock out. knock dead. 3. To kill with a blow. 4. Slang. To affect strongly and positively: an amazing performance that knocked the audience dead. knock for a loop. Slang. To surprise tremendously; astonish. knock it off. Slang. Quit it. Used in the imperative: Knock it off! I'm trying to sleep. knock out of the box. Baseball. To force the removal of (an opposing pitcher) by heavy hitting. knock the socks off (or knock someone's socks off). Slang. To overwhelm or amaze. [Middle English knokken, from Old English cnocian.]

knock-a-bout (nɒk'ə-bout') adj. 1. Boisterous; rowdy. 2. Appropriate for rough wear or use: a knockabout overcoat. — n. Nautical. A small sloop with a mainsail, jib, and keel but no bowsprit.

knock-down (nɒk'daʊn') n. 1. a. The act of knocking down. b. The condition of being knocked down. 2. An overwhelming blow or shock. 3. Something designed to be easily assembled or disassembled. — adj. 1. Strong enough to knock down or overwhelm; powerful: a knockdown blow. 2. Designed to be easily assembled or disassembled: knockdown furniture. 3. Reduced: knockdown prices.

knock-down-drag-out (nɒk'daʊn'dræg'out') adj. Marked by roughness, violence, and acrimony: a knockdown-dragout fight.

knock-er (nɒk'ər) n. 1. A hinged fixture, such as a metal ring or bar, used for knocking on a door. 2. Vulgar Slang. A woman's breast. 3. A goblin or dwarf said to live under the earth and direct miners to ore by knocking.

knock-knee (nɒk'nē') n. A deformity of the legs in which the knees are abnormally close together and the ankles are spread widely apart. —knock'-kneed' adj.

knock-off (nɒk'ɒf', -ɔf') n. Informal. An unauthorized copy or imitation, as of designer clothing: "the place to go for quality knockoffs" (Women's Wear Daily).

knock-out (nɒk'out') n. 1. a. The act of knocking out. b. The state of being knocked out. c. A blow that knocks out an opponent. 2. Sports. a. A victory in boxing in which one's opponent is unable to rise from the canvas within a specified time after being knocked down. b. The act of winning a boxing match in this way: won the fight by a knockout. 3. Slang. A strikingly attractive or impressive person or thing. — adj. Capable of knocking out: a knockout punch.

knockout drops (nɒk'out' drɒps) pl.n. Slang. A solution, usually of chloral hydrate in alcohol, put into a drink surreptitiously in order to render the drinker unconscious.

knock-wurst (nɒk'wʊrst', -wɔːrst') n. Variant of knackwurst.

knoll¹ (nɒl) n. A small rounded hill or mound; a hillock. [Middle English knol, from Old English cnoll.]

knoll² (nɒl) Archaic. v. intr. knolled, knoll-ing, knolls. To ring mournfully; knell. — v. tr. To ring or sound (a bell, for example) mournfully; knell. — n. A knell. [Middle English knollen, probably alteration of knellen, to knell, from Old English cnyllan.]

knop (nɒp) n. A small decorative knob or boss. [Middle English knoppe, from Old English cnop.]

Knopf (knɒpf), Alfred Abraham. 1892-1984. American publisher who founded (1915) and directed (1918-1972) Alfred A. Knopf, Inc.

Knos-sos also Cnos-sos or Cnos-sus (nɒs'əs) An ancient city of northern Crete near present-day Iráklion. The center of a Bronze Age culture that probably flourished from c. 2000 to 1400 B.C., it is the traditional site of the labyrinth of Daedalus and the palace of King Minos.

knot¹ (nɒt) n. 1. a. A compact intersection of interlaced material, such as cord, ribbon, or rope. b. A fastening made by tying together lengths of material, such as rope, in a prescribed way. 2. A decorative bow of ribbon, fabric, or braid. 3. A unifying bond, especially a marriage bond. 4. A tight cluster of persons or things: a knot of onlookers. 5. A feeling of tightness: a knot of fear in my stomach. 6. A complex problem. 7. a. A hard place or lump, especially on a tree, at a point from which a stem or branch grows. b. The round, often darker cross section of such a lump as it appears on a piece of cut lumber. Also called node. 8. A protuberant growth or swelling in a tissue: a knot in a gland. 9. a. A division on a log line used to measure the speed of a ship. b. Abbr. kn., kt. A unit of speed, one nautical mile per hour, approximately 1.85 kilometers (1.15 statute miles) per hour. c. A distance of one nautical mile. — v. knot-ted, knot-ting, knots. — v. tr. 1. To tie in or fasten with a knot or knots. 2. To snarl or entangle. 3. To cause to form a knot or knots. — v. intr. 1. To form a knot or knots. 2. To become snarled or entangled. [Middle English, from Old English cnotta.]

USAGE NOTE: In nautical usage knot is a unit of speed, not of distance, and has a built-in meaning of “per hour.” Therefore, a ship would strictly be said to travel at ten knots (not ten knots per hour).

knot² (nɒt) n. Either of two migratory sandpipers (Calidris canutus or C. tenuirostris) that breed in Arctic regions. [Middle English, of Scandinavian origin.]

knot-grass (nɒt'gräs') n. 1. A low-growing, weedy grass (Paspalum distichum) with spikelets arranged in two rows along the rachis. 2. Any of several weedy plants of the genus Polygonum that have stems with nodes.

knot-hole (nɒt'hōl') n. A hole in a piece of lumber where a knot has dropped out or been removed.

knot-ty (nɒt'ē) adj. knot-ti-er, knot-ti-est. 1. Tied or snarled in knots.

2. Covered with knots or knobs; gnarled. 3. Difficult to understand or solve; puzzlingly intricate. See Synonyms at complex. —knot'ti-ness n.

knotty pine (nɒt'ē pīn) n. Pine wood with a large number of knots, used especially for paneling and furniture.

knot-weed (nɒt'wēd') n. Any of several plants of the genus Polygonum, with jointed stems and inconspicuous flowers.

knout (nout) n. A leather scourge used for flogging. — v. tr. knout-ed, knout-ing, knouts. To flog with a leather scourge. [French, from Russian knut, from Old Russian knutŭ, from Old Norse knūtr, knot in cord.]

know (nō) v. knew (nōō, nyōō), known (nōn), know-ing, knows. — v. tr. 1. To perceive directly; grasp in the mind with clarity or certainty. 2. To regard as true beyond doubt: I know she won't fail. 3. To have a practical understanding of, as through experience; be skilled in: knows how to cook. 4. To have fixed in the mind: knows her Latin verbs. 5. To have experience of: "a black stubble that had known no razor" (William Faulkner). 6. a. To perceive as familiar; recognize: I know that face. b. To be acquainted with: He doesn't know his neighbors. 7. To be able to distinguish; recognize as distinct: knows right from wrong. 8. To discern the character or nature of: knew him for a liar. 9. Archaic. To have sexual intercourse with. — v. intr. 1. To possess knowledge, understanding, or information. 2. To be cognizant or aware. —idioms. in the know. Informal. Possessing special or secret information. you know. Informal. Used parenthetically in conversation, as to fill pauses or educe the listener's agreement or sympathy: Please try to be, you know, a little quieter. How were we supposed to make camp in a storm like that, you know? [Middle English knowen, from Old English cnāwan. See gnō- in Appendix.] —know'a-ble adj. —know'er n.

know-how (nō'hou') n. The knowledge and skill required to do something correctly. See Synonyms at art¹.

know-ing (nō'ing) adj. 1. Possessing knowledge, information, or understanding. See Synonyms at intelligent. 2. Showing clever awareness and resourcefulness; shrewd. 3. Suggestive of secret or private knowledge: a knowing glance.

4. Deliberate; conscious: a knowing attempt to defraud. —know'ing-ly adv.

—know'ing-ness n.

know-it-all (nō'it-ôl') n. Informal. One who claims to know everything and rejects advice or information from others. —know'-it-all' adj.

know·edge (nōl'ij) n. 1. The state or fact of knowing. 2. Familiarity, awareness, or understanding gained through experience or study. 3. The sum or range of what has been perceived, discovered, or learned. 4. Learning; erudition: teachers of great knowledge. 5. Specific information about something. 6. Carnal knowledge. [Middle English knowlech : knownen, to know; see KNOW + -leche, n. suff.]

SYNONYMS: knowledge, information, learning, erudition, lore, scholarship. These nouns refer to what is known, as by having been acquired through study or experience. Knowledge is the broadest; it includes facts and ideas, understanding, and the totality of what is known: “A knowledge of Greek thought and life, and of the arts in which the Greeks expressed their thought and sentiment, is essential to high culture” (Charles Eliot Norton). “Science is organized knowledge” (Herbert Spencer). Information is usually construed as being narrower in scope than knowledge; it often implies a collection of facts and data: “Obviously, a man’s judgment cannot be better than the information on which he has based it” (Arthur Hays Sulzberger). Learning usually refers to knowledge that is gained by schooling and study: “Learning is not attained by chance, it must be sought for with ardor and attended to with diligence” (Abigail Adams). Erudition implies profound knowledge, often in a specialized area: “Some have criticized his poetry as elitist, unnecessarily impervious to readers who do not share his erudition” (Elizabeth Kastor). Lore is usually applied to knowledge about a particular subject that is gained through tradition or anecdote: Early peoples passed on plant and animal lore through legend. Scholarship is the knowledge of a scholar whose mastery of a particular area of learning is reflected in the scope, thoroughness, and quality of his or her work: a book that gives ample evidence of the author’s scholarship.

know·edge·a·ble (nōl'ij-jə-bəl) adj. Possessing or showing knowledge or intelligence; perceptive and well-informed. —knowl'edge·a·bil'i·ty, knowl'edge·a·ble·ness n. —knowl'edge·ably adv.

knowledge base (nōl'ij bās) n. 1. Computer Science. The part of an expert system that contains the facts and rules needed to solve problems in a specified domain. 2. A collection of facts and rules for problem solving.

knowledge engineer (nōl'ij ɛn'jə-nîr') n. Computer Science. A programmer who constructs expert systems. —knowledge engineering n.

known (nōn) v. Past participle of know. — adj. Proved or generally recognized: the only known case; a known authority. — n. Something that is known: In this instance, the only known is our actual profit margin.

know-noth·ing (nō'nūth'ing) n. 1. A totally ignorant person; an ignoramus. 2. An anti-intellectual. 3. An agnostic. 4. Know-Nothing. A member of a political party in the United States during the 1850's that was antagonistic toward recent immigrants and Roman Catholics. —know'-noth'ing·ism n.

Knox (nöks), Henry. 1750-1806. American Revolutionary soldier who transported 55 captured British cannon from Fort Ticonderoga, New York, to Boston, where George Washington used them to force the British to evacuate the city (1776).

Knox (nöks), John. 1514?-1572. Scottish religious reformer and founder of Scottish Presbyterianism. While living in exile (1553-1559) during the reign of Mary Queen of Scots, a Catholic, he came under the influence of John Calvin. Returning to Scotland (1559), Knox led the struggle for religious reform. With the drafting of the Confessions of Faith (1560), Protestantism became the established religion in Scotland.

Knox (nöks), Philander Chase. 1853-1921. American politician who as U.S. attorney general (1901-1904) won the antitrust suit against Northern Securities Company (1904) and later served as a U.S. senator from Pennsylvania (1904-1909 and 1917-1921) and U.S. secretary of state (1909-1913).

Knox (nöks), William Franklin. Known as "Frank." 1874-1944. American soldier, politician, and publisher of the Chicago Daily News (1931-1944). The 1936 Republican nominee for Vice President, he was U.S. secretary of the navy (1940-1944) during World War II.

Knox·ville (nöks'vil', -vəl) A city of eastern Tennessee on the Tennessee River northeast of Chattanooga. Settled c. 1785, it twice served as the state capital (1796-1812 and 1817-1819). Population, 165,121.

Knt abbr. Knight.

knuck·le (nük'əl) n. 1. Anatomy. a. The prominence of the dorsal aspect of a joint of a finger, especially of one of the joints connecting the fingers to the hand. b. A rounded protuberance formed by the bones in a joint. 2. A cut of meat centering on the carpal or tarsal joint, as of a pig. 3. The part of a hinge through which the pin passes. 4. knuckles. Brass knuckles. — v. tr. knuck·led, knuck·ling, knuck·les. 1. To press, rub, or hit with the knuckles. 2. Games. To shoot (a marble) with the thumb over the bent forefinger. —phrasal verbs. knuckle down. To apply oneself earnestly to a task. knuckle under. To yield to pressure; give in. [Middle English knokel.] knuckle ball or knuck·le·ball (nük'əl-bôl') n. Baseball. A slow, randomly fluttering pitch thrown by gripping the ball with the tips or nails of two or three fingers. —knuck'le·ball'er n.

knuck·le·bone (nük'əl-bōn') n. A knobbed bone, as of a knuckle or joint.

knuck·le·dust·er (nük'əl-düs'tər) n. Slang. Brass knuckles.

knuck·le·head (nük'əl-hěd') n. Informal. A stupid person; a blockhead.

knuckle joint (nŭk'əl joint) n. A hinged joint in which a pin fastens the ends of two rods, one of which has an eye that fits between the two perforated projections of the other.

knuck·ler (nŭk'lər) n. Baseball. A knuckle ball.

knuckle sandwich (nŭk'əl sänd'wĭch) n. Slang. A punch in the mouth.

Knud·sen (nōōd'sən, kə-nōōd'-, knōō'-), William Signius. 1879-1948. Danish-born American automotive industrialist who directed ordnance production (1942-1945) during World War II.

knur (nŭr) n. A bump or knot, as on a tree trunk; a gnarl. [Middle English knarre, knor. See KNAR.]

knurl (nŭrl) n. 1. A knob, knot, or other small protuberance. 2. One of a series of small ridges or grooves on the surface or edge of a metal object, such as a thumbscrew, to aid in gripping. — v. tr. knurled, knurling, knurls. To provide with knurls; mill. [Probably diminutive of KNUR.] —knurled (nŭrld) adj. —knurl'y adj.

Knut (kə-nōōt', -nyōōt') See Canute.

KO (kā'ō') Slang. v. tr. KO'd, KO'ing, KO's. To knock out, as in boxing. — n. pl. KO's (kā-ō', kā'ō'). A knockout, as in boxing.

ko·a·la (kō-ä'lə) n. An arboreal Australian marsupial (Phascolarctos cinereus) that has dense grayish fur, large ears, and sharp claws and feeds chiefly on the leaves of eucalyptus trees. [Dharuk (Aboriginal language of southeast Australia) gulaway.] ko·an (kō'än') n. A riddle in the form of a paradox used in Zen Buddhism as an aid to meditation and a means of gaining intuitive knowledge. [Japanese : ko, public + an, matter.]

kob (kōb, kōb) n. An orange-brown antelope (Kobus kob) of southeast Africa. [Of African origin.]

Ko·be (kō'bē', -bā') A city of southern Honshu, Japan, on Osaka Bay southwest of Kyoto. A port and manufacturing center, it was almost entirely rebuilt after World War II. Population, 1,410,843.

Ko·blenz also Co·blenz (kō'blěnts') A city of west-central Germany at the confluence of the Rhine and Moselle rivers southeast of Bonn. Founded as a Roman frontier station, the city was prominent during Carolingian times as a residence of Frankish kings. Population, 111,235.

ko·bo (kō'bō') n. pl. kobo. A unit of currency in Nigeria. See Table at currency. [Possibly Yoruba kòbò, from English COPPER¹, penny.]

ko·bold (kō'bōld') n. 1. An often mischievous household elf in German folklore. 2. A gnome that haunts underground places in German folklore. [German, from Middle High German kobolt. See COBALT.]

Koch (kôk, kôKH), Robert. 1843-1910. German bacteriologist who discovered the cholera bacillus and the bacterial cause of anthrax. He won a 1905 Nobel Prize for developing tuberculin.

Ko-cher (kô'kər, -KHər), Emil Theodor. 1841-1917. Swiss surgeon. He won a 1909 Nobel Prize for work on the thyroid gland.

Ko-chi (kô'chē) A city of southern Shikoku, Japan, on an inlet of the Pacific Ocean. It is a port and fish-processing center. Population, 312,253.

Ko-dak (kô'dăk') A trademark used for a hand-held camera and camera film.

Ko-dál-y (kô'dī', kô'dä-yə), Zoltán. 1882-1967. Hungarian composer whose works include the opera Háry János (1926) and the orchestral work Missa Brevis (1945).

Ko-di-ak bear (kô'dē-ăk' bâr) n. A brown bear inhabiting islands and coastal areas of Alaska and sometimes considered a separate species (Ursus middendorffi). [After Kodiak (Island).]

Kodiak Island (kô'dē-ăk' ī'lənd) An island of southern Alaska in the Gulf of Alaska east of the Alaska Peninsula. Discovered in 1763, the island was the site of the first permanent Russian settlement in the area (1784).

Koest-ler (kĕst'lər, kĕs'-), Arthur. 1905-1983. Hungarian-born writer whose novel Darkness at Noon (1941) portrays his disillusionment with Communism. His other works include The Sleepwalkers (1959) and The Ghost in the Machine (1967).

K of C abbr. Knight of Columbus.

K of P abbr. Knight of Pythias.

Ko-fu (kô'fō) A city of central Honshu, Japan, west of Tokyo. The seat of several powerful lords during the feudal era, it is now an industrial center. Population, 202,405.

kohl (kōl) n. A cosmetic preparation, such as powdered antimony sulfide, used especially in Middle Eastern countries to darken the rims of the eyelids. [Arabic kuhl, powder of antimony, kohl.]

Köh-ler (kœ'lər), Georges J.F. Born 1946. German immunologist. He shared a 1984 Nobel Prize for developing a method of producing monoclonal antibodies.

kohl-ra-bi (kōl-ră'bē, -răb'ē) n. pl. kohl-ra-bies. A plant (Brassica oleracea var. gongylodes) in the mustard family, having a thick basal part of the stem that is eaten as a vegetable. Also called turnip cabbage [German, partial translation (with German Kohl, cabbage, ultimately from Latin caulis), of Italian cavoli rape, pl. of cavolo rapa : cavolo, cabbage (from Latin caulis) + rapa, turnip (from Latin rāpa).]

Koi-ne (koi-nā', koi'nā') n. 1. A dialect of Greek that developed primarily from Attic and became the common language of the Hellenistic world, from which later stages of Greek are descended. 2. koine. A lingua franca. 3. koine. A regional dialect or language that becomes the standard language over a wider area, losing its most extreme local features. [From Greek (hē) koinē (dialektos), common (language), feminine of koinos, common. See kom in Appendix.]

Ko·kand (kō-känd') A city of eastern Uzbekistan southeast of Tashkent. It was the center of a powerful khanate in the 18th century and was finally conquered by Russia in 1876. Population, 166,000.

Ko·ko·mo (kō'kə-mō') A city of central Indiana north of Indianapolis. Founded in the 1840's, it is a manufacturing center. Population, 44,962.

Ko·ko Nor (kō'kō' nōr', nōr') See Qinghai Hu.

Ko·kosch·ka (kə-kōsh'kə), Oskar. 1886-1980. Austrian expressionist painter noted for his portraits and landscapes.

kok·sa·ghyz (kōk'sə-gēz') n. A central Asian dandelion (Taraxacum kok-saghyz) having fleshy roots that yield a form of rubber. [Russian, from Turkish kok-sagız: kok, root + sagız, rubber.]

ko·la (kō'lə) n. Variant of cola⁴.

ko·lac·ky (kə-lä'chē, -läch'kē) n. pl. kolacky or ko·la·che (-lä'chē). A square, sweet bun with a fruit or poppy seed filling. [Czech kolače, wheel-shaped cake, pl. of kolač, from Old Church Slavonic, wheel. See k^wel-1 in Appendix.]

Ko·la Peninsula (kō'lə pə-nīn'syə-lə) A peninsula of northwest Russia projecting eastward from Scandinavia between the White Sea and the Barents Sea.

Kol·chak (kōl-chäk', kəl-chyäk'), Aleksandr Vasilyevich. 1874?-1920. Russian admiral of the Black Sea fleet during World War I. He led the White Russians against the Bolsheviks after the October Revolution (1917). Recognized by the Allies as the head of the provisional Russian government (1918-1920), he was captured and shot by the Bolsheviks.

Kol·ding (kōl'dīng) A city of south-central Denmark on the eastern coast of Jutland. Founded in the tenth century, it is a port and tourist center. Population, 56,519.

Kol·ha·pur (kō'lə-pōor') A city of southwest India south-southeast of Bombay. It was formerly the center of an important Deccan state. Population, 340,625.

ko·lin·sky (kə-līn'skē) *n. pl. ko·lin·skies. 1. A northern Eurasian mink (Mustela siberica) having a dark brown coat with tawny markings. 2. The tawny fur of this animal. [Russian kolinskiĭ, of Kola, from Kola (Peninsula).]*

kol·khoz (kōl-kōz', kül-khōs') n. A collective farm in the Soviet Union. [Russian, from kol(lektivnoe) khoz(yaĭstvo): kollektivnoe, neuter of kollektivnyĭ, collective + khozyaĭstvo, economy, farm.]

Kol·lon·tai (kōl'ən-tī'), Aleksandra Mikhailovna. 1872-1952. Russian revolutionary and writer who joined the Social-Democratic Worker's Party (1898) despite her privileged social position. After the October Revolution (1917) she advocated sweeping reforms in traditional customs and institutions.

Koll-witz (kōl'wīts', kōl'vīts'), Käthe or Kaethe. 1867-1945. German artist whose sculptures and prints, including The Living to the Dead (1919), express her abhorrence of war and poverty.

Kol-mar (kōl'mär, kōl-mär') See Colmar.

Köln (kœln) See Cologne.

Kol Nid-re (kōl nīd'rā, -rā, kōl nē-drā') n. Judaism. The opening prayer recited on the eve of Yom Kippur, declaring the annulment of all personal vows made to God in the preceding year. [Aramaic kol nidhrē, all vows (the opening words of the prayer) : kol, all + nidhrē, vows.]

Kol-we-zi (kōl-wēz'ē) A city of southeast Zaire near the Zambia border. It is a manufacturing center in an area yielding copper and coal. Population, 201,382.

Ko-ly-ma (kə-lē'mə, kə-lē-mä') A river of northeast Russia rising in the Kolyma Mountains and flowing about 2,148 km (1,335 mi) generally north and northeast to the East Siberian Sea. Its upper course crosses rich gold fields.

Kolyma Mountains (kə-lē'mə moun'tənz) A range of northeast Russia extending about 1,126 km (700 mi) north and south to the east of the Kolyma River and roughly parallel to the coast of Siberia.

Ko-man-dor-ski Islands (kōm'ən-dōr'skē ī'ləndz) also Ko-man-dor-ski-ye Islands (kōm'ən-dōr'skē-yē ī'ləndz) An island group of northeast Russia in the Bering Sea east of the Kamchatka Peninsula. Fishing, hunting, and whaling are the main occupations of the islanders.

Ko-ma-ti (kə-mä'tē) A river flowing about 805 km (500 mi) through northeast South Africa, northern Swaziland, and southern Mozambique to an inlet of the Indian Ocean.

Kom-bu (kōm'bō) n. A food derived from seaweed. [Origin unknown.]

Ko-mo-do dragon (kə-mō'dō drəg'ən) n. A large monitor lizard (Varanus komodoensis) native to Indonesia. It is the largest living lizard, sometimes growing to a length of 3 meters (10 feet). [After Komodo, an island of south-central Indonesia.]

Kom-so-molsk (kōm'sə-mōlsk') A city of southeast Russia north of Vladivostok. It was laid out and settled in 1932 by members of Komsomol, the Communist youth organization. Population, 300,000.

Ko-mu-ra (kō-mōr'ä, kō'mō-rä'), Marquis Jutaro. 1855-1911. Japanese diplomat who negotiated the Anglo-Japanese Alliance (1905), through which Japan and Great Britain mutually protected their interests in China and Korea.

Ko-nev (kōn'yēf', -yäf), Ivan Stepanovich. 1897-1973. Soviet general who was field marshal of the Soviet Union (1944) and commander in chief of the Soviet army (1946-1960).

Kon-go (kōng'gō) n. pl. Kongo or Kon-gos. 1. A member of a people living in west-central Africa along the lower Congo River. 2. A Bantu language of the Kongo used as a lingua franca in southern Congo, western Zaire, and northern Angola. In this sense, also called Kikongo Kon-ia (kôn-yä') See Konya.

Kö-nigs-berg (kā'nīgz-bûrg', kœ'nĭKHS-bĕrk') See Kaliningrad.

Ko-no-ye (kə-nō'ā, kô'nô-yĕ'), Prince Fumimaro. 1891-1946. Japanese political leader who as premier (1937-1939 and 1940-1941) outlined Japan's expansionist policies, sought to avoid American intervention in the Sino-Japanese War, and formed an alliance with Germany and Italy (1941).

Kon-stanz (kôn'stänts') also Con-stance (kõn'stæns) A city of southwest Germany on the Lake of Constance south of Stuttgart. Thought to have been founded c. A.D. 300, it is a tourist center with varied industries. Population, 68,605.

Kon-ya also Kon-ia (kôn-yä') A city of southwest-central Turkey south of Ankara. Built on the site of an ancient Phrygian city, Konya was a powerful Seljuk sultanate from the 11th to the 13th century. Population, 329,139.

Koo (kōō), Vi Kyuin Wellington. 1887-1985. Chinese ambassador to Great Britain (1941-1946) and the United States (1946-1956).

koo-doo (kōō'dōō) n. Variant of kudu.

kook (kōōk) n. Slang. A person regarded as strange, eccentric, or crazy. [Possibly from CUCKOO.]

kook-a-bur-ra (kōōk'ə-bûr'ə, -bûr'ə) n. A large kingfisher (Dacelo gigas) native to Australia, with a call that resembles raucous laughter. Also called laughing jackass [Wiradhuri (Aboriginal language of southeast Australia) gugubarra.]

kook-y also kook-ie (kōō'kĕ) adj. kook-i-er, kook-i-est. Slang. Characteristic of a kook; strange or crazy. —kook'i-ness n.

Koop-mans (kōōp'mænz), Tjalling Charles. Born 1910. Dutch-born American economist. He shared a 1975 Nobel Prize for developing the theory of optimum allocation of resources.

Koo-te-nay River also Koo-te-nai River (kōōt'n-ā' rĭv'ər) A river, about 655 km (407 mi) long, flowing from southeast British Columbia, Canada, south through northwest Montana, northwest through northern Idaho, and then north again into British Columbia, where it widens to form Kootenay Lake before joining the Columbia River.

ko-peck or ko-pek also co-peck (kō'pĕk) n. Abbr. k., K. A unit of currency in Russia. See Table at currency. [Russian kopeïka, from Middle Russian kopeika, from kopie, spear (from the image of a rider with a spear on the coins minted by Moscow after the capture of Novgorod in 1478).]

kor (kôr, kōr) n. See homer². [Hebrew kôr.]

Kor. abbr. Korea; Korean.

Ko-ran or Qur'an (kə-răn', -răn', kô-, kō-) n. The sacred text of Islam, considered by Muslims to contain the revelations of God to Mohammed. Also called Alcoran [Arabic qur'ān, reading, recitation, Koran, from qara'a, to read, recite.]

—Ko-ran'ic adj.

Kor-do-fan-i-an (kôr'də-fän'ē-ən) n. A small group of related languages spoken in Sudan and forming part of the Niger-Kordofanian language family.

Ko-re-a (kə-rē'ə, kô-, kō-) Abbr. Kor. A peninsula and former country of eastern Asia between the Yellow Sea and the Sea of Japan. Site of an ancient civilization dating to the 12th century B.C., the peninsula was united as a kingdom in the 7th century A.D. and despite a Mongol invasion (13th century) remained unified until the Japanese occupation of 1910 to 1945. After World War II the Soviet- and U.S.-occupied territories formed separate republics, and a Soviet-backed invasion of the south led to the Korean War (1950-1953). The peninsula is now divided between North Korea and South Korea.

Korea Bay (kə-rē'ə bā) An inlet of the Yellow Sea between northeast China and western North Korea.

Ko-re-an (kə-rē'ən, kô-, kō-) n. Abbr. Kor. 1. A native or inhabitant of Korea.

2. The language of the Koreans, possibly in the Altaic family. — adj. Abbr. Kor. Of or relating to Korea or its people, language, or culture.

Korean War (kə-rē'ən wôr) n. A conflict that lasted from 1950 to 1953 between North Korea, aided by China, and South Korea, aided by United Nations forces consisting primarily of U.S. troops.

Korea Strait (kə-rē'ə strāt) A channel between southeast South Korea and southwest Japan. It connects the East China Sea with the Sea of Japan.

Kó-rin-thos (kô'rĭn-thôs') See Corinth.

Ko-ri-ya-ma (kô'rĭ-ä'mə, -yä'mä) A city of north-central Honshu, Japan, north of Tokyo. It is a major commercial and communications center. Population, 301,672.

Korn-berg (kôrn'bûrg'), Arthur. Born 1918. American biochemist. He shared a 1959 Nobel Prize for work on the biological synthesis of nucleic acids.

Korn-gold (kôrn'göld', -gôlt'), Erich Wolfgang. 1897-1957. Austrian-born American composer and pianist whose works include operas, such as Die tote Stadt (1920), symphonies, chamber music, and scores for motion pictures, including Anthony Adverse (1936).

Kor-sa-koff's syndrome (kôr'sə-kôfs' sĭn'drôm', -kôfs') n. Psychiatry. A syndrome of severe mental impairment characterized by multiple neuritis, confusion, disorientation, and amnesia in which memory of recent events is especially impaired, often causing the patient to attempt to compensate through confabulation. Also called Korsakoff's psychosis [After Sergei S. Korsakoff (1854-1900), Russian neurologist.]

Kort-rijk (kôrt'rĭk') also Cour-trai (kôör-trā', kōör-) A city of western Belgium west of Brussels. It was the most important cloth-manufacturing town of medieval Flanders and is still a textile center. Population, 75,587.

ko·ru·na (kôr'ə-nä') n. A basic unit of currency in Czech Republic and Slovakia. See Table at currency.

Kor·zyb·ski (kôr-zîp'skē, kô-zhîp'-), Alfred Habdank Skarbek. 1879-1950. Polish-born American semanticist who proposed his doctrine of general semantics in Science and Sanity: An Introduction to Non-Aristotelian Systems and General Semantics (1933).

Kos also Cos (kôs, kôs) An island of southeast Greece in the northern Dodecanese Islands at the entrance to the Gulf of Kos, an inlet of the Aegean Sea on the southwest coast of Turkey. Hippocrates founded a medical school on the island in the fifth century B.C. Kos became part of modern Greece in 1947.

Kos·ci·us·ko (kôs'ē-ūs'kō, kôs'kē-), Mount. The highest mountain of Australia, in the southeast part of the country in the Australian Alps. It rises to 2,231.4 m (7,316 ft).

Kos·ci·us·ko (kôs'ē-ūs'kō, kôs'kē-, kôsh-chōosh'kō), Thaddeus. 1746-1817. Polish general and patriot who fought with the colonists in the American Revolution and was a leader in Poland's struggle for independence from Russia.

ko·sher (kō'shər) also ka·sher (kā'-) adj. 1. Judaism. a. Conforming to dietary laws; ritually pure: kosher meat. b. Selling or serving food prepared in accordance with dietary laws: a kosher restaurant. 2. Slang. a. Legitimate; permissible: "consolidating noneditorial functions of the papers, which is kosher" (Christian Science Monitor). b. Genuine; authentic. — v. tr. ko·shered, ko·sher·ing, ko·shers. To make proper or ritually pure. [Yiddish kósher, from Hebrew kāšēr, proper.]

Ko·shi·ga·ya (kō-shē'gä-yä', kō'shē-gä'yä) A city of east-central Honshu, Japan, a mainly residential suburb of Tokyo. Population, 253,483.

Ko·ši·ce (kô'shî-tsě) A city of eastern Slovakia northeast of Budapest, Hungary. Chartered in 1241, it was an important trade center during the Middle Ages. Population, 218,238.

Ko·so·vo (kô'sə-vō') A region of southwest Serbia. Settled by Slavs in the seventh century, it was under Turkish rule from 1389 until 1913, when it was divided between Serbia and Montenegro. After World War II, Kosovo became an autonomous region within Yugoslavia, which lasted until Serbia imposed direct rule in 1990.

Kos·sel (kôs'əl), Albrecht. 1853-1927. German biochemist. He won a 1910 Nobel Prize for his investigations of the chemistry of the cell.

Kos·suth (kôs'ōōth', kô'shōōt'), Lajos. 1802-1894. Hungarian revolutionary leader who sought Hungary's independence from Austria. Declaring the Hapsburg dynasty invalid, he briefly led a provisional government (1849) until Russia interceded on Austria's behalf.

Kos-tro-ma (kös'trə-mä') A city of northwest Russia on the Volga River north-east of Moscow. Founded in 1152, it was annexed by Moscow in 1364. Population, 269,000.

Ko-sy-gin (kə-sē'gən, -gyĭn), Aleksei Nikolayevich. 1904-1980. Soviet premier (1964-1980) who succeeded Nikita Khrushchev but was often overshadowed by party secretary Leonid Brezhnev.

Ko-ta (kō'tə) A city of northwest India south-southwest of Delhi. Enclosed by a massive wall, it is an agricultural market and has many fine temples. Population, 358,241.

ko-to (kō'tō) n. pl. ko-tos. Music. A Japanese instrument similar to a zither, having 7 to 13 silk strings stretched over an oblong box. [Japanese.]

Kott-bus (köt'bəs, kôt'bōös') See Cottbus.

Kot-ze-bue (köt'sə-bōō', kôt'-), August Friedrich Ferdinand von. 1761-1819. German dramatist noted for his ridicule of romanticism, his more than 200 lively dramas, and his quarrels with Goethe.

Kot-ze-bue Sound (köt'sə-byōō' sound) An inlet of the Chukchi Sea in northwest Alaska north of Seward Peninsula.

Kou-fax (kō'fäks'), Sanford. Known as "Sandy." Born 1935. American baseball player. A left-handed pitcher for the Dodgers (1955-1966), he struck out 2,396 batters and three times won the Cy Young Award (1963, 1965, and 1967).

kou-miss (kōō-mīs', kōō'mīs) n. Variant of kumiss.

Kous-se-vitz-ky (kōō'sə-vīt'skē), Sergei Aleksandrovich. Known as "Serge." 1874-1951. Russian-born American conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra (1924-1949) noted for his support of contemporary composers.

Kov-a-lev-sky (kōv'ə-lēv'skē, -lēf'-), Sonya. 1850-1891. Russian mathematician known for her work on partial differential equations and equations of rotatory motion.

Kow-loon (kou'lōōn') A city of Hong Kong on the southeast coast of China on Kowloon Peninsula opposite Hong Kong Island. The city was ceded to the British in 1860. Population, 799,123.

kow-tow (kou-tou', kou'tou') v. intr. kow-towed, kow-tow-ing, kow-tows. 1. To kneel and touch the forehead to the ground in expression of deep respect, worship, or submission, as formerly done in China. 2. To show servile deference; fawn. See Synonyms at fawn¹. — n. 1. The act of kneeling and touching the forehead to the ground. 2. An obsequious act. [From Chinese (Mandarin) kòu tóu, a kowtow : kòu, to knock + tóu, head.]

Koy-u-kuk (kī'ə-kük') A river, about 805 km (500 mi) long, of northern Alaska flowing generally southwest from the Brooks Range to the Yukon River.

Ko-zhi-kode (kō'zhī-kōd') See Calicut.

KP¹ (kā'pē') n. Kitchen police. [K(ITCHEN) P(OLICE).]

KP² abbr. Games. King's pawn.

Kr The symbol for the element krypton.

KR abbr. Games. King's rook.

kr. abbr. 1. Krona. 2. Krone.

Kra (krä), Isthmus of. A strip of land, about 64 km (40 mi) wide at its narrowest point, linking the Malay Peninsula with the Asian mainland.

kraal (krôl, kräl) n. South African. 1. A rural village, typically consisting of huts surrounded by a stockade. 2. An enclosure for livestock. [Afrikaans, from Portuguese curral, pen, perhaps from Vulgar Latin currāle*, enclosure for carts. See CORRAL.]

Krafft-E-bing (kräft'ëb'ing, kräft'ä'b(ing), Baron Richard von. 1840-1902. German physician and neurologist particularly known for his studies of sexual deviance and the published collection of case histories Psychopathia Sexualis (1886).

kraft (kräft) n. A tough, usually brown paper made from wood pulp treated with a solution of sodium sulfate, used chiefly for bags and wrapping paper. [Short for Swedish kraftpapper : kraft (from Old Swedish krapt) + papper, paper.]

krait (krīt) n. Any of several brightly banded, highly venomous snakes of the genus Bungarus of southeast Asia and adjacent islands. [Hindi karait.]

Kra·ka·tau (kräk'ə-tou', krä'kə-) or Kra·ka·to·a (-tō'ə) A volcanic island of Indonesia between Sumatra and Java. A violent explosion in August 1883 blew the island apart and caused a tidal wave that killed more than 36,000 people.

kra·ken (krä'kən) n. A huge sea monster in Norwegian legend. [Norwegian dialectal : krake, kraken + Norwegian -n, suffixed definite article.]

Kra·ków (kräk'ou, krä'kou, -kōof) See Cracow.

Kra·ma·torsk (krä'mə-tōrsk', krə-) A city of eastern Ukraine in the Donets Basin south-southeast of Kharkov. It is an iron and steel center. Population, 192,000.

Kra·mer (krä'mər), Stanley E. Born 1913. American filmmaker whose dramatic, emotionally charged works, including The Defiant Ones (1958) and Inherit the Wind (1960), often concern social conflicts, such as racism and religious prejudice.

Kras·ner (kräz'nər), Lee. 1908-1984. American artist known for her spontaneous, gestural approach to painting. She was a founder of the New York School of abstract expressionism.

Kras·no·dar (kräs'nə-där', krə-snə-där') A city of southwest Russia in the northern Caucasus south of Rostov. Founded by Cossacks on orders from Catherine II in 1794, it is now an industrial center. Population, 609,000.

Kras·no·yarsk (kräs'nə-yärsk', krə-snə-) A city of south-central Russia on the upper Yenisei River east of Novosibirsk. It was founded as a Cossack fortress in 1628. Population, 872,000.

kra-ter or cra-ter (krā'tər) n. A wide, two-handled bowl used in ancient Greece and Rome for mixing wine and water. [Greek kratēr. See CRATER.]

K ration (kā' rāsh'ən) n. An emergency field ration for U.S. armed forces in World War II, consisting of a single packaged meal. [After Ancel Benjamin Keys (born 1904), American physiologist.]

kraut (krout) n. 1. Sauerkraut. 2. Often Kraut. Offensive Slang. Used as a disparaging term for a German. [German. See SAUERKRAUT.]

Krebs (krēbz, krēps), Sir Hans Adolf. 1900-1981. German-born British biochemist who discovered the Krebs cycle (1936). He shared a 1953 Nobel Prize for investigations into metabolic processes.

Krebs cycle (krēbz sī'kəl) n. Biochemistry. A series of enzymatic reactions in aerobic organisms involving oxidative metabolism of acetyl units and producing high-energy phosphate compounds, which serve as the main source of cellular energy. Also called citric acid cycle, tricarboxylic acid cycle. [After Sir Hans Adolf KREBS.]

Kre-feld (krā'fēld', -fēlt') A city of west-central Germany on the Rhine River north-northwest of Cologne. Chartered in 1373, it has long been important as a textile center. Population, 217,276.

Krei-sler (krī'slər), Fritz. 1875-1962. Austrian-born American violinist and composer of violin works and the operetta Apple Blossoms (1919).

Kre-men-chug (krēm'ən-chōōk', -chōōg', kryī'mīn-chōōk') A city of east-central Ukraine on the Dnieper River southeast of Kiev. It was founded as a fortress in 1571. Population, 224,000.

Krem-lin (krēm'līn) n. 1. The citadel of Moscow, housing the offices of the Soviet government. The outer walls of the compound date to the 15th century.

2. The government of the Soviet Union. 3. kremlin. The citadel of a Russian city. [Obsolete German Kremelin, from Old Russian kremlinŭ*, separate, from kremli, a separate place.]

Krem-lin-ol-o-gy (krēm'lə-nōl'ə-jē) n. The study of the policies of the Soviet government. —Krem'lin-o-log'i-cal (-lə-nə-lōj'ī-kəl) adj. —Krem'-lin-ol'o-gist n.

kreplach (krēp'ləkH, -läkH) pl.n. Small pockets of noodle dough filled with ground meat or cheese, usually boiled and served in soups. [Yiddish kreplech, pl. of krepel, from German dialectal Kräppel, fried pastry, variant of German Krapfen, from Middle High German krapfe, from Old High German krapfo, hook (from their hooklike shape).]

Kreps (krēps), Juanita Morris. Born 1921. American economist who served as U.S. secretary of commerce (1977-1979) and is noted for her studies of the employment of women and older people.

kreu-zer or kreut-zer (kroit'sər) n. Any of several small coins of low value formerly used in Austria and Germany. [German, from Middle High German kriuzer, from kriuze, cross (originally stamped with a cross), from Old High German krūzi, from Latin crux, cruc-.]

krewē (krōō) n. New Orleans. Any of several groups with hereditary membership whose members organize and participate as costumed paraders in the annual Mardi Gras carnival: “They... watched a parade of bands and New Orleans-style floats run by krewes throwing necklaces of colored beads” (Robert Reinhold). See Regional note at beignet. [Alteration of CREW¹.]

REGIONAL NOTE: In order to organize and stage the enormous Mardi Gras carnival every year, many New Orleans families have belonged for generations to krewes, groups that create elaborate costumes and floats for the many Mardi Gras parades in the two weeks leading up to “Fat Tuesday.” Not only do the krewes participate in the parades, but, as leaders of New Orleans society, they also hold balls and other elaborate events during the carnival season, which lasts from Christmas up to Mardi Gras itself. The krewes are responsible for electing Rex, the annual king of the carnival, whose parade is the climax of Mardi Gras. While masked paraders had long been a part of Mardi Gras, the first carnival group organized as such was the Mystick Krewe of Comus in 1857. Krewe is only a fanciful spelling of crew in its standard meaning, but the word, thanks to its association with Mardi Gras and New Orleans high society, has taken on some of the mystique of the carnival.

Kriem·hild (krēm’hıld’, -hilt’) also Kriem·hil·de (krēm-hıl’də) n. The wife of Siegfried and sister of Gunther in the Nibelungenlied.

krill (krıl) n. pl. krill. The collection of small marine crustaceans of the order Euphausiacea that are the principal food of baleen whales. [Norwegian kril, young fry of fish.]

krim·mer (krım’ər) n. Gray, curly fur made from the pelts of lambs of the Crimean region. [German, from Krim, Crimea.]

kris also creese (krēs) n. A Malayan dagger with a wavy double-edged blade. [Malay kēris.]

Krish·na¹ (krısh’nə) n. Hinduism. The eighth and principal avatar of Vishnu, often depicted as a handsome young man playing a flute. —Krish’na·ism n.

Krish·na² (krısh’nə) See Kistna.

Kriss Krin·gle (krıs’krıng’gəl) n. Santa Claus. [Alteration of German dialectal Christkindl, Christmas present, the Christ child : German Christ, Christ (from Middle High German Krist, from Old High German Krīst, from Latin Chrīstus); see CHRIST + Kindl (diminutive of German Kind, child, from Middle High German kint, from Old High German kind); see genə- in Appendix.]

- Kris-tian-sand (krɪs'chən-sänd', krɪs'tyän-sän') A city of extreme southern Norway on the Skagerrak southwest of Oslo. Founded in 1641, it is a commercial and passenger port. Population, 61,834.
- Kri-voi Rog or Kri-voy Rog (krɪ-voi' rōg', rôk') A city of south-central Ukraine northeast of Odessa. Located in a rich iron-producing region, it is highly industrialized. Population, 684,000.
- Kroe-ber (krō'bər), Alfred Louis. 1876-1960. American anthropologist noted for his inquiry into the nature of culture. He was influential in the development of anthropology as an academic field.
- Kroe-neck-er delta (krō'nĕk-ər dĕl'tə) n. Mathematics. A function of two variables that is equal to zero when the variables have different values and equal to one when the variables have the same value. [After Leopold Kronecker (1823-1891), German mathematician.]
- Krogh (krôg, krôKH), (Schack) August Steenberg. 1874-1949. Danish physiologist. He won a 1920 Nobel Prize for the discovery of the regulation of the capillaries' motor mechanism.
- kro-na¹ (krō'nə) n. pl. kro-nur (-nər). Abbr. kr., k., K. A basic unit of currency in Iceland. See Table at currency. [Icelandic króna, from Old Norse krūna, from Middle Low German krūne, krōne, ultimately from Latin corōna, wreath, crown (from the crown printed on the coin). See CROWN.]
- kro-na² (krō'nə) n. pl. kro-nor (-nôr', -nər). Abbr. kr., k., K. A basic unit of currency in Sweden. See Table at currency. [Swedish, from Old Swedish krōna, from Middle Low German krūne, krōne. See KRONA¹.]
- kro-ne¹ (krō'nə) n. pl. kro-ner (-nər). Abbr. kr., k., K. A basic unit of currency in Norway. See Table at currency. [Norwegian, from Old Norse krūna. See KRONA¹.]
- kro-ne² (krō'nə) n. pl. kro-ner (-nər). A basic unit of currency in Denmark. See Table at currency. [Danish krone, from Old Norse krūna. See KRONA¹.]
- kro-ner¹ (krō'nər) n. Plural of kro-ne¹.
- kro-ner² (krō'nər) n. Plural of kro-ne².
- kro-nor (krō'nôr', -nər) n. Plural of kro-na².
- kro-nur (krō'nər) n. Plural of kro-na¹.
- Kro-pot-kin (krə-pöt'kɪn, krō-), Prince Pyotr Alekseyevich. 1842-1921. Russian anarchist and political philosopher who maintained that cooperation, not competition, was the means to bettering the human condition. He greatly influenced anarchist movements in Russia and England.
- Kru-ger (krōō'gər, krü'-), Stephanus Johannes Paulus. Known as "Oom Paul." 1825-1904. South African politician. A founder (1852) and president (1883-1900) of Transvaal, he instituted nationalist policies that led to the Boer War (1899-1902).

Kru-ger-rand (krōō'gə-ränd', -ränd') n. A one-ounce gold coin of the Republic of South Africa. [Afrikaans : after Stephanus Johannes Paulus KRUGER + rand, rand; see RAND.]

krumm-horn or crum-horn (krüm'hôrn') n. Music. A wind instrument of the Renaissance with a curving tube and a double reed. [German : krumm, crooked (from Middle High German krump, krum, from Old High German krump) + Horn, horn; see ALPENHORN.]

krumm-kake (krōōm'kă'kə, krüm'kāk') n. Upper Midwest. A large, thin cookie made from batter poured into an embossed mold with hinged plates. [Norwegian krumkake : krum, curved, crooked (from Middle Low German krum, from Old High German krump) + kake, cake (from Old Norse kaka).]

REGIONAL NOTE: The Upper Midwest received a great influx of Scandinavian immigrants in the 19th century, and the English that these people learned was augmented by Scandinavian words for their native food and customs. Thus we have krumkake, the name of a large, light, very thin Norwegian cookie made from an egg-based batter poured into an embossed hinged iron similar to a waffle iron. Peeled off the iron while warm and pliable, each krumkake is then rolled around a cone-shaped metal tube so that it hardens in that shape and is filled with sweetened whipped cream. Krumkake is best known in the Upper Midwest, but the term is familiar elsewhere thanks to the inclusion of the recipe in nationally used cookbooks.

Krung Thep (grōōng tĕp') See Bangkok.

Krupp (krōōp, krŭp) German family of steel and munitions manufacturers, including Friedrich (1787-1826), who founded the Krupp Works in Essen (1811), and his son Alfred (1812-1887), who there began the production of ordnance (c. 1847). Alfred's granddaughter Bertha (1886-1957) and her husband Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach (1870-1950) were important in the secret rearming of Germany after World War I.

Krup-ska-ya (krōōp'skə-yə), Nadezhda Konstantinovna. 1869-1939. Russian revolutionary and wife of Vladimir Lenin. She held numerous political posts before and after the October Revolution (1917) and wrote Memories of Lenin (1930).

Krutch (krŭch), Joseph Wood. 1893-1970. American critic, naturalist, and writer whose works include The Modern Temper (1929) and The Measure of Man (1954).

kryp-ton (krĭp'tŏn') n. Symbol Kr A whitish, inert gaseous element used chiefly in gas discharge lamps and fluorescent lamps. Atomic number 36; atomic weight 83.80; melting point -156.6°C ; boiling point -152.30°C ; density 3.73 grams per liter (0°C). [Greek krupton, neuter of kruptos, hidden, from kruptein, to hide.]

KS abbr. Kansas.

K selection (kā' sĭ-lĕk'shən) n. A form of selection that occurs in an environment at or near carrying capacity, favoring a reproductive strategy in which few offspring are produced. [From K, the constant for carrying capacity in the equation for population growth.]

Ksha·tri·ya (kə-shăt'rĕ-ə, -chăt'-) n. 1. The second of the four Hindu classes, responsible for upholding justice and social harmony. In ancient India this was the royal or warrior class; in modern India, the professional, governing, or military class. 2. A member of this class. [Sanskrit kṣatriyah, from kṣatram, rule, power.]

kt abbr. Kiloton.

Kt abbr. Games. Knight.

kt. also kt abbr. 1. Karat. 2. Knight. 3. Nautical. Knot.

Kua·la Lum·pur (kwä'lə lööm-poör') The capital and largest city of Malaysia, on the southwest Malay Peninsula northwest of Singapore. Founded by tin miners in 1857, it is the commercial and industrial hub of the country. Population, 937,817.

Ku·ban (kōo-băn', -băn') A river of southwest Russia flowing about 917 km (570 mi) north and west to the Sea of Azov.

Ku·blai Khan (kōo'blī kăn') also Ku·bla Khan (-blə), 1215-1294. Mongol emperor (1260-1294) and founder of the Mongol dynasty in China. A grandson of Genghis Khan, he conquered the Song dynasty (1279) and established a great capital, now Beijing, where he received Marco Polo (1275-1292).

Ku·brick (kōo'brĭk', kyōo'-), Stanley. Born 1928. American filmmaker whose works include Lolita (1962), Dr. Strangelove (1963), 2001: A Space Odyssey (1969), and A Clockwork Orange (1971).

ku·chen (kōo'kən, -KHən) n. A coffeecake raised with yeast, often containing fruit and nuts. [German, from Middle High German kuoche, cake, from Old High German kuocho.]

ku·dos (kōo'dōz', -dōs', -dōs', kyōo'-) n. Acclaim or praise for exceptional achievement. [Greek, magical glory.]

USAGE NOTE: Kudos is one of those words like congeries that look like plurals but are etymologically singular: correctness requires Kudos is (not are) due her for her brilliant work on the score. Some writers have tried to defend the use of kudos with a plural verb, or even the introduction of a new singular form of kudo, on the grounds that these innovations follow the pattern whereby the English words pea and cherry were re-formed from nouns ending in -s that were thought to be plural. Perhaps the singular kudo would have to be acknowledged as a legitimate formation if it came to be widely adopted in the popular language in the way that cherry and pea have. But at present kudos is still regarded as a slightly pretentious variant for praise and can scarcely claim to be part of the linguistic folkways of the community. When writers reach for an unfamiliar Greek word for the sake of elegance, it is fair to ask that they get it right. Still, it is worth noting that even people who are careful to treat the word syntactically as a singular often pronounce it as if it were a plural: etymology would require that the final consonant be pronounced as a voiceless (s), rather than as a voiced (z).

ku·du also koo·doo (kōō'dōō) n. pl. kudu or ku·dus also koodoo or koo·doos. Either of two large African antelopes (Tragelaphus strepsiceros or T. imberbis) having a brownish coat with narrow, white vertical stripes and, in the male, long, spirally curved horns. [Afrikaans koedoe, from Nguni (Xhosa) i-quda, i-qudu, possibly of Khoikhoi (Nama) origin.]

kud·zu (kōōd'zōō) n. An eastern Asian vine (Pueraria lobata) having compound leaves and clusters of reddish-purple flowers. It is grown for fodder, forage, and root starch. [Japanese kuzu.]

Ku·fic also Cu·fic (kōō'fik, kyōō'-) adj. Relating to or being an angular form of the Arabic alphabet used in making fine copies of the Koran. [After Al Kufa, a town of south-central Iraq.]

Kuhn (kōōn), Richard. 1900-1967. Austrian chemist. He won a 1938 Nobel Prize for research on carotenoids and vitamins but declined the award by order of the Nazi government.

Kui-by-shev or Kuy-by-shev (kwē'bə-shěf', -shěv', kōō'ē-bə-shif) A city of western Russia on the Volga River east-southeast of Moscow. It was founded in 1586 as a stronghold to defend river trade and the eastern frontier. Population, 1,257,000.

Ku Klux·er (kōō klük'sər, kyōō) n. A member of the Ku Klux Klan. —Ku Klux'ism n.

Ku Klux Klan (kōō' klüks klän', kyōō') *n. Abbr. KKK, K.K.K. 1. A secret society organized in the South after the Civil War to reassert white supremacy by means of terrorism. 2. A secret fraternal organization of similar intent founded in Georgia in 1915. [Perhaps alteration of Greek kuklos, circle; see CYCLE + alteration of clan.]*

WORD HISTORY: The name of a group that has done so much to prevent the spread of openness in society should be suitably mysterious, and certainly the etymology of Ku Klux Klan is not easily penetrated. The most widely accepted theory is that Ku Klux is an illiterate misspelling of the Greek word kuklos, meaning “ring, circle,” and Klan is the word clan spelled with a k. Why this name, first recorded in 1867, was chosen is not exactly known. Certainly the name fits, because the groups or clans that have used the name have drawn a circle around those who can and cannot be considered as United States citizens with full rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Recalling the violent habits of the Klan, others have derived the word from the sounds made in the cocking of a gun, but it seems far more likely that the ignorance of those who espoused the principles of such a group was also responsible for the illiterate transcription of the Greek word kuklos.

ku·lak (kōō-lāk', kōō'lāk', -lāk') n. A prosperous landed peasant in czarist Russia, characterized by the Communists during the October Revolution as an exploiter. [Russian, fist, kulak, probably of Turkic origin.]

Kul·tur (kōōl-tōōr') n. 1. Culture; civilization. 2. German culture and civilization as idealized by the exponents of German imperialism during the Hohenzollern and Nazi regimes. [German, from Latin cultūra, cultivation, care. See CULTURE.]

Kul·tur·kampf (kōōl-tōōr'kämpf') n. 1. The struggle (1871-1883) between the Roman Catholic Church and the German government under Bismarck for control over school and ecclesiastical appointments and civil marriage. 2. A conflict between secular and religious authorities: "The 1920's proved to be the focal decade in the Kulturkampf of American Protestantism" (Richard Hofstadter). [German : Kultur, Kultur; see KULTUR + Kampf, struggle (from Middle High German kampf, from Old High German kamph, probably ultimately from Latin campus, field).]

Ku·ma·mo·to (kōō'mə-mō'tō) A city of western Kyushu, Japan, east of Nagasaki. It was an important castle town during the feudal period. Population, 555,722.

Ku·ma·si (kōō-mä'sē) A city of south-central Ghana northwest of Accra. Founded c. 1700, it is a commercial and transportation center in a cocoa-producing region. Population, 348,880.

ku·miss also kou·miss (kōō-mīs', kōō'mīs') n. The fermented milk of a mare or camel, used as a beverage by certain peoples of western and central Asia. [Russian kumys, from Old Russian komyzŭ, from Old Turkic qimiz, from qammaq, to shake.]

küm·mel (kīm'əl, kü'məl) n. A colorless liqueur flavored chiefly with caraway seeds. [German, from Middle High German kümel, cumin seed, from Old High German kumīn, kumil, ultimately from Latin cuminum. See CUMIN.]

küm·mel·weck (kōō'məl-vĕk') n. Buffalo. A hard roll containing caraway seeds and coated with salt. Also called weck [German Kümmel, cumin; see KÜM-MEL + German dialectal Weck, roll; see WECK.]

kum·quat also cum·quat (küm'kwöt') n. 1. Any of several trees or shrubs of the genus Fortunella, having small, edible, orangelike fruit. 2. The fruit of these plants, having an acid pulp and a thin, edible rind. It is the smallest of the citrus fruits. [Chinese (Cantonese) kam kwat : kêm, gold + kwêt, orange.]

Kun (kōon), Béla. 1886-1939?. Hungarian politician who founded the Hungarian Communist Party (1918) and organized the revolution in Budapest (1919). He briefly served as premier but fled the country during a counterrevolution (1919).

kun·da·li·ni (kōon'də-lē'nē) n. Hinduism. Energy that lies dormant at the base of the spine until it is activated, as by the practice of yoga, and channeled upward through the chakras in the process of spiritual perfection. [Sanskrit kuṇḍalinī, from feminine sing. of kuṇḍalin-, coiled, spiral, from kuṇḍalam, ring, coil.]

Ku·ne·ne (kōō-nā'nə) See Cunene.

Kung (kōōng, gōōng), Prince. 1833-1898. Chinese leader who as prime minister and coregent (1862-1873) suppressed the Taiping rebellion (1864) and adopted many Western military techniques and materiel.

Kung (kōōng, gōōng), H.H. Originally K'ung Hsiang-hsi. 1881-1967. Chinese Nationalist financier who served as minister of finance (1933-1938), president (1938), and vice president (1939-1944) of the Nationalist government.

Küng (kōōng, küng), Hans. Born 1928. Swiss Roman Catholic theologian. An adviser (1962-1965) during Vatican II, he was later censored by the Vatican (1979) for his rejection of papal infallibility. His works include On Being a Christian (1976).

kung fu (küng' fōō', kōōng', gōōng') Sports. n. The Chinese martial arts, especially those forms that are similar to karate. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: kung fu movies; kung fu exercises. [Chinese (Cantonese) kung fu.]

Kun·lun (kōon'lōon') A mountain system of western China extending from the Karakoram Range eastward along the northern edge of the Xizang (Tibet) plateau. Its highest point is 7,729 m (25,341 ft).

Kun·ming (kōon'mǐng') A city of southern China southwest of Chongqing. The Chinese terminus of the Burma Road during World War II, Kunming is the capital of Yunnan province. Population, 1,080,000.

kunz·ite (kōōnt'sīt') n. A lilac-colored spodumene used as a gemstone. [After George Frederick Kunz (1856-1932), American gemologist.]

Kuo·pio (kwô'py-ô') A city of south-central Finland north-northeast of Helsinki. Chartered in 1782, it is a winter sports center in a lumbering area. Population, 77,371.

Kuo·yu (kwô'yōō') n. Variant of Guoyu.

Ku·ra (kōō-rä') A river of northeast Turkey and southern Azerbaijan flowing about 1,514 km (941 mi) generally northeast and southeast to the Caspian Sea south of Baku.

Ku-ra-shi-ki (kōō-rä'shē-kē) A city of western Honshu, Japan, an industrial suburb of Okayama on the Inland Sea. Population, 413,644.

kur-cha-tov-i-um (kûr'chə-tō'vē-əm) n. Element 104. [After Igor Vasilyevich Kurchatov (1903-1960), Soviet nuclear physicist.]

Kurd (kûrd, kōörd) n. A member of a pastoral and agricultural people inhabiting the transnational region of Kurdistan.

Kurd-ish (kûr'dîsh, kōör'-) adj. Of or relating to the Kurds or their language or culture. — n. The Iranian language of the Kurds.

Kurd-i-stan (kûr'dī-stān', kōör'dī-stān') An extensive plateau region of southwest Asia. Since the dissolution of the Ottoman Empire after World War I, it has been divided among southeast Turkey, northeast Iraq, and northwest Iran, with smaller sections in Syria and Armenia.

Ku-re (kōō'rě') A city of southwest Honshu, Japan, on an arm of the Inland Sea southeast of Hiroshima. It is a naval base and major port. Population, 226,489.

kur-gan (kōör-gän', -gän') n. 1. A type of tumulus or barrow characteristic of a culture located on the steppes of southern Russia about 5000 B.C. and later spreading to the Danube, northern Europe, and northern Iran from around 3500 B.C. 2. Kurgan. a. The culture that produced these tumuli or barrows. b. A member of the people or peoples sharing this culture. The earliest Kurgans are considered by some to be speakers of Proto-Indo-European. [Russian, fortified place, grave mound, from Old Turkic kurghan, fortified place.] —Kur-gan' adj.

Kur-gan (kōör-gän') A city of western Russia east-southeast of Sverdlovsk. Founded in the 17th century, it is a trade center in a rich agricultural area. Population, 343,000.

Ku-ril Islands also Ku-rile Islands (kōör'îl î'ländz, kōō-rēl') An island chain of extreme eastern Russia extending about 1,207 km (750 mi) in the Pacific Ocean between Kamchatka Peninsula and northern Hokkaido, Japan. The volcanic, largely uninhabited islands were held by Japan from 1875 to 1945.

—Ku-ril'i-an adj. & n.

Kur-land (kōör'länd) See Courland.

Kur-nool (kər-nōōl') A city of south-central India northwest of Madras. A market town, Kurnool was overrun by Muslims in 1565 and ceded to the British in 1800. Population, 206,362.

Ku-ro-sa-wa (kōör'ə-sä'wə, kōō'rô-sä'wä), Akira. Born 1910. Japanese filmmaker whose internationally acclaimed works, including Rashomon (1950), The Seven Samurai (1954), and Ran (1985), often concern traditional Japanese institutions.

Ku-ro-shi-o Current (kōō-rō'shē-ō' kûr'ənt) n. See Japan Current.

kur-ra-jong (kûr'ə-jông', -jông', kûr'-) n. An Australian evergreen tree (Brachychiton populneus) having palmately lobed leaves, yellowish or reddish flowers, and long-stalked follicles. [Dharuk (Aboriginal language of southeast Australia) garajurj.]

Kursk (kōorsk) A city of western Russia south-southwest of Moscow. First mentioned in 1095, it was destroyed by the Mongols in 1240 and rebuilt as a fortress in 1586. Population, 420,000.

kur-to-sis (kər-tō'sis) n. pl. kur-to-ses (-sēz'). The general form or a quantity indicative of the general form of a statistical frequency curve near the mean of the distribution. [Greek kurtōsis, curvature, from kurtos, bent. See sker-2 in Appendix.]

ku-ru (kōor'ōo) n. A fatal progressive, degenerative neurological disease caused by a slow-acting virus, found in certain peoples of New Guinea and transmitted by cannibalism. [Indigenous word in Papua New Guinea.]

Ku-ru-me (kōo-rōō'mě) A city of northwest Kyushu, Japan, northeast of Nagasaki. Textiles, especially a blue-figured cotton fabric, are important to its economy. Population, 222,848.

ku-rus (kə-rōōsh', kōō-) n. pl. kurus. A unit of currency in Turkey. See Table at currency. [Turkish kuruş, ultimately from Latin (dēnārius) grossus, thick (denarius). See GROSZ.]

Ku-ru-su (kōo-rōō'sōo), Saburo. 1888?-1954. Japanese diplomat to the United States (1941) who attempted to keep American forces out of the Sino-Japanese War. The failure of these negotiations precipitated Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor.

Kusch (kōōsh), Polykarp. Born 1911. German-born American physicist. He shared a 1955 Nobel Prize for advances in atomic measurement.

Kush (kūsh, kōōsh) See Cush².

Ku-shi-ro (kōōsh'ə-rō', kōo-shē'rō) A city of southeast Hokkaido, Japan, on the Pacific Ocean. It is the island's only ice-free trading port. Population, 214,545.

Kus-ko-kwim (kūs'kə-kwīm') A river of southwest Alaska flowing about 965 km (600 mi) southwest to Kuskokwim Bay, an inlet of the Bering Sea.

Ku-ta-i-si (kōō-tī'sē, kōō'tə-yē'syī) A city of western Georgia west-northwest of Tbilisi. The capital of ancient Colchis in the eighth century, it was taken by the Russians after 1773. Population, 214,000.

Kutch (kūch) See Rann of Kutch.

Kutch, Gulf of. An inlet of the Arabian Sea in western India adjoining the Rann of Kutch.

Ku-te-nai (kōōt'n-ā', -n-ē') n. pl. Kutenai or Ku-te-nais. 1. a. A Native American people inhabiting parts of southeast British Columbia, northeast Washington, and northern Idaho. b. A member of this people. 2. The language of the Kutenai.

Ku-tu-zov (kōo-tōō'zōf, -zəf), Mikhail Ilarionovich Prince of Smolensk. 1745-1813. Russian field marshal who distinguished himself in the wars against Turkey (1770-1774 and 1787-1791) and commanded (1805-1812) the Russian opposition to Napoleon.

Ku·wait (kōō-wāt') 1. A country of the northeast Arabian Peninsula at the head of the Persian Gulf. With its major oil reserves, discovered in 1938, it has one of the highest per capita incomes in the world. The country was a British protectorate from 1897 to 1961. It was annexed by Iraq in August 1990. The city of Kuwait is its capital. Population, 1,355,827. 2. The capital of Kuwait, in the east-central part of the country on the Persian Gulf. Population, 60,365.

—Ku·wait'i (-wā'tē) adj. & n.

Kuy·by·shev (kwē'bā-shěf', -shěv', kōō'ē-bə-shif) See Kuibyshev.

Kuz·nets (kōōz'něts', kōōz'nīts), Simon. 1901-1985. Russian-born American economist. He won a 1971 Nobel Prize for developing a method of using a country's gross national product to determine its economic growth.

Kuz·netsk Basin (kōōz-nětsk' bā'sin, -nyětsk') A coal-producing region of west-central Russia extending from Tomsk southward to Novokuznetsk. The area's mineral resources were first exploited in the mid-19th century.

kV or kv abbr. Kilovolt.

kvass (kväs) n. A Russian fermented beverage similar to beer, made from rye or barley. [Russian kvas, from Old Russian kvasŭ.]

kvetch (kvěch) Slang. v. intr. kvetched, kvetch-ing, kvetch-es. To complain persistently and whiningly. — n. 1. A chronic, whining complainer. 2. A nagging complaint: "a rambling kvetch against the system" (Leonard Ross). [Yiddish kvetshn, to squeeze, complain, from Middle High German quetzen, quetschen, to squeeze.]

kW abbr. Kilowatt.

Kwa (kwä) n. Any of several West African languages belonging to the South Central Niger-Congo language family, including Efik, Ewe, Ibibio, Ibo, and Yoruba. —Kwa adj.

kwa·cha (kwä'chə) n. A basic unit of currency in Malawi and Zambia. See Table at currency. [Bemba, and Chewa, dawn kw-, infinitive pref. + -acha, to dawn.]

Kwa·ja·lein (kwä'jə-lən, -lān') An atoll in the Marshall Islands of the western Pacific Ocean. It was used as a Japanese air and naval base during World War II.

Kwa·ki·u·tl (kwä'kē-ōōt'l) n. pl. Kwakiutl or Kwa·ki·u·tIs. 1. a. A Native American people inhabiting parts of coastal British Columbia and northern Vancouver Island. b. A member of this people. 2. The Wakashan language of the Kwakiutl.

Kwan·do (kwän'dō) A river rising in central Angola and flowing about 965 km (600 mi) generally southeast and east to the Zambezi River.

Kwang·chow (kwäng'chō') See Guangzhou.

Kwang·ju (kwäng'jōō', gwäng'-) A city of southwest South Korea south-southeast of Seoul. It is an agricultural market and a commercial center. Population, 843,000.

Kwang-si Chuang (kwäng'sē' chwäng') See Guangxi Zhuangzu.

Kwang-tung (kwäng'tōōng', gwäng'dōōng') See Guangdong.

Kwan-tung (kwän'tōōng', gwän'dōōng') A former coastal territory of north-east China in southern Manchuria. It was leased to Russia in 1898 and controlled by Japan from 1905 to 1945.

kwan·za (kwän'zə) n. pl. kwanza or kwan-zas. A basic unit of currency in Angola. See Table at currency. [Bantu, possibly from Kwanza (Cuanza), a river of Angola, or from Swahili kwanza, first or from kuanza, to begin.]

Kwan·za¹ (kwän'zə) See Cuanza.

Kwan·za² (kwän'zə) n. An African-American cultural festival, celebrated from December 26 to January 1. [Possibly from Swahili kwanzaa, first fruit of the harvest.]

kwa-shi-or-kor (kwä'shē-ôr'kôr') n. Severe protein malnutrition, especially in children after weaning, characterized by lethargy, growth retardation, anemia, edema, potbelly, depigmentation of the skin, and loss of hair or change in hair color. [Gã (Niger-Congo language of Ghana) kwashiorko.]

Kwei-chow (kwā'chō') See Guizhou.

Kwei-lin (kwā'līn') See Guilin.

Kwei-yang (kwā'yäng') See Guiyang.

kWh abbr. Kilowatt-hour.

kW-hr abbr. Kilowatt-hour.

KY or Ky. abbr. Kentucky.

ky·ack (kī'äk') n. A packsack that hangs on either side of a packsaddle. [Probably from KAYAK.]

ky·a·nite (kī'ə-nīt') also cy·a·nite (sī'ə-) n. A bluish-green to colorless mineral, Al₂SiO₅, used as a refractory. [Greek kuanos, dark blue enamel + -ITE¹.]

kyat (chät) n. A basic unit of currency in Burma. See Table at currency. [Burmese.]

Kyd or Kid (kīd), Thomas. 1558-1594. English dramatist who wrote The Spanish Tragedy (c. 1584), is thought to have contributed to Shakespeare's Titus Andronicus and Henry VI, and may have written a version of Hamlet.

ky·lix (kī'līks, kīl'īks) n. pl. ky·li·kes (kī'lī-kēz', kīl'ī-). A shallow, stemmed, two-handled drinking cup used in ancient Greece. [Greek kulix.]

ky·mo·gram (kī'mə-grām') n. A graph or record made by a kymograph. [Greek kuma, something swollen; see CYMA + -GRAM.]

ky·mo·graph (kī'mə-gräf') n. Physiology. An instrument for recording variations in pressure, as of the blood, or in tension, as of a muscle, by means of a pen or stylus that marks a rotating drum. [Greek kuma, something swollen; see CYMA + -GRAPH.] —ky'mo-graph'ic adj.

Ky·o·ga (kē-ō'gə), Lake. See Lake Kioga.

Kyo·to (kē-ō'tō, kyō'-) A city of west-central Honshu, Japan, north-northeast of Osaka. Founded in the eighth century, it has long been a cultural, artistic, and religious center. Kyoto was Japan's capital from 794 until 1869, although its political importance declined after the rise of the shoguns (1192). Population, 1,479,125.

ky·pho·sis (kī-fō'sis) n. Abnormal rearward curvature of the spine, resulting in protuberance of the upper back; hunchback. [Greek kuphōsis, from kuphos, bent.] —ky·phot'ic (-fōt'ik) adj.

Kyr·i·e (kîr'ē-ā') n. 1. A brief petition and response used in various liturgies of several Christian churches, beginning with or composed of the words "Lord, have mercy." 2. A musical setting of this petition and response, usually forming the first movement of a Mass. [Late Latin, from Greek Kurie eleēson, Lord, have mercy : Kurie, vocative of kurios, lord, master; see keuə- in Appendix + eleēson, aorist imperative of elein, to show mercy (from eleos, mercy).]

Kyrie e-le-i-son (kîr'ē-ā' ĩ-lā'ĩ-sōn', -sən) n. The Kyrie. [Late Latin. See KYRIE.]

Kyu·shu (kē-ōō'shōō, kyōō'-) The southernmost of the major islands of Japan, in the southwest on the East China Sea and the Pacific Ocean.

Ky·zyl-Kum (kĭ-zĭl'kōōm') A desert of north-central Uzbekistan and south-central Kazakhstan southeast of the Aral Sea between the Amu Darya and the Syr Darya.

l¹ or L (əl) n. pl. l's or L's. 1. The 12th letter of the modern English alphabet.

2. Any of the speech sounds represented by the letter l. 3. The 12th in a series.

4. Something shaped like the letter L.

l² abbr. Liter.

L¹ also l The symbol for the Roman numeral 50.

L² abbr. 1. Lambert. 2. Also L. Large.

l. abbr. 1. Also L. Lake. 2. Land. 3. Late. 4. Left. 5. Length. 6. Line. 7. Lira.

L. abbr. 1. Latin. 2. Licentiate (in titles). 3. Linnaean. 4. Lodge (society).

la¹ (lä) n. Music. The sixth tone of the diatonic scale in solfeggio. [Middle English, from Medieval Latin. See GAMUT.]

la² (lä) interj. Used to express emphasis or indicate surprise.

La The symbol for the element lanthanum.

LA or La. abbr. Louisiana.

L.A. abbr. 1. Legislative Assembly. 2. Local agent. 3. Also LA. Los Angeles.

laa·ger (lä'gər) n. A defensive encampment encircled by armored vehicles or wagons. — v. intr. laa·gered, laa·ger·ing, laa·gers. To camp in a defensive encirclement. [Alteration of Obsolete Afrikaans lager, probably from German Lager, camp, lair, from Middle High German lēger, bed, lair, from Old High German legar. See legh- in Appendix.] lab (läb) n. A laboratory.

Lab. abbr. Labrador.

La Baie (lä bā') A city of south-central Quebec, Canada, on the Saguenay River southeast of Chicoutimi. Population, 20,935.

La·ba·no·ta·tion (lä'bə-nō-tā'shen) n. A system of movement notation for dance that employs various symbols to record the points of a dancer's body, the direction of a dancer's movement, the tempo, and the dynamics: "Labanotation is specific enough to record the flutter of an eyelid" (Joseph Menosky). [After Rudolph Laban (1879-1958), Hungarian choreographer.]

lab·a·rum (läb'ər-əm) n. pl. lab·a·ra (-ər-ə). 1. An ecclesiastical banner, especially one carried in processions. 2. The banner adopted by Constantine I after his conversion to Christianity. [Latin.]

lab·da·num (läb'də-nəm) also lad·a·num (läd'n-əm) n. A resin of certain Old World plants of the genus Cistus, yielding a fragrant essential oil used in flavorings and perfumes. [Middle English, from Medieval Latin lapdanum, labdanum, alteration of Latin lādanum, from Greek lēdanon, from lēdon, rockrose, of Semitic origin; akin to Akkadian ladunu.]

La·bé (lä-bā') A city of west-central Guinea northeast of Conakry. It is a trade center for an agricultural region. Population, 253,000.

la·bel (lä'bəl) n. 1. An item that functions as a means of identification, especially a small piece of paper or cloth attached to an article to designate its origin, owner, contents, use, or destination. 2. A descriptive term; an epithet. 3. A distinctive name or trademark identifying a product or manufacturer, especially a recording company. 4. Computer Science. A symbol or set of symbols identifying the contents of a file, memory, tape, or record. 5. Architecture. A molding over a door or window; a dripstone. 6. Heraldry. A figure in a field consisting of a narrow horizontal bar with several pendants. 7. Chemistry. See tracer (n., sense 4). — v. tr. la·beled or la·belled, la·bel·ing or la·bel·ling, la·bels or la·bels.

1. To attach a label to. 2. To identify or designate with a label; describe or classify: labeled them Yuppies. See Synonyms at mark¹. 3. Chemistry. To add a tracer to (a compound). [Middle English, ornamental strip of cloth, from Old French, probably of Germanic origin.] —la'bel·er, la'bel·ler n.

la·bel·lum (lə-běl'əm) n. pl. la·bel·la (-běl'ə). 1. The often enlarged petal of an orchid flower. 2. A liplike part, such as the tip of the proboscis of various insects, used for lapping up liquids. [Latin, diminutive of labrum, lip. See leb- in Appendix.] —la·bel'late (-ĭt) adj.

la·bi·a (lā'bē-ə) n. Plural of labium.

la·bi·al (lā'bē-əl) adj. 1. Of or relating to the lips or labia. 2. Linguistics. Articulated mainly by closing or partly closing the lips, as the sounds (b), (m), or (w). — n. 1. Linguistics. A labial consonant. 2. Music. See flue¹ (n., sense 2a). [Medieval Latin labiālis, from Latin labium, lip. See leb- in Appendix.]

—la'bi·al·ly adv.

la·bi·al·ize (lā'bē-ə-līz') v. tr. la·bi·al·ized, la·bi·al·iz·ing, la·bi·al·iz·es. Linguistics. To round (a vowel); make labial. —la'bi·al·i·za'tion (-ə-lī-zā'shən) n.

labia ma·jo·ra (lā'bē-ə mə-jōr'ə, -jōr'ə) pl.n. The two outer rounded folds of adipose tissue that lie on either side of the vaginal opening and form the external lateral boundaries of the vulva. [New Latin labia mājōra: Latin labia, pl. of labium, lip + Latin māiōra, neuter pl. of māior, larger.]

labia mi·no·ra (lā'bē-ə mə-nōr'ə, -nōr'ə) pl.n. The two thin inner folds of skin within the vestibule of the vagina enclosed within the cleft of the labia majora; nymphae. [New Latin labia minōra: Latin labia, pl. of labium, lip + Latin minōra, neuter pl. of minor, smaller.]

la·bi·ate (lā'bē-ĭt, -āt') adj. 1. Having lips or liplike parts. 2. Botany. a. Having or characterizing flowers with the corolla divided into two liplike parts, as in the snapdragon. b. Of or belonging to the mint family Labiatae. — n. A plant belonging to the Labiatae. [Latin labium, lip; see LABIUM + -ATE¹.]

la·bile (lā'bīl', -bəl) adj. 1. Open to change; adaptable: an emotionally labile person. 2. Chemistry. Constantly undergoing or likely to undergo change; unstable: a labile compound. [Middle English labil, forgetful, wandering, from Old French labile, from Late Latin lābilis, apt to slip, from lābī, to slip.] —la·bil'i·ty (-bīl'ĭ-tē) n.

labio- pref. Labial: labiovelar. [From Latin labium, lip. See LABIUM.]

la·bi·o·den·tal (lā'bē-ō-dĕn'tl) Linguistics. adj. Articulated with the lower lip and upper teeth, as the sounds (f) and (v). — n. A labiodental sound.

la·bi·o·na·sal (lā'bē-ō-nā'zəl) Linguistics. adj. Simultaneously labial and velar. — n. A labionasal sound.

la·bi·o·ve·lar (lā'bē-ō-vē'lər) Linguistics. adj. Simultaneously labial and velar, as (kw) in quick. — n. A labiovelar sound.

la·bi·um (lā'bē-əm) n. pl. la·bi·a (-bē-ə). 1. Anatomy. Any of four folds of tissue of the female external genitalia. 2. Zoology. a. A liplike structure, such as that forming the floor of the mouth of certain invertebrates, especially insects. b. The inner margin of the opening of a gastropod shell. 3. Botany. One of the liplike divisions of a labiate corolla. [Latin, lip. See leb- in Appendix.] lab·lab (lăb'lăb') n. See hyacinth bean. [Arabic lablāb.]

la·bor (lā'bər) n. 1. a. Physical or mental exertion, especially when difficult or exhausting; work. See Synonyms at work. b. Something produced by work. 2. A specific task. 3. A particular form of work or method of working: manual labor. 4. Work for wages. 5. a. Workers considered as a group. b. The trade union movement, especially its officials. 6. Labor. A political party representing the interests of workers, especially in Great Britain. 7. The physical efforts of childbirth; parturition. — v. la·bored, la·bor·ing, la·bors. — v. intr. 1. To work; toil: labored in the fields. 2. To strive painstakingly: labored over the needlepoint. 3. a. To proceed with great effort; plod: labored up the hill. b. Nautical. To pitch and roll. 4. To suffer from distress or a disadvantage: labored under the misconception that others were cooperating. 5. To undergo the efforts of childbirth. — v. tr. 1. To deal with in exhaustive or excessive detail; belabor: labor a point in the argument. 2. To distress; burden: I will not labor you with trivial matters. — adj. 1. Of or relating to labor. 2. Labor. Of or relating to a political party representing the interests of the working class. [Middle English, from Old French labour, from Latin labor.] — la'bor·er n.

lab·o·ra·to·ry (lăb'rə-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) n. pl. lab·o·ra·to·ries. 1. a. A room or building equipped for scientific experimentation or research. b. An academic period devoted to work or study in such a place. 2. A place where drugs and chemicals are manufactured. 3. A place for practice, observation, or testing. [Medieval Latin labōrātōrium, from Latin labōrāre, to labor, from labor, labor.]

Labor Day (lā'bər dā) n. The first Monday in September, observed as a holiday in the United States and Canada in honor of working people.

la·bored (lā'bərd) adj. 1. Produced or done with effort: the labored breathing of a very ill person. 2. Lacking natural ease; strained: a labored style of debating.

la·bor·in·ten·sive (lā'bər-ĭn-tĕn'sĭv) adj. Requiring or having a large expenditure of labor in comparison to capital: "Intrigue and subversion are labor-intensive undertakings" (George F. Kennan).

la·bo·ri·ous (lə-bôr'ē-əs, -bôr'-) adj. 1. Marked by or requiring long, hard work: spent many laborious hours on the project. 2. Hard-working; industrious. [Middle English, from Old French laborieux, from Latin labōriōsus, from labor, labor.] —la·bo'ri·ous·ly adv. —la·bo'ri·ous·ness n.

la·bor·ite (lā'bə-rīt') n. 1. A member or supporter of a labor movement or union. 2. Laborite. A member of a political party representing labor.

la·bor·sav·ing (lā'bər-sā'vĭng) adj. Designed to conserve human energy in performing work or to decrease the amount of human labor needed.

labor union (lā'bər yōn'yən) n. An organization of wage earners formed for the purpose of serving the members' interests with respect to wages and working conditions.

la·bour (lā'bər) n., v. & adj. Chiefly British. Variant of labor.

la·bra (lā'brə) n. Plural of labrum.

Lab·ra·dor (lăb'rə-dôr') Abbr. Lab. The mainland territory of Newfoundland, Canada, on the northeast portion of the Labrador Peninsula. Its coastline was visited by Norse seamen as early as the tenth century. The area later became a possession of the Hudson's Bay Company and was eventually awarded to Newfoundland in 1927. —Lab'ra·dor'e·an, Lab'ra·dor'i·an adj. & n.

Labrador Current (lăb'rə-dôr' kûr'ənt) n. A cold ocean current flowing southward from Baffin Bay along the coast of Labrador and turning east after intersecting with the Gulf Stream.

lab·ra·dor·ite (lăb'rə-dôr'īt', -dô-rīt') n. A variety of plagioclase feldspar found in igneous rocks and characterized by brilliant colors in some specimens. [After the Labrador (Peninsula).]

Labrador Peninsula (lăb'rə-dôr' pə-nĭn'syə-lə) A peninsula of eastern Canada between Hudson Bay and the Atlantic Ocean. It is divided between Quebec and Newfoundland provinces.

Labrador retriever (lăb'rə-dôr' rĭ-trē'vər) n. Any of a breed of dog originating in Newfoundland, having a short, dense, yellow, black, or brown coat and a tapering tail and used in hunting to retrieve felled game. [After Labrador.]

Labrador Sea (lăb'rə-dôr' sē) An arm of the northern Atlantic Ocean between eastern Canada and southwest Greenland.

la·bret (lā'brĭt) n. An ornament inserted into a perforation in the lip. [Latin labrum, lip; see leb- in Appendix + -ET.] la·brum (lā'brəm) n. pl. la·bra (-brə). 1. A lip or liplike structure, such as the one forming the roof of the mouth in insects. 2. The outer margin of the opening of a gastropod shell. [Latin, lip. See leb- in Appendix.]

La Bru·yère (lä brōō-yër', brē-, brü-), Jean de. 1645-1696. French moralist and satirist. His works provide a critical account of 17th-century Paris.

La-bu-an (lə-bōō'ən, lă'bōō-än') An island of Malaysia off the northeast coast of Borneo. At one time a British crown colony (after 1848), it became part of Malaysia in 1963.

la-bur-num (lə-bûr'nəm) n. Any of several trees or shrubs of the genus Laburnum, especially L. anagyroides, which is cultivated for its drooping clusters of yellow flowers. [New Latin Laburnum, genus name, from Latin laburnum, broad-leaved bean-trefoil, perhaps of Etruscan origin.]

lab-y-rinth (lăb'ə-rīnth') n. 1. a. An intricate structure of interconnecting passages through which it is difficult to find one's way; a maze. b. Labyrinth. Greek Mythology. The maze in which the Minotaur was confined. 2. Something highly intricate or convoluted in character, composition, or construction: a labyrinth of rules and regulations. 3. Anatomy. a. A group of complex interconnecting anatomical cavities. b. See inner ear. [Middle English labinthe, from Latin labyrinthus, from Greek laburinthos; possibly akin to labrus, double-headed axe, of Lydian origin.]

lab-y-rin-thine (lăb'ə-rīn'thīn, -thēn') also lab-y-rin-thi-an (-thē-ən) adj. Of, relating to, resembling, or constituting a labyrinth: "the labyrinthine corridors and alleys of bureaucratic red tape" (William H. Hallahan).

labyrinthine fluid (lăb'ə-rīn'thīn flōō'id) n. The fluid separating the osseous and the membranous labyrinths of the inner ear.

lab-y-rin-tho-dont (lăb'ə-rīn'thə-dōnt') n. 1. Having teeth with a labyrinthine internal structure. 2. Of or relating to the superorder Labyrinthodontia, an extinct group of amphibians resembling crocodiles and having a labyrinthine tooth structure.

lac (lăk) n. A resinous secretion of the lac insect deposited on trees and used in making shellac. [Dutch lac, or French laque (from Old French lacce, from Medieval Latin lacca, from Arabic lakk, from Persian lak) both from Hindi lākh, from Prakrit lakkha, from Sanskrit lākṣā, red dye, resin, alteration of rākṣā.]

La Ca-na-da-Flint-ridge (lə' kən-yă'də-flīnt'rij') An unincorporated community of southwest California northwest of Pasadena. It is primarily residential. Population, 19,378.

Lac-ca-dive Islands (lăk'ə-dīv' ī'ləndz, lă'kə-dēv') A group of islands and coral reefs in the Arabian Sea off the southwest coast of India. The islands are now part of the region of Lakshadweep.

lac-co-lith (lăk'ə-līth') n. A mass of igneous rock intruded between layers of sedimentary rock, resulting in uplift. [Greek lakkos, cistern + -LITH.]

lace (lās) n. 1. A cord or ribbon used to draw and tie together two opposite edges, as of a shoe. 2. A delicate fabric made of yarn or thread in an open weblike pattern. 3. Gold or silver braid ornamenting an officer's uniform. — v. laced, lac-ing, lac-es. — v. tr. 1. To thread a cord through the eyelets or around the hooks of. 2. a. To draw together and tie the laces of. b. To restrain or constrict by tightening laces, especially of a corset. 3. To pull or pass through; intertwine: lace garlands through a trellis. 4. To trim or decorate with or as if with lace.

5. a. To add a touch of liquor to: laced the eggnog with rum and brandy. b. To add a touch of flavor or a dash of zest to, so as to make more effective, for example: “Quacks now lace their pitch with scientific terms that may sound authentic to the uninformed” (Jane E. Brody). 6. To streak with color. 7. To give a beating to; thrash: laced his opponent in the second round. — v. intr. To be fastened or tied with laces or a lace. —phrasal verb. lace into. Informal. To attack; assail: laced into me for arriving so late. [Middle English, from Old French las, noose, string, from Vulgar Latin laceum*, from Latin laqueus, noose probably akin to lacere, to entice, ensnare.] —lace’less adj. —lac’er n.

lace bug (lās būg) n. Any of several insects of the family Tingidae, predominantly grayish and rectangular, with a lacelike pattern of ridges on the thorax, head, and wings.

lace-curtain (lās’kūr’tn) adj. Aspiring to or emulating the middle class.

Lac·e·dae·mon (lās’ī-dē’mən) See Sparta. —Lac’e·dae·mo’ni·an (-də-mō’nē-ən) adj. & n.

lac·er·ate (lās’ə-rāt’) v. tr. lac·er·at·ed, lac·er·at·ing, lac·er·ates. 1. To rip, cut, or tear. 2. To cause deep emotional pain to; distress. — adj. (-rīt, -rāt’)

1. Torn; mangled. 2. Wounded. 3. Having jagged, deeply cut edges: lacerate leaves. [Middle English laceraten, from Latin lacerāre, lacerāt-, from lacer, torn.]

lac·er·a·tion (lās’ə-rā’shən) n. A jagged wound or cut.

La·cer·ta (lə-sūr’tə) n. A constellation in the Northern Hemisphere near Cygnus and Andromeda. [Latin lacerta, lizard.]

lac·er·til·i·an (lās’ər-tīl’ē-ən) adj. Of, relating to, or characteristic of lizards and closely related reptiles; Saurian. [From New Latin Lacertilia, former suborder name, from Latin lacerta, lizard.]

lace-wing (lās’wīng’) n. Any of various insects of the superfamily Hemerobioidea, having four gauzy wings, threadlike antennae, and larvae that feed on insect pests such as aphids.

La·chaise (lə-shāz’, lə-shēz’), Gaston. 1882-1935. French-born American sculptor known for his large nude figures, including Standing Woman.

Lach·e·sis (lāk’ī-sīs, lāch’-) n. Greek Mythology. One of the three Fates, the measurer of the thread of destiny.

La·chine (lə-shēn’, lə-) A city of southern Quebec, Canada, on Montreal Island and the St. Lawrence River. It was first settled as an estate by Sieur La Salle in 1668 and named for his futile dream of finding a westward passage to China. Population, 37,521.

La·chish (lā’kīsh) An ancient city of southern Palestine southwest of Jerusalem. It was probably inhabited as early as 3200 B.C.

Lach·lan (lāk'lən) A river, about 1,483 km (922 mi) long, of southeast Australia flowing northwest then southwest to the Murrumbidgee River.

lach·ry·mal also lac·ri·mal (lāk'rə-məl) adj. 1. Of or relating to tears. 2. Of, relating to, or constituting the glands that produce tears. [Middle English lacri-male, from Old French lacrymal, from Medieval Latin lachrymālis, from Latin lacrima, tear. See dakru- in Appendix.]

lach·ry·ma·tion (lāk'rə-mā'shən) n. Variant of lacrimation.

lach·ry·ma·tor also lac·ri·ma·tor (lāk'rə-mā'tər) n. Tear gas. [Latin lacrimāre, lacrimātus, to cry (from lacrima, tear); see LACHRYMAL + -ATOR.]

lach·ry·mose (lāk'rə-mōs') adj. 1. Weeping or inclined to weep; tearful.

2. Causing or tending to cause tears. [Latin lacrimōsus, from lacrima, tear. See LACHRYMAL.] —lach'ry·mose'ly adv. —lach'ry·mos'i·ty (-mōs'ī-tē) n.

lac·ing (lā'sing) n. 1. Something that laces; a lace. 2. A touch of liquor added to a beverage or food. 3. Informal. A beating or thrashing.

la·cin·i·a (lə-sin'ē-ə) n. 1. A slash, as in a leaf or petal. 2. The apex of the insect maxilla. [Latin, fringe, hem.]

la·cin·i·ate (lə-sin'ē-īt, -āt') adj. 1. Having a fringe; fringed. 2. Shaped or formed like a fringe, as a ligament. 3. Slashed into narrow, pointed lobes: a lacinate leaf. [Latin lacinia, fringe, hem + -ATE'.] —la·cin'i·a'tion n.

lac insect (lāk ĭn'sekt') n. Any of various insects of the subfamily Lacciferinae, especially Laccifer lacca of southern Asia, the female of which secretes lac.

La Cis·ter·na (lə sī-stūr'nə, sē-stēr'nə) A city of central Chile, a suburb of Santiago. Population, 246,537.

lack (lāk) n. 1. A deficiency or an absence: a lack of money. 2. Something needed or wanted. — v. lacked, lack·ing, lacks. — v. tr. 1. To be entirely without or have very little of. 2. To be in need of. — v. intr. 1. To be wanting or deficient: You will not be lacking in support from me. 2. To be in need of something: I lacked for nothing. [Middle English, perhaps from Middle Dutch lac, deficiency, fault.]

SYNONYMS: lack, want, need. These verbs mean to be without something, especially something that is necessary or desirable. Lack emphasizes the absence of the thing in question or the inadequacy of its supply: She lacks the money to buy new shoes. The plant died because it lacked moisture. What he lacks in courage he compensates for in bravado. Want and need stress the urgent necessity for filling a void or remedying an inadequacy: “Her pens were uniformly bad and wanted fixing” (Bret Harte). I need help. The garden needs care. “Only when he has ceased to need things can a man truly be his own master and so really exist” (Anwar el-Sadat).

USAGE NOTE: As an intransitive verb in the sense “to be wanting or deficient,” lack is used chiefly in the present participle with in: You will not be lacking in support from me. In the sense “to be in need of something” it is often used with for:

“In the terrible, beautiful age of my prime, I lacked for sweet linen but never for time” (E.B. White).

lack·a·dai·si·cal (lăk'ə-dā'zī-kəl) adj. Lacking spirit, liveliness, or interest; languid: “There’ll be no time to correct lackadaisical driving techniques after trouble develops” (William J. Hampton). [From lackadaisy, alteration of LACKADAY.]

—lack'a-dai'si-cal-ly adv. —lack'a-dai'si-cal-ness n.

lack·a·day (lăk'ə-dā') interj. Archaic. Used to express regret or disapproval. [Alteration of alack the day.]

Lack·a·wan·na (lăk'ə-wŏn'ə) A city of western New York on Lake Erie south of Buffalo. It is an industrial center. Population, 20,585.

lack·ey (lăk'ē) n. pl. lack·eys. 1. A liveried male servant; a footman. 2. A servile follower; a toady. — v. lack-eyed, lack-ey-ing, lack·eys. — v. tr. To wait on as a footman; attend. — v. intr. To act in a servile manner; fawn. [French laquais, from Old French.]

lack·lus·ter (lăk'lŭs'tər) adj. Lacking brightness, luster, or vitality; dull. See Synonyms at dull.

La·co·ni·a (lə-kō'nē-ə) 1. An ancient region of southern Greece in the southeast Peloponnesus. It was dominated by Sparta until the rise of the second Achaean League in the third and second centuries B.C. 2. A city of central New Hampshire north of Concord. Settled in 1761, it is a summer and winter resort. Population, 15,743.

la·con·ic (lə-kŏn'ik) adj. Using or marked by the use of few words; terse or concise. [Latin Lacōnicus, Spartan, from Greek Lakōnikos, from Lakōn, a Spartan (from the reputation of the Spartans for brevity of speech).] —la·con'i-cal-ly adv.

WORD HISTORY: As the study of the classics has disappeared from the curriculum, so has the ready understanding that terms such as laconic once possessed. Laconic, which comes to us via Latin from Greek Lakōnikos, is first recorded in 1583 with the sense “of or relating to Laconia or its inhabitants.” Lakōnikos is derived from Lakōn, “a Laconian, a person from Lakedaimon,” the name for the region of Greece of which Sparta was the capital. The Spartans, noted for being warlike and disciplined, were also known for the brevity of their speech, and it is this quality that English writers still denote by the use of the adjective laconic, which is first found in this sense in 1589.

lac·o·nism (lăk'ə-nīz'əm) n. Terseness or succinctness of style or expression.

La Co·ru·ña (lə' kə-rŏŏn'yə, kŏ-rŏŏ'nyə) A city of northwest Spain on the Atlantic Ocean west of Oviedo. Perhaps predating Roman times, it was the point of departure for the Spanish Armada (1588). Population, 240,463.

lac·quer (lăk'ər) n. 1. Any of various clear or colored synthetic coatings made by dissolving nitrocellulose or other cellulose derivatives together with plasticizers and pigments in a mixture of volatile solvents and used to impart a high gloss to surfaces. 2. A glossy, resinous material, such as the exudation of the lacquer tree, used as a surface coating. 3. A finish that is baked onto the inside of food and beverage cans. — v. tr. lac·quered, lac·quer·ing, lac·quers. 1. To coat with lacquer. 2. To give a sleek, glossy finish to. [Obsolete French lacre, sealing wax, from Portuguese, from lacca, resin of the lac insect, from Arabic lakk. See LAC.] —lac'quer·er n.

lacquer tree (lăk'ər trē) n. A poisonous, eastern Asian tree (Rhus verniciflua) having pinnately compound leaves and a toxic exudation from which a black lacquer is obtained.

lac·ri·mal (lăk'rə-məl) adj. Variant of lachrymal.

lac·ri·ma·tion also lach·ry·ma·tion (lăk'rə-mā'shən) n. Secretion of tears, especially in excess.

lac·ri·ma·tor (lăk'rə-mā'tər) n. Variant of lachrymator.

la·crosse (lə-krôs', -krös') n. Sports. A game of Native American origin that is played on a field by two teams of ten players each, in which participants use a long-handled stick with a webbed pouch to maneuver a ball into the opposing team's goal. [Canadian French la crosse, from French (jeu de) la crosse, (game of) the hooked stick, from Old French croce, crosse, crosier, of Germanic origin.]

La Crosse (lə krôs', krös') A city of western Wisconsin on the Mississippi River northwest of Madison. It was founded on the site of a French fur-trading post established in the late 18th century. Population, 51,003.

lact- pref. Variant of lacto-.

lac·tal·bu·min (lăk'tăl-byō'mĭn) n. The albumin contained in milk and obtained from whey.

lac·tase (lăk'tās') n. An enzyme occurring in certain yeasts and in the intestinal juices of mammals that is capable of splitting lactose into glucose and galactose.

lac·tate¹ (lăk'tāt') v. intr. lac·tat·ed, lac·tat·ing, lac·tates. To secrete or produce milk. [Latin lactāre, lactāt-, from lac, lact-, milk. See LACTO-.]

lac·tate² (lăk'tāt') n. A salt or an ester of lactic acid.

lactate dehydrogenase (lăk'tāt' dē'hī-drōj'ə-nās') n. Any of a class of enzymes found in the liver, kidneys, striated muscle, and heart muscle that catalyze the reversible interconversion of pyruvate and lactate.

lac·ta·tion (lăk-tā'shən) n. 1. Secretion or formation of milk by the mammary glands. 2. The period during which the mammary glands secrete milk.

—lac·ta·tion·al adj.

lac·te·al (lăk'tē-əl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or resembling milk. 2. Anatomy. Of or relating to any of numerous minute intestinal lymph-carrying vessels that convey chyle from the intestine to lymphatic circulation and thereby to the thoracic duct. — n. Anatomy. A lacteal vessel. [From Latin lacteus, from lac, lact-, milk. See melg- in Appendix.] —lac'te-al·ly adv.

lac·tes·cent (lăk-tēs'ənt) adj. 1. Becoming milky. 2. Milky. 3. Biology. Secreting or yielding a milky juice, as certain plants and insects. [Latin lactēscēns, lactē-scent- present participle of lactēscere inchoative of lactēre, to be milky, from lac, lact-, milk. See melg- in Appendix.] —lac·tes'cence n.

lac·tic (lăk'tik) adj. Of, relating to, or derived from milk.

lactic acid (lăk'tik əs'īd) n. A syrupy, water-soluble liquid, $C_3H_6O_3$, produced as a result of anaerobic glucose metabolism and present in sour milk, molasses, various fruits, and wines. A synthetic form of the compound is used in foods and beverages as a flavoring and preservative, in dyeing and textile printing, and in pharmaceuticals.

lac·tif·er·ous (lăk-tif'ər-əs) adj. 1. Producing, secreting, or conveying milk. 2. Botany. Yielding latex. —lac·tif'er·ous·ness n.

lacto- or lact- pref. 1. Milk: lactoprotein. 2. Lactose: lactase. 3. Lactic acid: lactate. [From Latin lac, lact-, milk. See melg- in Appendix.]

lac·to·ba·cil·lus (lăk'tō-bə-sil'əs) n. pl. lac·to·ba·cil·li (-sil'ī'). Any of various rod-shaped, nonmotile aerobic bacteria of the genus Lactobacillus that ferment lactic acid from sugars and are the causative agents in the souring of milk.

lac·to·fla·vin (lăk'tə-flā'vīn, lăk'tə-flā'-) n. See riboflavin.

lac·to·gen·ic (lăk'tə-jěn'ik) adj. Inducing lactation.

lac·tom·e·ter (lăk-təm'ī-tər) n. A device used to measure the specific gravity, and therefore the richness, of milk.

lac·tone (lăk'tōn') n. An anhydride formed by the removal of a water molecule from the hydroxyl and carboxyl radicals of hydroxy acids. [LACT(O)- + -ONE.] —lac·ton'ic (-tōn'ik) adj.

lac·to·pro·tein (lăk'tō-prō'tēn', -tē-ən) n. A protein normally present in milk.

lac·tose (lăk'tōs') n. 1. A disaccharide, $C_{12}H_{22}O_{11}$, found in milk, that may be hydrolyzed to yield glucose and galactose. 2. A white crystalline substance obtained from whey and used in infant foods, bakery products, confections, and pharmaceuticals as a diluent and excipient. Also called milk sugar la·cu·na (lə-kyōō'nə) n. pl. la·cu·nae (-nē) or la·cu·nas. 1. An empty space or a missing part; a gap: “self-centered in opinion, with curious lacunae of astounding ignorance” (Frank Norris). 2. Anatomy. A cavity, space, or depression, especially in a bone, containing cartilage or bone cells. [Latin lacūna. See LAGOON.] —la·cu'nal adj.

la·cu·nar (lə-kyōō'nər) n. 1. A ceiling constructed with recessed panels. 2. pl. lac·u·nar·i·a (lăk'yə-nâr'ē-ə). A recessed panel in such a ceiling. [Latin lacūnar, from lacūna, hole. See LAGOON.]

la-cus-trine (lə-kūs'trīn) adj. 1. Of or relating to lakes. 2. Living or growing in or along the edges of lakes. [French or Italian lacustre (from Latin lacus, lake) + -INE¹.]

lac-y (lā'sē) adj. lac-i-er, lac-i-est. Of, relating to, or resembling lace.
—lac'i-ness n.

lad (lād) n. 1. A young man; a youth. 2. Informal. A man of any age; a fellow.
[Middle English ladde, perhaps of Scandinavian origin.]

lad-a-num (lād'n-əm) n. Variant of labdanum.

lad-der (lād'ər) n. 1. a. An often portable structure consisting of two long sides crossed by parallel rungs, used to climb up and down. b. Something that resembles this device, especially a run in a stocking. 2. a. A means of ascent and descent: ascending the social ladder. b. A series of ranked stages or levels: high on the executive ladder. — v. intr. lad-dered, lad-der-ing, lad-ders. To run, as a stocking does. [Middle English, from Old English hlæder. See klei- in Appendix.]

lad-der-back (lād'ər-bāk') n. 1. A chair back consisting of two upright posts connected by horizontal slats. 2. A chair with such a back. —lad'der-back' adj.

Ladd-Frank-lin (lād-frängk'līn), Christine. 1847-1930. American psychologist and logician noted for her work on the theory of color vision.

lad-die (lād'ē) n. A boy or young man; a lad.

lade (lād) v. lad-ed, lad-en (lād'n) or lad-ed, lad-ing, lades. — v. tr.

1. a. To load with or as if with cargo. b. To place (something) as a load for or as if for shipment. 2. To burden or oppress; weigh down. 3. To take up or remove (water) with a ladle or dipper. — v. intr. 1. To take on cargo. 2. To ladle a liquid. [Middle English laden, from Old English hladan.]

la-de-da (lä'dē-dä') adj. Informal. Variant of la-di-da.

lad-en (lād'n) v. A past participle of lade. — adj. 1. Weighed down with a load; heavy: “the warmish air, laden with the rains of those thousands of miles of western sea” (Hilaire Belloc). 2. Oppressed; burdened: laden with grief.

la-di-da also la-de-da (lä'dē-dä') adj. Informal. Affectedly genteel; pretentious. [Perhaps imitative of affected speech.]

la-dies' man (lā'dēz măn) n. Variant of lady's man.

ladies' room (lā'dēz rōōm) n. A restroom for women.

ladies' tress-es also lady's tresses (lā'dēz trēs'īz) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). Any of various orchids of the genus Spiranthes, having a spike or raceme of small flowers usually arranged in a spiral.

La-din (lə-dēn') n. 1. See Romansch. 2. A person who is a native speaker of Ladin. [Rhaeto-Romanic, from Latin Latīnus, Latin. See LATIN.]

lad-ing (lā'dīng) n. 1. The act of loading. 2. Cargo; freight.

La-di-no (lə-dē'nō) n. pl. La-di-nos. 1. A Romance language with elements borrowed from Hebrew that is spoken by Sephardic Jews especially in the Balkans. Also called Judeo-Spanish 2. Also ladino. In Central America, a Spanish-speaking or acculturated Indian; a mestizo. [Spanish ladino, from Latin Latīnus, Latin. See LATIN.]

la·dle (lād'l) n. A long-handled spoon with a deep bowl for serving liquids. — v. tr. la·dled, la·dling, la·dles. To lift out or serve with a long-handled spoon. [Middle English, from Old English hlædel, from hladan, to draw out, lade.]
—la'dler n.

Lad·o·ga (lād'ō-gə), Lake. A lake of northwest Russia northeast of St. Petersburg. It is the largest lake in Europe.

la·dy (lā'dē) n. pl. la·dies. 1. A well-mannered and considerate woman with high standards of proper behavior. 2. a. A woman regarded as proper and virtuous. b. A well-behaved young girl. 3. A woman who is the head of a household. 4. A woman, especially when spoken of or to in a polite way. 5. a. A woman to whom a man is romantically attached. b. Informal. A wife. 6. Lady. Chiefly British. A general feminine title of nobility and other rank, specifically: a. Used as the title for the wife or widow of a knight or baronet. b. Used as a form of address for a marchioness, countess, viscountess, baroness, or baroness. c. Used as a form of address for the wife or widow of a baron. d. Used as a courtesy title for the daughter of a duke, a marquis, or an earl. e. Used as a courtesy title for the wife of a younger son of a duke or marquis. 7. The Virgin Mary. Often used with Our. 8. Slang. Cocaine. [Middle English, mistress of a household, from Old English hlæfdige. See dheigh- in Appendix.]

USAGE NOTE: Lady, a social term, is properly used as a parallel to gentleman in order to emphasize norms expected in civil society or in situations requiring civil courtesies: She is too much of a lady to tell your secrets to her friends. I believe the lady in front of the cheese counter was here before me. Used attributively together with the name of an occupational role, as in lady doctor, the word is widely regarded as condescending because of its implication that the usual person in that role is a man. When the gender of the referent is relevant, the preferred term is woman.

lady beetle also la·dy·bee·tle (lā'dē-bēt'l) n. See ladybug.

la·dy·bird (lā'dē-bûrd') n. See ladybug.

la·dy·bug (lā'dē-bûg') n. Any of numerous small, rounded, usually brightly colored beetles of the family Coccinellidae, often reddish with black spots and feeding primarily on insect pests, such as scale insects and aphids. Also called lady beetle, ladybird.

Lady Chapel also lady chapel (lā'dē chăp'əl) n. A chapel, as in a cathedral or church, usually located behind the sanctuary and dedicated to the Virgin Mary.

Lady Day (lā'dē dā) n. Chiefly British. Annunciation, celebrated on March 25.

la·dy·fin·ger (lā'dē-fīng'gər) also la·dys·fin·ger (lā'dēz-) n. A small oval sponge cake shaped like a human finger.

la·dy·fish (lā'dē-fīsh') n. pl. ladyfish or la·dy·fish·es. Any of several marine fishes, especially the tarpon Elops saurus, a game fish of tropical seas. Also called tenpounder lady in waiting (lā'dē ĭn wā'tīng) n. pl. ladies in waiting. A lady of a court appointed to serve or attend a queen, princess, or royal duchess.

la·dy·kill·er (lā'dē-kīl'ər) n. Slang. A man reputed to be exceptionally attractive to and often ruthless with women.

la·dy·like (lā'dē-līk') adj. 1. Characteristic of a lady; well-bred. 2. Appropriate for or becoming to a lady. See Synonyms at feminine. 3. Unduly sensitive to matters of propriety or decorum. 4. Lacking virility or strength. —la·dy·like·ness n.

la·dy·love (lā'dē-lŭv') n. A woman or girl who is someone's sweetheart.

la·dys·fin·ger (lā'dēz-fīng'gər) n. Variant of ladyfinger.

la·dy·ship also La·dy·ship (lā'dē-shīp') n. Used with Your, Her, or Their as a title and form of address for a woman or women holding the rank of lady.

la·dy's man also la·dies' man (lā'dēz mǎn) n. A man who enjoys and attracts the company of women.

lady's slipper (lā'dēz slīp'ər) n. pl. lady's slippers. Any of various orchids of the genus Cypripedium, having usually solitary, variously colored flowers with an inflated, pouchlike lip. Also called moccasin flower lady's smock (lā'dēz smŏk) n. pl. lady's smocks. See cuckooflower (n., sense 1).

lady's thumb (lā'dēz thŭm) n. pl. lady's thumbs. A European perennial weed (Polygonum persicaria) having clusters of very small pinkish flowers.

lady's tresses (lā'dēz trēs'īz) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). Variant of ladies' tresses.

lady tulip (lā'dē tōō'līp) n. A central Asian tulip (Tulipa clusiana) having red outer perianth segments with white margins.

Laemm·le (lēm'lē), Carl. 1867-1939. German-born American film producer. He was a founder (1912) and later the head (1920-1936) of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Laën·nec (lā-něk'), René. 1781-1826. French physician who invented the stethoscope (c. 1819).

La·er·tes (lā-âr'tēz, -âr'-) n. Greek Mythology. The father of Odysseus.

la·e·trile (lā'ī-trīl', -trəl) n. A drug derived from amygdalin and purported to have antineoplastic properties.

La Farge (lə fārzh', fārj'), John. 1835-1910. American artist known for his murals and stained-glass designs and for his art criticism.

La Farge (lə färzh', färj'), Oliver Hazard Perry. 1901-1963. American writer. His novels, including Laughing Boy (1929), concern Native American culture.

La-fa-yette (läf'ē-ēt', lä'fē-, -fä-) 1. A city of western California, a residential suburb in the San Francisco Bay area. Population, 23,501. 2. A city of west-central Indiana on the Wabash River northwest of Indianapolis. It is the seat of Purdue University (founded 1869). Population, 43,764. 3. A city of south-central Louisiana west-southwest of Baton Rouge. Settled by Acadians, it is a commercial and shipping center. Population, 94,440.

La-fa-yette (läf'ē-ēt', lä'fē-, -fä-), Marquis Marie Joseph Paul Yves Roch Gilbert du Motier de. 1757-1834. French soldier and politician who served on George Washington's staff in the American Revolution. In France he also took part in the 1789 and 1830 revolutions.

Laf-fer curve or Laf-fer Curve (läf'ər kûrv) n. A curved graph that illustrates a relationship between tax rates and government revenues. As tax rates increase from zero, revenues increase until an optimum is reached. But if tax rates are further increased, they are supposed to discourage government spending and business investment, thereby reducing revenues. [After Arthur Laffer (born 1940), American economist.]

Laf-fite or La-fitte (lə-fēt', lä-), Jean. 1780?-1826?. French pirate leader who aided U.S. troops in the War of 1812 in return for an official pardon for his crimes.

La Flesche (lä flësh', lə), Susette. Originally Inshta Theumba ("Bright Eyes"). 1854-1903. Native American writer and lecturer whose work helped bring about more favorable U.S. government policies toward her people.

La Fol-lette (lə fö'l'ət), Robert Marion. 1855-1925. American politician and reformer who served as a U.S. senator from Wisconsin (1906-1925). In 1924 he ran unsuccessfully for President on the Progressive Party ticket.

La-fon-taine (lə-fön-tān', lä-fôn-těn'), Henri Marie. 1854-1943. Belgian politician and pacifist who led the International Peace Bureau (1907-1943) and was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1913.

La Fon-taine (lə fön-tān', lä fôn-těn'), Jean de. 1621-1695. French writer who collected the stories of Aesop and others in his Fables (1668-1694).

lag¹ (läg) v. lagged, lag-ging, lags. — v. intr. 1. To fail to keep up a pace; straggle. 2. To proceed or develop with comparative slowness: The electric current lags behind the voltage. 3. To fail, weaken, or slacken gradually; flag.

4. Games. To determine the order of play in billiards by successively hitting the cue ball against the end rail, the ball rebounding closest to the head rail indicating the player to shoot first. — v. tr. 1. To cause to hang back or fall behind. 2. To shoot, throw, or pitch (a coin, for example) at a mark. — n. 1. The act, process, or condition of lagging. 2. One that lags. 3. A condition of slowness or retardation. 4. a. The extent or duration of lagging: "He wondered darkly at how great a lag there was between his thinking and his actions" (Thomas Wolfe). b. An interval between events or phenomena considered together. [From earlier lag, last person, from Middle English lag-, last, perhaps of Scandinavian origin.]

—lag'ger n.

lag² (läg) n. 1. A barrel stave. 2. A strip, as of wood, that forms a part of the covering for a cylindrical object. — v. tr. lagged, lag-ging, lags. To furnish or cover with lags. [Probably of Scandinavian origin; akin to Swedish lagg. See leu- in Appendix.]

lag³ (läg) Chiefly British. v. tr. lagged, lag-ging, lags. 1. To arrest. 2. To send to prison. — n. 1. a. A convict. b. An ex-convict. 2. A period of imprisonment; a sentence. [Origin unknown.]

lag-an (läg'an) also li-gan (li'gən) or lag-end (läg'ənd) n. Nautical. Cargo or equipment thrown into the sea but attached to a float or buoy so that it can be recovered. [French, from Old French, perhaps of Scandinavian origin. See legh- in Appendix.]

La-gash (lä'gəsh) An ancient city of Sumer in southern Mesopotamia. It flourished c. 2400 B.C. and after the fall of Akkad (2180) enjoyed a classical revival noted for its sculpture and literature.

Lag b'O-mer (läg' bō'mər, läg' bə-ō'mər) n. A Jewish feast celebrated on the 33rd day of the Omer (the 18th day of Iyar). [Hebrew : lag, 33rd + bā, in, of + 'omer, the Omer (period from the second day of Passover to the first day of Shavuoth).]

lag-end (läg'ənd) n. Nautical. Variant of lagan.

la-ger (lä'gər) n. A type of beer, originally brewed in Germany, that contains a relatively small amount of hops and is aged from six weeks to six months to allow sedimentation. Also called lager beer [German, short for Lagerbier : Lager, storehouse, cellar (from Middle High German leger, from Old High German legar, bed, lair); see legh- in Appendix + Bier, beer.]

La-ger-kvist (lä'gər-kvist'), Pär Fabian. 1891-1974. Swedish writer whose novels, including The Hangman (1933) and The Dwarf (1944), explore morality and the search for belief. He won the 1951 Nobel Prize for literature.

La-ger-löf (lä'gər-ləv, -ləv), Selma Ottiliana Lovisa. 1858-1940. Swedish writer whose novels include Gösta Berlings Saga (1891). In 1909 she became the first woman to win the Nobel Prize for literature.

lag-gard (läg'ərd) n. One that lags; a straggler. — adj. Hanging back or falling behind; dilatory. See Synonyms at slow. —lag'gard-ly adv. —lag'-gard-ness n.

lag-ging (läg'ing) n. 1. Insulation used to prevent heat diffusion, as from a steam pipe. 2. A wooden frame built especially to support the sides of an arch until the keystone is positioned. [From LAG².]

la-gniappe (lǎn-yǎp', lǎn'yǎp') n. Chiefly Southern Louisiana. 1. A small gift presented by a storeowner to a customer with the customer's purchase. 2. An extra or unexpected gift or benefit. Regional. Also called *boot*² See Regional note at beignet. [Louisiana French, from American Spanish (la) ñapa, (the) gift, from Quechua yapa, from yapay, to give more.]

REGIONAL NOTE: Lagniappe derives from New World Spanish la ñapa, “the gift,” and perhaps ultimately from Quechua yapay, “to give more.” The word came into the rich Creole dialect mixture of New Orleans and there acquired a French spelling. It is still used chiefly in southern Louisiana to denote a little bonus that a friendly shopkeeper might add to a purchase. By extension, it may mean “an extra or unexpected gift or benefit.”

lag-o-morph (lǎg'ə-môrf') n. Any of various plant-eating mammals having fully furred feet and two pairs of upper incisors and belonging to the order Lagomorpha, which includes the rabbits, hares, and pikas. [From New Latin Lagomorpha, order name : Greek lagōs, hare; see slēg- in Appendix + Greek morphē, shape.] —lag'o-mor'phic (-fīk), lag'o-mor'phous (-fəs) adj.

la-goon (lə-gōon') n. 1. A shallow body of water, especially one separated from a sea by sandbars or coral reefs. 2. A shallow body of liquid waste material, as one in a dump. [French lagune, and Italian laguna both from Latin lacūna, pool, hollow, gap, from lacus, lake.]

La-gos (lā'gōs', lā'gōs) The largest city and former capital of Nigeria, in the southwest part of the country on the Gulf of Guinea. An old Yoruba town, it was the center of the nationalist movement before independence was achieved in 1960. Abuja became the official capital in 1991, but Lagos remains the economic and commercial center. Population, 1,404,000.

La-grange (lə-grānj', lā-grānz'h'), Comte Joseph Louis. 1736-1813. French mathematician and astronomer. He developed the calculus of variations (1755) and made a number of other contributions to the study of mechanics.

La Grange (lə grānj') 1. A city of western Georgia north of Columbus. Incorporated in 1828, it is an industrial center. Population, 25,597. 2. A village of northeast Illinois, a residential suburb of Chicago. Population, 15,362.

La Gran-ja (lā grān'hä) A city of central Chile, a suburb of Santiago. Population, 163,882.

lag screw (lǎg skrō) n. A heavy wood screw having a square bolt head. [From LAG² (From its original use in securing barrel staves).]

La Guar-di-a (lə gwär'dē-ə), Fiorello Henry. Known as “the Little Flower.” 1882-1947. American politician who was a U.S. representative from New York (1917-1921 and 1923-1933) and mayor of New York City (1934-1945).

La-gu-na Beach (lə-gōō'nə bēch) A city of southern California southeast of Long Beach. It is a seaside resort with a noted art colony. Population, 23,170.

Laguna Hills (lə-gōō'nə hīlz) A city of southern California southeast of Santa Ana. Population, 16,400.

La Ha-bra (lə hä'brə) A city of southern California, a processing and manufacturing suburb of Los Angeles. Population, 51,266.

La Hague (lə hāg'), Cape. A promontory of northwest France at the northwest tip of the Cotentin Peninsula on the English Channel.

la-har (lä'här') n. 1. A landslide or mudflow of volcanic fragments on the flanks of a volcano. 2. The deposit produced by such a landslide. [Javanese, lava.]

La-hon-tan (lə-hōn'tən), Lake. An extinct lake with surviving remnants in western Nevada and northeast California. It was formed by heavy precipitation caused by Pleistocene glaciers but largely disappeared after the end of the epoch.

La-hore (lə-hôr', -hōr') A city of northeast Pakistan near the Indian border southeast of Rawalpindi. The city reached the height of its grandeur as a Mogul capital in the 16th century and retains many splendid architectural examples from that period. Population, 2,685,000.

Lahr (lär), Bert. 1895-1967. American entertainer who appeared in many dramas, musicals, and films, most notably as the Cowardly Lion in The Wizard of Oz (1939).

Lah-ti (lä'tē, läKH'-) A city of southern Finland north-northeast of Helsinki. It is a lake port with woodworking industries. Population, 94,347.

la-ic (lä'ik) also la-i-cal (-i-kəl) adj. Of or relating to the laity; secular. — n. A layperson. [Late Latin laicus. See LAY².] — la'i-cal-ly adv.

la-i-cize (lä'i-sīz') v. tr. la-i-cized, la-i-ciz-ing, la-i-ciz-es. 1. To free from ecclesiastical control; give over to laypeople. 2. To change to lay status; secularize. — la'i-ci-za'tion (-sī-zā'shən) n.

laid (lād) v. Past tense and past participle of lay¹.

laid-back (lād'bāk') adj. Informal. Having a relaxed or casual atmosphere or character; easygoing: “laid-back, untroubled people” (New Yorker). — laid'-back'ness n.

laid paper (lād pā'pər) n. A paper made on wire molds that give it a characteristic watermark of close thin lines.

lain (lān) v. Past participle of lie¹.

Laing (läng), R(onald) D(avid). 1927-1989. British writer and psychiatrist. His works, including The Politics of Experience (1967) and The Facts of Life (1976), explore psychosis as a reaction to a dehumanized, irrational society.

lair (lâr) n. 1. The den or dwelling of a wild animal. 2. A den or hideaway. 3. Obsolete. A resting place; a couch. [Middle English, from Old English leger. See legh- in Appendix.]

laird (lârd) n. Scots. The owner of a landed estate. [Scots, from Middle English lard, lavered, variant of lord, owner, master. See LORD.]

laissez faire also lais-ser faire (lès'ā fâr') n. 1. An economic doctrine that opposes governmental regulation of or interference in commerce beyond the minimum necessary for a free-enterprise system to operate according to its own economic laws. 2. Noninterference in the affairs of others. [French : laissez, second person pl. imperative of laisser, to let, allow + faire, to do.] —lais'sez-faire' adj.

laissez-pas-ser (lès'ā-pä-sâ') n. A pass, especially one used in lieu of a passport. [French : laissez, second person pl. imperative of laisser, to let + passer, to pass.]

la-i-ty (lā'ī-tē) n. 1. Laypeople considered as a group. 2. All those persons who are not members of a given profession or other specialized field. [Middle English laite, from lay, of the laity. See LAY².]

La-ius (lā'əs) n. Greek Mythology. A king of Thebes who was mistakenly killed by his own son, Oedipus.

La Jol-la (lə hoi'ə) An unincorporated resort district of San Diego, California, on the Pacific Ocean. Scripps Institute of Oceanography is located in the area.

LAK cell (lăk sĕl) n. A white blood cell produced by cultivation of peripheral lymphocytes with interleukin-2 and used experimentally to shrink malignant tumors. [l(ymphokine-)a(ctivated) k(iller cell).]

lake¹ (lāk) n. Abbr. l., L. 1. A large inland body of fresh water or salt water. 2. A scenic pond, as in a park. 3. A large pool of liquid: a lake of spilled coffee on my desk. [Middle English, from Old French lac, and from Old English lacu both from Latin lacus.]

lake² (lāk) n. 1. A pigment consisting of organic coloring matter with an inorganic, usually metallic base or carrier, used in dyes, inks, and paints. 2. Color. A deep red. [From French laque. See LAC.]

Lake or Lake of (lāk) or Loch (lŏk, lôKH) For the names of actual lakes, see the specific element of the name; for example, Erie, Lake; Lucerne, Lake of; Lomond, Loch.

lake-bed (lāk'bĕd') n. The floor of a lake.

Lake Charles (lāk chărlz) A city of southwest Louisiana east of Beaumont, Texas. It is a deep-water port and the center of a petrochemical industry. Population, 70,580.

Lake District (lāk dīs'trīkt) A scenic area of northwest England including the Cumbrian Mountains and some 15 lakes. It is a popular tourist attraction for its associations with the 19th-century Lake Poets, notably Wordsworth, Coleridge, and Southey.

lake dwelling (lāk dwĕl'īng) n. A dwelling, especially a prehistoric dwelling, built on piles in a shallow lake.

lake effect (lāk ĭ-fĕktʹ) n. The effect of any lake, especially the Great Lakes, in modifying the weather in nearby areas.

Lake Forest (lāk fôrʹĭst) A city of northeast Illinois, a residential suburb of Chicago on Lake Michigan. Population, 17,836.

lake-front (lākʹfrŭntʹ) n. The land along the edge of a lake. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: lakefront property; a lakefront house.

Lake Hav·a·su City (lāk hävʹə-sōōʹ sĭtʹĕ) A city of west-central Arizona on the California border. London Bridge, transported from England, is a popular tourist attraction. Population, 24,363.

lake herring (lāk hĕrʹĭng) n. A food fish, especially the trout Coregonus artedii of the Great Lakes region, related to the cisco and whitefishes.

Lakehurst (lākʹhŭrst) A borough of east-central New Jersey south of Freehold. The dirigible Hindenburg was destroyed by fire at the naval air station here (May 6, 1937). Population, 2,908.

Lake Jack·son (lāk jākʹsən) A city of southeast Texas southwest of Galveston. It is mainly residential. Population, 22,776.

Lake·land (lākʹlənd) A city of central Florida east-northeast of Tampa. It is a winter resort and processing center in a citrus-growing region. Population, 50,455.

Lakeland terrier (lākʹlənd tĕrʹĕ-ər) n. Any of a breed of small, straight-legged, slender dogs, originally bred in England for hunting foxes. [After Lakeland, a region of northwest England.]

Lake Os·we·go (lāk ős-wĕʹgō) A city of northwest Oregon, a residential suburb of Portland. Population, 30,576.

Lake Plac·id (lāk pläsʹĭd) A village of northeast New York in the Adirondack Mountains southwest of Plattsburg. A popular year-round resort, it was the site of the Winter Olympics in 1932 and 1980. Population, 2,490.

lak·er (lāʹkər) n. 1. A fish, such as the lake trout, that lives in a lake. 2. Nautical. A ship used on lakes.

lake-shore (lākʹshôrʹ, -shōrʹ) n. Land by a lake. Also called lakeside — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: lakeshore condominiums; a lake-shore road.

lake-side (lākʹsĭdʹ) n. See lakeshore. — n. attributive. Often used to modify another noun: lakeside shops; lakeside paths.

Lake·side (lākʹsĭdʹ) 1. A community of southern California, a residential and resort suburb of San Diego. Population, 23,921. 2. A community of east-central Virginia, a suburb of Richmond. Population, 29,400.

Lake Suc·cess (lāk sək-sĕsʹ) An unincorporated village of southeast New York on northwest Long Island northwest of Mineola. It was the temporary headquarters of the United Nations from 1946 to 1951.

lake trout (lāk trout) n. A freshwater food and game fish (Salvelinus namaycush) of the Great Lakes. Also called Mackinaw trout, namaycush, togue.

Lake·wood (lāk'wōod') 1. A city of southern California, a residential and industrial suburb of Long Beach. Population, 73,557. 2. A city of north-central Colorado, a residential suburb of Denver. Population, 126,481. 3. An unincorporated township of east-central New Jersey southwest of Asbury Park. It is a health resort in a pine forest and lake region. Population, 26,095. 4. A city of northeast Ohio, a residential and industrial suburb of Cleveland on Lake Erie. Population, 59,718.

Lakewood Center (lāk'wōod' sĕn'tər) A community of west-central Washington, a suburb of Tacoma. Population, 51,300.

Lake Worth (lāk wûrth) A city of southeast Florida south of West Palm Beach. It is a resort center. Population, 28,564.

La·ko·ta (lə-kō'tə) n. pl. Lakota or La·ko·tas. See Teton.

Lak·shad·weep (lək-shād'wēp', lŭk'shə-dwēp') A region of southwest India comprising the Laccadive, Minicoy, and Amindivi islands.

lal·a·pa·loo·za (ləl'ə-pə-lōō'zə) n. Slang. Variant of lollapalooza.

La Lí·ne·a (lə lē'nē-ə) A city of southwest Spain on the Bay of Gibraltar southeast of Cadíz. There is a military garrison in the city. Population, 58,945.

Lal·lan (ləl'ən) also Lal·lans (-ənz) n. Scots. 1. The Lowlands of Scotland.

2. Scots as spoken in southern and eastern Scotland. [Scots, alteration of LOWLAND.] —Lal'lan adj.

lal·la·pa·loo·za (ləl'ə-pə-lōō'zə) n. Slang. Variant of lollapalooza.

lal·la·tion (lə-lā'shən) n. Linguistics. The substitution of the phoneme /l/ for /r/ or the mispronunciation of (l). [Latin lallāre, lallāt-, to sing a lullaby + -ATION.]

Lal·ly (lə'lē) A trademark used for a concrete-filled steel cylinder utilized as a supporting member in a building.

lal·ly·gag (ləl'ē-gäg') v. Variant of lollygag.

La Lou·vière (lə lōō-vyĕr') A city of southwest Belgium south of Brussels. It is a manufacturing commune. Population, 76,534.

lam¹ (lām) v. lammed, lam·ming, lams. Slang. — v. tr. To give a thorough beating to; thrash. — v. intr. To strike; wallop. [Probably of Scandinavian origin; akin to Old Norse lemja, to cripple by beating, flog.]

lam² (lām) Slang. v. intr. lammed, lam·ming, lams. To escape, as from prison. — n. Flight, especially from the law: escaped convicts on the lam. [Origin unknown.]

lam. abbr. Laminated.

Lam. abbr. Bible. Lamentations.

la·ma (lə'mə) n. A Buddhist monk of Tibet or Mongolia. [Tibetan bla-ma, from bla, superior.]

La·ma·ism (lə'mə-iz'əm) n. Tibetan Buddhism. —La'ma·ist n.

—La'ma·is'tic adj.

La Man·cha (lə mən'chə) A region of south-central Spain. The high, mostly barren plateau is famous as the setting for Cervantes's Don Quixote.

La·mar (lə-mär'), Joseph Rucker. 1857-1916. American jurist who served as an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1911-1916).

La·mar (lə-mär'), Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus. 1825-1893. American politician and jurist who served in the Confederate Army during the Civil War and later became an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court (1888-1893).

La·mar (lə-mär'), Mirabeau Buonaparte. 1798-1859. American politician and diplomat. He was the second president (1838-1841) of the Republic of Texas and later served as U.S. minister to Nicaragua (1857-1859).

La·marck (lə-märk', lä-), Chevalier de Jean Baptiste Pierre Antoine de Monet. 1744-1829. French naturalist whose ideas about evolution influenced Darwin's theory.

La·marck·i·an (lə-mär'kē-ən) adj. Of or relating to Lamarckism. — n. A supporter of Lamarckism.

La·marck·ism (lə-mär'kiz'əm) also La·marck·i·an·ism (-kē-ə-niz'əm) n. A theory of biological evolution holding that species evolve by the inheritance of traits acquired or modified through the use or disuse of body parts. [After Chevalier de Jean Baptiste Pierre Antoine de Monet LAMARCK.]

La Marque (lə märk') A city of southeast Texas southeast of Houston. It is primarily residential. Population, 15,372.

La·mar·tine (lə-mär-tēn'), Alphonse Marie Louis de Prat de. 1790-1869. French romantic poet who served briefly as minister of foreign affairs (1848).

la·ma·ser·y (lə'mə-sēr'ē) n. pl. la·ma·ser·ies. A monastery of lamas. [French lamaserie: lama, lama (from Tibetan bla-ma); see LAMA + -serie, dwelling (probably from Persian sarāi, inn, palace).]

La·maze (lə-mäz') adj. Relating to or being a method of childbirth in which the expectant mother is prepared psychologically and physically to give birth without the use of drugs. [After Fernand Lamaze (1890-1957), French physician.]

lamb (läm) n. 1. a. A young sheep, especially one that is not yet weaned. b. The flesh of a young sheep used as meat. c. Lambskin. 2. A sweet, mild-mannered person; a dear. 3. One who can be duped or cheated especially in financial matters. 4. Lamb. Jesus. — v. intr. lamed, lamb-ing, lambs. To give birth to a young sheep. [Middle English, from Old English.]

Lamb (läm), Charles. Known as "Elia." 1775-1834. British critic and essayist. With his sister Mary Ann Lamb (1764-1847) he wrote the children's book Tales from Shakespeare (1807).

Lamb (läm), William Second Viscount Melbourne. 1779-1848. British prime minister (1834 and 1835-1841) and adviser to Queen Victoria.

Lamb (läm), Willis Eugene, Jr. Born 1913. American physicist. He shared a 1955 Nobel Prize for advances in atomic measurement.

lam·baste (läm-bäst') v. tr. lam·bast·ed, lam·bast·ing, lam·bastes. Informal. 1. To give a thrashing to; beat. See Synonyms at beat. 2. To scold sharply; berate. [Perhaps LAM¹ + BASTE³.]

lamb·da (läm'də) n. 1. The 11th letter of the Greek alphabet. 2. A lambda hyperon. [Greek, of Phoenician origin,; akin to Hebrew lāmed, lamed.]

lambda hyperon (läm'də hī'pə-rŏn') n. An electrically neutral baryon having a mass 2,183 times that of the electron and a mean lifetime of approximately 2.6×10^{-10} second. Also called lambda particle lambda point (läm'də point) n. The temperature at which the transition from helium I to superfluid helium II occurs, approximately 2.19°K.

lamb·doid (läm'doid') adj. 1. Having the shape of the Greek letter lambda. 2. Anatomy. Relating to the deeply serrated suture in the skull between the parietal bones and the occipital bone.

lam·bent (läm'bənt) adj. 1. Flickering lightly over or on a surface: lambent moonlight. 2. Effortlessly light or brilliant: lambent wit. 3. Having a gentle glow; luminous. See Synonyms at bright. [Latin lambēns, lambent- present participle of lambere, to lick.] —lam'ben·cy n. —lam'bent·ly adv.

lam·bert (läm'bərt) n. Abbr. L The unit of brightness in the centimeter-gram-second system, equivalent to the brightness of a perfectly diffusing surface that emits or reflects one lumen per square centimeter. [After Johann Heinrich Lambert (1728-1777), German physicist and astronomer.]

lamb·kill (läm'kīl') n. See sheep laurel. [From its poisonous effect on sheep.]

Lamb of God (läm ũv göd) n. Jesus.

lam·bre·quin (läm'bər-kīn, -brə-kīn) n. 1. A short ornamental drapery for the top of a window or door or the edge of a shelf. 2. A heavy protective cloth worn over a helmet in medieval times. [French, probably from Dutch lamperkijn*, diminutive of Middle Dutch lamper, veil.]

lamb·skin (läm'skīn') n. 1. The hide of a lamb, especially when dressed without removing the fleece, as for a garment. 2. Leather made from the dressed hide of a lamb. 3. Parchment made from such hide.

lamb's lettuce (lämz' lět'əs) n. See corn salad.

lamb's quarters (lämz' kwŏr'tərz) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). See pigweed (n., sense 1).

lamb's wool (lämz' wŏol) n. 1. Wool shorn from a lamb. 2. A fabric or yarn made from this wool.

lame¹ (läm) adj. lam·er, lam·est. 1. Disabled so that movement, especially walking, is difficult or impossible: Lame from the accident, he walked with a cane. A lame wing kept the bird from flying. 2. Marked by pain or rigidity: a lame back. 3. Weak and ineffectual; unsatisfactory: a lame attempt to apologize; lame excuses for not arriving on time. — v. tr. lamed, lam-ing, lames. To cause to become lame; cripple. [Middle English, from Old English lama.] —lame/ly adv. —lame/ness n.

lame² (lām) n. A thin metal plate, especially one of the overlapping steel plates in medieval armor. [French, from Old French, from Latin lāmina, thin plate.]

la-mé (lă-mā') n. A brocaded fabric woven with metallic threads, often of gold or silver. [French, spangled, laminated, lamé, from Old French lame, thin metal plate. See LAME².]

lame-brain (lām'brān') n. Informal. A person regarded as stupid.

—lame'brained' (-brānd') adj.

la-medh (lă'mīd, -mēd') n. The 12th letter of the Hebrew alphabet. [Hebrew lāmed.]

lame duck (lām dūk) n. 1. An elected officeholder or group continuing in office during the period between failure to win an election and the inauguration of a successor. 2. An ineffective person; a weakling. —lame'-duck' (lām'dūk') adj.

lamell- pref. Variant of lamelli-.

la-mel-la (lə-měl'ə) n. pl. la-mel-lae (-měl'ē') or la-mel-las. A thin scale, plate, or layer of bone or tissue, as in the gills of a bivalve mollusk or around the minute vascular canals in bone. [Latin lāmella, small thin plate, diminutive of lāmina, thin plate.] —la-mel'/lar adj. —la-mel'/lar-ly adv.

la-mel-late (lə-měl'āt', lām'ə-lāt') adj. 1. Having, composed of, or arranged in lamellae. 2. Resembling a lamella. —lam'/el-la'ted adj. —lam'/el-la'tion n.

lamelli- or lamell- pref. Lamella: lamelliform. [From LAMELLA.]

la-mel-li-branch (lə-měl'ə-brānk') n. Any of the bivalve mollusks of the class Lamellibranchia, including the clams, scallops, and oysters. Also called pelecypod — adj. Of or relating to lamellibranchs. [From New Latin Lāmellibranchia, class name : LAMELLI- + Latin branchia, gill; see BRANCHIA.]

la-mel-li-corn (lə-měl'ī-kōrn') adj. Of or belonging to the superfamily Lamellicornia, which includes the scarabs and other beetles that have club-shaped, lamellate antennae. — n. A lamellicorn beetle. [From New Latin Lāmellicornia, superfamily name : LAMELLI- + Latin cornū, horn; see ker-¹ in Appendix.]

la-mel-li-form (lə-měl'ə-fōrm') adj. Having the form of a thin plate or lamella.

la-ment (lə-měnt') v. la-ment-ed, la-ment-ing, la-ments. — v. tr. 1. To express grief for or about; mourn: lament a death. 2. To regret deeply; deplore: He lamented his thoughtless acts. — v. intr. 1. To grieve audibly; wail. 2. To express sorrow or regret. See Synonyms at grieve. — n. 1. A feeling or an expression of grief; a lamentation. 2. A song or poem expressing deep grief or mourning. [Middle English lémenten, from Old French lamenter, from Latin lāmentārī, from lāmentum, lament.] —la·ment'er n.

la·men·ta·ble (lə-měn'tə-bəl, lăm'ən-) adj. Inspiring or deserving of lament or regret; deplorable or pitiable. See Synonyms at pathetic. —lam'en·ta·bly adv.

lam·en·ta·tion (lăm'ən-tā'shən) n. 1. The act of lamenting. 2. A lament. 3. Lamentations. (used with a sing. verb). Abbr. Lam., Lm A book of the Bible. See Table at Bible.

la·ment·ed (lə-měn'tid) adj. Mourned for: our late lamented president. —la·ment'ed·ly adv.

La Me·sa (lə mā'sə) A city of southern California, a residential suburb of San Diego. Population, 52,931.

la·mi·a (lā'mē-ə) n. pl. la·mi·as or la·mi·ae (-mē-ē'). 1. Greek Mythology. A monster represented as a serpent with the head and breasts of a woman and reputed to prey on human beings and suck the blood of children. 2. A female vampire. [Middle English, from Latin, from Greek.]

La·mi·a (lə-mē'ə, lă-mē'ä) A city of east-central Greece northwest of Athens. Founded c. fifth century B.C., it was the site of the Lamian War (323-322 B.C.) between the confederated Greeks and the Macedonian general Antipater, who was besieged in the city for several months before his ultimate victory. Population, 41,667. —La·mi'an adj. & n.

la·mi·ae (lā'mē-ē') n. A plural of lamia.

lam·i·na (lăm'ə-nə) n. pl. lam·i·nae (-nē') or lam·i·nas. 1. A thin plate, sheet, or layer. 2. Botany. The expanded area of a leaf or petal; a blade. 3. A thin layer of bone, membrane, or other tissue. 4. Zoology. A thin scalelike or platelike structure, as one of the thin layers of sensitive vascular tissue in the hoof of a horse. 5. Geology. A narrow bed of rock. [Latin lāmina.] —lam'i·nar, lam'i·nal adj.

lamina pro·pri·a (lăm'ə-nə prō'prē-ə) n. A thin vascular layer of connective tissue beneath the epithelium of an organ. [New Latin lāmina propria : Latin lāmina, lamina + Latin propria, feminine of proprius, proper.]

laminar flow (lăm'ə-nər flō) n. Nonturbulent flow of a viscous fluid in layers near a boundary, as that of lubricating oil in bearings.

lam·i·nar·in (lăm'ə-nâr'īn) n. A polymer of glucose that is the principal storage product of brown algae. [New Latin Lāmināria, kelp genus (from Latin lāmina, thin plate) + -IN.]

lam·i·nate (lăm'ə-nāt') v. lam·i·nat·ed, lam·i·nat·ing, lam·i·nates. — v. tr. 1. To beat or compress into a thin plate or sheet. 2. To divide into thin layers. 3. To make by uniting several layers. 4. To cover with thin sheets. — v. intr. To split into thin layers or sheets. — adj. (-nīt, -nāt') Consisting of, arranged in, or covered with laminae. — n. (-nāt', -nīt) A laminated product, such as plywood.

—lam/i-na'tor n.

lam·i·nat·ed (lām'ə-nā'tīd) adj. Abbr. lam. 1. Composed of layers bonded together. 2. Arranged in laminae; laminate.

lam·i·na·tion (lām'ə-nā'shən) n. 1. a. The act or process of laminating. b. The state of being laminated. 2. Something laminated. 3. A lamina.

lam·i·nec·to·my (lām'ə-nĕk'tə-mē) n. pl. lam·i·nec·to·mies. Surgical removal of the posterior arch of a vertebra.

lam·i·ni·tis (lām'ə-nī'tīs) n. Inflammation of the sensitive laminae of the hoof, especially in horses. Also called *founder*¹

La Mi·ra·da (lä' mə-rä'də) A city of southern California southeast of Los Angeles. It is primarily residential. Population, 40,452.

Lam·mas (lām'əs) n. 1. a. A feast formerly celebrated in England, during which bread from the season's first wheat was consecrated at Mass in thanksgiving for the harvest. b. A feast formerly celebrated in commemoration of Saint Peter's deliverance from prison. 2. August 1, the day on which these feasts were celebrated. [Middle English Lammasse, from Old English hlāfmæsse: hlāf, loaf + mæsse, Mass; see MASS.]

lam·mer·gei·er also lam·mer·gey·er (lām'ər-gī'ər) n. A large predatory bird (Gypaetus barbatus) of the vulture family, ranging from the mountainous regions of southern Europe to China and having a wide wingspan and black plumage. Also called bearded vulture, ossifrage. [German Lämmergeier: Lämmer, genitive pl. of Lamm, lamb (from Middle High German lamp, from Old High German lamb) + Geier, vulture (from Middle High German gīr, from Old High German).]

lamp (lämp) n. 1. a. A device that generates light, heat, or therapeutic radiation. b. A vessel containing oil or alcohol burned through a wick for illumination. 2. A celestial body that gives off or reflects light. 3. Something that illumines the mind or soul. [Middle English lampe, from Old French, from Latin lampas, from Greek, from lampein, to shine.]

lamp·black (lämp'blāk') n. Fine soot collected from incompletely burned carbonaceous materials, used as a pigment and in matches, explosives, lubricants, and fertilizers. Also called blacking lamp·brush chromosome (lämp'brüş' krō'mə-sōm') n. A large chromosome found especially in the immature eggs of amphibians, consisting of two long strands that form many brushlike loops along the main axis of the chromosome.

lam·per eel (lām'pər ēl) n. See lamprey. [Alteration of LAMPREY.]

lam·pi·on (lämp'pē-ən) n. An oil-burning lamp, often of colored glass, for outdoor use. [French, from Italian lampione, augmentative of lampa, lamp, from Old French lampe. See LAMP.]

lamp·light (lämp'līt') n. The light shed by a lamp.

lamp-light-er (lămp/'lī'tər) n. One that lights lamps.

lamp oil (lămp oil) n. See kerosene.

lam-poon (lăm-pōon') n. 1. A broad satirical piece that uses ridicule to attack a person, a group, or an institution. See Synonyms at caricature. 2. A light, good-humored satire. — v. tr. lam-pooned, lam-poon-ing, lam-poons. To ridicule or satirize in or as if in a lampoon. [French lampon, perhaps from lampons, let us drink (from a common refrain in drinking songs), first person pl. imperative of lamper, to gulp down, of Germanic origin.] —lam-poon'er, lam-poon'ist n. —lam-poon'er-y n.

lamp-post (lămp/'pōst') n. A post supporting a street lamp.

lam-prey (lăm/'prē) n. pl. lam-preys. Any of various primitive elongated freshwater or anadromous fishes of the family Petromyzontidae, characteristically having a jawless sucking mouth with rasping teeth. Also called lamper eel [Middle English lamprei, from Old French lampreie, from Medieval Latin lampreda.]

lam-pro-phyre (lăm/'prə-fīr') n. Any of several intermediate igneous rocks constituting feldspar and ferromagnesium minerals that occur as dikes and minor intrusions. [German Lamprophyr: Greek lampros, clear (from lampein, to shine) + French porphyre, porphyry (from Old French porfire, from Medieval Latin porphyrium); see PORPHYRY.]

lamp-shade (lămp/'shād') n. Any of various protective or ornamental coverings used to screen a light bulb.

lamp-shell (lămp/'shēl') n. See brachiopod.

lamp-work-ing (lămp/'wûr'kīng) n. The process of sculpting glass by twirling thin rods of colored glass over a gas-oxygen burner.

LAN (lăn) n. Computer Science. A system that links together electronic office equipment, such as computers and word processors, and forms a network within an office or a building. [l(ocal-)a(rea) n(etwork).]

la-nai (lə-nī', lä-) n. pl. la-nais. A veranda or roofed patio. [Hawaiian.]

La-nai (lə-nī') An island of central Hawaii west of Maui. It developed as a pineapple-growing area after 1922.

la-nate (lə'nāt') adj. Having or consisting of woolly hairs. [Latin lănātus, from lăna, wool.]

Lan-ca-shire (lăng/'kə-shīr', -shər) A historical region of northwest England on the Irish Sea. It was part of the kingdom of Northumbria in Anglo-Saxon times and became a county palatine in 1351. Long noted for its textiles, the area grew rapidly after the Industrial Revolution.

Lan-cas-ter¹ (lăng/'kə-stər, -lăn'-) English royal house that from 1399 to 1461 produced three kings of England—Henry IV, Henry V, and Henry VI. During the Wars of the Roses its symbol was a red rose. —Lan-cas'tri-an (lăng-kăs/'trē-ən) adj. & n.

Lan·cas·ter² (läng'kə-stər, -käs'tər, län'-) 1. A municipal borough of north-west England north of Liverpool. Chartered in 1193, it was built on the site of a Roman frontier station. Population, 47,900. 2. An unincorporated community of southern California northeast of Los Angeles. It is a trade center for an irrigated farming area. Population, 97,291. 3. A city of south-central Ohio southeast of Columbus. The birthplace of William Tecumseh Sherman has been preserved. Population, 34,507. 4. A city of southeast Pennsylvania west of Philadelphia. A trade center in a rich farming region, it was settled by German Mennonites c. 1709 and was the meeting place of the Continental Congress in 1777. Population, 55,551.

Lancaster Sound (läng'kə-stər sound) An arm of Baffin Bay between northern Baffin Island and southern Devon Island in Northwest Territories, Canada.

lance (läns) n. 1. a. A thrusting weapon with a long wooden shaft and a sharp metal head. b. A similar implement for spearing fish. 2. A cavalry lancer.

3. Medicine. See lancet (n., sense 1). — v. tr. lanced, lanc-ing, lanc-es.

1. To pierce with a lance. 2. Medicine. To make a surgical incision in; cut into: lance a boil. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin lancea, probably of Celtic origin.]

lance corporal (läns kôr'pər-əl) n. Abbr. L.Cpl. 1. A noncommissioned rank in the U.S. Marine Corps that is above private first class and below corporal.

2. One who holds this rank. [From lancepesade, from obsolete French lancepesade, from Italian lancia spezzata, superior soldier : lancia, lance (from Latin lancea); see LANCE + spezzata, feminine past participle of spezzare, to break to pieces (Latin dis-, apart; see dis- + pezza, piece from Medieval Latin pecia, piece).]

lance-let (läns'līt) n. Any of various small, flattened marine organisms of the subphylum Cephalochordata, structurally similar to the vertebrates but having a notochord rather than a true vertebral column. Also called amphioxus lan·ce·o·late (läns'sē-ə-lāt') adj. Tapering from a rounded base toward an apex; lance-shaped: lanceolate leaves. [Late Latin lanceolātus, from Latin lanceola, diminutive of Latin lancea, lance.] — lan'ce·o·late'ly adv.

Lan·ce·lot (läns'sə-lət, -löt', län'-) n. In Arthurian legend, a Knight of the Round Table whose love affair with Queen Guinevere resulted in a war with King Arthur.

lanc·er (läns'sər) n. 1. A cavalryman armed with a lance. 2. A member of a regiment originally armed with lances. 3. lancers. (used with a sing. verb). a. A form of quadrille. b. The music for this dance. [French lancier, from Old French, maker of lances, from lance, lance. See LANCE.]

lan·cet (läns'sīt) n. 1. Medicine. A surgical knife with a short, wide, pointed double-edged blade, used especially for making punctures and small incisions. Also called lance. 2. Architecture. a. A lancet arch. — adj. A lancet window. [Middle English, from Old French, diminutive of lance, lance. See LANCE.]

lancet arch (lǎn'sīt ārch) n. Architecture. An arch that is narrow and pointed like the head of a spear.

lancet fish (lǎn'sīt fīsh) n. Either of two large, elongated marine fishes (Alepisauri ferox or A. brevirostris) having long sharp teeth, a large dorsal fin, and no scales.

lancet window (lǎn'sīt wīn'dō) n. Architecture. A tall, narrow window set in a lancet arch.

lance-wood (lǎns'wōōd') n. 1. Any of several tropical American trees, especially Calycophyllum candidissimum, having hard, durable, uniformly grained wood. 2. The wood of this tree, used for construction and cabinet work.

Lan·chow (lǎn'jō') See Lanzhou.

lan·ci·nat·ing (lǎn'sə-nā'tīng) adj. Characterized by a sensation of cutting, piercing, or stabbing. [From lancinate, to stab, from Latin lancināre, lancināt-, to lacerate.]

land (lǎnd) n. Abbr. l. 1. The solid ground of the earth. 2. a. Ground or soil: tilled the land. b. A topographically or functionally distinct tract: desert land; prime building land. 3. a. A nation; a country. b. The people of a nation, district, or region. c. lands. Territorial possessions or property. 4. Public or private landed property; real estate. 5. An area or a realm: the land of make-believe; the land of television. 6. Law. a. A tract that may be owned, together with everything growing or constructed on it. b. A landed estate. 7. The raised portion of a grooved surface, as on a phonograph record. — v. land·ed, land·ing, lands. — v. tr. 1. a. To bring to and unload on land: land cargo. b. To set (a vehicle) down on land or another surface: land an airplane smoothly; land a seaplane on a lake. 2. Informal. To cause to arrive in a place or condition: Civil disobedience will land you in jail. 3. a. To catch and pull in (a fish): landed a big catfish. b. Informal. To win; secure: land a big contract. 4. Informal. To deliver: landed a blow on his opponent's head. — v. intr. 1. a. To come to shore: landed against the current with great difficulty. b. To disembark: landed at a crowded dock. 2. To descend toward and settle onto the ground or another surface: The helicopter has landed. 3. Informal. To arrive in a place or condition: landed at the theater too late for the opening curtain. 4. To come to rest in a certain way or place: land on one's feet. [Middle English, from Old English. See lendh- in Appendix.]

Land (lǎnd), Edwin Herbert. 1909-1991. American inventor who developed (1932) the light-polarizing plastic film called Polaroid and incorporated it into lenses for cameras and sunglasses. He also invented the one-step photographic process (1947).

lan·dau (lǎn'dō', -dou') n. 1. A four-wheeled carriage with front and back passenger seats that face each other and a roof in two sections that can be lowered or detached. 2. A style of automobile with a similar roof. [After Landau, a city of southwest Germany.]

Lan·dau (län-dou'), Lev Davidovich. 1908-1968. Soviet physicist. He won a 1962 Nobel Prize for his contributions to low-temperature physics.

land bank (länd bängk) n. A bank that issues long-term loans on real estate in return for mortgages.

land breeze (länd brēz) n. A breeze that blows from the land toward open water.

land bridge (länd brīj) n. A neck of land that connects two landmasses; an isthmus.

land crab (länd kräb) n. A terrestrial crab of the tropical family Gecarinidae, having a large square body.

land·ed (län'did) adj. 1. Owning land: the landed gentry. 2. Consisting of land or real estate: landed property.

land·er (län'dər) n. A space vehicle designed to land on a celestial body, such as the moon or a planet.

land·fall (länd'fôl') n. 1. The act or an instance of sighting or reaching land after a voyage or flight. 2. The land sighted or reached after a voyage or flight.

land·fill (länd'fil') n. 1. A method of solid waste disposal in which refuse is buried between layers of dirt so as to fill in or reclaim low-lying ground. 2. A site used for or reclaimed by such disposal. — v. land-filled, land·fill·ing, land·fills. — v. tr. 1. To dispose of (waste material) in a landfill. 2. To fill in or reclaim (land) by this method. — v. intr. To dispose of refuse or reclaim land by filling in low-lying ground.

land·form (länd'fôrm') n. One of the features that make up the earth's surface, such as a plain, mountain, or valley.

land grant (länd gränt) n. A government grant of public land for a railroad, highway, or state college.

land·grave (länd'gräv') n. 1. A man in medieval Germany who had jurisdiction over a particular territory. 2. Used as the title for such a nobleman. [From Middle Low German : lant, land; see lendh- in Appendix + grave, count.]

land·gra·vi·ate (länd-grā'vê-īt, -āt') n. The rank and office of a landgrave or landgravine.

land·gra·vine (länd'grā-vēn') n. 1. A woman holding the title to a landgraviate. 2. The wife or widow of a landgrave. 3. Used as the title for such a noblewoman. [From Middle Low German landgravin, feminine of landgrave, landgrave. See LANDGRAVE.]

land·hold·er (länd'hôl'dər) n. One that owns land. — land'hold'ing n.

land·ing (län'ding) n. Abbr. ldg. 1. a. The act or process of coming to land or rest, especially after a voyage or flight. b. A termination, especially of a voyage or flight. 2. A site for loading and unloading passengers and cargo. 3. a. An intermediate platform on a flight of stairs. b. The area at the top or bottom of a staircase.

landing craft (lăn'dĩng kräfte) n. Abbr. LC A naval craft designed to convey troops and equipment from ship to shore.

landing field (lăn'dĩng fêld) n. A tract of land used by aircraft for landing and taking off.

landing gear (lăn'dĩng gîr) n. The components of an aircraft or a spacecraft that support the weight of the craft and its load and give it mobility on ground or water.

landing strip (lăn'dĩng stríp) n. An aircraft runway without airport facilities. Also called airstrip Lan·dis (lăn'dĩs), Kenesaw Mountain. 1866-1944. American jurist and baseball commissioner (1921-1944) remembered for curbing corruption in professional baseball.

land·la·dy (lănd'lā'dē) n. 1. A woman who owns and rents land, buildings, or dwelling units. 2. A woman who runs a rooming house or an inn; an innkeeper.

land·less (lănd'līs) adj. Owning or having no land. —land'less·ness n.

land·line (lănd'līn') n. A communications cable, as one used to transmit telephone or telegraph signals.

land·locked (lănd'lökt') adj. 1. Entirely or almost entirely surrounded by land: a landlocked country. 2. Confined to inland waters, as certain salmon.

land·lord (lănd'lôrd') n. 1. A person who owns and rents land, buildings, or dwelling units. 2. A man who runs a rooming house or an inn; an innkeeper.

land·lub·ber (lănd'lüb'ər) n. A person unfamiliar with the sea or seamanship. —land'lub'ber·ly adj.

land·mark (lănd'mărk') n. 1. A prominent identifying feature of a landscape. 2. A fixed marker, such as a concrete block, that indicates a boundary line. 3. An event marking an important stage of development or a turning point in history. 4. A building or site that has historical significance, especially one that is marked for preservation by a municipal or national government. — adj. Having great import or significance: a landmark court ruling; a landmark decision.

land·mass (lănd'măs') n. A large unbroken area of land.

land mile (lănd mīl) n. See mile (n., sense 1).

land mine (lănd mīn) n. 1. An explosive mine laid usually just below the surface of the ground. 2. Informal. A concealed yet incipient crisis.

land office (lănd ô'fis) n. A government office that handles and keeps records of the sale or transfer of public land.

land-of·fice business (lănd'ô'fis bĭz'nīs, -ôf'īs) n. A thriving, extensive, or rapidly moving volume of trade.

Land of Oz (lănd ŭv ōz) n. See Oz.

Lan·don (lăn'dən), Alfred Mossman. Known as "Alf." 1887-1987. American politician who served as governor of Kansas (1933-1937) and ran unsuccessfully for President on the 1936 Republican ticket.

Lan·dor (lăn'dôr, -dər), Walter Savage. 1775-1864. British writer who is best known for his Imaginary Conversations of Literary Men and Statesmen (1824-1829).

land·own·er (lănd'ō'nər) n. One that owns land. —land'own'er·ship' n.
—land'own'ing adj. & n.

Lan·dow·ska (lăn-dôf'skə, lăn-dôf'skă), Wanda. 1879?-1959. Polish-born harpsichordist who was largely responsible for the modern revival of interest in the harpsichord.

land-poor (lănd'pōor') adj. Owning much unprofitable land but lacking the capital to improve or maintain it.

land reform (lănd rī-fôm') n. Measures, such as the division of large properties into smaller ones, that are taken to bring about a more equitable apportionment of agricultural land. —land'-re-form' (lănd'rī-fôm') adj.

land·scape (lănd'skăp') n. 1. An expanse of scenery that can be seen in a single view: a desert landscape. 2. A picture depicting an expanse of scenery. 3. The branch of art dealing with the representation of natural scenery. 4. The aspect of the land characteristic of a particular region: a bleak New England winter landscape. 5. An extensive mental view; an interior prospect: "They occupy the whole landscape of my thought" (James Thurber). — v. land-scaped, land-scaping, land-scapes. — v. tr. To adorn or improve (a section of ground) by contouring and by planting flowers, shrubs, or trees. — v. intr. To arrange grounds artistically as a profession. [Dutch landschap, from Middle Dutch landscap, region : land, land; see lendh- in Appendix + -scap, state, condition (collective suff.).] —land'scap'er n.

WORD HISTORY: It would seem that in the case of the word landscape we have an example of nature imitating art, insofar as sense development is concerned. Landscape, first recorded in 1598, was borrowed as a painters' term from Dutch during the 16th century, when Dutch artists were on the verge of becoming masters of the landscape genre. The Dutch word landschap had earlier meant simply "region, tract of land," but had acquired the artistic sense, which it brought over into English, of "a picture depicting scenery on land." The fascinating thing is that 34 years pass after the first recorded use of landscape in English before the word is used of a view or vista of natural scenery. This delay suggests that people were first introduced to landscapes in paintings and then saw landscapes in real life.

landscape architect (lǎnd'skâp' är'kĩ-těkt') n. One whose profession is the decorative and functional alteration and planting of grounds, especially at or around a building site. —landscape architecture n.

landscape gardener (lǎnd'skâp' gärd'när) n. One whose occupation is the decoration of land by planting trees and shrubs and designing gardens. —landscape gardening n.

land-scap-ist (lǎnd'skâ'pĭst) n. A painter of landscapes.

Land-seer (lǎnd'sîr'), Sir Edwin Henry. 1802-1873. British painter known for his sentimental paintings of animals.

Land's End or Lands End (lǎndz' ěnd') A peninsula of southwest England on the coast of Cornwall. It is the westernmost point of the country.

Lands-hut (lǎnts'hōöt') A city of southeast Germany on the Isar River north-east of Munich. Founded in 1204, it was heavily damaged during the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648). Population, 56,230.

land-side (lǎnd'sīd') n. The flat side of a plow opposite the furrow.

lands-leit (lǎnts'līt') n. Plural of landsmán². [Yiddish landslayt, from Middle High German lantsliute, natives, compatriots : Old High German lant, land; see LANDSMAN² + Old High German liuti, pl. of liut, person, people; see leudh- in Appendix.]

land-slide (lǎnd'slīd') n. 1. a. The downward sliding of a relatively dry mass of earth and rock. b. The mass that slides. Also called landslip 2. a. An overwhelming majority of votes for a political party or candidate. b. An election that sweeps a party or candidate into office. 3. A great victory.

land-slip (lǎnd'slĭp') n. See landslide (n., sense 1).

Lands-mål (lǎnts'môl') n. See New Norwegian. [Norwegian : land, country (from Old Norse); see lendh- in Appendix + mål, speech (from Old Norse māl).]

lands-man¹ (lǎndz'mən) n. One who lives and works on land.

lands-man² (lǎnts'mən) n. pl. lands-leit (-līt'). A fellow Jew who comes from the same district or town, especially in Eastern Europe. [Yiddish, from Middle High German lantsman, countryman : Old High German lant, land; see lendh- in Appendix + Old High German man, man; see man⁻¹ in Appendix.]

Land-stein-er (lǎnd'stī'när, lǎnt'-shĭtī'-), Karl. 1868-1943. Austrian-born American pathologist. He won a 1930 Nobel Prize for the discovery of human blood groups.

Land-tag (lǎnt'täk') n. 1. A legislative assembly of a West German state. 2. A diet or an assembly in some German states in the 19th century. [German : Land, country (from Middle High German lant, from Old High German); see LANDSMAN² + Tag, day, diet, assembly (from Middle High German, from Old High German, influenced by Medieval Latin diēta, diet); see agh- in Appendix.]

land·ward (lænd/'wərd) adv. & adj. To or toward land: sailing landward; the landward side of a coastal fortification. —land'wards adv.

lane (lān) n. 1. a. A narrow country road. b. A narrow way or passage between walls, hedges, or fences. 2. A narrow passage, course, or track, especially: a. A prescribed course for ships or aircraft. b. A strip delineated on a street or highway to accommodate a single line of vehicles: a breakdown lane; an express lane. c. Sports. One of a set of parallel courses marking the bounds for contestants in a race, especially in swimming or track. d. Sports. A wood-surfaced passageway or alley along which a bowling ball is rolled. [Middle English, from Old English.]

Lane (lān), James Henry. 1814-1866. American politician, soldier, and abolitionist who served as a U.S. senator from Kansas (1861-1866).

La·ney (lā'nē), Lucy Craft. 1854-1933. American educator. She founded the Haines Normal and Industrial Institute, one of the first private schools for Black students, in Augusta, Georgia, in 1886.

Lan·franc (lǎn/'frǎngk'), 1005?-1089. Italian-born English prelate and political adviser who was archbishop of Canterbury (1070-1089) and a counselor of William the Conqueror.

lang (lǎng) adj. Scots. Long.

Lang (lǎng), Andrew. 1844-1912. British writer and anthropologist who is best known for his fairy tales, including The Blue Fairy Book (1889).

Lang (lǎng), Fritz. 1890-1976. Austrian-born American filmmaker. He made Metropolis (1927), M (1931), and a number of other expressionist films before fleeing to Hollywood from Nazi Germany. His American films include Fury (1936) and The Ministry of Fear (1944).

lang. abbr. Language.

lang·bein·ite (lǎng'bī-nīt', lǎng'-) n. An evaporite mineral, $K_2Mg_2(SO_4)_3$, used as a source of potassium sulfate for fertilizer. [After A. Langbein, 19th-century German chemist.]

Lang·e (lǎng'ə), Christian Louis. 1869-1938. Norwegian pacifist and historian. He shared the 1921 Nobel Peace Prize for his work as secretary-general of the Inter-Parliamentary Union (1909-1933).

Lange (lǎng), Dorothea. 1895-1965. American photographer remembered for her documentary portraits of rural workers during the Depression.

Lang·er (lǎng'ər), Susanne Knauth. 1895-1985. American educator and philosopher. Her major work, Philosophy in a New Key: A Study of the Symbolism of Reason, Rite, and Art (1942), developed the distinction between the discursive symbols used in conventional language and the nondiscursive symbols used in various art forms.

Lang·ford (lǎng'fərd), Nathaniel Pitt. 1832-1911. American public official, conservationist, and explorer. He helped found (1872) and was the first superintendent (1872-1877) of Yellowstone National Park.

Lang-land (lǎng'lænd), William. 1332?-1400. English poet who is credited with the authorship of The Vision of William Concerning Piers the Plowman, a medieval religious allegory.

lang-lauf (lǎng'louf') n. Sports. A cross-country ski run. [German : lang, long (from Old High German); see del-1 in Appendix + Lauf, race (from Middle High German louf, from Old High German hlouf).] —lang'lauf'er n.

lang-ley (lǎng'lē) n. pl. lang-leys. A unit equal to one gram calorie per square centimeter of irradiated surface, used to measure solar radiation. [After Samuel Pierpoint LANGLEY.]

Lang-ley (lǎng'lē) A city of southern British Columbia, Canada, near the Washington border east-southeast of Vancouver. It is in a diversified farming area. Population, 15,124.

Langley, Mount. A peak, 4,227.9 m (14,026 ft) high, in the Sierra Nevada of southern California.

Lang-ley (lǎng'lē), Samuel Pierpoint. 1834-1906. American astronomer and aviation pioneer who built the first successful heavier-than-air flying machines. He directed the Smithsonian Institution from 1887 to 1906.

Lang-muir (lǎng'myoor'), Irving. 1881-1957. American chemist. He won a 1932 Nobel Prize for his work in surface chemistry.

Lan-go-bard (lǎng'gə-bärd') n. See Lombard¹ (n., sense 1). [Latin Langobardus. See LOMBARD¹.] —Lan'go-bar'dic adj.

lan-gouste (län-gōost') n. See spiny lobster. [French, from Old French, from Old Provençal langosta, from Vulgar Latin lacusta*, from Latin locusta, lobster, locust.]

lan-gous-tine (lǎng'gə-stēn') n. A large, edible prawn. [French, diminutive of langouste, langouste. See LANGOUSTE.]

lan-grage (lǎng'grīj) n. A type of shot consisting of scrap iron loaded into a case and formerly used in naval warfare to damage sails and rigging. [Origin unknown.]

Lang-ston (lǎng'stən), John Mercer. 1829-1897. American diplomat, politician, and educator who served as U.S. minister to Haiti and chargé d'affaires to Santo Domingo (1877-1885) and later as a U.S. representative from Virginia (1890-1891).

lang-syne also lang syne (lǎng-zīn') Scots. adv. Long ago; long since. — n. Time long past; times past. [Scots lang syne, from Middle English lang sine : long, lang, long; see LONG¹ + sine, since (contraction of sithen, sithens); see SINCE.]

Lang-ton (lǎng'tən), Stephen. 1150?-1228. English prelate who as archbishop of Canterbury (1207-1228) sided with the nobility in their struggle with King John and was a signer of the Magna Carta (1215).

Lang-try (lǎng'trē), Lillie. Known as “the Jersey Lily.” 1853-1929. British actress famous for her great beauty and her love affair with Edward VII.

lan·guage (lǎng'gwīj) n. Abbr. lang. 1. a. The use by human beings of voice sounds, and often written symbols representing these sounds, in organized combinations and patterns in order to express and communicate thoughts and feelings. b. A system of words formed from such combinations and patterns, used by the people of a particular country or by a group of people with a shared history or set of traditions. 2. a. A nonverbal method of communicating ideas, as by a system of signs, symbols, gestures, or rules: the language of algebra. b. Computer Science. A system of symbols and rules used for communication with or between computers. 3. Body language; kinesics. 4. The special vocabulary and usages of a scientific, professional, or other group: "his total mastery of screen language—camera placement, editing—and his handling of actors" (Jack Kroll). 5. A characteristic style of speech or writing: Shakespearean language. 6. a. Abusive, violent, or profane utterance: "language that would make your hair curl" (W.S. Gilbert). b. A particular manner of utterance: gentle language. 7. The manner or means of communication between living creatures other than human beings: the language of dolphins. 8. Verbal communication as a subject of study. 9. The wording of a legal document or statute as distinct from the spirit. [Middle English, from Old French langage, from langue, tongue, language, from Latin lingua. See dŋghŭ- in Appendix.]

language laboratory (lǎng'gwīj lǎb'rə-tô'rē) n. A room designed for learning foreign languages in which students use equipment such as tape recorders connected to monitoring devices enabling the instructor to listen and speak to the students individually or as a group.

langue (lǎng, lǎŋ) n. Linguistics. Language viewed as a system including vocabulary, grammar, and pronunciation of a particular community. [French, from Old French. See LANGUAGE.]

Lan·gue·doc (lǎng-dôk', lǎŋ-) A historical region and former province of south-central France on an arm of the Mediterranean Sea west of the Rhone River. Named after the Romance language of its inhabitants, it was conquered by the Franks in the eighth century and incorporated into the French royal domain in 1271.

langue d'oc (lǎng dôk') n. The Romance language spoken in and around Provence and Roussillon, surviving in Provençal. [French, from Old French : langue, language + de, of + Old Provençal oc, yes.]

langue d'oïl (lǎng doil', doi', dô-ēl') n. The Romance language of Gaul north of the Loire River, on which modern French is based. [French, from Old French : langue, language + de, of + oil, yes.]

lan·guet (lǎng'gwīt, lǎŋ-gwět') n. A tongue-shaped thing, part, or process. [Middle English, from Old French languete, diminutive of langue, tongue, from Latin lingua. See dŋghŭ- in Appendix.]

lan·guid (lǎng'gwīd) adj. 1. Lacking energy or vitality; weak: a languid wave of the hand. 2. Showing little or no spirit or animation; listless: a languid mood. 3. Lacking vigor or force; slow: languid breezes. [French languide, from Latin languidus, from languēre, to be languid. See LANGUISH.] —lan'guid·ly adv. —lan'guid·ness n.

lan·guish (lǎng'gwīsh) v. intr. lan·guished, lan·guish·ing, lan·guish·es.

1. To be or become weak or feeble; lose strength or vigor. 2. To exist or continue in miserable or disheartening conditions. 3. To remain unattended or be neglected: legislation that continued to languish in committee. 4. To become downcast; pine: languish for home and family. 5. To affect a wistful or languid air, especially in order to gain sympathy. [Middle English languishen, from Old French languir, languiss-, from Latin languēre, to be languid. See slēg- in Appendix.] —lan'guish·er n. —lan'guish·ing·ly adv. —lan'guish·ment n.

lan·guor (lǎng'gər, lǎng'ər) n. 1. Lack of physical or mental energy; listlessness. See Synonyms at lethargy. 2. A dreamy, lazy mood or quality: "It was hot, yet with a sweet languor about it" (Theodore Dreiser). 3. Oppressive quiet or stillness. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin, from languēre, to be languid. See LANGUISH.] —lan'guor·ous adj. —lan'guor·ous·ly adv. —lan'guor·ous·ness n.

lan·gur (lǎng-gōōr') n. Any of various slender, long-tailed Asian monkeys of the genus Presbytis and related genera that eat leaves, fruits, and seeds and have a chin tuft and bushy eyebrows. [Hindi laṅgūr, perhaps from Sanskrit lāṅgūlam, tail.]

lan·iard (lǎn'yərd) n. Variant of lanyard.

La·nier (lə-nîr'), Sidney. 1842-1881. American writer and musician noted for his melodic poems, including "The Marshes of Glynn" (1878). His novel Tiger Lilies (1867) is based on his experiences as a Confederate soldier.

la·nif·er·ous (lə-nîf'ər-əs) adj. Having wool or woollike hair. [Latin lānifer (lāna, wool + -fer, -fer) + -OUS.] lank (lǎŋk) adj. lank·er, lank·est. 1. Long and lean. See Synonyms at lean². 2. Long, straight, and limp: lank and floppy hair. [Middle English, from Old English hlanc.] —lank'ly adv. —lank'ness n.

lank·y (lǎŋ'kē) adj. lank·i·er, lank·i·est. Tall, thin, and ungainly. See Synonyms at lean². —lank'i·ly adv. —lank'i·ness n.

lan·ner (lǎn'ər) n. 1. A falcon (Falco biarmicus) of Africa, the Mediterranean, and southern Asia. 2. A female of this species, used in falconry. [Middle English laner, from Old French lanier, woolweaver, coward, from Latin lānārius, woolworker, from lāna, wool.]

lan·ner·et (lǎn'ər-ēt') n. A male lanner, smaller than the female, used in falconry. [Middle English laneret, from Old French, diminutive of lanier, lanner. See LANNER.] lan·o·lin (lăn'ə-līn) n. A fatty substance obtained from wool and used in soaps, cosmetics, and ointments. Also called wool fat [German : from Latin lāna, wool + Latin oleum, oil.]

la·nose (lā'nōs') adj. Woolly. [Latin lānōsus, from lāna, wool.] —la·nos'i·ty (-nōs'ī-tē) n.

Lans·dale (lănz'dāl') A borough of southeast Pennsylvania north of Philadelphia. It has varied industries. Population, 16,362.

Lan·sing (lăn'sīng) 1. A village of northeast Illinois, a suburb of Chicago near the Indiana border. Population, 29,039. 2. The capital of Michigan, in the south-central part of the state northwest of Detroit. It is an automobile-manufacturing center and became the state capital in 1847. Population, 127,321.

Lan·sing (lăn'sīng), Robert. 1864-1928. American public official who as U.S. secretary of state (1915-1920) arranged the purchase of the Virgin Islands (1917) and attended the peace conference ending World War I (1919).

lan·ta·na (lăn-tă'nə, -tăn'ə) n. Any of various aromatic, chiefly tropical shrubs of the genus Lantana, having dense spikes or heads and small colorful flowers. [New Latin Lantana, genus name, from Italian dialectal lantana, wayfaring tree, viburnum.]

lan·tern (lăn'tərn) n. 1. a. An often portable case with transparent or translucent sides for holding and protecting a light. b. A decorative casing for a light, often of paper. c. A light and its protective or decorative case. 2. a. The room at the top of a lighthouse where the light is located. b. Obsolete. A lighthouse. 3. A structure built on top of a roof with open or windowed walls to admit light and air. [Middle English, from Old French lanterne, from Latin lanterna, from Greek lamptēr, from lampein, to shine.]

lantern fish (lăn'tərn fīsh) n. Any of numerous small deep-sea fishes of the family Myctophidae that have distinguishing phosphorescent light organs along each body wall and that often swim to the surface at night.

lantern fly (lăn'tərn flī) n. Any of various chiefly tropical insects of the family Fulgoridae that have an enlarged, elongated head, once thought to be luminescent.

lantern jaw (lăn'tərn jô) n. 1. A lower jaw that protrudes beyond the upper jaw. 2. A long, thin jaw that gives the face a gaunt appearance. —lan'tern-jawed' (lăn'tərn-jôd') adj.

lantern wheel (lăn'tərn hwēl) n. A small pinion consisting of circular disks connected by cylindrical bars that serve as teeth. Also called lantern pinion lan·tha·nide (lăn'thə-nīd') n. See rare-earth element. [LANTHAN(UM) + -IDE.]

lanthanide series (lăn'thə-nīd' sîr'ēz) n. The set of chemically related elements with properties similar to those of lanthanum, with atomic numbers from 57 to 71; the rare-earth elements.

lan·tha·num (lăn'thə-nəm) n. Symbol La A soft, silvery-white, malleable, ductile, metallic rare-earth element, obtained chiefly from monazite and bastnaesite and used in glass manufacture and with other rare earths in carbon lights for movie and television studio lighting. Atomic number 57; atomic weight 138.91; melting point 920°C; boiling point 3,469°C; specific gravity 5.98 to 6.186; valence 3. [New Latin, from Greek lanthanein, to escape notice (from the finding of the element hidden in oxide of cerium).]

lant·horn (lănt'hôrn', lănt'tərn) n. Chiefly British. A lantern. [Alteration (influenced by HORN, of which the sides were once made), of LANTERN.]

la·nu·gi·nous (lə-nōō'jə-nəs, -nyōō'-) also la·nu·gi·nose (-nōs') adj. Covered with soft, short hair; downy. [From Latin lānūginōsus, from lānūgō, lānūgin-, lanugo. See LANUGO.] —la·nu'gi·nous·ness n.

la·nu·go (lə-nōō'gō, -nyōō'-) n. pl. la·nu·gos. A covering of fine, soft hair, as on a leaf, an insect, or a newborn child. [Middle English, pith, from Latin lānūgō, down, from lana, wool.]

La·nús (lə-nōōs', lă-) A city of eastern Argentina, an industrial suburb of Buenos Aires. Population, 465,691.

lan·yard also lan·iard (lăn'yərd) n. 1. Nautical. A short rope or gasket used for fastening something or securing rigging. 2. A cord worn around the neck for carrying something, such as a knife or whistle. 3. A cord with a hook at one end used to fire a cannon. [Perhaps alteration (influenced by YARD¹, spar), of Middle English lainere, strap, from Old French laniere, from lasne, perhaps alteration (influenced by las, string); see LACE, of nasle*, lace, of Germanic origin.]

Lan·zhou also Lan·chow (lăn'jō') A city of central China on the Huang He (Yellow River) north of Chengdu. A major oil-refining center, it is the capital of Gansu province. Population, 1,060,000.

Lao (lou) n. pl. Lao or Laos (louz). 1. A member of a Buddhist people inhabiting the area of the Mekong River in Laos and Thailand. 2. The Tai language of the Lao. — adj. Of or relating to the Lao or their language or culture.

La·oc·o·on (lă-ōk'ō-ōn') n. Greek Mythology. A Trojan priest of Apollo who was killed along with his two sons by two sea serpents for having warned his people of the Trojan horse.

La·od·i·ce·a (lă-ōd'ī-sē'ə, lă'ə-dī-) An ancient city of western Asia Minor in present-day western Turkey. Built by the Seleucids in the third century B.C., it was a prosperous Roman market town on the trade route from the East and an early center of Christianity.

La·od·i·ce·an (lă-ōd'ī-sē'ən) adj. 1. Of or relating to Laodicea. 2. Indifferent or lukewarm especially in matters of religion. — n. A native or inhabitant of Laodicea. [Adj., sense 2, in reference to Revelation 3:14-16.]

La·om·e·don (lă-ōm'ī-dōn') n. Greek Mythology. The founder and first king of Troy and father of Priam.

La-os (ləʊs, lā'ɔs') A country of southeast Asia. Mainly united as a kingdom by 1353, it became part of French Indochina in 1893 and finally gained its independence in 1953. It has long been the scene of bitter guerrilla warfare. Vientiane is the capital and the largest city. Population, 3,811,000.

La-o-tian (lā-ō'shən, lou'shən) adj. 1. Of or relating to Laos or its people, language, or culture. 2. Of or relating to the Lao people. — n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Laos. 2. A Lao.

Lao-tzu (lou'dzʊ') also Lao-tse or Lao-zi (-dzə'), fl. sixth century B.C. Chinese philosopher who is traditionally regarded as the founder of Taoism.

lap¹ (lăp) n. 1. a. The front area from the waist to the knees of a seated person. b. The portion of a garment that covers the lap. 2. A hanging or flaplike part, especially of a garment. 3. An area of responsibility, interest, or control: an opportunity that dropped in his lap. — idiom. the lap of luxury. Conditions of great affluence or material comfort: an heiress living in the lap of luxury. [Middle English lappe, lappet, lap, from Old English læppa, lappet.] — lap'ful' n.

lap² (lăp) v. lapped, lap·ping, laps. — v. tr. 1. a. To place or lay (something) so as to overlap another: roof tiles that were lapped so that water will run off. b. To lie partly over or on: each shingle lapping the next; shadows that lapped the wall. 2. To fold (something) over onto itself: a cloth edge that had been lapped and sewn to make a hem. 3. To wrap or wind around (something); encircle. 4. To envelop in something; swathe: models who were lapped in expensive furs. 5. To join (pieces, as of wood) by means of a scarf or lap joint. 6. To get ahead of (an opponent) in a race by one or more complete circuits of the course. 7. To convert (cotton or other fibers) into a sheet or layer. 8. a. To polish (a surface) until smooth. b. To hone (two mating parts) against each other until closely fitted. — v. intr. 1. To lie partly on or over something; overlap. 2. To form a lap or fold. 3. To wind around or enfold something. — n. 1. a. A part that overlaps. b. The amount by which one part overlaps another. 2. a. One complete round or circuit, especially of a racetrack. b. One complete length of a straight course, as of a swimming pool. 3. A segment or stage, as of a trip. 4. a. A length, as of rope, required to make one complete turn around something. b. The act of lapping or encircling. 5. A continuous band or layer of cotton, flax, or other fiber. 6. A wheel, disk, or slab of leather or metal, either stationary or rotating, used for polishing and smoothing. [Middle English lappen, from lappe, lap, lappet. See LAP¹.]

lap³ (lăp) v. lapped, lap·ping, laps. — v. tr. 1. To take in (a liquid or food) by lifting it with the tongue. 2. To wash or slap against with soft liquid sounds: waves lapping the side of the boat. — v. intr. 1. To take in a liquid or food with the tongue. 2. To wash against something with soft liquid sounds. — n. 1. a. The act or an instance of lapping. b. The amount taken in by lapping. 2. The sound of lapping. 3. A watery food or drink. — phrasal verb. lap up.

To receive eagerly or greedily: lapping up praise. [Middle English lapen, from Old English lapian.]

La Pal-ma¹ (lə päl'mə, lä päl'mä) An island of Spain in the northwest Canary Islands.

La Pal-ma² (lə päl'mə) A city of southern California, a suburb of Los Angeles. Population, 15,663.

lap·a·ro·scope (läp'ər-ə-sköp') n. A slender, tubular endoscope that is inserted through an incision in the abdominal wall to examine or perform minor surgery within the abdominal or pelvic cavities. [Greek lapara, flank (from laparos, soft) + -SCOPE.]

lap·a·ros·co·py (läp'ə-rös'kə-pē) n. pl. lap·a·ros·co·pies. An operation in which a laparoscope is used, as in an examination of the liver or the surgical treatment of endometriosis. [Greek lapara, flank; see LAPAROSCOPE + -SCOPY.]

—lap'a-ro-scop'ic (-ər-ə-sköp'ik) adj. —lap'a-ros/co-pist n.

lap·a·rot·o·my (läp'ə-röt'ə-mē) n. pl. lap·a·rot·o·mies. Surgical incision into the abdominal wall, especially into the flank. [Greek lapara, flank; see LAPAROSCOPE + -TOMY.]

La Paz (lə pätz', lä päs') The administrative capital and largest city of Bolivia, in the western part of the country near Lake Titicaca. Built on the site of an Inca village, it is the highest capital in the world, lying at an altitude of about 3,660 m (12,000 ft) above sea level. Population, 992,592.

lap belt (läp bëlt) n. A seat belt that fastens across the lap.

lap·board (läp'bôrd', -bôrd') n. A flat board held on the lap as a substitute for a table or desk.

lap dissolve (läp dĩ-zölv') n. See dissolve.

lap dog (läp dôg) n. 1. A small dog kept as a pet. 2. Informal. One that is eager to do another's bidding, especially so as to maintain a position of privilege or favor: "a bunch of intellectual lap dogs for anybody who holds a big job in government" (Mike Barnicle).

la·pel (lə-pěl') n. The part of a garment, such as a coat or jacket, that is an extension of the collar and folds back against the breast. [From LAP¹.] —la·peled', la·pelled' adj.

La Pé-rouse (lä pä-rōöz'), Comte de Title of Jean François de Galaup. 1741-1788?. French explorer who led an expedition to the western Pacific Ocean (1785-1788).

La Pérouse Strait (lä pä-rōöz' strāt) A channel of the western Pacific Ocean between Sakhalin Island and northern Hokkaido, Japan, connecting the Sea of Okhotsk with the Sea of Japan.

lap·i·dar·i·an (läp'ī-dâr'ē-ən) adj. Of or relating to the working of stone or gems; lapidary. [From Latin lapidarius, stonemason. See LAPIDARY.]

lap·i·dar·y (lăp'ī-dĕr'ē) n. pl. lap·i·dar·ies. 1. One who cuts, polishes, or engraves gems. 2. A dealer in precious or semiprecious stones. — adj. 1. Of or relating to precious stones or the art of working with them. 2. a. Engraved in stone. b. Marked by conciseness, precision, or refinement of expression: lapidary prose. c. Sharply or finely delineated: a face with lapidary features. [Middle English lapidarie, from Old French lapidaire, from Latin lapidārius, from lapis, lapid-, stone.]

la·pil·lus (lə-pīl'əs) n. pl. la·pil·li (-pīl'ī). A small, solidified fragment of lava. [Latin, diminutive of lapis, stone.]

lap·in (lăp'īn, lä-păn') n. Rabbit fur, especially when dyed to imitate a more expensive fur. [French, from Old French lapriel.]

lap·is laz·u·li (lăp'īs lăz'ə-lē, -yə-, lăzh'ə-) n. An opaque to translucent blue, violet-blue, or greenish-blue semiprecious gemstone composed mainly of lazurite and calcite. [Middle English, from Old French, from Medieval Latin lapis lazulī: Latin lapis, stone + Medieval Latin lazulī, genitive of lazulum, lapis lazuli (from Arabic lāzaward, from Persian lajward).]

Lap·ith (lăp'īth) n. Greek Mythology. One of a Thessalian tribe who at the disastrous wedding of their king defeated the drunken centaurs.

lap joint (lăp joint) n. A joint, as between two boards or metal parts, in which the ends or edges are overlapped and fastened together, usually so as to produce a flush or continuous surface.

La·place or La Place (lə-plăs') A village of southeast Louisiana on the Mississippi River west-northwest of New Orleans. It is a trade center in a truck farm and sugar cane area. Population, 16,112.

La·place (lə-plăs', lä-), Marquis Pierre Simon de. 1749-1827. French mathematician and astronomer noted for his theory of a nebular origin of the solar system and his investigations into gravity and the stability of planetary motion.

Lap·land (lăp'länd', -lənd) A region of extreme northern Europe including northern Norway, Sweden, and Finland and the Kola Peninsula of northwest Russia. It is largely within the Arctic Circle. —Lap'land·er n.

La Pla·ta (lä plä'tă) A city of east-central Argentina southeast of Buenos Aires. Founded in 1882, it is an industrial center. Population, 454,884.

La Pla·ta Peak (lə plä'tə pĕk) A mountain, 4,380.1 m (14,361 ft) high, in the Sawatch Range of the Rocky Mountains in central Colorado.

La Porte (lə pōrt', pōrt') 1. A city of northwest Indiana west-southwest of South Bend. Settled in 1832, it is a manufacturing center. Population, 21,507.

2. A city of southeast Texas on Galveston Bay east of Houston. It is a popular summer resort. Population, 16,836.

Lapp (lăp) n. 1. A member of a people of nomadic herding tradition inhabiting Lapland. Also called Sami 2. Any of the Finnic languages of the Lapps. [Swedish, from Old Swedish lapper, piece, perhaps of Finnish origin.] —Lap'pish (lăp'ish) adj.

Lap·peen·ran·ta (lăp'an-răn'tə, lă'pĕn-răn'tă) A city of southeast Finland near the Russian border northeast of Helsinki. Chartered in 1649, it was an important border fortress after 1721. Population, 53,966.

lap·pet (lăp'it) n. 1. A decorative flap or loose fold on a garment or headdress. 2. A flaplike structure, such as the wattle of a bird or the lobe of the ear.

lap robe (lăp rōb) n. A blanket or fur piece for covering the lap, legs, and feet, as of a passenger in an unheated car or carriage.

lapse (lăps) v. lapsed, laps-ing, laps-es. — v. intr. 1. a. To fall from a previous level or standard, as of accomplishment, quality, or conduct: lapse into bad habits; a team that lapsed into mediocrity halfway through the season. b. To deviate from a prescribed or accepted way: lapse into heresy. c. To pass gradually or smoothly; slip: lapse into reverie. 2. a. To come to an end, especially gradually or temporarily: He realized that his attention had lapsed and he hadn't heard the assignment. b. To be no longer valid or active; expire: She allowed her membership to lapse after the first year. 3. Law. To pass to another through neglect or omission. Used of a right or privilege, a benefice, or an estate. 4. To go by; elapse: Years had lapsed since we last met. — v. tr. To allow to lapse. — n. 1. The act or an instance of lapsing, as: a. A usually minor or temporary failure; a slip: a lapse of memory; a lapse in judgment. b. A deterioration or decline: a lapse into barbarism. c. A moral fall: a lapse from grace. 2. A break in continuity; a pause: a lapse in the conversation. 3. A period of time; an interval: a lapse of several years between the two revolutions. 4. Law. The termination of a right or privilege through disuse, neglect, or death. [Middle English lapsen, to deviate from the normal, from laps, lapse of time, sin (from Old French, lapse of time, from Latin lāpsus, from past participle of lābī, to lapse), and from Latin lāpsāre, frequentative of lābī Latin lābī, lāps-, to lapse.] —laps'er n.

lapsed (lăpst) adj. No longer active or practicing: a lapsed Catholic; a lapsed club member.

lapse rate (lăps rāt) n. The rate of decrease of atmospheric temperature with increase in altitude.

lap·strake (lăp'strāk') also lap·streak (-strĕk') adj. Nautical. Clinker-built.

Lap·tev Sea (lăp'tĕf' sē, -tĕv', lăp'tyif) A section of the Arctic Ocean north of eastern Russia between the Taimyr Peninsula and the New Siberian Islands. It is icebound most of the year.

lap·top (lăp'tŏp') n. Computer Science. A microcomputer small enough to use on one's lap.

La Pu·en·te (lə pŏō-ĕn'tē, pwĕn'tă) A city of southern California, a residential suburb of Los Angeles. Population, 36,955.

La-pu-tan (lə-pyōōt'n) adj. Absurdly impractical or visionary, especially to the neglect of more useful activity. [After the flying island of Laputa in Gulliver's Travels by Jonathan Swift, where absurd projects are pursued and useful pursuits neglected.] —La-pu'tan n.

lap-wing (lăp'wīng') n. Any of several Old World birds of the genus Vanellus related to the plovers, especially V. vanellus, having a narrow crest and erratic flight behavior. Also called green plover, pewit. [Middle English, by folk etymology (perhaps influenced by lapen, to lap; see lap³, and wing, wing); see WING, from Old English hlēapewince: hlēapan, to leap + -wince, to waver.]

L'A-qui-la (lăk'wə-lə, lă'kwē-lä) also A-qui-la (ăk'wə-lə, ä'kwē-lä) A city of central Italy northeast of Rome. It is a trade and industrial center. Population, 63,465.

Lar (lär) n. pl. Lar-es (lăr'ēz, lăr'-). A tutelary deity or spirit of an ancient Roman household. [Latin Lār, probably of Etruscan origin.]

Lar-a-mie (lăr'ə-mē) A city of southeast Wyoming west-northwest of Cheyenne. Settled in 1868 with the coming of the railroad, it is the seat of the University of Wyoming (founded 1886). Population, 26,687.

Laramie River (lăr'ə-mē rīv'ər) A river of northern Colorado and southeast Wyoming flowing about 348 km (216 mi) generally north and northeast to the North Platte River.

lar-board (lăr'bərd) Nautical. n. See port². — adj. On the port side. [Alteration (influenced by starboard), of Middle English laddebord: perhaps ladde, past participle of leden, to lead; see LEAD¹ + borde, side of a ship (from the fact that this side of the ship was guided by the steering apparatus on the other side of the ship); see STARBOARD.]

lar-ce-nist (lăr'sə-nīst) also lar-ce-ner (-nər) n. One who commits larceny.

lar-ce-nous (lăr'sə-nəs) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or involving larceny: a larcenous scheme; with larcenous intent. 2. Guilty of or given to larceny. —lar'ce-nous-ly adv.

lar-ce-ny (lăr'sə-nē) n. pl. lar-ce-nies. Law. The unlawful taking and removing of another's personal property with the intent of permanently depriving the owner; theft. [Middle English, from Anglo-Norman larcin, theft, from Latin latrōcinium, robbery, from latrō, robber, mercenary, ultimately from Greek latron, pay, hire.]

larch (lärch) n. 1. Any of several deciduous, coniferous trees of the genus Larix, having needlelike leaves clustered on short shoots and heavy, durable wood.

2. The wood of these trees. [German Lärche, from Middle High German larche, from Latin larix, laric-.]

Larch River (lärch rīv'ər) A river, about 434 km (270 mi) long, of northern Quebec, Canada, flowing northeast to join the Caniapiscau River.

lard (lărd) n. The white solid or semisolid rendered fat of a hog. — v. tr.

lard-ed, lard-ing, lards. 1. To cover or coat with lard or a similar fat. 2. To insert strips of fat or bacon in (meat) before cooking. 3. a. To enrich or lace heavily with extra material; embellish: larded the report with quotations. b. To fill throughout; inject: “The history of Sicily was larded with treachery” (Mario Puzo). [Middle English, from Old French larde, from Latin lārdum.] —lard’y adj.

lar-der (lăr’dăr) n. 1. A place, such as a pantry or cellar, where food is stored.

2. A supply of food. [Middle English, from Anglo-Norman, from Medieval Latin lārdārium, from Latin lārdum, bacon.]

Lard-ner (lărd’năr), Ringgold Wilmer. Known as “Ring.” 1885-1933. American humorist and writer whose satirical short stories were published in collections, including You Know Me, Al (1916) and How to Write Short Stories (with Samples) (1924).

La-re-do (lə-ră’dō) A city of southern Texas on the Rio Grande south-southwest of San Antonio. Established by Spanish settlers in 1755, it is a major port of entry and a retail, tourist, and industrial center. Population, 122,899.

lar-ee (lăr’ē) n. A unit of currency in the Maldives. See Table at currency.

[Ultimately from Persian lārī.]

Lar-es (lăr’ēz) n. Plural of Lar.

lar-es and penates (lăr’ēz ənd pə-nă’tēz, lăr’-) pl.n. Treasured household possessions. [Translation of Latin Larēs et Penātēs: Larēs, pl. of Lār, Lar + et, and + Penātēs, Penates.]

large (lărj) adj. larg-er, larg-est. Abbr. L, L., lg., lge. 1. Of greater than average size, extent, quantity, or amount; big. 2. Of greater than average scope, breadth, or capacity; comprehensive. 3. Important; significant: had a large role in the negotiations; a large producer of paper goods. 4. a. Understanding and tolerant; liberal: a large and generous spirit. b. Of great magnitude or intensity; grand: “a rigid resistance to the large emotions” (Stephen Koch). 5. a. Pretentious; boastful. Used of speech or manners. b. Obsolete. Gross; coarse. Used of speech or language. 6. Nautical. Favorable. Used of a wind. —idiom. at large. 1. Not in confinement or captivity; at liberty: a convict still at large. 2. As a whole; in general: the country at large. 3. Representing a nation, state, or district as a whole. Often used in combination: councilor-at-large. 4. Not assigned to a particular country. Often used in combination: ambassador-at-large. 5. At length; copiously. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin largus, generous.] —large’ness n.

SYNONYMS: large, big, great. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “being notably above the average in size or magnitude”: a large city; a large sum of money; a big brown barn; a big sweep of open lawn; a great old oak tree; a great ocean liner.

ANTONYM: small large calorie (lärj käl'ə-rē) n. See calorie (n., sense 3a).

large-heart-ed (lärj'här'tid) adj. Having a generous disposition; sympathetic.
—large'-heart'/ed-ness n.

large intestine (lärj in-tēs'tin) n. The portion of the intestine that extends from the ileum to the anus, forming an arch around the convolutions of the small intestine and including the cecum, colon, rectum, and anal canal.

large-ly (lärj'lē) adv. 1. For the most part; mainly. 2. On a large scale; amply.

large-mind-ed (lärj'min'did) adj. Marked by breadth or tolerance of views; broad-minded. —large'-mind'/ed-ly adv. —large'-mind'/ed-ness n.

large-mouth bass (lärj'mouth' bäs) n. A North American freshwater food and game fish (Micropterus salmoides), mostly grayish black with a dark irregular stripe along each side and a large upper jaw extending past the eye.

larg-er than life (lär'jær thän lif) adj. So impressive or imposing as to exceed most others of a class: “This is a person of surpassing integrity; a man of the utmost sincerity; somewhat larger than life” (Joyce Carol Oates).

large-scale (lärj'skäl') adj. 1. Large in scope or extent. 2. Drawn or made large to show detail.

large-scale integration (lärj'skäl' in'ti-grā'shən) n. Abbr. LSI The technology for placing more than 100 integrated circuits on a single chip.

lar-gess also lar-gesse (lär-zhēs', -jēs', lär'jēs') n. 1. a. Liberality in bestowing gifts, especially in a lofty or condescending manner. b. Money or gifts bestowed. 2. Generosity of spirit or attitude. [Middle English largesse, from Old French, from large, generous, from Latin largus.]

large-toothed aspen (lärj'tōōht' äs'pən, -tōōht') n. An eastern North American deciduous tree (Populus grandidentata) having ovate leaves with coarsely toothed margins and grayish lower surfaces.

lar-ghet-to (lär-gēt'ō) Music. adv. & adj. In a dignified style and slow tempo, usually considered to be slightly faster than largo but slower than adagio. Used chiefly as a direction. — n. pl. lar-ghet-tos. A larghetto passage or movement. [Italian, diminutive of largo, largo. See LARGO.]

larg-ish (lär'jish) adj. Fairly large.

lar-go (lär'gō) Music. adv. & adj. In a very slow tempo, usually considered to be slower than adagio, and with great dignity. Used chiefly as a direction. — n. pl.

lar-gos. A largo passage or movement. [Italian, from Latin largus, generous.]

Lar-go (lär'gō) A city of western Florida on the Gulf of Mexico northwest of St. Petersburg. It is a resort and processing center in a citrus-growing area. Population, 65,674.

Largo Ca-bal-le-ro (lär'gō kăb'ə-yěr'ō, -əl-, kă'bä-yě'rô), Francisco. 1869-1946. Spanish political leader who served as prime minister (1936-1937) after the outbreak of the Spanish Civil War but was ousted by a Communist uprising.

lar-i-at (lăr'ē-ət) n. 1. See lasso. 2. A rope for picketing grazing horses or mules. [Spanish la reata : la, the (from Latin illa); see ALERT + reatar, to tie again (re-, again from Latin; see re- + atar, to tie from Latin aptāre, to join, from aptus, past participle of apere, to tie).]

Lá-ri-sa (lä'rē-sä) or La-ris-sa (lə-rīs'ə) A city of eastern Greece near the Aegean Sea. The chief city of ancient Thessaly, it was later part of the Byzantine Empire, Serbia, and Ottoman Turkey (until 1881). Population, 102,048.

lark¹ (lärk) n. 1. Any of various chiefly Old World birds of the family Alaudidae, especially the skylark, having a sustained, melodious song. 2. Any of several similar birds, such as the meadowlark. [Middle English laveroc, larke, from Old English lāwerce.]

lark² (lärk) n. 1. A carefree or spirited adventure. 2. A harmless prank. — v. intr. larked, lark-ing, larks. To engage in spirited fun or merry pranks. [Perhaps short for SKYLARK, to frolic, and possibly alteration of dialectal lake, play (from Middle English leik, laik, from Old Norse leikr).] —lark'er n. —lark'ish adj.

lark-spur (lärk'spûr') n. See delphinium.

lark-y (lär'kē) adj. lark-i-er, lark-i-est. 1. High-spirited; zestful: "It's a very larky Nureyev whom we see—a buoyant imp who... cavorts in various disguises" (Arlene Croce). 2. Silly; zany: "The filmmakers replace characterization with larky pop-culture references and associations" (David Denby). —lark'i-ness n.

La Roche-fou-cauld (lä rōsh-fō-kō', -rōsh-), Duc François de. 1613-1680. French writer of moralistic aphorisms, published as Maxims (1665).

La Ro-chelle (lä' rə-shěl', rô-) A city of western France on the Bay of Biscay southwest of Tours. It was a Huguenot stronghold in the 16th century. Population, 75,840.

La-rousse (lä-roōs'), Pierre Athanase. 1817-1875. French lexicographer, grammarian, and encyclopedist who founded a publishing company (1852) and compiled the Grand Dictionnaire Universel du XIXe Siècle (1866-1876).

lar-ri-gan also Lar-ri-gan (lăr'ĩ-gən) n. A moccasin with knee-high leggings made of oiled leather. [Origin unknown.]

lar-rup (lăr'əp) v. tr. lar-ruped, lar-rup-ing, lar-rups. To beat, flog, or thrash. — n. A blow. [Perhaps from Dutch larpen, to slap, thrash, from larp, rod, whip.]

Lar-tet (lăr-tā'), Édouard Armand Isidore Hippolyte. 1801-1871. French archaeologist and pioneer paleontologist who discovered examples of art dating from the Stone Age in caves of southwestern France.

lar-um (lăr'əm) n. An alarm. [Middle English larum-, as in larumbelle, short for alarum. See ALARUM.]

lar·va (lär'və) n. pl. lar·vae (-vē) or lar·vas. 1. The newly hatched, wingless, often wormlike form of many insects before metamorphosis. 2. The newly hatched, earliest stage of any of various animals that undergo metamorphosis, differing markedly in form and appearance from the adult. 3. Roman Mythology. A malevolent spirit of the dead; a lemur. [Latin lārva, specter, mask (because it acts as a specter of or a mask for the adult form).] —lar'val adj.

WORD HISTORY: The word larva referring to the newly hatched form of insects before they undergo metamorphosis comes from the Latin word lārva, meaning “evil spirit, demon, devil.” To understand why this should be so, we need to know that the Latin word also was used for a terrifying mask, and it is this sense of the word that has come down to us. In Medieval Latin larva could mean “mask or visor.” Larva is therefore an appropriate term for that stage of an insect’s life during which its final form was still hidden or masked, and New Latin lārva was thus applied by Carolus Linnaeus, the Swedish botanist who originated our system of classifying plants and animals. The word larva is first recorded in English in its scientific sense in 1768, although it had been used in its “spirit” sense in 1651 and in a way that foreshadowed the usage by Linnaeus in 1691.

lar·vi·cide (lär'vī-sīd') n. An insecticide designed to kill larval pests.
—lar'vi·cid'al (-sīd'l) adj.

laryng- pref. laryngo- la·ryn·ge·al (lə-rīn'jē-əl, -jəl, lăr'ən-jē'əl) also la·ryn·gal (lə-rīng'gəl) adj.

1. Of, relating to, affecting, or near the larynx. 2. Produced in or with the larynx; glottal. — n. 1. A laryngeal sound. 2. Any of a set of h-like sounds reconstructed for early Proto-Indo-European and partially preserved in Anatolian. [From New Latin laryngeus, from Greek larunx, larung-, larynx.]

lar·yn·gec·to·my (lăr'ən-jěk'tə-mē) n. pl. lar·yn·gec·to·mies. Surgical removal of part or all of the larynx.

la·ryn·ges (lə-rīn'jēz) n. A plural of larynx.

lar·yn·gi·tis (lăr'ən-jī'tis) n. Inflammation of the larynx. —lar'yn·git'ic (-jīt'ik) adj.

laryngo- or laryng- pref. Larynx: laryngoscope. [New Latin, from Greek larungo-, from larunx, larung-, larynx.]

lar·yn·gol·o·gy (lăr'ən-göl'ə-jē) n. The branch of medicine that studies and treats the larynx, pharynx, and fauces. —lar'yn·gol'o·gist n.

la·ryn·go·phar·ynx (lə-rīng'gō-făr'īngks) n. The portion of the pharynx just above the larynx.

la·ryn·go·scope (lə-rīng'gə-skōp', -rīn'jə-) n. A tubular endoscope that is inserted into the larynx through the mouth and used for observing the interior of the larynx. —la-ryn'go-scop'ic (-sköp'ik), la-ryn'go-scop'i-cal adj.

—la-ryn'go-scop'i-cal-ly adv. —lar'yn-gos'co-py (lăr'ən-gōs'kə-pē) n.

lar-ynx (lăr'ingks) n. pl. la-ryn-ges (lə-rin'jēz) or lar-ynx-es. The part of the respiratory tract between the pharynx and the trachea, having walls of cartilage and muscle and containing the vocal cords enveloped in folds of mucous membrane. [New Latin, from Greek larunx.]

la-sa-gna also la-sa-gne (lə-zän'yə) n. 1. Flat, wide strips of pasta. 2. A dish made by baking such pasta with layers of tomato sauce and fillings such as cheese or ground meat. [Italian, possibly from Vulgar Latin lasanìa*, from Latin lasanum, chamber pot, cooking pot, from Greek lasanon.]

La Salle (lə sāl', lä) A city of southern Quebec, Canada, on Montreal Island and the St. Lawrence River. It is a residential suburb of Montreal. Population, 76,299.

La Salle (lə sāl', lä), Sieur de Title of Robert Cavalier. 1643-1687. French explorer in North America who claimed Louisiana for France (1682).

las-car (lās'kər) n. An East Indian sailor, army servant, or artillery trooper.

[Urdu lashkar, army, from Persian, from Arabic al-'askar, the army : al, the + 'askar, army.]

Las Ca-sas (lās kă'səs, -säs), Bartolomé de. Known as "Apostle of the Indies." 1474-1566. Spanish missionary and historian who sought to abolish the oppression and enslavement of the native peoples in the Americas.

Las-caux (lă-skō') A cave of southwest France in the Dordogne River valley. The cave, discovered in 1940 and now closed to the public, contains important Paleolithic paintings, primarily of animals.

las-civ-i-ous (lə-siv'ē-əs) adj. 1. Given to or expressing lust; lecherous.

2. Exciting sexual desires; salacious. [Middle English, from Late Latin lasciviōsus, from Latin lascīvia, lewdness, playfulness, from lascīvus, lustful, playful. See las- in Appendix.] —las-civ'i-ous-ly adv. —las-civ'i-ous-ness n.

Las Cru-ces (lās krō'sis) A city of southern New Mexico on the Rio Grande north-northwest of El Paso, Texas. Irrigated farming and the nearby White Sands Missile Range are important to its economy. Population, 62,126.

lase (lāz) v. intr. lased, las-ing, las-es. To function as a laser; emit coherent radiation by the action of a laser. [Back-formation from LASER.]

la-ser (lā'zər) n. 1. Any of several devices that convert incident electromagnetic radiation of mixed frequencies to one or more discrete frequencies of highly amplified and coherent ultraviolet, visible, or infrared radiation. 2. A device whose output is in an invisible region of the electromagnetic spectrum. [l(ight) a(mplification by) s(timulated) e(mission of) r(adiation).]

laser disk (lā'zər dīsk) n. See optical disk.

laser printer (lā'zər prīn'tər) n. A printer that uses a laser to produce an image on a rotating drum before electrostatically transferring the image to paper.

La Seyne-sur-Mer (lä sän'sûr-mër', -sür-) A city of southeast France on the Mediterranean Sea southwest of Toulon. It is a shipbuilding center. Population, 57,659.

lash¹ (läsh) n. 1. a. A stroke or blow with or as if with a whip. b. A whip. c. The flexible portion of a whip, such as a plait or thong. 2. Punishment administered with a whip. 3. a. A lacerating presence or power: the lash of conscience. b. A caustic verbal attack. 4. An eyelash. — v. lashed, lash-ing, lash-es. — v. tr. 1. To strike with or as if with a whip. 2. To strike against with force or violence: sleet lashing the roof. 3. To beat or swing rapidly: The alligator lashed its tail in the water. 4. To make a scathing oral or written attack against. 5. To drive or goad; sting: words that lashed them into action. — v. intr. 1. To move swiftly or violently; thrash: heard the snake lashing about in the leaves. 2. a. To aim a sudden blow; strike: The mule lashed out with its hind legs. b. To beat; flail: waves lashing at the shore. 3. To make a scathing verbal or written attack: lashed out at her critics during the interview. [Middle English, probably from lashen, to deal a blow, perhaps of imitative origin.]

lash² (läsh) v. tr. lashed, lash-ing, lash-es. To secure or bind, as with a rope, cord, or chain. [Middle English lashen, lasen, to lace, from Old French lachier, lacier, from Vulgar Latin laceāre*, from Latin laqueāre, to ensnare, from laqueus, snare. See LACE.]

lash-er¹ (läsh'ər) n. One that lashes, as with a whip.

lash-er² (läsh'ər) n. One who lashes so as to secure or bind, as with a rope.

lash-ing (läsh'ing) n. Something used for securing or binding.

lash-ings (läsh'ingz) pl.n. Chiefly British. Lavish quantities. [From LASH¹, to lavish (obsolete).]

Las-ki (läs'kē), Harold Joseph. 1893-1950. British political scientist and member of the Fabian Society who led the British Labor Party (1945-1946).

Las Pal-mas (läs päl'mäs) The chief city of the Canary Islands of Spain, on the northeast coast of Grand Canary Island. It was founded in the late 15th century. Population, 377,353.

La Spe-zia (lä spët'sē-ə, spë'tsyä) A city of northwest Italy east-southeast of Genoa on the Gulf of La Spezia, an arm of the Ligurian Sea. The city is a major seaport and year-round resort. Population, 115,215.

lass (läs) n. 1. A girl or young woman. 2. A sweetheart. [Middle English las, probably of Scandinavian origin.]

Las-sa fever (lä'sə fē'vər, läs'ə) n. An acute, often fatal viral disease endemic to West Africa and characterized by high fever, headache, ulcers of the mucous membranes, and disturbances of the gastrointestinal tract. [After Lassa, a village of northeast Nigeria.]

Las-salle (lə-sāl', lä-säl'), Ferdinand. 1825-1864. German politician. A founder (1863) of the predecessor of the Social Democratic Party, he promoted the political involvement of the working class.

Las-sen Peak (läs'ən pēk) An active volcano, 3,188.2 m (10,453 ft) high, in the Cascade Range of northern California.

las-sie (läs'ē) n. A lass.

las-si-tude (läs'ī-tōōd', -tyōōd') n. A state or feeling of weariness, diminished energy, or listlessness. See Synonyms at lethargy. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin lassitūdō, from lassus, weary. See lē- in Appendix.]

las-so (läs'ō, lä-sōō') n. pl. las-sos or las-soes. A long rope with a running noose at one end, used especially to catch horses and cattle. Also called lariat — v. tr. las-soed, las-so-ing, las-sos or las-soes. To catch with or as if with such a long rope. [Spanish lazo, from Vulgar Latin laceum*, noose. See LACE.]

—las'so-er n.

last¹ (läst) adj. 1. Being, coming, or placed after all others; final: the last game of the season. 2. Being the only one left: his last nickel; as a last resort. 3. Just past; most recent: last year; the last time I checked. 4. Most up-to-date; newest: the last thing in swimwear. 5. Highest in extent or degree; utmost: to the last measure of human endurance. 6. Most valid, authoritative, or conclusive: The arbiter will have the last say in resolving this dispute. 7. a. Least likely or expected: the last person we would have suspected. b. The least desirable or suitable: the last man for the job. 8. Being the latest possible: waited until the last second before boarding the train. 9. Lowest in rank or importance: last prize; last place. 10. Used as an intensive: Every last dollar was donated to charity. 11. a. Of or relating to a terminal period or stage, as of life: the last days of the dinosaurs. b. Administered just before death: the last sacraments. — adv. 1. After all others in chronology or sequence: arrived last. 2. Most recently: a fashion last popular in the 1940's. 3. At the end; finally: Add the butter last. — n. 1. One that is at the end or last: the last to be chosen; on every page but the last. 2. The end: held out until the last. 3. The final mention or appearance: haven't seen the last of our troubles. — idioms. at last. After a considerable length of time; finally. at long last. After a lengthy or troublesome wait or delay: At long last the winter was over. [Middle English, from Old English latost, superlative of læt, late. See lē- in Appendix.]

—last'ly adv.

SYNONYMS: last, final, terminal, eventual, ultimate. These adjectives mean coming after all others in chronology or sequence. Last applies to what comes at the end of a series, as of like things: the last day of the month; the last piece of candy. The last time I saw them they were fine. Something final comes at the end of a progression or process; the term stresses the definitiveness and decisiveness of the conclusion: This is our final offer. The decision of the board of trustees will be final.

“I believe that unarmed truth and unconditional love will have the final word in reality” (Martin Luther King, Jr.). Terminal applies to what marks or forms a limit or boundary, as in space, time, or development: In order to increase its freight revenues the railroad chose as its terminal city a town with a large harbor. Something eventual will inevitably come about as a result of a particular circumstance or contingency: If prices continue to spiral out of control, it is reasonable to expect the eventual collapse of the stock market. Ultimate applies to what concludes a series, process, or progression, to what constitutes a final result or objective, and to what is most distant or remote, as in time: the ultimate sonata of that opus; our ultimate goal; the ultimate effect; an ultimate authority. “I know no safe depository of the ultimate powers of the society but the people themselves” (Thomas Jefferson).

last² (lăst) v. last-ed, last-ing, lasts. — v. intr. 1. a. To continue in time; go on: The war lasted four years. b. To continue; survive: The patient is not expected to last much longer. 2. a. To remain in good or usable condition: Produce lasts longer if it is refrigerated. I wanted a car that would last. b. To continue in force or practice: wondered if the marriage would last. 3. To remain in adequate supply: Will our water last? — v. tr. 1. To keep adequately supplied: left enough bread to last the family for the weekend. 2. To persist or endure for the entire length of; survive: hoped to last the season without injuring her leg again. [Middle English lasten, from Old English læstan. See leis-¹ in Appendix.]

last³ (lăst) n. A block or form shaped like a human foot and used in making or repairing shoes. — v. tr. last-ed, last-ing, lasts. To mold or shape on a last. [Middle English leste, laste, from Old English læste, from læst, lāst, sole of the foot. See leis-¹ in Appendix.]

last⁴ (lăst) n. Chiefly British. A unit of volume or weight varying for different commodities and in different districts, equal to about 80 bushels, 640 gallons, or 2 tons. [Middle English, load, a kind of measure, from Old English hlæst, load.]

last-born or last-born (lăst'bôrn') adj. Last in order of birth; youngest. — n. One that is born last, as a youngest child.

last-ditch (lăst'dič') adj. Done or made as a final recourse, especially to prevent a crisis or disaster: a last-ditch effort to avert the threatened strike.

Las-tex (lăs'téks') A trademark used for a yarn having a core of elastic rubber wound with rayon, nylon, silk, or cotton threads.

last hurrah (lăst hoo-ră') n. A final appearance or effort, especially at the end of a career: a reelection campaign that was expected to be her last hurrah. [After The Last Hurrah, a novel by Edwin O'Connor (1918-1968), American writer.]

last-in, first-out (lăst'in' fûrst'out') n. Accounting. A method of inventory accounting in which the most recently acquired items are assumed to have been the first sold. In a period of rising prices, this method yields a lower ending inventory, a higher cost of goods sold, a lower gross profit (assuming constant price), and a lower taxable income. Also called LIFO last-ing (lās'tīŋ) adj. Continuing or remaining for a long time; enduring: a lasting peace. — n. A sturdy twilled fabric. —last'ing-ly adv.

—last'ing-ness n.

Last Judgment (lǎst jŭj'mənt) n. The final judgment by God of all humankind, especially as envisioned in Christian, Jewish, and Islamic scriptures.

last laugh (lǎst lǎf) n. Ultimate success or victory, achieved after an apparent failure or loss: After all was said and done, our competitors had the last laugh: they cornered the market.

last minute (lǎst mīn'it) n. The period just before a significant or awaited moment such as a deadline, due date, or scheduled event: always waits until the last minute to do his holiday shopping. —last'-min'ute (lǎst'mīn'it) adj.

last rites (lǎst rīts) pl.n. 1. Rites performed in connection with a death or burial. 2. A rite or sacrament administered to a dying person.

last straw (lǎst strô) n. The last of a series of annoyances or disappointments that leads one to a final loss of patience, temper, trust, or hope. [From the proverb "It's the last straw that breaks the camel's back".]

Last Supper (lǎst sŭp'ər) n. Jesus's supper with his disciples on the night before his crucifixion, at which he instituted the Eucharist. Also called Lord's Supper last word (lǎst wŭrd) n. 1. The final statement in a verbal argument. 2. a. A conclusive or authoritative statement or treatment: The report was considered to be the last word on the hazards of smoking. b. Power or authority of ultimate decision: The treasurer has the last word in all financial matters. 3. Informal. The newest or most fashionable example of its kind; the latest thing: a food processor that is the last word in kitchen equipment.

Las Ve-gas (lās vā'gəs) A city of southeast Nevada near the California and Arizona borders. It is a major tourist center known for its casinos. Population, 258,295.

lat. abbr. Latitude.

Lat. abbr. 1. Latin. 2. Latvia; Latvian.

latch (läch) n. 1. A fastening, as for a door or gate, typically consisting of a bar that fits into a notch or slot and is lifted from either side by a lever or string. 2. A spring lock, as for a door, that is opened from the outside by a key. — v.

latched, latch-ing, latch-es. — v. tr. To close or lock with or as if with a latch. — v. intr. 1. To have or be closed with a latch. 2. To shut tightly so that the latch is engaged: a door too warped to latch. —idiom. latch on to (or latch onto). To get hold of; obtain: latched on to a fortune in the fur trade. [Middle English latche, from lacchen, to seize, from Old English læccan.]

latch·et (läch'it) n. A leather thong or strap used to fasten a shoe or sandal on the foot. [Middle English latchet, from Old French lacet, latchet, from lace, lace. See LACE.]

latch·key (läch'kē') n. A key for opening a latch or lock, especially one on an outside door.

latchkey child (läch'kē' chīld) n. A usually school-age child who regularly spends part of the day unsupervised at home while the parents are at work.

latch·string (läch'strīng') n. A cord attached to a latch and often passed through a hole in the door to allow lifting of the latch from the outside.

late (lāt) adj. lat·er, lat·est. Abbr. l. 1. Coming, occurring, or remaining after the correct, usual, or expected time; delayed: The bus is late. See Synonyms at tardy. 2. a. Beginning after or continuing past the usual or expected hour: a late breakfast; a late meeting. b. Occurring at an advanced hour, especially well into the evening or night: a late movie on television; the late flight to Denver. 3. Of or toward the end or more advanced part, as of a period or stage: the late 19th century; a later symptom of the disease. 4. a. Having begun or occurred just previous to the present time; recent: a late development. b. Contemporary; up-to-date: the latest fashion. 5. a. Having recently occupied a position or place: the company's late president gave the address. b. Dead, especially if only recently deceased: in memory of the late explorer. — adv. later, latest. 1. After the expected, usual, or proper time: a train that arrived late; woke late and had to skip breakfast. 2. a. At or until an advanced hour: talked late into the evening. b. At or into an advanced period or stage: a project undertaken late in her career. 3. Recently: As late as last week he was still in town. — idiom. of late. Recently; lately: was feeling better of late. [Middle English, from Old English læt. See lē- in Appendix.] — late'ness n.

USAGE NOTE: It is technically correct to use a phrase such as our late treasurer to refer to a person who is still alive but who no longer holds the relevant post, but the use of former in this context will ensure that no embarrassing misunderstanding is created.

late blight (lāt blīt) n. A disease of potato plants caused by the fungus Phytophthora infestans and characterized by decay of the foliage and tubers.

late·com·er (lāt'kūm'ər) n. 1. One that arrives late: waited for the latecomers to be seated. 2. A recent arrival, participant, or convert: a company that was a latecomer to the video-game market.

lat·ed (lā'tīd) adj. Belated. [From LATE.]

la·teen (lə-tēn', lă-) Nautical. adj. Being, relating to, or rigged with a triangular sail hung on a long yard that is attached at an angle to the top of a short mast. — n. 1. A lateen-rigged boat. 2. A lateen sail. [French (voile) latine, lateen (sail), feminine of latin, Latin (from its use in the Mediterranean), from Old French. See LATIN.]

Late Greek (lāt grēk) n. The Greek language as used from the fourth to the ninth century A.D.

Late Hebrew (lāt hē'brōō) n. The Hebrew language as used from the 12th to the 18th century.

Late Latin (lāt lāt'n) n. The Latin language as used from the third to the seventh century A.D.

late·ly (lāt'lē) adv. Not long ago; recently.

lat·en (lāt'n) v. tr. intr. lat·ened, lat·en·ing, lat·ens. To make or grow late.

la·ten·cy (lāt'n-sē) n. pl. la·ten·cies. 1. The state or quality of being latent.

2. The psychoanalytic stage of development, from about five years to puberty, during which a child represses sexual urges and prefers to associate with members of the same sex.

La Tène (lä tēn') adj. Of or relating to an Iron Age European civilization dating from the fifth to the first century B.C. [After La Tène, a district at the eastern end of the Lake of Neuchâtel in Switzerland.]

la·tent (lāt'nt) adj. 1. Present or potential but not evident or active: latent talent. 2. Pathology. In a dormant or hidden stage: a latent infection. 3. Biology. Undeveloped but capable of normal growth under the proper conditions: a latent bud. 4. Psychology. Present in the unconscious mind but not consciously expressed. — n. A fingerprint that is not apparent to the eye but can be made sufficiently visible, as by dusting or fuming, for use in identification. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin latēns, latent- present participle of latēre, to lie hidden.] —la'tent·ly adv.

SYNONYMS: latent, dormant, quiescent. These adjectives mean present or in existence but not active or manifest. What is latent is present but not visible or apparent: latent energy; latent ability. His critical remark immediately awakened all her latent hostility. Dormant evokes the idea of sleep; the term applies to what is inactive or in suspended animation: a dormant volcano. Her enormous talents were dormant. Persons or things are quiescent when they cease to be active; sometimes—but not always—the term suggests temporary inactivity: “How for nine years you could be patient and quiescent under any treatment... I can never comprehend” (Charlotte Brontë). “For a time, he [the whale] lay quiescent” (Herman Melville).

latent heat (lāt'nt hēt) n. The quantity of heat absorbed or released by a substance undergoing a change of state, such as ice changing to water or water to steam, at constant temperature and pressure. Also called heat of transformation latent period (lāt'nt pīr'ē-əd) n. 1. The interval between exposure to an infectious organism or a carcinogen and the clinical appearance of disease.

2. The interval between stimulus and response.

lat·er·al (lăt'ər-əl) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or situated at or on the side. 2. Of or constituting a change within an organization or a hierarchy to a position at a similar level, as in salary or responsibility, to the one being left: made a lateral move within the company. 3. Linguistics. Of, relating to, or being a sound produced by breath passing along one or both sides of the tongue. — n. 1. A lateral part, projection, passage, or appendage. 2. Football. A lateral pass. 3. Linguistics. A lateral sound, such as (l). — v. lat·er·aled also lat·er·alled, lat·er·al·ing also lat·er·al·ing, lat·er·als also lat·er·als. Football. — v. intr. To execute a lateral pass. — v. tr. To pass (the ball) sideways or backward. [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin laterālis, from latus, later-, side.] — lat'er-al-ly adv.

lateral bud (lăt'ər-əl būd) n. A bud located on the side of the stem, usually in a leaf axil.

lat·er·al·i·za·tion (lăt'ər-ə-lī-zā'shən) n. Localization of function attributed to either the right or left side of the brain.

lateral line (lăt'ər-əl līn) n. A series of sensory pores along the head and sides of fish and some amphibians by which water currents, vibrations, and pressure changes are detected.

lateral pass (lăt'ər-əl päs) n. Football. A usually underhand pass that is thrown sideways or somewhat backward with respect to downfield.

lat·er·ite (lăt'ə-rīt') n. A red residual soil in humid tropical and subtropical regions that is leached of soluble minerals, aluminum hydroxides, and silica but still contains concentrations of iron oxides and iron hydroxides. [Latin later, brick + -ITE¹.] — lat'er-it'ic (-rīt'ik) adj.

lat·est (lā'tĭst) adj. Superlative of late. — n. Something that is the most recent or current of its kind: the latest in electronic gadgetry. — idiom. at the latest. No later than: Have it done by Tuesday at the latest.

la·tex (lā'tĕks') n. pl. la·ti·ces (lā'tī-sēz', lăt'ī-) or la·tex·es. 1. The colorless or milky sap of certain plants, such as the poinsettia or milkweed, that coagulates on exposure to air. 2. An emulsion of rubber or plastic globules in water, used in paints, adhesives, and various synthetic rubber products. 3. Latex paint. [Latin, fluid.] — la'tex' adj.

latex paint (lā'tĕks' pānt) n. A paint having a latex binder. Also called rubber-base paint lath (lăth) n. pl. laths (lăthz, lăths). 1. a. A thin strip of wood or metal, usually nailed in rows to framing supports as a substructure for plaster, shingles, slates, or tiles. b. A building material, such as a sheet of metal mesh, used for similar purposes. 2. a. A quantity of laths; lathing. b. Work made with or from lath. — v. tr. lathed, lath·ing, laths. To build, cover, or line with laths. [Middle lathe (lāth) n. A machine for shaping a piece of material, such as wood or metal, by rotating it rapidly along its axis while pressing against a fixed cutting or abrading tool. — v. tr. lathed, lath-ing, lathes. To cut or shape on a lathe. [Middle English, a device used by coopers, perhaps a turning lathe, probably of Scandinavian origin.]

English latthe, probably alteration (influenced by Welsh llath, rod), of Old English lætt.]

lath'er (lăth'ər) n. 1. A foam formed by soap or detergent agitated in water, as in washing or shaving. 2. Froth formed by profuse sweating, as on a horse.

3. Informal. A condition of anxious or heated discomposure; agitation: The students were in a lather over the proposed restrictions. — v. lath-ered, lath'er-ing, lath-ers. — v. tr. 1. To spread with or as if with lather.

2. Informal. To give a beating to; whip. — v. intr. 1. To produce lather; foam.

2. To become coated with lather. [Probably from Middle English latheren, to wash or soak clothes, from Old English lēthran, to cover with lather. See leu(ə)-in Appendix.] — lath'er-er n. — lath'er-y adj.

lath-ing (lăth'ing, lăth'-) n. 1. The act or process of building with laths.

2. Work made of laths. 3. A quantity of laths.

La-throp (lā'thrəp), Julia Clifford. 1858-1932. American social reformer dedicated to the betterment of institutionalized care for the mentally ill and children.

lath-y-rism (lăth'ə-rīz'əm) n. A disease of human beings and animals caused by eating legumes of the genus Lathyrus and characterized by spastic paralysis, hyperesthesia, and paresthesia. [From New Latin Lathyrus, genus name, from Greek lathuros, a type of pea.]

la-ti-ces (lā'tī-sēz', lăt'ī-) n. A plural of latex.

la-tic-i-fer (lā-tīs'ə-fər) n. A plant duct containing latex. [Latin latex, latic-, fluid; see LATEX + -FER.]

lat-i-cif-er-ous (lăt'ī-sīf'ər-əs) adj. Producing or containing latex.

lat-i-fun-di-um (lăt'ə-fūn'dē-əm) n. pl. lat-i-fun-di-a (-dē-ə). A great landed estate, especially of the ancient Romans. [Latin lātifundium: lātus, broad + fundus, estate, base.]

Lat-i-mer (lăt'ə-mər), Hugh. 1485?-1555. English prelate who refused to recant his Protestantism after the accession of Mary I, a Catholic, and was executed for heresy.

Lat-in (lăt'n) Abbr. Lat., L. n. 1. a. The Indo-European language of the ancient Latins and Romans. Latin, the most important member of the Italic branch of Indo-European, is divided into several historical periods and social dialects and was the most important cultural language of western Europe until the end of the 17th century. b. The Latin language and literature from the end of the third century B.C. to the end of the second century A.D. 2. A member of a Latin people, especially a native or inhabitant of Latin America. 3. A native or resident of ancient Latium. — adj. 1. Of, relating to, or composed in Latin: a Latin scholar; Latin verse. 2. a. Of or relating to ancient Rome, its people, or its culture. b. Of or relating to Latium, its people, or its culture. 3. a. Of or relating to the languages that developed from Latin, such as Italian, French, Spanish, and Portuguese, or to the peoples that speak them. b. Of or relating to the peoples, countries, or cultures of Latin America. 4. Of or relating to the Roman Catholic Church. [Middle English, from Old French, and from Old English Lātīn both from Latin Latīnus, from Latium, an ancient country of west-central Italy.]

La-ti-na¹ (lə-tē'nə, lä-) n. A Latino woman or girl. [Spanish, Latin, from Latin Latīna, feminine of Latīnus. See LATIN.]

La-ti-na² (lə-tē'nə, lä-tē'nä) A city of west-central Italy southeast of Rome. It is a commercial and industrial center. Population, 81,000.

Latin alphabet (lä't'n ä'l'fə-bět') n. The Roman alphabet adopted from the Greek by way of the Etruscan alphabet, consisting of 23 letters upon which the modern western European alphabets are founded. Also called Roman alphabet

Latin A-mer-i-ca (lä't'n ə-mēr'ī-kə) The countries of the Western Hemisphere south of the United States, especially those speaking Spanish, Portuguese, or French.

Latin American (lä't'n ə-mēr'ī-kən) n. 1. A native or inhabitant of Latin America. 2. A person of Latin-American descent. — Lat'in-A-mer'i-can (lä't'n-ə-mēr'ī-kən) adj.

Lat-in-ate (lä't'n-āt') adj. Of, derived from, or suggestive of Latin: a Latinate word; a formal, Latinate prose style.

Latin Church (lä't'n chûrch) n. The Roman Catholic Church.

Latin cross (lä't'n krôs) n. A cross with a shorter horizontal bar intersecting a longer vertical bar above the midpoint.

Lat-in-ism (lä't'n-iz'əm) n. An idiom, a structure, or a word derived from or suggestive of Latin.

Lat-in-ist (lä't'n-īst) n. A specialist in Latin.

La-tin-i-ty (lə-tīn'ī-tē) n. The manner in which Latin is used in speaking or writing.

Lat-in-ize (lä't'n-īz') v. Lat-in-ized, Lat-in-iz-ing, Lat-in-iz-es. — v. tr.

1. a. To translate into Latin. b. To transliterate into the characters of the Latin alphabet; Romanize. 2. To cause to adopt or acquire Latin characteristics or customs. 3. To cause to follow or resemble the Roman Catholic Church in dogma or practices. — v. intr. To use Latinisms. — Lat'in-i-za'tion (-ī-zā'shən) n. — Lat'in-iz'er n.

La-ti-no (lə-tē'nō, lä-) n. pl. La-ti-nos. 1. A Latin American. 2. A person of Hispanic, especially Latin-American, descent. See Usage Note at Hispanic. [Spanish, Latin, from Latin Latīnus. See LATIN.]

Latin Quar-ter (lăt'n kwôr'tər) A section of Paris on the southern bank of the Seine River. Centered around the Sorbonne, it has attracted students for many centuries.

lat-ish (lā'tĭsh) adv. & adj. Fairly late.

la-tis-si-mus dor-si (lə-tĭs'ə-məs dôr'sĭ) n. pl. la-tis-si-mi dors-i (lə-tĭs'ə-mĭ' dôr'sĭ). Either of two broad, flat, triangular muscles running from the vertebral column to the humerus. [New Latin lātissimus dorsī: Latin lātissimus, superlative of lātus, wide + Latin dorsī, genitive of dorsum, back.]

lat-i-tude (lăt'ĭ-tōōd', -tyōōd') n. Abbr. lat. 1. a. The angular distance north or south of the earth's equator, measured in degrees along a meridian, as on a map or globe. b. A region of the earth considered in relation to its distance from the equator: temperate latitudes. 2. Astronomy. The angular distance of a celestial body north or south of the ecliptic. 3. Freedom from normal restraints, limitations, or regulations. See Synonyms at room. 4. A range of values or conditions, especially the range of exposures over which a photographic film yields usable images. 5. Extent; breadth. [Middle English, geographical latitude, from Old French, width, from Latin lātitudō, width, geographical latitude, from lātus, wide.] —lat'i-tu'din-al (-tōōd'n-əl, -tyōōd'-) adj. —lat'i-tu'di-nal-ly adv.

lat-i-tu-di-nar-i-an (lăt'ĭ-tōōd'n-âr'ē-ən, -tyōōd'-) adj. Holding or expressing broad or tolerant views, especially in religious matters. [Latin lātitudō, lātitudin-, latitude; see LATITUDE + -ARIAN.] —lat'i-tu'di-nar'i-an n.

—lat'i-tu'di-nar'i-an-ism n.

La-ti-um (lā'shē-əm, -shəm) An ancient country of west-central Italy bordering on the Tyrrhenian Sea. It was dominated by Rome after the third century B.C.

lat-ke (lăt'kə) n. A pancake, especially one made of grated potato. [Yiddish, from Ukrainian oladka, from Old Russian, diminutive of olad'ya, from Greek eladia, pl. of eladion, little oily thing diminutive of elaion, olive oil.]

lat-o-sol (lăt'ə-sôl', -sôl') n. Soil that is rich in iron, alumina, or silica and formed in tropical woodlands under very humid climate with relatively high temperature. [LAT(ERITE) + -sol, soil (from Latin solum).]

La Tour (lə tōōr', lă tōōr'), Georges de. 1593-1652. French painter of religious subjects and genre scenes. Many of his works, including The Newborn (c. 1630), are dramatically lit nocturnal scenes.

la-trine (lə-trĕn') n. A communal toilet of a type often used in a camp or barracks. [From French latrines, privies, from Old French, from Latin lātrīna, bath, privy, from lavātrīna. See leu(ə)- in Appendix.]

La-trobe (lə-trōb'), Benjamin Henry. 1764-1820. British-born American engineer and the first professional American architect. His works include the Baltimore Cathedral (1805-1818) and the chambers of the U.S. Congress and Supreme Court.

-latry suff. Worship: bibliolatry. [From Greek latreia, service, worship.]

lat-te (lăt'tē) n. A strong espresso coffee topped with steamed frothed milk.

Also called caffè latte [Italian (caffé e latte, (coffee with) milk, from Latin lac. See melg- in Appendix.]

lat-ten (lăt'n) n. 1. Brass or an alloy resembling brass, hammered thin and formerly used in the manufacture of church vessels. 2. A thin sheet of metal, especially of tin. [Middle English laton, from Old French, from Arabic lātūn, probably from Old Turkic altun, gold; akin to Mongolian altan.]

lat-ter (lăt'ər) adj. 1. Being the second of two persons or things mentioned: Between captain and major, the latter is the higher rank. See Usage Note at former². 2. Near or nearer to the end: the latter part of the book. 3. Further advanced in time or sequence; later: a style that has been revived in latter times. [Middle English, later, from Old English lætra. See lē- in Appendix.] —lat'ter-ly adv.

lat-ter-day (lăt'ər-dā') adj. Belonging to present or recent times; modern.

Lat-ter-day Saint (lăt'ər-dā' sānt) n. See Mormon (n., sense 2).

lat-tice (lăt'is) n. 1. a. An open framework made of strips of metal, wood, or similar material overlapped or overlaid in a regular, usually crisscross pattern. b. A structure, such as a window, screen, or trellis, made of or containing such a framework. 2. Something, such as a decorative motif or heraldic bearing, that resembles an open, patterned framework. 3. Physics. a. A regular, periodic configuration of points, particles, or objects throughout an area or a space, especially the arrangement of ions or molecules in a crystalline solid. b. The spatial arrangement of fissionable and nonfissionable materials in a nuclear reactor. — v. tr. lat-ticed, lat-tic-ing, lat-tic-es. To construct or furnish with a lattice or latticework. [Middle English latis, from Old French lattis, from latte, lath, of Germanic origin.] —lat'ticed adj.

lat-tice-work (lăt'is-wûrk') n. 1. A lattice or latticelike structure. 2. An open, crisscross pattern or weave.

Lat-vi-a (lăt'vĕ-ə) Abbr. Lat. A country of northern Europe on the Baltic Sea. Conquered and Christianized by the Livonian Brothers of the Sword in the 13th century, Latvia passed under Russian control in the 18th century. It became independent after World War I but was annexed by the U.S.S.R. in 1940. Latvia again achieved independence in 1991. Riga is the capital. Population, 2,604,000.

Lat-vi-an (lăt'vĕ-ən) adj. Abbr. Lat. Of or relating to Latvia or its people, language, or culture. — n. Abbr. Lat. 1. A native or inhabitant of Latvia. 2. The Baltic language of the Latvians. In this sense, also called Lettish laud (lôd) v. tr. laud-ed, laud-ing, lauds. To give praise to; glorify. See Synonyms at praise. — n. 1. Praise; glorification. 2. A hymn or song of praise. 3. Often Lauds. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). a. The service of prayers following the matins and constituting with them the first of the seven canonical hours.

b. The time appointed for this service. [Middle English lauden, from Old French lauder, from Latin laudāre, from laus, laud-, praise.] —laud'er n.

Laud (lôd), William. 1573-1645. English prelate who as archbishop of Canterbury (1633-1645) was a strident supporter of Charles I and absolutism in church and state. His attempts to impose High Church doctrine on Protestants in Scotland and England led to his imprisonment and execution for treason by Parliament.

laud-a-ble (lô'də-bəl) adj. Deserving commendation; praiseworthy.

—laud'a-bil'i-ty, laud'a-ble-ness n. —laud'a-bly adv.

lau-da-num (lôd'n-əm) n. A tincture of opium, formerly used as a drug. [New Latin, perhaps alteration of Medieval Latin labdanum, labdanum. See LABDANUM.]

laud-a-tion (lô-dā'shən) n. The act of lauding; praise.

laud-a-tive (lô'də-tīv) adj. Laudatory.

laud-a-to-ry (lô'də-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) adj. Expressing or conferring praise: a laudatory review of the new play.

Lau-der (lô'dər), Sir Harry MacLennan. 1870-1950. British singer noted for his comic stage persona, a wry and nostalgic Highlander.

Lau-der-dale Lakes (lô'dər-dāl' lāks) A city of southeast Florida, a residential suburb of Fort Lauderdale. Population, 27,341.

Lau-der-hill (lô'dər-hīl') A city of southeast Florida, a residential suburb of Fort Lauderdale. Population 49,708.

Lau-e (lou'ə), Max Theodor Felix von. 1879-1960. German physicist. He won a 1914 Nobel Prize for discovering the diffraction of x-rays passing through crystals.

laugh (lāf, lāf) v. laughed, laugh-ing, laughs. — v. intr. 1. To express certain emotions, especially mirth, delight, or derision, by a series of spontaneous, usually unarticulated sounds often accompanied by corresponding facial and bodily movements. 2. To show or feel amusement or good humor: laughed to herself at the memory; an experience we would laugh about later on. 3. a. To feel or express derision or contempt; mock: We used to laugh at their provincial manners. I had to laugh when I saw who my opponent was. b. To feel a triumphant or exultant sense of well-being: You won't be laughing when the truth comes out.

4. To produce sounds resembling laughter: parrots laughing and chattering in the trees. — v. tr. 1. To affect or influence by laughter: laughed the speaker off the stage; laughed the proposal down. 2. To say with a laugh: He laughed his delight at the victory. — n. 1. a. The act of laughing. b. The sound of laughing; laughter.

2. Informal. Something amusing, absurd, or contemptible; a joke: The solution they recommended was a laugh. 3. Often laughs. Informal. Fun; amusement: decided to go along just for laughs. —phrasal verbs. laugh at. To treat lightly; scoff at: a daredevil who laughed at danger. laugh off (or laugh away). To dismiss as ridiculously or laughably trivial: laughed off any suggestion that her career was over. —idiom. laugh up (one's) sleeve (or laugh in (one's) sleeve).

To rejoice or exult in secret, as at another's error or defeat. [Middle English laughen, from Old English hlæhhan, probably ultimately of imitative origin.]

—laugh'er n. —laugh'ing·ly adv.

laugh·a·ble (lǎf'ə-bəl, lǎ'fə-) adj. Causing or deserving laughter or derision.

—laugh'a·ble·ness n. —laugh'a·bly adv.

laugh·ing gas (lǎf'ɪŋ gās, lǎ'fɪŋ) n. Nitrous oxide, especially as used as an anesthetic.

laughing jackass (lǎf'ɪŋ jæk'əs') n. See kookaburra.

laugh·ing·stock (lǎf'ɪŋ-stök', lǎ'fɪŋ-) n. An object of jokes or ridicule; a butt.

laugh·ter (lǎf'tər, lǎf'-) n. 1. The act of laughing. 2. The sound produced by laughing. 3. Archaic. A cause or subject for laughter. [Middle English, from Old English hleahtor, probably ultimately of imitative origin.]

Laugh·ton (lôt'n), Charles. 1899-1962. British-born American actor whose many motion-picture roles include that of Captain Bligh in Mutiny on the Bounty (1935).

laugh track (lǎf træk) n. Recorded laughter added to a soundtrack, as of a television or radio show.

launce (lǎns, lǎns, lôns) n. See sand lance. [Perhaps alteration of LANCE.]

launch¹ (lônch, lǎnch) v. launched, launch·ing, launch·es. — v. tr.

1. a. To throw or propel with force; hurl: launch a spear. b. To set or thrust (a self-propelled craft or projectile) in motion: launch a rocket; launch a torpedo.

2. Nautical. To put (a boat) into the water in readiness for use. 3. To set going; initiate: launch a career; launch a business venture. 4. To introduce to the public or to a market: launched the new perfume with prime-time commercials on the major networks. 5. To give (someone) a start, as in a career or vocation. — v. intr.

1. To begin a new venture or phase; embark: launch forth on a dangerous mission; launched out on her own after college. 2. To enter enthusiastically into something; plunge: launched into a description of the movie. — n. The act of launching. [Middle English launchen, from Old North French lancher, from Latin lançāre, to wield a lance, from lancea, lance. See LANCE.]

launch² (lônch, lǎnch) n. Nautical. 1. A large ship's boat. 2. A large, open motorboat. [Probably alteration (probably influenced by LAUNCH¹), of Malay lancha.]

launch·er (lôn'chər, lǎn'-) n. One that launches, as: a. A rifle attachment for firing grenades. b. A device, such as an attached tube or a portable unit, for firing rockets. c. An aircraft catapult.

launch·ing pad (lôn'chɪŋ pǎd, lǎn'-) n. A launch pad.

launch pad (lônch pǎd) n. 1. The base or platform from which a rocket or space vehicle is launched. 2. A foundation or starting point.

launch vehicle (lônch vē'ī-kəl) n. A rocket used to launch a spacecraft or satellite into an orbit or a trajectory.

launch window (lônch wîn'dō) n. A brief, specific period of time during which a spacecraft or projectile must be launched so that a desired mission or effect can be achieved.

lau·der (lôn'dər, län'-) v. lau·dered, lau·der·ing, lau·ders. — v. tr. 1. a. To wash (clothes, for example). b. To wash, fold, and iron: shirts that were neatly laundered by the hotel staff. 2. To disguise the source or nature of (illegal funds, for example) by channeling through an intermediate agent. 3. To make more acceptable or presentable, sanitize: "The transcripts are, of course, laundered... unidentified larger chunks of conversation are reported missing throughout" (Eliot Fremont-Smith). — v. intr. 1. To undergo washing in a specified way: This material launders well. 2. To wash or prepare laundry. — n. A trough or flume used in washing ore. [From Middle English launder, lavender, launderer, from Old French lavandier, from Vulgar Latin lavandārius*, from Latin lavandāria, things to be washed, from lavanda, neuter pl. gerundive of lavāre, to wash. See LAVE.] — lau·der·er n.

lau·der·ette (lôn'də-rēt', län'-) n. A self-service laundry. [LAUNDER + -ETTE.]

lau·dress (lôn'drīs, län'-) n. A woman employed to launder clothes or linens.

Laun·dro·mat (lôn'drə-măt', län'-) A service mark used for a commercial establishment equipped with washing machines and dryers, usually coin-operated and self-service. This service mark often occurs in print in lowercase: "pointed to a laundromat and a restaurant as viable businesses" (Alaska Business Monthly). "A car veered out of control and hit him and his mother as they left a Brooklyn laundromat" (New York Times).

lau·dry (lôn'drē, län'-) n. pl. lau·dries. 1. Soiled or laundered clothes and linens; wash. 2. a. A commercial establishment for laundering clothes or linens. b. A room or an area, as in a house, for doing the wash. [Middle English lavendrye, laundry, from Old French lavanderie, from lavandier. See LAUNDER.]

laundry list (lôn'drē list) n. Informal. An item-by-item enumeration.

Laur·a·sia (lô-rā'zhə, -shə) n. The protocontinent of the Northern Hemisphere, a hypothetical landmass that according to the theory of plate tectonics broke up into North America, Europe, and Asia. [New Latin Laur(entia), geologic precursor of North America (after the Saint Lawrence River) + (Eur)asia.]

lau·re·ate (lôr'ē-īt, lör'-) adj. 1. Worthy of the greatest honor or distinction: "The nation's pediatrician laureate is preparing to lay down his black bag" (James Traub). 2. Crowned or decked with laurel as a mark of honor. 3. Archaic. Made of laurel sprigs, as a wreath or crown. — n. 1. One honored or awarded a prize for great achievements especially in the arts or sciences: a Nobel laureate. 2. A poet laureate. [Middle English, from Latin laureātus, adorned with laurel, from laurea, crown of laurel, from feminine of laureus, of laurel, from laurus, laurel.]

—lau're-ate-ship' n.

lau·rel (lôr'əl, lör'-) n. 1. A Mediterranean evergreen tree (Laurus nobilis) having aromatic, simple leaves and small blackish berries. Also called *bay*⁵, bay laurel, sweet bay. 2. A shrub or tree, such as the mountain laurel, having a similar aroma or leaf shape. 3. Often laurels. a. A wreath of laurel conferred as a mark of honor in ancient times upon poets, heroes, and victors in athletic contests. b. Honor and glory won for great achievement. — v. tr. lau·reled also lau·relled, lau·rel·ing also lau·rel·ling, lau·rels also lau·rels. 1. To crown with laurel. 2. To honor, especially with an award or a prize. [Middle English, from Old French laureole, from Latin laureola, diminutive of laurea, laurel tree. See LAUREATE.]

Lau·rel (lôr'əl, lör'-) A city of southeast Mississippi southwest of Meridian. Oil was discovered in the area in 1944. Population, 18,827.

Lau·rel (lôr'əl, lör'-), Arthur Stanley Jefferson. Known as "Stan." 1890-1965. British-born American comedian who with Oliver Hardy formed the first great comedy team of talking films. Their works include The Music Box (1932) and A Chump at Oxford (1940).

Lau·ren·cin (lô-rän-sän'), Marie. 1885-1956. French artist noted for her soft, pastel technique in portraiture.

Lau·rens (lôr'ənz, lör'-), Henry. 1724-1792. American Revolutionary leader. A member (1777-1779) and president (1777-1778) of the Continental Congress, he was captured by the British while en route to Holland to obtain aid for the colonists (1780). Exchanged for Cornwallis (1782), he also helped negotiate the Treaty of Paris (1782-1784).

Lau·ren·tian (lô-rěn'shən) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or being in the vicinity of the St. Lawrence River. 2. Geology. Of or relating to the Precambrian gneissic granite of the Lake Superior area. [From Latin Laurentius, Lawrence.]

Laurentian Mountains (lô-rěn'shən moun'tənz) A range of southern Quebec, Canada, north of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers. Rising to 960.8 m (3,150 ft), the mountains are a year-round recreational area.

Laurentian Plateau (lô-rěn'shən plä-tō') or Laurentian Highlands (lô-rěn'shən hī'ləndz) also Ca·na·di·an Shield (kə-nā'dē-ən shēld) A plateau region of eastern Canada extending from the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River northward to the Arctic Ocean. The highland formation also covers much of Greenland and forms the Adirondack Mountains in the United States.

lau·ric acid (lôr'ik əs'īd, lör'-) n. A fatty acid, $\text{CH}_3(\text{CH}_2)_{10}\text{COOH}$, obtained chiefly from coconut and laurel oils and used in making soaps, cosmetics, esters, and lauryl alcohol. [Latin laurus, laurel + -IC.]

Lau-ri-er (lôr'ē-ā', lôr'-), Sir Wilfrid. 1841-1919. Canadian politician who served as prime minister (1896-1911) and sought unrestricted trade between Canada and the United States.

lau-ryl alcohol (lôr'əl ä'l'kə-hôl', lôr'-) n. A colorless solid alcohol, $\text{CH}_3(\text{CH}_2)_{11}\text{OH}$, used in synthetic detergents and pharmaceuticals. [LAUR(EL) + -YL.]

Lau-sanne (lō-zăn', -zăn') A city of western Switzerland on the northern shore of Lake Geneva. Originally a Celtic settlement, Lausanne became a center of Calvinism after the 1530's and was home to Voltaire, Gibbon, and Rousseau in the 18th century. Population, 126,200.

lav. abbr. Lavatory.

la-va (lä'və, läv'ə) n. 1. Molten rock that reaches the earth's surface through a volcano or fissure. 2. The rock formed by the cooling and solidifying of molten rock. [Italian, perhaps from Latin lābēs, fall, from Latin lābī, to fall.]

WORD HISTORY: Lava was appropriately named by people living near Mount Vesuvius. The only active volcano on the European mainland, Vesuvius has erupted frequently since Pompeii and Herculaneum were buried by it in A.D. 79. The Neapolitans who lived in the vicinity took a word in Italian, lava, meaning “a stream caused suddenly by rain,” and applied it to the streams of molten rock coming down the sides of Vesuvius. The term was then taken into Standard Italian, where it came to mean the rock in both its molten and its solidified states. The Italian word in all its senses was borrowed into English around the middle of the 18th century (1750 being the earliest date of record).

la-va-bo (lə-vā'bō, -vā'-) n. pl. la-va-boes. 1. Often Lavabo. The ceremonial washing of the hands and recitation from the Psalms by the celebrant before the Eucharist in the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches. 2. A washbowl that is attached to a wall and filled from a water tank fastened above. [Latin lavābō, I shall wash (opening word of the recited portion of Psalm 26), first person future indicative of lavāre, to wash. See LAVE.]

lav-age (läv'ij, lä-vāzh') n. A washing, especially of a hollow organ, such as the stomach or lower bowel, with repeated injections of water. [French, from Old French, from laver, to wash, from Latin lavāre. See LAVE.]

La-val (lə-väl', lä-väl') 1. A city of southern Quebec, Canada, on an island opposite Montreal, of which it is a residential suburb. Population, 268,335. 2. A town of northwest France east of Rennes. Founded in the 9th century, it has been noted for its linen products since the 14th century. Population, 50,360.

La-val (lə-väl', lä-väl'), Pierre. 1883-1945. French politician who twice served as prime minister (1931-1932 and 1935-1936) and became head of the Vichy government (1942) after the surrender of France. He was executed for treason for his collaboration with the Nazis.

la·va·la·va (lə'və-lə'və) n. A Polynesian, especially Samoan, garment consisting of a rectangular piece of printed cotton tied loosely around the waist. [Samoan.]

lav·a·liere (ləv'ə-lîr') also la·val·lière (lə'və-lyâr') n. A pendant worn on a chain around the neck. [French lavallière, type of necktie, after Duchesse de. LA VALLIÈRE.]

La Val·lière (lə vəl-yër', vā-lyâr'), Duchesse de Title of Françoise Louise de la Baume Le Blanc. 1644-1710. French noblewoman. The lover of Louis XIV, she had four children with him.

la·va·tion (lə-vā'shən, lā-) n. The process of washing; a cleansing. [Latin lavātiō, lavātiōn-, from lavātus, past participle of lavāre, to wash. See LAVE.]

lav·a·to·ry (ləv'ə-tôr'ē, -tôr'ē) n. pl. lav·a·to·ries. Abbr. lav. 1. A room equipped with washing and often toilet facilities; a bathroom. 2. A washbowl or basin, especially one permanently installed with running water. 3. A flush toilet. [Middle English, piscina, from Late Latin lavātōrium, from lavātor, launderer, from lavāre, to wash. See LAVE.]

lave (ləv) v. laved, lav·ing, laves. — v. tr. 1. To wash; bathe. 2. To lap or wash against. 3. To refresh or soothe as if by washing: “The quiet and the cool laved her” (Edna Ferber). — v. intr. Archaic. To wash oneself. [Middle English laven, from Old English gelafian, and from Old French laver both from Latin lavāre. See leu(ə)- in Appendix.]

lav·en·der (ləv'ən-dər) n. 1. a. Any of various aromatic Old World plants of the genus Lavandula, especially L. angustifolia, having clusters of small purplish flowers that yield an oil used in perfumery. b. The fragrant dried leaves, stems, and flowers of this plant. 2. Color. A pale to light purple to very light or very pale violet. [Middle English lavendre, from Anglo-Norman, from Medieval Latin livendula, lavendula, perhaps from Latin lividus, bluish. See LIVID.] —lav'en·der adj.

la·ver¹ (lə'vər) n. 1. A large basin used in the ancient Jewish Temple by a priest for ablutions before making a sacrificial offering. 2. Archaic. A vessel, stone basin, or trough used for washing. [Middle English, water pitcher, from Old French laveoir, probably from Late Latin lavātōrium. See LAVATORY.]

la·ver² (lə'vər) n. Any of several dried, edible seaweeds of the genera Porphyra (the red algae) and Ulva (the green algae). [Middle English, a water plant, from Old English læfer, from Latin.]

La·ve·ran (ləv'ə-rän', lāv-rän'), Charles Louis Alphonse. 1845-1922. French pathologist. He won a 1907 Nobel Prize for investigating the role of protozoa in the generation of disease.

La Vé-ren-drye (lä vā-rāN-drē'), Sieur de Title of Pierre Gaultier de Varennes. 1685-1749. French-Canadian explorer who established a chain of trading posts in New France, thus breaking Britain's economic stronghold on the region.

La Verne (lə vûrn') A city of southern California east of Los Angeles. It is mainly residential. Population, 30,897.

lav-ish (läv'ish) adj. 1. Characterized by or produced with extravagance and profusion: a lavish buffet. See Synonyms at profuse. 2. Immoderate in giving or bestowing; unstinting: The critics were lavish with their praise. — v. tr.

lav-ished, lav-ish-ing, lav-ish-es. To give or bestow in abundance; shower: lavished attention on his customers. [Middle English laves, probably from Old French lavasse, downpour, from laver, to wash, from Latin lavāre. See LAVE.]

—lav'ish-er n. —lav'ish-ly adv. —lav'ish-ness n.

La-voi-sier (lə-vwä'zē-ā', lä-vwä-zyā'), Antoine Laurent. 1743-1794. French chemist who is regarded as the founder of modern chemistry. He isolated the major components of air, disproved the phlogiston theory by determining the role of oxygen in combustion, and organized the classification of compounds. Lavoisier was executed during the Reign of Terror.

law (lô) n. 1. A rule of conduct or procedure established by custom, agreement, or authority. 2. a. The body of rules and principles governing the affairs of a community and enforced by a political authority; a legal system: international law. b. The condition of social order and justice created by adherence to such a system: a breakdown of law and civilized behavior. 3. A set of rules or principles dealing with a specific area of a legal system: tax law; criminal law. 4. A piece of enacted legislation. 5. a. The system of judicial administration giving effect to the laws of a community: All citizens are equal before the law. b. Legal action or proceedings; litigation: submit a dispute to law. c. An impromptu or extralegal system of justice substituted for established judicial procedure: frontier law. 6. a. An agency or agent responsible for enforcing the law. Often used with the: "The law... stormed out of the woods as the vessel was being relieved of her cargo" (Sid Moody). b. Informal. A police officer. Often used with the. 7. a. The science and study of law; jurisprudence. b. Knowledge of law. c. The profession of an attorney. 8. Something, such as an order or a dictum, having absolute or unquestioned authority: The commander's word was law. 9. Law. a. The body of principles or precepts held to express the divine will, especially as revealed in the Bible: Mosaic Law. b. The first five books of the Hebrew Scriptures. 10. A code of principles based on morality, conscience, or nature. 11. a. A rule or custom generally established in a particular domain: the unwritten laws of good sportsmanship. b. A way of life: the law of the jungle. 12. a. A formulation describing a relationship observed to be invariable between or among phenomena for all cases in which the specified conditions are met: the law of gravity. b. A generalization based on consistent experience or results: the law of supply and demand; the law of averages. 13. Mathematics. A general principle or rule that is assumed or that has been proven to hold between expressions. 14. A principle of organization, procedure, or technique: the laws of grammar; the laws of visual perspective. — v. intr. lawed, law-ing, laws. To go to law; litigate. — idioms. a law unto (oneself). A totally independent operator: An executive who is a law unto herself. take the law into (one's) own hands. To mete out justice as one sees fit without due recourse to law enforcement agencies or the courts. [Middle English, from Old English lagu, from Old Norse lagu*, sing. of lög pl. of lag, that which is laid down. See legh- in Appendix.]

Law (lô), (Andrew) Bonar. 1858-1923. Canadian-born British politician who served as Chancellor of the Exchequer (1916-1918) and prime minister (1922-1923).

Law (lô), John. 1671-1729. Scottish financier active in France, where he engaged in highly profitable speculation on the development of Louisiana. The investment scheme ultimately collapsed, and he fled the country in ruin (1720).

Law (lô), William. 1686-1761. English theological writer whose works include A Serious Call to a Devout and Holy Life (1728).

law-a-bid-ing (lô'ə-bī'ding) adj. Adhering to the law.

law-and-order (lô'ən-ôr'dər) adj. Advocating and following the established social order and the statutes written to enforce such order: running for election as the law-and-order candidate.

law-break-er (lô'brā'kər) n. One that breaks the law.

law clerk (lô klûrk) n. A person, typically an attorney, employed as an assistant to a judge or another attorney, especially in order to gain legal experience.

Lawes (lôz), Henry. 1596-1662. English composer who set Milton's masque Comus to music (1634) and wrote several continuo songs.

law-ful (lô'fəl) adj. 1. Being within the law; allowed by law: lawful methods of dissent. 2. Established, sanctioned, or recognized by the law: the lawful heir.

3. Obeying the law; law-abiding. — law'ful-ly adv. — law'ful-ness n.

law-giv-er (lô'gīv'ər) n. 1. One who gives a code of laws to a people. 2. See lawmaker.

law-less (lô'līs) adj. 1. Unrestrained by law; unruly: a lawless mob.

2. Contrary to the law; unlawful: the lawless slaughter of protected species. 3. Not governed by law: the lawless frontier. — law'less-ly adv. — law'less-ness n.

law-mak-er (lô'mā'kər) n. One who makes or enacts laws; a legislator. Also called lawgiver — law'mak'ing n.

law-man (lô'măn', -mən) n. A law officer, such as a sheriff or marshal.

law merchant (lô mûr'chənt) n. pl. laws merchant. A body of principles and regulations applied to commercial transactions and deriving from the established customs of merchants and traders rather than the jurisprudence of a particular nation or state.

lawn¹ (lôn) n. A plot of grass, usually tended or mowed, as one around a residence or in a park or an estate. [Alteration of Middle English launde, glade, from Old French launde, heath, pasture, wooded area. See lendh- in Appendix.]

lawn² (lôn) n. A light cotton or linen fabric of very fine weave. [Middle English laun, after Laon, a city of northern France.]

lawn bowling (lôn bō'ling) n. Sports & Games. A game played on a level lawn in which players roll biased wooden balls as close as possible to a smaller target ball. Also called bowls

Lawn·dale (lôn'dāl') A city of southern California southwest of Los Angeles near the Pacific Ocean. It is mainly residential. Population, 27,331.

lawn mower also lawn·mow·er (lôn'mō'ər) n. A machine with a rotating blade for cutting grass.

lawn tennis (lôn tĕn'is) n. Sports. See tennis (n., sense 1).

law of averages (lô ũv äv'rij-iz) n. The principle holding that probability will influence all occurrences in the long term.

law of diminishing returns (lô ũv dĩ-mĭn'ĩ-shĭng rĭ-tŭrn'z) n. The tendency for a continuing application of effort or skill toward a particular project or goal to decline in effectiveness after a certain level of result has been achieved.

law of independent assortment (lô ũv ĩn'dĭ-pĕn'dənt ə-sôrt'mənt) n. See Mendel's law (n., sense 2).

law of large numbers (lô ũv lārj nŭm'bərz) n. Statistics. The rule or theorem that a large number of items chosen at random from a population will, on the average, have the characteristics of the population. Also called Bernoulli's law law of nations (lô ũv nā'shənz) n. See international law.

Law of Moses (lô ũv mō'zĭz) n. See Mosaic Law.

law of parsimony (lô ũv pər'sə-mō'nē) n. See Ockham's razor.

law of segregation (lô ũv sĕg'rĭ-gā'shən) n. See Mendel's law (n., sense 1).

Law·rence (lôr'əns, lŏr'-) 1. A city of central Indiana, a residential suburb of Indianapolis. Population, 26,763. 2. A city of northeast Kansas on the Kansas River east-southeast of Topeka. It was founded in 1854 by the New England Emigrant Aid Society and was the scene of a proslavery raid (1856) that sparked retaliatory killings by the abolitionist John Brown. Population, 65,608. 3. A city of northeast Massachusetts on the Merrimack River north-northeast of Lowell. Laid out as an industrial town in 1845, it soon became one of the world's greatest centers for woolen textiles. Many of the old mills have now been renovated. Population, 70,207.

Law·rence (lôr'əns, lŏr'-), Abbott. 1792-1855. American merchant and politician who was a central figure in the development of the textile industry in New England and the incorporation of Lawrence, Massachusetts (1853).

Law-rence (lôr'əns, lôr'-), D(avid) H(erbert). 1885-1930. British writer whose fiction concerns the struggle for human fulfillment within a dehumanizing industrialized society. His novels include Sons and Lovers (1913), Women in Love (1920), and Lady Chatterley's Lover (1928). He also wrote literary criticism and psychoanalytical works.

Law-rence (lôr'əns, lôr'-), Ernest Orlando. 1901-1958. American physicist. He won a 1939 Nobel Prize for the development of the cyclotron.

Law-rence (lôr'əns, lôr'-), Gertrude. 1898-1952. British actress remembered for her performances in the plays Private Lives (1930) and Lady in the Dark (1940) as well as the film The King and I (1951).

Law-rence (lôr'əns, lôr'-), James. 1781-1813. American naval officer who was killed while commanding the frigate Chesapeake during the War of 1812.

Law-rence (lôr'əns, lôr'-), Sir Thomas. 1769-1830. British painter remembered for his portrait series (1814-1818) of the leaders of the alliance against Napoleon.

Law-rence (lôr'əns, lôr'-), T(homas) E(dward). Known as "Lawrence of Arabia." 1888-1935. Welsh-born British soldier, adventurer, and writer who led the Arab revolt against the Turks (1916-1918) and later wrote an account of his adventures, The Seven Pillars of Wisdom (1926).

law-ren-ci-um (lô-rĕn'sĕ-əm, lô-) n. Symbol Lr A short-lived, radioactive synthetic transuranic element produced from californium and having isotopes with mass numbers 255 through 260 and half-lives of a few seconds to three minutes; atomic number 103. [After Ernest Orlando LAWRENCE.]

law-suit (lô'sŭot') n. An action or a suit brought before a court, as to recover a right or redress a grievance.

Law-ton (lôt'n) A city of southwest Oklahoma southwest of Oklahoma City. It is a commercial and trade center. Population, 80,561.

law-yer (lô'yər) n. One whose profession is to give legal advice and assistance to clients and represent them in court or in other legal matters. [Middle English lauier, from law, law. See LAW.] —law'yer-ly adv.

SYNONYMS: lawyer, attorney, counselor, counsel, barrister, solicitor. These nouns denote persons who practice law. Lawyer is the general and most comprehensive term for one authorized to give legal advice to clients and to plead cases in a court of law: called her lawyer after the automobile accident. Attorney is often used interchangeably with lawyer, but in a narrower sense it denotes a legal agent for a client in the transaction of business: Corporate attorneys negotiated the new contract. Counselor and counsel are terms for persons who give legal advice and serve as trial lawyers; counsel also applies to a team of lawyers employed in conducting a case: Ms. Barnes is counselor for the defense. A table has been reserved for the defense counsel during the trial. Barrister refers principally to a British trial lawyer: The defense is represented by a barrister from Leeds. In England a solicitor is a lawyer whose practice is devoted largely to serving as a legal agent, representing clients in lower courts, and preparing cases for barristers to try in superior courts; in the United States the term denotes the chief law officer of a city, town, or governmental department: Solicitors for the squire handled the sale of his extensive lands. The case will be presented by the Solicitor General.

law·yer·ing (lô'yər-īng) n. The profession or work of practicing law: “Thousands of individual practitioners and small firms do most of the lawyering in this country” (Newsweek).

lax (lăks) adj. lax·er, lax·est. 1. Lacking in rigor, strictness, or firmness. See Synonyms at negligent. 2. Not taut, firm, or compact; slack. See Synonyms at loose. 3. Loose and not easily retained or controlled. Used of bowel movements. 4. Linguistics. Pronounced with the muscles of the tongue and jaw relatively relaxed, as the vowel e in let. [Middle English, from Latin laxus, loose, lax. See slēg- in Appendix.] —lax·a'tion n. —lax'ly adv. —lax'ness n.

lax·a·tive (lăk'sə-tīv) n. A food or drug that stimulates evacuation of the bowels. — adj. 1. Stimulating evacuation of the bowels. 2. Causing looseness or relaxation, especially of the bowels. [Middle English, from Old French laxatif, from Medieval Latin laxātīvus, preventing constipation, from Late Latin, assuaging, from Latin laxātus, past participle of laxāre, to relax, from laxus, loose. See LAX.]

lax·i·ty (lăk'sī-tē) n. The state or quality of being lax.

Lax·ness (lăks'nēs'), Halldór Kiljan. Born 1902. Icelandic novelist whose works include Independent People (1935) and Iceland's Bell (1943-1946). He won the 1955 Nobel Prize for literature.

lay¹ (lā) v. laid (lād), lay·ing, lays. — v. tr. 1. To cause to lie down: lay a child in its crib. 2. a. To place in or bring to a particular state or position. b. To bury. 3. To put or set down: lay new railroad track. 4. To produce and deposit: lay eggs. 5. To cause to subside; calm or allay: “chas'd the clouds... and laid the winds” (John Milton). 6. To put up to or against: lay an ear to the door. 7. To put forward as a reproach or an accusation: They laid the blame on us. 8. To put or set in order or readiness for use: lay the table for lunch. 9. To devise; contrive: lay plans. 10. To spread over a surface: lay paint on a canvas. 11. To place or give (importance): lay stress on clarity of expression. 12. To impose as a burden or punishment: lay a penalty upon the offender. 13. To present for examination: lay a case before a committee. 14. To put forward as a demand or an assertion: laid claim to the estate. 15. Games. To place (a bet); wager. 16. To aim (a gun or cannon). 17. a. To place together (strands) to be twisted into rope. b. To make in this manner: lay up cable. 18. Vulgar Slang. To have sexual intercourse with. — v. intr. 1. To produce and deposit eggs. 2. To bet; wager. 3. Non-Standard.

To lie. 4. To engage energetically in an action. 5. Nautical. To put oneself into the position indicated. — n. 1. a. The direction the strands of a rope or cable are twisted in: a left lay. b. The amount of such twist. 2. The state of one that lays eggs: a hen coming into lay. 3. Vulgar Slang. a. Sexual intercourse. b. A partner in sexual intercourse. — phrasal verbs. lay about. To strike blows on all sides. lay aside. 2. To give up; abandon: lay aside all hope of rescue. 3. To save for the future. lay away. 4. To reserve for the future; save. 5. To put aside and hold for future delivery. lay by. To save for future use. lay down. 7. To give up and surrender: laid down their arms. 8. To specify: laid down the rules. 9. To store for the future. 10. Non-Standard. To lie down. lay for. Informal. To be waiting to attack: Muggers lay for the unsuspecting pedestrian in the dark alley. lay in. To store for future use: lay in supplies for an Arctic winter. lay into. Slang. 13. To scold sharply. 14. To attack physically; beat up. lay off. 15. To terminate the employment of (a worker), especially temporarily. 16. To mark off: lay off an area for a garden. 17. Slang. To stop doing something; quit. 18. Games. To place all or a part of an accepted bet with another bookie in order to reduce the risk. lay on. 19. To apply (something) by or as if by spreading (it) onto a flat surface: laid on a thick Southern accent. 20. To prepare, usually in an elaborate fashion; arrange: laid on cocktails for 50 at the last minute. 21. Slang. To present or reveal to; confront with: “went around talking to people about anything until he could lay his standard question on them” (John Vinocur). lay out. 22. To make a detailed plan for. 23. To clothe and prepare (a corpse) for burial. 24. To rebuke harshly: She laid me out for breaking the vase. 25. To knock to the ground or unconscious. 26. To expend; spend: lay out a fortune on jewelry. 27. To display: lay out merchandise; lay the merchandise out. lay over. To make a stopover in the course of a journey. lay to. Nautical. 29. To bring (a ship) to a stop in open water. 30. To remain stationary and face into the wind. lay up. 31. To stock for future use: lay up supplies for a long journey. 32. Informal. To confine with an illness or injury: was laid up for a month. 33. Nautical. To put (a ship) in dock, as for repairs. — idioms. lay down the law. To assert positively and often arrogantly. lay it on thick. Informal. 2. To exaggerate; overstate. 3. To flatter effusively. lay of the land. The nature, arrangement, or disposition of something. lay rubber. Slang. To accelerate suddenly a motor vehicle from a halt to a high speed, thereby spinning the wheels and depositing on the road a thin film of burned rubber from the rear tire or tires. lay waste. To ravage: Rebel troops laid waste the town. [Middle English leien, from Old English lecgan. See legh- in Appendix.]

USAGE NOTE: Lay (“to put, place, or prepare”) and lie (“to recline or be situated”) are frequently confused. Lay is a transitive verb and takes an object. Lay and its principal parts (laid, laying) are correctly used in the following examples:

He laid (not lay) the newspaper on the table. The table was laid for four. Lie is an intransitive verb and does not take an object. Lie and its principal parts (lay, lain, lying) are correctly used in the following examples: She often lies (not lays) down after lunch. When I lay (not laid) down, I fell asleep. The rubbish had lain (not laid) there a week. I was lying (not laying) in bed when he called. There are a few exceptions to these rules. The phrasal verb lay for and the nautical use of lay, as in lay at anchor, though intransitive, are well established.

lay² (lā) adj. 1. Of, relating to, or involving the laity: a lay preacher. 2. Not of or belonging to a particular profession; nonprofessional: a lay opinion as to the seriousness of the disease. [Middle English, from Old French lai, from Late Latin laicus, from Greek laikos, of the people, from laos, the people.]

lay³ (lā) n. 1. A narrative poem, such as one sung by medieval minstrels; a ballad. 2. A song; a tune. [Middle English, from Old French lai.]

lay⁴ (lā) v. Past tense of lie¹.

lay-a-bout (lā'ə-bout') n. A lazy or idle person; a loafer.

Lay-a-mon (lā'ə-mən, lī'-), fl. 13th century. English poet who wrote The Brut (c. 1205), the first account in English of King Arthur and his knights.

Lay-ard (lā'ərd, -ərd), Sir Austen Henry. 1817-1894. British archaeologist and diplomat. He excavated Nineveh (1849-1851) and later served as British ambassador to Spain (1869-1877) and Constantinople (1877-1880).

lay-a-way (lā'ə-wā') n. 1. A payment plan in which a buyer reserves an article of merchandise by placing a deposit with the retailer until the balance is paid in full: bought a suit on layaway. 2. An article reserved under such a plan.

lay-back (lā'bäck') n. Sports. A spin in figure skating in which the skater's upper body is arched backward.

lay-er (lā'ər) n. 1. a. One that lays: a tile layer. b. A hen kept for laying eggs.

2. a. A single thickness of a material covering a surface or forming an overlying part or segment: a layer of dust on the windowsill; a cake with four layers. b. A usually horizontal deposit or expanse; a stratum: layers of sedimentary rock; a layer of warm air. c. A depth or level: a poem with several layers of meaning.

3. Botany. A stem that is covered with soil for rooting while still part of the living plant. — v. lay-ered, lay-er-ing, lay-ers. — v. tr. 1. To divide or form into layers: layered gravel and charcoal to make a filter. 2. To cut (hair) into different, usually overlapping lengths. 3. Botany. To propagate (a plant) by means of a layer. — v. intr. 1. To form or come apart as layers. 2. Botany. To take root as a result of layering.

lay-er-ing (lā'ər-ĭng) also lay-er-age (-ĭj) n. The process of rooting branches, twigs, or stems that are still attached to a parent plant, as by placing a specially treated part in moist soil.

lay·ette (lā-ět') n. Clothing and other equipment for a newborn child. [French, from Old French, chest of drawers, diminutive of laie, box, from Middle Dutch laeye.]

lay figure (lā fīg'yər) n. 1. See mannequin (n., sense 2). 2. A subservient or insignificant person. [From obsolete layman, from Dutch leeman, variant of ledenman : obsolete Dutch led, limb (from Middle Dutch lit) + man, man (from Middle Dutch); see MANIKIN.]

lay·man (lā'mən) n. 1. A man who is not a cleric. 2. A man who is a nonprofessional: His is just the layman's view of medicine. See Usage Note at man.

lay·off (lā'ôf', -ôf') n. 1. Suspension or dismissal of employees, especially for lack of work. 2. A period of temporary inactivity or rest.

lay·out (lā'out') n. 1. The act or an instance of laying out. 2. An arrangement or a plan, especially the schematic arrangement of parts or areas: the layout of a factory; the layout of a printed circuit. 3. Printing. a. The art or process of arranging printed or graphic matter on a page. b. The overall design of a page, spread, or book, including elements such as page and type size, typeface, and the arrangement of titles and page numbers. c. A page or set of pages marked to indicate this design. 4. Informal. An establishment or property, especially a large residence or estate: “[Her] show horses... were kept on the couple's one-and-a-half acre Malibu layout” (People).

lay·o·ver (lā'ô'vər) n. A short stop or break in a journey, usually imposed by scheduling requirements.

lay·peo·ple or lay people (lā'pē'pəl) pl.n. Laymen and laywomen considered as a group.

lay·per·son (lā'pûr'sən) n. A layman or a laywoman.

lay reader (lā rē'dər) n. A layperson in the Anglican or Roman Catholic church authorized by a bishop to read some parts of the service.

Lay·san Island (lī'sän' ī'lənd) An island of Hawaii in the Leeward Islands northwest of the main islands.

Lay·ton (lāt'n) A city of northern Utah south of Ogden. It is a processing center in an irrigated farming region. Population, 41,784.

lay·up (lā'ŭp') n. 1. Basketball. A usually one-handed, banked shot made close to the basket after driving in. 2. The act or an instance of laying up: budget cuts that forced the lay-up of several ships.

lay·wom·an (lā'wōm'ən) n. 1. A woman who is not a cleric. 2. A woman who is a nonprofessional: “[a program] to educate laywomen in the ways of political campaigns” (New York).

la·zar (lā'zər, lăz'ər) n. Archaic. A diseased person; a leper. [Middle English, from Old French lazre, from Late Latin Lazarus, Lazarus, the beggar full of sores in a New Testament parable (Luke 16:20).]

laz·a·ret·to (lăz'ə-rĕt'ō) also laz·a·ret or laz·a·rette (lăz'ə-rĕt') n. pl.

laz·a·ret·tos also laz·a·rets or laz·a·rettes. 1. A hospital treating contagious diseases. 2. A building or ship used as a quarantine station. 3. Often lazaret. Nautical. A storage space between the decks of a ship. [Italian lazzaretto : lazzaro, lazar (from Late Latin Lazarus); see LAZAR + Italian dialectal Nazareto, popular name for a hospital maintained in Venice by the Church of Santa Maria di Nazaret.]

Laz·a·rus (lăz'ər-əs) In the New Testament, the brother of Mary and Martha.

Laz·a·rus (lăz'ər-əs), Emma. 1849-1887. American writer. Her poem "The New Colossus" is inscribed on the base of the Statue of Liberty in Upper New York Bay.

laze (lāz) v. lazed, laz·ing, laz·es. — v. intr. To be lazy; loaf: laze around the house. — v. tr. To spend (time) in loafing: lazed the afternoon away in a hammock. [Back-formation from LAZY.]

laz·u·lite (lăz'yōō-līt', lăz'ə-, lăzh'ə-) n. A relatively rare blue mineral, (Mg, Fe)Al₂(PO₄)₂(OH)₂, with a vitreous luster. [Medieval Latin lazulum, lapis lazuli; see LAPIS LAZULI + -ITE¹.]

laz·u·rite (lăz'yōō-rīt', lăz'ə-, lăzh'ə-) n. A relatively rare blue, violet-blue, or greenish-blue translucent mineral, Na₄₋₅Al₃Si₃O₁₂S, the chief component of lapis lazuli. [Medieval Latin lāzur, lapis lazuli (from Arabic lāzaward); see LAPIS LAZULI + -ITE¹.]

la·zy (lā'zē) adj. la·zi·er, la·zi·est. 1. Resistant to work or exertion; disposed to idleness. 2. Slow-moving; sluggish: a lazy river. 3. Conducive to idleness or indolence: a lazy summer day. 4. Depicted as reclining or lying on its side. Used of a brand on livestock. [Probably of Low German origin.] —la'zi·ly adv. —la'zi·ness n.

SYNONYMS: lazy, fainéant, idle, indolent, slothful. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is "not disposed to exertion, work, or activity": too lazy to wash the breakfast dishes; fainéant aristocrats; an idle drifter; a good-natured but indolent hanger-on; slothful employees.

la·zy·bones (lā'zē-bōnz') pl.n. (used with a sing. verb). Informal. A lazy person.

lazy eye (lā'zē ī) n. See amblyopia.

lazy Su·san (lā'zē sōō'zən) n. A revolving tray for condiments or food.

lazy tongs (lā'zē tōngz) pl.n. (used with a sing. or pl. verb). Tongs having a jointed extensible framework operated by scissorslike handles, used for grasping an object at a distance.

lb. abbr. 1. Libra (ancient Roman weight). 2. Pound (modern weight).

LBO abbr. Leveraged buyout.

lc also l.c. abbr. Lowercase.

LC abbr. 1. Landing craft. 2. Also L.C.. Library of Congress.

L/C abbr. Letter of credit.

l.c.d. abbr. Mathematics. Least common denominator.

LCD abbr. Liquid-crystal display.

LCL abbr. Less-than-carload lot.

l.c.m. abbr. Mathematics. Least common multiple.

LCM abbr. Landing craft, mechanized.

L.Cpl. abbr. Lance corporal.

LCS abbr. Landing craft, support.

LCT abbr. 1. Land conservation trust. 2. Landing craft, tank. 3. Local civil time.

LD abbr. 1. Learning disability; learning-disabled. 2. Lethal dose.

ld. abbr. 1. Printing. Lead. 2. Load.

Ld. abbr. 1. a. Limited. b. Limited company. 2. Lord.

LDC abbr. Less-developed country.

ldg. abbr. 1. Landing. 2. Loading.

LDL abbr. Low-density lipoprotein.

L-do·pa (ěl-dō'pə) n. The levorotatory form of dopa, used to treat Parkinson's disease. Also called levodopa [L(EVOROTATORY) + DOPA.]

lea (lē, lā) also ley (lā, lē) n. A grassland; a meadow. [Middle English leie, from Old English lēah. See leuk- in Appendix.]

lea. abbr. League (measurement).

leach (lēch) v. leached, leach-ing, leach-es. — v. tr. 1. To remove soluble or other constituents from by the action of a percolating liquid. 2. To empty; drain: "a world leached of pleasure, voided of meaning" (Marilynne Robinson).

— v. intr. To be dissolved or passed out by a percolating liquid. — n. 1. The act or process of leaching. 2. A porous, perforated, or sievelike vessel that holds material to be leached. 3. The substance through which a liquid is leached.

[From Middle English leche, leachate, from Old English lece*, muddy stream; akin to leccan, to moisten.] — leach'a·bil'i·ty n. — leach'a·ble adj. — leach'er n.

leach-ate (lē'chāt) n. A product or solution formed by leaching, especially a solution containing contaminants picked up through the leaching of soil.

Lea-cock (lē'kōk'), Stephen Butler. 1869-1944. Canadian economist who is best remembered for his humorous writing, contained in volumes such as Literary Lapses (1910) and Nonsense Novels (1911).

lead¹ (lēd) v. led (lēd), lead-ing, leads. — v. tr. 1. To show the way to by going in advance. 2. To guide or direct in a course: lead a horse by the halter. See Synonyms at guide. 3. a. To serve as a route for; take: The path led them to a cemetery. b. To be a channel or conduit for (water or electricity, for example).

4. To guide the behavior or opinion of; induce: led us to believe otherwise.

5. a. To direct the performance or activities of: lead an orchestra. b. To inspire the conduct of: led the nation in its crisis. 6. To play a principal or guiding role in: lead a discussion; led the antiwar movement. 7. a. To go or be at the head of: The queen led the procession. My name led the list. b. To be ahead of: led the runner-up by three strides. c. To be foremost in or among: led the field in nuclear research; led her teammates in free throws. 8. To pass or go through; live: lead an independent life. 9. To begin or open with, as in games: led an ace. 10. To guide (a partner) in dancing. 11. To aim in front of (a moving target). — v. intr.

1. To be first; be ahead. 2. To go first as a guide. 3. To act as commander, director, or guide. 4. To afford a passage, course, or route: a road that leads over the mountains; a door leading to the pantry. 5. To tend toward a certain goal or result: a remark that led to further discussion; policies that led to disaster. 6. To make the initial play, as in a game or contest. 7. To begin a presentation or an account in a given way: The announcer led with the day's top stories. 8. a. To guide a dance partner. b. To start a dance step on a specified foot. 9. Baseball. To advance a few paces away from one's base toward the next while the pitcher is in the delivery. Used of a base runner. 10. Sports. To begin an attack in boxing with a specified hand or punch: led with a right to the body. — n.

1. a. The first or foremost position. b. One occupying such a position; a leader. c. The initiative: took the lead in setting the pace of the project. 2. The margin by which one holds a position of advantage or superiority: held a lead of nine points at the half. 3. a. Information pointing toward a possible solution; a clue: followed a promising lead in the murder case. b. An indication of potential opportunity; a tip: a good lead for a job. 4. Command; leadership: took over the lead of the company. 5. An example; a precedent: followed his sister's lead in running for office. 6. a. The principal role in a dramatic production. b. The person playing such a role. 7. a. The introductory portion of a news story. b. An important, usually prominently displayed news story. 8. Games. a. The first play. b. The prerogative or turn to make the first play: The lead passes to the player on the left. c. A card played first in a round. 9. Baseball. A position taken by a base runner away from one base in the direction of the next. 10. A leash. 11. Geology. a. A deposit of gold ore in an old riverbed. b. See lode (n., sense 1). 12. Electronics. A conductor by which one circuit element is electrically connected to another.

13. Nautical. The direction in which a rope runs. 14. The distance aimed in front of a moving target. — phrasal verbs. lead off. 1. To begin; start. 2. Baseball. To be the first batter in an inning. lead on. 3. To keep in a state of expectation or hope; entice. 4. To mislead; deceive. — idiom. lead up to.

1. To result in by a series of steps: events leading up to the coup. 2. To proceed toward (a main topic) with preliminary remarks. [Middle English leden, from Old English lædan. See leit- in Appendix.]

lead² (lēd) n. 1. Symbol Pb A soft, malleable, ductile, bluish-white, dense metallic element, extracted chiefly from galena and used in containers and pipes for corrosives, solder and type metal, bullets, radiation shielding, paints, and anti-knock compounds. Atomic number 82; atomic weight 207.19; melting point 327.5°C; boiling point 1,744°C; specific gravity 11.35; valence 2, 4. 2. A lead weight suspended by a line, used to make soundings. 3. Bullets from or for firearms; shot: pumped the target full of lead. 4. leads. Strips of lead used to hold the panes of a window. 5. Abbr. ld. Printing. A thin strip of metal used to separate lines of type. 6. leads. Chiefly British. A flat roof covered with sheets of lead. 7. a. Any of various, often graphitic compositions used as the writing substance in pencils. b. A thin stick of such material. — v. tr. lead·ed, lead·ing, leads. 1. To cover, line, weight, or fill with lead. 2. Printing. To provide space between (lines of type) with leads. 3. To secure (window glass) with leads. 4. To treat with lead or a lead compound: leaded gasoline; leaded paint. —idiom. get the lead out. Informal. To start moving or move more rapidly. [Middle English led, from Old English lēad, probably of Celtic origin.] —lead adj.

lead acetate (lēd äs'ĭ-tāt') n. A poisonous white crystalline compound, $\text{Pb}(\text{C}_2\text{H}_3\text{O}_2)_2 \cdot 3\text{H}_2\text{O}$, used in hair dyes, waterproofing compounds, and varnishes. Also called sugar of lead lead arsenate (lēd är'sə-nĭt) n. A poisonous white crystalline compound, $\text{Pb}_3(\text{AsO}_4)_2$, used in insecticides and herbicides.

lead carbonate (lēd kār'bə-nāt') n. A poisonous white amorphous powder, PbCO_3 , used as a paint pigment.

lead chromate (lēd krō'māt') n. A poisonous yellow crystalline compound, PbCrO_4 , used as a paint pigment.

lead colic (lēd kōl'ĭk) n. See painter's colic.

lead dioxide (lēd dī-ōk'sīd) n. A poisonous brown crystalline compound, PbO_2 , used as an oxidizing agent in electrodes, batteries, and explosives.

lead·en (lēd'n) adj. 1. Made of or containing lead. 2. a. Heavy and inert. b. Listless; sluggish. 3. Lacking liveliness or sparkle; dull: a leaden conversation. 4. Downcast; depressed: leaden spirits. 5. Dull, dark gray in color: drizzle from a leaden sky. —lead'en·ly adv. —lead'en·ness n.

lead·er (lē'dər) n. 1. One that leads or guides. 2. One who is in charge or in command of others. 3. a. One who heads a political party or organization. b. One who has influence or power, especially of a political nature. 4. Music. a. A conductor, especially of an orchestra, a band, or a choral group. b. The principal performer in an orchestral section or a group. 5. The foremost animal, such as a horse or dog, in a harnessed team. 6. A loss leader. 7. Chiefly British. The main editorial in a newspaper. 8. leaders. Printing. Dots or dashes in a row leading the eye across a page, as in an index entry. 9. A pipe for conducting liquid. 10. A short length of gut, wire, or similar material by which a hook is attached to a fishing line. 11. A blank strip at the end of a film or tape used in threading or winding. 12. Botany. The growing apex or main shoot of a shrub or tree. 13. An economic indicator.

lead-er-ship (lē'dər-shīp') n. 1. The position or office of a leader: ascended to the leadership of the party. 2. Capacity or ability to lead: showed strong leadership during her first term in office. 3. A group of leaders: met with the leadership of the nation's top unions. 4. Guidance; direction: The business prospered under the leadership of the new president.

lead glass (lēd glās) n. See flint glass.

lead-in (lēd'in') n. 1. Opening or introductory matter: The joke served as a lead-in to a discussion of more serious matters. 2. A program, as on television, scheduled to precede another. 3. The wire that connects an outdoor antenna to an electronic transmitter or receiver.

lead-ing¹ (lē'dīng) adj. 1. Having a position in the lead; foremost: the leading candidate. 2. Chief; principal: the leading cause of high inflation. See Synonyms at chief. 3. Of or performing a lead in a theatrical production: a leading role; a leading lady. 4. Formulated so as to elicit a desired response: a leading question.

—lead'ing-ly adv.

lead-ing² (lēd'īng) n. 1. A border or rim of lead, as around a windowpane. 2. Printing. The spacing between lines, usually measured in points.

lead-ing economic indicator (lē'dīng ěk'ə-nŏm'ĭk ĭn'dĭ-kā'tər) n. An economic or a financial variable that tends to move ahead of and in the same direction as general economic activity.

lead-ing edge (lē'dīng ěj) n. 1. Nautical. The edge of a sail that faces the wind. 2. The front edge of an airplane propeller blade or wing. 3. a. The foremost position in a trend or movement; the vanguard: "a company on the leading edge of machine-tool technology" (Christian Science Monitor). b. Someone or something occupying such a position: "Together they are the leading edge of a new wing of historians known as cliometricians" (Timothy Foote). —lead'ing-edge' (lē'dīng-ěj') adj.

lead-ing tone (lē'dīng tŏn) n. Music. The seventh tone or degree of a scale that is a half tone below the tonic; a subtonic. [From its tendency to lead into or rise to the tonic.]

lead line (lēd lĭn) n. Nautical. See sounding line. [From the use of lead weights for making soundings.]

lead monoxide (lēd mə-nŏk'sĭd') n. See litharge.

lead-off (lēd'ŏf', -ŏf') n. 1. An opening play or move. 2. One that leads off. —lead'off' adj.

lead-out (lēd'out') n. A program, as on television, scheduled to follow another: "[Viewers] also stay around for the 11:30 movie lead-out" (Edwin Diamond).

lead pencil (lēd pĕn'səl) n. A pencil that uses graphite as its marking substance.

lead-plant (lĕd'plănt') n. A deciduous shrub (Amorpha canescens) of central North America, having pinnately compound leaves covered with whitish hairs.

lead poisoning (lĕd poi'zə-nĭng) n. Acute or chronic poisoning by lead or any of its salts, with the acute form causing severe gastroenteritis and encephalopathy and the chronic form causing anemia and damage to the gastrointestinal tract and nervous system. Also called saturnism leads-man (lĕdz'mən) n. Nautical. The person using the lead line in taking soundings.

lead tetraethyl (lĕd tĕt'rə-ĕth'əl-lĕd') n. Tetraethyl lead.

lead-time (lĕd'tīm') n. The time between the initial stage of a project or policy and the appearance of results: a long lead-time in oil production because of the need for new exploration and drilling.

lead-wort (lĕd'wŭrt', -wŏrt') n. 1. Any of various chiefly tropical plants of the genus Plumbago, having clusters of variously colored flowers. 2. Any of several similar plants. [From the hue of some of its flowers.]

leaf (lēf) n. pl. leaves (lēvz). 1. A usually green, flattened, lateral structure attached to a stem and functioning as a principal organ of photosynthesis and transpiration in most plants. 2. A leaflike organ or structure. 3. a. Leaves considered as a group; foliage. b. The state or time of having or showing leaves: trees in full leaf. 4. The leaves of a plant used or processed for a specific purpose: large supplies of tobacco leaf. 5. Any of the sheets of paper bound in a book, each side of which constitutes a page. 6. A very thin sheet of material, especially metal: silver leaf. 7. A hinged or removable section for a table top. 8. A hinged or otherwise movable section of a folding door, shutter, or gate. 9. One of several metal strips forming a leaf spring. — v. leafed, leaf-ing, leafs. — v. intr. 1. To produce leaves; put forth foliage: trees just beginning to leaf. 2. To turn pages, as in searching or browsing: leafed through the catalog. — v. tr. To turn through the pages of. [Middle English, from Old English lēaf.]

leaf-age (lē'fij) n. Foliage.

leaf butterfly (lēf bŭt'ər-flī') n. Any of several butterflies of the genus Kalima, having wings that resemble leaves.

leaf fat (lēf făt) n. Layered fat that encloses the kidneys of a hog, used in making lard.

leaf gap (lēf găp) n. A break in the vascular tissue of a stem above the point of attachment of a leaf trace.

leaf-hop-per (lēf'hŏp'ər) n. Any of numerous insects of the family Cicadellidae that suck juices from plants, often damaging crops.

leaf insect (lēf ĭn'sĕkt') n. Any of various chiefly Asian insects of the family Phyllidae that resemble leaves in color and form. Also called walking leaf leaf lard (lēf lărd) n. High-grade lard made from leaf fat.

leaf·let (lē'flīt) n. 1. One of the segments of a compound leaf. 2. A small leaf or leaflike part. 3. A printed, usually folded handbill or flier intended for free distribution. — v. leaf·let·ed also leaf·let·ted, leaf·let·ing also leaf·let·ting, leaf·lets also leaf·lets. — v. intr. To hand out leaflets. — v. tr. To hand out leaflets to or in: leafleted the morning commuters; leaflet a neighborhood.

leaf miner (lēf mī'nər) n. Any of numerous small flies and moths that in the larval stage dig into and feed on leaf tissue.

leaf mold (lēf mōld) n. Humus or compost consisting of decomposed leaves and other organic material.

leaf primordium (lēf prī-mōr'dē-əm) n. A lateral outgrowth from the apical meristem that develops into a leaf.

Leaf River (lēf rīv'ər) A river, about 290 km (180 mi) long, of southeast Mississippi flowing generally south to Hattiesburg.

leaf roller (lēf rō'lər) n. Any of several moths of the family Tortricidae whose larvae make nests of rolled leaves and silk.

leaf scar (lēf skär) n. The mark left on a twig after a leaf falls.

leaf spot (lēf spöt) n. Any of various plant diseases resulting in well-defined necrotic areas on the leaves.

leaf spring (lēf sprīng) n. A composite spring, used especially in automotive suspensions, consisting of several layers of flexible metallic strips joined to act as a single unit.

leaf·stalk or leaf stalk (lēf'stōk') n. See petiole (n., sense 1).

leaf trace (lēf trās) n. A strand of vascular tissue that extends between the vascular bundle of a stem and a leaf.

leaf·y (lē'fē) adj. leaf·i·er, leaf·i·est. 1. Covered with or having leaves.

2. Consisting of leaves: Spinach is a leafy green vegetable. 3. Similar to or resembling a leaf. — leaf·i·ness n.

league¹ (lēg) n. 1. An association of states, organizations, or individuals for common action; an alliance. 2. Sports. An association of teams or clubs that compete chiefly among themselves. Also called loop 3. A class or level of competition: The ski jump was out of his league. — v. leagued, leagu·ing, leagues. — v. intr. To come together in or as if in a league. — v. tr. To bring together in or as if in a league. [Alteration (influenced by Italian lega), of Middle English liege, from Old French ligue, from Medieval Latin liga, and from Old Italian lega, liga (from legare, to bind) both from Latin ligāre. See leig- in Appendix.]

league² (lēg) n. Abbr. lea. 1. a. A unit of distance equal to 3.0 statute miles (4.8 kilometers). b. Any of various other units of about the same length. 2. A square league. [Middle English lege, from Old French liue, leguee, from Latin leuga, a measure of distance, of Celtic origin.]

League City (lēg sīt'ē) A city of southeast Texas southeast of Houston. The aeronautics industry is important to its economy. Population, 30,159.

League of Nations (lēg ūv nā'shənz) A world organization established in 1920 to promote international cooperation and peace. It was first proposed in 1918 by President Woodrow Wilson, although the United States never joined the League. Essentially powerless, it was officially dissolved in 1946.

lea-guer¹ (lē'gər) n. 1. A siege. 2. The camp especially of a besieging army. — v. tr. lea-guered, lea-guer-ing, lea-guers. Archaic. To besiege; beleague. [Dutch leger, lair, camp, from Middle Dutch lēgher, lair, camp, siege. See leg- in Appendix.]

leaguer² (lē'gər) n. One that belongs to a league.

Le-ah (lē'ə) In the Old Testament, the first wife of Jacob.

Lea-hy (lā'hē), William Daniel. 1875-1959. American naval officer who became Admiral of the Fleet in 1944.

leak (lēk) v. leaked, leak-ing, leaks. — v. intr. 1. To permit the escape, entry, or passage of something through a breach or flaw: rusted pipes that were beginning to leak; a boat leaking at the seams. 2. To escape or pass through a breach or flaw: helium leaking slowly from the balloon. 3. Informal. To become publicly known through a breach of secrecy: The news has leaked. — v. tr. 1. To permit (a substance) to escape or pass through a breach or flaw: a damaged reactor leaking radioactivity into the atmosphere. 2. Informal. To disclose without authorization or official sanction: leaked classified information to a reporter. — n. 1. A crack or flaw that permits something to escape from or enter a container or conduit: fixed the leak in the roof. 2. a. The act or instance of leaking. b. An amount leaked: equipment used in cleaning up oil leaks. 3. Informal. An unauthorized or a deliberate disclosure of confidential information: "Sometimes we can't respond to stories based on leaks" (Ronald Reagan). 4. a. Loss of electric current as a result of faulty insulation. b. The path or place at which this loss takes place. —idiom. take a leak. Vulgar Slang. To urinate. [Middle English leken, probably from Middle Dutch.] —leak'er n.

leak-age (lē'kij) n. 1. The act or an instance of leaking. 2. Something that escapes by leaking. 3. An amount lost as the result of leaking.

Lea-key (lē'kē), Louis Seymour Bazett. 1903-1972. British anthropologist and archaeologist. He influenced evolutionary theory with his account and analysis of the discovery, by his wife, Mary Leakey (born 1913), of the 1.75-million-year-old Zinjanthropus skull in Tanzania. Mary Leakey and their son Richard Leakey (born 1944) have continued his research.

leak-proof (lē'prōōf') adj. So constructed or contrived as to prevent leaks or leakage.

leak-y (lē'kē) adj. leak-i-er, leak-i-est. Permitting leaks or leakage: a leaky roof; a leaky defense system.

Lea·man (lēl'mən) A community of west-central Florida, a suburb of St. Petersburg. Population, 19,875.

Leam·ing·ton (lēm'ing-tən) Officially Royal Leamington Spa. A municipal borough of central England northeast of Warwick. It is a health resort with mineral springs. Population, 42,953.

lean¹ (lēn) v. leaned, lean·ing, leans. — v. intr. 1. To bend or slant away from the vertical. 2. To incline the weight of the body so as to be supported: leaning against the railing. See Synonyms at slant. 3. To rely for assistance or support: Lean on me for help. 4. To have a tendency or preference: a government that leans toward fascism. 5. Informal. To exert pressure: The boss is leaning on us to meet the deadline. — v. tr. 1. To set or place so as to be resting or supported. 2. To cause to incline. — n. A tilt or an inclination away from the vertical. [Middle English lenen, from Old English hleonian. See klei- in Appendix.]

lean² (lēn) adj. lean·er, lean·est. 1. Not fleshy or fat; thin. 2. Containing little or no fat. 3. a. Not productive or prosperous; meager: lean years. b. Containing little excess or waste; spare: a lean budget. c. Thrifty in management; economical: “Company leaders know their industries must be lean to survive” (Christian Science Monitor). 4. Metallurgy. Low in mineral contents: lean ore. a. Chemistry. Lacking in combustible material: lean fuel. — n. Meat with little or no fat. [Middle English lene, from Old English hlæne.] —lean'ly adv. —lean'ness n.

SYNONYMS: lean, spare, skinny, scrawny, lank, lanky, rawboned, gaunt. These adjectives mean lacking excess flesh. Lean emphasizes absence of fat: The farmer tried to fatten the lean cattle for market. Spare sometimes suggests trimness and good muscle tone: “an old man, very tall and spare, with an ascetic aspect” (William H. Mallock). She has the spare figure of a marathon runner. Skinny and scrawny imply unattractive thinness, as that associated with undernourishment: The child has skinny, freckled legs with prominent knees. “He [had] a long, scrawny neck that rose out of a very low collar” (Winston Churchill). Lank describes one who is thin and tall, and lanky one who is thin, tall, and ungraceful: “He was... exceedingly lank, with narrow shoulders” (Washington Irving). She was transformed from a lanky adolescent into a willowy young woman. Rawboned suggests a thin, bony, gangling build: a rawboned cowhand with a weather-beaten, tanned face. Gaunt implies thinness and boniness and a haggard appearance; it may suggest illness or hardship: a white-haired pioneer, her face gaunt from overwork and worry.

Lean (lēn), David. Born 1908. British filmmaker. His works include The Bridge on the River Kwai (1957) and Lawrence of Arabia (1962), both of which won Academy Awards.

Le·an·der (lē-än'dər) n. Greek Mythology. A youth who loved Hero and drowned during one of his nightly swims across the Hellespont to be with her.

lean·ing (lē'nĭng) n. An inclination, a tendency, or a preference. See Synonyms at predilection.

leant (lənt) v. Chiefly British. A past tense and a past participle of lean¹.

lean-to (lēn'tō') adj. Having or characterized by a single slope or pitch: a lean-to roof; lean-to construction. — n. pl. lean-tos. 1. A structure with a single-pitch roof that is attached to the side of a building as a wing or an extension.

2. A shelter or shed having a roof with a single slope or pitch.

leap (lēp) v. leaped or leapt (ləpt, lēpt), leap·ing, leaps. — v. intr. 1. To spring or bound upward from or as if from the ground; jump: leaped over the wall; salmon leaping upriver. 2. a. To move quickly or abruptly from one condition or subject to another: always leaping to conclusions. b. To act impulsively: leaped at the opportunity to travel. — v. tr. 1. To jump over: couldn't leap the brook. 2. To cause to leap: leap a horse over a hurdle. — n. 1. a. The act of leaping; a jump. b. A place jumped over or from. c. The distance cleared in a leap. 2. An abrupt or precipitous passage, shift, or transition: a leap from rags to riches. — idioms. by leaps and bounds. Very quickly: growing by leaps and bounds. leap in the dark. An act whose consequences cannot be predicted.

leap of faith. The act or an instance of believing or trusting in something intangible or incapable of being proved. [Middle English lepen, from Old English hlēapan.] — leap'er n.

leap·frog (lēp'frôg', -frôg') n. Games. A game in which one player kneels or bends over while the next in line leaps over him or her. — v. leap·frogged, leap·frog·ging, leap·frogs. — v. tr. 1. To jump over in or as if in leapfrog. 2. To advance (two military units) by engaging one with the enemy while moving the other to a position forward of the first unit. 3. To avoid by or as if by a roundabout route. — v. intr. To move forward or progress in or as if in leapfrog.

leapfrog test (lēp'frôg' tĕst) n. Computer Science. A method of checking the internal operations of a computer by performing arithmetic or logical operations on one section of storage, transferring the new information to another section, repeating the operations, and crosschecking the results.

leap second (lēp sĕk'ənd) n. A second of time, as measured by an atomic clock, added to or omitted from official timekeeping systems annually to compensate for changes in the rotation of Earth.

leapt (ləpt, lēpt) v. A past tense and a past participle of leap.

leap year (lēp yâr) n. 1. A year in the Gregorian calendar having 366 days, with the extra day, February 29, intercalated to compensate for the quarter-day difference between an ordinary year and the astronomical year. 2. An intercalary year in a calendar.

Lear (lîr) n. The protagonist in Shakespeare's tragedy King Lear, based on a legendary king of Britain.

Lear, Edward. 1812-1888. British artist and writer of nonsense verse, included in such works as his first Book of Nonsense (1846).

learn (lûrn) v. learned also learnt (lûrnt), learn-ing, learns. — v. tr. 1. To gain knowledge, comprehension, or mastery of through experience or study. 2. To fix in the mind or memory; memorize: learned the speech in a few hours. 3. a. To acquire experience of or an ability or a skill in: learn tolerance; learned how to whistle. b. To become aware: learned that it was best not to argue. 4. To become informed of; find out. See Synonyms at discover. 5. Non-Standard. To cause to acquire knowledge; teach. 6. Obsolete. To give information to. — v. intr. To gain knowledge, information, comprehension, or skill: learns quickly; learned about computers; learned of the job through friends. [Middle English lernen, from Old English leornian. See leis⁻¹ in Appendix.] —learn/a·ble adj. —learn'er n.

learn-ed (lûr'nĭd) adj. 1. Possessing or demonstrating profound, often systematic knowledge; erudite. 2. Directed toward scholars: a learned journal. 3. (lûrnd) Acquired by learning or experience: learned behavior; a learned response. [Middle English lerved, educated, past participle of lernen, to learn, teach. See LEARN.] —learn'ed-ly adv. —learn'ed-ness n.

SYNONYMS: learned, erudite, scholarly. The central meaning shared by these adjectives is “having or showing profound knowledge”: a learned jurist; an erudite professor; a scholarly treatise.

learn-ing (lûr'nĭng) n. 1. The act, process, or experience of gaining knowledge or skill. 2. Knowledge or skill gained through schooling or study. See Synonyms at knowledge. 3. Psychology. Behavioral modification especially through experience or conditioning.

learning curve (lûr'nĭng kûrv) n. A graph that depicts rate of learning, especially a graph of progress in the mastery of a skill against the time required for such mastery.

learning disability (lûr'nĭng dĭs'ə-bĭl'ĭ-tē) n. Abbr. LD Difficulty in understanding or using spoken or written language, affecting a person of normal intelligence and not arising from emotional disturbance or impairment of sight or hearing.

learn-ing-dis-a·bled (lûr'nĭng-dĭs-ā'bəld) adj. Abbr. LD Having a learning disability: special help for learning-disabled students.

learnt (lûrnt) v. A past tense and a past participle of learn.

lease (lēz) n. 1. a. A contract granting use or occupation of property during a specified period in exchange for a specified rent. b. The term or duration of such a contract. 2. Property used or occupied under the terms of such a contract. — v. tr. leased, leas-ing, leas-es. 1. To grant use or occupation of under the terms of a contract. 2. To get or hold by such a contract. —idiom. a new lease on life. An opportunity to improve one's circumstances or outlook. [Middle English les, from Anglo-Norman, from lesser, to lease, variant of Old French laissier, to let go, from Latin laxāre, to loosen, from laxus, loose. See LAX.] —leas'a·ble adj. —leas'er n.

lease-back (lē's'băk') n. A business arrangement whereby property is simultaneously sold and leased back to the seller for usually long-term continued use. Also called sale and leaseback, sale-leaseback.

lease-hold (lē's'höld') n. 1. The fact or condition of holding property by lease. 2. Property held by lease. —lease/hold'er n.

leash (lēsh) n. 1. A chain, rope, or strap attached to the collar or harness of an animal, especially a dog, and used to lead it or hold it in check. 2. Control or restraint: emotions kept in leash. 3. a. A set of three animals, such as hounds. b. A set of three. — v. tr. leashed, leash·ing, leash·es. To restrain with or as if with a leash. [Middle English lees, lesh, from Old French laisse, from laissier, to let go. See LEASE.]

leash law (lēsh lô) n. An ordinance requiring that dogs be kept on a leash when not restricted to their owners' property.

leas·ing (lē's'ing) n. Archaic. 1. The act of lying. 2. A lie; a falsehood. [Middle English lesing, from Old English lēasung, from lēasian, to lie, from lēas, untrue. See leu- in Appendix.]

least (lēst) adj. A superlative of little. 1. Lowest in importance or rank. 2. a. Smallest in magnitude or degree. b. Slightest or tiniest: didn't care the least bit. — adv. Superlative of little. To or in the lowest or smallest degree. — n. One that is the lowest or smallest in importance, rank, magnitude, or degree: The dinner menu is the least of my worries tonight. The least you can do is to be polite. —idioms. at least. 1. According to the lowest possible assessment; not less than: waited at least an hour. 2. In any event; anyway: You might at least answer. in the least. At all: I don't mind in the least. least of all. Particularly not: Nobody cared, least of all the manager. [Middle English, from Old English lēast. See leis-² in Appendix.]

least common denominator (lēst kōm'ən dī-nōm'ə-nā'tər) n. Abbr. l.c.d. Mathematics. The least common multiple of the denominators of a set of fractions: The least common denominator of 3 and 4 is 12. Also called lowest common denominator least common multiple (lēst kōm'ən mŭl'tə-pəl) n. Abbr. l.c.m. Mathematics. The smallest quantity that is divisible by two or more given quantities without a remainder: 12 is the least common multiple of 2, 3, 4, and 6. Also called lowest common multiple least flycatcher (lēst flī'käch'ər) n. A small grayish bird (Empidonax minimus) commonly inhabiting fields and groves of eastern North America. Also called chebec least squares (lēst skwârz) pl.n. Statistics. A method of determining the curve that best describes the relationship between expected and observed sets of data by minimizing the sums of the squares of deviation between observed and expected values.

least-ways (lēst'wāz') adv. Chiefly Southern U.S. At least.

least-wise (lēst'wīz') adv. Informal. In any event; at least.

leath-er (lēth'ər) n. 1. The dressed or tanned hide of an animal, usually with the hair removed. 2. Any of various articles or parts made of dressed or tanned hide, such as a boot or strap. 3. The flap of a dog's ear. — v. tr. leath-ered, leath-er-ing, leath-ers. 1. To cover wholly or in part with the dressed or tanned hide of an animal. 2. Informal. To beat with a strap made of hide. — adj. 1. Made of, relating to, or resembling dressed or tanned animal hide. 2. Slang. Of, relating to, or patronized by people who dress in leather clothing primarily to indicate a preference for sadomasochistic sex: leather types; a leather bar. [Middle English lether, from Old English lether-.]

leath-er-back (lēth'ər-bāk') n. The largest living sea turtle (Dermochelys coriacea), found in tropical waters and having a tough, leathery carapace with seven longitudinal ridges.

leath-er-ette (lēth'ə-rēt') n. Imitation leather. [Originally a trademark.]

leath-er-head (lēth'ər-hēd') n. See friarbird.

leath-er-jack-et (lēth'ər-jäk'it) n. 1. A silvery blue fish (Oligoplites saurus) of Atlantic waters, having leathery skin, yellow fins, and five spines on the anal fin. 2. A fish of the family Balistidae of warm-temperate and tropical waters, including the filefishes and triggerfishes.

leath-ern (lēth'ərn) adj. Made of, covered with, or resembling leather. [Middle English lethern, from Old English.]

leath-er-neck (lēth'ər-něk') n. Slang. A member of the U.S. Marine Corps. [From the leather neckband that was once part of the uniform.]

leath-er-wear (lēth'ər-wâr') n. Clothing made of leather.

leath-er-wood (lēth'ər-wōd') n. 1. A deciduous shrub (Dirca palustris) of eastern North America, having tough flexible branches, pliable bark, and small yellow flowers. Also called moosewood, wicopy. 2. See titi¹ (n., sense 1).

leath-er-work (lēth'ər-wûrk') n. 1. Decorative work crafted in leather.

2. Articles made of leather. — leath'er-work'er n. — leath'er-work'ing n.

leath-er-y (lēth'ə-rē) adj. Having the texture or appearance of leather: a leathery face. — leath'er-i-ness n.

leave¹ (lēv) v. left (lēft), leav-ing, leaves. — v. tr. 1. To go out of or away from: not allowed to leave the room. 2. a. To go without taking or removing: left my book on the bus. b. To omit or exclude: left out the funniest part of the story.

3. To have as a result, consequence, or remainder: The car left a trail of exhaust fumes. Two from eight leaves six. 4. To cause or allow to be or remain in a specified state: left the lights on. 5. a. To have remaining after death: left a young son.
b. To bequeath: left her money to charity. 6. To give over to another to control or act on: Leave all the details to us. 7. a. To abandon or forsake: leave home; left her husband. b. To remove oneself from association with or participation in: left the navy for civilian life. 8. a. To give or deposit, as for use or information, upon one's departure or in one's absence: He left a note for you. Leave your name and address. b. To cause or permit to be or remain attainable: left myself plenty of time. 9. Non-Standard. To allow or permit; let. — v. intr. To set out or depart; go: When can you leave? — phrasal verbs. leave alone. To refrain from disturbing or interfering. leave off. 2. To stop; cease. 3. To stop doing or using. [Middle English leaven, from Old English læfan. See leip- in Appendix.]
—leav'er n.

USAGE NOTE: Leave alone is acceptable as a substitute for let alone in the sense “to refrain from disturbing or interfering.” The following examples were approved by a majority of the Usage Panel in an earlier survey: Leave him alone and he will produce. Left alone, he was quite productive. Those who do not accept these examples generally feel that leave alone should mean simply “to depart from one who remains in solitude”: They were left alone in the wilderness. • In formal writing leave is not an acceptable substitute for let in the sense “to allow or permit.” Only let is acceptable in the following examples: Let me be. Let him go. Let us not quarrel. Let it lie.

leave² (lēv) n. Abbr. lv. 1. Permission to do something. See Synonyms at permission. 2. a. Official permission to be absent from work or duty, as that granted to military or corporate personnel. b. The period of time granted by such permission. Also called leave of absence 3. An act of departing; a farewell: took leave of her with a heavy heart. [Middle English leve, from Old English lēafe, dative and accusative of lēaf. See leubh- in Appendix.]

leave³ (lēv) v. intr. leaved, leav-ing, leaves. To put forth foliage; leaf. [Middle English leaven, from leaf, leaf. See LEAF.] leaved (lēvd) adj. 1. Having or bearing a leaf or leaves. 2. Having a specified number or kind of leaves. Often used in combination: three-leaved; wide-leaved.

leav-en (lēv'ən) n. 1. An agent, such as yeast, that causes batter or dough to rise, especially by fermentation. 2. An element, influence, or agent that works subtly to lighten, enliven, or modify a whole. See Synonyms at catalyst. — v. tr. leav-ened, leav-en-ing, leav-ens. 1. To add a rising agent to. 2. To cause to rise, especially by fermentation. 3. To pervade with a lightening, enlivening, or modifying influence. [Middle English, from Old French levain, from Vulgar Latin levāmen*, from Latin levāre, to raise. See leg^wh- in Appendix.]

leav-en-ing (lĕv'ə-nĭŋ) n. An agent that causes rising, fermentation, or ferment; leaven. See Synonyms at catalyst.

Leav-en-worth (lĕv'ən-wŭrth') A city of northeast Kansas on the Missouri River northwest of Kansas City. Settled in 1854 by proslavery partisans from Missouri, it is near Fort Leavenworth, the site of a federal penitentiary. Population, 38,495.

leave of absence (lĕv ũv äb'səns) n. pl. leaves of absence. See leave² (n., sense 2).

leaves (lĕvz) n. Plural of leaf.

leave-tak-ing (lĕv'tā'kĭŋ) n. A departure or farewell.

leav-ings (lĕv'vĭŋgz) pl.n. Scraps or remains; residue. See Synonyms at remain-der.

Leav-itt (lĕv'ĭt), Henrietta Swan. 1868-1921. American astronomer who discovered a regular cycle of variation in the brightness of certain stars.

Leb-a-nese (lĕb'ə-nĕz', -nĕs') adj. Abbr. Leb. Of or relating to Lebanon, its people, or their culture. — n. pl. Lebanese. Abbr. Leb. A native or inhabitant of Lebanon.

Leb-a-non (lĕb'ə-nən, -nŏn') 1. Abbr. Leb. A country of southwest Asia on the Mediterranean Sea. Occupied by Canaanites in ancient times, Lebanon has long been torn by civil and religious strife. It proclaimed its independence in 1941, but full self-government was not achieved until 1945. Beirut is the capital and the largest city. Population, 2,637,000. 2. A city of southeast Pennsylvania east-northeast of Harrisburg. It is an industrial center in the Pennsylvania Dutch farm country. Population, 24,800.

Lebanon Mountains (lĕb'ə-nən moun'tənz) A range of Lebanon extending about 161 km (100 mi) parallel to the Mediterranean coast and rising to 3,090 m (10,131 ft).

le-bens-raum (lā'bəns-roum') n. 1. Additional territory deemed necessary to a nation, especially Nazi Germany, for its continued existence or economic well-being. 2. Adequate space in which to live, develop, or function. [German : Lebens, genitive sing. of Leben, life (from Middle High German, from Old High German lebēn); see leip- in Appendix + Raum, space (from Middle High German roum, from Old High German rūm); see reuə- in Appendix.]

leb-ku-chen (lāb'kōō'kən, lāp'kōō'KHən) n. pl. lebkuchen. A chewy, usually honey-flavored Christmas cookie containing nuts and candied fruits. [German, from Middle High German lebekuoche : lebe, loaf (from Old High German leip) + kuoche, kuchen; see KUCHEN.]

Le-brun (lə-brœn'), Albert. 1871-1950. French politician who was the last president of the Third Republic (1932-1940).

Le-brun (lə-brœn'), Charles. 1619-1690. French painter, designer, and courtier. As head of the French Royal Academy and principal painter to the king, he had a major influence on the development of the Louis Quatorze style.

le Car-ré (lə kǎ-rā'), John. Pen name of David John Moore Cornwell. Born 1931. British writer of popular espionage novels, including The Spy Who Came in from the Cold (1963) and Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy (1974).

Lec-ce (lěch'ā, lět'chě) A city of extreme southeast Italy east of Taranto. A Greek and Roman town, Lecce was a semi-independent county from 1053 to 1463. Population, 91,625.

Lec-co (lěk'ō) A city of northern Italy on Lake Como north-northeast of Milan. It is a manufacturing center. Population, 51,349.

lech¹ (lěch) Slang. n. 1. A lecher: "a coke-snorting arbitrageur who's an irrepressible lech" (Pauline Kael). 2. A lecherous desire. — v. intr. leched, lech-ing, lech-es. To behave in a lecherous manner. [Short for LECHER.]

lech² (lěch) n. Variant of letch.

Lech (lěk, lěKH) A river rising in western Austria and flowing about 249 km (155 mi) generally north to the Danube River in southern Germany.

lech-er (lěch'ər) n. A man given to lechery. [Middle English, from Old French lecheor, from lechier, to lick, to live in debauchery, of Germanic origin. See leigh- in Appendix.]

lech-er-ous (lěch'ər-əs) adj. Given to, characterized by, or eliciting lechery. —lech'er-ous-ly adv. —lech'er-ous-ness n.

lech-er-y (lěch'ə-rē) n. pl. lech-er-ies. 1. Excessive indulgence in sexual activity; lewdness. 2. A lecherous act.

lec-i-thin (lěs'ə-thĭn) n. Any of a group of phospholipids found in egg yolks and the plasma membrane of plant and animal cells, used as an emulsifier in a wide range of commercial products, including foods, cosmetics, paints, and plastics. [French lecithine: Greek lekithos, egg yolk + -ine, -in.]

lec-i-thin-ase (lěs'ə-thə-nās', -nāz') n. Any of several enzymes that hydrolyze lecithin.

Leck-y (lěk'ē), William Edward Hartpole. 1838-1903. Irish historian who wrote History of Rationalism in Europe (1865) and Democracy and Liberty (1896).

Le-conte de Lisle (lə- kŏnt' də lēl'), Charles Marie. 1818-1894. French poet and a leading Parnassian. His works include Poèmes Antiques (1852) and Poèmes Barbares (1862).

Le Cor-bu-sier (lə kŏr-boō-zyā', -bü-), Pseudonym of Charles Édouard Jeanneret. 1887-1965. Swiss-born French architect and writer. The most powerful advocate of the modernist school, he designed numerous functional concrete buildings and high-rise residential complexes.

lect. abbr. Lecture.

lec·tern (lək'tərn) n. 1. A reading desk with a slanted top holding the books from which scriptural passages are read during a church service. 2. A stand that serves as a support for the notes or books of a speaker. [Middle English lettorne, lectorn, from Old French lettrun, from Medieval Latin lēctrīnum, from Late Latin lēctrum, from Latin lēctus, past participle of legere, to read. See leg- in Appendix.]

lec·tin (lək'tɪn) n. Any of several plant glycoproteins that bind to specific carbohydrate groups on the plasma membrane of cells, used in the laboratory to stimulate proliferation of lymphocytes and to agglutinate red blood cells. [Latin lēctus, past participle of legere, to select; see SELECT + -IN.]

lec·tion (lək'shən) n. 1. A variant reading or transcription of a text or copy. 2. A reading from Scripture that forms a part of a church service. [Latin lēctiō, lēctiōn-, a reading. See LESSON.]

lec·tion·ar·y (lək'shə-nēr'ē) n. pl. lec·tion·ar·ies. A book or list of lections to be read at church services during the year. [Medieval Latin lēctiōnārium, from Latin lēctiō, lēctiōn-, a reading. See LESSON.]

lec·tor (lək'tər) n. 1. A person who reads aloud certain of the scriptural passages used in a church service. 2. A public lecturer or reader in certain universities. [Middle English, from Late Latin lēctor, from Latin, reader, from lēctus, past participle of legere, to read. See LECTURE.]

lectr. abbr. Lecturer.

lec·ture (lək'chər) n. Abbr. lect. 1. An exposition of a given subject delivered before an audience or a class, as for the purpose of instruction. 2. An earnest admonition or reproof; a reprimand. — v. lec·tured, lec·tur·ing, lec·tures. — v. intr. To deliver a lecture or series of lectures. — v. tr. 1. To deliver a lecture to (a class or an audience). 2. To admonish or reprove earnestly, often at length: always lecturing me about my manners. [Middle English, a reading, from Old French, from Medieval Latin lēctūra, from Latin lēctus, past participle of legere, to read. See leg- in Appendix.]

lec·tur·er (lək'chər-ər) n. Abbr. lectr. 1. One who delivers lectures, especially professionally. 2. a. A member of the faculty of a college or university usually having qualified status without rank or tenure. b. A faculty member ranking below an assistant professor. c. The academic rank held by such a faculty member. 3. Chiefly British. A university teacher, especially one ranking next below a reader.

lec·ture·ship (lək'chər-shɪp') n. 1. The status or position of a lecturer. 2. An endowment or a foundation supporting a series or course of lectures. [Alteration of lecturership.]

led (ləd) v. Past tense and past participle of lead¹.

LED (əl'ē-dē', ləd) n. A semiconductor diode that converts applied voltage to light and is used in digital displays, as of a calculator. [l(ight)-e(mitting) d(iode).]

Le-da (lē'də) n. 1. Greek Mythology. A queen of Sparta and the mother, by Zeus in the form of a swan, of Helen and Pollux and, by her husband Tyndareus, of Castor and Clytemnestra. 2. The tenth satellite of the planet Jupiter.

Led-bet-ter (ləd'bět'ər), Huddie. Known as "Leadbelly." 1885?-1949. American folk and blues musician. Ledbetter was a traveling musician and laborer until his discovery by the musical archivists John and Alan Lomax, who brought his work to national attention (1934).

Led-er-berg (ləd'ər-bûrg', lā'dər-), Joshua. Born 1925. American geneticist. He shared a 1958 Nobel Prize for work with genetic mechanisms.

le-der-ho-sen (lā'dər-hō'zən) pl.n. Leather shorts, often with suspenders, worn by men and boys, especially in Bavaria. [German, from Middle High German lederhose: leder, leather (from Old High German ledar) + hose, trousers (from Old High German hosa); see (s)keu- in Appendix.]

Led-er-man (ləd'ər-mən), Leon Max. Born 1922. American physicist. He shared a 1988 Nobel Prize for developing the use of a beam of neutrinos in high-energy particle research.

ledge (ləj) n. 1. A horizontal projection forming a narrow shelf on a wall. 2. A cut or projection forming a shelf on a cliff or rock wall. 3. An underwater ridge or rock shelf. 4. A level of rock-bearing ore; a vein. [Middle English, crossbar, probably from leggen, to lay, from Old English lecgan. See legh- in Appendix.] —ledg'y adj.

ledg-er (ləj'ər) n. 1. a. A book in which the monetary transactions of a business are posted in the form of debits and credits. b. A book to which the record of accounts is transferred as final entry from original postings. 2. A slab of stone laid flat over a grave. 3. A horizontal timber in a scaffold, attached to the uprights and supporting the putlogs. [Middle English legger, breviary, probably from leggen, to lay. See LEDGE.]

ledger board (ləj'ər bôrd) n. 1. The top railing of a fence or balustrade. 2. A narrow horizontal board attached to a row of studs to support the ends of floor or ceiling joists. In this sense, also called ribbon ledger line (ləj'ər līn) n. Music. A short line placed above or below a staff to accommodate notes higher or lower than the range of the staff.

Le Duc Tho (lā' dŭk' tō'), 1911-1990. Vietnamese political leader who negotiated the North Vietnamese-U.S. cease-fire (1973) with Henry Kissinger. Both were awarded the Nobel Peace Prize (1973), but Le Duc Tho refused it on the grounds that peace was not yet established in South Vietnam.

lee (lē) n. 1. Nautical. The side away from the direction from which the wind blows; the side sheltered from the wind. 2. Cover; shelter. — adj. 1. Nautical. Of or relating to the side sheltered from the wind: the lee gunwale. 2. Located in or facing the path of an oncoming glacier. Used of a geologic formation. [Middle English le, from Old English hlēo, shelter, protection. See kelə-¹ in Appendix.]

Lee (lē), Ann. Known as “Mother Ann.” 1736-1784. British religious leader and founder (1776) of the Shakers in America.

Lee (lē), Charles. 1731-1782. British-born American Revolutionary general whose performance at the Battle of Monmouth (1778) brought about his court-martial and dismissal.

Lee (lē), Gypsy Rose. 1914-1970. American burlesque entertainer who also wrote best-selling mystery novels, including The G-String Murders (1941).

Lee (lē), Henry. Known as “Lighthorse Harry.” 1756-1818. American Revolutionary politician and soldier. He served in the Virginia legislature (1785-1788 and 1789-1791) and as governor of Virginia (1792-1795).

Lee (lē), Manfred Bennington. 1905-1971. American writer. With his cousin Frederic Dannay he created the fictional detective Ellery Queen.

Lee (lē), (Nelle) Harper. Born 1926. American writer. Her novel To Kill a Mockingbird (1960), dealing with racial injustice in the South, won a Pulitzer Prize.

Lee (lē), Richard Henry. 1732-1794. American Revolutionary leader who proposed the resolution calling for the independence of the American colonies from England (1776).

Lee (lē), Robert Edward. 1807-1870. American Confederate general in the Civil War. He won victories at Bull Run (1862), Fredericksburg (1862), and Chancellorsville (1863) before surrendering to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox (1865).

Lee (lē), Sir Sidney. 1859-1926. British biographer who edited the Dictionary of National Biography from 1891 to 1917. His other works include the Life of William Shakespeare (1898) and Life of Queen Victoria (1902).

Lee (lē), Tsung Dao. Born 1926. Chinese-born American physicist. He shared a 1957 Nobel Prize for disproving the principle of conservation of parity.

lee-board (lē'bôrd', -bôrd') n. Nautical. One of a pair of movable boards or plates attached to the hull of a sailing vessel to reduce downwind drift.

leech¹ (lēch) n. 1. Any of various chiefly aquatic bloodsucking or carnivorous annelid worms of the class Hirudinea, of which one species (Hirudo medicinalis) was formerly used by physicians to bleed patients. 2. One that preys on or clings to another; a parasite. 3. Archaic. A physician. — v. leech^{ed}, leech^{-ing}, leech^{-es}. — v. tr. 1. To bleed with leeches. 2. To drain the essence or exhaust the resources of. — v. intr. To attach oneself to another in the manner of a leech. [Middle English leche, physician, leech, from Old English læce. See leg- in Appendix.]

leech² (lēch) n. Nautical. 1. Either vertical edge of a square sail. 2. The after edge of a fore-and-aft sail. [Middle English leche, probably from Middle Low German līk, leech line. See leig- in Appendix.]

Leech (lēch), Margaret Kernochan. 1893-1974. American historian and writer. Her best-known work, In the Days of McKinley (1959), won a Pulitzer Prize for history.

Leeds (lēdz) A borough of north-central England northeast of Manchester. Incorporated in 1626, it is a major commercial, transportation, communications, and industrial center. Population, 718,100.

leek (lēk) n. An edible plant (Allium porrum) related to the onion and having a white, slender bulb and flat, dark-green leaves. [Middle English lek, from Old English lēac.]

leer (lîr) v. intr. leered, leer-ing, leers. To look with a sidelong glance, indicative especially of sexual desire or sly and malicious intent. — n. A desirous, sly, or knowing look. [Probably from obsolete leer, cheek, from Middle English ler, from Old English hlēor. See kleu- in Appendix.] —leer'ing-ly adv.

leer-y (lîr'ē) adj. leer-i-er, leer-i-est. Suspicious or distrustful; wary: was leery of aggressive salespeople. —leer'i-ly adv. —leer'i-ness n.

lees (lēz) pl.n. Sediment settling during fermentation, especially in wine; dregs. [Middle English lies, pl. of lie, from Old French, from Medieval Latin lia, probably of Celtic origin. See leg- in Appendix.]

lee shore (lē shôr) n. Nautical. A shore toward which the wind blows and toward which a ship is likely to be driven.

Lee's Summit (lēz sŭm'it) A city of western Missouri southeast of Kansas City. It is a manufacturing center within the Kansas City metropolitan area. Population, 46,418.

Leeu-war-den (lā'vär-dn, lā'ü-wär'dn) A city of northern Netherlands northeast of the IJsselmeer. Chartered in 1435, it was noted for its manufacture of gold and silver articles from the 16th to the 18th century. Population, 85,435.

Leeu-wen-hoek or Leu-wen-hoek (lā'væn-hōök', lā'ü-wæn-hōök'), Anton van. 1632-1723. Dutch microscopy pioneer and naturalist who formulated early descriptions of bacteria and spermatozoa.

lee-ward (lē'wärd, lō'ärd) Nautical. adv. & adj. On or toward the side to which the wind is blowing. — n. The lee side or quarter.

Lee-ward Islands (lē'wärd ī'ländz) 1. The northern group of the Lesser Antilles in the West Indies, extending from the Virgin Islands southeast to Guadeloupe. The islands were discovered by Columbus in 1493 and were hotly contested by the Spanish, French, and British in the 17th and 18th centuries. 2. A chain of small islets of Hawaii in the central Pacific Ocean west-northwest of the main islands. The Leewards constitute a government bird sanctuary.

lee-way (lē'wā') n. 1. Nautical. The drift of a ship or an aircraft to leeward of the course being steered. 2. A margin of freedom or variation, as of activity, time, or expenditure; latitude. See Synonyms at room.

left¹ (lěft) adj. Abbr. L. 1. a. Of, belonging to, located on, or being the side of the body to the north when the subject is facing east. b. Of, relating to, directed toward, or located on the left side. c. Located on the left side of a person facing downstream: the left bank of a river. 2. Often Left. Of or belonging to the political or intellectual left. — n. 1. a. The direction or position on the left side. b. The left side. c. The left hand. d. A turn in the direction of the left hand or side. 2. Often Left. a. The people and groups who advocate liberal, often radical measures to effect change in the established order, especially in politics, usually to achieve the equality, freedom, and well-being of the common citizens of a state. Also called left wing b. The opinion of those advocating such measures. 3. Sports. A blow delivered by a boxer's left hand. 4. Baseball. Left field. — adv. Toward or on the left. [Middle English, from Old English lyft-, weak, useless (in *lyftād*l, paralysis).]

left² (lěft) v. Past tense and past participle of leave¹.

left atrioventricular valve (lěft ā'trē-ō-vě'n-trīk'yə-lər vālv) n. See mitral valve.

Left Bank (lěft bāngk) A district of Paris on the southern, or left, bank of the Seine River. It has long been noted for its artistic and bohemian atmosphere.

left-brain (lěft'brān') n. The cerebral hemisphere to the left of the corpus callosum, controlling the right side of the body.

left face (lěft fās) n. A military command to turn 90 degrees to the left.

left field (lěft fēld) n. 1. Abbr. LF Baseball. a. The third of the outfield that is to the left, looking from home plate. b. The position played by the left fielder. 2. Informal. A position far from the center or mainstream, as of opinion or reason: opinions that are out in left field.

left fielder (lěft fēl'dər) n. Abbr. LF Baseball. The player who defends left field.

left-hand (lěft'hānd') adj. 1. Of, relating to, or located on the left. 2. Relating to, designed for, or done with the left hand.

left-hand-ed (lěft'hān'dīd) adj. 1. a. Using the left hand more skillfully or easily than the right. b. Sports. Swinging from left to right: a left-handed batter; a left-handed golfer. 2. a. Done with the left hand. b. Intended for wear on or use by the left hand: left-handed scissors. 3. Awkward; maladroit. 4. Of doubtful sincerity; dubious: left-handed flattery; a left-handed compliment. 5. Of, relating to, or born of a morganatic marriage. 6. Turning or spiraling from right to left; counterclockwise. — adv. 1. With the left hand. 2. Sports. From the left to the right: swings left-handed. —left'-hand'ed-ly adv. —left'-hand'ed-ness n.

left-hand-er (lěft'hān'dər) n. One who is left-handed.

left-ish (lěf'tīsh) adj. Tending toward the political left.

left-ism also Left-ism (lěf'tīz'əm) n. 1. The ideology of the political left.

2. Belief in or support of the tenets of the political left. —left'ist adj. & n.

left-most (ləft' mōst') adj. Farthest to the left: in the leftmost lane of traffic.

left-over (ləft' ō'vər) adj. Remaining as an unused portion or amount. — n.

1. A remnant or an unused portion. 2. leftovers. A dish made of food remaining from a previous meal.

left-ward (ləft'wərd) adv. & adj. To or on the left.

left wing also Left Wing (ləft wɪŋ) n. 1. The liberal or radical faction of a group. 2. See left¹ (n., sense 2a). —left'-wing' (ləft'wɪŋ') adj. —left'-wing'er n.

left-y (ləf'tē) Informal. n. pl. left-ies. 1. A left-handed person. 2. An advocate or a member of the political left. — adv. With the left hand or in a left-handed manner: throws lefty; bats lefty.

leg (ləg) n. 1. a. A limb or an appendage of an animal, used for locomotion or support. b. One of the lower or hind limbs in human beings and primates. c. The part of the limb between the knee and foot in vertebrates. d. The back part of the hindquarter of a meat animal. 2. A supporting part resembling a leg in shape or function. 3. One of the branches of a forked or jointed object. 4. The part of a garment, especially of a pair of trousers, that covers the leg. 5. Mathematics. Either side of a right triangle that is not the hypotenuse. 6. A stage of a journey or course, especially: a. Nautical. The distance traveled by a sailing vessel on a single tack. b. The part of an air route or a flight pattern that is between two successive stops, positions, or changes in direction. c. One of several contests that must be successfully completed in order to determine the winner of a competition. d. Sports. One stretch of a relay race. 7. legs. The narrow streams of swirled wine that run slowly down along the inside of a glass, often believed to indicate that the wine is full-bodied. — v. intr. legged, leg-ging, legs. Informal. To go on foot; walk or run. Often used with the indefinite it: Because we missed the bus, we had to leg it across town. —idioms. a leg to stand on. Slang. A justifiable or logical basis for defense; support: He doesn't have a leg to stand on in this debate. a leg up. Slang. 2. The act or an instance of assisting; a boost. 3. A position of advantage; an edge: We have a leg up on the competition. on (one's) last legs. At the end of one's strength or resources; ready to collapse, fail, or die. [Middle English, from Old Norse leggr.] leg. abbr. 1. Legal. 2. Legate. 3. Music. Legato. 4. Legislation; legislative; legislature.

leg-a-cy (ləg'ə-sē) n. pl. leg-a-cies. 1. Money or property bequeathed to another by will. 2. Something handed down from an ancestor or a predecessor or from the past: a legacy of religious freedom. See Synonyms at heritage. [Middle English legacie, office of a deputy, from Old French, from Medieval Latin lēgātia, from Latin lēgātus, past participle of lēgāre, to depute, bequeath. See leg- in Appendix.]

le·gal (lē'gəl) adj. Abbr. leg. 1. Of, relating to, or concerned with law: legal papers. 2. a. Authorized by or based on law: a legal right. b. Established by law; statutory: the legal owner. 3. In conformity with or permitted by law: legal business operations. 4. Recognized or enforced by law rather than by equity. 5. In terms of or created by the law: a legal offense. 6. Applicable to or characteristic of attorneys or their profession. — n. 1. One that is in accord with certain rules or laws. 2. legals. Investments that may be legally made by fiduciaries and certain institutions, such as savings banks and insurance companies. In this sense, also called legal list [Middle English, from Old French, from Latin lēgālis, from lēx, lēg-, law. See leg- in Appendix.] — le'gal·ly adv.

legal age (lē'gəl āj) n. The age at which a person may by law assume the rights and responsibilities of an adult.

legal aid (lē'gəl ād) n. Legal assistance provided, as by a specially established organization, for those unable to afford an attorney.

legal cap (lē'gəl kăp) n. Ruled writing paper in tablet form, measuring 82 by 13 to 16 inches and generally used by attorneys.

le·gal·ese (lē'gə-lēz', -lēz') n. The specialized vocabulary of the legal profession, especially when considered to be complex or abstruse.

legal holiday (lē'gəl hōl'ī-dā') n. A holiday authorized by law and characterized by a limit or ban on work or official business.

le·gal·ism (lē'gə-līz'əm) n. 1. Strict, literal adherence to the law or to a particular code, as of religion or morality. 2. A legal word, expression, or rule. — le'gal·ist n. — le'gal·is'tic adj. — le'gal·is'ti·cal·ly adv.

le·gal·i·ty (lē-gäl'ī-tē) n. pl. le·gal·i·ties. 1. The state or quality of being legal; lawfulness. 2. Adherence to or observance of the law. 3. A requirement enjoined by law. Often used in the plural.

le·gal·ize (lē'gə-līz') v. tr. le·gal·ized, le·gal·iz·ing, le·gal·iz·es. To make legal or lawful; authorize or sanction by law. — le'gal·i·za'tion (-gə-lī-zā'shən) n.

Le Gal·lienne (lə gäl'yən, gäl-yěn'), Eva. 1899-1991. British-born American actress who founded (1926) and directed (1926-1934) the Civic Repertory Theatre in New York City.

Le Gal·lienne (lə gäl'yən, gäl-yěn'), Richard. 1866-1947. British writer whose works include The Quest of the Golden Girl (1896) and October Vagabonds (1910).

legal list (lē'gəl list) n. See legal (n., sense 2).

legal pad (lē'gəl päd) n. A pad of ruled, usually yellow writing paper that measures 82 by 14 inches.

legal reserve (lē'gəl rī-zûrv') n. The sum of money that a bank or an insurance company is required by law to set aside as security.

legal separation (lē'gəl səp'ə-rā'shən) n. Law. A court decree recognizing that a married couple is living apart and regulating the couple's mutual rights and liabilities. Also called judicial separation le-gal-size (lē'gəl-sīz') adj. 1. Being a sheet of paper that measures approximately 82 by 14 inches. 2. Designed to hold such sheets of paper: a legal-size envelope.

legal tender (lē'gəl tēn'dər) n. Legally valid currency that may be offered in payment of a debt and that a creditor must accept.

Le-ga-nés (lē'gä-nēs') A city of central Spain, an industrial and residential suburb of Madrid. Population, 168,984.

leg-ate (lēg'it) n. Abbr. leg. An official emissary, especially an official representative of the pope. [Middle English, from Old French legat, from Medieval Latin lēgātus, from Latin, past participle of lēgāre, to depute. See leg- in Appendix.]
—leg'ate-ship' n.

leg-a-tee (lēg'ə-tē') n. The inheritor of a legacy. [From legate, to bequeath, from Latin lēgāre, lēgāt-. See LEGACY.]

leg-a-tine (lēg'ə-tīn, -tīn') adj. Of, directed by, or authorized by a legate.

le-ga-tion (lē-gā'shən) n. 1. The act of sending a legate. 2. a. A diplomatic mission in a foreign country ranking below an embassy. b. The diplomatic minister and staff of such a mission. c. The premises occupied by such a mission.
—le-ga'tion-ar-y adj.

le-ga-to (lē-gā'tō) Music. adv. & adj. Abbr. leg. In a smooth, even style. Used chiefly as a direction. — n. pl. le-ga-tos. A legato passage or movement. [Italian, past participle of legare, to bind, tie together, from Latin ligāre. See leig- in Appendix.]

le-ga-tor (lē-gā'tər) n. One that makes a will; a testator. [Latin lēgātor, from lēgāre, to bequeath. See LEGACY.]

leg-end (lēj'ənd) n. 1. a. An unverified story handed down from earlier times, especially one popularly believed to be historical. b. A body or collection of such stories. c. A romanticized or popularized myth of modern times. 2. One that inspires legends or achieves legendary fame. 3. a. An inscription or a title on an object, such as a coin. b. An explanatory caption accompanying an illustration. c. An explanatory table or list of the symbols appearing on a map or chart. [Middle English, from Old French legende, from Medieval Latin (lectiō) legenda, (lesson) to be read, from Latin, feminine gerundive of legere, to read. See leg- in Appendix.]

USAGE NOTE: The words legend and legendary have come to be used in recent years to refer to any person or achievement whose fame promises to be particularly enduring, even if its renown is created more by the media than by oral tradition. Strictly speaking, there is nothing legendary about the accomplishments of a major-league baseball star or the voice of a famous opera singer, since their accomplishments are documented in an extensive public record. But this new usage is common journalistic hyperbole and in such contexts is acceptable to 55 percent of the Usage Panel.

leg-en-dar-y (ləj'ən-dər'ē) adj. 1. Of, constituting, based on, or of the nature of a legend. 2. a. Celebrated in legend. b. Extremely well known; famous or renowned. See Usage Note at legend. —leg'en-dar'i-ly adv.

Le-gen-dre (lə-zhän'drə, -zhän'-), Adrien Marie. 1752-1833. French mathematician who is best remembered for his work on number theory and elliptic integrals.

leg-end-ry (ləj'ən-drē) n. pl. leg-end-ries. A collection or body of legends.

Lé-ger (lā-zhā'), Alexis Saint-Léger. Pseudonym Saint-John Perse. 1887-1975. French poet and diplomat whose works include Anabase (1924) and Chronique (1960). He won the 1960 Nobel Prize for literature.

Lé-ger (lā-zhā'), Fernand. 1881-1955. French artist. An early cubist who worked in bright flat colors, Léger incorporated industrial and mechanical images into his work.

leg-er-de-main (ləj'ər-də-mān') n. 1. Sleight of hand. 2. A show of skill or deceitful cleverness: financial legerdemain. [Middle English legerdemayn, from Old French leger de main: leger, light (from Vulgar Latin leviarius*, from Latin levis); see leg^wh- in Appendix + de, of (from Latin dē); see DE- + main, hand; see MORTMAIN.]

